'No Labor Leader to Stop U.S. Production'--Roosevelt; Names Berlin 'Slave Market of World'

Representatives of 35 Nations Applaud F.R. In Full Commitment

'Full Sacrifices' Now Or 'Real Sacrifices' When It's Too Late

WASHINGTON (AP)—While representatives of 35 nations applauded, President Roosevelt pledged yesterday that no "misguided" industrialist or labor leader shall prevail against America's defense production and its "unlimited commitment that there shall be a free world."

Warning that the United States was prepared to go all the way to bring about Hitler's downfall, the chief executive told the final session of the international labor office conference that this country must make "full sacrifices" now or "real sacrifices" when it is too late.

The president spoke from the mirrored and red-draped east room of the white house before 250 delegates to the conference established by the league of nations to improve the standard of living of workers the world over. His words were broadcast over three networks and to every other nation by shortwave.

Repeatedly the delegates broke into applause, their first when Mr. Roosevelt, speaking directly to representatives of occupied lands, asked them to transmit this pledge to their people.

"You have not been forgotten; you will not be forgotten."

The president also struck out against a few "misguided" industrialists and leaders of labor who, he said, think only of profits and "deliberately delay defense output by using their economic power to force acceptance of their demands, rather than use the established machinery for the mediation of industrial disputes."

"Yes, they are but few," he said, measuring his words. "They do not represent the great mass of American workers and employers. The American people have made an unlimited commitment that there shall be a free world. Against that commitment, no individual or group shall prevail."

He asserted that labor under the nazi system had become the "slave of the military state," that Berlin was the "principal slave-market of the world," and that Germany had imported 2,000,000 foreign civilian laborers to replace nazi workers shipped to the front.

Russians Crush Nazi Moscow Drive; Say Hitler Has Failed

KUIBYSHEV, Russia (AP)—The red army was reported last night to be pressing a major counter-attack on the right wing of the Moscow defense in the direction of Volokolamsk, advancing as much as three miles at one point and throwing a large German force into retreat.

Military dispatches said that the German 10th tank division, and the 69th and 89th mechanized regiments were falling back, leaving positions after position in the hands of the Russians.

The pressure of combined infantry, cavalry, artillery and air force attacks was said to be forcing the German retreat. The area of the most intense fighting was some 65 miles northwest of Moscow.

The Russians launched the counter-attack at 10 a.m. Tuesday, the dispatches said. The red troops were reported to have continued the advance after occupying a number of towns.

Finnish Radio Says Active War Against Russia Nearing End

Admits Impossibility Of Fixing Frontiers Until Ultimate Peace

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—"Military operations are drawing to a close as far as our country is concerned," the Finnish radio announced last night.

"It is realized that our frontiers cannot finally be determined until the coming peace conference," the announcer added.

(U.S. Secretary of State Hull said on Nov. 3 that he had told Finnish Minister Hjalmar J. Procope that the United States had learned Russia was prepared to discuss peace with territorial compensation for Finland.)

The United States demanded Monday that Finland get out of the war beside Germany against Russia or forfeit American friendship.

Wednesday this drew from the newspaper Sanomat the observation that the United States was thus seeking to open the Murmansk railroad to British-American supplies and release the Russian forces engaged by the Finns.

A Finnish spokesman Wednesday denied reports of demonstrations in Helsinki and clashes of crowds and police.

(The BBC had reported 21 persons were arrested after a strong anti-German demonstration and that the socialist minister of trade, Vaino Tanner, was asked by his party to withdraw support from the cabinet because of the continuing war.)

The text of the radio announcement said:

"Military operations are drawing to a close as far as our country is concerned."

"Even though war goes on between great powers, Finland will not carry on any longer than is necessary for her own safety and defense while it is realized that our frontiers cannot finally be determined until the coming peace conference."

F.R. Throws Lease-Lend Coffers Open to Russia

This Central Press map shows the objectives of the newest German push—the Black sea ports of Sevastopol (1), Novorossiisk (2) and Batum (3). Sevastopol and Novorossiisk have been subjected to heavy air bombings, Berlin claims. Sevastopol and the city of Kerch are reported already under shell fire of German land armies. The attacks on Sevastopol and Novorossiisk are forcing the Russian fleet to face air attacks at Batum or split up among the many small bays of the Caucasian coast.

Grants Soviets Billion Dollars Without Interest, to Fight Hitler

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt threw the vast lease-lend coffers of the United States open to Russia last night, granting the Soviets a $1,000,000,000 credit, without interest, to buy weapons to battle Hitler.

The announcement came unexpectedly from the state department which made public correspondence in which Joseph Stalin thanked Mr. Roosevelt for this "unusually substantial aid" in the "great struggle against our common enemy, blood-thirsty Hitlerism."

The great loan was announced only a few hours after it became known that Maxim Litvinoff, former Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, had been taken off the political shelf in Russia, and named ambassador to the United States.

Defenders of Crimea Retreat to Mountains, Nazi Officials Assert

Germans, Rumanians Pierce Russian Lines To Reach Black Sea

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BERLIN—Russia's Crimean defenders retired into the fastness of the 80-mile-long Yaila mountain range last night, pursued by German and Rumanian troops "who defeated isolated forces and pushed through on a broad front to the Black sea coast between Yalta and Feodosiya," the German high command announced.

"In the mountains east of Sevastopol the only resistance also is broken," the communique added.

For still another day German reports focused attention on the Crimea. Other eastern operations were mentioned only in the report of a light air attack on Moscow, on Gorki, 250 miles to the east and on Leningrad in the northwest.

The southern Crimea was described as a hopelessly entangled Russian flight, and the impression was given that the mountain cleanup would be a short operation preceding a major German swing eastward toward the Caucasus.

But these same dispatches admitted that the Yaila mountain extending from Sevastopol on the west almost to Feodosiya in the east were honeycombed with entrenched Russians.

Dive-bombers ripped these forces both with bombs and machine-gun fire, the Germans said.

"There remains," he asserted, "practically no escape from the Crimea by land. Nor is escape by sea easy."

In the mountains east of Sevastopol, the Germans said a Russian unit was trapped and wiped out, but the high command gave no hint as to how close the Germans were either to that vital port or to Kerch, the eastern bridgehead to the Caucasus.

It was assumed that Litvinoff's mission would be to strive for greater aid for his country. Whether he would urge more active aid than credits was not immediately known, although Stalin, in an address yesterday, attributed Russia's setbacks at the hands of the nazis to the fact that Great Britain or the United States had not opened a second front in Europe.

Finns to Cease Fighting
Even as the credit to Russia was being announced, there were indications that another United States move on behalf of that country was producing effect. The Finnish radio proclaimed that "military operations are drawing to a close as far as our country is concerned."

If the Finns actually do cease hostilities against Russia it will be in line with a recent appeal by the state department, which cautioned Finland that unless it stopped offensive operations it would forfeit the friendship of the United States.

Move Unexpected
The credit to Russia was unexpected in that officials had not previously disclosed they were ready to aid that nation under the lease-lend act. While the recently enacted second lease-lend appropriation, amounting to $5,985,000,000, was pending, some critics of administration foreign policy spoke of writing in a clause to prohibit using any of the funds for Russia.

Successfully Opposed
Administration men successfully opposed this, on the ground that while there was no intention then to use the funds for that purpose, the government's hands should not be tied.

Navy Revises Casualty List

Reuben James Losses Reported to Be 100 Officers and Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—The navy, still checking and rechecking the list of casualties and survivors on the torpedoed destroyer Reuben James, reported last night that its records showed 100 officers and men were lost.

The navy department announced that Edward Peter Saltis of 410 East Ninth Street, Staunton, Ill., was a member of the crew of the torpedoed destroyer and that his name had been added to the list of dead. He was a boatswain's mate, first class.

The addition was the third revision in the casualty-survivor list. The changes raised from 122 to 125 the total of army and navy men who have lost their lives in the battle of the Atlantic. The total dead in the Reuben James torpedoed alone was placed at 100, the total of survivors at 45 and the total of the ship's company at 145 compared with 142 previously reported.

Japanese Press Warns Army May Strike At Burma Road to Cut Off U.S. Supplies

Nipponese Diplomat En Route to Meet With U.S. Leaders

HONGKONG (AP)—Saburo Kurusu, special Japanese envoy to the United States, left here early today for San Francisco and Washington via Manila by clipper plane.

Kurusu, accompanied by a secretary, arrived at this British crown colony from the Portuguese port of Macau, near Hongkong, and immediately transferred to the clipper, which had been held for him.

At Tokyo, meantime, the Japan Times and Advertiser, foreign office organ, declared that Japan's patience has "reached the point of exhaustion" and her army may strike next at the Burma road to cut off American supplies to China unless the United States comes to terms with her special envoy.

"There is always the possibility, even the probability of a direct march on the Burma road," the editorial said, "to force America to abandon what is tantamount to direct military operations against Japan at the expense of the American people."

Kurusu's trip by plane across the Pacific was described as "a last opportunity (for the United States) to make amends for aggression and restore the occasion for an amicable settlement."

The Times and Advertiser's hint of possible forthcoming operations by Japanese forces based in French Indo-China was accompanied by a declaration that "there is every hope that force will not be necessary. But Japan is prepared for any eventualities."

When and how Japan's troops move "are matters for the high command," it added but asserted that once such an expedition is undertaken, "America's choice between letting Chungking down or keeping Chungking up would be solved automatically, for it could not assist Chiang Kai-Shek's party if the sole remaining major avenue of supply were cut."

"Perhaps it would be appreciated by peace groups in the United States if Japan were to block the Burma road, putting an end to American large-scale intervention in China. Chungking then could not blame the United States for abandonment of lease-lend aid so far as the Chiang party is concerned."

Leaders of Senate Bloc Opposing Neutrality Revision Agree to Abandon Filibustering

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the senate bloc opposing neutrality revision held a strategy meeting late yesterday, decided to abandon any idea of filibustering against the pending legislation and reported they might consent to a final senate vote by nightfall today.

Attending the conference were Senators Wheeler (D-Mont), LaFollette (Prog-Wis), Nye (R-ND), Clark (D-Mo) and Bilbo (D-Miss). Wheeler, spokesman for the group,

Stalin Flays Democracies for Not Invading Continent

'U.S. to Blame for Red Defeats'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LONDON (AP)—Russia's setbacks at the hands of the German army were laid by Premier Joseph Stalin yesterday primarily to the fact that no second front had been opened up in Europe by Great Britain—or the United States.

"What is the cause of the temporary lack of success of the red army?" Stalin inquired in a speech broadcast to the world by the Moscow radio. Then he said:

"One of the causes is definite lack of a second front in Europe against the German fascists."

"The matter is that at the present time on the European continent there are no armies of Great Britain or the United States conducting war against the German fascist armies."

"Therefore, the Germans need not divide their forces to conduct a war on two fronts—on the west and in the east. This situation enabled the Germans to send all the forces of their European allies to the east against the Soviet Union, because they consider their rear secure in the west."

"This situation is such that our country leads a war of liberation alone against the united strength of the Germans, Rumanians, Italians, Finns and Hungarians."

"With enough of these, he said confidently, "the red army would have defeated the German army long ago."

Already 4,500,000 of the invaders have been killed, wounded or captured, he declared, compared with Russian losses of 350,000 killed, 378,000 missing, and 1,020,000 wounded, and, "it is necessary to add that the blitzkrieg has failed."

"If the Germans want a war of destruction, they will certainly get it," he stated in an impassioned denunciation of Adolf Hitler and the "Hitlerite madmen" who were Russia's official friends from August, 1939, to last June 22, when the German invasion began.

Britain and the United States already have sent quantities of such materials as aluminum, tin and rubber to Russia, he said, and the Soviet coalition with the democracies "is a real fact which is growing and gaining strength for the benefit of our common cause of liberty."

Rudolf Hess' flight to Scotland last May was an attempt to bring Britain and the United States into a war against Russia, Stalin asserted.

GERMAN ARMY BIKES CROSS OVER BRIDGE OF LOGS

This photo, passed by the German censor, shows a detachment of German bicycle troops crossing a Russian river by means of a bridge of logs constructed by German pioneers (army engineers). The retreating Russians had destroyed the old bridge. Note youthfulness of the bareheaded German pioneer in left foreground.

Action in Rail Fight Deferred

CHICAGO (AP)—Chiefs of the rail labor organizations conferred yesterday on what action they should take in their wage dispute with the railroads, but deferred a decision on whether they would set a date for a nationwide strike of their 1,250,000 members.

General chairmen of the five operating unions discussed the situation without reaching a conclusion but took time out to listen to President Roosevelt's radio speech from Washington—in which he urged workers to stay on the job while the United States was engaged in producing and delivering war goods.

Leaders of the 14 non-operating brotherhoods announced their central chairmen would meet here next Wednesday to determine their course and to consider the recommendations of Mr. Roosevelt's fact-finding board.

The board's report proposed temporary raises which fell far short of the employes demands.

House Ways and Means Committee Shelves New Tax Increase Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposed new tax program which would raise the average salaried person's effective income tax rate to almost 2 per cent was sidetracked yesterday by the house ways and means committee after some members had protested it was being advanced "instead of a proper price control bill."

Armistice--- THE UNITED STATES MUST SHARE THE BLAME FOR THE FAILURE OF WORLD PEACE AND BUILD TOWARD A WORLD GOVERNMENT---

Next Tuesday, Nov. 11, the people of the United States will celebrate Armistice day for the 23rd time. Just 23 years have passed since the end of World War I and now we are deep in the shadow of a second world war.

With the Japanese press shouting for blood; a diplomat of the Nipponese nation rushing to the U.S. to make, what well-informed Japanese are calling, a definition of Japan's final position on the Pacific crisis; the Nazi dictator, in a short for Hitler, speech, declaring German-American relations to be in a state of undeclared war, and the neutrality act revision being rushed through the United States congress, Armistice day is pastevine and becomes just another 'has been' for the works of historians.

The United States must take the blame for at least a portion of the troubles that lead the nations of Europe into a second world war. We have been, despite popular opinion to the contrary, far from faultless in our foreign policy during these 23 years. Moreover, we have, and we can not deny the fact, refused to shoulder the responsibilities that we, as one of the great powers of the world, should have carried.

The policy of isolation declared by our government at the close of the first world war, when we failed to join the League of Nations, has been followed haltingly. We have deviated from the policy in every instance where we could benefit by the change. We have continued a world commerce. We have meddled in foreign politics. We have flatly and rudely refused to cooperate with the League of Nations and have, thereby, caused complete failure of several attempts made by the League to preserve peace among nations.

A quick glance, or a thorough study, of the foreign policy of our United States will reveal the same facts:

We have been thinking almost entirely of the gain that we, the United States, could make;

We have failed to make a true attempt to cooperate with the other nations of the world to establish a lasting peace;

We have contributed heavily to the failure of an armistice.

The League of Nations, to all practical purposes, is dead. Its remains are scattered across the globe. The potential powers of its 28 articles, never fully utilized, have disappeared. Only its skeleton remains; the body can never be rebuilt.

Gone though it is, the League of Nations did exist and did function for 20 years. The ideas the League embodied, the aims it sought to accomplish, are still as real as ever. World government and world peace which we fought for in the last war and for which the armistice provided have slipped away from us.

Our national holiday, Nov. 11, under the name of Armistice day, would be very hollow this year were we to admit that the cause for which American soldiers died during the first world war was lost. But, that cause is not lost. Men have learned. The idea of world government is stronger than ever before. World government is not a utopia, but it has power, and it can become a reality.

World Government day to replace Armistice day on Tuesday, Nov. 11, has been suggested by the National Peace conference, and will be carried out by the 39 national organizations and many affiliated community and state peace councils of which it is composed.

They suggest World Government day to inaugurate a campaign for America's participation in a constitutional world order which we must have if the war-system is ever to be ended. The day on which we hold our World War I dead in special remembrance is a most appropriate time in which to consider together how we may get insure that they shall not have died in vain.

The National Peace conference proposes that the people of America read magazine and newspaper articles on world organization, listen to specially arranged radio programs which will be broadcast over national hookups on Nov. 11, which will present authorities on international problems who will discuss the pros and cons of some of the issues, and in general devote time to study and discussion of world organization.

Our essential international task is the provision of justice and security for all. Only then can we have peace. Such order under law has never been maintained among human beings except by the establishment of common government over ever-enlarging units. This fact points plainly to the need for a federal world government. We may not safely postpone consideration of this vital issue to the end of the present wars test, for the second time, we lose the peace.

It is far more intelligent to look ahead with World Government day than to live in a sentimental past and cling to a memory. Armistice day—a memory which is not dead, but to which we must re-dedicate our souls, our hearts, our very beings.

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I ran into Harry Fink in the lobby of a Broadway hotel. "I'm going on the air in a few minutes," he told me. He was enthusiastic. The way he talked you would have thought Harry was some young beginner, getting his first break.

But Harry Fink is an old timer, as experience goes. Perhaps this will help you remember him. He used to be a song writer. He wrote "The Curse of an Aching Heart."

In the old days, Harry had a club on 45th street, where the Lobster is today. The original trimmings are still in the Lobster, a favorite dining place among people who are partial to sea food.

"I haven't seen you in my place lately," he said. Harry is the proprietor of the Club Samoa, in 52nd street. It is small but intimate. Its decor is South Seas. One of Harry's rivals is The Hurricane, another South Seas atmosphere club. I mention this because at one time Harry Fink owned the late Kaiser Wilhelm's yacht. It cost him $75,000. This yacht, which had entered many a regatta, was captured during the first World War by the British. When Fink acquired it he took it to Florida and set it up as a floating nightclub. It was the first of its kind America had seen. But the venture was short lived. A hurricane came one night and swept most of Southern Florida, including the Kaiser's yacht, away.

We stepped out into the street. Across the way the marquee lights of "The Hurricane" glittered and were merged with the lights on Broadway.

"Yes," Harry Fink sighed, "it was a hurricane that got me in Florida. From the looks of that yonder, it has followed me to New York."

Matty Malneck, among orchestra leaders, conforms to no set pattern. Though quite willing to play any style of music you may desire, nothing on earth can keep him from suddenly switching to something of his own choice. During a conga session at the Rainbow Room the other night he swept suddenly into the William Tell Overture. Why? Well, there's something about the overture that he likes. He also likes the Flight of the Bumblebee, a piece which he has done well by. When he played it the other night he said suddenly to the audience, "Here we go, and I think my trumpet player is going to be in trouble." The bumblebee runs as fast enough to trouble any trumpet player.

Malneck is one of those boys who seems partial to the west coast. He comes into New York to play a Broadway theater engagement or a nightclub engagement about twice each year. Usually he hits Chicago, going or coming. This time it will be going. But the rest of his time is utilized out there where people try to remember what rain looks like. Analyzing Malneck you come to no set conclusion. You wouldn't call him sweet, swing, or symphonic. You'll just have to call him Malneck.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q.—Who benefits most from purchase of defense savings bonds?

A.—The buyer. He has only lent his money to the government and can get it back should he need it. His bonds will increase in value. He is laying by future spending power against a time of need.

Q.—Has labor voiced any objections to the participation of union members in pay-roll allotment plans for the purchase of defense savings bonds?

A.—On the contrary, voluntary pay-roll allotment plans have been endorsed by the leadership of the A. F. of L., the C. I. O., and the Railroad Brotherhoods, as well as by many unions at national conventions.

Note.—To buy defense bonds and stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Stamps are on sale at retail stores.

Our Current Sea War Is Unsatisfactory

WASHINGTON — The peculiar type of sea war in which this country is involved with the nazis is unsatisfactory to many naval authorities whose positions require them to keep their mouths shut. Losses thus far suggest the cost is to be heavy in life and ships. Rumors are being passed around that the navy has sunk ten German subs without announcement, but officials smile freely at this suggestion. They would probably be glad to announce the sinking of one, in order to popularly justify their policy, even though they say they would not.

German sub tactics show conclusively that the nazis have information on the routes of the convoys. The incidents of the Greer, Kearny and Reuben James all occurred on night convoy duty. In each case German subs knew where to lie in wait, with engines stilled, so their presence could not be detected. They are able to fire from submerged positions as their own detecting devices pick up the sound of the passing convoy. Operating between Greenland and Iceland in packs, they are thus able to maintain a very serious advantage over our destroyers.

When the neutrality act is repealed and conveying to Britain is started, their opportunities will be increased as our ships move into the German air patrol radius of 1000 miles (good weather) from the French coast. Our plane patrol service apparently is not effective against night submarine operations.

RUSSIA'S POSITION GRAVE—The official fluff about Russia's "excellent" military position is thoroughly deflated in a current analysis by a high American military leader. Masked by the pseudonym "Strategicus," this army authority laid down the bare facts in an article published for the military profession in the army and navy journal (Nov. 1).

The Reds have lost 70 per cent of their coal, 60 per cent of their iron and 50 percent of their steel capacity in the Ukraine. Cooped up in Leningrad is 18 per cent of their manufacturing plants. Threatened or around Moscow are 70 per cent of her airplane factories.

All in all Russia stands to lose more than two-thirds of her industrial machinery before winter. This cannot permit her to supply a sufficient army to hold out beyond next summer.

She could possibly supply about 100 divisions herself but must get equipment for 75 more from Britain and the United States if she is going to hang on. It is practically impossible to expect the allies to equip anything like that number of men (approximately 1,125,000). We haven't even yet equipped our own army which is only a little over a million and a half.

The masked "Strategicus" therefore seems to expect Hitler to drive beyond the Urals next spring and complete the defeat of Russia—a prospect which can hardly be avoided.

CLOSED-SHOP THREAT—Only time-bomb threatening to sabotage the defense program is the closed-shop issue, lit by John Lewis. The administration, industry and labor all realize it. Inner dealings over the coal strike settlement therefore have been hectic.

Big Steel's Myron Taylor went to the length of offering Lewis a closed-shop in captive mines if John would promise not to seek the same strangle-hold on the steel factories. This may yet be the basis of the final settlement even though it means giving Lewis complete possession of every steel miner's job.

Even Mr. Roosevelt has exhibited no eagerness to deliver all industry to this control by labor. Strangely, his record seems to contain no spoken word on this subject. It is true he ordered Madam Perkins to help Lewis get the United Mine Workers contract two years ago along that line. His national labor relations act (Sec. 8) says "union membership may be made a condition of employment."

But his national defense mediation board has a surprising record on the subject.

Of ninety-one cases heard by the board so far, forty have involved a serious demand for some form of "a union security shop," which is really a closed shop with several variations. In twenty cases, the closed shop resulted. In ten of these, the board specifically directed a closed shop clause to be put in the contract.

Thus the board is batting 500 on the closed-shop issue to date. Board members are supposed to favor personally that form of complete union leader domination. But they are aware that many of labor's best friends consider such union totalitarianism to be detrimental to the best interest of the worker whose job no longer is his own, when it is thus delivered to the union leader. In the World War, the war labor policy board refused to permit strikes on the closed-shop issue.

The administration probably will tangle along with the problem and try to avoid meeting it head on as long as possible.

District Rotary Head Speaks to Local Club

"Rotary is closely tied and connected to democracy," asserted Charles T. Cownie of Des Moines, governor of the 132nd district of Rotary, at the local club's meeting yesterday.

The common ground of friendship in these clubs has built a tolerance that is both religious and social, he added. Service given honestly and fairly is, according to the speaker, one of the requisites for lasting peace.

"In this democracy we've had to know many people doing nothing for something," he said.

High Limits Mean Adequate Protection!

Can You Photograph That?

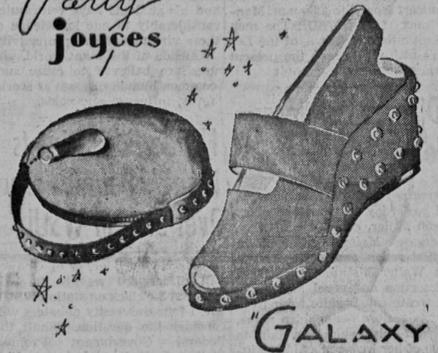

High Limits . . . that means insurance with a big enough cash indemnity to cover any loss. You may need it any time. A falling icicle, a faulty hand-brake, a misdirected golf ball, and you may set into motion a series of disasters which accumulate staggering financial losses. Your car rolls down the hill, breaks off a fire hydrant, water floods a department store basement before it can be shut off. A golf ball strikes a passing autoist, his car swerves, smashes into another car, perhaps damages three or four more. Could you take a picture to illustrate this type of thing? If you can, we're interested.

Danner Scores Touchdowns to Lead Play

Casey, Bothell Star As Team Unleashes Razzle-Dazzle Style

University of Iowa cross-countrymen will leave this morning for Champaign, Ill., where they will meet the Illinois harriers tomorrow. The squad will travel by automobile.

This will be the second meet of the season for the Hawkeys, and the third for Illinois.

The Iowans were defeated by the university of Wisconsin. Illinois defeated Indiana, won second in the Loyola invitational meet, and was downed by Purdue.

The meet will be over a two-mile course, and will get underway at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Coach George Bresnahan plans a workout this evening over the Illinois course.

Dick Lord, Bob Albright, Bob Workman, Don Welt, Gerald Stevenson, Dave Myer and Dick Keil are squad members making the trip.

The game had barely started when Sangster started to toss his passes. Casey and Bob Roth plunged to the 30-yard line, from where Sangster hit Williams, who took the ball to the 14. Jenkinson caught Sangster's next offering on the 5-yard line, bowled two defenders over, and scored standing up.

Centerville came back strong and opened the Iowa City team apart on passes. After a tricky play from Mayfield to Schultz, who lateraled to Gustafson, the ball was in Iowa City's 30-yard line. Several attempts to gain through the line failed and Mayfield passed to Schultz for Centerville's only score.

A tricky play for extra point failed to gain an inch.

Casey Sets Up Marker

On the first play following the kickoff, Casey tore off tackle and raced to the 25 before he was brought down. Roth added 12 more yards. Sangster faded deep and fired a pass to Danner who was waiting in the end zone with no near him. Dean Williams kicked the extra point and Iowa City led, 13 to 6.

Centerville again went on the offensive and for a while it looked like they would march down the field for another score, but the Red and White forward wall stiffened and they were forced to kick. Iowa City found the going tough when they took over and returned the punt. Then Coach Herb Cormack's boys took advantage of the first break of the game, as Mayfield kicked out of bounds on his own 10-yard line.

Casey, Roth Combine

Casey and Roth took over and fought the ball to the one, from where Casey finally drove over. Casey fairly exploded on the scoring play, and could have run to alias had the goal post not appeared. Dean Williams' kick was blocked by Bolden.

Just before the half ended, Centerville found itself pushed back deep in its own territory and tried a punt. Capt. Bill Bothell, who played his best game of the season, blocked the kick and Don Williams scooped up the ball on the 10-yard

2 Iowa Regulars May Not Start In Illinois Tilt There Tomorrow

Capt. Diehl, Curran Will Play, However

Coach Eddie Anderson named 31 players to leave for Illinois this morning, after the final drill last night, and at the same time indicated that two of his regulars may not be able to start the game.

Both Capt. Bill Diehl, who is recuperating from a variety of body injuries, and Gene Curran, regular guard who has missed two workouts this week because of a slight attack of flu, will undoubtedly see some action in the tussle, but just how much is problematical.

Diehl, although he has not participated in any contact sessions this week, is probably in the best shape of the two. His charleyhorse, sprained ankle and bruised hand have all responded to treatment, and he may be able to start the game.

Curran, on the other hand, although he may be in the starting lineup, cannot hope to see more than limited action. That session with flu has undoubtedly taken away plenty of strength and staying power from the stocky workhorse.

The last session last night was anything but promising from the Iowa standpoint, as Illinois formations worked time and again against the special Hawk defense. Not only were Nile Kinnick's passes finding receivers far out in the open, but running plays off fake pass formations were leaving the varsity flattered, too.

Expect Offensive Battle

It indicated only one thing. Iowa will know it's been in an offensive battle of the first water after that game tomorrow. Coach Bob Zuppke has an extensive batch of plays off several different formations, and this may have to be one of those battles in which the team scoring the last touchdown before the gun wins.

There has been little work on offense for the Hawk first string this week, and for the first time last night, it got other work than defense. However, this consisted only of a punting session, with Bill Stauss and Jim Youel doing the kicking.

While the first team has been concentrating on stopping Illinois plays, the second team has done

Trump Card Held By Weatherman

Wise Guys Believe Irish Can Pass To Victory on Dry Field

BALTIMORE (AP)—Navy? Notre Dame? Dear Joe? So you're coming to the Navy-Notre Dame game Saturday? Welcome. We should have a nice chat, all alone in Baltimore stadium with 65,998 other football fanatics.

It'll be a great show. The Middle-3,100 strong—will parade before these two top teams fight it out in a traditional battle, rivalled in color only by the Army-Navy brawl.

It's anybody's ball game. The wise guys think the weatherman holds the trump card. Clear, with good playing conditions, and Notre Dame passes to victory. Rainy, a swamp for a field (you oughta see the mushy resodding job), and Navy's mudders crush to a win. Personally, I'll be watching for a few tricks Swede Larson has up his sleeve.

Odds Are 5-6

If you want to bet, local odds are 5-6 and take your choice. If your seat is at one end of the big bowl, bring a telescope, at least you can have fun inspecting celebrities. Baltimore's horse set will be there. So will be the under-secretary of the navy, James Forrestal; chief of naval operations, Admiral H. R. Stark; and Maj. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, marine corps commandant.

You have a seat, don't you? Surely you bought your ticket before they sold out three weeks ago, even the 6,000 extra seats they're building.

A couple of licensed dealers have a few tickets. They'll sell seats behind the goal for $6—and up. But you'd want a mid-field seat. Some scalper tried to sell Riley "a pair on the 40-yard line: $25 apiece." Standard scalper price is a mere $15 each for $3.30 seats, if you can find them.

No Rooms Available

I hope you're not planning to spend the night—unless you sleep in your car. That lumpy day bed is promised a pal from New York. We couldn't get him a hotel room. The large hotels have been turning down reservations for a month. The chamber of commerce special reservations bureau lists some lovely rooms under the eaves of small hotels; or you could choose from tourist homes or private residences.

Bring along a few ham sandwiches, will you? Sydney Friedman, head of the restaurant association of Maryland, tells me: "We expect more than we can feed. Every restaurant in town's looking for extra help: digging out China and silver that hasn't been used in years. We were strained beyond capacity for the Navy-Cornell game, and there were only 45,000 at that. This will be as big as any hotel and restaurant day in our experience—bigger than Preahness days."

But come ahead. I'm looking forward to seeing you. If we get lost in the rush, that's part of the fun. You and the rest of the out-of-towners ought to put on as good a show as Larson and Leahy.

Yours,
Ed Ethell

Heavy Rains Give Illinoians Team Rest

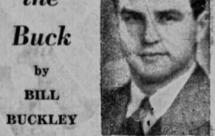

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Heavy Illinois football team a holiday rains and a flooded field gave yesterday. Coach Bob Zuppke called off the practice and said final preparations for the Iowa game would be completed today with a light signal drill.

Dem Bums' in Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Dem Lovely Bums" is the title of a Twentieth Century-Fox picture in which Pat O'Brien is to be the star, and the studio wants Leo Durocher's Brooklyn ball players to portray themselves in Florida next spring.

The Brooklyn probably will oblige, since the story is about their spectacular rise to the national league pennant last season. Ray McCarey will direct.

Passing the Buck

Down Champaign, Ill., way, the folks seem to think that the game with Iowa Saturday is the one the Illini are going to win this year.

Of course, the athletic department, especially Bob Zuppke, isn't putting out any optimistic promises, but press releases from that city are building up Iowa to an awful letdown.

One release said the Illini "think the young players who battled manfully but were overpowered by Minnesota, Notre Dame and Michigan, have a good chance to win their first major victory by beating Iowa."

"They're not underestimating the Hawkeys by any means. . . . They remember too well how Bill Green, supported by Bus Mertes and Tom Farmer, all again in the Iowa backfield, led a second half rally that swept the Hawkeys to victory at Iowa City last year. . . . They realize that the Iowa line averages 195, which is better than 10 pounds per man heavier than the Illini wall.

"Nevertheless, they feel that while the Illini may have to battle uphill to some extent, they will be able to cope on nearly even terms with the lads from the tall corn state. . . . Two formerly disabled linemen—Elmer Engle, left tackle, and Bob Wilson, left guard—will probably return, but Ray Grierson, sophomore left end, will be unable to play. Paul Milosevich, senior, will start."

There are a number of factors in Illinois' favor, it appears. First, it will be the last home game for seven seniors, four of them key players. . . . Then 4,000 fathers will be there for Dad's Day, and the occasion is also listed as Chicago Campus and "I" Men's Day. . . . Also, the team, powerful on offense but weak on defense, is about due to make a field day against some team which has done it dirt in the past. . . . And finally, this game, in all probability, will be the last home game for a Zuppke-coached aggregation, since Wily Bob is planning to retire after this season.

There's such a thing as putting too much pressure on Iowa, when the Hawks might be able to take the Illini in stride anyway. . . . At the same time, it would certainly be healthy, both for Iowa and the students who will be there to see them, to take into consideration the strength of a team which has been denied its place in the sun for six straight weeks.

Then there is the story of two colored teams who were playing in Atlanta. . . . The score was 0 to 0 when the last play got underway just as the final gun sounded. An Atlanta university halfback was carrying the ball, and Chattanooga's defensive half was ready to make the tackle, but thought better of it. . . . Instead he yelled, "Throw me dat ball, boy, dis game's done." . . . The Atlanta half slowed down to a trot and tossed the ball to his opponent, who dashed unimpeded for the goal line, a touchdown and the football game.

Delta Chi Gridders Win From Sig Eps

Victors to Tangle With Delta Upsilon, Phi Psi In Class A Play-Offs

Delta Chi won its section championship in Class A competition yesterday by virtue of a 2 to 0 forfeit over Sigma Phi Epsilon. Delta Upsilon and Phi Kappa Psi, winners of the other two Class A sections, will meet Delta Chi in the playoffs to determine the fraternity champion.

In the professional league, Phi Delta Phi continued its winning streak with a 14 to 6 win over Phi Chi. The winners, featuring their fine passer, John Phillips, scored all their points in the first half. Phillips threw to Sid Smith for the first touchdown, and Giff Morrison placekicked the extra point. Phillips then rifled a pass to Tom Loudon for the victor's other touchdown. Morrison again added the conversion with a place kick. The Phi Chis tallied their only score in the first half on a pass from Bob Knapp to Lee Stauffer. The try for the conversion was a failure. The last half turned into a tight defensive game with neither team being able to score.

Delta Theta Pi squeezed by Delta Sigma Delta by a 6 to 0 total in a fine defensive game, yesterday. It was in the first period that Chuck Homald, the winner's star back, passed to John Martin for the only touchdown of the game. The attempt at extra point was no good. The remainder of the game turned into a defensive battle, with Chuck Ritter and Duke Delechrist outstanding for the winners, and Owen Neilson and Clarence Barrett looking good for the losers.

The Theta Tau team whitewashed a fighting Psi Omega team by a 13 to 0 score. George Fawson scored both the winners' touchdowns, and Ed Larsen accounted for the conversion. Fawson skirted left end for 15-yards early in the first half, and Larsen then dropkicked the extra point. The victors scored their other touchdown when Al Homberg, standing in mid-field passed to Fawson who scored.

In the final game of the day, Gamma Eta Gamma defeated to Alpha Chi Sigma by a 2 to 0 score.

SUI Aids Defense Use Films to Speed Production

The University of Iowa is doing its part in speeding up national defense in American industrial plants by the use of motion pictures produced by the extension division of visual instruction and the college of engineering, Prof. Ralph M. Barnes, industrial engineer, announced yesterday.

This industrial engineering film library of motion and time study films has just been installed, it was announced by Lee Cochran of the visual instruction department. Films are to be loaned to industrial plants and schools.

Officials declare that motion pictures provide one of the most effective means of presenting results of motion economy principles applied to various types of manual work.

One of the principal sound films is on motion and time study principles, with applications showing better and easier ways to work.

Three types of methods which increased production, 53, 143, and 42 per cent in different industries are shown.

Tomato Juice—The Latest Thing In Health Foods

Poisonous yesterday, the latest thing in a health food today—that's a tomato!

Not so long ago no one would dare to eat a tomato, the poor thing had such a reputation, but today we value it as one of the richest sources of Vitamin C.

Vitamin C is essential to the successful upkeep of bones and teeth as well as general health. It is a vitamin that can't be stored in the body. Therefore, it isn't possible to consume enough on Monday for the rest of the week, it has to be taken in every day.

But that isn't as bad as it sounds. One glassful of tomato juice supplies a sufficient quantity of Vitamin C to see you through the whole day.

If you haven't found one yet, keep trying brands until you discover one that offers the real taste of fresh tomatoes. This flavor is achieved only by taking the juice of the first light squeeze from a fully ripe tomato.

It should come out of the can the true color of the tomato and need nothing added to it but a pinch of salt to suit individual taste.

For a slight variation, try it with lime.

- 1 can (14 oz.) tomato juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice
- Add the salt and fresh lime juice to the tomato juice. Chill and serve.

A Dash of Hot Pepper, A Touch of Curry Powder—For Better and Peppier Meals

Mrs. Sudhindra Bose, Iowa City Hostess, Suggests Indian Pilau, Swiss Cookies As Favorite Foreign Recipes

By CORINNE HAYES

Daily Iowan Food Editor

Variety is the spice of life, but spices are the life of your meals. A tasty dash of curry powder or a bit of hot pepper adds zest to the dishes served at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sudhindra Bose, 825 Otto.

As she selected recipes from India and Switzerland for us, Mrs. Bose had to check carefully for foreign ingredients. Many of their favorite dishes call for items which are not available in the local stores. (They have a small garden at the back of their home where they raise many of their choice foods.)

"A great favorite among the people of India is Indiana Pilau. It is particularly excellent when served with egg plant or any other fried vegetable," Mrs. Bose explained.

Indian Pilau
1 cup of uncooked rice
1 cup of raisins
1 cup of almonds, chopped
1/2 teaspoon of curry powder
2 cups of boiling water
4 tablespoons of fat

Put fat in a skillet and add curry powder. Immediately add washed rice. With the flame turned low, fry the rice until it is a golden brown, stirring constantly with a fork. When the rice is brown, add boiling water and raisins. Cover the mixture and let it simmer till the rice is tender (about 2 hours). Add a little salt, and when ready to serve, add the almonds. Each kernel of rice should be separate and not mashed.

"Oh, Dr. Bose likes Chicken Curry best," our hostess mentioned.

Chicken Curry
1 teaspoon of curry powder
3 medium sized onions
6 potatoes
1 large pepper

Cut the chicken up and dust it with flour. Heat 3 tablespoons of fat, and when hot add the curry powder. Fry chicken and put it in the oven at 300 degrees F. Bake it tightly covered.

Chop onions and pepper finely and cut potatoes into small pieces.

In another skillet, add 1 1/2 tablespoons of curry powder to 3 tablespoons of hot fat. Add onions first and fry them until a golden brown. Next add potatoes, and lastly the large pepper. Cook slowly until the pepper has entered all the vegetables and flavored them all. Add this mixture to the chicken in the oven. Cover with 2 cups of boiling water. Salt and pepper to taste and cover the dish tightly. Cook from 2 1/2 to 3 hours slowly—until everything is a golden brown. If you desire, 1 hour before serving add 1/2 a hot pepper to the mixture.

"This is usually served with boiled rice, and it has lots of sauce when it is well done."

For an inexpensive dish to be served with boiled rice, Mrs. Bose suggested Dal Bhat. French fried onions and a salad with fruit for dessert complete the menu.

Bread Pudding Time
Bread pudding time is here. Soak slices of bread in milk until soft. Grease a deep baking dish and place slices of bread and lay-

hot. Mrs. Bose explained that we fail to use the vegetables we do have here—and Okra is one example. "So many people dislike the vegetable because it's slippery and unattractive. I avoid this by cutting the vegetable lengthwise in 4 pieces. Dusting the pieces with flour, frying them and adding a pinch of salt will remove the slippery feeling."

"When frying various foods," he added, "I use vegetable oils rather than fat. I even use the oils when German frying potatoes."

For an unusual Sunday night supper try Shujie. It is served with cream and with the addition of a beverage and fruit, your meal is complete.

Shujie
Cook 1 cup of cream of wheat. Add 2 cardamom seeds, crushed finely, and 1 cup of ground hazelnuts or almonds. This will serve 2 people.

"From Switzerland I have some delicious recipes for Christmas cookies," admitted Mrs. Bose.

Leckerli
1 pound of hazelnuts
1 pound of sugar
1 cup of flour
5 or 6 egg whites
1 lemon

The hazelnuts should be ground and then mixed with sugar and flour. Beat the egg whites till stiff and add the lemon and grated rind. Combine the two mixtures. Roll the dough out in sugar to 1/3 inch thickness and cut. Place the cookies on baking sheets and let them stand over night. Bake in a moderate oven (300 degrees

F.) for 15 minutes.

Remove the cookies from the oven and glaze them with a mixture of 2 egg whites and enough powdered sugar to make it stiff. Cover the entire surface of each cookie with the meringue. Put the cookies in the oven to dry them out and let them bake a light brown.

The second Christmas cookie recipe from Switzerland is more simple to prepare.

Mailsanderli
1 cup of butter
1 cup of sugar
4 eggs
3 cups of flour
1 lemon
1 cup of ground almonds

Cream the butter and add the sugar and eggs well beaten. Then add the lemon juice, grated rind and flour. Knead into a dough until it is a tender mass. Cool in the refrigerator for 1 hour. Roll out on a board to 1/3 inch thickness and cut. Paint over each cookie with a beaten egg yolk and bake in a medium oven (350 degrees F.) until done.
