Administration Acts on Celebrations---

AND LEAVES THE DOOR WIDE OPEN FOR A NEW KIND OF VITAL STUDENT-FACULTY COOPERATION

The university has taken a stand on this issue of football attendance. After the game against Iowa last year, attendance might have been expected to take

The fact that they were not was not only understandable, but necessary. Any other kind of policy would demand the closure of the stadium.

The celebrations of those two years won't matter much. They should mean more students going to the games and joining in the spirit of the great times. There was nothing to do but make the best we could. Property was stumped in a spirit which filled the stadium and the streets with a prison-like void that all, those performances weren't very success-

Naturally no university will stand by and watch riots against certain groups which should be taken in reasonable order. Some kind of action is necessary if vandalism activity makes it necessary. This has been the case.

It may seem wrong that this declaration of policy should come in the middle of the year, when there have been so many important events in the world. But the year is only just beginning, and certainly last year, we can understand this discussion of policy and the means behind it.

The celebration of those two years won't matter much. They should mean more students going to the games and joining in the spirit of the great times. There was nothing to do but make the best we could. Property was stumped in a spirit which filled the stadium and the streets with a prison-like void that all, those performances weren't very success-

Coach Herb Cormack Prepares Hawkeyes For Franklin Tilt

The old weather denied any national attention to the battle of the Big Ten grids for the final conference game of the year. But there will be another night at Breeder Field against the Wildcats as Coach Bob Bracken continued the campaign to build up the home team in preparation for Franklin Tilt. Even though the Hawkeyes have had an up and down season, they have been working on their team to prepare for the challenge of this game. The team has been working hard to prepare for the challenge of this game.
