Nazi Panzers Trapped Below Tobruk

FACING NEBRASKA IN SEASON'S FINALE—

Hawkeyes Seek to Break Jinx Today

Injuries Hinder Iowa; Huskers At Full Power

Cornhuskers Go Into Game With Record Of 5 Consecutive Losses

By BILL BUCKLEY
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
Iowa's Hawkeyes, crusaders against a long-standing Nebraska jinx at Lincoln, joust with the Cornhuskers there this afternoon, and the battle shapes up to be another one of those things in which neither team has anything to lose by either victory or defeat.
Both teams have gone through semi-disastrous seasons, after being plugged to the high heavens as conference title threats "way back in September, and both are reaching the end of their strings with nothing to look back on but a bunch of heartaches and what-might-have-beens.

Iowa, with a powerful offense which has functioned almost perfectly in its last two games and a defense which has seemed to grow weaker with the passing days, will go against Nebraska, a club which has virtually nothing to show after a five-game losing streak.

Long Line of Reserves
On paper, the Hawks are the better team by far, and therefore have been established as the favorites. But influences far beyond the ken of mortal men are at work whenever Iowa plays at Nebraska, and this year promises to be a banner one of a long line of reverses.

Not only is the team below in its physical strength, with Gene Curran left behind in the hospital with a bad case of boils and Bill Green handicapped considerably by a hip injury, but its mental attitude is bound to be below normal after the Minnesota defeat last Saturday. Also the Hawks are playing their last game away from home, without support from the stands and on the scene of a 14 to 6 defeat of last year.

Even though 1,100 Iowa fans, most of them from western Iowa, will see the tilt, most of the moral support for the team will be from radio listeners whose cheers, unfortunately, cannot affect the team one way or the other.

Will Be Fighting Hard
But Iowa will be fighting more than a football team out there this afternoon. Just after the 2 p.m. kickoff, it'll be fighting a hold Nebraska teams boast—a hold which has carried the Huskers to 17 victories and three ties to six Hawk wins.
It's not so much a team that Coach Eddie Anderson will send his boys out to face there this afternoon, but the jinx of weather and players which has hounded the Hawkeyes adversely since this long series began. Used to playing in weather conditions peculiar to Nebraska, the Huskers can take windstorms, duststorms, blizzards and rain in their stride. Not so the Hawks, who play under reasonable conditions the year around.
An old bugaboo also bobbed up last week when Vike Francis, regular fullback; Allen Zikmund, regular right half; Herb von Goetz, (See HAWKS, page 6)

Nazis Buck Blizzards And Severe Russian Resistance in North

Estimate Ten Million Of Russians Killed Or Wounded to Date

BERLIN (AP)—German armies fed by blizzard-bucking supply planes were reported last night fighting "a whole chain of crucial actions" in Russia.
Authorized quarters estimated meantime—at the end of the fifth month of the eastern war—that 10,000,000 red troops had been killed, wounded or captured to date.

But desperate red army resistance was acknowledged, and war dispatches said the Germans still were trying to encircle Leningrad in heavy fighting in the snowy wilderness south of Lake Ladoga after a 3-months siege of that city. The high command claimed untold gains on the central front before Moscow and in the Donets river bend to the south where it was reported more Russian industrial prizes fell to axis arms.

One commentator acknowledged bitter Russian counterattacks in the Tula and Kalinin sectors rimming Moscow where the Germans began another big push three days ago.
In the arctic another German army was driving toward Kandalaksha on the White sea in an effort to cut the Murmansk-Leningrad railway at that point, but a spokesman gave no details of this operation.

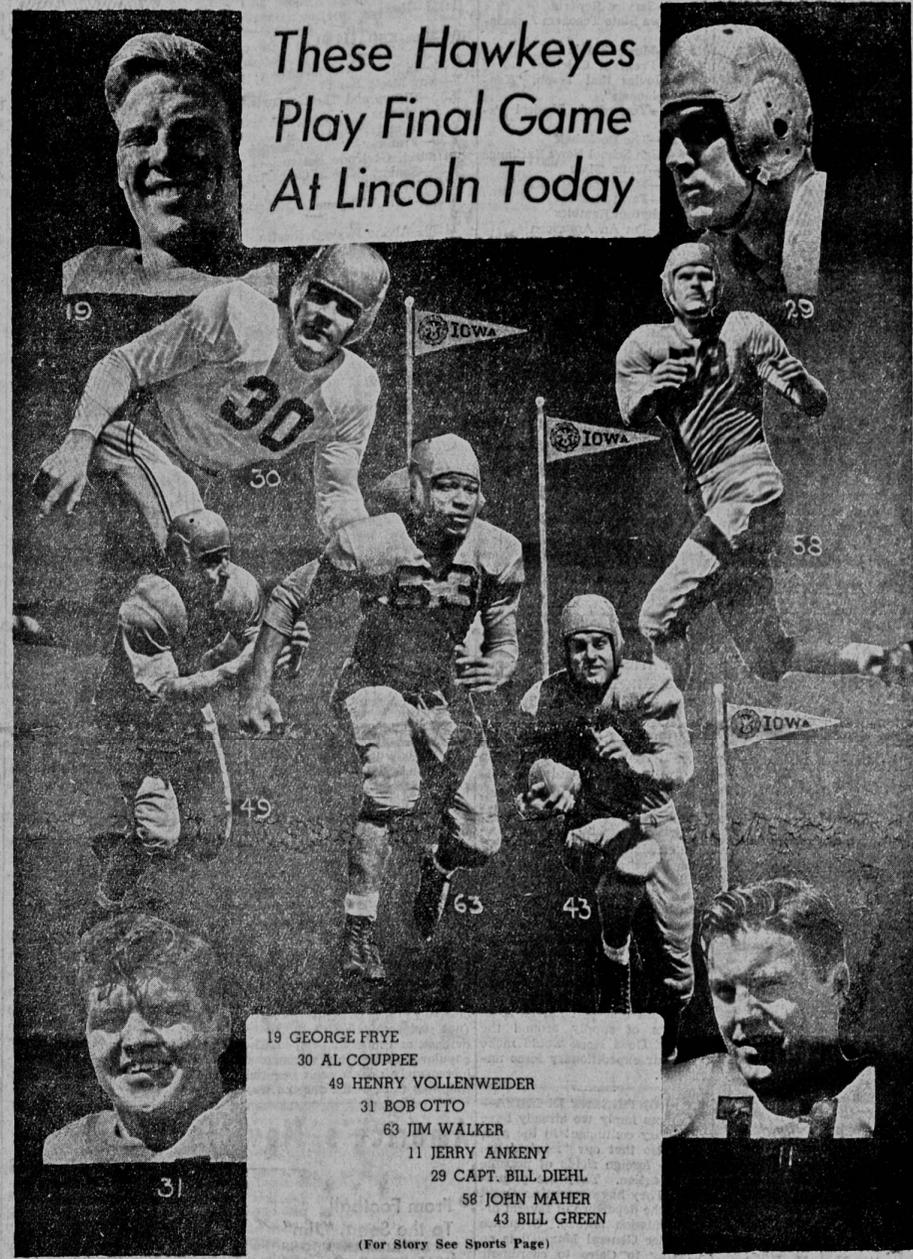

In the Crimea the Germans said they had overrun nearly the entire peninsula. The big Soviet naval base and fortress of Sevastopol in the southwest still was unoccupied, however. German artillery and bombers steadily pounded the red arc of defenses and the city itself.
The authorized sources who announced the staggering Russian casualty toll of 10,000,000 men made these additional claims:

Capture of 3,729,000 Russian prisoners; capture or destruction of 15,877 planes, or a rate of 100 daily; 27,452 tanks; 21,121 guns; 52 Russian war vessels destroyed, 39 damaged; 138 merchant vessels sunk and 137 damaged.

Rail Meetings Halt; Carriers Unwilling To Make Concessions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Railroad and union representatives adjourned a series of conferences last night to prepare a report to President Roosevelt on the result of their efforts to avert a threatened nation-wide railroad strike.

The final session was a special conference called last night which lasted only five minutes.
While the 25 conferees generally were disinclined to discuss results, A. F. Whitney, president of the brotherhood of railway trainmen, told reporters tonight's meeting ended after the "refusal on the part of the carriers to in any way go beyond" recommendations of the emergency board appointed by President Roosevelt for averting the walkout.

Reds Say Nazi Losses Total Over Five Million In Five-Month Invasion

KUIBYSHEV, Russia (AP)—S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, said yesterday Germany has suffered more than 5,000,000 casualties in the five months of her invasion of Russia.
"Despite successes," the German situation is worse now than at the beginning," he declared.

Grand Jury Terms Evidence 'Insufficient'; No Indictment Returned in Oakdale Case

Offenders Discharged, No Further Expense Justified, Body Says
After investigating conditions at the Oakdale sanatorium prison farm, a Johnson county grand jury yesterday failed to return an indictment and declared "evidence is insufficient to warrant conviction and further expense of prosecution is unjustified."
In its formal statement to Judge Harold D. Evans, the jury reported the evidence presented was too vague and indefinite and that employees who might have furnished the prison trustees with liquor were dismissed.
It had been charged that convicts at the Anamosa prison camp at Oakdale were supplied with liquor by employees of the institution. Three prisoners, recently convicted for breaking jail and stealing a state-owned car, testified they obtained the liquor at the camp previously.
"There was evidence that two employees, a cook and a yardman, had upon occasions furnished liquor to prisoners. This evidence was vague and indefinite but the employees were released," the jury reported.
"There was evidence that some (See GRAND JURY, page 3)

Defense Roads Measure Wins Approval of F.R. But With Sharp Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—A defense highway bill, authorizing appropriations of $220,000,000, received President Roosevelt's reluctant approval yesterday.
The president signed the measure, he said, because it authorized $150,000,000 for access roads to military and naval reservations, defense industry sites and $10,000,000 for airplane landing strips.

French May Accept Collaboration Anew, Further Capitulation

NEW YORK (AP)—High French and German leaders will meet soon, possibly to decide upon some new form of collaboration or even out-and-out French capitulation and full membership in the axis, reliable advices reaching The Associated Press from Europe said last night.
The informants said that Marshal Petain and Adolf Hitler themselves might sit down together at the conference table. When and where the meeting might be held was cloaked in strict secrecy.

U.S. Takes Over Dam Authority

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an unprecedented action, the federal government yesterday took from the state of Oklahoma control of the $25,000,000 Grand river dam, "to prevent financial and management difficulties of the Grand river dam authority from interfering with the full use of the power" for national defense.
President Roosevelt directed the federal works administrator to manage and operate the project which was financed by loans to the state-created authority.
Possession was taken, the FWA announced, under the federal water power act of 1935. This act empowers the government, when the president considers the safety

Washington Reveals Export Subsidy Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new export subsidy plan for wheat and flour, expected to stimulate trade with countries to the south, was announced yesterday by the department of agriculture.
Government stocks of wheat, acquired under price-supporting loans, will be sold to wheat and flour exporters at less than domestic wheat prices.
Rivers, Harbors Unit Recommends Enactment Of Billion Dollar Bill
WASHINGTON (AP)—The house rivers and harbors committee recommended yesterday enactment of a billion dollar rivers and harbors authorization bill which included the $285,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway, and the $200,000,000 Florida ship canal.
Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex.), who filed the favorable report on behalf of the majority of the 25-man committee, said no effort would be made to bring the omnibus power measure, up for debate until January.

Mine Workers Fear Intervention of U.S. Troops

CIO Will Reply to F.D.R.'s Offer
By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON (AP)—While guns blazed along the picket lines and dwindling coal supplies caused a curtailment of steel production, President Roosevelt yesterday awaited a formal reply from the united mine workers to his latest proposal for ending the strike in the captive coal mines.
What the answer, to be formulated today, would be was generally considered a foregone conclusion, for John L. Lewis, the president of the union, had already rejected it personally. Today's session of the union's policy committee was expected merely to ratify his action.
Mr. Roosevelt apparently felt, however, that he could not proceed to his next step (the capital expects some form of governmental action, either by legislation or army orders to seize the mines)—until the union has answered him officially. He indicated at his press conference that he would do nothing until the union's reply is received.
With reports that the army was getting prepared to take over the mines, if it got the go-ahead signal, the CIO's national convention at Detroit adopted a resolution calling upon the president "to direct that the training of selectees and other service men for strike-breaking be immediately stopped."
On capitol hill, a senate judiciary subcommittee began hearings on a bill by Senator Connally (D-Tex) which would empower the government to seize strike-closed defense industries and would "freeze" working conditions for the duration of the emergency.
"The captive 'mines' are coal mines owned and operated by steel companies. The coal which they produce is used as fuel for the production of steel only. Other mines are called commercial mines, and their product is sold on the public market.
Lewis' United Mine workers have contracts with all the commercial mining companies.

British Line Withstanding Drive By Germans' Tank Detachment

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CAIRO—The British Imperial army has encircled large units of the German panzer forces in the Libyan desert below Tobruk, a general headquarters spokesman announced early today, and its lines are holding fast against repeated counter-attacks intended to break the trap.
Three times the Germans, smashing with waning power in an effort to get through the circle, were beaten back.
By last night, the British military spokesman estimated, nazi General Erwin Rommel had lost half the tanks he had put into action.
In two battles Thursday—the forerunners of the encirclement—the Germans lost 130 tanks. Now it was stated authoritatively, their losses are approximately three times those of the British.
All this was definitely a major collision between the main forces of the axis and British desert armies.

Cold Weather, Snow Flurries Forecast Soon

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rapidly dropping temperatures in the northern great plains states of Montana and North and South Dakota, blustering winds, and snow flurries in some localities, yesterday heralded the approach of the mid-continent's first real cold snap of the season.
The cold spell caused by a mass of frigid air coming from Canada, was moving to the east and south, Forecaster R. E. Gumpf of the United States weather bureau in Chicago said, adding that the edge of the low temperature belt would reach the vicinity of Chicago by Saturday morning. Temperatures in northern Illinois and northern Indiana would drop to as low as 20 above by early Saturday and to 10 by Sunday morning, he said.
Snow fell in some parts of the central states yesterday, including Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.
Temperatures sank as low as 12 above at Great Falls, Mont., and 18 above at Williston, N. D., yesterday afternoon. By Saturday the forecaster said they would range from zero to 5 above in northern Minnesota. He added, however, that the oncoming storm would be "modified slightly as it moves east and south."
By this afternoon the cold belt will extend as far east as South Bend, Ind., Gumpf said, over-spreading the northeastern states tonight and tomorrow.

House to Argue Price Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Long-awaited price control legislation was given right-of-way after members of the rules committee said they had obtained assurances from the democratic leadership that measures to curb strikes in defense industries would be next in line.
The rules committee voted for procedure under which the "selective" price control bill recommended by the house banking committee will be open to all germane amendments. Rep. Cox (D-Ga) explained that this would permit all provisions of the over-all price control measure sponsored by Rep. Gore (D-Tenn.) except one dealing with recapture of excess defense profits, to be offered as a substitute. Thus, the house will have a chance to vote on whether to regulate wages as well as prices.

are dead. Individually it would appear that they have little to restore. But they are fighting on with the hope that some day they may return home to live under free skies and on free soil as they did in years gone by.

Each time they leave English soil to carry out their nightly missions over the continent there is the probability that they will not again return. But such thoughts and fears are not in their minds. They only strive to drive out the invader that they may again be free. There are Czechs, Poles, Norwegians, Frenchmen and many others. And also in their ranks are Americans. Thrown together in detachments of the Royal Air Force, fighting side-by-side with the English, these men represent nations that are defeated in fact but never in spirit.

It is their intention that that spirit of victory will carry them through the battle. To them and to their courageous hopes go the good wishes and the gratitude of every American. For they are fighting for the preservation of a way of life that America shares with each of them and we take our hats off to their courage and may success be theirs.

Our Arm-Chair Democrats

The resentment with which many draft-age men regard the prospect of army training illustrates a disturbing problem. There is scarcely an American who does not despise fascism and what it plans. Hitler and what he has done. There are but a few who want to stand by and see the freest form of government yet conceived chipped away.

Yet these despisers of Hitler, these lovers of democracy seemingly lack the courage or the foresight to realize that temporary sacrifice, expensive as it is, is an assurance of the preservation of our ideals. These people are not actors in the trend of civilization, they are spectators in an opera seat whose only activity is reverberating but comparatively useless applause.

Army service is one way to transfer latent heat into kinetic energy. It happens to be the way the majority of young men will be used. Is the fact that one is requested to practice his preachment unjust?

Let these verbal democrats realize that armchair democracy is O.K. only so long as the nation's destiny can be controlled from an armchair. And if the threat to America becomes less subtle, there won't be any armchairs at all!

The Fictional Characters Who Still Are Real Enough to Bring Lawsuits

NEW YORK — Fictional characters in plays, novels and radio scripts have to be as fictional as their writers can make them, and even they are sometimes not fictional enough to ward off law suits. That is one reason why books and plays are sometimes prefaced with such announcements as "Any similarity between the characters of this piece and living people is purely coincidental."

Even in comedy sketches, where the names are on the unusual side, a producer never knows what to expect until the public reacts. We have an example of this in a program on the air known as "Meet Mr. Meek."

The hero's name is Mortimer Meek, purely a manufactured name. Shortly after the program went on the air, however a real Mortimer Meek wrote in and asked for pictures of "Mr. Meek" on the broadcast. But he wasn't suing; just curious.

Another instance of similarity came when "The Great Gildersleeves" went on the air. Seems the mail was full of letters from Gildersleeves from all over the country.

That's a nice show the New Yorker has built around its interior rink. It's a jungle fantasy—on skates. Plenty of youth, pep, and imagination, and the costumes are swell.

Professional window washers cover about 60 windows a day. They are unionized and their pay is $1.11 an hour. In this building, for instance, there are 1,000 windows. But in the whole of Rockefeller Center there are 25,000 windows. A crew of 25 washers, are at work constantly. Most window washers, for some reason, are ex-sailors and steel workers. They don't mind the height. The thrill comes in winter, when the sidewalks are roped off and the washers, armed with picks and small axes, are lowered from the roofs to chop away ice accumulated on the sides of the buildings.

I ran into Peter Siskind, the American Spirits executive, whose enthusiasm for French literature persuaded him to name an entire line of cordials after Balzac, that droll teller of risqué tales. . . . Well, rum has been named after pirates, beer after a famous baseball magnate, brandy after a French general, bourbon after a Kentucky colonel, rye after flowers, and scotch after horses and sailing ships.

Peter De Rose occasionally does a turn in vaudeville, as he used to do before he became famous as a song writer. His pals recently had the pleasure of seeing him at Loew's State on Broadway. . . . What songs did Peter De Rose ever compose? . . . Well, "Deep Purple." . . . How's that for a starter?

Cary Grant looks like a soldier on furlough when he isn't in uniform. . . . I don't go for ringside tables in nightclubs. . . . The blare of the bands gives you a headache. . . . The best seats always are in the remote corners.

Their homes are now broken up and perhaps many members of their families

Fighting with Britain's Royal Air Force in the skies over Nazi Germany and her occupied territories these days are many good and loyal pilots who are not English. There is a voluntary mission, but they have a purpose to fulfill and a spirit which will not let them down.

From European countries which fought Hitler in the earlier stages of this war have come men who are determined to carry on, men who have in mind only the purpose of eventually restoring liberty to their homelands which are now overrun by Nazi bandits.

Defending America is more than the defense of a shoreline; it is more than defending cities. It is the defense of a spirit and a freedom essential to each of us Americans. Consequently this question of our defense is one which necessarily includes every single soul living under the American system of government today.

No one person, no one group can isolate itself in an attempt to assume a "hands off" attitude. It is everyone's duty to face the situation openly just as everyone will expect to share the benefits of the success we expect.

There are those Americans today in some lines of work, in some trades—and many of the younger generation of Americans—who try to avoid the situation we face. They try to feel they are not a part of the fight, to think they can go their way without doing their part—their duties as Americans.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS By PAUL MALLON

The U.S. and British In African Libya

WASHINGTON — British officials here are informally (and indiscreetly) suggesting the U. S. send pilots, ground crews and air force technicians to the Libyan front. They even want us to take over the whole air campaign there. This is one subject they should not have brought up. All American officials to whom the idea has been broached ask why the British have not been fighting on that front. The whole matter has started a wave of sub-official wisecracks for example: "The British have used up the last Frenchman and are waiting for the next American."

U. S. CONTINGENT IN LIBYA

Rumors imply we already have a military contingent in the near east; also that our "tourists" are visiting foreign fields of possible future action. They are premature. They have grown no doubt out of the departure of several official mission abroad. Ordnance Brigadier General Maxwell is on his way to Cairo to coordinate plane unloadings and repairs. Brigadier General Wheeler is at Basra, Persia, unloading point for American supplies destined to the Russian Caucasus.

HITLER WOOS TURKEY

British private excuses for doing nothing in Libya up to now are that Turkey was weakening and the Libyan front was technically dangerous.

It is true Turkey was shivering. A press mouthpiece of the Turkish government recently said the Turks are really Europeans, not Asiatics, and their interests are tied with Europe. Nazi ambassador Von Papen in Turkey is speaking highly of Turkey in a suspicious tone of voice.

The next serious blow to the allied cause might come diplomatically from the unguarded Ankara front where Hitler is trying to get Turkish acquiescence for a Nazi land attack on Batum. Der Fuehrer could then pounce directly upon the Russian oil fields and take the Caucasus from the rear. He also wants access through the Dardanelles for his subs.

True it is, also, aggressors in Libya (both British and Italian) have suffered from the necessity of leaving their flank exposed in the desert. In both the previous Brit-

F. R. WALKS SOFTLY ON STRIKE ISSUE

First rule for success in congress is: "Never stick your neck out if you can avoid it." A majority in both houses has been employing that principle to the John L. Lewis and defense strike situations and the administration leaders have been telling the boys FDR is biding his time in preparation for legislation. They have been led to believe it will be restricted to a new provision for a secret vote on strikes by workers, a cooling-off period. Certainly it would apply only to the defense industries and be limited to this emergency period. It will not abrogate the Wagner act.

Oil The Ears

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Scientists have found a way to prevent worms damaging those nice roasting ears. A squirt of mineral oil injected just inside the tip of a young ear after pollination will turn the trick, the U.S. department of agriculture has found. Nebraska agricultural college experts are testing it out.

America's Movieland

From Football To the Song "Jim" By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Yesterday we were talking about the problems faced by "new faces" in their hopes to crash Hollywood. Just to keep those would-be movie faces lifted, let's examine a few case histories of people who made the grade and nearly flunked out. There are enough of them to indicate strongly that success in Hollywood has to be won at least twice to make it stick—and even then it's on a picture-to-picture basis. On the other side of every dizzy pinnacle is a greased toboggan slide.

Katharine Hepburn took a ride on it, clutching her Academy Oscar as she slid. An overnight success in "Bill of Divorcement" was the Academy award for "Morning Glory"—then the bad or indifferent pictures—then gone. Back on the stage in "The Philadelphia Story"—a hit—back to Hollywood—a bigger hit than before.

Luise Rainer's slide wasn't impeded by the weight of two Oscars. She was on top after her first picture, "Escapade," and she climbed higher—"The Great Ziegfeld," "The Good Earth"—then zoom! But she'll be back, given half a chance.

John Wayne — just a studio workman, a good-looking boy, popped into a starring role in "The Big Trail." Big picture, and it left a big trail of red on the company ledgers. Out went Wayne—to lowlier ventures, to come back strong in "Stagecoach," a topnotch western.

Greer Garson—imported from England to do nothing at Metro, shipped back to be "Mrs. Chips"—and a success. Back to Hollywood, breathing in the rarified air she takes a slide in "Remember?" But then she starts again—"Pride and Prejudice," "Blossoms in the Dust," "When Ladies Meet." And now she's "Mrs. Miniver."

Ginger Rogers—a successful ingenue—for a little while. Then out. In again as a dancing comedienne—no star stuff. The dancing set her off again—with Astaire. Dizzy pinnacle, and then the venture into untrod fields of serious drama. Success—and a well-earned Oscar.

Hedy Lamarr, the "sensation" of "Algiers," the glamour-gal, the exquisite paper doll. Her follow-up picture, "I Take This Woman," was shelved for a time, then remade, finally released. Hedy was still glamorous, exquisite, beautiful—so what? Mere looks, like candy, are good in small quantities.

Hedy in "Lady of the Tropics," Hedy in "Boom Town" were more candy and the public sweet tooth seemed sated. Hedy came to life in "Comrade X" and "Come Live With Me," lapsed into languor for "Ziegfeld Girl," but in "H. M. Pulham, Esq." (she's Marvin Myles) King Vidor has her jumping through directorial hoops to prove she's a gal of action. As a career girl, she hasn't time for posing.

Robert Taylor—beloved of feminine fans after his first film, Bob had to fight back to overcome the "fretty boy" stigma. Virtue roles, co-starring roles, comedy roles did the trick.

Most of today's top names—Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney, Gable, Crosby, Bob Hope, Ann Sothern, Bette Davis, to name a few—have had to climb that hill-top twice.

Is it encouraging, you New Faces?

A. A. U. W. to Portray Progress of Schools

Prof. Forest Ensign Will Present Paper About Iowa Schools

Progress of Iowa schools will be the theme of the November meeting of the A.A.U.W. this noon at 1:15 in the University club rooms of Iowa Union.

Prof. Forest Ensign of the college of education will trace the history of the progress of Iowa schools up until 1903. Professor Ensign will be introduced by Mrs. Ted Rehder.

A cooperative production by the drama and education study groups of the A.A.U.W. will dramatize the history and progress from 1903 to the present time, as well as prospective progress.

Mrs. Dorrance White, president of the education group, has planned and directed the dramatization.

The pageant is divided into five episodes, with ten years between each. The entrance of inspectors into the school system in 1903 and a higher standard for teachers will be dramatized by Mrs. Charles Looney and Mrs. F. R. Kennedy.

Vocational education into the academic curriculum in 1913 will be shown by Mrs. O. S. Morse and Mrs. Lloyd Knowler. The third episode takes place in 1923 as a war nurse tries to get a teaching position and discovers that certification for teachers has become a part of the school system.

Mrs. Clarence Van Epps and Mrs. Meno Spann will portray this. Helen Reich and Mrs. T. L. Jahn will portray an example of the high standards which were kept even when the cost of operating was cut down. They will also point out that consolidated schools came into existence at that time.

The last episode takes place in 1943, showing a teacher appearing before a school board to display the need and plan for school code revision. Taking part will be Mary Wattles, Helen R. Belknap, Ruth Schley, Mrs. Vernon Esagar, Mrs. Myri Bristol and Mrs. Juan Lopez-Morillas.

For the 1933 depression period, Fern Reich and Mrs. T. L. Jahn will portray an example of the high standards which were kept even when the cost of operating was cut down. They will also point out that consolidated schools came into existence at that time.

Bedlam Fantasy 'Dr. Caligari' Film Is Amazingly Mad

It all takes place inside a madman's brain, yet members of the university film society seeing "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" last night were in Macbride auditorium.

Does this sound crazy? You're right. It was insane, every bit of it. But it was all hallucination through the camera's eye, and reflected on the screen.

Making it more of a hallucination were unusual settings. Wierdly distorted landscapes and dwellings, these settings were derived from expressionistic paintings of the post-world-war I period.

Then, to make the settings more madly menacing to suit the atmosphere of the story, the camera was used at odd angles. Although produced twenty years later, "Citizen Kane" has nothing on the cinematography in this German film of 1920.

The story of "Caligari" seems at first neither logical nor clear. A young man tells a companion of his tragic past: how his best friend was killed, his fiancée driven mad by a sleepwalker mesmerized by an evil old side-show Barker. The young man relates how he forces his way into a local asylum, only to find the side-show man not an inmate, but the head psychiatrist.

Then does it become plain that the young man is himself insane and his story a hallucination. The oddly - angled landscapes and dwellings emphasize how unreal the world is through his eyes.

But more important than the story itself was the subsequent influence of this German experimental film on the movie world.

Although movie producers themselves paid little heed to "Caligari," critics found it ample stimulus to urge Hollywood to go on to more artistic effort.

The result was that more experiments were made in filmmaking; it was realized that the film had as yet barely scratched the surface of its potentialities.

Proceeding "Caligari" were Skladanowsky primitives, of 1896, consisting of animated pictures of various kinds; "Don Juan's Wedding," an amusing pre-war German satire-comedy; "Munderstood," a melodramatic short, and a sequence from "The Golem," noted for setting, lighting effects and the acting of Paul Wegener, famous actor-director of German films.

The next program sponsored by the university film society will be three comedies with "deadpan" Buster Keaton, on Dec. 12. This program will show an important phase in the development of American film comedy.

Miss Reha to Read Story Dorothy Reha, children's librarian, will conduct a Thanksgiving story hour for small children tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 in the public library.

Gray Gordon Slicks To Swing, Prefers American Numbers

Gray Gordon, the originator of the "tick-tock rhythms," last night declared that his style is definitely swing.

The congenial Gordon asserted that he cares little for Latin music and prefers to play the type of numbers familiar to this country only. "We play rumbas just to fill in," he added.

When asked about the chances for new bands in the world of music, Gordon stated that "though the field is crowded, there is still room for good bands as evidenced by those appearing on the band circuits recently. The chances for a new band depend much upon its merits."

Of the 17 members in the Gordon band, approximately 10 of them are former college students from in and around New York.

Maestro Gordon and his men of swing have been recording for Bluebird, but have signed a contract for the coming year with the Decca recording company.

Among the outstanding programs on which the former tick-tock band has appeared are the RCA Magic Key, and the Colgate sport show, directed by Bill Stern.

From here the Gordon band will go to Chicago and on to New York where they will play until the holidays.

liquor had been taken in the form of "after-shave" lotion which had been ordered from an out-of-state concern and delivered by mail, and also rubbing alcohol which had been obtained on a doctor's prescription from the sanatorium pharmacy," the report, which revealed no names, stated.

The report further disclosed that on one or two occasions a doctor on the staff had given some drinks to a prisoner who had done some work on his car. This doctor left the institution shortly thereafter and is now out of the state.

The jury reported that on at least one occasion a recently discharged prisoner had been convicted of another offense and is now in the penitentiary at Ft. Madison.

On two other occasions an individual had provided liquor for one of the prisoners. Evidence of this was given by two convicts, one of whom refused to sign the minutes of the grand jury.

"Furthermore," the report continued, "we believe that use of liquor at the sanatorium can and will be rigorously controlled in the future, and that the board of control is in a better position to take prompt and effective action than is the grand jury."

"Responsibility for conditions at the state institution is primarily upon the board of control, and we believe that this responsibility will be fully and fairly discharged."

The jury reported minor matters of mismanagement and that steps were being taken to correct them now. In referring to Dr. D. R. Webb, member of the hospital staff, and George Marcelliat, herdsman at the farm, the jury stated neither of these men has been guilty of improper conduct.

8 Rural High Schools Reach 100 Per Cent Red Cross Roll Call

The eight Johnson county rural high schools have reached a 100 per cent enrollment in the first Junior American Red Cross Roll Call drive ever held in this county.

M. W. Stout, chairman of the junior campaign, announced yesterday.

The county schools and total number of students, including those in elementary schools, that have enrolled are Tiffin, 97; Oxford, 138; Lone Tree, 160; Solon, 139; Shueville, 27; Sharon, 36; Cosgrove, 187; and Center, 27.

In addition to the county high schools, all Iowa City elementary and high schools earlier in the week reached the 100 per cent enrollment mark.

According to F. J. Snider, superintendent of schools, it is not improbable that all Johnson county rural schools will also be 100 per cent in the drive. More than 70 per cent of the schools have already completely subscribed, he said, and many more enrollments are expected over the weekend.

Old Age Assistance Tax Delinquencies To Be Collected by State

The state department of social welfare will soon launch a drive in Johnson county to collect delinquent old age assistance taxes and accumulated interest, Lumir Jansa, county treasurer, announced yesterday.

The old age assistance tax law was repealed soon after the beginning of the year in 1937, and a refund was necessitated for amounts already collected for that year. The annual rate of the tax before that year was $2 for every adult member of the family.

Delinquent old age assistance taxes must be paid before an estate can be called free of tax incumbrances by the treasurer's office, Jansa said.

The department examined the files for this county last summer and made preparations then for the collection campaign. A similar drive was held in 1937.

County Health Unit Buys Sound Cartoon For School Programs

As part of its health program, the Johnson County Tuberculosis and Health association has purchased an animated sound cartoon to be shown at rural and city schools, Aila Hiltunen, county nurse, said yesterday.

Titled "Goodby Mr. Germ" the cartoon explains the causes and care of tuberculosis. It runs 20 minutes and was produced by the Pathe Film company.

The film is available to be shown at any county or city school that requests it and to all civic or social groups. Those desiring to secure the film for a showing should call Miss Hiltunen or Dr. George Albright, president of the association.

James W. R. Scurr Hunts Autographs; Heifetz to Ted Shawn Among Collection

Autograph hunting, like anything else, has its own techniques, according to James William Reginald Scurr, G of Gilman.

Scurr has collected autographs from Marian Anderson, the famous Negro contralto; Jascha Heifetz, the violinist; Massine, the Russian ballet dancer; Chan-Kar, the leading exponent of the Indian (oriental) dance, and Ted Shawn, the neoclassic dancer, who gave him an autograph with an eye brow pencil.

It takes a certain knack, Scurr admits, "a knowledge of how to combine the necessary elbowing through a crowd with a polite gentleness."

At one time he managed to squeeze through into the dressing room of Rachmaninoff, the Russian pianist, who exclaimed that he was deeply sorry that he couldn't give him an autograph but he would like to shake his hand.

At another time he obtained the signatures of Maurice Evans and Katherine Cornell, stage personalities, when they were appearing at the Biltmore auditorium in Los Angeles. He walked in through the rest of the signature seekers with an empty flower box under his arm.

Asked if the competition on such an occasion was tough, Scurr shrugged his shoulders, but a few moments later spoke of losing a prized autograph when someone snatched it out of his fingers.

Life hasn't been all autograph hunting for Scurr, however. In 1933 he entered Iowa State college, Ames, where he studied "everything from chemistry to bacteriology," but spent most of his time in the music hall.

After five quarters he transferred to Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, where he changed his major to music.

A year later he emigrated to St. Olaf's college in Minnesota where he changed his major again to English. Here he stayed four years, graduating with a double major in English and minors in French and history.

He came to the university a year ago and hopes to complete the qualifying exams for a Ph.D. degree in January.

Yule Decorations Ready; Men Begin Tomorrow To Put Up Evergreens

Workmen will begin putting up Christmas decorations on downtown streets tomorrow morning, according to Nate Moore, contractor in charge of the job.

For the past two weeks, workmen have been installing heavy cables on which evergreen decorations will be placed. Last year a sleet storm destroyed part of the decorations so officials decided to guard against the same occurrence this year.

Plans call for all decorations to be completed by Dec. 2, the official Santa Claus day. Julian Brody heads the chamber of commerce retail trade division committee in charge of the decorating.

The plaintiff charges cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married June 19, 1940 and separated Oct. 15, 1941, the petition states.

Daily Iowan Service Review

Sheesley's Standard Service station, located at 130 N. Dubuque, features complete, one-stop automobile servicing. Opened under the present management June 18, its proprietor is Harold A. Sheesley, who has had 12 years of experience in the retail gasoline business.

The large station, conveniently located and surrounded by large cement drives, provides adequate room to accommodate a number of customers at a time. Included in the one-stop service plan are washing, greasing, and any other necessary conditioning, with the exception of complete overhauling.

Another feature offered at Sheesley's Service Station is the confidence which comes from skilled, well-trained professional employes—a Standard service station requirement. Mr. Sheesley employs 10 workmen, all capable of efficiently serving your car.

In addition to the three grades of Standard motor fuel, Sheesley's carries a complete line of Standard Oil company merchandise. The well-known Quaker State and Iso-Visor motor oils are two such products sold at Sheesley's.

With the Iowa winter well on its way, Sheesley's suggest that every motorist should have a thorough check-up on his car. For winter defense, give your auto the Standard "10-star tune-up." Besides this plan of defense against winter's cold, Sheesley's carry chains and all types of anti-freeze products to assist the driver in safe driving and assured starting. In case of need for road service, a call to Sheesley's will bring aid to the motorist in any part of the city.

Atlas tires and batteries are other products sold at the well-equipped Sheesley station. The driver may also purchase a complete line of automobile accessories. Motorists remember! For skilled workmanship, adequate equipment, convenient location and superior Standard Oil company products, drive to the new Sheesley's Standard Service station — Iowa City's finest.

There are plain white buttons down the front of the waist to meet the set-in belt. Charles Morrow, A3 of Audubon, is her date.

Gown of Black

The simple black dress of Peg O'Brien, C4 of Cedar Rapids, has an extravagant skirt gathered onto a hug-me-tight bodice. This dress buttons from the neckline to the hem. Sara Ringoer, A2 of Iowa Falls, is combining bright shades of light blue, dark blue and red in her "tom tom" dress. Insets of the three colors brighten the top of this two-piece outfit. The full swirling skirt is of light blue, below a fitted tucked waist. To complete the effect she fastens a miniature tom tom on her shoulder. Escorting her will be Raymond Latimer, E4 of Red Oak. Jostia Baschnagel of Chelsea will attend the dance with Deming Smith, L2 of Toledo, and Marilyn Storm of Grinnell will go with Richard McMahon, L2 of Ft. Dodge.

The fourth symphony is the first large work which the master completed after the establishment of his virtual independence. It is in the usual four movements; andante sostenuto; moderato con anima; andantino in modo di conzonna; scherzo; pizzicato osinato and finale: allegro con fuoco.

In Tchaikovsky's letters to Madame von Meck, he reveals the meaning of the symphony. "The introduction is the germ, the leading idea of the whole work; this is Fate, that inevitable force which checks our aspirations toward happiness as they reach the goal.

'HITLER' IN ARMY, NOW 'CHURCHILL'

Adolf Hitler is going to work for Uncle Sam—but he's going to have his name changed to Winston Churchill. Harry A. Primer of Peoria, Ill., named this horse "Hitler" because he was so mean-minded. Now "Hitler" has been sold to a riding academy which is turning the animal over to the United States army. Before he joins the Second cavalry division, though, "Hitler's" name is being changed to "Churchill."

Prof. Edward F. Mason Surveys Enrollment Of 27 Iowa Junior Colleges in New Article

An article by Prof. Edward F. Mason of the university school of journalism appears in this month's issue of "The Junior College Journal." Professor Mason conducted a survey of junior colleges in 1940 while on leave of absence in Washington, D. C., and served as director of publications for the Commission of Junior College Terminal Education.

In his article he writes of the lowering of the population requirement for establishing junior colleges by the Iowa legislature. Professor Mason states the Iowa legislature now permits a school district of 5,000 population to establish a junior college instead of 20,000 as was formerly the requirement.

"But the new legislation does nothing to remedy the fact that Iowa's public junior colleges are the smallest in the nation—too small probably for most efficient operation and too small for any great breadth in curriculum," he asserts. In giving the enrollment of Iowa's 27 public junior colleges,

Professor Mason says only nine are reported by "American Junior Colleges" as offering terminal curricula. "A remedy proposed," he says, "is to increase the population base by including the whole county in the junior college district, instead of just the local school district. But although this has been proposed, nothing has been done toward carrying it into effect."

Professor Mason also wrote an article in the September issue of the "Journalism Quarterly" on the enrollment in journalism courses in junior colleges. In this it is indicated there is an enrollment of 1,116 students in journalism courses in 113 of the 610 junior colleges of the country. Of the 113 junior colleges which reported enrollments for journalism, 31 stated their courses were intended to be followed by a two additional years at a university or four-year college, Professor Mason pointed out. In 82 junior colleges journalism courses were not intended to be followed by additional training.

I.S.S. Opens Study Bureau In Washington

Establishment of a Washington student service bureau to aid college students in studying the operations of the federal government, was announced by Joseph P. Lash, general secretary of the international student service, Molly Yard, formerly on the staff of the national youth administration, has been appointed head of the bureau.

The new office will offer the following services to college students and teachers:

- 1.) Conferences on topics of political, social and economic interest. The first such gathering will be a five day session, Nov. 28th to Dec. 2. Economic majors will discuss "Economic Issues Relating to Defense." Government officials will lead the discussions. 2.) Aid to teachers and individual students collecting material for special studies, to those desiring information about specific legislation, careers in government service, civilian defense, etc. 3.) Information to individuals and groups of teachers and students concerning the legislative, administrative, judicial and technical resources of the government. 4.) Assistance with field trips, including visits to departments, bureaus and agencies. These visits will be prepared in close cooperation with appropriate officials who will assist students and be available for questions and instruction. In outlining the purposes of the bureau, Lash said: "The need for first-hand observation as a means to implement and bring alive knowledge acquired in the classroom has been recognized by students and teachers. Teachers have encouraged their students to make trips to Washington. Thousands have come every year alone or in groups hoping to obtain a close view of government in action. For most of them, this hope is not fulfilled, as they did not know what resources were available and no agency existed to help them discover and use all the possibilities for a deeper understanding of what the capital and this democracy symbolizes. Hence the establishment of our Washington Bureau."

Sports Trail by WHITNEY MARTIN

- Publicity Chief
Intelligent Lads
Smart Fellows

NEW YORK (The Daily Iowan Special News Service) — Some gloomy day Bill Brandt will announce that the National league rookie crop is not quite up to par, and then we will know the world is upside down; that water flows uphill, that apples fall from the ground up into trees, and that the government pays an income tax to the citizens.

That day has not arrived, and it seems a long way off, as Mr. Brandt still is proceeding stoutly along the same old lines. From his cheerful office high up in Rockefeller Center he states flatly, and with no more enthusiasm than a kid with a new bike, that the 1942 rookie crop is "the best ever."

Publicity Chief Coming from such an unprejudiced source such a statement carries weight. About 180 pounds, at a guess, Mr. Brandt is only the National league's publicity chief, so his lack of enthusiasm can be excused.

Right now he is all wrapped up in preparation of the green book, that comprehensive brochure that tells everything about the league and its inmates except how the Dodgers happened to lose the world series. That would come under useless information, however, as everyone knows by now the reason was the Yankees. How the Dodgers got in the world series would be more to the point, anyway.

Mr. Brandt not only is compiling the records for the edification of the press and public, but to his own amusement. He is uncovering facts concerning the rookies which leave him quite speechless. Some of them actually can read and write.

Intelligent Lads "Look at these," he bubbles, waving a sheaf of papers. "They're replies to a questionnaire I sent out. You should read some of them. These boys not only are ball players; they're intelligent, well-educated lads with their feet on the ground." That sounded a little like they were a bunch of Zeke Bonuras, whose feet always were on the ground, in one spot, but he didn't mean it just that way.

"Here's one boy, for instance, who would like to work up here with me during the off season. He'll work for nothing, if necessary. What do you think of that?" Smart Fellow We couldn't think of much except that the boy was smarter than even Bill realized. If that kid was working in the publicity office and a release went out without his name in it he ought to have his head examined. That's just like a boy offering to work for nothing in a candy factory.

"Now you take this Stan Musial," Mr. Brandt continued. "I'll bet he's the Pete Reiser of 1942. You know the Cards brought him up late in the season and he hit about .426." "Here's a funny one; on the questionnaire I have a place for the boys to list their hobbies. Stan just put down: 'Don't have time for hobbies with a baby around the house.' I tell you, we have some great young fellows coming up. Just wait until you see our green book."

We can hardly wait. Denies Charges ST. LOUIS (AP)—Denying any intention of evading army service, Allen Lindow, 22, senior halfback on Washington university's football team, surrendered yesterday on a federal warrant charging him with failing to report for induction at Jefferson barracks last Monday.

Nine Seniors End Hawkeye Grid Careers Today

By GIL MAIENKNECHT When the final gun sounds at the Iowa-Nebraska game in Lincoln today, the collegiate football careers of nine Iowa seniors—Capt. Bill Diehl, Al Couppee, Bill Green, Bob Otto, Jim Walker, Jerry Ankeny, George Frye, Hank Vollenweider and John Maher—will be at an end.

Of the famous 1939 Ironmen, Walker, tackle; Couppee, quarterback; and Frye, center, complete their competition today. Since their sophomore year, Captain Diehl, center; Green, fullback; and Maher, end, have performed the ironman feat.

Started Under Anderson Under the regime of Dr. Eddie Anderson, these seniors were launched into varsity football as sophomores during the wonder season of 1939. Since then they have been heralded by opponents and sports writers for their never-die spirit.

Diehl, who plays center in almost flawless fashion, was forced to the side-lines during the middle of the 1939 season by a knee injury. Last year he played full time in the Wisconsin and Minnesota games. Bill is 6 feet 2 inches tall and will be 23 years old Nov. 28. His home is in Cedar Rapids and he is of German-Bohemian ancestry. He graduated from Roosevelt high school of Cedar Rapids in 1937, after winning second all-state honors in football and honorable mention as a guard in basketball. Bill is majoring in economics and hopes to go into saleswork. In June, 1941, he married Mary Forrest of Cedar Rapids. His draft number is 320, class 1B. He is the seventh center to lead an Iowa football team. This year he will receive his third varsity football award.

George Frye is a fighting red-head who played full time in the Northwestern game of '39, his first appearance in a conference game. Red does a good job all the time and would be a sure starter were it not for the presence of Diehl at center. . . 190 lbs., 5 feet, 11 inches, 22 years old. . . two sports at Albia high school. . . taking liberal arts course. . . plans to coach after graduation. . . two previous varsity awards.

Dictator Comes Back After a brilliant season as "Dictator" of the 1939 team, Couppee lapsed somewhat in 1940. . . in spring practice he showed that he was back in form. . . a fine blocker and a smart field general. . . 190 lbs., 5 feet 11 inches. . . competed in five sports at Jefferson high of Council Bluffs, but now lives in Davenport. . . parents are French. . . in high school was class president, valedictorian, ROTC colonel. . . studying commerce. . . plans business career. . . two previous varsity football awards.

Gerald (Jerry) Ankeny, has been a reserve quarterback for the past two years and has seen plenty of action. . . 196 lbs., 6 feet, 21 years old. . . played football, track and basketball at Dixon, Ill., high school. . . all-state in football. . . commerce major at Iowa. . . movies and dancing are favorite recreations. . . starting quarterback in Wisconsin and Indiana games last fall. . . has won two major letter awards.

Henry Vollenweider is a former football, track and basketball star at Dubuque high school. . . all-state fullback. . . won the state high hurdles in '37 and the lows in '38. . . 20 years old. . . plans to go out for basketball this year. . . liberal arts student, and likes economics. . . plays the piano. . . won minor letter last year, and a major award in '39.

John Maher played end for awhile in '39, then shifted to guard, but in 1940 moved back to end where he was a starter in the Indiana and Minnesota games. . . played end throughout this season. . . 195 lbs., 6 feet 3 inches, 20 years old. . . participated in four sports at Springfield, Ill., high school. . . taking commerce here. . . plays piano and trumpet. . . winner of one major football letter.

Missouri Ozarks Echo Dog Barks

Hunt Without Blood Gives Hill-Dwellers Time for Tall Tales

By HOWARD FLIEGER RUSHVILLE, Mo. (The Daily Iowan's Special News Service)—It's fox hunting time in the calico colored hills of the Missouri Ozarks.

There's a nip in the air and one of the nation's strangest sports is in full cry—the hill country fox hunt that long ago won the "Show Me State" its lesser known second sobriquet as "the haoun' d'awg state."

A campfire, a dog and a stock of Ozark yams are standard equipment. But not guns: it's a hunt without a kill and a race without spectators.

Owners, who know their dogs by ear, sit with their feet to the fire, their backs to the night and give you the running order of the chase as the dogs send a scampering fox across the quiet hollows and over a timbered ridge.

Can Tell Dogs They know when a dog loses the scent—and know which dog it is. They can tell in an instant when the darting fox eludes the pack or finally holes in for the night. A bedlam of short, chopped barks announces the end of the chase. The hunters "horn in" their dogs with a steer-horn bugle, smother the fire and call it a night.

It's fighting talk to tell a veteran you can see no point in spending the cold night on a hill listening to a bunch of dogs bark. What is just the sound of yelping hounds to the uninitiated is music to the ears of a hill country hunter. The dogs aren't barking. They're "mouthing" and the cry might be: "Turkey" (which sounds like a barnyard gobble), "wild goose," "chop," "squall," "squeal," "course mouth," "fine mouth," "babble" or a dozen others. The tone of the tongue keeps the hunters abreast of the chase they never see.

Followers grow up in the sport. N. M. (Dad) Miller, an 82-year-old veteran of St. Louis county, knew how to listen to the hounds before he was eight. A favorite campfire boast is that George Washington was a fox hunter, hill country style. No one seems to know for sure just how old the sport is.

Sport a Hobby The sport is almost a full-time hobby for such men as Rushville's L. F. Gingery—and there are many like him. He edits a fox-hunters' magazine and is secretary-treasurer of the Missouri Fox Hunters association, whose roster ranges from rock hill farmers to business and professional men. Missouri's attorney general is an association officer.

"Years ago," says Gingery, "I have heard from my front porch as many as five packs of hounds working at one time. Only a few days ago I ran a fox that circled several times in the edge of town." Here's a hunt in Gingery's own words:

Sundown Means Comfort "After sundown we release the hounds, go to a good listening place on top of a hill, build a fire and wait for the chase. We know at the first cry what hound was first to find the scent. Then one by one as they 'put in' we know each one.

"We hunt with our ears but we can follow a chase as closely and as clearly as you can follow a horse race." "We don't kill foxes. We're their friends. There's no fun in a dead fox and one red fox, if he isn't crippled, will run ahead of the hounds for many years."

terday afternoon, 6 to 17, on the west side track. Workman's winning time was 4:45.0. The varsity also won four of the first six scoring places. Results: Robert Workman (varsity), first, 4:45.0; Dick Keil (varsity), second, 4:48.0; Dick Lord (varsity), third, 4:51.0; Albert Slater (freshman), fourth, 4:51.1; Earl Prince (freshman), fifth, 5; Dave Meyer (varsity), sixth, 5:05; Gerold Stevenson (varsity), seventh, 5:17, and Robert Kenworthy (freshman), eighth, 5:30.

Gophers to Face Last Obstacle Today

Take on Wisconsin As Dakota Blizzard Provides Fast Field

Minnesota Favored On Basis of Record; Expect 50,000 Fans

By JAY VESSELS MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The tail end of a Dakota blizzard will whip across the gridiron today as Minnesota plays Wisconsin in the Golden Gophers last obstacle to another perfect season.

But the weatherman said that a biting northwest gale expected last night will blow itself mostly out before game time and snowfall also forecast for last night is scheduled to cease.

That means a fast field, protected from cold and snow by hay and a thick canvas, for Wisconsin's vaunted passing attack which, coupled with the devastating plunges of Fullback Pat Harder, has routed the Badgers as strong on touchdowns, although weak on defense.

It also means firm footing for big hand hitting Minnesota backs led by Capt. Bruce Smith. Smith's threat as a passer is designed to loosen up Wisconsin's soft defense further for some substantial wigging by that twin fullback outfit Bill Daley and Bob Sweiger. Daley, leading conference ground gainer, has averaged 4.51 per try and Sweiger boasts a 4.10 rating.

Minnesota has been made the favorite because of its great showing in a tough schedule beginning at Seattle, September 27, against a University of Washington team now bidding for the Rose Bowl, and including the best squads in the midwest, plus Pittsburgh, conqueror of Fordham.

At least fifty thousand fans will see the game.

Football Scoreboard Picks Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota

Throughout the current football season the WSUI Football Scoreboard of the Air has reviewed the top games in the nation each week and has attempted to select the winners as the board has seen them. Selections for today's games by the board follow: Iowa to beat Nebraska; Indiana to beat Purdue; Michigan to beat Ohio State; Minnesota to beat Wisconsin; Kansas State to beat Iowa State; Fordham to beat St. Mary's; Notre Dame to beat Southern California; Pittsburgh to beat Penn State; Pennsylvania to beat Cornell; Oklahoma to beat Marquette; Alabama to beat Vanderbilt; Southern Methodist to beat Baylor; Texas Christian to beat Rice; Santa Clara to beat U.C.L.A.; Oregon to beat Washington; Tulsa to beat Drake.

Carl Snavely to Continue As Cornell Grid Coach

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Carl Snavely will continue as Cornell university's football coach in 1942, director of athletics James Lynch announced last night. Snavely completes his sixth season as the head of the big red football forces today in Philadelphia when the team engages Penn in a traditional encounter at Franklin field.

All-League Teams Of Intramural Stars To Be Chosen

In previous years at the end of the touch football season, an all-university tournament has been held to determine an all-university champion, and after these games an all-university team was chosen. Inasmuch as it was impossible to hold such a tournament this year, there has been no opportunity to recognize outstanding individual play and choose a mythical honorary team.

Instead, however, an all-league team for each of the divisions into which the competing touch football teams were divided will be selected. These various leagues represent Hillcrest, Quadrangle, Cooperatives, Professional fraternities, class A fraternities and class B fraternities. These honor teams will be presented in a series of articles, one of which will appear each day.

The All-Hillcrest team was chosen by athletic managers, and the competing players themselves. There was no attempt made to select the players in accordance to the positions which they played. The players were chosen for their ability as touch football players, and not for their ability to play a certain position.

The selections are as follows: first team, Co-Capt. Max Landes, first floor; Co-Capt. Bill Pinkston, first floor; Bill Bernstein, third south; Don Thompson, second north; Jim Slater, first, and Don Bueneke, second north. The second team is made up of Earl Meyer, fourth; Larry Ely, fourth; Herb Morgan, second north; Ed Hoag, fourth; Rex Williams, third south, and Platt Kelloway, second south.

U-High Cagers Hold Intra-Squad Workout

Capt. George Lehman led the U-high Bluehaws' first team in scoring and in defense yesterday afternoon in an intra-squad scrimmage.

The varsity boys piled up a 38-10 score against the second team by the end of the game. Lehman accounted for 14 of the 38 points, and Jim Schneberger was close behind with 12 points.

Although the Rivermen look a little rough and unpolished, they showed spurts of good playing as they rolled in two or three baskets in succession before the second team could get started. Lehman, who sparked the varsity, used his height to advantage in the defense angle. Schneberger showed improvement in rebound work and in follow-in shots.

A man-for-man defense was used by both teams for the first three quarters, after which they switched to a zone.

The first team was unchanged except for the substitution of Ed Smith in the place of "Peanuts" Alderman at the forward position in the fourth quarter. The first team consisted of Lehman at center, Bob Alderman and Schneberger at forwards and Jack Shay and Emory Stag at the guard posts. Bob Van der Zee, center; Ed Smith and Don Wagner, forwards; "Butch" Stimmel and Bill Nusser at the guard positions made up the second team.

Tom Farmer's passes, and Green and Bus Mertes' running, will tell a lot of the story, for if ever the Hawks need an offense, it's now. Nebraska will be mean—having lost to even Kansas State this season. Everything's stacked against the Hawkeyes except themselves, and if that's enough to turn the trick, they will be twice the better team than the score indicates. If Iowa wins, it will have beaten not only the Nebraska football team of 1941, but all the past Husker teams which have taken more than their share of Hawkeye victories. . . Iowa wins, the jinx is broken; Iowa loses, the jinx continues.

1941 Grid Season Nears End As Champions Eye Bowl Bids

NEW YORK (AP)—College football nears the end of its 1941 trail today with a nation-wide schedule that is not long but one that is packed with possibilities.

For instance, there's the Wisconsin-Minnesota encounter at Minneapolis. The Gophers are on top of the national standings and need their 17th victory over a span of three years to stay there. The Badgers haven't much to show in the winning column but they've exploded plenty of scoring power at times—an item lacking until last week in Minnesota's drive.

And down south, Duke also will strive to protect a perfect record and a possible bowl bid against a weak North Carolina State eleven. Alabama, beaten only by Mississippi State, battles once-defeated Vanderbilt with a possible share in the Southeastern conference title as the plum. Mississippi, also a strong candidate for southeastern honors, goes out of the conference to meet Arkansas at the Southwest circuit.

It's tradition in the east, with Fordham still hoping to get a bowl bid and Harvard looking for the Big Three title. The Rams, who slipped at Pittsburgh two weeks ago, meet St. Mary's, the eleven that spoiled their perfect record last year while Harvard, already victorious over Princeton, tangles with a woefully weak Yale team.

Cornell Tackles Penn Cornell and Penn promise to explode fireworks at Philadelphia's Franklin field. Navy is expected to have little more than a workout with Princeton in preparation for next week's encounter with the Army. The Cadets expect to have the same against West Virginia at West Point.

Other eastern games bring together Colgate and Columbia at New York, Boston university and Boston college at Boston, Temple and Holy Cross at Worcester, Penn State and Pittsburgh at Pitt and Lafayette and Lehigh at Bethlehem for the Middle Three title. Notre Dame risks its unbeaten but once-tied record against Southern California with a capacity crowd in prospect at South Bend despite the west coast eleven's unimpressive record. Ohio State and Michigan, with second place in the Western conference at stake, tangle at Ann Arbor while thrice-beaten Northwestern, still rated one of the nation's ten best, takes on Bob Zuppke's last Illinois team and Purdue and Indiana fight for the old oaken bucket. Iowa goes out of the conference to meet Nebraska, seeking to get back on the victory trail after losing five straight.

Dartmouth Meets Georgia In addition to the two top games, the southern schedule brings into action Dartmouth and Georgia, Georgia Tech and Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky and Furman and Clemson.

With the Texas Aggies and Texas resting for their encounter next Thursday, the southwest's interest will be focused on Baylor and S. M. U., T. C. U. and Rice, Marquette and Oklahoma and Missouri and Kansas. Texas Christian still has a fighting chance for the conference title. Marquette and Oklahoma should be an interesting affair since Tom Stidham left the Sooners to coach at Marquette. The Missouri-Kansas game is one of those traditional frays in which anything can happen although the Tigers are strong favorites.

Top games on the west coast are Oregon and Washington, and Santa Clara and U. C. L. A. Oregon State meets Montana and Washington State tangles with Gonzaga.

Nebraska has the defense, and a passable offense—Iowa will just have to outscore the foe. This same Husker team held Minnesota to a 9-0 count just the week before the Gophers trounced Iowa, 34 to 13. Nebraska will be mean—having lost to even Kansas State this season. Everything's stacked against the Hawkeyes except themselves, and if that's enough to turn the trick, they will be twice the better team than the score indicates. If Iowa wins, it will have beaten not only the Nebraska football team of 1941, but all the past Husker teams which have taken more than their share of Hawkeye victories. . . Iowa wins, the jinx is broken; Iowa loses, the jinx continues.

Ramblers Scrimmage Against Alumni Team In Defense Workout

Coach Francis Suplee put the St. Mary's Ramblers through a rugged scrimmage against a team of alumni last night in an attempt to work up a defense that will halt Catholic Central of Ottumwa in the scrap scheduled here Wednesday night. The date was originally set for Monday, but was set back.

The Ramblers have been showing up well on offense so far this season, with an average of more than a point a minute in their first two starts, but Coach Suplee is not satisfied with his team's defense. To date the Ramblers have resorted entirely to a man-for-man defense, but last night they tried their hand at the sliding type of defense, and before Wednesday's game, Suplee hopes to experiment with still another type.

Tony Brack is the only returning veteran from last year's successful St. Mary's quintet, Eddie Chadet, having been a reserve member of last year's unit. George Seemuth and Bill Sweeney, forwards, will probably be called on first to oppose Bobby Carr, Ottumwa's speedy guard. In the event that they are unable to hold up on defense, Suplee plans to send Hayden, who has shown greater ability on defense than any other member of the squad, into the game.

Returning from last year's Ottumwa quintet are Carr, fast-moving guard, and Doug Sullivan, forward. Five lettermen of last year are on the squad this season: Bob Jones, who is being tried at center and forward; Dwight Bates, center; Lawrence Bradley, guard; Bill Carr, forward, and Paul Boland, guard.

Wednesday's game will be the opener of the season for Catholic Central, and will be St. Mary's first encounter with a member of the Catholic Big Five conference. This will be the two teams' first meeting since the finals of the substitute tournament last spring, when St. Mary's edged out a narrow 26-21 victory over Ottumwa.

Overlin Jabs Way To Win Over Hostak In 10-Round Match

Winner Gets Chance To Meet Billy Soose In Middleweight Go

By SID FEDER NEW YORK (AP)—Ken Overlin all but jabbed the ears and nose off Al Hostak in Madison Square Garden last night in a 10-round battle of former middleweight champions. With the decision he climbed to the forefront among light heavyweight title challengers. Overlin weighed 163 1-2; Hostak 162.

The sailor boy who once held New York state recognition as 160-pound boss gave the Seattle slugger, former holder of the National Boxing association's title blessing, a post-graduate course in boxing all the way, after weighing the first-minute rally Hostak put on in every round.

In winning, the "skater from Decatur," by way of Norfolk and Washington, not only spoiled the New York debut of the hard-hitting Hostak, but pulled himself into a fight with Billy Soose, who took the New York middleweight crown away from him some months back. The winner of that fight will get a crack at Gus Lesnevich's 175-pound bauble.

All teams wishing to enter the town intramural basketball league are urged to notify the intramural office in the fieldhouse as soon as possible so that arrangements can be made for the opening of play. Any player wishing to participate who have not yet been selected on a team are also requested to turn in their names to the intramural office, and efforts will be made to place them on a team.

The town league games will be scheduled on Mondays and Wednesdays, and play will begin as soon as enough quintets have signed up to organize the league. Play in the other leagues will start next week with the Quadrangle, Hillcrest and Cooperative leagues playing on Mondays and Wednesdays, and the social and professional fraternities battling on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Pastors to Appeal For Tuberculosis Aid

Services to Include Request for Support Of Seal Campaign

Local pastors will enlist their congregations in the fight against tuberculosis at the annual observance of "Christmas Seal Sunday" in churches tomorrow.

Each pastor has been asked to arrange a special message appropriate to the theme of the day by the Johnson county Tuberculosis and Health association.

F. J. Snider, county superintendent of schools, announced yesterday that the sale of Christmas seals in Johnson county townships will be conducted by mail instead of through rural schools.

The success of sales conducted in two townships last year led to the adoption of the plan for all townships, he said. Rural schools distributed most of the seal last year.

The campaign outside of Iowa City is under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Burr of Lincoln township.

Haskell Predicts Rise Up to 50-60 Per Cent In Prices for 1942

Inflation to a startling degree during the next year was predicted yesterday by Prof. George Haskell of the university college of commerce, at the Masonic Service club noon luncheon.

"I think we should be prepared for the possibility that prices may increase 50, 60, or even more than 100 per cent," were Haskell's closing words.

Although he said he disliked to prophesy a gloomy future, he explained that "it is probably far better to anticipate the worst."

According to the speaker, purchasing power is now increasing corresponding with the amount of money people have to spend. Because of this great increase in purchasing power and a decrease in goods available to the consumer, a marked rise in prices is inevitable.

"All of us believe that prices, except those with which we are concerned, should be controlled," Haskell said.

Three methods of financial control were mentioned by Haskell—first, to decrease borrowing to the extent we increase taxes; second, was granted a divorce from Catherine James on the charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. The plaintiff is to pay the costs of the suit. According to the petition the couple was married July 4, 1941, and separated Aug. 1, 1941. Atty. Ingalls Swisher represented James.
