NAZI BOMBERS ACCOMPLISH TASK AT SOVIET HARBOR

Wreckage covers the ground, a wrecked ship still burns, center, and smoke hangs heavy over this Soviet harbor after it had been blasted by German bombers.

Indicate Senate Forces May Ask Abolishment of Shipping Zones

Expect Change To Be in Armed Ship Provision

WASHINGTON (AP)—Indications were multiplying last night that administration senate forces would take the lead in an effort to expand the armed ship bill so as to permit American merchant vessels to sail anywhere on the high seas.

After the senate foreign relations committee had spent the day hearing opposition witnesses contend that the house-approved measure authorizing ship arming would push the country closer to war, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) told reporters he was "having some amendments prepared for possible use later on."

Connally reiterated previous statements that he favors elimination of the neutrality act provisions which prevent American-flag ships from entering belligerent ports or combat areas.

He said, too, that "hooking up the armed ship and the belligerent port question in one bill probably would take less debate in the aggregate than passing the ship arming now and considering the other problem later."

Connally added, however, that administration leaders had not yet reached a decision regarding procedure. There is no thought in administration circles of accepting Wendell L. Willkie's suggestion that the neutrality law be repealed completely, Connally declared, adding:

"There are a few provisions we ought to preserve—a few little gadgets that we might leave around for ornamental purposes."

These provisions include those forbidding the use of the American flag by foreign ships and granting the government control over munitions exports.

OPM Appeals to Labor to Stop Strikes—'The Greatest Help Aggressors Can Get'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Industrial strife and threats of more to come spotted the nation yesterday as the office of production management appealed to worker and management alike to stop strikes—"the greatest help aggressors can get."

The OPM statement, forecast last week by President Roosevelt, said the defense program, growing larger daily, "depends for its success on the patriotic support of labor and management."

"Uninterrupted production," he said, "is the pressing need. The interruption of work by strikes or slowdowns is the greatest help aggressors can get in these days when material on the battlefield is everything."

As the defense agency urged the use of government mediation machinery in all disputes, the independent welders and burners council ordered a strike in protest against the action of the AFL-Seattle metal trades council in removing 177 welders from jobs at the Lake Washington shipyards at Houghton.

President Approves 83 Public Works Projects; To Cost About 7 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Presidential approval of 83 additional defense public works projects, calling for the expenditure of $8,763,289 to provide community facilities for defense workers and personnel of the armed forces, was announced yesterday by the federal works agency.

Among the projects were 18 for health centers, eight recreational facilities, 12 direct contributions for the operation and maintenance of schools, with the remainder providing for construction of school, hospital, waterworks and sewer facilities, and one for construction of a bridge approach.

IROQUOIS PROTEST DRAFT LAW

Armed with the argument that Iroquois Confederacy (Mohawks, Oneidas, Onondagas, Cayugas, Senecas and Tuscaroras) is an independent, unconquered nation, subject to its own laws and not those of congress, a delegation of Iroquois appeared in the federal district court in New York City to protest that the United States government has no power to draft their tribesmen into the army. The court reserved decision. Accompanied by their attorney, Wilfred E. Hoffman, center, the Indians are Harry Patterson, left, a Tuscarora, and Ivan A. Burnham, right, a Mohawk.

America First Committee Asks President for War Declaration on Germany

CHICAGO (AP)—The America First committee asked President Roosevelt last night to settle the issue of peace or war by submitting to congress "a resolution for the declaration of a state of war between the United States and the German Reich."

The organization, in an open letter to the White House, served notice that it would vigorously oppose adoption of such a resolution, but maintained that the integrity of this nation and loyalty to the constitution demand that the decision between peace or war now be made by congress."

Italians Mass For Possible British Attack

Say Troops Occupy Coastal Regions As 'Precautionary' Move

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ROME—Italian troops were reported last night to be barracked along Italy's long coast lines where new machine-gun nests, artillery batteries and barbed wire defenses have been established against the possibility of a British invasion.

Newly-trained troops were shunted into coastal areas rather than being dispatched to the Russian or other fronts, it was said, and the nation was told it would have to cut civilian clothing consumption because of army needs.

Although both Italian and neutral experts doubt the likelihood of the British attempting a landing at this time, Italy is prepared for it in view of the calls for such a move in the British and American press, it was said.

Persons returning from the coast said bathing resorts were fortified, and seaside restaurants and dance halls converted into barracks.

Roads were strongly guarded, troops constantly patrol the beaches, and anti-aircraft guns have been placed wherever planes feasibly might land. Some zones were mined, it was said.

Clothing, textiles and shoes again will be on sale Nov. 1 after months of suspension, but these goods will be rationed.

The report that Italy was using more of her military manpower domestically could not be confirmed, officially, but the recent statement of the U. S. assistant secretary of state, Breckinridge Long, that Germany had asked for 1,000,000 Italian soldiers to serve in Russia and elsewhere continued to cause resentment here.

The fascist editor Virginio Gayda denied Long's statement and accused the Roosevelt administration of trying to cause "a social and political upheaval in Italy against fascism and Germany" to gain "a voluntary defeat" of Italy.

Newspaper dispatches here said Italian troops in Russia "are not strong in numbers," and told of their hardships in the fight against the Russians beyond Stalingo in an effort to encircle Rostov on the Black sea 100 miles to the south-east.

British Labor Peer Attacks Government For Not Helping Reds

LONDON (AP)—The embittered charge that the four-month course of the German-Russian war had become "the hour of our greatest humiliation" because of Britain's inability to send an army into Nazi-occupied western Europe was flung at the government yesterday by the labor peer, Lord Strabolgi, from the floor of the house of lords.

Contrasting this period to Britain's "finest hour"—the successful withdrawal of the BEF from Dunkerque—Lord Strabolgi pleaded for a better use of British man-power to forge the equipment for an eventual invasion army. He said:

"We are unable to make a serious diversion in the west or create a second front because we have not reached—after five or six years—sufficient rearmament."

Marshal Petain Asks French To Stop Killings

VICHY, Unoccupied France (AP)—The second assassination of a German officer within 48 hours prompted an anguished appeal last night from old Marshal Petain for Frenchmen to "put a stop to these killings" and deliver up the culprits to save the lives of at least 150 more hostages now facing speedy execution by German reprisal squads.

Yesterday morning, 50 persons including a number from the Paris region, were executed at undisclosed places for the killing on Monday of the German commandant at Nantes; 50 more await execution unless the Nantes killers are arrested by Thursday midnight and another 100 were seized today for reprisals in connection with the killing of a German military judicial counselor at Bordeaux.

Italians Admit British Air Raid on Naples Causes Huge Damage

ROME (AP)—Guided by the glowing crater of Vesuvius, five waves of British planes blasted at Naples for five hours Tuesday night and early yesterday and caused damage which the Italian high command described bluntly as huge.

It was by far the longest and worst air raid of the war for the ancient capital of the kingdom of the two Sicilies, a great port city of about 1,000,000 people, Italy's third largest. There was no disclosure of the extent of damage to the port or to shipping in the sprawling harbor, which lies on the route to axis-armed Libya.

The city was blacked out when the first wave of planes came over at 9 p. m., but Vesuvius provided an unquenchable beacon.

Report All of American Crew Aboard Torpedoed Ship Saved

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than all foreigners, comprised the crew men were lost in the sinking of the American freighter Bold Venture, formerly Danish ship now under Panamanian registry which was sunk off Iceland last Thursday with her cargo of cotton, copper and steel. Her crew originally had been put at 32.

Thus with 17 landed safely at Reykjavik, the missing men numbered 18. This brought to 94 the apparent loss of lives aboard seven American-owned vessels attacked at sea since the European war was started, including the 11 missing from the torpedoed destroyer Kearny.

It was the torpedoing of the Lehigh, flying the American flag and sailing without cargo from Bilbao, Spain, to the African gold coast, that impelled Hull at his press conference to say that the act was "in harmony with all the definitions of piracy and assassination."

Russians Declare 'Supreme Offensive' Halted; Germans Say Soviet Arms Production Crushed

Report 75 Per Cent Of Red Production Under Nazi Control

High Command Silent On Moscow Offensive; Claim Gain in Donets

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BERLIN—The Germans officially reported extension of their occupation of the industrial Donets basin in southern Russia yesterday and commentators declared Soviet munitions and arms production was being crushed to a standstill.

Military quarters indicated that the high command considers it more important at the present stage to knock out Russia's production completely than to take more prisoners or territory.

The high command had nothing whatever to say of its Moscow offensive, which for so many days had played the leading part in its operations, except to report bombing of the capital by day and night.

The latest German newsreel showed German motor equipment plowing through axel-deep mud at the front, and newspaper pictures showed German airmen brushing off snow from airplane wings before starting their flights.

The pressure on Leningrad was reported here to be continuing remorselessly, and German newsreels showed Finnish artillery in action on that front.

No details were given of the advance in the Donets basin, but German fliers reported setting 11 trains afire and destroying six locomotives at Kharkov and Voloshilovgrad.

German figures indicated that Russian regions already occupied produce 70 to 80 percent of the products needed for arms. In the case of manganese it was said Germany has taken the entire production capacity.

If the war lasts long enough, commentators said, these plants will work for Germany and will be much harder for the British to bomb than in Germany's own Ruhr.

Interpreting The War News Winter on Western Front May Not End Struggle for Moscow

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
The wolf-howl of snow-laden winds sweeping the Russian steppes has joined the dreadful chorus of the guns about Moscow to stir hopes even in usually pessimistic London military circles that Hitler's fire-breathing legions have been brought to a definite halt.

That may prove wishful thinking. It is far too soon yet to write off the battle of Moscow as ended or even to conclude that it has degenerated from a blitzkrieg to a slow-motion siege like that at Leningrad.

Winter Aiding Russians
There seems no doubt, however, that Russia's traditional ally, old General Winter, is moving into action now in her defense. His bugles are blowing across the steppes again as once they blew to snare Napoleon to defeat on the same frosty battlefields.

That, at least, is the picture drawn in London and Moscow as Hitler's eastern "crusade," more grandiose in concept and execution than any Napoleon ever dreamed, turns into its fifth month.

The dispatches speak of mud and snow mixed roads from the upper Volga in the north to the springs of the meandering Oka in the south.

However, it is only winter's first skirmishes that have yet reached the Moscow front to turn fields into quagmires and dirt roads into bogs. Soon its sub-freezing and sub-zero reserves will move up behind that sodden skirmish line to bridge the mire with icy armor over which tanks and motor transport can move again. What will happen then is beyond calculation.

Machines Untested in Winter
There is little or no experience by which military minds can gauge the probabilities of mechanized (See INTERPRETING, page 7)

Claim Central Front All But Static Under Gale-Driven Snows

'Hitler Will Not Again Be Able to Muster Great Blitz Forces'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LONDON—The supreme thrusts of the German armies have been halted before Moscow and the offensives now are ebbing in power, a highly-placed neutral military authority declared last night on the basis of information from a front report all but static under gale-driven snows.

"Undoubtedly," he added, "Hitler will order and carry out new attacks, but he will not again be able to muster anything like the strength he has used up in the past two weeks."

All this—the most optimistic estimate of the Russian position to come from responsible London quarters in many a day—was said to apply about equally to the Leningrad front, but it was coupled with an emphatic warning that the story of the struggle for both cities was far from the final page.

Say Nazis Exhausted
Speaking specifically of the sector before Moscow, this qualified informant declared that the red troops no less than the nazis now were exhausted by the great struggle, and added:

"If both armies are as sorely strained as they appear to be, a small factor may tip the scales one way or another. The fact remains, however, that Hitler has failed to achieve that 'decisive' result which he promised in his speech before starting the attack. (This referred to Hitler's speech on Oct. 3, which was the first public notice that his command had gone all-out on the center.)

"The German army is now carrying out the familiar tactic of punching here and there looking for a weak spot."

As to the far-southern German offensive into the Donets basin—which Berlin had insisted gave more promise of a crushing defeat for the defenders than anything that might happen about Moscow—this informant's analysis was that the drive "appears to lack the power of previous attacks."

No Definite Front at Moscow
In the Moscow theater, he said, there was nothing wholly reliable to fix the precise distance from the capital of the nearest nazis forces—and he added it was not likely to be exactly known until the front was stabilized.

Unfavorable weather as well as Russian resistance was seen here as a factor growing increasingly troublesome to the Germans and as making substantial movement very difficult.

Russian Aid Shipments To Be Moved Through Boston Starting Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commencing next Tuesday, all aid-to-Russia cargoes will be moved through the port of Boston, the maritime commission said yesterday.

The army base pier in Boston will be the assembly point for materials. The commission said it adopted the plan in order to make greater use of the facilities of various ports and to prevent possible congestion.

The order, it was understood, would not apply to oil shipments.

Flaring Guns Drive Off Night-Attacking Planes

Anti-aircraft guns, firing both to port and starboard, light the water and outline the ship's superstructure in flame in this picture, one of the most striking of the war, as a British battleship drives off attacking Axis planes. The battleship's fire was so intense the planes were not able to hit their target, according to the British.

While Rome Burns--

IT IS NONSENSE TO WEEP OVER HISTORY'S PAGES WHEN THE WORLD IS TOPPLING AROUND YOU--

There came to us over the week end an unsigned letter, one in the "Will Shakespeare" series, giving Will the devil for "haunting us from the dust with a fancy speech based on old rusty propaganda themes such as 'faith,' 'hope' and 'love.'"

From a rabid England hater, this letter declares: "Faith, to the Englishman, is a druidic worship in false and empty traditions which proclaim the... Britisher as the gifted son of Jacob and of other nondescripts..." The word "hope" has been perverted, he tells us. The Englishman is now "sitting on his infested island, wishing that more draftees will write letters demanding war, that more poets of so called youth opinion will show that the youth of America want freedom, justice and a few other anachronistic terms for all peoples..." The Englishman's hope is wrapped up in his bank roll; with that gone despair engulfs him.

"About love," he writes. "No Simon Legee ever beat the Negroes as does England in the Somaliland. No tyrant out of pure love ever killed his subjects so ruthlessly as England does in India. No one but England, inspired by the highest love, introduced opium to the China traffic. Out of the magnitude of his heart the Englishman allowed the Poles to work in English-owned Polish industries at back-breaking wages. Even promising to protect them from the Germans so that they might continue to kill themselves in self-preservation..."

This writer does a beautiful job, in his anonymity, of debunking faith, hope, love and the British. And there, like the typical cynic, he stops. Faith, hope and love, he implies, are figments of mankind's imagination. There is no faith, no hope, no love. In their place he has nothing to offer. "Go back to the dust that should be you," he advises Will, "and don't bother us with your typical English prattle. And take with you the dusty heritage that crumbles every year—year in, year out—called 'England.'"

This writer is not alone in his thinking. America is infested with young and old who are great at tearing down, duds at building up. They'd rather see the world go to flames than to lift a hand to stop it.

They never raise a voice but what it's filled with ridicule. They never point an accusing finger but what there's destructive malice in the very angle of its point.

With that kind of philosophy, we're licked before we start, no matter what the battle. And every critic who is not a constructive critic lends impetus to that philosophy. There are too many today who see in the human race nothing but misery and despair. Their minds are warped by their realization of the indignities of man, but ridicule only accentuates those indignities, leaving them enlarged and bleeding. The job is to heal them.

In the question of war and peace today, much is made of argument which is destructive and irrelevant. Those who accuse the interventionists of playing upon the emotions are themselves, for the most part, playing upon more dangerous emotions.

The interventionist seeks to sound a call to arms, and he does it openly and fairly. What right has another to ridicule his patriotism? To do so he appeals to the worst in man—to accept defeat, to admit a job—any job—is too big to tackle.

Our writer to Will blasts the British.

He might have gone further. He might have dwelt at length upon the stupidity of the British at Versailles. He might have railed against the aged efforts of Chamberlain to stop a war which had been fore-ordained by the British themselves. He might have done all of these, and affected the present situation not a bit.

For when one is faced with consuming fire, he does not stand idle while the flame creeps toward him, simply because he doesn't like the fireman.

Our critic may argue that this is not our war. And stand by while unarmed American ships go down before nazi torpedoes. Or he may argue that "we brought it on ourselves," and he will be very much correct, and still the situation is unaltered.

History teaches us much of value when we seek to pattern the future on what was best in the past. It teaches us nothing when we weep over its pages while the earth rocks around us.

There are certain facts to be faced today, and all the railing at the British, the Vichy French, the United States itself won't do any good. They'll still be facts.

Hitler doesn't like the United States. Hitler already controls nine nations in Europe and one-third of the area of Russia. Hitler has begun widespread attacks upon American shipping on the high seas.

Hitler has bombers which will nicely reach eastern coastal cities from where he is now. He might conceivably, if we keep on weeping over history's human mistakes, face us across the Bering straight, millimeters on the map from western coastal cities.

He wouldn't dare attack us over here? Hah! Just wait until he has a chance!

Now in the face of all this one may argue if he chooses that we can keep out of this war. And we say, "Brother, we're IN this war. Up to our necks. And while we're arguing the non-existent merits of getting in, the figurative Rome is burning fiercely."

Nobody wants this country to go to war. But since we're in, it seems like a fairly smart thing to do to prosecute the war while it's still "over there." The thought of very real, honest-to-God blackouts of New York and San Francisco under roaring nazi bombers isn't pleasant.

This nation is united in its hate of the nazi philosophy, which happily does not degenerate into a hate for the German people. There is hope in that.

Anybody who, apparently like our "writer to Will," thinks America is carrying a torch for the British in this war had better clean the webs out of his hair. Right now we've got all we can handle carrying our own torch, and we may pray that we can do it as well as the British have done, regardless of their merits as human beings.

If America will show just half the enthusiasm in the prosecution of this war we're in as the isolationists have shown in trying to stay out of it, there isn't much question of the outcome.

And if there are enough of us around when it's all over who watched the last peace at Versailles take form, there isn't much question that the peace to follow this one will be American in tone, not British.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Newest Phase in U.S. Japanese Diplomacy

WASHINGTON—The war chess game that Tokyo and Washington have been playing has developed some new bewildering moves. The pawns used best were ships.

A strongly pressured Tokyo war threat (built upon the change in the cabinet) was met here by a polite and casual order that some American ships en route to Vladivostok put in at safe, friendly ports. The official explanation was offered that the vessels were directed from their course to consult American representatives in some safe friendly ports as the navy did not trust the wireless. This was rather thin in view of the efficiency of modern code books.

It wore thinner when London suddenly and strangely became eager to broadcast reports that the reds were very, very weak on their Siberian front facing Japan. Through censors too clever to permit any really bad news to escape unnoticed, London reported the Soviets had been compelled to diminish their defense army facing the Japs in front of Vladivostok. It was true the reds had been trimming their Far Eastern army from time to time, and they have undoubtedly gotten it down to the limit, but the limit would still be enough to meet any threat from Japanese quarters, as the Japanese must well have known.

Their answer was to stop momentarily, at least, the aggressive game they had been playing. Instead of bristling, they, for the first time exhibited some confidence there would be no war. They permitted dispatch of two vessels for the United States. The gesture carried some weight to Washington in view of the zealousness of the Japanese in protecting every ship they have.

Glenn Miller looks fine since his return from Hollywood. The ex-U. of Colorado trombonist opened his third engagement at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Glenn's organization is one of two bands, I'm told, that really earns a dividend for the hotel. Most hotel entertainment has to be chalked off at a loss, as good will advertising. Glenn Miller's engagements have shown handsome profits. The kids love him. They can have all they want of him for 40 cents, and Sonja Henie, too, at one of the Broadway theaters. Glenn's Picture, "Sun Valley Serenade" is current.

Broadway Rose, who turned sidewalk mugging into a science, has 30 days in which to contemplate the vagaries of life under the bright lights. The Streets' most famous gummy lass is in jail. How did this happen? Rose recently has come in for lots of publicity. When you hit the front pages in this town, something happens to you. For years Rose had padded up and down the streets at night, wheeling folding money from celebrities. A legend grew up around her. She broke into the headlines. Many stories were written about her. Then it happened, as it so often does, when you hit the headlines. The cops have Rose behind the bars.

BAD NEWS COMES SLOWLY

Puzzling aspect of the torpedoing of the destroyer Kearny is the manner in which the official announcement was made. The world was led for two days to believe there were no casualties. The original statement from the navy department at 9 a.m. Friday was that "no casualties to personnel were indicated." It was not until some 60 hours later that it was announced 11 were lost and 10 injured. Even then details were refused.

General procedure requires commanders to report casualties immediately in their first dispatch. No other factor could be more important. The official explanation is that the Kearny commander probably wanted to keep his original report as brief as possible to prevent any other nazi subs from getting a cross radio beam on him to detect his presence while he was limping to port. This hardly covers the obvious fact that three or four more words would not have increased the risk to any considerable degree.

A more plausible explanation would be that the administration did not want the blow to fall at once. One of the new war cus-

U. S. PRODUCING HALF AS MUCH AS NAZIS

An official government estimate, privately circulated, indicates American production of munitions is still running only one-half to two thirds of the German. The nazi estimates can hardly be more than guesses, but the report has caused increasing dissatisfaction in the government with the progress being made at this end of the line. One consolation is the Germans are using theirs in much greater quantities.

CIVIL WAR IS OVER

The Civil war must be over. They finally have permitted a pen sketch of the plumed knight of the confederacy, Jeb Stuart, to be hung on the walls of the army and navy club, the first confederate general to be so honored. The club directors paid equal honor, in the selection, to the artist, Col. John Thomson, U. S. marines, whose world famed pen style has pictured the scenes and figures of many wars.

America's Movieland—

Humphrey Bogart Plans Smart Game—

HOLLYWOOD—George Raft wouldn't play in "The Maltese Falcon" because it was the director's first picture. Humphrey Bogart didn't mind that, which would seem to show what a smart boy Bogie is—this same Bogart who is building a new thumping career out of roles that Raft turns down.

"The Maltese Falcon" is big box-office now and Bette Davis isn't minding going in as star of its director's second picture. "In This Our Life." This means two things: (1) the falcon is a high-flying bird of entertainment, an exceptionally well-made movie; (2) its director has arrived.

This director is John Huston, Mark the name, because most who have seen the film are enthusiastically agreed that his is an important talent. You who note screen credits for writing are perhaps familiar already with the Huston name. You surely know his father, the actor Walter Huston. John is 35, a tall, wiry chap who has been planning to direct these many years, who now is genuinely surprised that his first effort came off so well.

"The Maltese Falcon" was a labor of love. John Huston thinks Dashiell Hammett, its author, one of the great writers—"not merely great mystery writers" of today. With a contract for directing as well as writing, Huston beat the drums for Warner Brothers to re-film the property with himself doing a Preston Sturges act. He did a screenplay and won his point. The first version (1931), with

Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez, made no movie history.

"I've never seen it," says Huston. "Our picture, however, is the book—with no changes. I tried, in the screenplay and in direction, to put as much of Hammett in it as I could—as much of his wonderful pace and suspense. The dialogue is pure Hammett. My only problem was translating this rich movie material into screen form."

Huston solved his problem well. His picture is a mystery story, but more than that, an engrossing melodrama, building slowly at first, gaining momentum like an evil rumor, climbing with taut suspense to a dramatic climax with never a let-down. Its people (Bogart, Mary Astor, Peter Lorre, Gladys George, Sydney Greenstreet, Elisa Cook Jr., Lee Patrick and the others, all playing up to script and direction), are fascinating, never quite predictable, always believable in the Hammett fashion. Greenstreet, making a movie bow after long stage service with Lunt and Fontanne, should be in the running, come Oscar-time. A bit-player, uncredited, is Walter Huston—as a dying sea captain who delivers the bundle to Sleuth Bogart. The star took the role as a sentimental gesture, the check going to the bit-player originally hired for the role.

John Huston, plotting his first directing job, did his own preliminary sketches of important scenes, sought and got the advice of his close friends, Director William Wyler and Producer Henry Blanke. Wyler was cheer-leader and frequent knot-untangler.

A Man About Manhattan—

By GEORGE TUCKER

The Story of the Old Lady Caught in the Louisiana 'War'

NEW YORK—Frank Fay is back in town with a fund of new stories. The one that gets the biggest laugh concerns the little old lady who found herself mixed up in the Louisiana maneuvers recently. She started to cross a bridge but was stopped by a sentry who shouted, "You can't cross that bridge; it's demolished!"

The little old lady stared at the bridge. "I don't see anything the matter with it." "It's demolished, I tell you," the soldier shouted. "You can't cross there."

In exasperation the old lady turned to another soldier and said, "It isn't really demolished, is it?" "Don't ask me, lady," the soldier said, "I've been dead three days."

I have been wondering when some smart band leader would capitalize on those "Modern Design" radio transcriptions that advertise a popular brand of cigarettes. You know, the one about on land—ta, da, ta, ta—ta, ta, in the air—Zuuuuuuuuuuuh; and on the seat—toot, toot, too-o-o-t. Eddie Cantor, Fred Allen and most of the radio comics have used it as a gag in their broadcasts. Comes now a new recording by Sammy Kaye entitled "Modern Design," a clever novelty, smoothly handled, with the land, air, and sea gag worked to perfection. I look for it to be one of the big winning novelties of the season.

Iowa City Weather Station Forecasts More Rain

Runway Construction Flooded at Airport; No Serious Setback

Creeks Swell, Cars Jam, Street Blocked; Damage Not Costly

Excavations for the new concrete runway now under construction at the municipal airport were flooded by the torrential downpour of rain which struck Iowa City yesterday afternoon, airport officials reported last night.

Full extent of the damages have not yet been determined, but officials said that it was unlikely that the work would receive any serious setback. It was believed that there were some washouts on grading recently completed. Machinery and equipment at the field were not harmed.

Although yesterday's rain caused some delay to motorists, no real disturbances had been reported last night. Attendants at the climatological weather station said that the city had received a total of 2.48 inches of precipitation yesterday.

Heaviest downpour occurred from 3:20 p.m. to 3:55 p.m. when 1.2 inches of rain fell in only 35 minutes. It was the most rain the city has had in recent weeks.

Kalston creek overflowed in several places and water in other creeks and ponds in this vicinity was reported to be almost over the banks. No information of any damaging overflows was received by the United States Weather bureau.

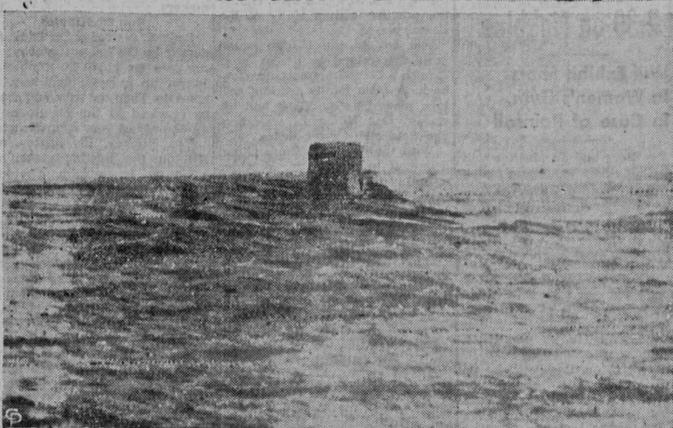

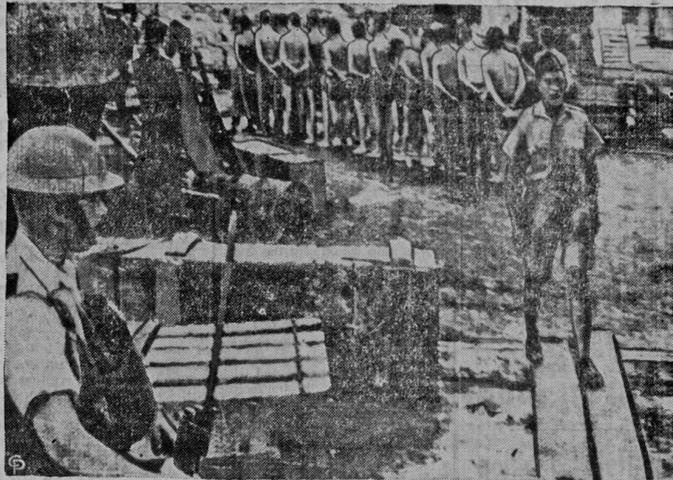

Early evening forecasts said that the rain probably would continue this morning and end sometime during the day.

The downpour taxed the facilities of the city sewers, but extra pumps carried most of the water to the river before it could back up. Several downtown department stores reported that water had choked up in basement sewers, but little damage was suffered.

Curb deep water under the viaduct over Iowa avenue stalled several cars and created a general traffic jam on the bridge. In spite of the rain, services of the bus lines were not seriously interrupted and highways were said to be in good condition.

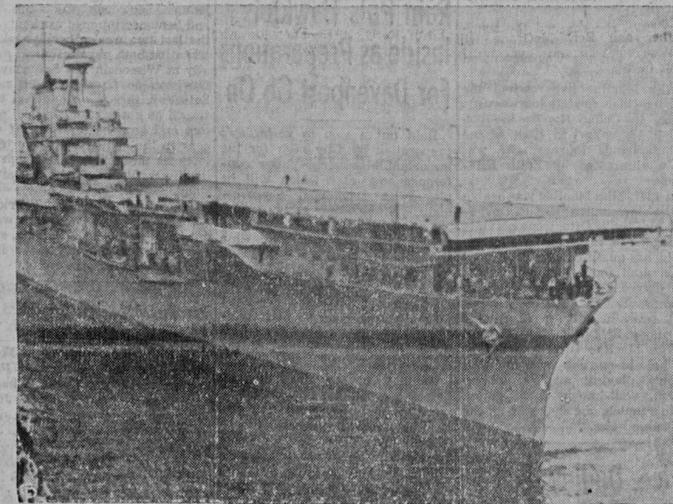

The 900 block on South Linn street was blocked for a time because of washout fear. No serious damage to roads and streets was reported, however.

Former University Hospital Employee—

Nursing in Salisbury England

—Likes the Country, Ready for Work

It's a long way from the comparative quiet of University hospital to adventurous service in England with the Red Cross-Harvard hospital unit, but Mary Black says she likes it and is ready to get to work.

Miss Black, former instrument nurse in General hospital, is now stationed at the Harvard field hospital, Salisbury, in southwest England.

As one of a group of 83 nurses comprising the American Red Cross Harvard hospital unit, she is the only one from Iowa. Her group was the last to sail for England and all have reached there safely.

She is employed in the admission and discharge departments of the hospital and will also have charge of the operating room.

Miss Black describes the hospital as having 22 "huts" in an unfinished state but with beautiful natural landscaping. Approximately 75 per cent of the building materials were shipped from the United States.

According to her letter (opened by examiner 612) to Grace Yackey, supervisor of the operating room in University hospital, Miss Black was still unpacking and invoicing instruments, a week after her arrival in England.

There is no resident surgeon, she states, but a physician is called in when need arises.

Looking back at the trip she said, "About all I can think of is the constant struggle with luggage. If I count correctly we moved it at least 69 times." Miss Black explained she was allowed "all she could carry"—which, she says, was only two bags.

After arriving in Boston from here, Miss Black did some historical sight-seeing "in case it should be her last visit there." Her embarkation point was 24 hours train ride from Boston and the addition of 17 extra cars made the trip a tedious one.

At the Canadian embarkation point, presumably Halifax, she joined a group of British subjects in singing "God Save the King" for the first time.

The ocean voyage was a pleasant surprise. The fighter she had anticipated, in reality, was a comfortable liner. The service was excellent even to the completeness of silver service for the "wonderful" meals.

Life preservers were worn by the group constantly and each had a bag packed for emergencies. Seats were reserved in the life boats. "I am not sure I would have jumped when I was supposed to," Miss Black indicated, "but it was a comfortable feeling to be wearing a life belt."

One evening the group discarded their life preservers while dancing. An alarm sounded and everyone rushed for the life boats, gathering warm clothing from their staterooms. It was found, however, that the signal only announced the closing of the ship's bar.

Reaching the British Isle Sept. 8, a significant incident in the train ride to London was the finding of a sprig of white heather on each berth—a good luck charm.

Of the train ride to London, Miss Black merely asked the question, "Have you ever tried to sleep on a third class English pullman?"

Her letter is void of descriptions of her impressions of England in regard to results of the war. How-

Linder vs. Alberhasky Verdict to Be Read in Open Court Today

Jury Takes 5 Hours To Reach Decision In $2,500 Damage Suit

After five hours deliberation, petit jurors returned a sealed verdict in the $2,500 Linder vs. Alberhasky damage suit at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. The verdict will be read in open court at 9 o'clock this morning.

Earlier in the day the jury of ten men and two women heard final arguments of attorneys and received the judge's instructions. They retired at 11:30 a. m. Judge James P. Gaffney presided.

The action concerns removal of buildings from a six-acre tract of land by Charles, Martha and Don Alberhasky, defendants, at the expiration of a lease with William Linder.

According to the petition, Linder alleged that the Alberhaskys left deep holes in the ground after moving the structures. For damage done to the property, Linder asked $750 from each of the defendants.

The case opened Monday in Johnson county district court. Jury members are: Geneva H. Libby, Albert Rossman, Grace

Gus Schrader Dies After Louisiana Race Crash

Iowa Dirt Driver, 46, Nationally Famous, Injured at State Fair

Wheels of Car Lock With Jim Wilburn's; Schrader Tossed Out

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Gus Schrader, 46, nationally known automobile race driver died in a sanitarium yesterday two hours after he was injured in a crash while competing at the Louisiana State fair.

Schrader's speedy little racer apparently locked wheels with one driven by Jimmy Wilburn. The cars spun in a cloud of dust and Schrader was thrown into the race track field. His car catapulted in the other direction over a 15-foot fence. Wilburn escaped injury.

Schrader, a native of Cedar Rapids, La., and Wilburn, were in close contest for the 1941 "World's Dirt Track Racing Championship," which is awarded on the basis of points scored at fairs and race programs throughout the summer and fall season.

Schrader's racing career began in 1921 on an Iowa circuit which included Williamsburg, Marengo, Independence, Cedar Rapids and other towns in this vicinity. The sport was popular then in the early twenties and thousands turned out for each race. Schrader also drove in motorcycle races then but later gave them up to turn exclusively to automobile racing.

An excellent mechanic before he turned driver, Schrader drew specifications for the famous Miller motor which brought him into the national spotlight in 1934. The motor, without magneto and carburetor, sold for $2,200—and had 220 horsepower.

Planned to Give Up Game After This Year

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Gus Schrader, widely known automobile racer from Cedar Rapids, had told friends here that he planned to give up racing at the end of this year's campaign. He had made plans to go deer hunting in Canada Friday.

Schrader had been seriously injured on two previous occasions. In 1926, he was thrown from a motorcycle while competing at the Anamosa fair race. In 1937, he was critically hurt in California. It was while convalescing in a hospital there that he met and later was married to his nurse, and the present Mrs. Schrader.

Schrader was driving hard this year on the southern tracks against Wilburn who was threatening his supremacy. Only three more victories would have insured his winning the world's championship for the ninth year.

Compiling one of the most brilliant records in the history of auto racing, Schrader, in 20 years, had won on an average of four of seven starts. He had driven in more than 1,100 races.

Schrader, who was 46 years old, was born at Newhall, Iowa. Surviving him, besides his wife, are three brothers, Emmett, Harry and Irving Schrader, all of Newhall, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Schrader, now of Vinton.

His father died in 1923.

Creighton Cagers Play Long Island On 18-Game Garden Schedule Jan. 3

NEW YORK (AP)—Eighteen doubleheaders, bringing into action 24 teams from every section of the country with eight metropolitan fives, make up the schedule announced yesterday for the eighth season of college basketball in Madison Square garden.

The garden court season also will include the golden jubilee tournament matching four A.A.U. teams, Nov. 19 and 24, and the fifth national invitational intercollegiate tourney at the end of the regular college season.

Six of the 24 invading teams will be making their first appearance in the garden, where more than 300,000 fans saw 17 doubleheaders last year. They include, West Texas State; Creighton, Missouri Valley champs last season; Wyoming, winner of the Big Seven title; Oregon State, highly regarded on the west coast; La Salle of Philadelphia and Colgate.

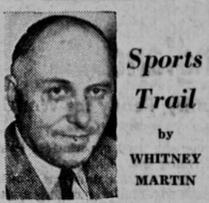

Creighton will play Long Island on Jan. 3. Notre Dame will oppose New York university on Feb. 14.

Feller Place in Class A-1

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bob Feller, ace pitcher with the Cleveland Indians, last night was placed in class 1-A by his local selective service board.

Wayne L. Thompson, secretary of board No. 20, said Feller's order number is 2857 and that it "will be a long time before he will have to go."

"We have no calls for November and there are a lot of 1-A men ahead of Feller," he said.

Craig Wood Will Net $60,000 by Winning Open Championship

NEW YORK (The Special News Service)—Hey there, bottleneck, how much money do you think Craig Wood will make out of his national open golf title for the fiscal year?

Twenty thousand dollars, you say. Come, come, don't be a piker. You guess worse than a football expert. Multiply a little and you might hit it.

That's right, $60,000. Sixty thousand big, round dollars is more like it, and that may be conservative. Hard to believe, isn't it? But here are some facts and figures kneaded together by Freddy Corcoran, the P.G.A. tournament manager who knows about such things.

Open Started It

"Start with the open," Corcoran explains. "He got a $2,500 company bonus for winning that. He has competed in eight tournaments, with a $500 appearance check for each. His prize money for the tournaments, counting the $1,000 for the open, totals about $5,000."

"He has engaged in 20 exhibitions, at an average of $250 each. We can figure he has received $2,500 for endorsements, and around $2,000 for a movie. He won $2,500 in a challenge match with Vic Ghezzi, P.G.A. champion.

"Let's see, that's $26,000 already earned, and he's only had the title about five months, with the winter program ahead of him. He has 30 more exhibitions lined up between now and late in November, at $250 more each. On top of that you can add an estimated $10,000 more for his affiliation with the Winged Foot club and a sporting goods company, and maybe another $10,000 for his connection down south next winter. He may winter in Miami."

"All in all, I'd say $60,000 was a cheap estimate for the 12-month period after winning the open. And they thought he was optimistic when he said he expected to make $25,000 out of it. He'll cash in better than anyone else since Johnny Farrell back in the twenties, not counting Bob Jones and his movies, of course."

Several factors dovetailed to make the title a gold mine for the handsome blond from Maramoneck.

"In the first place," Corcoran says, "he's a great champion. He's the people's choice. Here was a fellow supposed to be past his peak who came through. You know, Americans live in the past. Why is Freddy Fitzsimmons so popular? Because he's an old timer who is in there pitching."

"People like to say: 'Gee, I remember seeing Craig Wood play back in 1925.' If Hagen could come back it would be wonderful. The fans love the sight of an old-timer making good."

Craig Is the Best

"Then too, Craig is smooth, and sincere, and keeps his word. If he said he'd meet you at 6 o'clock in the morning, he'd be there at six. He's never been late for an exhibition. I've known him to sit up for hours in the wee hours of a foggy morning in an airport on the chance that a plane would leave so he could fulfill an engagement. And a charity engagement at that. He's probably been playing more charity matches than any other pro, about one a week, I'd say."

"He's a grand guy, a real gentleman. And a soft touch. He and Jimmy Demarest probably are the most generous with caddies, and I could tell you other things about his big heart, but I know he'd rather I wouldn't."

He is a good business man, too. He brought the exhibition guarantee back to golf. Hagen and Sarazen used to demand it. Craig told the board of governors of his club that he would ask $250 guarantees, and if he couldn't get them, he'd be right on the tee at Winged Foot giving lessons. Well, he hasn't had any trouble getting them. He's the people's choice, and there's no question about it."

And, as we remarked once before, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

It'll Be Tough for Don Snively to Forget

Headed for All-American Honors at Columbia, Career Curtailed by Knee Injury

NEW YORK (AP)—It is going to be tough for Don Snively, 21, to forget the disaster that struck him Tuesday when Coach Lou Little shook his head and said "No more football, son," for Snively almost certainly was headed for a place on this year's all-America eleven.

But the boy from Massillon, Ohio, already was in there trying to fill up that hollow feeling yesterday as he limped about the halls of Columbia university and poured into his studies with a new determination. His eyes behind heavy horned rim glasses held only a suspicion of moisture as he discussed his misfortune.

All-America Choice

"That's the biggest disappointment, of course—the thought that I might have been all-America center," he said. "Maybe there was a chance, too, because our publicity department was giving me a lot of good breaks, and so was Mr. Little."

"You were helping a little yourself, Don," Coach Little interrupted. "All I said was that you were the greatest center I ever had." "Anyway," said Snively, "it would have been nice to have been only the second all-America from Massillon after all the great players we've had there. Ed Molinski of Tennessee was the other one. You know, we lost only one out of 60 straight games, and that was the only game I missed in high school. It was this same knee," he said, thumping the plaster cast.

Hurt First Game

This was to have been Snively's biggest year, but his knee was hurt after only three minutes of the opening game against Brown. When it went bad again in practice, the first of this week. Coach Little called it quits.

Track Meet Today

Weather and track conditions permitting, the second half of the all-university track meet will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock. In case of postponement the events will be run off Tuesday, Oct. 28. Today's scheduled events include the 100-yard dash, 110-yard hurdles, 880-yard run, discus, javelin and high jump.

Wolves Work on Passes

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's Wolverines, mindful of what passes did for them against Northwestern, worked longer at the aerial phase of the game yesterday than at any workout this season.

De Correvont Hospitalized

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Bill De Correvont, star Northwestern halfback, was in Evanston hospital last night with what was described as a slight touch of flu. He was expected to be released in a day or two and probably will play against Ohio State Saturday.

the ends, once regarded as weak. The result was that Joe Rogers and Harlin (Whitey) Fraumann removed most of those cares with their Northwestern exhibition.

Nine-Hole Exhibition At 2:30 on Finkbine

Will Exhibit Shots In Women's Gym, In Case of Rainfall

Patty Berg and Jo MacRae will play a nine-hole exhibition match against Helen Dettweiler and Ann Casey on Finkbine field at 2:30 p.m. today. The foursome will also give a shot demonstration at 1:15 on the women's hockey field.

In case of rain, the four women will give an exhibition in the women's gym at 1:15. This exhibition will take the place of both the scheduled shot demonstration and the game to be played on Finkbine.

Rain or shine, there will be no admission charge. Jo MacRae, A3 of Ames, has played in six state tournaments for the Iowa women's championship title. With the exception of the state tourney at Okoboji in 1936, the first year she played in a tournament, Miss MacRae qualified with an 85 or below.

In every tournament she entered, she has qualified in the championship final. In 1937, she reached the semifinals of the state tournament in Waterloo, but she was eliminated by Edith Estabrook.

Miss MacRae has reached the quarter-finals in state tournaments twice, in Cedar Rapids in 1939 and in Davenport in 1941. At the Cedar Rapids tourney, she was again eliminated by Edith Estabrook.

In 1941, Miss MacRae was beaten in the state tournament in Davenport by Phyllis Otto, women's state champion in 1940.

She has qualified twice in Trans-Mississippi tournaments. In 1939, she played against Patty Berg in Minneapolis. In 1940, she qualified seventh with a 79 in the tourney at St. Louis.

Miss MacRae is very proud of the hole-in-one she made in Cedar Rapids playing against Johnny Vavra, well-known Iowa golfer. In this match, she shot a 34 on the first nine holes.

Price, Dudley Duel For Nation's Honors

SEATTLE (AP)—The battle between Bill Dudley of Virginia and Johnny Grigas of Holy Cross for rushing honors, and emergence of a new forward passing leader featured this week's American football statistical bureau compilations on the nation's gridiron performers.

Dudley, third team All-American last year, topped the country's ground gainers for the third straight week in total offense—gains rushing and passing. He's amassed 825 yards in five games.

In rushing alone, however, he dropped from first to second as Grigas moved far ahead with 482 yards in four games and 91 tries, while Dudley gained 376 ground yards in 74 tries.

The new passing leader is Owen Price of Texas Mines, who last year was the nation's leading punter. Price still ranks among the top 10 punters this year with a 41-yard average, but he put on an aerial display in Los Angeles against Loyola last week that was a whizzer, although his team lost.

U-High Passing Hopes For West Branch Tiff Dampened by Rainfall

Coach Paul Brechler's hopes for a U-high aerial attack Friday evening were dampened by a down-pour of rain which sent the Blue-hawks into the gymnasium instead of to the grid field.

The Bluehawks' entire offense against West Branch will depend upon the weather. Against the powerful, fast Bear aggregation, the Rivermen expect to open up with a barrage of passes and trick plays, which will be ineffective and dangerous if the field is wet and slippery.

Every Type of Suit

In every type of clothing except a football suit, the Bluehawks ran through a brief signal drill, ending the practice with a study of the Bears' plays.

The boy of the U-high squad most determined to defeat West Branch is Gene Rummels, quarterback. A little family feuding will take place between Gene and his cousin, Don Rummels, who is a backfield man for the Bears.

With the return of Capt. Glenn Stimmel to the lineup, Brechler is optimistic on the substituting angle. With Stimmel playing left tackle, Bill Helm is left free to substitute for this position. This permits Stimmel to move back to his old position of fullback if necessary, so that Jack Shay can fill any other backfield vacancy which might arise.

First Team Lineup

Rain Puts Hawklets Inside as Preparations for Davenport Go On

Rain put a stop to yesterday's preparation by City high for the important Mississippi Valley conference encounter which will be played at Davenport tomorrow night.

Coach Herb Cormack held a session in the gym where the Blue Devils power was discussed, along with Iowa City's possible scoring threats. An offensive team wearing Davenport numbers was lined up and ran through its plays, giving the regulars a chance to look over the powerful attack of the Blue Devils.

Tonight, in the final practice before the tilt, the Hawklets will work on pass offense and defense, tapering off with a signal drill.

Both Iowa City and Davenport will enter the game undefeated. The Little Hawks have appeared six times so far this season without a defeat; Davenport five times.

Intramural Play Stopped; Games to Be Played Off Tomorrow or Saturday

Intramural touch football came to a standstill yesterday afternoon as torrential rains washed out all scheduled games. Postponed contests will be played off either tomorrow or Saturday afternoons.

Teams scheduled to have played are:

- Class A Fraternity Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Phi Kappa Psi
- Quadrangle Upper D vs. Lower A (two)
- Upper B vs. Upper C (two)
- Lower B vs. Lower A (two)
- Co-operative Dorms Jefferson vs. Dean
- Whetstone vs. Wilson

Games scheduled for this afternoon are:

- Class B Fraternity Beta Theta Pi vs. Sigma Chi (field 1)
- Delta Phi Fraternity Phi Delta Phi vs. Theta Tau (field 8)
- Alpha Chi Sigma vs. Delta Theta Phi (field 6)

Under the new intramural rules this year, professional fraternities are playing in a separate league, although in previous years they have been classed with the social fraternities.

Take 20-Minute Drill In Rain to Loosen Up

Team Sees Pictures Of 1940 Purdue Tilt; Lineup Remains Intact

That two-week-old bugaboo of wet weather finally overtook Iowa's football squad yesterday and smothered it completely. The regular afternoon workout was rained out, and only one full day of heavy practice is left before the Purdue game Saturday.

With the Hawks resting from last week's Wisconsin tussle on Monday, and a limited workout Tuesday because of the sloppy practice field, yesterday's cancellation put a real crimp in the preparation plans for the Boiler-makers.

Run 20 Minutes

Instead, yesterday Dr. Eddie Anderson let the squad run around in the rain for about 20 minutes, to loosen up muscles and keep the wind up. Then the team and coaches repaired to the classroom for movies of last year's Purdue game.

Ben Trickey, his broken nose still in the healing stage, was again not in uniform. The team trainers are making a masked helmet for him, and the little signal caller will undoubtedly see action Saturday at Lafayette.

Anderson's proposed starting lineup of three newcomers and eight veterans remained the same, with John Staak, 220-pound sophomore tackle; Bill Stauss, hard-plunging junior fullback, and Hank Vollenweider, speedy senior right half, holding down first-team positions. At ends were Bill Parker and Bill Burkett, at the other tackle Jim Walker, at guards Gene Curran and Ross Anderson, at center Capt. Bill Diehl, at quarter A1 Coupee and at left half Tom Farmer.

Chances Look Good

Whether the continual lack of work will hinder or help the Hawks in their preparation for Purdue, is only a matter of conjecture. However, the team has had heavy scrimmage workouts for the last two weeks, besides taking a beating both physically and morally at Wisconsin last Saturday. If the boys do no more work until Saturday, there's no question that they'll be hungry for physical contact and anxious to work off energy in the game. But if the team loses its physical tone through its inactivity, it may be a different story.

The squad will leave Friday morning on the 9:15 Rocket, work out in Chicago that afternoon, stay there that night, and move into Lafayette Saturday morning.

Purdue Works On Kicking, Defense

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Football Coach Mal Ewald put Purdue university's sophomore backfield and veteran fullback John Petty through a long kicking drill in scrimmage yesterday and had the Boiler-makers work on a defense against Iowa plays. Purdue meets the Hawklets here Saturday.

"We'll have to show even more than we did in the second half against Ohio State," said Ewald, "if we're going to be on the long end of the score."

Armbruster Seeks New Breast Stroke Material

"We need breaststroke material and I'm not kidding," Coach Dave Armbruster said yesterday. The Hawk tank coach's worries this year are concerned mainly with this division, since veteran George Poulos graduates at the end of the semester and no capable successor has as yet presented himself.

"Anyone interested in swimming and who can swim the breaststroke at all, even if it's only 20 feet, is welcome to come out," Armbruster said. "Some fellows aren't confident enough in their own ability, but conditioning and a little coaching can make a big improvement in any swimmer."

Prospects may come out anytime between 3:30 and 6 p.m.

Cochrane Joins Navy

NEW YORK (AP)—Freddie (Red) Cochrane, 26, world's welterweight boxing champion, is in the navy now. He passed the physical examination at recruiting headquarters yesterday and will report Oct. 28 to the Newport training station as a boatswain's mate, first class, in the naval reserve. He will serve as a physical training instructor.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE HAWKS, YOU ASK"

Frankly, we don't know what's the matter with Iowa, except for the fact that we've had a bunch of tough breaks. But we do know this much, the spirit of Iowa isn't doing much to help those Hawklets over the tough spots. Instead of getting out to cheer them on, the student body is sitting passively by watching its own team try to struggle out of it alone.

What's going to be done about it? Well, how about getting together tonight in front of Old Capitol about 7:30? Maybe some band members will bring their instruments. Maybe a few football players will be there to tell you all about it. Maybe we'll have some spirit in this school, and MAYBE WE'LL BEAT PURDUE SATURDAY!

Vogel Drills Fielders Hard Chasing Flies

Coach Otto Vogel has been sending the outfielders on the Iowa baseball squad through extensive drills in order that they might have as much practice as possible before the fall sessions close.

Although the squad will practice in the field house during the winter months, the outfielders will be forced to confine their activities to throwing, and to fielding ground balls.

Recent drills for the outfielders have consisted mainly of fly ball hits over their heads, and line drives. Throwing has occupied little of the time because of the cool weather.

Those outfielders who have been practicing include Ray Koehn, Harold Lind, Harry Rinkema, Bud Flinders, Max Landes, and George Knight. However, Knight has been alternating between the infield and outfield, and Landes has seen some action with the pitchers.

Japanese Say U.S. Seeking Siberian Bases

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese press charged with growing wrath today that the United States was seeking Siberian bases for use against Japan, and warned that "Siberia belongs to Asia."

Most outspoken was the newspaper Hoshi, which said the United States was pushing her military bases toward Japan step by step and asked whether the nation should keep quiet in the face of British-American attempts to "enslave a great number of Asiatics in Siberia as well as its enormous natural resources."

A Hoshi article by Denzo Hiratake said American supplies were being unloaded at northern Siberian ports whence transportation to the European front would be impossible.

"The United States doesn't care whether the supplies actually reach the Soviet fighting front," said Hiratake. "She is interested in getting military bases in far-eastern Russia."

He pointed out that Tokyo was

INTERPRETING—

winter warfare. Hitler's steel-shod and self-powered war machine has won its great victories elsewhere between spring and fall. It is untested under such fighting conditions as even an average Russian winter would hold.

There is no doubt now that Hitler's orders were to smash Russia before the on-set of winter insulated her against panzer lightning strokes. He was reported to have set a time schedule of six weeks but this has dragged out four full months.

He is paying the price now before Moscow for that delay. Russian morale has absorbed stunning disasters along a 2,000 mile front and is still unshaken from Murmansk to Leningrad, to Moscow, to Rostov.

Attack All But Bugged Down
That the attack has all but bogged down, even on the Mozhaik-Maloyaroslavets sector west of the city, where the nazis have dented the road defense front deeply, seems certain. No new zones of action in the Moscow battle have been mentioned by either Moscow or Berlin for nearly a week except that the Russians speak of German feeler attempts northeast of Orel.

It is along the rise of the Oka river and its tributaries in the Orel sector that the Russians seem to have massed sufficient force to halt the southern pincer arm of the nazis forces which sought to encircle Moscow. And if the nazis cannot turn the south flank of the Mozhaik - Maloyaroslavets front from Orel, it appears that only by costly frontal attack can the main road to Moscow from the west, the road of Napoleon via Smolensk-Mozhaik, be opened.

Some London observers believe that is coming, backed by rumored new nazi mass troop concentrations at Roslavl and Smolensk, far to the west. Winter's skirmishers are moving in over the whole terrain of the Moscow battle, however, to make frontal assault difficult. And it is still to the south, on the Donets basin, that Hitler's headquarters centers German public attention.

Fact-Finding Board Ends Public Hearing Of Railroad Dispute

CHICAGO (AP)—A special fact-finding board appointed by President Roosevelt to investigate the national railroad wage dispute concluded its public hearings late yesterday.

The five members of the board have been listening to testimony of the contending parties since Sept. 16. The record of their inquiry now covers 7,000 typewritten pages and adds up to about 1,500,000 words, not including the texts of 320 exhibits.

Under the railway labor act, the board had until midnight Oct. 31 to make its report to the president. Chairman Wayne Lyman Morse announced yesterday, however, that because of a death in the family of one of its members, Joseph H. Willits, Mr. Roosevelt had granted extension to midnight, Nov. 5.

Morse said the board now planned to remain in Chicago until it had completed its deliberations and drawn up its recommendations. The report to the president is the last process provided by the labor act to forestall a railroad strike. No provision exists for enforcement of the board's recommendations, reliance being placed entirely on the force of public opinion.

In the concluding arguments yesterday, J. Carter Fort, Chief counsel for railroad management, told the board:

"I think that the underlying fact of greatest significance here perhaps is that the railroad industry is the greatest industry in the country. It is the one industry that makes all other industry possible. It has been threatened for many years, and it is threatened now."

In another argument, touching upon the demands of workers for vacations, George Harrison, chief of the railway clerks union, asserted that the railroads depended to a large extent on the vacation industry for part of its revenue.

"They encourage people to take vacations, yet they deny vacations to their own workers," he said. "It's inconsistent."

Harrison's union and 13 others in the non-operating group, embracing about 900,000 workers, have asked for wage increases of from 30 to 34 cents an hour. The 360,000 men in the five big operating unions want a flat 30 percent increase in their basic rates of pay.

'Iowa Navy Day' Will Be Celebrated Next Monday

Gov. George A. Wilson has proclaimed the birthday of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Monday, Oct. 27, to be Iowa Navy Day in commemoration of his efforts toward building up the United States Navy.

"The navy," Governor Wilson said, "is that part of ourselves which we project into every sea and all harbors to emphasize the spirit of brotherhood by which our nation has become great and powerful."

The governor urged that all Iowa give Navy Day over to contemplation, in an earnest effort at understanding the rule of the navy in making a nation respected around the world.

Second Baconian Lecture to Be Held Tonight

Dr. Philip C. Jeans To Discuss Concepts Of Childhood Nutrition

Dr. Philip C. Jeans, head of the department of pediatrics, will discuss "Certain Concepts of Childhood Nutrition" at the second Baconian lecture of the year tonight at 7:30 in senate chamber, Old Capitol.

Dr. Jeans has been carrying on experimental work in pediatrics at Iowa for the past 17 years. Before that time, he served as head of pediatrics at Washington university, St. Louis, Mo.

He took his undergraduate work at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan., and received his M.D. degree from Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md. After finishing his medical training, he was associated with hospitals in Hartford, Conn., and Boston, Mass.

The committee on food and nutrition of the national research council has asked Dr. Jeans to experiment with certain aspects of childhood nutrition, their purpose being to acquire necessary information for the establishment of dietary reforms throughout the country. Most of his present work at the Children's hospital is being done in compliance with this request.

Early last year, the national research council published a list of the various foods essential for good health and it caused a great deal of controversy among nutritional experts.

The list stated the minimum amount of vitamin D necessary for good health as 400 units. This assertion was based on an experiment conducted by Dr. Jeans last year in which he showed that 350 units of vitamin D daily for babies was sufficient for proper growth.

However, at the insistence of other government agencies, but not based on scientific experiment, the maximum quantity necessary was given 800 units. Dr. Jeans' major project this year, therefore, is to determine whether or not such a large amount of the vitamin is better than the amount which he has proved sufficient.

Dr. Jeans is co-author of "Pre-pubescent Syphilis" and "Essentials of Pediatrics." He is now re-writing "Infant Nutrition," published several years ago by the late William McKim Marriott.

In his lecture tonight, Dr. Jeans will discuss false ideas in regard to childhood feeding and the changing concepts resulting from recent experimental studies.

The lecture will be open to the general public.

DR. PHILIP C. JEANS

The name of the country was officially changed to Thailand a few years ago when a revolution changed the government from absolutism to democracy. The term "thailand" means "free people," the speaker pointed out.

Dr. Barnes explained several reasons why Thailand is of military importance in the present situation: it is an independent country acting as a buffer between British and French possessions; it helps to guard Singapore, one of the most important shipping points in the world today; the country has many undeveloped natural resources; Thailand is the rice granary of the world, and in the northern part of the country lies the Burma road, life-line of China.

The speaker concluded by pointing out geographical factors making it difficult for an invading army to make any progress into the interior of Thailand.

"It's a pity that Siam (Thailand) has been forced into the front line in a war like this," declared Dr. M. E. Barnes of the university college of medicine yesterday at the Lions club luncheon meeting.

"It is only a little country whose civilization goes back to the time of Abraham. It is not interested in war, but now we can only hope that some way can be found to halt Japanese progress in Siam," the speaker said.

Dr. Barnes' subject was "Problems of Siam in Relation to the Present War Situation." He has spent 10 years in public health work with the Siamese sponsored

Lecturer Discusses New Health Program With U.W.A. Group

"The majority of students are malnourished rather than undernourished in cases of imperfect health," said Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, Johnson county chairman of nutrition, as she addressed U.W.A. council yesterday afternoon.

She went on to explain that although 98 per cent of the colleges were offering a perfect diet, it was found upon investigation that actually only 52 per cent of the diet was being consumed.

Although the University of Iowa ranks high nationally in health, the majority of men students are not in perfect health according to records.

"Interest was first focused on the national nutrition problem when draft examinations were begun. The government found many cases of poor health were due to carelessness in choice of foods," continued Mrs. Hubbard.

The need of a health program on the Iowa campus was discussed and suggestions made by council members following the lecture.
