Axis Claim of Bengasi Capture Is Most Serious Aspect of Fascist Drive in Africa

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

The "mother of parliaments," by a rousing vote of confidence, has re-commissioned, though a fibred Winston Churchill to lead the British commonwealth to victory despite gathering gloom about the fate of Singapore and a further British setback in Libya. Rome-Berlin claims of recapture of Bengasi, prime port and air base site of the Libyan hump, closely commanding the Mediterranean waistline, lacked British confirmation as this was written. However, even London spokesmen admitted another British evacuation was probable. Most Serious Aspect That is the most serious aspect as yet of the Nazi-fascist counter offensive in North Africa. By Churchill's own accounting, Bengasi plays an important part in the major strategy of the Middle East.

BRITISH ADMIT LOSS OF BATTLESHIP BARHAM NOV. 25

H. M. S. Barham

Loss of the 31,000-ton battleship Barham last Nov. 25 has been admitted by the British admiralty, which said the announcement had been delayed to prevent the enemy from making certain dispositions. Berlin claimed the 28-year-old battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class was sunk by three torpedoes in the Mediterranean sea.

Churchill Applauds Worth of Americans In Northern Ireland

Prime Minister Gains Heartening Confidence Vote From Commons

LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill declared yesterday that America wants the second A.E.F. to come to grips with the German enemy "as soon as possible," and emerged from the house of commons with a heartening 464-to-one vote of confidence. In a sweeping, five-fold forecast of the world-wide advantage which the united nations will gain by having U. S. armies on the western front, the prime minister disclosed that their movements to these islands will permit Britain to send her own seasoned troops in greater numbers to the Pacific and Africa, rather than reinforce these active fronts "with troops of another nation."

Troops in Eire Begin Training For Combat

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN NORTHERN IRELAND (AP)—Four thousand miles closer to the war in Europe, American troops fresh from U.S. camps buckled down under combat conditions yesterday prepared for anything. Scattered through 5,200 square miles of Ulster, they settled into camps prepared for them by British soldiers, marched out the kinks of their transatlantic journey and concentrated on drills to protect themselves against German bombers and parachute troops. "We are not surprised at anything any more," a group told me as I stood with them in the center of their camp on hillsides. They were encamped among the trees of what formerly was an Irish estate. The general enemy pattern in the thus far futile effort to get at Java thus appeared to be in two sections: he appeared determined, in spite of already tremendous losses figured by Washington at not less than 38 ships sunk or damaged and by other allied sources at as high as 46, to bore through Macassar Strait at any cost, intending to divide what force might survive the passage for dual thrusts at the lower Celebes and Borneo coasts to put himself in position to strike across the Java Sea at the main Dutch naval base of Soerabaya on Java island. He was hacking down into western Borneo as a secondary part of this offensive, and the only part that had had any success at all. At the port of Pontianak, 85 miles below Pemangkat, the Dutch garrison smashed all equipment of value. What was left of the Macassar invasion train was a diminutive (See LUZON, page 5)

Lozovaya Recaptured As Southern Armies Push in Donets Basin

400 Populated Points Retaken, 25,000 Nazis Slain in 10-Day Fight
MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians announced officially today the recapture of Lozovaya, midway between the Donets and Dnieper rivers, disclosing a 93-mile drive in the industrial basin of the south which threatened the German winter line down to the Sea of Azov. Four hundred populated points were retaken by the red armies and 25,000 nazis slain in 10 days of bitter fighting through Tuesday, the communique said.

Senators Okay War Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate banking committee approved unanimously yesterday legislation creating a $1,000,000,000 war risk insurance corporation which would compensate American property owners for losses due to enemy action. As amended by the committee, the legislation would insure all property holders against losses up to $15,000 without payment of premiums. Those who wanted protection in excess of $15,000 would have to pay premiums at a rate to be established by the corporation.

Senate Group Asks Rejection of Langer

Charge Senator With 'Questionable Conduct' Throughout Career
WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate elections committee declared yesterday that the integrity of the senate depended upon its rejecting Senator Langer (R-ND) as a member because of his "continuous questionable conduct" throughout most of his career. Formally asking the senate to rule that Langer was not entitled to a seat, a majority report from 13 of the 16 committee members declared: "The respondent (Langer) has not avoided, and can not avoid, the consequences of the acts of gross impropriety, lawlessness, shotgun law enforcement, jail breaking, violation of oath as an attorney, rabble-raising, civil disobedience, breach of the peace, obstruction of the administration of justice, and tampering with court officials."

'Sighted Sub Sank Same' Navy Pilot Reports As Officials Take Measures to Hit Raiders

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Sighted marine was one of those preying on coastal shipping along the Atlantic seaboard. Previously five Japanese submarines had been reported sunk by American armed forces in the Pacific and 14 had been reported destroyed in the Atlantic, presumably prior to the beginning of current U-boat raiding operations. About these operations the navy has said only that an unidentified number of raiders will not return home. Simultaneously with the pilot's report, the navy issued a communique stating that "increasingly effective" counter measures were being taken against the Atlantic raiders, but noting grimly that they were continuing operations all along the coast and "as far south as Florida."

American Volunteer Squadron and RAF Down 13 Jap Planes

Boost Their Score Of Raiders Destroyed To Approximately 111
RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Paced by three resolute Texans, the unbeaten American volunteer squadron and their RAF colleagues tore 13 and possibly 17 more Japanese planes out of a mass enemy fighter sweep yesterday and boosted their score of raiders destroyed since the start of the war to at least 111 machines. After the fight was over, some Japanese wrecks were found as far as 18 miles from Rangoon. Not an allied plane was lost. It was truly Texas day over the rice paddies of the Kipling country.

Brazilians Act To Stop Axis

Porto Alegre Orders Imprisonment of All Pro Axis Individuals
By JOHN P. KNIGHT
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil, the continent's largest nation, gave vivid evidence last night of putting into practice Pan-American's avowed determination to wipe out the last vestiges of aid and comfort to the axis. As the great cannon of Fort Copacabana at the mouth of Rio's beautiful harbor boomed practice rounds, authorities of the federal district ordered a rigorous scrutiny of all social, cultural and recreational associations to determine whether they covered any anti-Brazilian activities. Porto Alegre authorities ordered imprisonment of all persons expressing sympathy with the aggressor nations. Tragedy struck close to the home-ward bound delegates to the foreign minister's parley, which closed Wednesday night with a triumphal affirmation of western hemisphere solidarity. An airliner carrying the 12-man Argentine delegation fell into the sea near the Rio de Janeiro airport, but all were saved. Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, the Argentine foreign minister, suffered slight injuries. Members of the German, Italian and Japanese embassies here, who had been handed their passports last evening, were burning documents in their kitchens last night.

This Central Press map shows the path of German Gen. Erwin Rommel's counter-attack in Cyrenaica, creating a situation which is regarded in Egypt as "serious." British Middle East army command has admitted withdrawal of Imperial tank and motorized units from the area north of El Aghella to a new sector north and northeast of Msus.

Naval Committee Votes Against Congressional Investigation Into the Pearl Harbor Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP)—The possibility of a congressional investigation into the Pearl Harbor disaster apparently faded yesterday when the house naval committee voted 14 to 6 against undertaking one. Sentiment at the capitol for an inquiry had appeared to be centered chiefly in this group although members of the house military committee, as well as some senators, also have talked of an investigation. Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) announced the vote which was directly on a motion to request that the committee be given documentary evidence collected by the president's investigating commission headed by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the supreme court. Representative Maas (R-Minn.), who had favored an inquiry, said "This means no investigation at this time by this committee." Obviously disappointed, the Minnesota republican told reporters he thought an inquiry should be made as part of a study of revision of the military set-up. Contending that the disaster was attributable to "failure of the army and navy and the foreign service to work out unification," Maas declared: "If the same military policy is continued, Pearl Harbor will turn out to be the first and not the last of these tragedies." The White House and war and navy departments, meantime, disclosed that steps already were underway to correct weaknesses in army-navy liaison and, in government anti-espionage stressed by the Roberts commission.

Historical Development of Ire's Neutrality—and Stubbornness—

The Celtic people have the reputation for stubbornness, and their American-born premier, Eamon de Valera, is no exception. When it was announced that American Expeditionary Forces had landed in Ulster, the six northern counties of Ireland, Premier de Valera protested vigorously. The Irish people, he said, refuse to give up their demands for a single, united Ireland and supreme jurisdiction over it.

The problem, even in our time, is an important one. Since 1609 it has been one, and as long as people live on the island it will continue to be so.

It is a matter principally of fear. The predominantly Protestant Ulster counties are violently opposed to union. Since Leinster, Munster and Connaught are principally Roman Catholic, the Protestants fear they will be overwhelmed in representation if and when the Union is brought about. The Irish guarantee otherwise, and point out that Cosgrove, their first president, was a Protestant.

The feeling is intense. Even in 1941, on the Battle of the Boyne anniversary, there were bloody street riots in Ireland. The Catholic in Belfast must hang pink shades on his windows or somehow he is shunned by the populace. Similar tricks are played on Protestants in Eire.

Another factor to consider is the difference in language. The Irish, as distinguished from the Ulsterman, speak Gaelic, which is a strange motley tongue. The Ulstermen speak English, and never the twin shall meet.

A third factor is heritage. The Ulstermen trace back to 1609, when the Act of Implantation put impoverished middle class people from Scotland and England on the barren wastes of Ulster to homestead. They flourished as a society, and their principal city, Belfast, is a standout in shipbuilding and linen manufacture, among other things. Eire is largely agricultural, and its people as a rule are not so well educated as the Ulstermen, although there are many exceptions, of course.

The fourth, and most important, factor is that the Irish hate Britain with all the fire and brimstone of a devil's cauldron. They despise the very word British, and the feeling has built up for many generations. In 1921 the rift was made, and there was not much of anything the British could do about it. In the current war, the Irish are seeking to remain perfectly neutral, which is of itself an impossibility.

It is impossible for a country to remain neutral. The very location of the commonwealth is one reason. Another is that isolation in a world such as we now live in is both impossible and impractical. A third is that no matter how hard a nation may try, its policies will tend to favor one side or the other, which amounts to not being neutral.

Yet the Irish seek to buy American arms and pay cash for them, which is a good thing. We need cash. But we also need allies, and it may be the United States government will suggest to de Valera that his country align herself with the United Nations or else suffer loss of the right to purchase American arms.

Naturally, this entails a breach of relations. It is tantamount to an act of war, almost. By refusing to sell free goods to a free people for cash, a nation sticks its collective neck out so far that even a child, logically speaking, could chop its head off.

The problem is a difficult one, and it will have to be solved at once. We submit there is a lesson to be learned from this experience: that in a war time, with the world an armed camp, one side against the other, there is no room for stubbornness unless it is the great and consuming refusal of the right side to give in to the wrong. Right or wrong, we have decided ours is the just cause, and the Irish had better jump into our boat or find it tough swimming when the war is over.

It amounts to the self-evident truth that Britain and America will fight side-by-side until either we are beaten or they are beaten. In the event of the former, we doubt whether the Irish will find the world a worthwhile place to live in.

The Celts have a reputation for stubbornness, as we have pointed out, and for wit and good sense. Let us hope this last will show itself soon.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The Story of a Great Man: MacArthur's Philippine Defense

WASHINGTON — General MacArthur's losing defense of the Philippines will live forever as one of the most skillful strategic maneuvers of history. There was nothing defective in the Jap scheme of attack. It was smart. Only thing wrong with it was that MacArthur was smarter.

The Japs have thrown 225,000 troops into Luzon. They had everything, a tank division, control of the ocean which was undisputed except feebly from the air, land-based bombers from Formosa which could be shuttled against the Philippines one day and Malay the next (63 is the largest number they sent over MacArthur in any one batch). On the last narrow mountain fighting front across Bataan peninsula they outnumber the American jungle fox 10 to 1.

In seven weeks of clever warfare, they have surrounded him, chased him, even defeated him, but they have not caught him. The corner they have him in, on Bataan, is a corner he chose. And at his back is the island fortress of Corregidor where he can expect to hole in if chased again.

The Story of Strategy— How MacArthur did it can now be understood by filling in the vacant spots between the daily communiqués. What happened in the Philippines is now ready for telling.

The Japs started by feinting at the far northern coastal points of Appari and Vigan. Primarily they wanted to draw MacArthur's army north, so they could slip in behind him from the sea, halfway down toward Manila at Lingayen Bay, and cut him off from the capital. The fox did not bite. He sent nothing north except his few planes (one of those planes sank the first Jap battleship Haruna off Appari).

MacArthur always expected the main attack at Lingayen and was ready when the Japs tried him there two days after the initial attack in the north. With well-placed artillery along the south shore, he sank two of their 12 transports and prevented the landing. Ten days passed before they came back with 80,000 men and 80 transports. This time they tried the north shore. The bay is large, 100 miles around the shoreline. MacArthur could not cover all landing spots. Yet he repulsed them at every point except one—Agoo. This landing cut off some of his northshore troops, but all fought their way back to his main line facing Agoo from the north.

Slickest of the Jap strokes came 24 hours later. They slipped possibly 20,000 men ashore from 20 transports southeast of Manila at Atimonan on Lamun Bay (landing also at Legaspi and other southern points).

This meant Manila was gone. MacArthur did not have enough troops to defend it on all new fronts. The Jap plan was now clear. From all sides, with overwhelming numbers they were to drive him back into Manila where they could bomb him into surrender. With such superiority, how could they fail?

MacArthur Had a Smarter Plan— The jungle fox showed them. He also had a plan just a little smarter. He drew in his forces slowly from the south (with a skillful delaying defense of narrow land strips on both sides of Laguna lake) not only to Manila, but passed it. He let the city trap go. He himself withdrew slowly from the Agoo front down to San Fernando.

The Japs moved in ready for the kill. Their southern force took Manila uncontested and slammed the lower jaw of their trap shut upon the Americans. The jaws merely scraped MacArthur's ear as he was sidestepping into the little 30-mile square area of Bataan.

There, on mountains protected from air attack by bamboo forests and underbrush (how often had he ridden horseback through these wilds in previous years planning this bitter success) he set his 155mm artillery upon the front and said: "Come and get me." He had a good road on the bay side for supplies from Corregidor and the Jap tanks were useless in the wild woods. But the Japs came several times, first on the right flank, then on the center and finally on the weaker left.

Under cover of the guns of their fleet, they forced finally a landing on the west shore, expecting to cut in behind MacArthur. Again they were on the verge of victory. The attack could not be stopped. MacArthur could not get his troops over from the front lines to that side in time. Faced with retreat, he decided to attack.

A Victory for MacArthur— Figuring the Japs must have diminished their forces in his front to man such a formidable left flank attack, he hit them where he could reach them in the front, right between the eyes. There he found the amazed Jap troops lolling around waiting to march victoriously over him after their flankers had defeated him. Their confusion was so great, that the Jap General Homma had to abandon his success on the left and retire to think up something else.

Homma's presence on that front was not officially noted in communiqués until January 22, but he has been around from the start. Part of his respected 14th army was in at the beginning, and all of it present for latter stages. His troops had 1905 rifles, 1914 and 1922 model machine guns (somewhat modernized) but what they lost in age they made up in numbers.

MacArthur's numbers never have been made public, and he has never had the use of all of them, scattered as they are in Corregidor, around the other islands, and with certain units cut off and hiding in the Sierra Madre mountains. But the maximum unofficial guesses never ranged higher than 11,000 Americans and 100,000 scattered Filipino scouts and army before the campaign started.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

Department Store Manned by Stars—

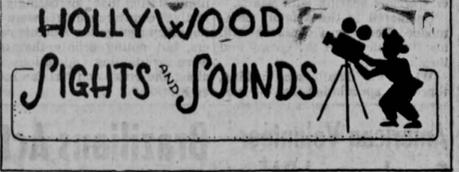

NEW YORK (AP)—Here is a mythical Manhattan department store that would run Macy's and all movie studios between here and Thebes out of business—if it could be assembled.

Bob Hope would take over the shoe department because once he sold shoes in Cleveland... We would let Dorothy Lamour run the elevators because she used to operate one in Chicago... Bing Crosby would be the cashier just as she used to be in Spokane, Washington... and Jack Benny would handle the haberdashery because, unless he's been telling some awful whoppers, he learned how to retail neckties very early in life in Waukegan.

The drug department would be divided equally between Eddy Duchin and Charles Ruggles, as both were pharmacy students in their earlier days... Then there would be Madeline Carroll, who modeled hats in London; George Raft, who used to work in a sporting goods store; Frances Dee, who worked at a hosiery counter before becoming a picture name; and Cary Grant—he would be chief floor walker—because he used to run a men's store.

That would leave the candy department to Ellen Drew, who once operated a candy business in Chicago; the musical department to Victor Schertzinger, a fine old ex-piano salesman of talent, and the fashion dept. to Patricia Morrison, an ex-designer for one of Eighteen years ago students in the Sacred Heart Convent in London staged an amateur version of "Mid-Summer Night's Dream"... Two frightened little girls in the cast exchanged confidences... "I'd like to be a real actress some day," said one... "I would too," said the other... One was Vivien Leigh, the other was Maureen O'Sullivan.

Trading a Star For an Old Film—

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—There's gold on them that shelves too. In them their cubbyholes, in them their vaults where the shadows of long dead films are interred.

You hear about it every day, piece-meal. You hear, for instance, that Sol Lesser will get Henry Fonda for a movie. Twentieth Century swaps Fonda to RKO for the screen rights to "Bird of Paradise."

I heard about it today, a little more than piece-meal. Just enough to give a good idea. From Lesser. In 34 years in pictures you pick up more than greying hair. If you're Lesser, you pick up stories. Shelves of stories. "Bird of Paradise" wasn't his, but RKO had it and it brought him Fonda. Lesser has a good-sized "library" of his own, in case he ever needs to barter for the right leading lady.

He has Tarzan, and Harold Bell Wright, and the "Whispering Smith" stories of Frank Spearman, and a good five-foot-shelf more or less of assorted individual stories like "The Meanest Man in the World," a picture he himself filmed as a silent.

"The picture made a mint," he said. "I paid $30,000 for the story originally, and the other day I got a bid of $25,000—for the silent rights alone."

The Tarzan-Lesser deal is a movie success story—the easy kind. Prolific Edgar Rice Burroughs some years ago assigned a bunch of the ape-man, who screen rights to a son-in-law, who even-

Art Finds a Place In Modern Army

Art has found a place in the mechanization of the army. Seamstresses' heraldic section are re-stressing in the Quartermaster's office one of woman's oldest handicrafts.

From the insignia and heraldic designs, drawn by other women, workers are embroidering colors and standards to be carried by the regiments and separate battalions.

Mottos and designs are sent in from combat units to Washington to be checked for duplication or misuse. Checking is based on three questions: (1) Is the suggested coat of arms or badge appropriate to the service it is to designate? (2) Is the unit entitled to the design? (3) Is the proposed design in harmony with history of the organization?

For the soldier's uniform a metal insignia is created from the finally approved design. For the colors and standards, a painting of the coat of arms is sent to the Philadelphia depot where 35 women are busy embroidering such patterns to both sides of a flag base with blended silk threads.

Time for making one of these designs demands 23 to 30 days. To mark troops born in the last war, a few mottos are written in Latin and in French, but most of them are in English.

SMART WAY TO HEALTH

Robust women are needed for national defense, and this is another patriotic duty which is a pleasure. Winter sports are tops for building health, and when you are bundled up in a smart skiing suit like the one pictured above, snow is nothing but fun.

The corduroy suit is water-repellent for protection even when you land feet up in a snow bank. Tailored for style, warmth and comfort, the action back and free-moving sleeves will not bind.

Accessories for this outfit are a professional-looking cap complete with ear-flaps, woolly mittens with a concealed change purse and a fireman red union suit to keep you extra warm.

Even a novice would be willing to take the spills of skiing for the thrill of appearing in smart sportswear.

Committees Make Final Plans For Red Cross Benefit Concert

SUI Music Faculty To Present Benefit Performance Sunday

Final plans for the university music faculty Red Cross benefit concert Sunday night in Macbride hall were completed by the various committees yesterday.

Mrs. C. B. Righter announced that she had finished preparations for personnel of the concert and stage decorations were announced as completed by Mrs. William Mueller Jr.

Commendation for the concert was made by two members of the Iowa City High School music faculty.

William Gover, instrumental music director at City high, said, "The Red Cross benefit concert by faculty members of the university music department offers an evening of truly delightful entertainment."

"This patriotic gesture on the part of these artists deserves unlimited support in this worthy cause."

Ansel Martin, head of the City high department of vocal music, asserted that "The action of the faculty of the university music department in producing the forthcoming concert at Macbride auditorium provides a fine example of the spirit of generous co-operation so necessary to the success of the war."

Publicity for the musicale has been sent to all outlying towns in the vicinity of Iowa City and officials are expecting a large out-of-town attendance.

Today at 12:45 p.m. Prof. Arnold Small, one of the members of the program, will be interviewed over WSUI by Mrs. Grace Martin. Small will demonstrate the selections to be played Sunday night and will explain the music.

There will be no ticket sale for the affair. Voluntary contributions will be given by members of the audience.

with the home fleet was under repairs at the time.

Churchill's evaluation of the worth of U. S. troops in Europe covered these points:

1. "It meets the wish of the American people and the leaders of the republic that the large mass of trained and equipped troops which they have in the United States shall come into contact with the enemy as close and as soon as possible."

2. "The presence of these forces in these islands imparts greater freedom of movement to the theater where we are already engaged and greater movement to matured and seasoned divisions of the British army and avoids the difficulty of reinforcing the theater in which we are engaged with troops of another nation, with all the complications of armament and command which arise therefrom."

3. "The presence in our islands of a force of heavy and unknown strength and the establishment of a broader bridgehead between us and the new world constitute an important and added deterrent to invasion at a time when a successful invasion of these islands is Hitler's last remaining hope of total victory."

4. "The fact that well-equipped American divisions can be sent into these islands so easily and rapidly will enable the substantial supplies of weapons and munitions now being made in the United States to be sent direct to the other side of the world—to Australia and New Zealand to meet the new dangers of home defense which are cast upon them by the Japanese war."

5. "This whole business cannot do De Valera (the Eire premier, who has protested the presence of the U. S. troops in Ulster) any harm, and it may do him some good. It certainly offers a measure of protection to Southern Ireland (Eire) and Ireland as a whole which she could not otherwise enjoy."

LUZON

Shipping figure which earlier had been estimated at perhaps two-thirds of the invader's original strength. This same estimate, which was unofficial, assumed that 150,000 Japanese troops were aboard.

Whatever the outcome, it was plain that the enemy already had suffered a disaster not soon to be retrieved.

Meanwhile, Australian airmen, still exacting good installments upon the price the Japanese are paying for their landing on the Australian island of New Britain above the mainland, reported a direct bomb hit on a Japanese ship in harbor there and a probable hit on a second. Previously, four of the 11 invasion ships there had been knocked out.

Red Cross Awards Contracts on Waste Paper to Be Collected

Announcement that bids had been examined and contracts awarded to local salvage dealers for the paper to be collected in Saturday's Red Cross waste paper collection was made last night by local Red Cross officials.

The Shulman Iron and Metal Company and Allen Wolfe were high bidders for magazines at $15 a ton. Myer Snider was high bidder for newspapers at $13 a ton and Allen Wolfe received the baled scrap contract at $11 a ton.

Snider also received the contract for boxes and cardboard with a high bid of $11 a ton. Un-baled scrap paper will go to Wolfe who made the highest bid, $9 a ton.

According to present plans, about 15 trucks will be used in the city wide campaign. Twelve vehicles will be sent to scheduled districts and three will remain at the city weighing station, where the collection trucks will report, to transfer the loads and take the collected paper to the various dealers.

J. J. Swaber, Red Cross war fund general chairman, said last night that new bids will be used for each collection. The collections will be held regularly on the last Saturday of each month.

The ferry command officer here said the men, all civilians, were: Paul F. Diehl, 32, Baltimore; George L. Cowell, age unknown, Baltimore, and Alden C. Bentley, 37, New Hope, Pa.

The county Red Cross war fund quota of $7,900 will probably be doubled today, it was stated yesterday by J. J. Swaner, war fund general chairman.

Swaner said that yesterday's total stood at $15,088.07 and that a considerable sum was still outstanding from the revenue of the recent Red Cross benefit dance held at the Iowa Union.

It is expected that the dance proceeds will be added to the returns today, pushing the total figure over the $15,800 mark.

Swaner also urged that volunteer solicitors and workers turn in their completed lists as soon as possible.

Dr. McCandliss Talks To I.C. Rotary Club

"I fear that since Manila and most of the rest of the island of Luzon in the Philippines have been conquered, the Americans and Filipinos will suffer the same as the Chinese," declared Dr. Robert McCandliss at the Rotary club luncheon meeting yesterday.

Dr. McCandliss, medical missionary who spent several years in China during the Japanese invasion there, told Rotarians of the terrorism inflicted on the defenseless Chinese civilians by the Japanese invaders sweeping into Nanking where he was in charge of an American hospital.

Atrocities committed by the victorious Japanese soldiers were described by the speaker. He said that anyone who was thought to have served in the Chinese army was shot. Children were casually shot and women were in constant danger of being attacked by the troops, he said.

Hawks Drop Another Two-Pointer, 53-51

Kansas Rallies in Second Half, Staves Off Iowa Spurt to Win

By BILL BUCKLEY
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa's Hawkeyes went down to their third two-point defeat of the season here last night, as F.C. (Phog) Allen's Kansas cagers, current leaders of the Big Six conference, rallied for the lead in the second half, then staved off a similar Hawkeye spurge to win, 53-51.

It was the officials' party last night, with a total of 41 fouls being called. During the second half it looked as if there were six men on each team, with Iowa's extra the least aggressive of the two.

Kansas missed free throws all evening long, but in the final two minutes of the deliberate yet exciting battle, four straight tosses by T.P. Hunter, substitute Kansas forward, kept the Hawks from closing in for a kill.

The Hawkeyes played their usual good first half, leading 29-25 at the intermission, lapsed behind on schedule, but came roaring back in the last six minutes with a surge that almost won.

However, the continued tweet of whistles, a continuous barrage of flying bodies, and some hard-luck strategy on the part of Iowa wasted the long, agonizing seconds away.

With Kansas leading, 47-39, in the last six minutes, the Hawkeyes pulled up on baskets by Mill Kuhl, Rudy Soderquist, and a brace each of goals and charity tosses by Tom Chapman, and with two minutes to go, the Jayhawks led only 51-49.

Though the game had been rough and tedious until then, the real rough stuff came in the last minutes. Hunter pitched in two straight free throws, and Bernard Duffe countered with one for Iowa to make it 53-50, amid the thud of falling bodies.

Chapman drew two more charity tosses, sank one and took the ball out of bounds on the other. Almost immediately he drew another chance, but was again forced to play it out of bounds. The Hawks never got a chance to capitalize on the strategy.

Iowa got its second look at Big Six conference ball in the tussle, and the showing was far from satisfactory. By far the better floor team, the Hawkeyes lost to a bunch of shooting fools, who got only one setup all evening long but made their shots count. The Hawks showed the effects of a 10-day layoff from competition, playing slow, deliberate ball most of the way. The few times the fast break went into action, it caught the Jayhawks flatfooted.

Chapman and Kuhl led the Iowa scoring with 14 and 10 points, respectively. Kuhl collected all four of his fouls in the last half, and some valuable relief work by Dick Hein, eligible for the first time this season, came in handy.

Five Leave Game
Five players left the tussle on fouls — Kuhl and Soderquist for Iowa, and Ralph Miller, Charley Black and John Buescher for the Jayhawks. Miller got 15 points, Black 12 and Buescher 10.

Kansas drew first blood in the battle, but Iowa worked itself to a comfortable lead in the first seven minutes with some rounded scoring. The Hawks boosted eight-point margins twice during the period, playing rings around the seemingly-clumsy Kansans, who finally pulled up to 29-25 at the half.

It was an entirely different Kansas team which took the floor in the second half. Where there was little rebounding done in the first period, the Jayhawks controlled the ball off their own board in the second. Where they could hit only 10 out of 21 shots in the first, they hit consistently and well in the final.

OMAHA (AP)—Lem Franklin, 202, Cleveland heavy weight, knocked out Joe O'Gatty, 198, Newark, N.J., in 2:15 of the second round before 2,000 fans last night.

Scheduled for 10 rounds, it was Franklin's first time since he broke a hand while knocking out Abe Simon at Cleveland last October.

A short right sent O'Gatty to the canvas for a count of nine. Moments later a one-two to the chin put the Newark fighter away for keeps. He was struggling with the ropes trying to gain his feet when referee Alex Fidler counted him out.

only four minutes gone in the half, as Miller, Buescher, Ray Evans and Miller again, sank four straight shots on as many attempts. Quickly the Jayhawks built up their margin, and though Iowa crept back to 38-40, Kansas dominated the play for the next 10 minutes.

Kansas missed 13 free throws, but Hunter's clinching four were all it needed for the win.

Iowa returns to conference action here Monday night, meeting the oft-beaten Chicago team in the Hawks' seventh loop encounter. They have split even in the six games to date.

Affair Marks Opening Of Big 10 Competition For Hawk Grapplers

Undefeated wrestling teams of the University of Iowa and Chicago, each with several men who have clean records to date, collide here Saturday afternoon in the opening Big Ten affair for the Hawkeyes.

Coach Mike Howard, who may be developing one of his strongest teams, will send his combination against a Maroon lineup which has won from Bradley Tech, Illinois Normal, Wheaton and Northwestern. Iowa won its opener from Bradley Tech in mid-January, 32-0.

The Hawkeyes have good balance all along the line, although six of the men will be wrestling their first Big Ten meet. Capt. Loy Julius, conference 128-pound champion who now is at 136 pounds, will be held out to give a shoulder injury more time to heal. Bernard Conrad, 121, and Russell Miller, 136, are the only veterans.

Chicago will offer five grapplers with perfect records for the season. Carroll Pyle, 128; Leonard Humphreville, 165; and Bob Mustain, heavyweight, each with four wins; while Larry Bates, 145, has taken three, and Fred Getz, 155, two. The Maroons showed their power in taking four decisions and two falls to beat Northwestern, 22-10, with the Wildcats taking their only points on falls in the 121 and 175-pound classes.

Iowa Conrad, 121; Gutt Pickett, 128; Pyle Miller, 136; Pallas Kemp, 145; Bates Geppert, 155; Mustain Gray, 165; Humphreville Schoening, 175; Morgan Stageberg, 187; Mustain Teachers.

Heavyweight Battle To Decide Louis Foe

NEW YORK (AP)—The top comeback kids of clout in 1941—Rapid Robert Pastor and Solid Gus Lesnevich—collide in Madison Square Garden at 9 p.m. (C.S.T.) tonight for the somewhat dubious pleasure of getting a crack at Joe Louis in a couple of months.

The winner will receive Mike Jacobs' first consideration when he comes to naming the Bomber's opponent for a heavyweight title tilt for the army relief fund in March. But off Joe's most recent bit of sleep-producing, in which he sang a swift and sweet lullaby for Buddy Baer, it is doubtful if the chance for today's victor can be construed as much of a reward.

At any rate, this shindig gives Pastor an opportunity to prove to the home-town folks that he's capable of showing them a rip-snortin' kind of Robert, something he hasn't exactly accomplished in his local outings in recent years. And it gives Lesnevich, the light-heavyweight boss, a chance to move into the heavyweight ranks against one of the bigger set's leading citizens.

Promoter Mike Jacobs expects some 10,000 of the faithful to chip in to a gross pot of $25,000 for the privilege of being on hand.

Off his nest, if not gaudy, goings on of last year, Pastor is the betting boys' choice at 5 to 8 to outgallop Gus this time.

Iowa Baseball Squad Will Hold 1st Extensive Indoor Drill Tomorrow

The Iowa baseball squad will hold its first extensive indoor practice session in the fieldhouse tomorrow afternoon, it was announced yesterday by Coach Otto Vogel.

Vogel said the practice would start at 1:15, and added that all members of the squad should attend the drill.

The first session of batting practice will be included in the workout. The players will take their swings in the cages constructed especially for batting in the fieldhouse.

The squad began its indoor drills two weeks ago, but the practices were curtailed during test week.

CEDAR RAPIDS (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Coach Cliff Kritta's St. Patrick quintet all but went to pieces here last night as it fell before the onslaught of a big, smooth-working St. Pat's outfit, 41-23.

After staying even with the Parlor City five for a few minutes of the opening period, the Irish started to fall gradually behind, until at the end of the first quarter they trailed by 10 points, 16-6.

Rangy Shamrock Captain Bob Shanahan started the Krittamen on their downfall by increasing a 7-6 lead to 14-6 in the middle of the opener, and forward Joe Dolan added one for good measure as the period ended. Capt. Bob Quinn, Earl Murphy and Jim Russell had collaborated for the six markers early in the quarter.

Passing Bad
The Green and White just couldn't seem to do anything right last night. Passes flew by teammates into enemy hands or out of bounds, the shooting was far from passable with many shots going over the bankboards or not even reaching their mark, and the defense split wide open time and again to leave men alone under the baskets for set-ups that couldn't possibly be missed.

The south riders weren't even in the game when it came to getting the rebounds. Shanahan, who stands six feet-two inches, and Joe Kenney, another six footer, had about all the say in the matter. The Green and White's main hope in this department was to tie-up the man who got the ball as he came down and try to get it on the tip-off, which didn't occur very often.

Hold Own
The second quarter was the only one in which the Irish held their own. Russell came through with four points on two free throws and a field goal, and Bill Connell and Quinn teamed up for four more. Coach John Kitch's team rang up seven in this period, although it had pulled away to a 13-point margin halfway through. The score at the half was 23-14.

Bob Grady, who took over Bob Connell's duties in the second period, took care of all the locals' scoring in the third quarter with five points. The Cedar Rapids five racked up 11 in this canto to hold a 34-19 lead at the end, and came through with seven more in the final frame, while the Krittamen were held to four, to put the fray on ice, 41-23.

Terry to Do Scouting
NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Terry is going to spend a lot of time personally scouting both major leagues this season and plans to visit all the other training camps in Florida after he leaves the New York Giants.

Little Hawks Meet Sigourney Five On Local Floor Tonight

Iowa City's Little Hawks, fresh from four consecutive wins in two weeks, will battle a powerful Sigourney team tonight at 8 o'clock in the City high gym.

Sigourney recently stopped Centerville with a two point margin and won its county tournament in a breeze. City high has recently rolled over Dubuque, Williamsburg, West Waterloo and Fairfield, displaying a new brand of power not shown by the team before this season.

The Little Hawks will be playing without the services of Ray Sullivan, who was graduated at the end of the first semester.

Same Lineup to Start
Coach Frank Merten indicated that the same lineup that has been getting the bulk of the work will start tonight's contest, although he also said the reserves were in for a tough workout.

Merten has to find two or three capable substitutes for the regulars because of Sullivan's loss, and the fact that someone has to be ready to fill in when the stiff tournament competition comes around.

Diminutive Jaro Lepic probably will see little action tonight because of his absence from practice most of the week with a bad infection. Lepic has been the number one substitute since Bucky Walter has been moved up to the first team. He is fast and tricky, but his five feet three-inches handicap him severely in the superior competition which City high is forced to play.

Jim Thompson is another boy who can be counted upon heavily. Brother to the Hawklets' captain, Jim, has been an understudy to John for two years and has been kept behind because of his brother's playing ability.

City high's starting lineup will probably include Capt. John Thompson and Bob Roth at forwards, Dave Danner at center, and Bucky Walter and Bill Sangster at the guard positions. Danner is currently in second place in the Mississippi Valley individual scoring race.

Coach Herb Cormack's sophomores will play a curtain-raiser against the third team varsity beginning at 7 o'clock.

St. Mary's Cagers Play St. Paul's In Burlington Tonight

St. Mary's cagers will tussle with St. Paul's, a Catholic Big Five school, in Burlington tonight.

St. Paul's fell before the Rambler attack early in the season, 18-38, when Co-capt. Tony Brack went on the loose to run up his highest score of the season with 23 points for the Maroons. The Rambler started pouring in goals at the outset of the game, lead 16-14 at the end of the first quarter and held command all the way.

Delashmitt, flashy Burlington forward, is the high-scorer of the St. Paul's crew, as was demonstrated when he headed his team with 12 points in the first encounter with St. Mary's. The remaining six markers of St. Paul's in that game were scattered out among Coach Ad Huhlek's Burlington quintet split a two-game series with Catholic Central of Ottumwa this season, as did the Maroons. St. Paul's eked out a slim two-point victory over St. Mary's of Muscatine, after battling through two overtime periods this season.

Monday night the Rambler were caught unaware by Catholic Central of Ottumwa, and Brack and Halsch were the only Supermen who were able to hit the net. Brack connected for four field goals, and four free tosses, totaling 12 points, and Halsch came through in the second half for three goals. The other Rambler weren't up to par.

St. Mary's will probably be out to make up for their defeat, and should be plenty hard to stop tonight. So far they have come back all the stronger after being defeated.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock the Maroons meet St. Paul's of Burlington again in the first round of the Catholic tourney at Davenport.

Allen Steers Clear of Tucker Episode

Kansas Coach Offers No Comment on Case Concerning Oklahoma Star

By CHUCK JENSEN
The "Knute Rockne of Basketball," Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, brought his Kansas university Jayhawks to town yesterday for a game with Iowa's Hawkeyes, steered clear of the Gerald Tucker episode of Big Six history, and confirmed his remarks to proposed rule changes and the future of athletics for the duration.

Allen had no further comment on the Tucker case, which threatened to blow the Big Six wide open early this month, as the Kansas mentor hurled charges of subsidization at Oklahoma athletic officials. He said the conference officials have reached an agreement to let the Winfield, Kan., star play in the second semester, and "that's the way it'll be done."

A brilliant coach, author, organizer and researcher, Allen has made many contributions to the game in his 32 years of coaching, the last 25 with Kansas. In those three decades, "Phog" has turned out 24 championship teams.

At present, he is doing some extensive research on the advantages of a 12-foot basket over the 10-foot.

"Substituting a 12-foot net for the one now used would give the shorter player who has good playing ability a better chance to cut in for the basket," Allen emphasized, "and would make the taller fellow shoot from a longer range."

the main backers of the new streamlined backboards. Primarily through his efforts, basketball found a place in the Olympic games of 1936. Another pet project was the sponsorship of the National Collegiate Athletic association basketball tournament, which each year, decides a national champion.

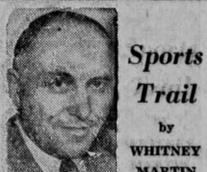

"There will be no 'big-time' athletics in this current world war," Allen prophesied, "because of lack of funds on the part of colleges to carry out such an extensive program."

"However," he continued, "in spite of the call for men for the duration, college athletics will carry on, even though subsidized sports are on the way out."

"It seems that some schools have found it necessary to award an athlete some remuneration for competition in the school's sports," continued Allen. "This has tended to make the athlete too self-conscious, resulting in a self-imposed egotism which proves to make him less successful in his athletic career."

Allen, a human dynamo himself, doesn't consider this year's team as dynamic as some of his quintets of the past, but says he is looking forward to the present schedule with more enthusiasm than in any other season.

His main job at the University of Kansas is that of director of physical education, making his highly successful cage teams almost a

Iowa P.G.A. Prexy Suggests Elimination Of Water Hazards

NEW YORK (Wide World)—Spinning the sports dial: The Iowa P.G.A. prexy is recommending that golf courses eliminate water hazards and rough for the duration. Why just for the duration? He put a period after rough it would suit us fine. From our experience the water hazards and rough already have eliminated the golf courses. We can play a full round without finding a fairway. The tire shortage is going to make it tough on boxers in training. How are they going to do their road work? Your old-time fighters and managers will tell you that the difference between present-day fighters and old-timers is that the old-timers really hit the road. Too many of the boys today don't mind doing 10 miles, as long as they can do it on a gallon. They're growing lop-sided from keeping one foot on the gas.

Note that Buddy Baer is asking $150,000 for injuries suffered in an auto accident. Well, that's probably what they think they were in when Joe Louis gets through with them, as that fighters seem to be a magnet for auto or motorcycle accidents. Gus Lesnevich has been in a couple, Pat Comiskey and Lew Jenkins have been sent to drydock after their two-wheeled nags bucked on them, and Young Stribling was injured fatally while piloting a motorcycle.

The new Boston Red Sox spring roster, just out, carries pictures of four players now in the service, along with a written salute from the club officials. The four are Mickey Harris, Al Blair, Earl Johnson and Larry Powell. Don Gutridge has been sold to the Browns after a year in the Pacific Coast league. We had a hunch the little Pepper Martin No. 2 wouldn't stay in the minors. His speed and spirit are assets to any club. The Newark club announces it has sold a player to Kansas City, which means the Yankees are just shifting their loose change from one pocket to another.

Gene Sarazen suggests that two-ball foursomes might be a means of offsetting the prospective golf ball shortage. And that husbands and wives use one golf bag between them in view of the caddy shortage. It's a safe bet that mamma's clubs would be the player to bag. Sarazen, along with Bill Slocum, ex-ports scribble, and Chick Bowen, New Haven high school coach, were recipients of gold keys awarded annually by the Connecticut sports writers alliance to sports figures who have a major place in the state's sports history. The alliance, a splendid organization whose annual presentation banquet lures hundreds of fans, in its three-year history has honored Connie Mack, Bobby Jones, George Weishaar, and Louis "Kid" Kaplan, among others.

Not being a professional rouser, we'll leave the methods of raising funds to those who know the business. However, we'll pass along the suggestion of Dr. James M. Wood, president of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., who proposes that a 10-cent defense stamp be added to the admission price of every sporting event. Dr. Wood figures that a man who can afford a ball game or a fight or any other athletic entertainment can afford the extra dime for his country.

Was Head Line Coach For Illini Last Year; Played Under Zuppke

Appointment Closes Controversial Chapter In School's History

By EARL HILLIGAN
CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Ray Eliot, who had $8 in his pockets and the ambition to play under Bob Zuppke when he came to Illinois as a freshman 13 years ago, yesterday was named head Illini football coach.

Head line coach last season, Eliot's promotion ended a long and controversial chapter in Illinois' football history — one marked by ouster moves against Zuppke and highlighted by the old Dutchman's sudden resignation last November after 29 seasons as Illini mentor.

Overcomes Handicap
Eliot, who overcame the handicap of poor eyesight to star for Zuppke as a lineman and also as a baseball catcher, was chosen Tuesday night by the university's athletic board. The choice was conveyed to President A.C. Willard and the university trustees as scheduled to formally approve Eliot next month.

A native of Brighton, Mass., Eliot worked his way through Illinois, being graduated in 1932. He spent five years at Illinois college in Jacksonville and during the last four he served as head football coach, his teams winning 23 games, losing only five and tying one. In 1937 he joined the Illini coaching staff. He is married and has one daughter.

Selection of Eliot, whose salary will be $6,000, ended a search begun last November after Zuppke's resignation. During recent weeks the field reportedly narrowed down to Eliot, Burt Ingwersen, head line coach at Northwestern, and James Phelan, former Washington mentor.

Lowest Ebb-Yet
Eliot takes over the Illinois post as the lowest ebb in Illinois' football history. During 1940 and 1941 Illinois lost 10 straight Western conference games. Since 1938 the football situation had been marked by controversy; with the trustees meeting last July and dismissing Wendell S. Wilson as athletic director and giving the 63 year old Zuppke a contract only for 1941.

Then, four days before Illinois' final game last fall, Zuppke resigned. The same day, the trustees named Doug Mills athletic director. Zuppke was retired on a pension of $4,000 annually. He termed the selection of Eliot a "wise choice."

Eliot said "This is a dream come true." He would say nothing about the membership of his staff at this time.

Football Majors Want College, Service Games

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three marine majors recruited from the football coaching ranks agreed today that the nation needed athletics now more than ever and endorsed proposals that college schedule regular contests with service teams.

Maj. Bernie Bierman, mentor of the mighty Minnesota juggernauts of the past few years, said the quality of college football in 1942 was "bound to be lower" because of the war.

"But I believe it'll be a good football year, regardless," he quickly added. "The colleges should help out in every possible way by booking regular contests with teams from the military camps."

Another marine major, former coach at Boston university, declared that "any college that fails to schedule service teams will be missing the boat."

Maj. Ray Hanson, called into service from his post at Western Illinois State Teachers college, commented that "the service teams are there, and the colleges will just have to play them."

Bierman, Hanson and Hanley are now stationed at the marine base at Quantico, Va. Currently, they are taking "refresher" courses in military tactics.

Another marine major, former Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern

WAR VERSE . . .
I don't see any use for poetry, unless, all things considered, something can be put as well or better in verse than in prose . . .

I don't remember where it came from, but it turned up yesterday in an old box containing pieces of chalk, old lead pencil ends and clippings from yellowed newspapers . . .

"The Devil sat by the lake of fire on a pile of sulphur kegs; His head was bowed upon his breast, his tall between his legs. A look of shame was on his face, the sparks dripped from his eyes; He'd just sent his resignation up, to the throne room in the skies. . . .

"I am down and out, the devil said. (He said it with a sob.) There are others who outclass me, and I want to quit the job . . . 'I'll turn it over to that guy in the land along the Rhine; 'I'm a 'has been' I'm a pikar; therefore I resign. . . .

"That Nazi ammunition maker, with his bloody shot and shell case, knows more about damnation far than all theimps in hell. 'I'm giving my job to Hitler, he's the author of this war, 'And he understands it better, a million times by far . . .

"I hate to leave the old home, the spot I love so well, 'But I'm no longer up to date in the arts of making hell.' . . .

Quite enough for today, isn't it?

Americans Appreciate Excellent Wine Tastes Of Friends in Europe

Good Domestic Wine Is Fast Supplanting Foreign Competitors

Americans have come more and more in the last few years to appreciate the tastes of their wine-drinking friends of Europe. The question of propriety in wine service no longer frightens them as it once did. A good domestic wine, which is fast taking the place of imported varieties, tastes as good from a plain water tumbler as from a long stemmed glass. Evidently Americans have come to realize this. The 82 million gallons which the nation consumed in 1940 was a 35 per cent increase over 1937's figure. This sharp rise must be attributed to a more universal appreciation of the beverage. The domestic product is fast supplanting its foreign competitor, partly because of decreased imports and partly because of the noticeable improvements shown by American wine-makers. Champagne made after the repeal of prohibition is now on the market. Although its quality is good, the price is still comparatively high. Much simplified today is the host's problem of which wine to serve on each occasion. Any dry wine, sauterne, burgundy or claret, is perfect with a meat course. Turkey and burgundy is a favorite combination. Port, sherry, madeira and muscatel have proven the most popular among sweet or fortified wines. And champagne still reigns as aristocrat of the wine kingdom. Here are a few rules to remember in keeping wine:

A dry wine must be kept out of contact with air or it will turn sour. By laying a bottle on its side you will keep the cork wet and the wine tightly sealed. The temperature in your "wine cellar" should be cool and even. Any shaking or jarring of the bottle will disturb the sediment which settles with age. High Priced Talent Of Filmdom's Capitol Arrives in Washington WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt reached the eve of his 60th birthday anniversary last night in a setting so changed that even Hollywood stars who came to help the capital's celebration wore the uniforms of the armed services. Upwards of a score of the film capital's high priced talent had arrived and were on the way up to Washington last night. The money that this crowded war capital pays tonight to attend various parties where the stars get top billing will go into the infantile paralysis fund for which Mr. Roosevelt has campaigned for many years.

Tells How to Prepare Nutritious Meat Dishes At Minimum of Cost

By CORINNE HAYES
Daily Iowan Food Editor

With plans for nourishing a nation buzzing from kitchen to kitchen, home makers are comparing their menus with nutrition charts and gasping with dismay. Because of all this, Iowa City women were happy to see Mary Wien arrive in town. As economist from the National Livestock and Meat board of Chicago, she knows all about why people should eat meat and how to make them like it.

Meat is Important
According to Miss Wien, meat contains 9 of the 13 essentials needed to keep us humming. Besides being nutritious, it is appetizing and inexpensive.

Many cuts of meat which are rich in valuable proteins and iron sell at unbelievably low costs because there is so little demand for them. Reasons for this are (1) housewives are unfamiliar with the variety of cuts available, (2) they believe that only the popular steaks and roasts are tender, or (3) they hesitate to purchase meat containing odd-shaped bones.

"There are enough different cuts of meat that they could be served every day for four months without repetition," Miss Wien revealed. "Bones present no problem to an ingenious cook. Have them removed by the butcher and stuff the roast with dressing. Or have the meat rolled and tied for facility of carving. All cuts of meat are tender if cooked properly with moist heat the attractive young economist declared.

Try Cheaper Cuts
Among the ignored portions of beef anatomy are the fore-legs. From them come arm pot-roasts and blade steaks. Also inexpensive are ground chuck, (which beats ground round) rolled brisket, rolled plate, pin-bone sirloin and a boneless 6-7 ribs.

Veal offers boneless stew, shoulder chops, rump roast, rolled breast, arm steak and riblets in addition to the familiar cuts. Shoulders and fore - legs are quite inexpensive in pork, as are spareribs, ham hocks and side pork. Salt pork, bacon squares and ends, ham shanks and slices are cheaply nutritious in the cured pork line.

Pork hearts, brains, liver and kidneys contain the same elements as beef, yet are seldom considered. If these suggestions make the menus in your file seem dog-eared, have a try at some new ideas for stretching the nickels for nutrition. Miss Wien's own favorite menu is

Stuffed Lamb Shanks
Peas
Lettuce-Spinach-Radish Salad
Bread Prune Pie Milk

Coffee
Stuffed Lamb Shanks
5 lamb shanks
2 tablespoons lard
1 1/2 cups water
Teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 pound pearl barley
Brown shanks in hot lard. Season and add water. Cover and simmer until tender, about one and one-half hours. Remove meat from broth. When cool enough to handle, remove bones. Cook barley in broth, adding water as necessary. Stuff boned shanks with cooked barley (an old Armenian custom). Place in kettle. Add gravy made by thickening remaining lamb broth. Cover and heat thoroughly.

To get that daily quota of iron, eat lots of liver. When the old stand-bys of bacon garnish and an onion blanket become monotonous, try it in a casserole, served with cabbage and carrot salad, and apricot tapioca.

Liver en Casserole
1 1/2 pounds pork liver in one piece
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup onion, sliced
2 carrots, sliced
2 1/2 cups tomatoes
1 cup diced celery
3 cups diced potatoes
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 small bay leaf
1/2 cup salt pork

Soak liver in cold, salted water for thirty minutes. Remove outer membrane. Dredge with flour and brown on all sides in hot lard. Remove to casserole. Add vegetables and seasoning. Pour tomatoes over all and sprinkle with finely chopped salt pork. Cover and cook for two and one-half hours in a moderate oven (350 D. F.).

Here's one of those pop-into-the-oven specialties which are so tempting on cold winter days.
Stuffed Veal Breast
Baked Potatoes
Buttered Onions
Apple-Dale-Nut Salad Butter
Bread Lemon Pie Milk
Coffee

Stuffed Veal Breast
Breast of veal
2 cups fine bread crumbs
1 small onion, finely diced
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
1/2 cup hot water
Salt and pepper
Have breast bone removed and a pocket cut in from the large end. Make a stuffing by combining other ingredients and moistening with bacon drippings melted in hot water. Pack in veal pocket and skewer edges together. Place on a rack in a covered pan. Cook in a slow oven until done, about two hours. Remove the cover for the last half hour to brown the veal.

Just as surely as each novel has a plot, each meal has a meat dish. There is no better way to avoid monotony in the three squares daily than to vary the meat dish or the method of preparing a and serving it. A change from the usual roasts and chops will make every family perk up and notice the modern ideas of their favorite cook.

Lima Bean Casserole
Combine 1 pound boiled dried lima beans, 2 cups thin white sauce, 2 strips chopped cooked bacon, 2 tablespoons each prepared horseradish, mustard, 2 teaspoons sugar. Bake, covered in moderate oven (350 F.) thirty-five minutes. Top with hot, seasoned spinach and cooked bacon. Serves four.

MAGICIANS WITH MEATS AND MENUS

Comparing notes on meat cuts, budgets and nutrition are Prof. Pearl Janssen, Mary Wien, economist of the National Livestock and Meat board of Chicago, and Prof. Sybil Woodruff of the university home economics department.

Miss Wien, young, vivacious and extremely enthusiastic about meat, is in Iowa City to demonstrate and lecture for the nutrition study group tonight at the Community building. She will return March 26 to lecture in home economics classes.

All phases of meat in its relation to nutrition are of interest to the young economist, from reasons for serving it to methods of making it appetizing. Magic with meats and menus are being discussed by these three capable magicians.

Currant Sauce
Dried currants combine with grenadine and vinegar to give a pleasantly sharp flavor to a sauce for pork and ham. Simmer 1 cup of currants in 3 cups of water for 15 minutes. Add a dash of salt, 2 tablespoons of grenadine and 1 tablespoon of butter. Mix 1 teaspoon of cornstarch with 2 tablespoons of vinegar, add to currant mixture and bring to a boil, stirring well. Serve hot.

Applesauce - Cranberries
Applesauce is considered the best accompaniment for roast pork, but have you tried a combination of applesauce and cranberries? While cranberries are plentiful, try this combination. It's delicious.

Tell Bad Eggs
Did you know how to tell a bad egg without breaking it? Put it in a pot of water. If it lies on its side at the bottom of the pot, it is fresh. If it stands on end, it is pretty bad. If it floats to the top, it's awful.

Pot Roast with Pineapple Gravy
To transform the ordinary pot-roast into a really successful "company dish," try this recipe which combines a rich brown gravy with tidbits of pineapple. Pineapple syrup is used to provide the necessary moisture with which to cook this less tender cut of meat. Thus the flavor of the pineapple permeates and blends with that of the meat, producing a very unusual, yet delicious pot roast.

Pot Roast (Serves 5-6)
3 tablespoons fat
3 pounds beef chuck
1 clove garlic
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup pineapple tidbits
2/3 cup syrup from pineapple
5 medium-sized carrots
5 medium-sized onions
Melt fat in a utensil which has a tight cover—preferably an old-fashioned Dutch oven. Wipe meat with a damp cloth and rub lightly with a small piece of cut garlic. Mix salt and pepper and rub into both sides of meat, then brown meat well on both sides. Drain syrup from pineapple, pour around the meat and cover. Then cook very slowly for 2 hours. Meanwhile, clean carrots and onions, but leave whole. Place around pot roast at the end of the 2-hour period and simmer for one additional hour. Then remove meat and vegetables to a hot platter. Measure liquid remaining in the utensil and for each cup add 1 1/2 tablespoons of flour mixed with 1/4 cup cold water and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until the gravy boils and thickens. Add pineapple and heat thoroughly. Pour pineapple gravy over meat and serve immediately.
