Wartime Courses--

Designed to Meet Emergency Needs Of Armed Forces, Civilian Life—

The office of President Virgil M. Hancher yesterday called the attention of University of Iowa students to a half dozen new courses which will be offered at the beginning of the second semester, relating directly to the wartime emergency and designed to supply specialized training of practical value in certain branches of the armed forces.

Some of them relate practically to the civilian wartime program.

The president's office pointed out that these special courses are in addition to the great number of regular courses which already apply directly to wartime training, either because of their very nature or because necessary and desirable modifications have been made.

* * *

The attention of the student body is called to the following summaries of these courses.

Elementary Electronics

In the face of a need for 100,000 men trained in varying degrees in electronics, especially in the aircraft warning service of the signal corps, the physics department will offer this semester two courses in elementary electronics:

29:24 Elementary Electronics
Section 1 MWF 11 (Lab. arr.) Prof. Lapp 4 s.h.

A course in electricity arranged specifically for those who wish assignment in electronics upon induction or enlistment. Prequisites: two years of high school mathematics and a 2.00 average. Open to junior and senior men. Sophomores may be admitted if recommended by the committee on admission and classification in the college of liberal arts.

Section 2 MWF 1 (Lab. arr.) Prof. Tyndall 4 s.h.

Purpose is the same as Section 1. Additional prerequisite: a college course in electricity or equivalent experience. Open to junior and senior men. Sophomores may be admitted as indicated for Section 1.

(The laboratory work for each of these sections will be a single two-hour period weekly.)

* * *

Dr. Irwin H. Solt of the United States bureau of education has notified university officials that "men with training in electronics will be assigned to work requiring such knowledge provided evidence of training is presented at the time of induction or enlistment and entered upon the individual's record."

Ultra High Frequency Techniques

To aid in filling a growing need in five separate branches of armed and civilian service, the electrical engineering department of the college of engineering will offer a special national defense course in ultra high frequency techniques next semester.

* * *

The course is open as an elective to senior electrical engineering students and to major and graduate students in physics. Graduates from the course will be eligible for work in (1) the army, navy and marine corps in their various branches, (2) the electronics training group replacement program for a period of service in England, (3) governmental research and development, (4) industry, particularly in regard to its military and naval requirements, and (5) teaching, particulary to enlarge the reserve of trained specialists.

* * *

The electrical engineering department here is one of 40 engineering schools cooperating in a large-scale training plan in this advanced area of electrical communication.

The training course was originally suggested by President James B. Conant of Harvard, chairman of the national defense research committee. The syllabus for the course was developed at a special conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at which Iowa's Prof. L. A. Ware was a delegate.

This course will be granted university credit of four hours, and will consist of three hours recitation and one laboratory period each week. Sixteen experiments wil be carried out for which some special equipment was provided by the United States government.

Applied Mathematics

The mathematics department will offer the course 22:(6)-1 Applied Mathematics (4 s.h.) during the second semester. This course may be substituted for course (6) except as prerequisite for calculus. Prerequisites: Course (5) or (9) and the consent of the department.

The class, under the direction of Prof. A. T. Craig and other members of the staff, will meet MWF at 10, in room 319 of the physics building.

Child Welfare

45:103 Group Care of Children (3 s.h.)

This is a practical course designed to give, through instruction, observation and practice, the basic principles of group management of children below school age. Emphasis will be placed on the care of children in new wartime groups.

The course is open to juniors, seniors and graduate students in any department, on approval of the department heads as indicated in the note under the heading "Child Welfare" in the schedule of courses.

Lectures will be held each Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a.m., at 7 East Market street. A two-hour laboratory will be arranged.

Home Economics

17:25-3 Food and Nutrition Problems (2 s.h.)

Lab. 81 TTh 3-5 (213 MH)	Schmidt
82 MW 10-12 (213 MH)	Schmidt
83 MW 8-10 (213 MH)	Roberts

Physical Education for Women

28:27 First Aid (10 weeks) (1 s.h.)

Section 1 MW 9 (Women's gymnasium)	Dr. Boulware
2 TTh 9 (Women's gymnasium)	Dr. Boulware

This course is open to juniors and seniors. A few freshmen and sophomores may be admitted if recommended for acceptance by the committee on admission and classification of the college of liberal arts. Size of the class is limited to 30 in each section.

Senate-House Price Control Bill Deadlock Nearing Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate-house deadlock over wartime price control legislation approached a compromise late yesterday after 10 days of controversy.

Senator Brown (D-Mich.) told reporters that the joint congressional committee appointed to adjust senate-house differences "made considerable progress on getting together" but added that all conferees had agreed not to discuss details.

"We will meet again tomorrow afternoon in hopes of winding this conference up," Brown said.

Senate majority leader Barkley (D-Ky.), after a trip to the White House where he discussed the measure with President Roosevelt, also indicated that an agreement was near.

"I'm sure we'll be able to get together on this," he asserted.

Meanwhile Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.,) appealed to the conference committee and the public in behalf of his senate-approved amendment to tie farm parity prices to industrial wage rates.

Parity is a price giving a farm product the same purchasing power it had in the 1909-14 period. The O'Mahoney amendment, critics have contended, would mean that no ceiling could be placed on farm prices until they had reached about 120 per cent of parity as now figured.

President Roosevelt last week also criticized the amendment as one which would compel inflation.

Naval Aviation Board Is Here For Two Days

Will Meet Students At Radio Building Today and Tomorrow

Two members of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board from St. Louis will meet with University of Iowa students who are interested in naval aviation this afternoon and throughout the day tomorrow in Studio E of the radio building.

They are Ensign James Hadgis and Ensign William Corley, who will talk to students from 1 to 5:30 this afternoon and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. tomorrow.

* * *

Through arrangements with Dr. Chester I. Miller, director of student health, the board members will give preliminary physical examinations to applicants.

ON THE AIR

Ensign James Hadgis, USNR, will be interviewed over WSUI at 12:45 today by Joe Sitrick of the WSUI staff. A member of the naval aviation cadet selection board from St. Louis, Ensign Hadgis will discuss the requirements naval aviation cadets must meet.

Students who pass the preliminary examinations will be provided round-trip train fare from Cedar Rapids (the nearest naval recruiting office) to St. Louis for the final physical examination.

* * *

There are a limited number of openings in the naval reserve for graduate engineers, Ensign Hadgis told The Iowan yesterday. The board members will be glad to talk to students who may be interested in that type of service. Those who

Nippon Planes Bomb New Britain Island

New Japanese Attack Extends War Theater Nearly 2,000 Miles

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Planes from a Japanese aircraft carrier took the war yesterday to the island of New Britain, strategically situated nearly 500 miles northeast of the Australian mainland on the united nations' route of supply from the east.

Both bombers and fighters struck in force at the air base of Rabaul, the main city on the Australian-mandated island. Air Minister A. S. Drakeford, reporting the mid-day assault, said the meager information available indicated that some military damage was caused.

New Britain is in the Bismarck archipelago, nearly 3,500 miles east of Singapore and about 4,000 miles southwest of Honolulu.

The attack extended by nearly 2,000 miles the Japanese line of assault on southwest Pacific islands, an assault which has been carried out methodically on bases from Sumatra, Netherlands East Indies, eastward.

Actually there now is a lull in the East Indies attack. Dutch official reports yesterday covered only two raids, one on Sabang, on the island of We, five miles off the northern tip of Sumatra, and another—by a single bomber—on Siebolga, on the Sumatra west coast.

Dutch naval planes, continuing the aerial counter-offensive in which U.S. bombers have participated, twice raided the Japanese-held airport at Kuching, capital of occupied Sarawak, starting fires and damaging the field.

The Australian war cabinet meanwhile put into practical effect conscription of all civilian male labor, while New Zealand called up the first married men yet to be summoned to the colors in that dominion. The New Zealanders will be trained for territorial service only.

Under the Australian decision labor departments of various states will be the sole channels for employment of men by either government or private employer. The departments will compile a national service register of available manpower.

Announcement--

STUDENTS CALLED TO SERVICE RECEIVE PROPORTIONAL CREDIT

Arrangements have been made by the university administration to cover the granting of credit to students who are called into service in the armed forces during a semester, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday.

Text of the announcement:

"Under existing rules it is possible to cancel registrations during the first six weeks of any semester without obtaining credit. It is anticipated that there will be no change in this rule.

"Arrangements have been made, however, by the colleges of liberal arts, engineering, pharmacy and commerce for the granting of credit to those students who are called from the university after that six-week period.

"Those arrangements provide that students called to service shall obtain partial credit on courses in which their work is satisfactory, in general proportion to the period they are able to remain in school. Such credit will be granted as soon as the student has entered upon active duty with the armed forces.

"Any student in these colleges who is called to service should see the dean of his college for the procedure to be followed in obtaining such credit."

BRITISH STOP 'QUISLING' ATTEMPT

Premier U Saw

Arrest of U Saw, premier of Burma, by British authorities is said to have halted a plot to deliver Burma to the Japanese. It is from Burma that the Allies may attempt a drive against the Japanese flank in Malaya to relieve pressure on Singapore. The map, above, also shows how Burma protects India from Japanese attack as long as it remains in British control. The Burma road, vital to the Chungking Chinese government as a supply route, also originates in Burma. Burma has a population of 14,000,000. U Saw recently visited the United States at which time the photo, at right, was taken. U Saw departed for home on Dec. 6, the day before the Far East war began.

House Unit Approves Huge Measure Calling For Funds for Planes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A house appropriations subcommittee, with unprecedented speed, approved ate yesterday a $12,525,872,474 fund for new war planes which Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) called "the largest single estimate for military for military equipment in the history of the nation."

They received the request Monday, completed hearings yesterday, approvd the recommendations and will try to get it before the house on Friday.

Plan to Inaugurate War Traffic Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans for inauguration of special FBI war traffic schools for police, to be conducted in 120 strategically-located cities, beginning Feb. 9, were announced last night by the justice department.

The schools will furnish to police personnel instruction on many wartime traffic problems, such as dealing with bomb damage to streets and buildings, traffic hazard of traffic without traffic lights ards during air raids and control diurng black-outs.

Automobile and Truck Production Will End

Nelson Gets Approval For Reorganization Plans for Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — War production chief Donald M. Nelson in two swift moves last night ordered production of passenger automobiles and light trucks stopped entirely on February 1, and obtained executive approval of his "streamlined" reorganization plan for the industrial front.

Nelson put a final end to speculation over the automotive industry's immediate future by clamping down shortly after taking his plans before the production board's first meeting. Later he spent an hour and 10 minutes with President Roosevelt outlining his reorganization program.

On leaving the White House, he told reporters that Mr. Roosevelt had approved a blueprint of the new setup and in response to a question whether it called for reorganization of the entire program, he said:

"Not everything, but we are going to streamline for action. I think you will agree when you see it."

Motor-Torpedo Boat Makes Daring Attack On Japanese Vessel

Navy Reports Strong Counter Measures Against Enemy Subs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fast, tiny motor-torpedo boat of the United States navy dashed into a Philippines bay, the navy announced last night, ran a gauntlet of machine gun and shore battery fire and torpedoed a 5,000 ton Japanese ship.

At the same time, the navy said strong counter measures had been undertaken against enemy submarines off the Atlantic seaboard. These, it added, attacked several vessels in addition to those reported in the last few days.

The foray of the torpedo boat apparently was intended to support the operations of General Douglas MacArthur against the Japanese on Batan Peninsula, between Manila bay and the South China sea. At the upper end and on the seaward side of the peninsula lies Subic bay. The attack occurred in Binanga bay, which is part of Subic bay and lies to the seaward side of the upper end of the peninsula.

Japs Renew Attacks

Meanwhile, MacArthur reported that the Japs had renewed their attack, concentrating on the center of his line. He also informed the department that six army bombers had sunk a Japanese cruiser near Jolo, between the Philippines and Borneo, and had left a big Japanese tanker in flames.

This cruiser and the 5,000-ton ship brought to a total of 41 the number of Japanese vessels destroyed by the American army, navy and marine corps in a little more than six weeks of fighting.

* * *

In command of the torpedo boat was 30-year old Lieutenant John D. Bulkeley, of New York and Texas. The navy said he had been commended for carrying out his mission successfully.

* * *

The torpedo boats are very heavily armed, extremely speedy craft built for just such raids as that credited to Bulkeley and his crew.

Each of these small craft, of which the navy has several score, carries four fifty calibre machine guns housed in two turrets driven by compressed air, and four eighteen-inch torpedo tubes. Thus they may be used either for lightning blows against surface ships or for speedy defensive action against low flying airplane attacks.

Enemy Subs Operating Off U.S. Atlantic Coast Made Several Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The navy announced yesterday that enemy submarines operating off the United States Atlantic coast had made several attacks on vessels other than the three sinkings of tankers and one damaging already announced.

Vessels involved in these new attacks were not identified and no details were given.

"Strong counter measures are being taken by units of the navy's east coastal command," a communique said.

Germans Blasted From Last Citadel of Drive on Moscow

Leaving Entire City Crimson With Flames the Nazis Face Prospect of Cruel 200 Mile Retreat To the Dnieper Sector

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON—The red army has recaptured Mozhaisk in a hard-won victory which blasted the Germans from the last advanced citadel of their broken drive upon Moscow and left the invader facing the prospect of a cruel, 200 mile retreat to the Dnieper.

The reoccupation of Mozhaisk, announced officially by Moscow last night after a 45-day offensive, sent Adolf Hitler's legions reeling back along Napoleon's terrible road of retreat and left Orel, on the south, and Rzhev, in the north, the only remaining strongpoints held by the invader on the present Moscow front.

Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, is on the main Moscow-Smolensk-Minsk road and the Germans once were reported to have 100,000 men in the battle for the vital salient.

What remains of these forces is in danger of entrapment by Soviet armies which have driven the claws of a giant pincers to the rear of Mozhaisk in the vicinity of Vyazma, 70 miles to the west.

Some prisoners already have been taken, Moscow said.

Even if some of the Germans do get through the narrowing gap, there are no suitable defensive positions short of Smolensk, where Hitler supposedly had established his headquarters.

There the Dnieper curves southward, affording the most likely position for a German defensive stand.

The Russians announced that German casualties were heavy in the bitterly-contested battle for Mozhaisk.

The Germans captured Mozhaisk in mid-November and had been under heavy pressure since the red army counter-offensive started Dec. 6.

The stubborn German resistance at Mozhaisk was described by the army organ Red Star early Monday (Russian time) in a dispatch telling of bloody hand-to-hand fighting raging through streets crimson with flames started by the nazis. Red Star said the entire city was afire.

Last night's Russian communique told also of the recapture of Ostashevo, described as a district center, and the village of Plensonskoye. Neither is shown on maps.

The Soviet air force, credited with a big part in the unipterrupted string of Russian victories, loads of troops and supplies and listed 39 German tanks, 730 trucks, two railway trains destroyed in behind-the-line raids on Monday alone.

Cutting in back of Mozhaisk, Soviet units were reported less than 40 miles from Vyazma, the next major point on the rail line running west toward Smolensk.

Japs Within Sixty Miles Of Singapore

Indiscriminate Air Bombing Sets Pace For Ground Attacks

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Japanese advanced yesterday to within 60 miles of Singapore in western Malaya, where their blows were falling hard along a 30-mile sector stretching from the Muar river down to the vicinity of Batu Bahat, and on the eastern front enemy patrols penetrated to the area of Endau, about 75 miles above this base.

While the invader's pressure still was rising, particularly against the heroic and outnumbered Australians on the west, Japanese warplanes were in heavy action, loosing over Singapore bombs which fell indiscriminately upon military and residential areas alike.

Civilian casualties in the morning airraids on Singapore were estimated at about 50 killed and 150 injured.

* * *

The RAF was casting out its fighter craft in offensive sweeps centered about the Muar and British bombers were in action against enemy bases, but not even these and the presence of United States bombers striking behind the Japanese lines appeared to have overturned the invader's aerial superiority.

Most Critical Area

It was the region of the Muar which of all was most critical—an area where the Australians had been slowly pushed back for the last two or three days in wild fighting running an extraordinary range from artillery and tank action down to the most elemental sport of sniping in the lush, green of the jungle.

One Australian force survived an encirclement, formed by the enemy's infiltrations, and fought off much heavier forces until relief arrived, in some instances using hand grenades thrown point blank to knock out enemy tanks which could not be reached by anti-tank guns. Japanese crews crawling from their wounded vehicles were killed one by one by Australian infantrymen.

Yesterday's bombing of Singapore caused admitted damage to some military installations.

Daylight-Saving Time Will Go Into Effect In the U.S. Feb. 9

WASHINGTON (AP)—America will go on daylight-saving time Feb. 9 to conserve electricity for the titanic war effort.

President Roosevelt signed a daylight-saving bill yesterday, and at 2 a.m. (local time) on Feb. 9 the clocks will be turned ahead an hour for the duration of the war. Although the bill applies only to interstate commerce activities and the federal government, it is expected to be observed by most of the nation.

The new act will become ineffective six months after the war ends.

Acting President Castill Says There Will Be—

Argentina-Axis Will Not Break

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—"Right or wrong," Argentina will not break relations with Germany, Japan and Italy, acting President Ramon S. Castillo told a press conference last night.

* * *

Castillo, in an interview at his summer home in nearby Martinez, declared that Argentina had not veered from her position of neutrality toward all warring nations, except the United States which she declared a nonbelligerent.

* * *

By holding the United States nonbelligerent the government opened its port to unlimited stays by U.S. warships.

The acting president's declaration came in the midst of reports that Argentina might join other American republics to put up a solid hemispheric front against the axis as proposed at the current Pan-American conference of foreign ministers at Rio de Janeiro.

Castillo asserted that Argentina's position "is open, frank and loyal and represents, right or wrong, the opinion of the country."

* * *

Argentina's position, he said, "has been misinterpreted to the point where they say Argentina is not going to collaborate in the foreign minister's conference."

"But Argentina, which defends the thesis that it believes best for America, will collaborate," the acting president went on.

By this he apparently meant collaboration on all hemisphere matters excluding a unanimous break with the axis.

Castillo said the foreign office might make an official statement later.

Foreign minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, chief of the Argentine delegation at Rio de Janeiro, is "carrying out instructions given him by the cabinet," the acting president declared.

• Confidence, Courage and Faith Won't Win This War Alone—

National defense has become the keynote of the campus as well as of the nation, and everywhere life has taken on a more serious tone with a single purpose—victory. In the years gone by, colleges have safely observed the world and national happenings through a window of impregnability. Now that window is shattered, and safety and complacency are gone.

Love of country and honor and patriotism are being shouted and sung and printed across the face of the United States. We have begun to swell with pride and affection, at least in an outward way, for America the Free.

* * *

Oh, yes, we are confident, we are courageous, and we have faith. But that's not all it takes to win a war. It takes sacrifices, sorrow and most important of all —action! Pearl Harbor will be remembered, but not only because it marks the beginning of our declared entrance into World War II. It will also be remembered because it proved to the rest of the world as well as to ourselves that mere words of faith or courage won't do the trick. It takes action— it takes material supplies, and it takes wholehearted cooperation.

Right here on the campus, defense has overshadowed all else. Those more hasty and reluctant to stay out of the actual conflict have put aside school books and gone into the various branches of the military forces. But those who remain behind feel just as keenly the need for action and realize that they have a task equally important right here.

Into defense production will go a great number of these students, better equipped for the jobs because of their education. Others have changed their entire course of study to fit themselves for wartime existence. Women students are going enthusiastically into Red Cross work and in many instances preparing themselves to take the place of those men who have gone to fight. Indeed, the university is not a strong hold of indifference or complacency. Every student does and must feel his own responsibility in the setup we face today.

We have learned that loud cries of patriotism, boasts of power and complacent pride are not enough. They are all forms of procrastination. It's good to be a patriot, it's good to believe in our prowess, and it's equally good to be proud of our country. But we must now prove that we are willing to sacrifice for our rights; we must back up our faith with results; and we must not be too proud to roll up our sleeves and sweat a little for freedom.

* * *

Whatever we do, we must do now! Never has wasted time been so regretted as it is today. America has rubbed the sleep out of her eyes and is beginning to see clearly. It is not up to the fighting forces alone to win this war. Behind them the rest of us must stand. We must see that they are equipped properly, that they have faith in our support, and that we do not fail them.

It's action and cooperation today for victory and security tomorrow!

• Education in Wartime—

IF IT'S A LONG WAR, you're going to see some important changes in the pattern of American education. The goal is going to be that of getting our youngsters through with their formal education before they reach draft age and in the working out of the plan, our school system from kindergarten to university is going to be subjected to some extremely close scrutiny.

Already our institutions of higher learning are moving into a plan under which students can obtain in three years the degree which used to come at the end of four years. There's talk of finding a way to reduce the high school requirement to three years. Thus it would be possible for a boy to have both high school and college out of the way when he reaches age 20.

Up to this time the principal device for accomplishing this has been continuous session, with no prolonged summer vacations. As we go along, however, more and more emphasis will be placed on evaluating the educational value of the curricular offerings. If there's underbrush to be cut out, now would be a grand time to wield the ax. — Mason City Globe-Gazette.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

• Donald Nelson Has Free Hand In Becoming Czar of Industry—

WASHINGTON—There is grumbling because Donald Nelson has no act of congress upon which to stand and do the biggest job of the war—generalissimo of production on the home front. The related facts of the appointment are these:

Mr. Roosevelt promised to let Mr. Nelson write his own White House law. The president kept that promise. The executive order was written by Mr. Nelson and his OPM attorney, Milton Katz, formerly with the Securities and Exchange commission and justice department. Friends told Nelson that he had better make it good, or some day he might wish he had. Mr. Roosevelt signed it without changing a word.

No one needs a law around this town ordinarily if Mr. Roosevelt is for him. This order gives Nelson the president's firm backing to direct the OPM, army and navy procurement and even Jesse Jones (first time the commerce secretary ever let anyone get authority to tell him what to do.)

The difference between this and the old order is clearly presented on the point of the supply priorities and allocations board. Formerly the board made decisions and Nelson was only the executive officer designated to carry out the decisions. Now Nelson will act with "the advice and assistance" (but not the consent) of the board. He has a free directing hand.

Mr. Roosevelt, of course, still holds loose reins. Nelson is to be his agent. The president may prescribe "added duties" for Nelson. Yet the very nature of the order (plus Nelson's independent personality) makes it clear FDR is handing the whole matter over to Nelson with only a few inconsequential legal strings attached.

A Genuine Reorganization—

This, then, is a genuine reorganization, the first one so far. It is a reorganization to end all reorganizations on our most important battle line in the factories. Mr. Roosevelt jumped to it only 24 hours ahead of the bayonet in the Truman committee report, exposing gross deficiencies of the old setup.

If another reorganization ever becomes necessary, the continuing Truman committee will no doubt take hold of it for congress.

But there is no reason for expecting that. Nelson has a terrific will to win. He is not a fuddy-duddy kow-tower to the great invisible god of drag behind all swivel chairs in Washington—the influence of connections in the New Deal family, the august aloofness of army and navy which no civilian has ever penetrated, "who" went to college with "whom," etc.

How far the president went in this respect is disclosed in his designation of William Knudsen as a lieutenant general. FDR had to reach for a lot of stars for that lofty title, but it was necessary so Knudsen could outrank some of the generals of the war department and be able to overrule them.

Mr. Roosevelt could only have been thinking of army ordnance (procurement and munitions boards) upon whom criticism has long been centered. Knudsen is supposed to be sent into the field, right into the production plants, where his genius for mass production can best be used. Yet it is possible he or Nelson will direct some long needed administrative changes—such as requiring one officer of ordnance to be responsible for each project, rather than allowing the whole bureau to be responsible for everything.

Centralization of authority, now at long last accepted at the top, may yet be made the dominant theme of our war effort all the way down the line.

'Wantitative Colossalism' Out —

Nelson himself certainly knows he is to take the rap, the whole rap and nothing but the rap for victory or defeat. When friends congratulated him, he said he really deserved their commiserations.

His first job is to cut through what Sorokin might call the "wantitative colossalism" of the old regime and get himself an efficient setup. He probably will put his own procurement experts into the war and navy alongside present officers to show them how to move fast.

OPM will no doubt decline and evolve into a Nelson staff, and a comfortable bench for all the industrialists and labor leaders not otherwise occupied. Priorities will probably go into the army - navy munitions board. A Nelson board may be appointed to advise him on plant conversion. Someone has suggested Sidney Hillman should be made an admiral (screams of anguish from the navy department.)

Initial tough nut for Nelson will be the situation in the motors industry. Most government authorities are ready to shoot motor industrialists at sunrise for suggesting private car production be carried beyond January. They say auto tool shops are still working only half time—half time on a front far more vital to victory than the Philippines, Singapore and Libya combined.

• The Navy May Lose a Tradition—

The Navy's age-old boast, from the time of John Paul Jones we're told, of never having resorted to a draft program to fill her vacancies, may be blown sky high by new ideas.

We would hate to see the navy part with any of its ego, but we must agree with the basic ideas of recent proposals which contend that the country's recruiting offices are working in strong competition with each other, and are therefore cutting down the efficiency of all units.

Something ought to be done!

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

• Nobody Is Left Who'll Keep Still

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Everybody's doing it now. Talking.

What a blow to silence when great Chaplin fell!

Then Tarzan . . .

And now the Monster. Frankenstein's pet, science's animated caricature, Universal's bad-dream man. He, too. On all the screen there is no remaining citadel of silence, no actor who will keep his blamed trap shut.

Tarzan fell last time, remember. He long since had been graduated from "Ugh!" to "Blub!" and, through happy jungle marriage to Jane, had progressed to linguistic brilliance now climaxed by a courtroom plea for the return of Tarzan and Jane's kidnapped boy.

This is in "Tarzan Against the World," which was in production even as Tarzan Johnny Weissmuller's latest hit the theaters.

* * *

If a courtroom Tarzan seems strange, stranger still is a Tarzan in clothes. Tarzan Weissmuller, who made his movie debut 10 years ago and is now on his seventh film adventure, tarries briefly in the jungle this time—only long enough for son John Sheffield to be abducted by wicked circus people. Maureen O'Sullivan Jane leads Tarzan on the chase back to New York and civilization. Jane sheds her neat buckskin for Fifth Avenue duds, and Tarzan gets himself a couple of tailor-made suits.

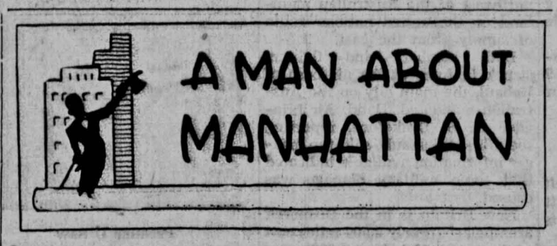
Here arose a nifty contractual problem. Tarzan Weismuller pointed out that his deal called for only one costume, his loincloth and skin. Studios are supposed to provide actors with "character" wardrobe, although for everyday modern clothes they supply their own. Tarzan-in-clothes, as Johnny pointed out, is "character" stuff, and Metro's tailors got busy.

* * *

Frankenstein's monster was left burning in a sulphur pit last we heard, but surprise! surprise! It never hurt him and he got away for "The Ghost of Frankenstein." Boris Karloff also got away to Broadway, so today we find Lon Chaney, who has dropped the Jr.) wearing the familiar accoutrements of horror.

Chaney looks like the Karloff creation, only not so lean and gaunt. When the son of Frankenstein perished for fooling around with his dad's pet, it seems a second son came along in the person of Sir Cedric Hardwicke, noted brain surgeon. The twisted Ygor (Bela Lugosi), who was shot last time, didn't die either. Instead he found the monster, still kicking in the pit but badly needing a new charge of life-giving electricity. Dr. Hardwicke didn't want to play, but when the monster killed his upstanding young assistant, science got the better of wisdom. Since the monster, he knew, had the brain of a criminal, why not give him the brain of a righteous man. But then twisted Ygor got killed, and jealous Lionel Atwill switched brains on the good doctor.

That's when the monster begins to talk, but the Universal scientists hadn't figured yet in whose voice. They thought it might be in the voice of Ygor Lugosi, seeing some connection between brain and vocal cords.



• Successful Play —After Ten Years!

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—When Louis Sorin stepped into the role of the Greenwich Village landlord in "My Sister Eileen" it had been ten years since he had figured in a play that was a theatrical and financial success.

"Ten years is a long time," I said. "What have you been doing?"

"Playing in one flop after another."

In fact, recalled Louis, he played in so many flops that long ago he ceased to remember their names. Like the girl who was often a bridesmid but never a bride, he was often employed but never for long. Plays are hazardous undertakings. It takes a berserk, wild, and impulsive imagination to persuade a man to risk his money in the theater. But at least a backer or a producer has money, if nothing else, to start with. A poor actor has nothing unless he hits early and often.

* * *

So when Louis Sorin mentioned that ten years lapse between hits, punctuated by one flop after another, I wondered how a man could live, or at least make ends meet, under those conditions.

"You can't," Sorin said, "you can't even exist, but nowadays actors in the theaters have something their brothers of the preceding generation never dreamed of — radio." There are literally scores of dramatic programs that are aired every hour of the day and the night. Though he was often idle in the theater, he has worked steadily on the radio. Most of this employment has been in anonymous roles in soon forgotten dramas, but the pay has been good and without interruption.

* * *

"I played every sort of character imaginable. I've been a minister, a Mississippi gambler, a hod carrier. Once they asked me to play an impassioned lover, and the director of that radio skit at once confided that he intended to develop me into some sort of a minor Romeo."

* * *

"My Sister Eileen" is in its second year now, and Sorin was given the part of Mr. Appopolous when Morris Carnovsky stepped out of the role for another assignment. Does he like it? Yes, but he sums up the situation thusly:

"I'm delighted—but I remember that dreary succession of flops that lasted ten years. I also remember the countless, if nameless, radio dramatizations that fed me and clothed me well during those years. I'm a theater man, but a radio man too, and I think I always shall be."

Percy H. Bliss to Present Movies, Lecture At Student Meeting of Engineering Society

Former Surveyor, Teacher, Is Holder Of Fellowship Here

Percy H. Bliss, holder of the J. Waldo Smith fellowship in engineering, will lecture and present motion pictures at the student meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in studio E of the engineering building.

Bliss will show three pictures. The first, "The Institute of Hydraulic Research," shows projects in progress at the university hydraulics laboratory this year. The second movie, "Fishing in the Canadian Quentico Provincial Park," presents a series of pictures taken on a two-week fishing trip to the Wilderness lakes of Canada. The final picture was taken at the shalom championship skiing races at Aspen, Col.

Bliss was awarded a fellowship here by the American Society of Civil Engineers for a year's research in the hydraulics laboratory. He was graduated from Columbia university in New York in 1932, and since then has held surveying, engineering and teaching positions.

Bliss has worked as a surveyer for the United States general land office, the United States coast and geodetic survey and the United States geological survey.

He taught for two and a half years at Multnomish university, Portland, Ore., as head of the civil engineering department, and worked for four years with the United States engineer's office there. Before coming to Iowa this year, Bliss was with the United States bureau of reclamation at Denver, Col.

Pi Beta Phi Sorority To Give Up Spring Party for Red Cross

Voting to give up one of their spring parties for funds for Red Cross, Pi Beta Phi sorority expressin a material way the general desire evidenced on the campus to aid in national defense.

The contribution donated to Red Cross will buy yarn so that university women may continue to knit. It was understood that the university wasn't accounted for in the Johnson county fund for yarn, according to Joan Workman, C4 of Keosauqua, vice-president of the sorority, and due to this fact the stipulation was made.

"We thought that we could do our part in national defense best by giving up this party and donating the money to Red Cross so that university women may knit," Miss Workman stated.

Wear 'Buns'!

To keep the coiffure looking neat and well-groomed throughout the day, try pinning two healthy "buns" low on the nape of your neck. From a right part in front, hair is waved back into side rolls, the top achieving the popular pompadour look.

Band Positions Still Available

Positions in both concert and varsity bands are still available to second semester registrants, according to Prof. C. B. Righter, director of university bands.

Students interested in registering for band during the second semester are requested to make appointments for auditions with Professor Righter in room 15, of the music studio building.

The concert band is preparing for several local concerts ,the first to be given Feb. 11 in Iowa Union. Plans are also under way for the annual spring tour of the week of March 23.

In the spring selected members of the varsity band join with the concert band in presenting concerts during the commencement week.

University Chemists Study New Process For Metal Analysis

Electrographic analysis, a relatively new method of analyzing metals or alloys, is being studied in the chemistry department under the direction of Prof. Louis J. Waldbauer and Lothrop Smith.

This method, which has been used in the United States since 1929, but is still little known, may be useful in detecting sabotage, university men pointed out. For example, copper deposists, remaining on a knife which has cut wire are easily detected. This is particularly advantageous because it doesn't destroy the surface of a tool offered for evidence since only a very thin layer is removed.

The process is not necessarily restricted to metals but is more applicable to them due to the difficulties of breaking them down by other methods.

In electrographic analysis, composition of the metal is literally written on paper. Pieces of paper impregnated with suitable reagents are placed between the positive and negative electrodes and the metal. Electricity is conducted through the electrodes and the metal so that deposits are made.

The paper is then developed, giving a chemical picture showing the exact composition of the surface of all points. When different reagents are used on the paper, the various elements form ions which react and the formation of colors from the reaction writes the composition of the metal.

This sensitive analysis is much faster and does not damage the material as do some other methods. It has also been used to analyze plant tissues. Bell telephone laboratories first developed the method in this country. University scientists have been studying it since last fall.

Lois Corder Speaks At U. W. A. Meeting

Mrs. E. T. Hubbard Lists Women's Part In National Defense

Wearing the symbolistic white of the nursing profession, Lois B. Corder, director of the school of nursing and state chairman of the Red Cross nursing service, set forth the possibilities for university women in Red Cross nursing at yesterday's discussion meeting in the river room of Iowa Union.

Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, Johnson county nutrition head, joint speaker at the meeting, answered the question being asked by college women, "What Can I Do for National Defense?"

"This is our war and everyone of us must knuckle down to the job of winning the war. In Germany every man, woman and child give, not only part, but all of their time to winning the war," challenged Mrs. Hubbard.

She pointed out that every woman has a definite part in the war and that most of them can not fly airplanes and work in machine shops but must do their part at home.

University women are realizing this as evidenced by their attendance at the University Women's association meetings and their active interest in the training courses being offered on the campus and by the local Red Cross.

Mrs. Hubbard answered questions in regard to the various classes being offered and emphasized the future and present need of trained leadership in every community.

"There is nothing so rare as trained intelligence and nothing so much needed."

Just what it takes to be a Red Cross nurse in the army or navy was explained by Miss Corder who also pointed out the value of training in fundamental first aid and home nursing in case of local emergencies or disasters.

There is a general shortage of nurses throughout the country and the Red Cross has set a goal of 50,000 nurses for the first reserve. The local chapter is offering home nursing and volunteer nurse aid corps classes which are open to anyone who can meet the time requirements.

The first reserve of the Red Cross, which is the reserve from which army and navy nurses are chosen for service, is composed of nurses available for service under 40 years of age, single, able to meet physical qualifications.

In addition, many courses are being offered on the campus in connection with national defense and for which credit will be given.

Women's Chrus Joins Women's Chorus Joins In Concert Tonight

The University Symphony Orchestra, joined by a woman's chorus and soloists, will present its first concert of the year tonight at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp will conduct.

Opening the program will be "A Symphony to Dante's 'Divine Comedy' " by Franz Liszt. The two movements are I. "Inferno" and II. "Purgatorio e Magnificat." Assisting in this work will be a woman's chorus trained by Prof. Herald Stark with Joan Joehnk, A3 of Iowa City, as soloist.

Fritz Baker, A3 of Baldwin, N.Y., will be heard as soloist in the "Concerto in D major (K. 314) for Flute with Orchestra" by Mozart. The three movements are allegro aperto, andante ma non troppo and allegro.

Prof. Hans Koelbel of the music department will conduct the "Hymnus" for 12 violoncellos by his teacher, the late Julius Klengel. Klengel, for many years first cellist of the Leipzig Gewandhaus orchestra, numbers among his pupils such noted players as Emmanuel Feuermann, Gregor Piatgorsky, and Joseph Schuster.

Two soloists will be featured in the closing work, " 'The Blessed Damozel', Lyric Poem after Dante Gabriel Rossetti, for Women's Voices and Orchestra" by Claude Debussy. Andrea Johannsen, G of Cedar Rapids, will sing the soprano role of the Damozel and Verna Belle Vennard, A2 of Sioux City, will be heard in the leading contralto role.

Prospective Medics To File Applications For Third Semester

Applications from prospective medical students to begin work in June under the new 12-month plan of the college of medicine should be on file in the registrar's office by April 1, Harry G. Barnes, registrar, announced yesterday.

Iowa's college of medicine is aligned with the plan of the American Medical College association. In December the organization recommended that member schools accelerate their teaching program by going on the 12 month basis because of the anticipated and actual shortages of physicians in the wartime emergency.

Heath Gets Honor

Jeff 'Most Valuable' To Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jeff Heath, who might have been a poor gamble at the waiver price a year ago, was honored last night for one of baseball's remarkable comebacks.

The Cleveland Indians' slugging outfielder came all the way from his Puget Sound home near Seattle, Wash., to munch chicken at a dinner of the local chapter of the Baseball Writers association. He was honored with a flock of praise words, a trophy naming him the Tribe's most valuable player of 1941, and a super deluxe set of left-handed golf clubs.

Af for new bats, Jeff reckoned he didn't need any. His old ones gave him .340 in last season's American league batting race. That left him trailing only Ted Williams, who is army-bound; Cecil Travis, already in the service, and Joe DiMaggio, who isn't expected to trade uniforms.

"If I have any luck at all I could win the batting title this time," Hoped Heath.

Jeff's .343 in his 1938 freshman season made him runner-up for this batting title. He then went into a two-year slump which in 1940 left him with a .219 average and great disgust. He bounced out of it last year with 199 hits—including 24 home runs, 20 triples and 32 doubles—against 78 for the preceding campaign.

Hornsby Added To Baseball's Hall of Fame

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown is slowly becoming more populous—and not with ghosts, either.

Rogers Hornsby, alive and vigorous, was added yesterday to the group of 25 immortals who already have been enshrined in baseball's birthplace.

The Rajah, now nearing 46 years of age, completed his active career in the major leagues only four seasons ago and now is manager of Fort Worth in the Texas league.

He was named on 182 ballots in a poll of 233 baseball writers conducted by Bill Brandt, pubilcity director of the National league, in the first election since 1939 and thus caught up with the honor he missed by a small margin three years ago.

A three-fourths vote was needed to elect and although 72 different players were offered by the writers, each of whom was asked to list ten nominees, Hornsby was the only star selected.

Earned Accolade

There was no question that the greatest righthanded hitter in baseball's long history had earned the accolade. In 23 years in the majors he carved an everlasting niche for himself. He played for five different clubs and managed four of them, led the National league in batting for seven seasons—six in succession from 1920 and again in 1928, hit over .400 for three different years, and twice was named the most valuable player in the senior circuit.

He set many batting records that still stand for baseball's modern era, the foremost being his .424 average for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1924.

Hornsby broke into the majors with the Redbirds in 1915. Ten years later he became their manager and in 1926 steered them to a world championship.

14th Star Chosen

When he couldn't agree on a new contract he was traded to the New York Giants for Frank Frisch and a pitcher, then was shuttled to the Boston Braves, whom he managed for one season, and subsequently continued to the Chicago Cubs and back to St. Louis for stands with both the Cards and Browns.

Hornsby was the 14th star of the modern era chosen by the baseball writers. Those named previously were Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, Napoleon Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Cy Young, Grover Alexander, George Sisler, Eddie Collins, Willie Keeler and Lou Gehrig. All except Mathewson, Keller and Gehrig are still alive.

Cyclone Tankmen Win

AMES, Ia. (AP)—Iowa State college swimmers opened their season yesterday with a 52 to 32 victory over Carleton college. The Cyclones grabbed eight firsts and led throughout the meet.

South American Netsters Better

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — In three years or less, Elwood Cooke said yesterday, South American tennis players will be holding their own with top-ranking amateurs of the United States.

MUSCATINE (Special to The Daily Iowan)—St. Pat's went down to a heartbreaking 32-28 defeat here last night at the hands of the local St. Mary's outfit. The game was played in the Marian's box-like gymnasium.

The Irish were literally held in check by the physical boundaries of the gym. The baskets were located flush against the walls, which had no sort of protection on them, preventing the Shamrocks from opening up their speed and utilizing it on fast breaks under the buckets.

Connell Hurt

Bill Connell, elusive Green and White guard, had the wind knocked out of him after crashing into the unprotected wall. Earl Murphy and Jim Russell were also shaken up by smacking headlong into the same obstacle.

Just to start things off backwards, Leonard Aull, Marian forward, opened the game with a field goal into the wrong basket to give St. Pat's its first two points. Credit for the shot was given to Bob Quinlan, captain of the Krittamen, who was high scorer for the evening with 12 points.

This display of foolish basketball inspired the Irish for a few minutes, for they forged ahead on two more field goals by Russell and Bob Grady, to command an early 6-0 margin. The lead was short-lived, however, and as the effects of the playing floor began to tell on them, the home team began to perk up and get some points. Before the period was over the south siders were trailing 10-12.

Trail at Half

Outscoring the Marians in the second quarter, 6-5, brought St. Pat's a point closer by halftime, when it trailed 16-17. The third quarter spelled doom when the Red and White poured in eight points to four for the Irish, to bring its lead at the end up to 25-20. Another point made up in the final period couldn't do the trick and the St. Mary's quintet walked off with a four-point triumph, 32-28. Next game on St. Pat's schedule will bring St. Wenceslaus of Cedar Rapids to town Friday night.

Hawklets, Rivermen To Play Loop Tilts

Mertenmen Attempt To Improve Offense, Defense for Friday

Play Practice Tilt With Pickup Team Of Former Stars

City high held a regular scrimmage game yesterday afternoon in an effort to build up a better defense and offense for the West Waterloo tilt Friday night at Waterloo.

A pickup team composed of several former high school stars tangled with the Mertenmen and won in the final minute. The team was composed of Bud Lemons, Bob and Stan King, Buzz Smith, Clayton Colbert and Norm Paukert.

Coach Fran Merten substituted freely and held the score down considerably. With four seconds left to go, City high received two free throws, of which they made one and took the other out of bounds. When throwing the ball in it was intercepted by an opposing player who shot the ball on the run and gave the invaders a one-point victory.

Dave Danner led the Hawklets throughout the game with his stellar work at the pivot post. The entire team played inspired ball and looked better than it has for several weeks.

Noticeable for work in substitution roles were Jaro Lepic and Dale Sleichter, but their lack of height let the taller boys on the other side break away for baskets that kept the ball game close.

Friday night's encounter is a Mississippi Valley conference game, and the Hawklets will try to build up their place in the conference standings. So far the locals have a .500 percentage with three wins and three losses.

Hawkeye Tank Team Rounding Into Shape After Trip to Florida

Returning from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., with a healthy tan, Iowa's veteran swimming team is swiftly rounding into condition. While in Florida during the holidays the Hawk mermen were teamed with other collegiate swimmers from western schools in the East-West swimming meet, won by the West.

In fact, the Hawk swimmers played a big part in the defeat of the East. Some of the Iowa men who made a good showing are Nick Connell, who led in four of the diving events; Don Wenstrom, who was third in the 50 meter race, and Vito Lopin and Ed Armbruster swam with the West's winning relay team.

In addition to the experience gained in Florida, special races were held Saturday afternoon in an effort to give the swimmers more competitive experience.

Coach Armbruster is now placing emphasis on the 220- and 440-yard events, in an attempt to fill the shoes of Carl Ahlgren. Ahlgren, captain last year, will be lost by graduation at the semester.

According to Armbruster, the most progress made so far over last year's showing has been by Cyril Noon. Noon is the only breast stroke candidate on the Iowa team.

The opening meet for the Hawks is with Chicago on Feb. 7. Last Saturday Chicago decisively defeated Illinois, and should be a real test for the Iowa team. On the following week, Iowa will meet the Gophers from Minnesota, who are rated as a strong contender in the conference.

Bluehawk Cage Team Meets Anamosa Five Here Friday Evening

Coach Paul Brechler To Stress Passing During Week's Work

Having completed the first half of their '41-42 basketball schedule with six wins and no losses, the U-high Rivermen will open the final stretch of the season with the powerful Anamosa quintet here Friday evening.

Anamosa is considered the Bluehawks' most dangerous opponent running a close second in the conference with two wins and one conference defeat handed to them by the West Branch five.

Coach Paul Brechler outlined a hard week of work for the Rivermen in last night's practice in preparation for the conference game of the week. Dissatisfied with the showing made by the Bluehawks against Monticello, Coach Brechler said he would stress passing during most of the work. Although the U-high boys took a 30-16 count over Monticello last Friday, their floor play and passing was very ragged.

Not until the last quarter of the game was there any signs of a conference champ in the Bluehawks. Using a zone defense, the Rivermen showed a more polished defensive action than in previous games. A lone point was scored by the Panthers by half-time.

Since U-High is still without the services of Capt. George Lehman, star center, Jim Schneberger is putting his height into the pivot position. Coach Brechler believes there might be some possibility of Captain Lehman being able to play in the Anamosa tilt.

Hawkeye Cagers Take Rest After Tough Road Trip Tilts

Blue Devils, McKinley To Play Benefit Game For Red Cross Drive

DES MOINES (AP)—Davenport high school and McKinley high of Cedar Rapids will meet on the basketball court Saturday night with proceeds scheduled to go to the Iowa sports campaign to raise $15,000 for Red Cross ambulances.

It will be the first game actually to be played for benefit of the fund, although one was scheduled previously, officials said.

Ramblers Play Tilt Tomorrow

With their loss to St. Wenceslaus still lingering in their minds, the Marians took a good workout last night to ready themselves for the tussle with St. Pat's at Cedar Rapids tomorrow night.

Earlier in the season, Coach Francis Sueppel's unit trounced the Irish handily, 40-22, to break a five-game winning streak of the Cedar Rapids cagers. Before that game the St. Pat's quintet was expected to be one of the toughest teams which the Ramblers would meet all season, but it didn't turn out that way.

St. Mary's is just as strong as it was in that first game, and they should be able to manage the Irish again. St. Pat's has a taller crew than the Marians, but that made little difference before, and if the Ramblers click on their speedy offense, it won't probably interfere this time.

Couldn't Shake Loose

Shanahan, tall Irish center, was toted to be the man for St. Mary's to watch in the first encounter, but he was either overrated or Sueppel's team had him spotted and made special effort to keep him tamed down. Whatever the reason, Shanahan couldn't shake loose from Halsch, and his scoring was limited to very few points.

Dolan and Curry, fast-moving forwards, are the greatest scoring threats of St. Pat's. Kenney and Quinn will probably be assigned to the rear court to cover the Ramblers' high scorer, Co-capt. Tony Brack, and George Seemuth.

Monday night against St. Wenceslaus, Brack didn't come through with the same scoring punch he has in most of the games this season. The first three quarters found him snowed under, and it was not until the last few minutes of the closing period that he hit his stride and started to push in his onehand shots from the side of the court.

Valuable Under Basket

Melvin Smith is beginning to find himself and really get something done under the basket. In the St. Wenceslaus struggle, he drove in and grabbed a good many rebounds under his opponents' basket. He and Joe Halsch, who is also valuable under the basket, should be able to handle the rebound situation tomorrow night.

It is usually a 50-50 proposition with George Seemuth and Bill Sweeney, since both of them usually see action. Both of them have a good eye for the basket. Seemuth has been starting in recent games, and will probably pair with Brack tomorrow night.

Get Limited Drills For Rest of Month

Resume Loop Play With Chicago Five Here February 2

Almost halfway through their conference schedule now, Iowa's basketball Hawkeyes will take a brief pause for semester examinations and their last non-loop affair with Kansas here Jan. 29, before resuming Big Ten wars with Chicago here on Feb. 2.

Returning from a tough road trip, during which they lost their second and third straight games to Ohio State and Illinois, the Hawks did not work out yesterday afternoon, and will engage in only limited workouts for the rest of the month.

Iowa has the schedule in its favor for the rest of the season, playing seven of the ten remaining games at home. The team has completed half of its season's 20-game schedule with an even split—five won, five lost.

Only three road games remain on the Hawkeye schedule, Purdue at Lafayette, Feb. 7; Northwestern at Evanston, Feb. 14, and Wisconsin at Madison, March 7. Following Chicago to Iowa City will be Ohio State, Feb. 9; Michigan, Feb. 21; Indiana, Feb. 23; Purdue Feb. 28, and Illinois, March 2.

The Listening Post--

By LOREN HICKERSON

PATRICK HENRY WAS NO PIKER . . .

Anybody who's familiar with Milton Mayer, Mortimer Adler and Robert M. Hutchins himself knows that the University of Chicago is one of the more academic of the academic institutions of America. . . . Even when they let their hair down up there, they do it with a kind of youthful dignity that's in keeping with higher education liberalized and moved a couple of eons ahead of its time. . .

* * *

But the payoff's come. . . The Daily Maroon sports writer who covered the Iowa-Chicago basketball game called Ben Trickey "Iowa's Neanderthal-like guard. . . ." I've heard the lands west of the Mississippi accused of being behind the times in a lot of senses, but never that far behind. . .

* * *

A lot of Iowa faculty members are worrying about how tough its going to be when the pinch of war begins to be felt pretty thoroughly, before many months have passed. . . . Tough going ought to have a healthy effect, though, and more than one battle-scarred institution will weather the storm a better place than when the storm struck.

* * *

I'm in agreement with one of the boys here who has the answer for those who're worrying about how we can fit Iowa's program to the emergency. . . "If we fit it to the emergency," says he, "we'll have the kind of institution we should have had in the first place. . ."

* * *

Regardless of the emergency, Iowa's faculty and students can pick up some pointers from sister institutions in this general geographical area. . . Minnesota, for example, has a bang-up Homecoming every year which is solely the product of the work of representatives of the student body, and they really sweat over it. . . And one of the ballrooms of the Texas Union (no larger than ours) is utilized at all free hours for dancing to America's favorite band, the juke box. . . Iowa's River Room would be a pleasant substitute. . .

* * *

We've decided again what to do with the Parthenon there on the corner of Dubuque and Iowa . . . Push it into the river and float it down to New Orleans for use as an aircraft carrier. . . Iowa's journalism students will supply the elbow grease. . .

* * *

Yesterday the Russians recaptured Mozhaisk. . . They've pushed the nazis back 50 of the 400 miles they'd gained in Russia. . . Singapore was in greater peril. . . Thai troops invaded Burma for the Japs. . . MacArthur was still fighting north of Manila. . . the war came closer to the continent of Australia and Argentina still held out against the rest of the Americas at Rio. . .

* * *

All this life-or-death struggle over an age-old ideal makes me think of the famous American patriot who said he'd prefer death to the loss of his liberty . . . His times were tame compared to these. . .

* * *

The only thing at stake then was the sanctity of a few American colonies and a few hundred thousand similar patriots who didn't like the smell of tyranny. . .

* * *

Patrick Henry said he didn't know what course others might take. . . His soul would have been stirred if he could have witnessed America after Pearl Harbor, even though there aren't among us enough real patriots of his ilk to match the depth of the single spirit he flaunted at tyranny. . .

* * *

We have a hundred and thirty millions worth of Americans to rely on to generate enough feeling to do the job he and his henchmen accomplished with little more than brute courage and a few muskets . . . We ought to be ashamed of ourselves for patting ourselves on the back because we're so powerful when Patrick Henry's ideal is at stake—at Mozhaisk, at Singapore, at Manila and at every other world crossroads including Washington. . .

* * *

Patrick Henry was no piker . . . All hell and the British weren't going to stop him in the building of a nation of free men. . . There was something like that same spirit at Wake Island. . . There still is in Bataan north of Manila. . .

* * *

Wish we had it here. . .

County Red Cross War Relief Drive Rises to $8,900

Campaign Workers Hope to Double Quota Set Up for $7,900

Returns from the county Red Cross war relief drive yesterday surged past the $7,900 goal and rose to the $8,900 mark, according to J. J. Swaner, general chairman of the drive.

With little more than two-thirds of the campaign work completed and the various benefit social activities scheduled throughout the county, Swaner expressed the hope that the quota would be doubled before the conclusion of the drive.

"The splendid results of our drive were due solely to the generosity of the people of Iowa City and the faithfulness and hard work of the committee members and workers," Swaner said.

It was pointed out that county war fund campaign plans were set up on a permanaent basis so that the Red Cross will be able to meet any further fund demands placed upon it by the United States government or the national Red Cross offices.

Yesterday was truly "Good News" day for Johnson county Red Cross officials. Prof. George D. Haskell, general chairman of the annual roll call which was held last fall, reported that delayed returns for the roll call campaign were turned in to him this month and had pushed the roll call total up to $4,400, nearly $200 over the goal set for Johnson county by the national Red Cross office.

During World War I, many calls were placed upon the county. "During this war we will not be unprepared. We'll be ready to meet any quota requested of us," Swaner declared.

Further social activities and donations are expected to swell the war fund total. A concert by the university music faculty is scheduled for Feb. 1, and community sales and further social events will be held throughout the season.

The unique pledge card system set up in Iowa City for the drive has attracted nation-wide attention. Local Red Cross officials have received letters from other Iowa counties and the national Red Cross office at St. Louis asking for full information concerning the system.

The pledge card plan was suggested by Leslie A. Moore, social activities and projects committee chairman, and was perfected by the county Red Cross executive board.

The Johnson county Red Cross chapter is also gaining wide recognition for the great variety of volunteer services it has installed. First aid, motor corps, canteen corps, volunteer nurse aide, and home nursing instruction classes are already functioning.

Officials are now considering plans for a new hospital and recreation corps, braille corps and home service corps to be put into service soon.

But the necessity of meeting an unlimited quota for naval flyers is the chief order of business.

* * *

The age limit for naval flying cadets has been lowered to 19 years, Ensign Hadgis declared. Cadets may now be enlisted during their sophomore college year with the assurance that they will be permitted to continue their studies through the second year.

On enlisting, such candidates will be required to furnish a letter from the registrar, stating their reasonable expectation of obtaining half the credits necessary for a degree by the end of the school year. Formerly, candidates were enlisted only after completion of their second year.

* * *

Juniors and seniors in college, after enlistment for naval aviation, may be deferred from call to active duty until the close of their current college year, if they so request, said Ensign Hadgis. Thereafter they will be assigned to active training duty in the earliest class in which they can be accomodated.

* * *

Candidates must be between the ages of 19 and 27, unmarried, and in excellent physical condition.

At War's Gaming Table—

Lady Luck Is Back

—Dealing Life and Death

* * * * * *

By PRESTON GROVER

TOBRUK (Wide World)—Lady luck is back at the gaming tables of war, dealing out some fantastic hands of life and death.

There's no partiality — sometimes the British and their allies are the winners, sometimes the enemy.

The lady was kind to a little band of South African soldiers.

They had orders to get behind a tough German position at Salum. That meant crossing 100 yards of flat sand beach in broad daylight under a murderous crossfire from three machine gun positions as well as artillery and trench mortar concentrations.

So 150 men set out to do the job and 149 of them came through without a scratch. One soldier was killed by a bullet in his neck.

Luck planted one of the Bismarck's shells in the magazine of the ill-fated Hood and guided a Japanese bomb down the funnel of the Arizona at Pearl Harbor.

Tobruk Bombarded

Here I am watching nightly the German bombardment of Tobruk without a real feeling of being in a dangerous place. Yet a two-second miscalculation by a German airman making the tiresome night flight from Crete or Greece might plunk a bomb into my dugout.

In two years of watching this war, first in Germany and then from the other side of the lines, I've noticed a number of "almosts" and "might haves" which could have had a tremendous influence on the outcome or the progress of the war.

There was that huge bomb with which the English were experimenting—with Germans as guinea pigs—last spring. They tried one on Berlin. The airman evidently aimed it at the Potsdammer railroad station.

By a hair-width miscalculation on his instrument, he missed the station half a mile. The bomb fell in a block of apartments, virtually leveling them. Windows were blown out in a radius of 600 yards on all sides.

Desert Attack

Here in the desert a few days ago a British sergeant pilot was taking a plane load of officers and correspondents from an advanced point on the front back to Cairo.

Three Messerschmitts dived on the cumbersome transport. One bullet whistled past the pilot's ear, smashing the glass in front of his face. A two-inch variation of the bullet would have killed the pilot and sent the plane crashing to earth, probably killing all occupants.

And I can't forget Lieutenant Colonel John Webb of the South African division headquarters who drove his automobile over a buried mine.

The car was turned almost inside out by the explosion. Webb did a double somersault in the air and came down in the seat right side up with nothing worse to report than a sprained ankle.
