How to Live for Democracy... Dying for It Worth While—

Education, if your school, large or small, fails to make a contribution to the sense of a free country then you are failing in the program of free education.

Mr. Educator, if your school, large or small, fails to make a contribution to the defense of a free country then you are failing in the program of free education.

Advice for Those Americans Who Need Birth Certificates—

Don't apply to your state registrar for immediate assistance unless you have immediate need for work or old age assistance, or unless you need immediate proof of your birth for some other purpose.

One word of warning. Certain rackets in this birth certificate business already have sprung up. Be on the lookout for them.

Liberty, equality, individual opportunity and dignity have become mere words. Our generation seems to be too far away from the struggles of the Revolution and Civil War periods or else we have been doing a poor job in emphasizing the sacrifices on the part of our forefathers that we might enjoy these privileges.

as American educators see the light and do our job.

TEAMWORK VITAL TO DEMOCRACY

We need to cease worrying about "new methods," more speed in reading, a more perfect method of figuring, the memorizing of Shakespeare and face the realization of the need of a better understanding of each other as individuals, groups and nations.

The civilization of Europe is being torn to shreds. Will we be in a position to plant the new seed of democracy? It all depends on the loyalty of purpose of our American administrators of free education.

While the army is turning out soldiers who are willing to die for this ideal let us turn out "soldiers" who are willing to accept, live and spread the gospel of the "dignity and worth of the individual," the principle of human equality and brotherhood, the process of free inquiry, the canons of personal integrity, honesty, fairness and the idea of the obligation and nobility of labor.

Hitler is finding out that loyalty to die for his cause is short lived. Thank God it is our job to build enduring loyalties. It is time to throw off the old and take on the new and more vivid cloak of action.

There is no secret minister of propaganda, no secret police, no harsh punishment, no gun squads, and no concentration camps to force us to do our part. Ours is the privilege of response to need rather than the command.

How the Movies Could Copy the Newspapers—

BY ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—"The newspaper lights the way of freedom."

That's the theme of this National Newspaper Week. And it's a good week to catch, if you haven't already, a movie that expressed that thought dramatically—"A Dispatch from Reuters."

It's an old picture, as movies go, all of a year old. In its climax, the star, Edward G. Robinson, delivers a brief speech on the importance of a free press.

The movies tell that story in other ways, too. In the westerns—run-of-a-reel and super-epics—it's a frequent tale. The pioneering editor who tells the truth in print, and often gets shot for his pains, is a recurrent movie figure.

Of course the movies have taken "dramatic license" in too many pictures. Every movie-goer knows the screen reporter who divides his time among the bar-room, the girl, and telling the managing editor where to go.

But there's one thing the movies could do on the newspaper theme. They've usually centered their dramas on the city rooms of big metropolitan journals.

Edwards G. Robinson is getting bushels of mail since that $100,000 donation of his to the U.S.O.—most of it bearing sincere congratulations along with thanks from rookies who'll profit, but piles of it from people with angles—including mines, stocks of one sort or another, personal pleas.

John Bole, away from movies three years and singing in the east, is back for a singing picture—the movies, after building him as a song star, forgot about it in his later films.

F.R.'s Mention of Soviet Religion Was a Mistake

WASHINGTON—There is little doubt that the president's much discussed remark on freedom of religion in Russia was a mistake by Mr. Roosevelt.

That may not be idealism, but the most realistic thing on earth is war and you can't pursue it without being realistic to the utmost.

To be brutally frank, it is like our using Indian allies in our colonial days. We used them and so did our enemies. We used them knowing that they were treacherous allies, would destroy us in the end if they could, and were savage pagans who tortured, murdered and killed prisoners with glee and gusto.

Let's do it, but do it with our eyes open and not on any hokum—about Mr. Stalin's religious or democratic regeneration.

When the devil was sick the devil a monk would be. When the devil was well a monk was he.

The truth of the matter is that there is little danger of our sending Stalin enough supplies to become a peril to us. He is too far away and the lines of supply are too thin and ill-equipped.

Yes, I believe that the president erred. But, I don't go in from that belief to a conclusion that we shouldn't do what we could to help Russia keep Hitler engaged on an eastern front, thrusting away from our direction and losing strength as rapidly as possible.

Let's do it, but do it with our eyes open and not on any hokum—about Mr. Stalin's religious or democratic regeneration.

THE NEWSPAPER LIGHTS THE WAY OF FREEDOM

by ARTHUR T. ROBB, Editor of EDITOR & PUBLISHER

Editor & Publisher is the Internationally Known Business Paper of the Newspaper Profession; the Oldest Publishers' and Advertisers' Newspaper in America.

NATIONAL Newspaper Week, 1941, turns up on the calendar with American newspapers and their 130,000,000 readers facing the gravest national situation that has confronted the country since 1861. Within the past 18 months, the national government has committed the nation to responsibilities that are transforming the country's way of life from production for profit and comfort to production of instruments for desolation and slaughter in other lands. That was not the choice of our people. It was a choice forced upon us by the turn of world events, and it is not at all unlikely that further turns of the wheel of fate may bring new and entirely unexpected situations to the men and women who constitute the United States of America.

* * * *

There is no longer any doubt that the American way of living—the life in which a man is free to choose his own livelihood and location—is opposed by another in which the state is altogether superior to the individual. The great peril in our own civilization is that in the effort to defeat the plan which makes the state all and the individual nothing, we shall fall into the same path. We may arrive at the belief that to defeat the devil we shall have to use his fire—and if we do,—everything that George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, and Abraham Lincoln held dear will fall into fragments.

* * * *

All of us know the failings of democracy. They are our own failings as individual human beings. We are all selfish. Our selfishness is reflected in the laws which demand of our elected representatives at the 48 state capitals and at the Capitol in Washington. If we are members of a church society, we are convinced that the welfare of the nation depends upon the enactment of a law that will limit the liberty—we may call it license—of some millions of our fellow citizens. If we are members of a labor union, we cheer lustily for the passage of a bill that ensures the right of collective bargaining. If we are manufacturers, we work with heart and soul for a measure which will give us tariff protection against goods which are produced by cheaper labor in lands across the seas. It is not often that any of us forgets his own selfish interest and considers his problem in the light of the whole national fabric. Being human, we just don't think that way except in the face of stern compulsion.

* * * *

It isn't often that we are called upon to think of any institution in this country as representing the whole structure of our society. We don't even take it for granted that there is such an institution; we seldom consider it in that light. We lay down our two or three or five cents for our favorite newspaper as a matter of habit, expecting it to put before us the latest information from every corner of the world. We look at the headlines, we laugh at the funnies, we swear at editorials, and run a finger down the batting averages—but not once in a year does one of us recall that only on the North American continent does the worker and the housewife have that privilege. Only in the United States and Canada today, in the Western hemisphere, does the man and woman who make the world go round have the right to read the news of their neighbors approximately as it happens, without the slanting touch of a censor's pencil.

Is that important?

* * * *

A minority of our people may think it is not. There are groups in the United States, called for convenience "isolationist" and "interventionist," which would limit the right of the press to report events which put their side in a bad light. There are people who want to win on white paper a battle which has been lost in the field. There are people who think that the men and women of America cannot be trusted with the knowledge of events as they happen. But, we repeat, they are a minority.

The majority of the American people are awake today to what happened in Continental Europe since 1933. Late, but in time, they are aware that the first move of the seizers of national power is the capture of the newspaper press. They saw the people of France betrayed by newspapers which took the enemy's money, either to remain silent or to misrepresent the facts from day to day. In Germany, they have seen the ruthless Nazi gang steal the newspapers which once not only represented, but formed, German public opinion. They have read, on authority that must be trusted, that the German people no longer buy newspapers even on the occasion of great victories, that newspapers from other lands are no longer permitted to be sold in Germany, and that the primary source of news of their own and other countries is the broadcasts from foreign stations. They know that the dictators have attached the most severe penalties, short of death, to the crime of listening to news from abroad. They know that in one dictator country, now aligned with democracies, all private radio sets have been confiscated, limiting the reception of news to the government controlled loud speakers. They know that in all the dictator-controlled nations the press is as much an arm of the government as is the infantry, the navy, or the air force. There, it has ceased to be an agency of information. It is an instrument for the imposition of the dictator's will. This is true in Italy, France, Spain, Japan, Russia and other countries as well as Germany.

* * * *

Well, one might ask, what price information, anyway? Of what good is it to Mr. American to know from day to day what goes on in the world? And why should Mrs. American worry whether the Germans or the Russians owned Smolensk at the moment, or whether the C.I.O. or the A.F.L. had won the strike at a steel plant? An honest answer to that specific question would certainly be that Mrs. American and Mr. American could go about their daily business without any worry about the news—but WAIT!

If we stopped at the sentiment before that last dash, we should have overlooked something that is fundamental in human nature—the wish to know about what our friend (or maybe enemy) around the corner is doing. That instinct goes back to the earliest days of recorded human history. It can't be smothered. It can't be suppressed. Mr. American may work his eight hours, plus overtime, at the mill and get home to dinner dead tired. Mrs. American may be worn to a frazzle by six o'clock taking care of the little Americans, washing dishes, making beds, stretching curtains, mending clothes by the time the Old Man comes home, but both of them will have willing ears for the tales that the kids bring home from school. They could get along without their newspaper if they had to—but what a hole it would leave in their lives.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. American, and there are over 100,000,000 of them in these United States, like to consider that they know what is happening on the planet. They like to have opinions and they like to express them. Their world may range from the block in which they live to the universe itself, but they won't take their place behind their neighbors when it comes to a discussion of the day's events. They want the news, of neighborhood, village, city, county, state, nation, and world—a circumstance which is abundantly attested by the fact that they buy more than 41,000,000 newspapers every weekday, more than 32,000,000 every Sunday and more than 20,000,000 weeklies. They want the news, and they also want to know what the men who study the news think from day to day of its developments.

* * * *

There is more to it than the mere thirst for information. Our people know that when or if their source of primary information is taken from them, the process of destroying liberty is only begun. Mr. American can sit any time with his pipe and his slippers and his favorite paper, secure in the knowledge that his freedom is his own. Tell him that he can no longer have the newspaper he wants to read, and he knows that more, and worse, is coming.

* * * *

He knows that his spare time may no longer be his own. He knows that he can be called out to a party meeting or a parade before the local or national ruler, with a terrific penalty imposed for failure to obey the summons. He knows that he can't swap ideas with the man next door or with the fellow at the next bench or desk without letting himself in for trouble with the secret police. He knows that he cannot go to his own church or send his children to a Sunday school of his own choice without putting himself under the eyes of people to whom all religion is a thing to be cursed. He knows that the lodge meeting that he attends every week or so is an object of suspicion to the powerful people whose influence cannot get them past its outer doors. He knows that the newspaper which is forced upon him is unbelievable, smeared with propaganda and either half-truths or total lies. He knows that when the newspaper comes under the state's dictation, the radio is equally or even more dominated by the tyrants in power. And he comes quickly to the conclusion that Mr. American, endowed by his Creator with a soul, is, for a dictator controlling all avenues of information and inspiration, merely a piece of clay to be used and discarded like a broken dish or a burnt match.

* * * *

Mr. American of the U.S.A., knows these things from which he has seen and read—but does he fully realize that the newspaper in which he puts his confidence is the Key Stone of the arch supporting all of our liberties? Does he know that the four freedoms about which so much has been written constitute the foundation of the society upon which his America has been built? Does he know that destruction of any one of those four freedoms immediately calls for the destruction of the other three and of the society that rests upon them? Does he realize that to put a muzzle upon the free press and the radio is to signal for the suppression and persecution of religion, of the right to belong to a labor union, of the right to speak his mind in a barber shop, a bar room, or a public forum? Does he realize that a blow at the First Amendment to the Constitution automatically destroys the Bill of Rights, without which the basic law of our present government could not have been adopted?

We believe that Mr. American does recognize those realities.

* * * *

The facts indicate that he does. Every element that has attacked the democratic system of government during the past troublous decade has centered its fire on the daily newspaper. The net result has not been a single dent that can be detected with the naked eye. Mr. American has listened, shrugged his shoulders, maybe agreed with a part of the story, but he has continued to buy his favorite family newspapers every week in the year. No more convincing proof of the confidence that the American people repose in their newspapers can be asked than in the steadily rising of newspaper circulations since 1933. The years between have been extremely trying, both for newspaper makers and newspaper readers—a period unexampled in our previous history—but both have met all tests to date.

As this is written, both the nation and the press that serves it face the possibility of active war on one or two oceans. Tradition and temptation will both be strong for the conversion of the American press to the European pattern, if war does come. Many plausible reasons will be advanced for censorship and the use of the newspaper as a channel for propaganda, for the silencing of all criticism. Newspaper owners and editors will resist any such move with every sinew and bone in their bodies, but they cannot win unless their readers also realize that a free press is the soul of democracy, and that the war to save democracy in the world cannot be won by destroying democracy here.

Campus Organizations To List Nominations For Social Committee

Dean E. M. MacEwen, chairman of the social organizations and affairs committee, announces that letters have been sent inviting each campus group to submit nominations for junior students qualified to serve on the social committee for the years 1941-1942 and 1942-1943.

Nominations should be submitted to the Iowa Union desk not later than Monday, Oct. 13. From the names turned in, three will be chosen to serve on the social committee.

Certain specific qualifications have been stated concerning each application. The student must have a grade point average of 2.0 or better. A picture of the nominee must be submitted.

In addition to nominations presented by groups, any student may be nominated by a petition signed by 25 persons. This enables students living in private homes, not affiliated with a dormitory, sorority, fraternity or organized house to be eligible for appointment.

Faculty members of the social committee include Dean E. M. MacEwen, chairman; Dean Adelaide L. Burge, Prof. Earl E. Harper, Prof. H. G. Barnes, Prof. Edwin B. Kurtz, Prof. Odie Knight Patton, Prof. Kirk Porter, Prof. H. J. Thornton, Prof. Clara Mae Daley, Lee W. Cochran and Dr. Don Mallett.

THE CLIMAX OF A MEXICAN FIESTA

"Bullfight Scene"—that's what the Theta Xi's have entitled the mammoth mural which is painted on one of the dining room walls of the chapter house. Covering an area of approximately 20 feet across and 10 feet in depth, the work was done in water color poster paint. The mural was painted by Bob Cody, A2 of Mont Vista, Col., who completed his Mexican scene just before the beginning of the fall semester. Abundant with gay festive colors, the mural reflects all the excitement and spectacle of the matador's gallant triumph over the ferocious beast.

Two Members Added To Librarian Staff

Two new members have been added to the University library staff, Grace Van Wormer, director of the University library, announced yesterday.

Selma Sullivan is assistant in the order and reference departments. She succeeds Marjorie Cox, who resigned to accept a position in charge of serials in the University of Arkansas library.

Miss Sullivan received her B. A. degree at the University of Utah, Oregon and her B. S. degree in library science from the University of Denver.

Mrs. Alice F. Flint succeeds Margaret Borg-Green as assistant in the education-philosophy-psychology departmental library. Miss Borg-Green resigned to accept an assistantship in the Luther college library.

Mrs. Flint received her B. A. degree from the Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, and the University of Wisconsin Library school at Madison. She was formerly with the Clintonville, Wis., Cedar Falls and Davenport Public libraries.

Dramatic Interpretation Of 'Pride and Prejudice' To Be Aired Over WSUI

The famous Jane Austin novel, "Pride and Prejudice," is the story chosen for this afternoon's Fiction Parade over WSUI at 3 o'clock. This tale, as it will be presented today is an adaptation of the original, prepared by a former student, Beverly Ann Barnes. Miss Barnes, upon graduating last spring, was awarded a $500 scholarship by WLW, and she is now working at that station.

Director of the Fiction Parade productions throughout the year is Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger of the speech department, production manager of WSUI.

The cast includes Mary Ann Black, Mary Weaver, Genevieve Slemmons, Jeanette Holaday, Carol McConahay, Harold Baughan, John Highlander and Layton Hurst, all advanced students of radio.

The show will last for 30 minutes. It will be aired tomorrow night on the "Drama Hour" over WSUI at 9 p.m., with the same people participating.

"Pride and Prejudice" is the second story of the year for the Fiction Parade.

'65 Per Cent Of Americans Underfed'

Dr. Clifford Barboraka Declares Average U.S. Citizen in Poor Shape

By FRAN PRUDHON

"Sixty-five per cent of the American people are undernourished," Dr. Clifford Barboraka declared yesterday, while lecturing before the annual meeting of the University District Dental society.

"Two thirds of our population have been economically or intellectually incapable of getting the food they need for proper nutrition, despite the fact that the United States is producing more and better food than we need," Dr. Barboraka, director of the Abbott Foundation for Medical Research at Northwestern University Medical school, said.

"There are skeptics," he continued. "There always will be skeptics on the part of our food plays in national defense, but it is our duty to break down the misconceptions in the minds of the laymen."

"This new nine day wonder diet!" he exclaimed disgustedly. "It's always been a wonder to me how people could fall for such a red flag—and the man who guaranteed to cure falling hair, acne, falling toe nails and rheumatism by giving the patient a cake of yeast each day!—These misconceptions in the minds of the laymen must be stopped!"

As the barrage of words was hurled at the dentists and students, Dr. Barboraka leaned over the desk, peered over the tops of his glasses, and thumped his fist on the desk.

"Proper nutrition is a noble effort. It will never be attained. But it's our responsibility to understand so that we can try to explain it to all those confused people who come to us."

Dr. Barboraka said that American diet was mostly concentrated foods, low in vitamins, residue, and alkaline minerals, but high in carbohydrates and acid minerals.

"We need greater protein consumption," he declared. "The needs of a man could be met for 35 cents a day if properly planned."

Besides stressing the need of cooperation between doctors and dentists in detecting various deficiency diseases, Dr. Barboraka

Vogue Starts Second Photographic Contest For College Seniors

Announcement has been made by the editors of Vogue magazine of their second photographic contest for seniors in accredited American colleges and universities.

Two career prizes are offered, one for men, one for women, consisting of a six month's apprenticeship with salary, in the Conde Nast studios in New York.

Prizes carry with them the possibility of permanent positions upon the successful completion of the trial period.

Last year's winner in the men's division was Donald Honeyman of Morning Sun who won the award upon his graduation from the university in 1940. Honeyman is now a member of the Conde Nast publications photographic staff in New York. His pictures of celebrities and fashion models appear in "Vogue", "Glamour", "Vogue Pattern" and "House and Gardens".

During his four years here Honeyman worked as assistant to F. W. Kent, SUI consulting photographer. He took newspaper and publicity pictures.

This nation-wide contest consists of eight photographic problems to be presented in the magazine. Topics include fashion, shots, outdoor and indoor subjects and still-life. Winners of this contest will join the staff of the Conde Nast publications about June 25, 1942.

spoke strongly on the need of a better diet in connection with national defense.

"Nearly 40 per cent of the first million men drafted were found to be deficient in one way or another. Most of that was dental. Our professions must work together for proper nutrition," he emphasized.

Dr. Barboraka, a delegate to the Roosevelt military conference in May, declared that fatigue, nervousness and poor morale were the result of an improper food intake. He explained that about 30 per cent of the people were on deficient diets, while another 35 per cent were on only fair diets.

The conference was called to discuss ways of bettering these deficiencies.

"Germany," Dr. Barboraka explained, "has built up its tremendous strength on its careful analysis of food intake. The United States is now trying to develop a proper diet for the people to secure a better environment."

Yankees Top Dodgers, 3-1, to Win Series

Ernie Bonham Invincible In Four-Hit Win

'Our Bums' Provide Expected Excitement; Wyatt, DiMag Feud

By JUDSON BAILEY
EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn (AP)—The almost invincible New York Yankees rolled to their fifth world championship in six years yesterday by browbeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 1, in the fifth and most turbulent tussle of the world series.

The two teams fought the umpires and each other at every turn in one long continual wrangle and even though the Dodgers were soundly whipped by the four-hit hurling of big Ernie Bonham, it was the kind of a wild and reckless show that the Brooklyn Bums had been expected to provide earlier in the series.

It gave the 34,072 fans, biggest turnout of the three games in Brooklyn, a chance to exercise their famed vocal chords.

High, Inside Pitches
Whitlow Wyatt, the lean, bald Georgian who had stopped the Yanks in the second game for their only loss of the series, threw a couple of high, inside pitches to Joe DiMaggio that resembled "dusters" by coincidence or otherwise and the two rival heroes almost started a free for all on the pitchers' mound after DiMaggio's third turn at bat.

Every player of both teams rushed into the argument and the slightest spark might have set off an explosion.

Wyatt earlier had been stirred to violent protest by the balls and strike judgment of Umpire Bill McGowan of the American league, who worked behind the plate. Once when a walk was called for Joe Gordon, Wyatt threw his glove on the ground, the ball in the air and stamped and fumed around the plate and ended up by kicking a deep hole in the mound.

Join in Arguments
The managers and coaches of both teams joined in the arguments with the umpires at various stages and there were two fires in the park during the game, to add to the confusion. One of these was on the roof back of a temporary press box and the other was a piece of bunting hanging on the railing of the second deck of the leftfield stands. It blazed up like a giant torch and fell downward, barely missing spectators in the boxes below.

Through all of these stormy scenes and the excitement of the fans, old, white-haired Commissioner K. M. Landis just sat in stony silence, his broad-brimmed felt hat pulled low over his shaggy forehead and his chin resting on the railing in front of his box.

And, as though impelled by the force of his grim visage, the opposing clubs finally settled back into some sort of order to finish their struggle.

Little Hawks Get Stiff Workout After Three Days of Relaxation

Team Shows Vigor During Scrimmage

Play Powerful Pella Eleven on Shrader Field Friday Night

After three full days of rest, Coach Herb Cormack sent his Little Hawk gridgers through a stiff workout yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Pella Dutchmen who invade Shrader field Friday night.

The Hawklets were in a bad mood after being held to a 2-0 score by McKinley last Thursday and tore into each other with vigor in the scrimmage that followed the warm up exercises.

Bob Crumley, star City high center who suffered a badly sprained ankle in the game last week, was absent from practice and Coach Cormack said last night that he doubted if Crumley would see any action this week.

The scrimmage was highlighted by the powerful passing attack the Red and White boys flashed. Time after time "Bullet Bill" Sangster hit Lewis Jenkinson and Dave Danner with his accurate passes for long gains.

Danner lined up at left end and was only one of the changes Cormack made in his first team. Jenkinson was at his usual end post and Bill Bothell and Dean Yau-nash took their tackle posts, but in the guard positions were Dean Williams, who has played end, and Bob Arn, a small but mighty second team man.

Alderman was at Crumley's center post. In the backfield, Wayne Hopp took over Danner's vacated halfback post as a result of his fine work against the Golden Bears last week, and the rest of the backfield remained the same with Bob Roth at the other half, Sangster at quarter and Joe Casey at fullback.

Defensive Work
After the scrimmage, Cormack sent some of his men through defensive work against a single wing. Alderman, Stinocker, Don Goodnow, and Joe Fackler played defensive ends while Dick Lee and Rueben Snider took over guard positions.

Snider was particularly noticeable as he sliced through the line and tackled the ball-carrier time after time.

Friday night Pella high school brings a powerful team against the Hawklets. The Dutchmen have a big team and displayed plenty of offensive power as they rolled room to embrace Pitcher Ernie (Tiny) Bonham, who held the Dodgers to four hits. McCarthy threw his arms around Bonham and then whispered into his ear. Bonham grinned in response, and grabbed McCarthy's hand. Then McCarthy jumped on the 220-pound pitcher's back, and rode around the room for a few seconds.

Over in the Dodger dressing room, the Dodgers didn't know whether to be broken-hearted at losing or overjoyed at the chance to go home after one of the toughest pennant campaigns and battle-to-the-last-ditch world series.

Anderson Lets Hawkeyes Rest After Michigan

Wisconsin Next Foe Two Weeks Hence; Squad in Good Shape

Dr. Eddie Anderson was absent from class yesterday afternoon, speaking before the Chicago Herald-American Quarterback club, and as a reward for their excellent showing against Michigan, last Saturday he let the Hawkeye gridgers do just what they wanted to do.

Most of the boys took light workouts, still nursing bruises and scratches from the tough game, while others took a well earned rest. The squad as a whole appeared none the worse after the battle, and with two weeks to prepare for the next game with Wisconsin at Madison, will be at full strength for future action.

Kennedy's Ankle Better
Jack Kennedy, little sophomore speedster, reported that his sprained ankle, which kept him from making the trip to Michigan, was "coming along okay," even though he still limped noticeably.

Bill Green, whose hand was injured Saturday, reported that X-rays had revealed no bones broken, and said he would be out for practice today.

Iowa will settle down to two weeks of workouts today, with probable emphasis on passing, although it was hard to tell Saturday on the slippery field whether that department was coming up to expectations or not.

Undoubtedly the Hawks will add a few more tricks to their repertoire, and then polish up their already powerful running attack.

Hawks Outgain Foes
In two games, against Drake and Michigan, Iowa has gained 518 yards to the opponents' 204, but only 63 by passing to the foes' 149. In total yardage, the Hawks have gained 581 yards to 352 for opponents. They also have made 28 first downs as against 19 for the foe.

Green made the most yardage of the backs, totalling 174 yards in 38 tries for a 4.5 average. Bus Mertes, however, has the best average, running 157 yards in 22 tries for a 7.1 average.

Coach Brechler Gives U-High Squad Chalk Talk Before Homecoming Tilt

In preparation for U-high's homecoming tilt with Monticello next Friday, Coach Paul Brechler devoted the entire practice session yesterday to a chalk talk, in an attempt to iron out Bluehawk defects that showed up in the U-high-West Liberty game last Friday.

Coach Brechler said he was favorably impressed with the backfield, but that he believed the linemen could show improvement. The Rivermen's lack of scoring punch in crucial periods is Brechler's main worry.

Although Bob Alderman may not see action against Monticello because of a pulled knee muscle suffered in Friday's game, his loss was counteracted by the return of the Stimmell brothers, both of whom were absent from the West Liberty game.

Monticello, a highly rated team, hasn't a defeat marked against it this season. Monticello's first two games of the season were wins from Maquoketa and Manchester and the last two tie games with Marion and Tipton.

Badgers Disappoint Stuhlreher
MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's Badgers, upset by Marquette last week end, disappointed Coach Harry Stuhlreher in scrimmage yesterday as they prepared for this week's Big Ten opener against Northwestern.

Illini Plays Fool Gophers
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Second stringers, using Illinois plays, had considerable success against Minnesota regulars yesterday. Coach Bernie Bierman's ire was aroused and he sent the players on several sprints around the field to show his displeasure.

to the upper reaches of the Donets river to the southeast. A web of railroads and highways covers this half-circle. All converge on Moscow and all are cross-connected at intervals to facilitate quick movement of Russian troops by short interior lines to points of danger. Rostavl is on the southwestern perimeter of the half-circle, some 250 miles from Moscow.

A German advance in the Rostavl sector could force a Russian withdrawal both north and south of that point. Red army retirement on the Smolensk and Bryansk fronts would almost certainly follow. Yet with only a few weeks to elapse before the Russian winter falls on the whole Moscow front, it does not seem that Hitler can hope for a decisive success in the center.

As an essential preliminary to the real drive farther south to seize Kharkov and Rostov and cut Russian oil life lines, a German thrust at Moscow would be logical. And there are many indications still that it is the Donets-Don basin at which Hitler actually is aiming. Better winter weather conditions in that southern area can be cited in support of that argument.

Negative Support

There is also good negative support for it. The Baku-Rostov oil pipeline is within easy range of German bombers based in the Dnieper bend area. It terminates at Nikitovka, within 150 miles of the German crossing of the Dnieper at Dniepropetrovsk. Rostov itself is only 300 miles or so beyond German advance lines and the pipeline and pumping or storage or refining plants along it in the Caucasus could easily be attacked by air.

So far as is known, however, no nazi bombs have fallen on Russian oil supply facilities although Kharkov and other points in the Donets-Don basin have been hammered repeatedly. It seems clear the Germans are deliberately trying to avoid injury to oil installations, hoping to seize them undamaged and convert them to their own

Move to Forestall Deporting of SU Student to Japan

Gillette of Opinion Man Will Be Allowed To Remain in U.S.

Legislation to forestall indefinitely deportation to Japan of Thomas Samuel Wurui, University of Iowa student who was recently awarded a four-year scholarship, has been prepared by Senator Guy Gillette (D-Ia).

The senator said the young man had no relatives or friends in Japan. Wurui already has been granted two deportation extensions, but under the present law is not eligible for citizenship.

The second extension allowed Wurui elapsed when he graduated from Iowa City high school last May. Mrs. Mimi Yude Wurui, an Iowa City resident, said that Gillette had expressed confidence that the student would be allowed to remain in this country.

Gillette, now in Washington, said that the boy's mother, Mrs. Wurui, who lived in Iowa, married her vaudeville partner, a Japanese citizen. The two later went to Paris for theater performances, and there Thomas was born.

Information furnished him, Gillette said, was that the father disappeared and the mother returned to New York with her 2½-year-old child.

Mrs. Wurui's citizenship was restored in 1930 but the senator said that did not give citizenship to the child born of foreign soil who took citizenship from a father inelig-

Local Boy Scouts to Sponsor Wastepaper Collection Drive

(Ed. Note—Following is the second of a series of articles to be published in The Daily Iowan to acquaint you with organizations annually supported by the Community chest drive. The Iowa City Boy Scouts are to receive $4,310 from the drive which will be conducted this year from Oct. 14 to 21.)

Though most Iowa City Boy Scouts are too young to serve their country by being mustered into Uncle Sam's fighting forces, they are going to do their bit for defense, according to Owen B. Thiel, scout executive.

The scouts, one of seven organizations to receive funds from the annual community chest drive, will follow up their aluminum collection campaign of last summer with a drive for old wastepaper this Saturday.

Living up to their standard of good citizenship, the local scouts will engage in a house-to-house canvass for old newspapers, magazines, and rags in answer to an appeal made by Price Administrator Hendersen. Collections will be turned over to paper mills in an effort to get all old paper back in circulation.

Iowa City scouts, who are ready to be of service to all civic, patriotic and social agencies, have been living up to the scouting program of citizenship training and character, Thiel, scout executive here for the past five years, said yesterday.

Thiel pointed out that the local groups, besides gathering 10,000 pounds of aluminum last summer in conjunction with the other troops in the Iowa River Valley council, have distributed posters for defense savings bonds, the Community chest fund, and Tuberculosis seal drive. This, the scout executive said, is in addition to regular work carried on by the troops.

In order that the public might see some of the activities engaged in by the scouts, a Scout exposition—a display of the requirements that scouts meet in their advancement program—will be held at the Community building Nov. 28 and 29, Thiel announced. At the exposition, booths will be set up so that the exhibits may be viewed.

To add more members to their already large membership, the local scouts are now conducting a "Scout a Month Club." In this drive for membership, each scout endeavors to attract another scout into his organization.

According to the records at the scouting office, there are at this time 497 active registered scouts, 124 registered cubs, and 185 scouts. Thiel stated that although some of the boys dropped out since the first of the year a total of 739 have been served in 1941.

Since the beginning of the Boy Scout council here 21 years ago, nearly 13,000 men and boys have been connected with the 27 troops which are under its jurisdiction.

In addition to the aid received from the Community chest drive fund in Iowa City, independent campaigns carried on throughout the territory help in the maintenance of the local Boy Scout council.

From the Pulpit---

Highlights From the Sermons Of Local Ministers

Rev. J. E. Waery, First Congregational Church, "THE ELASTIC LIMIT"

In a very real sense all men are stewards of God—invested with time and talent and responsibilities in the world—to take charge, to invest, to lease, to organize, to promote. The steward must assume and carry burdens—he must be "laden." The Owner says man must work out some of these things for himself. But the Owner says, if you meet a big problem or too many—if you reach the "elastic limit," "Come unto me, for I am the owner of it. After all, life is my business."

In this providential design the purpose of sleep is to release the tensions of physical, mental, worldly cares of our immediate environments. I heard of a man who had a chair by the bottom of the stairs and every night before he went upstairs to bed he would go through the maneuvers of taking off all his cares and problems of the day and placing them carefully on the chair before he retired. Now God through the purpose of His church and worship has so provided to remove the worldly, mental, spiritual, universal pressures, stresses, strain and tensions of life.

The sensitive soul of Kierkegaard says of troubled man: "One looks upon the eternal as a kind of desperate 'last resort.' Therefore, one objects to giving it the decision for as long as possible. And even if temporal help is the most absurd and unreasonable of all expectations, yet one would sooner whip up his superstitious imagination to hope for it than to lay hold on the eternal. One is constantly afraid that he might live to regret it, and yet the eternal, if one honestly lays hold on it, is the only thing, absolutely the only thing of which it may be said without reservation, it will never be regretted." Kierkegaard is right. God is not a desperate 'last resort'. Let us learn to use God repeatedly whenever we approach the dangerous elastic limit.

Let us who believe in God sink ourselves more deeply into this ultimate faith. Let those to whom it is lost trust themselves to the deepest "hunch" within themselves and "live for one day as if there were a God"—and the "if" will soon melt away.

Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, First Baptist Church, "The Greatest Thing in the World"

A contemporary writer said of the christians of the first century that it was they who were knitting the world together. That is equally true now. The christian religion and the christian church alone seek to knit the world into a brotherhood based on love and justice.

The basic unity of all christians even now is transcending the barriers of battle lines. Chinese and Japanese christians have maintained fellowship throughout the terrible war in which their respective countries are engaged. The World Christian Student federation now, as in the World War, is keeping open channels of christian sympathy and understanding among the nations of Europe. The world council of churches is another attempt to give expression to this christian ideal.

We believe some kind of world unity and organization must come after this war. However, no so-called unity based on violence and force can possibly endure. This is true no matter who wins the war. The only force strong enough to sustain the unity of humanity is the christian ideal of love.

The principles set forth in the Sermon on the Mount were meant to be lived! Without love even such virtues as eloquence, intelligence or philanthropy are meaningless. Consider again the nature of true christian love. It is "very patient, very kind. Love knows no jealousy; love makes no parade, gives itself no airs, is never rude, never selfish, never irritated, never resentful; love is never glad when others go wrong, love is gladdened by goodness, always slow to expose, always eager to believe the best, always hopeful, always patient. Love will never disappear." Make love your aim! Do not reject it for some other way. "It is the greatest thing in the world."
