Neutrality Revision Wins Prompt Approval of House Committees; Say Representatives Will Pass Bill

Would Permit F.D.R. to Arm Cargo Vessels

Knox Declares Navy Ready to Put Guns On Merchant Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—Revision of the neutrality act to permit the arming of American merchant ships for protection against "modern pirates" won unusually prompt approval of two house committees yesterday and administration leaders predicted the house would pass the legislation Friday with at least 100 votes to spare.

Only six days after President Roosevelt requested the authority as a matter of "immediate necessity and extreme urgency," the house foreign affairs committee approved the necessary legislation without a record vote. A short time later, the rules committee cleared the way for the house to begin consideration of the measure tomorrow.

Knox Says Navy Ready
While the legislative machinery was thus operating at top speed neutrality act, Secretary Knox on this attempt to change the 1939 act told his press conference that the navy was ready to put guns and crew on the merchant ships "as fast as the ships come to us," once congress authorizes such action.

The navy secretary explained that while there were not enough guns on hand to arm all ships immediately they would be available as rapidly as the ships could be brought into port to receive them. Chairman Bloom (D-NY) of the house foreign affairs committee said it would take about three months to complete the task. The navy has estimated the number of ships to be armed at 1,200, Bloom asserted.

Knox declared that arming of merchant ships was a highly effective method of protecting them from both aerial and submarine raiders. The experience of the British in this war, he added, was that their armed cargo ships had shot down a large number of Nazi planes and that submarines had been placed at a great disadvantage by being forced to attack while submerged, thus having to use torpedoes instead of the much cheaper ammunition of their deck guns.

Bolivian Army Occupies All Railroad Property In Move to Stop Strike

LAPAZ, Bolivia (AP)—The army occupied all railway property in Bolivia yesterday to prevent a threatened strike and the government announced it would not lift a state of siege until the nation returned to normalcy.

The state of siege was imposed three months ago after the government had uncovered an alleged revolutionary plot and had ousted the German minister, Ernest Wendler, on accusation of complicity.

U. S. NEVER NEUTRAL, KNOX SAYS

"We (the United States) have never been neutral. We should put an end to this piece of national hypocrisy," Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told the house foreign affairs committee, holding hearings on revision of the neutrality act. Admiral Harold Stark, chief of naval operations, also testified before the committee. Pictured above together, left to right, are Knox, Stark and Representative Sol Bloom of New York, chairman of the committee.

New Wave of Anti-Semitism Sweeps Berlin As Germans Order Stronger Restrictions

New Law Prohibits Jews From Obtaining Fruits and Vegetables

BERLIN (AP)—A new wave of anti-Semitism in Berlin these days is characterized by the following developments:

1. The Jewish Kulturbund which provided theatrical performances, concerts and movies to the Jewish population has been dissolved and its artists sent to work in munitions factories, on road building projects and similar chores.

Jews already were barred from all cultural institutions available to non-Jews.

2. Grocers dealing in vegetables and fruits may not inscribe Jews on their customers lists for these two kinds of products.

Every German household is required to register with a definite grocer, meat market or dairy products shop which alone may then supply it with the quantities allowed under Germany's strict rationing system.

For some time before Jews had been barred from purchasing sweets, condensed milk and many other canned goods.

3. The synagogues in Levetzow and Muenchener streets, which remained among the few houses of worship permitted to the Jews, were closed recently and all space available inside them filled with straw sacks. It is believed the buildings will be used to house large numbers of Jews.

4. Some 2,000 Jewish families living in flats and apartments received notices during the last 10 days to prepare to leave them.

5. Persons receiving such notices were forbidden to look about for other quarters. They were told they would be assigned quarters when the time comes to move.

RAF Blasts French Coast

LONDON (AP)—The RAF, declared to be tying up more than half of Germany's entire fighter strength by its western air offensive, blasted last night at the Nazi armed and occupied French coast from Boulogne to Dunkerque for the third consecutive evening.

The flashes of the bombs and the answering anti-aircraft guns were reflected above the fog bank overhanging the French cliffs, and a terrific explosion was heard from the stretch between Calais and Cap Gris Nez. Later a big fire was visible.

Serb, Montenegrin Guerrilla Warfare Forces Italians Out

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Serb and Montenegrin guerrilla activities have become so intense that Italian troops in former Yugoslav territory have withdrawn into the larger cities while the German garrisons are calling for more help, well-informed sources with good connections in the conquered area declared last night.

The guerrilla operations are on such a large scale southwest of Belgrade that entire towns have been taken and held temporarily until German bombers and land reinforcements blasted them out, these sources said.

Japan Says Prospects Gloomy for Renewed American Friendship

Claim Hostile Attitude Of U.S. Government Killing Negotiations

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS TOKYO—Authoritative Japanese agencies spread a blanket of gloom last night over prospects for a new lease on Japanese-American friendship, and the leaders of the empire held a series of consultations which hinted at decisions of great importance.

Domei, the news agency with close government connections, quoted authoritative persons as doubting that the United States is really trying to maintain peace in the Pacific, and as warning: "Japan is in danger of falling into a trap set by America."

Both Domei and the influential newspaper Ahsai dealt pessimistically with the trend of the 49-day-old conversations begun in Washington with delivery of a message from Premier Prince Konoye to President Roosevelt. Domei said the "hostile attitude" of the United States was killing the negotiations; Ahsai said there could be no end to the Pacific crisis so long as there was uninterrupted military and economic pressure in the orient from the United States.

The privy council, which is the important advisory body on foreign matters, met in the presence of the emperor. Later the lord privy seal, Marquis Koichi Kido, and Lieut. Gen. Teichi Suzuki, head of the cabinet planning bureau, talked with the premier who also saw Emperor Hirohito. (The lord privy seal takes an important part in negotiations looking toward governmental changes, there have been hints outside Japan that Konoye may be considering cabinet shifts in view of the troubles he has been having with foreign affairs.)

Konoye and his foreign minister, Admiral Teijiro Toyoda, also saw leaders of the fascist-like Tohokai party from whom they heard undisclosed demands concerning Japanese-American relations.

Corporation President Asks Government Aid

Fleet Asserts Wage Agreement Will Break Aircraft Corporation

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Asserting that a recently negotiated wage agreement would "break" his company, the president of Consolidated Aircraft Corporation said yesterday that he would not sign the agreement without assurance of financial aid from the government.

The president, Major R. H. Fleet, spoke at a luncheon in San Diego honoring Sidney Hillman, labor chief of the office of production management.

Hillman, speaking briefly after Fleet, made no direct reference to Fleet's statement but said the government would "give fair consideration to problems of both labor and management."

Hillman, speaking briefly after Fleet, made no direct reference to Fleet's statement but said the government would "give fair consideration to problems of both labor and management."

The wage settlement increased by 13 cents an hour the pay of workers making more than 65 cents, and boosted beginners to 60-75 cents from 55-65 cents. Fleet said the contract would cost Consolidated $82,000,000.

The government, Fleet said, "should quit kicking the aviation industry around, but give it encouragement." Only by means of aviation, he declared, could Hitler be defeated.

The company holds orders for more than $750,000,000 bombers.

Soviet Lines 'Deteriorate' Before Nazi Onslaught

Germans Hurl More Troops Into Struggle

Report 560,000 Red Prisoners Captured In Moscow Sector

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BERLIN (AP)—Impressive German reinforcements moved into the forward wall of the drive on Moscow last night and official sources said the Nazi armies were steadily gaining ground, especially against the superb defenses of the upper Volga northwest of the red capital.

These additional troops were moving east from Vyazma and Bryansk regions, west and southwest of Moscow, where it was stated by the high command that a vast double battle of encirclement was so nearly ended that the majority of strong German forces already were freed "for a continuation of operations."

During the day, it was added, red detachments surrounded north of Bryansk suffered "the most heavy and bloody losses," while the wooded region to the south of the town remained to be wholly mopped up.

The total number of red prisoners in hand in both the Bryansk and Vyazma areas had reached 560,000, the high command declared, and 888 tanks and 4,133 cannon had been taken or destroyed.

Released from these battle-grounds, the reinforcing Nazi columns were moving into a broad segment alongside others already engaged in what Berlin spokesmen termed "pursuit engagements."

The first of these reinforcements were reaching assigned objectives east of Vyazma in a steady downpour of rain after trudging through swamps and forests which bogged down both tanks and heavy guns, front dispatches said. The spokesmen would not speculate on the numbers released for new assignments, but in view of the fact that they were declared to have rounded up 560,000 men, observers considered it logical to assume that they constituted a major force.

Italian Has Answers For Ghost Heckler In Air Wave Dispute

ROME (AP)—An Italian radio commentator talked back to a heckling ghost voice yesterday in what was believed to be the first give-and-take air waves argument arising from the new counter-propaganda method adopted by warring nations.

The British and Germans have adopted jamming and fastalking to silence "Harrasing Harry" and "Ivan the Terrible" who interrupt their broadcasts, but Italian commentator Mario Appellus was ready with a different reply.

A ghost voice officially identified as having come from a London station interrupted Appellus' description of axis successes in the east by demanding: "What is happening in Rome?"

"It is raining in Rome," Appellus answered. "The rain is good for the country. In Rome many babies are born each day and many streets are being built for future Romans."

Defense Heads Order 51 Per Cent Slash In Auto Production

Announce Materials Shortage May Force Greater Curtailment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense officials gave the automobile industry a double-barreled jolt yesterday, ordering a 51 per cent cut in passenger car production in January, and warning simultaneously that materials shortage would probably force a much greater curtailment.

Leon Henderson, civilian supply director of the office of production management, declared he had made no effort to fix a quota for January, but, instead, was setting a maximum limit "to which the manufacturers can produce — if they are successful in obtaining sufficient materials."

The January, 1942, maximum was set at 204,848 passenger cars, compared with 418,350 produced in January, 1941. Considering previous production cuts ordered by Henderson, the industry therefore faces a production slash of 36.3 per cent during the first six months of the model year which began August 1.

poopS2—p—HRDLU GKQJ FW If materials hold out, production can reach 1,228,065 cars during the six months, compared with 1,928,517 in a comparable period of the last model year.

But Henderson made it plain that he thought the figures optimistic and that "it appears likely that next January's output will fall considerably below the maximum."

British Ships Elude Bombers

ABOARD FLAGSHIP WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET (AP)—The British warfleet, steaming top speed and tossing up huge masses of spray over the bows, has beaten off two fiercely-pressed attacks of torpedo bombers after an unsuccessful attempt to bring elusive Italian warships to battle.

Throwing out a terrific barrage from their 4.5-inch and six-inch pom-poms, a battleship, cruisers and destroyers sent a hail of hot lead into oncoming squadrons of Italian bombers which attacked within sight of the Alexandria coastline.

Italian bombers of one squadron sent three torpedoes swishing harmlessly past this flagship.

Pfeiffer Replaces Sener as Announcer Of WSUI's 'Rhythm Rambles' Program

Junior Radio Student Begins Third Year Of SUI Broadcasting

From a midnight program of popular music to one at midday—that's the jump Bob Pfeiffer, 23 of Detroit, makes today when he replaces Bill Sener, G of Chicago, on WSUI's noon "Rhythm Rambles" program.

Pfeiffer, now in his third year at WSUI, has spent the past two summers on the staff of radio station WJBK in Detroit. It was here that he broadcast the station's "Night Owl" show—a 6 hour program of dance music—for a period this past summer. He returned to WSUI this fall to continue his study in radio and step into the position vacated by Sener.

Pfeiffer first appeared over station WSUI in the fall of 1939, when he came to the university as a freshman. After a week in school he was announcing, and has been a member of the WSUI staff since that time.

In his two years of work at the station, Pfeiffer has taken part in almost all the radio fields available at WSUI. He assisted Jim Dower at the basketball games last year, and this fall is assisting with the football broadcasts. Prior to his actual broadcasting of sports events, he served as public address system announcer for football and basketball.

Other activities in which this junior has participated include

Advance on Moscow Virtually Unhindered As Soviets Fall Back

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS MOSCOW—A vast German force of tanks and motorized infantry has broken through the defenses west of Moscow, forcing the Russian central armies into retreat, it was acknowledged officially early today, with the hour of supreme crisis for the Soviet capital admittedly at hand.

The communique announcing this staggering blow to the red armies of the center was issued two to three hours later than the usual post-midnight report by the Soviet information bureau.

Although vague as to details, it left no doubt of the peril pressing on Moscow and of the Soviet Union with these three sharp sen-

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese foreign office announced today that the Russian foreign commissariat had advised the Japanese embassy staff to prepare to withdraw from Moscow.

"During the night of Oct. 14-15, the position in the western direction of the front deteriorated."

"The German fascist armies hurled a large quantity of tanks and motorized infantry against our units, and in one section broke through our defenses."

"Our forces opposed the enemy heroically, inflicting heavy losses, but were compelled to retreat in this sector."

There was no phrase to relieve the stark impact of the announcement, no word to intimate that the Nazis might have been checked after this break-through which occurred more than 24 hours ago. Red Line at Volga Imperiled

Other and less official accounts of the great western battle, issued last night, portrayed the Germans as imperiling the red line along the upper Volga and pushing with steady power from the west.

Their present whereabouts and the scene of the break-through were not disclosed.

In the northwest about Kalinin, 95 miles above the capital, the invaders struck with tanks, armored cars, planes and infantry spearheaded by parachutists dropping behind the Russian formations, and while a force of these latter was declared annihilated it was admitted that isolated Nazi salients were being extended.

freshman debate and tennis. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

As a prep school student, the new "Rhythm Rambles" announcer attended Cranbrook school for boys in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., where he first developed an interest in radio work. While a student at Cranbrook he was active in dramatics and debate.

Sener, whom Pfeiffer replaces on "Rhythm Rambles," has accepted a job in Chicago with the Chicago Schools Radio Council.

Baconian Series to Begin Tonight

Von Hentig to Speak On Penal Treatment In Institutions Today

Prof. Hans von Hentig, visiting instructor of sociology, will open the Baconian lecture series tonight in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, with an address on "Limits of Penal Treatment."

"Our penal institutions," von Hentig believes, "are the most unscientific part of social control. There are no 'new models' of institutions which continue to be 'eternally unchanged.'"

An eminent authority on criminology and criminal trial in pre-nazi Germany, von Hentig was noted for his experiments in penal treatment in that country. He developed a system of sending different types of prisoners to different climatic regions, believing that physical forces have an important effect upon man's behavior.

Over-excited, highly nervous prisoners were sent to warm regions of the country, while the slow, dull convicts were taken to the invigorating mountain regions.

Although the experiment proved a success, von Hentig thinks it would be difficult to institute in this country because of the rigid state control over penal treatment.

"In most of our institutions, we didn't do much to help the prisoners," von Hentig says, "and when they are released they are not much improved."

Von Hentig received his education at the universities of Paris, Berlin, and Munich, receiving his Ph. D. from Munich. He edited the "Monthly for Criminal Psychology" from 1925 to 1935.

Since coming to this country in 1936, von Hentig has served on the faculty of the Yale law school, New Haven, Conn.; in the department of justice as assistant expert to the attorney-general, and as Hitchcock professor at the University of California, Berkeley.

'Too Little and Too Late--'

FROM QUALIFIED AMERICAN YOUTH COMES A DEMAND FOR REAL AND SPEEDY ACTION

Gradually but surely, the young people of this nation are waking up. Probably just as surely they will ultimately bring about action which now is stayed by the inherent conservatism of age in this country. The cries of orators notwithstanding, American young men and young women are not isolationists, are far more liberal in their world point of view than are their elders.

That is to be expected. Therein lies hope, of which there is little even on the American scene at this moment.

The majority of undergraduates in this country, indicated by much correspondence with undergraduate spokesmen across the land, would (1) immediately repeal the arms embargo, (2) arm merchant ships, (3) willingly risk war now, at this, the strategic time to "open up" on Hitler, rather than play the waiting game other nations played.

They are desperately afraid, and we are afraid, that all too soon the catchword "too little and too late" will apply directly and acutely to so-called American ingenuity at delivering the goods. They are afraid, and we are afraid, that at that time America will be standing alone, fighting with her back to the wall, with no time to repent her folly.

An emergency statement on foreign policy has been initiated along those lines by representatives of eight organizations who are qualified to represent American youth of many faiths at many universities. Among them are representatives of the University of Chicago, Harvard university, Northwestern university and the Union Theological Seminary.

Here is their statement. The greatest, perhaps almost the last, hope of this moment is that this cry shall envelop the nation with desperate speed.

"Millions of brave young men and women unhesitatingly offer their blood and lives before the gates of Moscow to stem the tide of Hitler's marching legions. They are the dike which today holds the Nazi hordes away from Great Britain and the United States. The very safety of our country, the future of our generation and of all humanity, demand that the dike not be broken. The eastern front is America's first line of defense.

"All out aid, rushed to this front and unstinted sacrifice on our part today are the only ways to avoid enormously greater sacrifices tomorrow under conditions in which the price of victory will be greater.

"Effective aid to replace the tons upon tons of war material hurled against the Nazis by the Red army can be assured by the immediate passage of legislation for lend-lease aid to all the fighting fronts against Hitler. Such aid must be given to the Soviet Union because that is where it can be most effective in our own defense.

"The speed with which guns, planes and tanks roll from the assembly lines of America's factories tip the scales of battle for us against us. But our productive effort lags, bottlenecked by the slow expansion of steel, aluminum and other defense industries. Labor and industry—the whole American people—must win the battle of production to win the war against Hitler.

"Our ability to 'deliver the goods' to the front lines is shackled by a neutrality act which in reality is an invitation to Nazi piracy and a mockery of freedom of the seas. Congress must repeal the neutrality act, arm our merchantmen, provide adequate convoys, and remove all restrictions against the delivery of war materials by American ships directly to any and all ports where it is needed for our common battle front.

"The conclusion is inescapable that Hitler has dared to strip Europe of the armies of occupation and to throw them against the east eastern front only because he has reason to feel secure from the threat of a two-front war. 'All Quiet on the Western Front' today is aid to Hitler on the eastern front. Britain and America must seize this golden opportunity to win this war which Hitler is waging against the world and against the United States by opening up an effective western front while he is locked in mortal combat with Russia's armies.

"We gain strength of purpose in the knowledge that our generation will in future days live as free men and women without the chains of Hitler slavery only by rallying to the cause of liberty. To that cause we pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

Bear in mind that this is a statement by young people of this nation. Those who will fight the war if war breaks between Germany and America. They speak with authority for that reason alone. They deserve to be heard for that reason alone. The future of America means everything to them. How much does it mean to those who, steeped in the rights of democratic operation, convinced of an inherent strength in America which nowhere has been manifest, are saying, as William E. Borah said only months before the outbreak of war in Poland: "There will be no war. It is inconceivable that there will be war."

We must not be too late, with too little to save ourselves and what is left of Europe. Hysteria? War mongering? Perhaps. These are better than amnesia and the sleepy stupor of the lethargy we're demonstrating. These may bring action in time, if the cries are loud enough and wide enough.

A Man About Manhattan—

Blaze Didn't Know He Was A Great Dane; His Mistake—
By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I was spending the night with Milton Caniff, the adventure cartoon strip artist, and his wife Esther, and with Charles Rabb, who is also the author of an adventure strip, and while we were at dinner some people came in. One of these was Burgess Meredith, the actor, who had on a pair of worn pants that fit him too short and a pair of old shoes that were giving away at the seams. His hair was wild and shaggy. He had been prowling about his farm, which he hadn't seen in a number of weeks. "There's too much land going to waste out there," he said. "I'm going to do something about it."

Just then Captain Blaze got up from the hearth, where he had been dreaming happily of chasing cats, and Meredith, who knows Great Danes and likes them—and who has owned a number of them, all of which have been named Hamlet except one—got down on the floor to roll with Blaze and see what a good time they could have.

I said, "Are Great Danes good fighters?" Meredith said, "I saw a Doberman Pinscher whip a Dane once. The Pinscher was all over him before the Dane got around to realizing what was happening to him. If you are mean to a Dane and teach him to be antagonistic you can make him into a helluva fighter. But ordinarily they are too good natured. They have to be aroused.

"One of my Danes is out on the coast now," Meredith went on. "There's a Doberman in the neighborhood and he's a good scrapper. One day my houseboy overheard me say something about Pinschers being able to whip Danes and he gave me a funny look. Later some people came in and I rang for the boy to bring in some sandwiches. He didn't answer the bell. After while I went into the kitchen and found him sulking. 'What's the matter with you?' I asked. He flared up. 'I heard you say that Pinschers could whip Bad Boy. That ain't true. They ain't no Pinscher can whip Bad Boy—if he wants to fight.'

"That's just it," added Meredith, "if they want to fight."

I looked at Blaze, who takes his name from a character in his master's strip. He was lapping up the talk as though it were cream, happily wagging his big lazy tail. He was a puppy, only ten months, yet he was big as a horse. Well, maybe not quite that big, but almost. If he stood up to you, he towered over six feet. He knocks over chairs and disarranges the whole household by merely wagging his tail.

Just then two wirehairs came in, older than Blaze, much older, and settled in their ways. They were bored by his pranks. If they seemed gadfly-stung, Blaze was their gadfly. They tried to ignore him, but nobody is going to ignore Blaze for long and get away with it—not if he has to knock them down and sit on their heads. The wirehairs finally withdrew to obscure corners and lapsed into attitudes of philosophical detachment.

This distressed Blaze. He seemed genuinely puzzled. And then, for the first time, Blaze still thinks he's a lap dog. He doesn't know he's a Great Dane.

NEEDED A VICTORY—
It is more than probable Mr. Rayburn still remembers too vividly the scene he and other administration leaders got when the draft extension bill passed by only one vote. The condition of administration morale in the house required a spanking victory for Mr. Roosevelt next time, certainly not another hazardous undertaking.

A check-over in advance showed the ship arming idea would provide just what was needed.

The president therefore was content to leave his major idea as a mole in the ground. You may next see it arise in the senate. If the political situation there is found to be auspicious, the re-opening of the seas idea will be nailed on as an amendment.

WHY SHIPS SHOULD BE ARMED—
The question of the practical advantage of arming American ships is still open. Experience in the last war (as far as available naval records show) developed no instance in which a merchant ship ever sank a submarine. For this reason, it is possible Mr. Roosevelt's "shoot first" program may be criticized as a "get shot first" development in practical application. However Mr. Roosevelt's position is that the arming will keep Nazi subs below surface and hinder their aim.

A superior consideration that has swayed the minds of a congressional majority to Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation, however, is that the steps he has already taken on his own initiative make arming an obvious follow-up step. If our war vessels are to shoot first as ordered, the arming of our merchantmen becomes a comparatively minor matter. Their safety in the face of that policy necessitates whatever protection can be afforded, effective or not.

Note—Incidentally Mr. Roosevelt

has made up his mind Hitler will never declare war on us, no matter how far he goes. He mentioned that in both congressional conferences.

HITLER'S HOLD ON RUSSIA—
Behind Nazi economic minister Funk's brag that Russian industry had been annexed more truth than is customary in Nazi declarations—about 50 per cent.

Hitler's slowing creeping hordes have grasped about half of all iron concentrated in the area around the Dnieper river between Odessa and Kiev. Over half the Red coal is now almost completely within the Nazi clutch in the district between Rostov and Khar'kov. The Donets and Don basins are doomed. Of the two main railroads going from the industrial and coal area in the south to Moscow, one is already cut.

GOVERNMENT TO LEAVE MOSCOW—
No official here is taking a pessimistic attitude on these Red setbacks. Pessimism seems to have been forbidden, for fear of offending Moscow.

The plain truth is, however, that the series of Red defeats is realistically regarded, in general, as serious, but not necessarily fatal.

The Red government has been ready for some time to move from Moscow at a moment, although the escape no doubt will be concealed for as long a time as possible after it has taken place.

Roosevelt's Strategy In Arming Ships—

WASHINGTON—It seems Speaker Sam Rayburn was the main one who whittled Mr. Roosevelt's new drive for amendment of the neutrality act into a single spearhead—a proposal merely to arm American merchant ships.

The speaker and congressional associates talked the president out of trying to repeal the whole act and open up the war zones now blacked out for American ships—or nearly. The president is carrying forward the undertone suggestion toward that end in his message, but abided by Mr. Rayburn's advice and is refraining from pressing it hard.

PDR privately takes the position that the ship-arming is an immediate problem, but that his untried point of clearing away the combat zone is far more important. Eight congressional leaders found that out when they were invited to the White House conference last week. No agreement was reached at that conference because of the absence from town of Speaker Rayburn and House Leader McCormack. Next day they came in and strongly disagreed with the president's intention.

The Movie's Bongs Are a Big Problem
By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—I sat in a little room the other afternoon and watched a group of grown men agonize over the bongs.

They were all serious, if good-humored about it. But in three minutes I knew that a bood bong, at the moment, was the most important thing in their lives.

It was the re-recording room at 20th Century-Fox. A sort of projection room, with a screen at one end and sound gadgets at the other. In front of the screen, on the floor, stood a gadget which lighted up when in use so that you could see a big black needle swinging back and forth in an arc across its face. It had numbers across the lighted arc, and cryptic symbols and letters. And when a sound track was being played the big black needle jumped back and forth like mad. Especially when the sound track let out a bong.

The sound track let out bongs a good part of the hour I was there, was that each man of them, chipping in with a suggestion, had the same idea: Perfection. They called in Alfred Newman, from next door, to listen to the bongs, and Newman had the same idea. When he left they were going to try some more.

By ROBBIN COONS

Chapel bells play an important part in the score, and this particular bong was to emphasize the title music provided by a Welsh chorus, as the chorus dissolves into the orchestral score itself as to the film begins. The chances are that not one in a hundred fans would notice if the bell bonged a little off key—but our perfectionists of sound were working for that one.

"My father," remarked one of the mixers, "advised me to go into the cloak and suit business, but look at me now—grey-haired and getting greyer!"

So I hope you'll notice, when you see the picture, what a beautiful bong you're getting, and remember that back in Hollywood hard and long to bring it to your ears.

The motion pictures to be shown with Professor Harper's address were compiled to show various phases of industrial, agricultural, educational, artistic, recreational and political life in Russia.

Anderson Shows Iowa What to Expect Saturday

Badger Passes Work Against Hawk Varsity

Eddie, Kinnick Fling Successful Aerials; Hawkeyes Stop Runs

Dr. Eddie Anderson literally showed his Hawkeye gridders what to expect from Wisconsin this Saturday, jumping in at quarterback on a third team lineup which simulated Badger formations, and directing the scrubs to a successful offense against the Hawk varsity.

Anderson took the part of Tom Farris, forward-passing signal caller for Coach Harry Stuhldreher, and Nile Kinnick acted the part of the two Wisconsin triple-threat left halfbacks, Bud Seelinger and Mark Hoskins.

Kinnick, Eddie Connet Iowa's forward wall stopped the Badger running plays cold, but Kinnick and Anderson connected consistently on aerials, especially to Al Mannino at end. The drill indicated conclusively that the strong Wisconsin passing game will be the weapon to be feared this Saturday at Madison.

Iowa, primed for its first conference victory in the coming fall, but wary of its opponent's reported spirit and hidden strength, will go into the fray with two new faces in the lineup. Ben Trickey will probably start at quarterback for the Hawks, and Tom Farmer at left half.

Trickey Comes Through Trickey, a tough little nut, is coming into his own as a play-caller and adding this to his ability as a blocker and tackler, has made a strong bid to take the first team job completely away from Al Couppee, who is still bothered by an injured ankle.

Farmer, working in the place of Jim Youel, will combine with Bill Green and Bus Merles to give the Hawks a trio of hard-running backs. Terrible Tommy has been hitting consistently on passes all week, but his punting has not been up to expectations. So the conclusion is that Anderson will direct an all-out offensive Saturday in an effort to squelch the Badgers.

Hawk Spirit High Taking to their next to last practice before entraining for Madison Friday morning with plenty of vim and vigor, the Hawks romped through a long signal drill both against a dummy line and by themselves.

George Sanborn, reserve full-back, returned to practice after an absence of a week, which he spent in the hospital recuperating from a laryngitis seige. Merles spent the drill in sweat clothes, in an effort to loosen up his tense muscles.

'Cat Forward Wall Puzzles Ingwersen EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—The big puzzle surrounding Michigan's battle with Northwestern at Dycht stadium Saturday is the strength of the Northwestern line—and it's as much of an enigma to Burt Ingwersen as it is to any Wildcat fan.

The Northwestern line coach, one of the nation's best, says he doesn't know how good his first string forwards are. "Our line is as much a mystery to me now as it was last month," said Ingwersen. "I know it's improving but I also know it's not up there yet—not up where I'd like to see it. I know what it will have to be against Michigan, Ohio State and Minnesota. Saturday's game will tell me whether it will reach that standard."

That's a 197 average, practically the same poundage as Michigan's first string forward wall. Biggest gun in that Wildcat line is Alf Bauman, one of the nation's best tackles in 1940.

Should the No. 1 lines battle to a standstill, replacement strength may decide the outcome of a scrap which carries the title hopes of both elevens. Michigan here holds an edge. Against Pitt the second Wolverine line was almost as good as the first. Northwestern's line reserves are largely sophomores who may be handicapped by lack of experience.

Four Lettermen Hurlers Work Out Daily in Fall Drills for '42 Season

Iowa's baseball squad will be well supplied with pitchers this season.

In the fall practices, four lettermen—Jack Kenney, Bob Faber, Wendell Hill, and Dick Hein have been working out daily. Kenney and Faber are juniors, while Hill and Hein are seniors. All four are right handers.

Hill and Hein have now reported for basketball, but will take up baseball activities again in the spring. Ted Gordinier, a senior, was also a letterman last year, but has a sore arm and has not reported for fall practice. He will begin working out in the spring, and Coach Otto Vogel is hoping that he will be able to regain his effectiveness after a long spell of inactivity. Gordinier is a southpaw, and was one of Iowa's mainstays on the mound last year.

Roy Stille, a minor letter winner last season, also has been reporting regularly. A junior, he is a fast ball artist.

Professionals Organize For the first time, professional fraternities have organized into an intramural league separate from the social fraternities. Their competition will begin next Thursday. Fields will be available for practice, and reservations can be made by calling the Intramural Office, X-491.

GREEN RE-ELECTED SEATTLE (AP)—The American Federation of Labor yesterday re-elected William Green, president, a position he has held since 1924. He was unopposed.

Quadrangle's Upper A literally ran away from Upper D yesterday to ring up a score of 62-0. The winners showed a marked superiority early in the game, and held a 35-0 lead over Upper D at the half. Bud Flanders stood out with four touchdowns to his credit.

After holding a slim 6-0 lead at the half-time, Delta Upsilon gathered momentum and overcame Phi Gamma Delta, 19-7. Colin Gould snagged two passes from Joe Gantz and Larry Cole to score, and later in the game he carried over the only extra point. Don Fleming to Jim Bradley was the Phi Gam scoring combination.

Upper A's second team surprised Lower C of the Quad yesterday by winning, 28-0. Joe Grabow kept the victors moving forward with his successful passing.

Lower A's second team failed to show up and the game was auto-

Little Hawks Use Single Wing Formation in Practice

Play Dubuque Rams In Homecoming Tiff Here Friday Night

Hawklets Seek Third Conference Triumph Against Jinxed Team

Coach Herb Cormack's single wing formation flashed plenty of power yesterday afternoon as the Little Hawks went through their last hard practice before the homecoming tilt here tomorrow night. Iowa entertains the Dubuque Rams under the lights and will be trying for its third conference win. Dubuque has won only one from the Hawklets since Cormack assumed head coaching duties here; that was last year at the hands of Dick Hoerner and company to the tune of 20 to 7.

The Red and White boys are out to avenge that setback and have a good chance since the Rams have won only one game in their last four starts. Last week they outplayed Franklin high of Cedar Rapids and won their first game, 2-0.

Cormack has something new to try on Dubuque's light team as a test before the all-importantavenport tilt next week.

Try For More Power Changes in the City high system have seen the backfield switched to give more power to the single wing formation. Yesterday in the practice session the backs ran wild from the single wing after shifting from the famed T formation.

Bill Sangster demonstrated new talent when he skirted the ends several times and outraced the secondary for long gains. A newcomer in the backfield, Bob Jones, matched Sangster step for step in the running department and even showed promise of greater things to come. Jones has taken over Bob Roth's halfback post after the latter suffered a side injury last week. Jones is fast and a vicious tackler, and can also fill in as passer if the going gets tough. One handicap Jones has is his lack of size, but his speed and power make up for that deficiency.

As before, Joe Casey ripped the line to shreds on his powerful plunges. With the shift of Dave Danner to quarterback, Sangster has moved to half and fills in as an excellent partner to Casey in these plunges.

Danner Throws Passes The surprise of yesterday's session was Dave Danner's passing. The newly-appointed quarterback hit the ends time after time on short spot passes and completed several long aerials thrown on the dead run. Danner's passing was all done from the T formation, but when the Hawklets shifted to the single wing, Sangster was in the passing position. From all indications, the air literally will be filled with footballs Friday night since Cormack is anxious to perfect his passing attack as soon as possible.

The first team line was the same as it has been all week, except for the return of Bob Crumley, first team center who has been resting on the sidelines with an injured ankle. Crumley did not take part in the scrimmage but ran signals with the team and Cormack says he will be ready to go in the homecoming tilt.

The outstanding lineman of the session was Dean Yaunash who blocked vigorously and broke up many of the plays while on defense. Yaunash has been somewhat of a disappointment all year because he has not lived up to preseason expectations. Yesterday, however, there seemed no doubt of Yaunash's ability and he may come into his own before the season ends.

Whirlaway Out of Training LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Whirlaway, at three years of age the third biggest money winner in the history of racing, now is leading the life of an ordinary saddle horse.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—How to use passes offensively and defensively was the theme of Minnesota's workout yesterday.

Bud Higgins, 148-pound standout of last Saturday's Illinois game, received most of the attention as Bierman drilled him in the tossing of passes. Higgins spent practically the entire workout tossing accurate passes to receivers, winding up by acting as the passing threat for the second team in its drill against the first team.

Louis Gives Exhibition BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion, gave a 2-round exhibition yesterday before 5,000 soldiers at the Fort Custer outdoor arena.

His next appearance, at Selfridge Field, Mich., will be his final exhibition before returning to his farm to await a call to the army.

Riddled by Injuries, Depleted Bluehawks In Dummy Scrimmage

This risk of further injuries to the U-high football squad has kept Coach Paul Breeher from giving the Rivermen tough workouts so far this week.

With four of the Rivermen regulars already out of the lineup for the Mt. Vernon game tomorrow, more injuries would deplete the squad to such an extent that it would be practically impossible to assemble a team.

The Bluehawks spent most of yesterday's practice in dummy scrimmage as they ran through signals time after time in an attempt to rid themselves of their fumbling weakness. Even without opposition the backs looked like beginners in handling the ball. The last part of the practice session was spent studying Maroon plays.

The lineup for the signal practice included George Lehman and Bill Cobb, ends; Clarke Louis and Bud Halvorsen, tackles; Earl Carson and Marcus Young, guards, and Jack Reed, center. Jack Shay, Chuck Kent, Gene Rummels and Charles Barber made up the backfield.

So far this season Mt. Vernon hasn't won a game, but the Maroons will be waiting to revenge last year's 21-13 defeat at the hands of the Rivermen. Coach Breeher's Bluehawks, having tied two conference games, are looking for their first victory.

Scoreboard 'Hot' Hits .750 Percentage In 16 Games

WSU's "Football Scoreboard of the Air" stock as predictor of correct predictions out of 48 games, on a percentage of .708, a jump of .04 points. The board missed as a unit only on Texas Christian over Indiana, Michigan State over Marquette, Oregon State over Stanford and Oregon over Southern California.

Max Hawkins, last week's guest star, picked 13 out of 16 games correctly to lead the parade with an .812 percentage. Gene Clausen, local correspondent of The Associated Press, achieved the same percentage for the week's games, but only has a .625 mark for the whole season.

Jim Jordan, local Des Moines Register and Tribune correspondent, and Bill Buckley, sports editor of The Daily Iowan, picked 12 out of 16 games correctly, and now have a .654 percentage for the whole season. Jim Dover, sports announcer who is the only other regular member of the board, decides tie votes and has a .666 percentage for that work.

Again this week, the board will go into consultation over the 16 major games of the week, broadcasting tomorrow afternoon at 12:30. Jack Eicherly, captain of the 1938 Iowa football team, and now a senior law student, will be guest star of the program.

Iowa Basketball Squad Divided Into 2 Sections For Preliminary Drills

To get a better look at his basketball material during preliminary drills, Coach Rollie Williams has divided his squad into two sections, one group meeting on Monday and Wednesday and the other on Tuesday and Thursday. Next week the squad will be cut and practice will begin to earnest as Williams starts to polish up individual weaknesses.

This year the scheduling of conference games will return to the Meriwell system, which places the nine conference teams in three brackets, three teams to a bracket.

Six teams in the first and second brackets play each other on home and home basis, and the three remaining teams in the third bracket play each member of the conference only once. Next year's teams in the third bracket—Northwestern, Indiana, and Minnesota—will be moved to the first bracket and the teams in the second bracket dropped to the third.

Alternating the teams in the fashion gives each an even break in return games, which other forms of scheduling fail to do.

Two-Day Conference On Help for Disabled Concluded Yesterday

Vocational Assistance Fits Adults for Work, Speaker Tells Group

Representatives of the federal and state offices of the department of vocational rehabilitation for disabled persons met for a two-day conference in the Jefferson hotel Tuesday and Wednesday.

Heading the speaking list were Tracy Coop, regional representative from the federal office, and Willis W. Grant, state director.

Dr. Dewey Stuit and Michael Adams, both of the university psychology department, also spoke.

"Vocational rehabilitation for disabled persons is an organization interested in aiding adults of employable age to fit themselves for a particular job," Miss Coop explained.

"Each recipient is under the guidance of a case worker, who studies the individual situation before planning an educational rehabilitation program. Physical deficiencies are also corrected by the workers."

Grant pointed out that at the present time special attention is paid to helping disabled persons and rejected army draftees find places in national defense work.

"Now there are 206 persons in actual preparation for employment, with 621 on the active list. The service rehabilitates about 200 persons each year," Grant stated.

He emphasized the fact that the program is not a charity service, but is operated by a federal grant which must be matched by a state grant.

I.C. Community Chest Contributions Reach $1,700 in Two Days

After two days of campaigning, Community chest drive contributions had swelled to nearly $1,700 last night, surpassing the amount collected during the same period of time last year.

In view of the fact that previous drives have always shown a light amount of contributions at the beginning, Alva B. Oathout, drive chairman, asserted yesterday that he thought this year's campaign was "going along in fine shape."

According to Oathout, the solicitors so far have shown a great deal of enthusiasm and have been doing their work early.

"If they keep up the good work, the drive should be completed within the scheduled week," Oathout said.

Employment Service Aids Qualified People; Is Not Relief Agency

"The employment service is not in any way a relief agency," asserted Prof. George Haskell of the university department of economics at the Lions club luncheon meeting yesterday.

The speaker pointed out that the establishment of a free employment service was based on two factors: there are job opportunities even in the worst depressions, and there are people looking for jobs even at the height of prosperity.

Safe-Crackers Hunted By Iowa City Police

Thieves, believed by Iowa City police to be amateurs, broke into the Rose Coal company, 800 Maiden Lane, Tuesday night but took only $1.25 in pennies after unsuccessfully attempting to open a safe which contained about $8.

The company safe, found in the yard where the men evidently were forced to abandon it, led police to believe that the robbery was the work of amateurs.

The thieves gained entrance to the office by cutting a screen in the shower room and then prying open the office door. A railroad brakeman reported he had seen several men near the coal yard about 11 p.m. Tuesday.

AP CHARTER MEMBERS LOOK BACK—and AHEAD!

In connection with the anniversary of the last reorganization of The Associated Press—in September, 1900—the following telegrams were received at AP's general office in New York from charter members who have held memberships continuously for 41 years or more:

GEORGE F. BOOTH, THE WORCESTER (MASS.) TELEGRAM AND GAZETTE—member since 1897—"The Associated Press has always been the accurate unbiased reporter of news events. Its field has grown until it covers the world and is recognized at home and abroad as the authoritative source of correct information. It has competitors, but no rivals! Other press associations supplement it, but could not replace it. To maintain this reliability while taking advantage of every scientific development that can speed or improve its report is the objective."

JOHN STEWART BRYAN, THE RICHMOND (VA.) NEWS LEADER—member since 1898—"The Associated Press needs no one's praise for its past 40 years of growth and service—daily and hourly—from four quarters of the world. The AP signalizes the indestructible soundness of the ideal of its founders, of whom Frank Rogers was the first president and the latest left representative. That ideal is the dissemination of news courageously sought and fearlessly given by men freely working together for a worthy purpose. Herein lies democracy in gathering news, no less than in governing a nation, being justified."

W. H. COWLES, THE SPOKANE (WASH.) SPOKESMAN REVIEW—member since 1893—"That I was a charter member of The Associated Press as reorganized in 1900 makes me very proud. This cooperative news service controlled by 1,400 newspapers of all political and religious views has guaranteed an honest and unbiased news service for all the people. Its value cannot be overestimated. We should all pray that its record continue indefinitely as high minded in serving the public as it is now."

JAMES M. COX, THE DAYTON (O.) NEWS—member since 1894—"In these times, there is nothing more important than truth in the news as reported. It is the first essential to an informed public opinion. In the past, The Associated Press has met such a challenge by maintaining a traditional good faith with the public and keeping itself free from the temptation to be enterprising, rather than careful. It will do so again, and that's why it has lived as an institution of great service. Its major asset is the widespread confidence it holds."

JOSEPHUS DANIELS, THE RALEIGH (N. C.) NEWS AND OBSERVER—member since 1893—"I have been privileged in 41 years of membership in The Associated Press to witness what has been truly an evolution and revolution in the collection and dissemination of the news of the world. In 1900, the men of vision who fashioned the policies of the organization planned better than they knew, step by step. They have made peoples in all parts of the world near neighbors."

HOMER GARD, THE HAMILTON (O.) JOURNAL-NEWS—member since 1895—"As I review my newspaper life, my association with The Associated Press has been an outstanding pleasure. The Associated Press has progressed through the years because of a sound business policy, its impartiality in handling news, its aggressive gathering of news, its desire for truthfulness and dependability in news. I can see no special change necessary for the continued usefulness and success of The Associated Press."

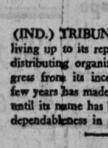

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, THE SAN FRANCISCO (CALIF.) EXAMINER—member since 1894—"I cannot conceive of any better plan than the one The Associated Press has been following for forty years—namely, provide all the news and keep free from political partisanship."

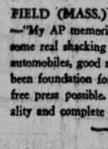

JOHN DAY JACKSON, THE NEW HAVEN (CONN.) REGISTER—member since 1897—"The expansion of the service and the efficiency of The Associated Press since reorganization is a most remarkable development in journalistic effort, including as it does, features, photos, literary criticism, comics, news interpretation and special correspondence, thus meeting requirements not hitherto attempted. I believe, however, its future lies in an even greater expansion of its purely news coverage, excellent as that already is."

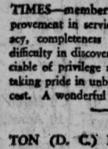

A. N. LIECTY, THE SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) GAZETTE—member since 1899—"Heartiest congratulations on the steady and satisfactory progress of The Associated Press which calls for the highest praise from its members. Believe this progress will continue until your service will be so comprehensive as to fill every need of the publisher outside of the local and editorial content of his newspaper."

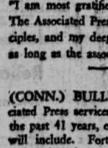

F. A. MILLER, THE SOUTH BEND (IND.) TRIBUNE—member since 1898—"The Associated Press, living up to its reputation as the greatest news gathering and news distributing organization in the world, has made remarkable progress from its inception. Its expansion in the last comparatively few years has made its service more and more valuable to the people until its name has become a household word meaning accuracy and dependability in news presentation."

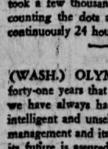

KELTON B. MILLER, THE PITTSFIELD (MASS.) BERKSHIRE EAGLE—member since 1896—"My AP memories go back to when county editor members did some real shaking over big territory, without benefit of telephones, automobiles, good roads. Our early loyalty was not wasted, but has been foundation for present magnificent organization, which makes free press possible. If we hold to our record of fairness, impartiality and complete coverage, the future holds no fear."

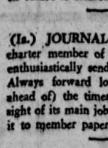

F. B. NICHOLS, THE BATH (ME.) TIMES—member since 1898—"Congratulate AP on marked improvement in service—namely, in increased human interest, accuracy, completeness and timely photos. Now so good one has difficulty in discovering further room for improvement. Am appreciative of privilege and of honor membership in organization. Still taking pride in unbiased report of all the world's news at reasonable cost. A wonderful example of cooperative effort."

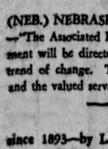

FRANK B. NOYES, THE WASHINGTON (D. C.) EVENING STAR—member since 1894—"I am most gratified that with all its physical growth and change The Associated Press still can and does adhere to its founding principles, and my deep conviction is that this will always be the case as long as the association lives."

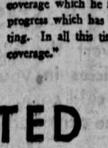

WILLIAM H. OAT, THE NORWICH (CONN.) BULLETIN—member since 1897—"If The Associated Press services advance as much in the next 41 years as in the past 41 years, one will be unable now to understand what they will include. Forty-one years ago, an Associated Press operator took a few thousand words a day and some operators went crazy counting the dots and dashes. Now the automatic printers work continuously 24 hours every day and cover the news of the world."

S. A. PERKINS, THE OLYMPIA (WASH.) OLYMPIAN—member since 1899—"In all the forty-one years that I have been a member of The Associated Press, we have always had a progressive management backed up by an intelligent and unselfish directorate, and today with its conservative management and its world-wide service it is supreme in its field and its future is assured."

W. H. SAMMONS, THE SIOUX CITY (IA.) JOURNAL—member since 1894—"Proof of being a charter member of The Associated Press. The Sioux City Journal enthusiastically sends anniversary felicitations to the good old AP. Always forward looking, enterprising, progressive, up with (or ahead of) the times and, above all, dependable, never having lost sight of its main job of gathering the news of the world and getting it to member papers—accurate, readable and first."

J. C. SEACREST, THE LINCOLN (NEB.) NEBRASKA STATE JOURNAL—member since 1897—"The Associated Press will advance and develop. That development will be directed by the requirements of those served and the trend of change. The AP is the greatest agency of a free press and the valued servant of a free people."

GEORGE W. WOOD, THE LEWISTON (ME.) SUN—member since 1893—"By L. B. Costello"—"As he looks back 41 years to the very limited news coverage which he received from The Associated Press in 1900, he is amazed at the splendid progress which has been made and the wonderful national and world coverage he is now getting. In all this time, he has depended solely on The Associated Press for his general news coverage."
