Escape of Nazi Ships Through British Blockade Causes—

New Threat to East Coast

Russian Troops Knife Through German Lines Into Old Poland

Soviet Submarines Sink 7 More German Warships in Arctic

MOSCOW (AP)—Knifing through German lines for the deepest and most significant advance yet of the red army winter offensive, Russian ski troops have entered White Russia, on the old frontier with Poland, and Soviet submarines have destroyed seven more German warships in arctic waters, war front dispatches reported last night.

Smash Ahead in South
News of these successes in the north and west were accompanied by accounts of an uninterrupted Soviet drive in the south, where numerous more villages were liberated and in the Crimea, where Russian marines routed the Germans from a height dominating the Crimean naval base of Sevastopol.

The point of entry into White Russia was not disclosed, but it could have been achieved by advance units thrusting ahead of strong Soviet forces operating both above and below Smolensk, threatened key German base on the Dnieper 230 miles west of Moscow.

Indications were that it was patrol action on a large scale, aimed at destroying the network of communications being used by the Germans in White Russia. This is a republic of the U.S.S.R. and with the Ukraine, was the scene of Adolf Hitler's first big gains in his invasion of the Soviet Union.

In far northern waters, the Russians said submarines of the red navy fleet pounded on a German convoy, sinking five transports, a tanker and a trawler bearing reinforcements to Nazi forces holed up on the Murmansk front and the Rybachy peninsula.

From Leningrad came word that Soviet troops and supplies were pouring into the second Soviet city and the army newspaper Red Star commented tersely: "The front is becoming more and more distant from the city."

No More Radio Sets For Civilians After April 22, Says Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—Predictions that all production of civilian radio sets will be halted by April 22 were heard yesterday after the War Production Board served an ultimatum giving the industry four months to convert to armament manufacture or have its equipment and labor commandeered by the government.

One spokesman for the Radio Manufacturers association promptly declared that the quick conversion could be achieved only if the government expedited the granting of war orders to the industry.

Manufacturers' representatives received the ultimatum from R. R. Guthrie, assistant chief of the War Production Board, and were told at the same time that board orders finally halting civilian output were being drafted with April 22 tentatively set as the shutdown deadline.

Crippling Blow at Japanese Power in Pacific On Feb. 1 Is Revealed by U.S. Naval Officers

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (AP)—A crippling blow at Japanese power in the mid-Pacific—possibly a preview of what Japan itself may expect—was graphically pictured yesterday by naval officers in revealing results of the attack by the Pacific fleet February 1 of the Gilbert and Marshall islands.

Striking in a surprise raid at dawn, the naval units and fleet air arm executed their first major offensive to clear the Japanese from island bases flanking the U. S. supply route to Australia and New Zealand.

The attack was conducted over an area of 350 to 400 miles located some 2,000 miles from Pearl Harbor. The ships participating had been at sea for at least three weeks

Jap Bombers Attack In Waves on Bataan Peninsula Defenses

Americans Shoot Down 2 Planes; Japs Hit Own Guns by Mistake

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Japanese were reported yesterday to be sending wave on wave of dive bombers against the American-Filipino forces on Bataan peninsula, presumably in an attempt to soften up the defenses for new infantry onslaughts.

Two bombers, a war department communique said, were shot down by American anti-aircraft guns.

General Douglas MacArthur advised, too, that the Japanese aircraft had inflicted heavy losses on some of their own troops mistaken for the American-Filipino army.

Victims of the erroneous bombing were identified as elements of the 11th regiment of Lieut. Gen. Akira Nara's division, one of the six divisions facing and overwhelmingly outnumbering MacArthur's little army.

The identification placed the attack on the defenders' right flank, joining Manila bay, presumably in the vicinity of the village of Pilar. Here the same regiment was mauled February 2, along with two others in one phase of the latest large-scale attack made against MacArthur's lines.

The Japanese have been obliged to take few precautions against attacks by the defenders' little guerilla air force, whereas the Americans and Filipinos must be continuously on the alert against enemy bombers, and quick to take cover in foxholes and camouflaged shelters.

Consequently, the mistake bombs likely caused much heavier casualties than those aimed at American-Filipino positions.

Secretary Wickard Says Rationing of Agriculture Implements Is Probable

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said yesterday rationing of fertilizer, farm machinery, processing equipment and some other crop production supplies may become inevitable because of shortages of nitrogen and other raw materials needed for munitions.

This prediction was made in a memorandum in which the secretary set forth war time educational responsibilities of the federal and state extension services.

Wounded Arrive in Java

BATAVIA, N.E.L. (AP)—Shiploads of British troops wounded in fighting in Malaya now are arriving in Java.

and covered around 10,000 miles. "This long distance attack by the task force," said one naval officer, "demonstrated how war can be taken directly to the enemy's doorstep regardless of distance."

This was taken as a clear warning that Japan itself may expect a destructive sweep from the Pacific fleet. Tokyo is but 4,000 miles from this base.

Results of the successful offensive were announced by the navy department in Washington as follows:

Five Japanese warships sunk, including a 17,000-ton converted aircraft carrier. Eleven Japanese auxiliary vessels sent to the bottom.

This Central Press map outlines what many military experts believe will be the grand strategy of the threatened Axis spring offensive—all-out assaults from Tunisia against Gibraltar and the Suez canal. The attack on Gibraltar, it is predicted, would be via French-controlled Tunisia and Algeria and Spanish Morocco. Suez is seen the possible goal of a pincers movement—the north arm cutting down through Turkey and Syria and the south arm thrusting from Libya across Egypt. A renewed air offensive against the British Isles and a sudden Axis thrust from the Ukraine across southern Russia into Iran, are also regarded as possibilities. In event of a drive through Turkey against the Suez canal an invasion of the rich oil fields of Iraq may be regarded as a certainty.

British Banners Are Still Floating Over Burning City of Singapore

3rd Draft Registration Starts 3 Days Early

Many States Keeping Boards Open Sunday To Facilitate Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The selective service registration of nine million or more additional men of military age started yesterday, three days in advance of the Feb. 16 date originally set.

In virtually all states, the process of enrolling unregistered men aged 20 to 44, inclusive, will be carried on over the week end so as to avoid disrupting industrial and other production.

Monday is the specific date named in President Roosevelt's proclamation, however, and all draft boards will be in full operation then.

Men, not already enrolled, who had reached 20 by last December 31 and will not have attained the age of 45 by Monday, are required to register.

Registration necessitates answering only a few questions relating to name, birthdate, and place of residence.

The current registration completes the process of enrolling all the nation's manpower subject to possible call for military service. Men between 18 and 20 and between 45 and 64 are to be enrolled later, on dates to be set by the president.

Imperial Garrison Holds Out As Japs Seize Water Supply

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Imperial British garrison yet floated last night over Singapore city, a core of fire in an island of desolation, as the last decision for that tortured position was again postponed.

The Singapore garrison, shaking its fist at its destiny of defeat, was creating one of the great military epics of all time and it became more and more evident that the city's fall might be indefinitely delayed.

At 10 o'clock last night Malayan time, or 10 a.m. yesterday Central War time, the city itself still held firm, under violent and unending bombardment from Japanese artillery and Japanese bombs, and the only significant enemy advance had been in the reservoir region of the central island.

Seize Water Supply
This was the gravest of news, however, for one of the main reservoirs already was in enemy hands and a second appeared to be lost to British control.

Fighting was within two miles of the center of the city on the west, but even the Japanese conceded that they had met an antagonist who was offering a powerful resistance.

Dispatches filed from Singapore at 10:30 a.m. Friday, Malayan time, spoke of British counter-attacks which had stabilized some of the Imperial positions.

In Burma the Japanese invader again heavily assailed the British line along the Salween river, on the distant approaches to the Rangoon head of the Burma supply road to China. The action at last reports was inconclusive.

This was in the vicinity of Paan, about 80 air miles from Rangoon but nearly twice that far on the land route.

Chinese Reinforcements
During the day still more Chinese troops arrived in Burma, after a march of hundreds of miles, with word that thousands of others were en route to help the British hold that vital area.

In the Dutch East Indies, the principal development was a disclosure that the Dutch garrison had fired the harbor district of Macassar on Celebes island, which the Japanese are attempting to convert into a base for an invasion of Java across the Java Sea.

Pickets Cause Fight

Senator Hits Nation For Armchair Views

Lucas Says Attacks On Our Cities Not A Far-Fetched Idea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), denouncing "armchair complacency," grimly warned the nation last night that poison gas attacks on its great cities was in prospect if the axis reached the point where it need fear no reprisal.

He expressed his views in an address prepared for delivery over facilities of the National Broadcasting Company, a speech which Capitol Hill sources said was the first of a series of similar talks by congressional leaders.

"We in America must get down to bed rock," the senator said. "We must concentrate upon only one objective, and that is winning the war. We must go on the theory that it can be lost, and not sit back quietly and say, 'Well, it may be a long war, but eventually we will win.'"

Lucas said of Japan that "her military and naval strength as well as her imperialistic designs have been woefully underestimated by all Americans."

If Japan masters the far east, Lucas said her next move may be against Russia, the Aleutian islands, and then Alaska.

And with air bases in Alaska, Chicago would be only four hours away for bombers and New York could be attacked by gas bombs, he said.

Lucas cautioned against over-emphasis on the success of recent Russian counter-attacks against the invading German army.

'Not Welcome' Sign Hung Out by U. S. For Ex-King Carol

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hearing reports that ex-King Carol of Rumania might come to this country to head a "free Rumania" movement, the United States hung out a "not welcome" sign yesterday.

Carol is now sojourning in Mexico with his friend Madame Lupescu. It was made abundantly plain here that his restoration to the throne of Rumania is not one of the war aims of the United States.

Fear Nazis Strong Enough To Divert Attention of Allies

LONDON (AP)—The allies faced a bitter fight for control of the North Atlantic today after two German battleships and a heavy cruiser, battered but menacingly afloat, had gained the safety of Helgoland after a dash through the English channel and the North Sea that flouted more than a century of British naval history.

Fears were expressed openly in London that the 26,000-ton Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the 10,000 ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, now at safe anchor for repair and supply at the end of a 700-mile fighting race from their bomb trap at Brest, would rendezvous with a Nazi Atlantic fleet strong enough "to go wherever it likes—from the Orkneys to Long Island."

Coming as it did on top of the battle of Singapore and the British reverse in Africa, the humbling of British navy and air force in their own waters measurably swelled the roar of criticism of the present cabinet. Some persons thought Prime Minister Churchill himself might have heavy going to stay in office.

The battle, involving hundreds of planes and warships of varied sizes, was broken off after an almost suicidal attack by British destroyers off the mouth of the Netherlands' Scheldt. These destroyers pierced the strong screen of the big Nazi warships and launched their torpedoes at less than 5,000 yards; then escaped without the loss of a ship.

Details of this assault provided almost the sole comfort last night for the man on the street who realizes that a second-rate German navy has turned the English Channel into a highway for Nazi ships. He knows also that Britain must now summon battleships, cruisers and destroyers to match the battle fleet which will be flying the Nazi design in the north and he wants to know why it could happen.

He was told yesterday that the German squadron and its destroyers and mine-sweepers steamed for three hours in misty daylight Wednesday before it was sighted and that it was almost under the noses of Dover's cross-channel guns when it finally was discovered.

Last night the official answer to this from the air ministry news service was that the Germans would not have got through the channel at all had it not been for thick weather which was "like a vast and persistent smokescreen."

When last seen in the North Sea the German heavy ships were making for base at 20 knots.

Shocked apprehension lest allied control of the North Atlantic would be ended for a dangerous period by union of these three ships with other powerful German units was general in London. These fears were matched by indignant demands in the press for a grand inquest into why British air power, despite the loss of 42 planes, could not, with naval support, kill the Nazi squadron.

"The death of Grant Wood was a great tragedy," President Virgil M. Hancher said yesterday.

"He was still a young man at the height of his powers and there was reason to believe that he was on the threshold of great creativeness. It is difficult therefore, to measure the loss which his early death has caused.

"Grant Wood was a great personality as well as a great painter and teacher. The university was fortunate in having him on its staff as professor of art in recent years. He had identified himself with the state, the university and with the community, and each will mourn his death."

From Dean George D. Stoddard of the graduate college, one of the artist's closest friends, came a deep tribute:

"Grant Wood painted what he knew and loved—and at times he had a little fun. Since he was modest and friendly, he was often misunderstood. He never defended himself or his work, but he believed in, and fought for, the right of his fellow artists to paint the American scene. Grant Wood was Iowa's best gift to the country. He will be missed."

The Cedar Rapids Gazette, in what had been for many years the artist's "home town," voiced the sentiment of the press of the state:

"In the death of Grant Wood, not only did America lose one of its finest genuine artists, but Cedar Rapids and Iowa lost a blood-brother and worthy friend. For Grant Wood was Iowa. He loved and breathed and painted it."

"Grant Wood founded a new school in art, and even during his career his greatness was recognized and feted the world over. All this stemmed from his recording with brush and pen what he saw in the region he best knew—Iowa, his character and its foibles. Grant Wood belonged to the nation, but he has a very special place in the hearts of Cedar Rapids and Iowa, just as they had in his."

Wood died at University hospital at 10 a.m. Friday, on the eve of his 50th birthday. Cancer of the liver cut short his brilliant career as a leader in the field of American art.

He always refused to be bound by artistic traditions. He believed his greatest medium lay in painting the things and people he knew, against their own natural midwestern background. The inestimable value of that medium he proved to the world.

F.D.R. Defends Agency Rights

Annoyed at Criticism Of Excess Agencies By Some 'Glib Guys'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt said yesterday that a lot of bright boys and glib guys, who demand that non-defense agencies of the government be pruned, have failed to specify just how it should be done.

He himself indicated that such trimming was largely up to congress. But he did outline at a press conference a step toward putting the government on a war time basis, along with industry, through the shifting of federal employees.

He directed heads of all governmental departments and agencies to determine immediately what workers they could release for employment in other activities, noting that a voluntary increase in the work-week of most government departments from 39 to 44 hours had left some overstaffed.

The bright boys, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters, suggested the curtailing of all non-defense federal expenses. But when you ask a bright boy who sobs all over about the matter how to do it, he said, the answer is that that is a detail and not his business.

At the time the United States was attacked by Japan on December 7, the Iowa chapter of Bundles for Britain had become an important unit in the national organization, and was doing its share in war relief among British civilians, and in knitting garments for the men of Britain's armed forces.

The direct involvement of the United States itself in war caused a temporary halt to the Bundles for Britain activity here, as it did throughout the nation.

The important question to be answered was: "Does Bundles for Britain still have a place, with the United States herself at war?"

The war time picture has clarified since December 7, and the place of Bundles for Britain is as vital as it was before.

The entry of the United States into war has not increased Britain's supply of wool from which British civilians might make their own garments for the British airmen and seamen. If any effect has been apparent, it has been a decrease in British supplies.

The lightning of the axis scrutiny of the Atlantic makes the British seafarers as hazardous—more hazardous—than before.

In the face of the fact that the British people are all-out allies of American civilians in what has become a world-wide democratic stand to save themselves from the axis drive to destroy us, the importance of a total effort—in military AND civilian affairs—is more important now than it has ever been before.

The picture clear, officials of the Iowa City branch of Bundles for Britain have voted to continue their activity.

They have passed this resolution:

"In as much as:

1. President Roosevelt in his press conference early this month, made emphatic his belief that American gifts for war relief in allied countries should continue with increased support, and, to quote his words, 'instead of cutting off anything, Americans should give a little more.'
2. Bundles for Britain is sending kinds of relief to Britain which are not adequate. For two days (Feb. 5 and 6) the roads and communications of the island were blasted by a continuous hail of shells—one remote road in particular as it turned out later.

How the Japs Fooled Britain—

The Japs then executed a colossal feint. They encouraged the British to believe they intended to storm the island by direct assault, and seized Ubin island (Feb. 7) off the northeast tip, in obvious conformance with that purpose.

The shelling and dive bombing increased next day and the British began to notice "menacing troop movements in the rear of the Jap positions" but they were wholly unprepared to meet the assault which came that night across Johore Straits at the opposite end of Singapore—the remote, northwestern marshy section, where attack was most difficult, where the British thought the marshes protected them, where they were least ready to meet strength.

The Japs had trained troops to get through those particular marshes at that particular time. This was apparent from the efficiency with which they went about their business, and from their equipment which included steel boats, armored sufficiently to withstand machine-gun fire. (How they brought up these so quickly is another unanswered question.)

Only two side roads lead out to this marshy section, and when the blow fell, (if not before) the British discovered that the shelling and dive bombing of the previous days had been aimed at these roads more than any others. British communications from their main forces in the center were therefore difficult.

Within a few hours, a never-ending stream of Japs had slipped in the marshy backdoor to Singapore and established a front ten miles long.

With no air force to protect the British troops against machine gunning from above and the continuous shelling from the big Jap guns, the British were doomed from that hour.

"Bundles" is continuing its activity. They ask your full support.

The chapter will continue:

1. To collect good used clothing, blankets and shoes—for men, women and children.
2. To knit for men of the R. A. F. and the men on the armed travelers and mine-sweepers in the British fight upon the seas.

If you have such articles of clothing, or if you want to enlist your services in this total allied civilian effort—visit the Bundles for Britain headquarters, Room 314, Iowa State Bank and Trust Building, which is open from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. each week day.

Or telephone 7113, to let "Bundles" know what you'd like to do, or to request that they pick up what garments you may have, if you cannot deliver them yourself.

We recognize that it is now imperative that American private effort and sacrifice be increased to do everything, everywhere, essential for Allied Victory.

That program involves you, no matter who you are, or where you live.

Can the Tall Women Continue To Be Feminine Without Hose?

The world, we submit, has arrived at a pretty pass when tall women are discouraged from being feminine. Our own women's feature writers have preached one doctrine to their readers on the matter of war times: "Be Feminine!"

Now we discover that for those tall women it's more or less impossible, for the reason that hose—of any material, let alone silk—aren't going to be available in sizes over 10 1/2 from now on.

Hosiery manufacturers insist that by eliminating the all-important size 11 they can save a tremendous amount of materials. But think they not of the tall girl? What is she going to do?

We can suggest three alternatives:

She can use a pair of the boy friend's sock garters and create a style—with the garter at the knee.

She can smear some of this new-fangled paint above the top of the hose in a matching color, so the hose will, in effect, be "extended."

She can stitch several smaller stockings together.

What is the eventual answer we cannot say. Now that warm weather is on its way, the hardship will not be so trying. But there are winters to come, and if they are anything like this one we feel for the hose-less woman.

Oh, yes, we forgot. She can go bare-legged, or she can knit those like Grandma wore.

HOLLYWOOD FIGHTS SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Movie titles, their care and feeding: A movie called "Hearse Don't Hurry" is now called "Who Is Hope Schuyler?" and for two pretty silly reasons.

The first is that "hearse" connotes death, therefore is repellent. This is silly because mystery and detective novels deal in death whole sale and no type of fiction has a more steadily faithful clientele.

The second reason is that somebody discovered there weren't any hearses in the picture. This is carrying things a bit far, unless Hollywood has had a change of heart and decided to make movie titles fit the pictures they label.

When you think of it, there weren't any grapes in "The Grapes of Wrath," there was no wind in "Gone," and nobody held back the dawn for Charles Boyer.

For Boyer and Bette Davis in another movie there was "all this" but "heaven too" was mighty scarce. None of which literal quibbling spoiled the titles.

Today, when they hit on a classical title, they may use it in a foreword but they also let it crop up in the picture. Thus Herbert Marshall in "The Little Foxes" quotes from the Bible verse about the predatory veynards; Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland explain the Biblical origin of "Arise My Love," and in "This Above All," the nurse reading to wounded Tyrone Power chooses "Hamlet" and Polonius' advice, "This above all, to thine own self be true and it may" etc.

This meticulous attention to titular detail extends to labels of non-classical origin too. The title "Hold Back the Dawn" was originally called "Memo to a Movie Producer," then "The Golden Door," finally "Hold Back the Dawn"—after a line of Boyer's dialogue.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

Military Intelligence Is Mason's Meat—
 By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—F. van Wyck Mason, the novelist, has been called to active duty as a major in the Military Intelligence Division of the Army—an apt assignment.

Military intelligence is Mason's meat. He's made a hobby of it for years—studied it, written about it, and from his experiences coined a series of novels that have lifted him to a high plane in the estimation of the hordes of readers who prefer fiction with a flavor of military and political intrigue.

Noted among these intrigues have been "The Sulu Sea Murders," "The Fort Terror Murders," "The Shanghai Bund Murders," "The Rio Casino Intrigues." Through these tales have stalked the figure of Major North. So well established has this character become that readers write Mason indignant letters whenever he permits Major North to fall into trouble. The Major (North, I mean) is a lad with an eye for a pretty woman and he gets around. Mason's chums, in the spirit of good-natured banter, have not overlooked the fact that the man who created Major North—is now a major himself.

The last time I saw Frank Mason was at the Harvard Club in New York and he was telling me of a wonderful acquisition of his which he called an "arctic trunk." We had been talking about hunting and fishing, and said, "What a shame we can't have some of those ducks and pheasants we had last autumn."

"I can," exclaimed Frank. "Didn't I tell you? Not without exultation he then explained his prized possession—a small compact "arctic" box that holds game to a temperature of 10 below zero. It freezes it and holds it indefinitely. At the moment in this box are 40 or 50 pounds of moose meat, the fruits of a moose hunt in Canada last fall; a dozen prime mallard ducks, half a dozen grouse, quail, pheasants . . . When he craves moose steak there it is . . . If he has friends to dinner who prefer mallard, he retrieves them from the chest."

But now, that's all changed. . . The box with its frozen treasures is still in the Mason home in Baltimore—but Frank, alas, is in the army, where the accent is on beans, beans, beans. . .

Note: Previously three of Mason's Major North yarns were issued as an omnibus under the title of "Military Intelligence—8" in a few weeks three others are to follow under the title of "Oriental Division G-2."

On the stage or before a microphone Helen Hayes rarely garbles a word, but in the confines of her Nyack, N. Y., home she sometimes indulges in little Hayesian speeches that are peculiar to herself. George S. Kaufman learned of them when the actress was explaining the trying experience she had in placing a piano in a room that was too small to hold it.

"I really haven't room for much of it," Miss Hayes said.

"Why, Helen," observed Kaufman, "that's very seldom of you"

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

After Singapore, Can Anyone Doubt What This War's About?

WASHINGTON—The shocking speed with which Singapore collapsed is hard to explain. It looks like the British were tricked into making the wrong preparations. They had expected a long siege or a Jap by-passing of the bastion. Instead they were outwitted by a smashing blitz so cleverly conceived and so swiftly executed that the Japs must have been working on it for years.

The British had no sooner blasted the causeway from the mainland and settled back on a seventy-mile circle of defenses than the surprises started. Five days after the Japs arrived on the opposite shore they opened one of the most terrific artillery bombardments seen in this war anywhere. How they got so many big guns up through the jungle and into position with such speed, no one yet knows.

The counter batteries set up by the British (their big guns had long been faced the other way to meet attack by sea) were wholly inadequate. For two days (Feb. 5 and 6) the roads and communications of the island were blasted by a continuous hail of shells—one remote road in particular as it turned out later.

How the Japs Fooled Britain—

The Japs then executed a colossal feint. They encouraged the British to believe they intended to storm the island by direct assault, and seized Ubin island (Feb. 7) off the northeast tip, in obvious conformance with that purpose.

The shelling and dive bombing increased next day and the British began to notice "menacing troop movements in the rear of the Jap positions" but they were wholly unprepared to meet the assault which came that night across Johore Straits at the opposite end of Singapore—the remote, northwestern marshy section, where attack was most difficult, where the British thought the marshes protected them, where they were least ready to meet strength.

The Japs had trained troops to get through those particular marshes at that particular time. This was apparent from the efficiency with which they went about their business, and from their equipment which included steel boats, armored sufficiently to withstand machine-gun fire. (How they brought up these so quickly is another unanswered question.)

Only two side roads lead out to this marshy section, and when the blow fell, (if not before) the British discovered that the shelling and dive bombing of the previous days had been aimed at these roads more than any others. British communications from their main forces in the center were therefore difficult.

Within a few hours, a never-ending stream of Japs had slipped in the marshy backdoor to Singapore and established a front ten miles long.

With no air force to protect the British troops against machine gunning from above and the continuous shelling from the big Jap guns, the British were doomed from that hour.

These tactics show how long and well the Japs had prepared for this war. Like the Hitler generals who spent years in detecting and planning to exploit the defect they discovered in the Maginot line, the Jap general staff worked out the weakness of "impregnable" Singapore, and marshalled the necessary force and material to penetrate it.

From the event of Pearl Harbor to Singapore you can see now the painstaking finesse in ten or twenty years or more of work—well screened behind broken naval treaties, and lately behind an assumed position of weakness in China. They let the world believe for the last three years that they had lost the Chinese war. They played weak and poverty stricken while they trained troops in specific detail for a greater conquest.

Their statements talked peaceful intentions, while their military got the scrap-iron and oil from us and others to build the vast machinery of conquest—swarms of ships, tanks, planes, big guns. They edged peacefully into Formosa, then into Indo-China and then they were ready to strike.

First they had to immobilize our fleet by a treacherous timing of war action and a specially designed attack on Pearl Harbor. Then they unveiled their especially trained task forces and equipment to penetrate the Malayan jungle, the rice fields and all the natural "impregnable" defenses of Singapore.

Finally they show up with just the right artillery, just the right boats, just the right scheme to seize the British bastion. And they are marching on to new surprises.

Can Anyone Remain Apathetic Now?

Can anyone now doubt what this war is about? Do these circumstances not prove that this is more than "axis aggression" or a belligerent search for raw materials, or the usual political war? Has it not now disclosed itself to be, as far as we are concerned, the long awaited war to conquer western civilization, in which all questions narrow down to the single one of whether we can survive or they?

Can anyone now remain apathetic to the danger confronting us?

The story of "Barbara Frietchie," familiar to many persons from John Greenleaf's poem of the same name, takes place during the Civil War days. The love interest in the play centers around Barbara Frietchie whose heart is torn between her love for a northern soldier and her duty to the south.

Clyde Fitch first produced the play at the Broad street theater in Philadelphia, in 1899. He created Barbara Frietchie as a young girl in contrast to the then popular conception that she was an old lady. By doing this he turned history inside out and was severely criticized for it at the time, but the play proved to be a success. Otherwise the play follows historical facts.

Prof. William D. Coder of the dramatic department is directing.

New University Film Series Starts Monday

The Four Horsemen Of The Apocalypse To Be First Feature
"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," the first feature in the new series sponsored by the University Film society and the Art guild, will be presented Monday night at 7:30 in the auditorium of the art building.

It was in "The Four Horsemen," an anti-war film based on the Ibanez novel, that Rudolph Valentino established his reputation as a movie idol. Although the production was made in 1921, several of its stars are still well known today, including Wallace Beery, Jean Hersholt and Alice Terry.

Ret. Ingram directed and produced this novel of the World War at a cost of $640,000, but by the end of 1925, the film had grossed $4,000,000.

The now-frequent use of close-up shots was developed in this movie, with inserts used to point a situation humorously or to bridge a gap in cutting. Realism is achieved through exacting attention to detail.

Two of the scenes generally recognized as being the most memorable to film goers were not in the original book. One is Valentino's dance in the Argentinian cafe, and the other is the final scene of the picture, leaving a mystical impression in the mind of the audience.

The Navy has taken a prominent part in developing aviation, deep-sea diving, and short methods of navigation.

SUI Abolishes High School Music Festival

Cancellation of the University of Iowa's high school music festival, scheduled for April 23-25, was announced by Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts and chairman of the festival committee.

The influx of men for the naval aviation training unit and the resultant dearth of housing facilities for the high school musicians, are responsible for the cancellation. Rooms in private homes previously used to house musicians now will be taken over by men evacuated from the Quadrangle to make way for the trainees.

It will be the first time in 17 years that a music festival has not been held on the university campus. Between 1926 and 1939, inclusive, the university co-operated with the Iowa High School Music association in holding the huge event, which at its peak brought some 8,000 pupils to Iowa City.

By HAROLD LIND University high advanced another step towards the championship of the Eastern Iowa conference by trouncing the last place Mt. Vernon five here last night, 41-16.

The victory gave U-high six victories against one defeat in the conference with only two games remaining on the schedule. Led by Capt. George Lehman, who tallied 17 points, the Bluehawks jumped off to a 13-0 lead before Mt. Vernon was able to dent the scoring column. The first quarter score stood at 13-2 in favor of the Blues.

Bluehawks Increase Lead Even though Coach Paul Brecher substituted freely during the second period, there was no letup in the scoring, and U-high increased its lead to 24-8 by half-time.

Jim Schneberger started the Bluehawks off on the right foot in the first quarter by pouring in the first five counters. Lehman added three more, while the U-high defense held Mt. Vernon to four points, and the third period ended with Mt. Vernon trailing, 32-12.

Subs Take Over Second stringers again took over in the final stanza, and continued to give a good account of themselves by outscoring their foe, 9-4. The play of Lehman was the highlight in the Bluehawk attack, but the rebound work of Jack Shay and the all-around play of Schneberger was also outstanding. Schneberger and Shay also figured highly in the scoring by dropping in nine and eight points, respectively. Bill Burnett led the Mt. Vernon scoring with six markers.

Clinton Mermen Break National Relay Record Clinton high school's swimming team officially broke the national high school record for the 300-yard medley relay yesterday afternoon, with a 3:04.8 mark against a picked team from the Cedar Rapids high schools. Clinton won the dual meet, 30-27.

The former record was held by Roosevelt high school of Des Moines, 3:05.7.

Whetstone Forced to Fight The cooperative champs led, 15-6, at the close of the first quarter, and had increased the advantage to 29-13, at the start of the last period. Delta Sigma Delta, even when hopelessly behind, however, kept up its spirit and drive, and Whetstone was forced to fight for all its points.

Jack Graham tallied 11 counters for Whetstone, and he was closely followed by Bruce Hicks with nine and Bob King with seven.

Hotshots, Whelstone Advance to Finals of Intramural Tourney Advancing to the finals of the all-university intramural basketball tournament Thursday night were the Hotshots and Whetstone. In a rough and tumble battle, the Hotshots, champions of the town loop, eliminated Beta Theta Pi, the Fraternity Class B representative, 38-18.

Beta Theta Pi caught the Hotshots off guard early in the game, and jumped off to a 4-0 lead, but the Hotshots' attack then began to click, and they pulled to the front, 8-4, at the close of the initial period.

The Hotshots led, 22-10, at the start of the final period, and then outscored their opponents, 16-8, in the final stanza to win with ease. Towering Jim Keane again led the Hotshots' attack with 11 points.

Dexter Phillips, left, former Des Moines city champion, came here last night with the Minnesota swimming team, and it was expected that his duel with Capt. Vic Vargon, right, of the Hawkeys, would be one of the high spots of the meet. However, Leo Biedrzycki of Iowa took the play, winning the event, with Vargon second, and Phillips not placed.

Hawkeye Wrestlers Meet Gophers Today

Five Iowa Matmen Will Go Into Ring With Clean Records

Iowa wrestling fans will see an eight-match "battle royal" at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when the Hawk matmen tangle with the University of Minnesota grapplers in the Iowa fieldhouse.

In the last year's competition the Gopher grapplers finished on top in the Big Ten with the Hawkeys following in second place. Today the Minnesota maulers will face an unbeaten Iowa team, much improved and gunning for the top of the pile in the Big Ten this year.

Both teams will be highlighted by a champion, Len "Butch" Levy, last year's national collegiate heavyweight king, will go to the mat for the Gophers; while piloting the Iowans will be 136-pound Capt. Loy Julius, last year's holder of the Big Ten 128-pound throne. Iowa will also be sending five men into the ring with "undefeated" records.

This will be the second conference meet for the Hawkeys, who have scored three straight wins thus far, having whipped Chicago, 22-8, in the conference opener.

Hawkeye Swimmers Handed First Defeat Of Season by Minnesota Tankmen, 47 to 37

Echlepp Edges Out Lounsbury to Cinch Meet for Gophers

Iowa's swimming team was handed its first defeat of the season here last night by the Golden Gophers of Minnesota, 47-37. Paced by Arnie Elchlepp, the Gophers won six of the nine events.

It was a see-saw battle all the way until the eighth event, the 440-yard free style, when Minnesota's Elchlepp pulled away from Date Lounsbury to cinch the meet for the Gophers and give them a 39 to 33 edge. The Gophers didn't stop there, but they went on to win the final event of the evening, the 440-yard free style relay.

The bright spot of the evening for Iowa was the great diving performance turned in by Leo Biedrzycki, who piled up point after point to win first place over Iowa's Capt. Vic Vargon who placed second.

Don Wenstrom won the 50-yard free style, but lost the 100-yard free style to the Gophers' strong Bob Acker. Both the sprints were photo-finishes that could have gone either way. Wenstrom barely won from Ray Hakomaki in the 50, and Acker was only a split second in front of Wenstrom in the 100-yard event.

By MAXIE ROSENBLUM St. Pat's went through the mill again last night as a tall, smooth-working Oxford quintet grabbed a lead early in the opening period and forged steadily ahead to win going away, 34 to 12.

Slim Ted Mahoney, Oxford captain, led the Black Pirate attack with 13 points on six field goals and a free throw. Billy Connell held a slight edge in the Green and White's scoring, which was divided among six players, with four markers. Jim Russell, Bob Grady and Earl Murphy connected for two each, and Capt. Bob Quinlan and Don Gatens rounded out the evening's scoring with one apiece.

Grady's Work Good The Irish stayed in the ball game for most of the opening quarter on field goals by Grady and Murphy, and trailed 8-4 at the end. It was mainly through Grady's efforts that the south siders did manage to keep within a respectable distance in the initial period. He grabbed most of the rebounds and his floor work was outstanding.

He couldn't do it alone, however, and the Oxford height soon began to tell. Maurice Underwood, Lefty Doyle, Slug McGurk and Mahoney collaborated for five field goals to put the Pirates out in front 18-5 at halftime.

The second half story was much the same, with a little added excitement thrown in when Bob Connell and Underwood were put out of the game for fighting. The Irish seconds came through with a victory over the Oxford yearlings, 15-10.

Cagers Meet Northwestern In Loop Tilt There Tonight

Iowa Gymnasts Meet Illini, Huskers Today Illini Will Bring Most of Last Year's Conference Championship Team

Iowa's gymnasts will have their first taste of competition this afternoon when the Universities of Illinois and Nebraska come to Iowa City for a triangular meet in the fieldhouse gymnasium at 1:30. The Illini will bring with them most of last year's team that won the Big Ten conference championship.

Coach Albert Baumgartner's Hawkeys are on the other side of the fence when it comes to experience, with only Capt. William Kridelbaugh and Simpson back from last year. The remainder of the squad is composed of new men with little experience in intercollegiate competition.

Huskers Not Too Strong The Cornhuskers are not too strong, having dropped recent meets to Big Ten foes Indiana and Minnesota. The Illini will rule as the favorites this afternoon, with Iowa conceding a good chance to nab second ahead of Nebraska. The Huskers will bring a six-man team, with entries in all events except the long horse.

Baumgartner had five men ready for the high bar competition, but the recent loss of John Graban will cut it down to four—Simpson, Bob Gross, Kridelbaugh and Dale Popp. Illinoi has three entries in this event, with Fina, Cobb and Calvetti competing. Nebraska will likewise go along with three. The side horse has three men entered from each team, with Hansen, Popp and Kridelbaugh working for Iowa, Fina, Cobb and Boharty for Illinois, and Pelco, Griffith and Hodges going for Nebraska.

The Huskers will fall behind in entries for the rings with only two men, while Iowa and Illinois will each enter three. Working for the Hawks will be Simpson, Kridelbaugh and Gross. The Orange and Blue will have Fina, Cobb, and either Matson or Galvin ready. McMaster and Porter will go for Nebraska.

Cornhuskers Enter Three The Cornhuskers again drop behind in the parallel bars with three men entered, while Iowa and Illinois will go along with four. Baumgartner will use four men in tumbling, Illinois three and Nebraska two. The Hawks again lead the entrants in the long horse with five. Illinoi will have three and Nebraska none for this event.

From the list of entrants it is evident that Kridelbaugh will carry the main Hawkeye burden and hopes, but it is doubtful that he and Simpson, only other veteran, will be enough to bring Iowa through to victory this afternoon. Much will depend upon the showing of the newcomers, but Illinoi's experience is rated too much for Iowa to overcome.

The Parnell crew was headed by Lawler, guard, who came through with five buckets and two free throws for 12 points. None of the other Shamrocks were able to tally more than a few points. Coach Suplee's quintet raced out ahead in the first quarter to hold a 9-2 advantage at the end of the period. The tables turned somewhat in the next stanza, when Parnell outscored its opponents, 9-6, but this was not enough to offset the lead which the Ramblers had established.

In the opening minutes of the second half, St. Mary's resumed its hard-driving offense, and pushed on to a 22-12 command at the close of the third quarter. The Supleemen counted 11 markers to Parnell's 10 in the last frame.

Coach Suplee will give the Maritans a four-day rest now, after which the squad will resume practice to get ready for the St. Pat's game in the old City high gym, February 25.

Wendell Hill Probable Starter at Forward In Place of Trickey

Probable Starting Lineups Iowa Northwestern Chapman, f F. Graham Hill, f C. Trickey Kuhl, f F. Hasse Siegel (co-c) G. Wendland Soderquist (co-c) G. Kruger

Iowa's basketball team will attempt to prove tonight that it doesn't reserve its best play for the conference leaders, as the Hawkeys go into action against Northwestern's dangerous Wildcats in the Evanston high school gym.

Winners of five out of nine games, the Hawkeys meet a team which has taken only three out of eight, but respect the Wildcats all the more for that. The tussle will be one of a full house of Big Ten games, with Michigan at Illinois, Chicago at Indiana, Purdue at Minnesota and Ohio State at Wisconsin.

Iowa will have to stop the scoring antics of two dangerous Wildcats, Otto Graham, third high scorer in the league with 108 points in eight games; and Russ Wendland, a guard who has averaged 10 points per contest. At the same time the Hawks will have to unloose some offensive trickery of their own.

Wendell Hill will probably start at one forward position in place of Ben Trickey, partly because of Trickey's influenza siege in the early part of the week and partly for his fine showing in the Ohio State game Monday. Tom Chapman, Milt Kuhl, and Vic Siegel will provide the impetus for the offense, with Rudy Soderquist, who counted 15 points against the Buckeyes, ready to continue his scoring improvement.

Iowa will get a short rest after tonight's battle, resting for a week before hitting Michigan in a return game next Saturday, the start of a four-game home schedule which includes Indiana, Purdue and Illinois. The last game of the season will find the Hawkeys at Wisconsin.

Americans Too Lax About Their Health, C. H. McCloy Says

"We in this country are becoming too complacent about our health," Dr. C. H. McCloy, professor of physical education and anthropology at the university, said at the Masonic Service club luncheon yesterday.

"The best way we can help our country is to develop an adequate amount of strength and endurance in order to do our jobs well," he said.

Professor McCloy advised all men over 40 to have a complete medical checkup. "See a doctor with a young mind who doesn't consider either himself or you as old," he said. "Then live normally."

Most men smoke too much, drink too much coffee, overeat; each of these things in itself is not fatal, but add them together with a lack of sleep and you have the typical middle-aged American man who puffs upstairs and is tired by noon, the professor said.

Dr. McCloy advised a moderate program of exercise, coupled with temperate living for all men who need to build up endurance and strength. He emphatically warned against strenuous exercise. "Start with an easy program and then gradually make more demands upon yourself as you can accommodate them," he said.

Four Cars Damaged As a Result of Two Iowa City Collisions

Four cars were damaged when they became involved in two collisions in Iowa City Thursday and yesterday.

A collision at the intersection of Linn and College yesterday morning of cars driven by Grant Pickering, 23, 1829 N. Dodge, and Irving Justice, 50, 1311 Kirkwood, resulted in damages of $125 to the car driven by Justice and $110.98 to the car driven by Pickering.

The Listening Post--

By LOREN HICKERSON

GRANT WOOD...

Sometime, a long time from now, when all of us are deleted from the scene of mankind's defeats and victories to become just temporary memories in the minds of the people who will come after us, the men and women of an older, wiser civilization will look back on what we did and maybe learn a thing or two about the greatness and inviolability of human life...

They will examine the records—the things we said, the things we did—and mark down our period in history as good or bad, in terms of the standards of that unseemly tomorrow...

They will explore with eyes trained upon the few things here and there which will indicate what kind of people we were. These they will separate from the great hodgepodge of crass, mediocre things, and hold them up as the essence of what was good about us, their forefathers...

As they examine the records they will come from the scattered works of Grant Wood... They will find them all over the land... And they will look at their hard, stern lines, done with a knowing hand, and place them with the essence...

They will examine them closely—the faces, the scenes—and they will write into their histories...

... In Middlewestern America in the period just before the Second Great War, there lived a type of sturdy, determined, sensible American who somehow managed to escape the whirling aimlessness of the times...

In the midst of tremendous industrial development, he remained close to the soil, with his family and fellows...

Among generations indoctrinated with the greatness of material wealth, they remained rich only in their possession of the stars, the trees, the earth, and God...

They lived by stern rules of hard work and simple pleasure, and a brotherhood which was permanent and full of unspoken meaning...

The revolution of newly discovered science beat around them, and they absorbed what was good of it, dismissed what was bad, and turned their greater freedom to the enrichment of their souls...

They developed American music, American literature, American art...

They kept abreast of man's accumulated knowledge, and used the fruits of that knowledge to create a more perfect physical existence...

But they maintained what they knew to be good—everlastingly good—about the human spirit—honesty, courage, discipline, and a faith unscarred by knowledge...

What they were has been preserved, accurately and almost with visible emotion, upon the canvases before us...

Here is their humor, their sadness, their work and their play...

To these firm, enlightened people, who looked with vision upon the destiny of their children while they lived their lives, we owe so much...

Through this man, Grant Wood, whose name appears upon these canvases, we sense what they were...

He knew them. He must have loved them...

Grant Wood was of the people, not apart from them as great men often are. He had no illusions. He was real.

He left us, quietly...

Grand Jury Expected to Hear Barry's Plea in Schmidt Case

Preliminary Hearing To Be Held Today In Fairchild's Court

Following postponement yesterday of the hearing of Joseph L. Barry and Lauretta Barry, charged with the murder of Eddie H. Schmidt, Oxford farmer, the possibility that the couple will waive the case this morning to the Johnson county grand jury was expressed.

Yesterday's hearing, scheduled for 9 o'clock in the court of T. M. Fairchild, justice of the peace, was continued until 9 o'clock this morning upon counsel's agreement. No reason for the continuance was given.

It was indicated however, that the Barrys will waive the case to the grand jury and apply for bail. Justice Fairchild intimated that he will probably agree to the proposal and will fix bond.

No statement was made as to whether the case would be brought before a special session of the present grand jury or before the regular grand jury before the present May panel.

Sheriff Preston Koser arrested the couple on the first degree murder charge last Saturday night. They have been held in the Johnson county jail without benefit of bond since that time.

Schmidt's body was found on New Year's day.

H. L. Kinsey, Manager of Local Airport, Explains Recent Landing Field Regulations

H. L. Kinsey, manager of the Iowa City airport, last night released a special statement clarifying the recent action taken by the Iowa City council to close certain areas of the local landing field to the public.

According to Kinsey, there has been much confusion among local and out-of-town pilots concerning the limitations imposed upon airport facilities by the ruling. The statement was made to correct false impressions held by the fliers.

Kinsey said that the management of the airport is not closed as regards to the following:

1. Passenger, mail and express transportation is being conducted on regular schedules, the same as before the emergency.
2. The Shaw Aircraft company is still operating for student instruction, local storage of planes and the carrying of local sight-seeing passengers.
3. Any and all properly certified local or itinerant pilots or planes have full access to every airport facility and service.

County Clerk of Court Will Be Consignee Of Sugar Stamps

Sugar Ration Board Will Begin Functions Here About March 1

R. Nelson Miller, clerk of court, in a letter received yesterday from Gov. George A. Wilson, was designated as consignee of the new sugar ration books which are expected to be received here from Washington, D. C., about March 1.

Permission to store the mass of printed supplies and forms needed in the rationing program in the court house was granted by members of the board of supervisors yesterday, Clerk Miller said.

The governor's letter stated that the materials allocated to each of the 99 counties in Iowa will be at least as many pieces as the population of each county.

It was stated in the letter that the time required for printing and distribution of approximately 750,000 forms would delay operation of the rationing machinery until the first of the month.

Although no definite plans have been announced as yet, Clerk Miller said the issuance of "sugar stamps" would probably be administered in the same manner as tires by the tire rationing board.

Procedures in details covering the clerk's functions in the allotment of materials to distributors will be forwarded here at a later date.

Details of the rationing program, as announced Feb. 6 by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, stated that stamp books will be distributed entitling each individual to a limited quantity of sugar—probably 12 ounces a week.

Only one person in each family need apply for the stamp book. He will have to sign an application, stating the quantity of sugar in his household.

At that time Henderson said that all supplies over two pounds would be considered hoarded sugar.

Returns from the county Red Cross war fund drive yesterday reached a total of $17,653, it was announced by J. J. Swanner, general chairman of the fund.

Swanner called attention to the fact that weekly and monthly pledges are now due and that the volunteer workers in the war fund office would be relieved of considerable work if the pledges are met promptly.

"We need the cooperation of everyone who signed a pledge card in order that payments may be tabulated, the filing cards may be credited with the payment and the money collected put to use immediately," he said.

Rationing Board Stops '42 Model Car Sales

The Johnson county rationing board yesterday informed local auto owners that the rationing order now in effect forbids any persons from ordinary transferring of a 1942 model car.

Only sales or transfers made legal by the order will be permitted. The owner of the 1942 automobile cannot sell it to any agency other than the army, navy, certain government agencies, a dealer, a distributor, the RFC or a manufacturer.

Repossession may be made of a car whose purchaser does not meet the payment contract, or the car may be taken by a creditor following the accepted judicial process, the order states.

Purchasers of new cars must resell them. Use by the finance company or dealer of a repossessed car is forbidden.

Plan Inter-Fraternity Cooperation—Fraternity Pledges Form Council

Place Emphasis on Scholarship

An organization to knit the pledge groups of the various fraternities at the University of Iowa more closely together—the Inter-Fraternity Pledge Council—began operation this week with Ray W. Winters, C3 of Marshalltown, Delta Tau Delta, as president.

Other officers of the group are Frank Seydel, A2 of Denver, Col., Theta Xi, vice-president; Ed Updegraff, A3 of Boone, Phi Kappa Psi, secretary, and Jack McCarthy, A2 of Webster City, Beta Theta Pi, treasurer.

In a move to place greater emphasis upon fraternity scholarship, the new council has presented a scholarship plaque to be presented each semester to the fraternity which maintains the best group scholarship average.

A social committee of the pledge council has been formed, which will organize interfraternity pledge social activities.

New Defense Course Will Be Given Here

30 Men Will Receive Specialized Training As Radio Technicians

A new national defense training course, "Fundamentals of Radio," has been approved by the United States department of education and will begin next week in several Iowa communities including Iowa City, according to Dean Francis M. Dawson of the college of engineering.

Prof. E. L. Waterman of the college of engineering, administrative assistant to Dean Dawson and institutional representative of the engineering, science, management and defense training courses, said that the new course would begin next week in Iowa City, Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Clinton and Burlington. On the following week the same course will start in Waterloo, Davenport and Rock Island, Ill.

Designed to train men as radio technicians, class enrollments in each section will be limited to 30 persons. Waterloo and Cedar Rapids will have two sections each.

Graduation from a high school and at least two years of study in mathematics and one year of physics are the only prerequisites. Each town will furnish their respective instructors, assisted by the technical staffs of their local radio stations. Courses meet three hours a night, three nights a week.

Prof. Carl H. Menzer, director of the university radio station, and Prof. Roscoe Woods of the mathematics department will conduct the course in Iowa City.

Fire Partly Destroys Feed and Grain Bin

A fire which destroyed a one story grain bin belonging to Daniel G. Roth, manager of the Iowa City Poultry and Egg company, was extinguished by local firemen early this morning.

The fire which apparently was started by an oil heater, completely destroyed the building, located about two miles south of Iowa City on the Sand road.

Firemen said that a number of tools and several hundred bushels of chicken feed and oats were destroyed or damaged.

Part of the grain was saved by the firemen who pulled the walls of the building away from the blazing pile of feed. A neighboring building was also saved.

County Nutrition Plan On CBS Show Today

The "Midwest Mobilizes" program, to be broadcast over a nationwide CBS hookup this afternoon from 4 o'clock until 4:30, will feature a dramatization of the Johnson county nutrition program.

First Sunday Concert By—St. Louis Symphony

Includes Bach, Beethoven

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of four program notes on the concert to be given by the St. Louis Symphony orchestra. The second will appear Sunday.

A transcription of a Bach toccata and a Beethoven symphony will be included in the first concert of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, Sunday afternoon, Feb. 22, at 3:15 p.m., in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Alexandre Tansman, the gifted Polish composer, has orchestrated the "Toccata in D minor" of Johann Sebastian Bach which was written during the period when Bach lived and worked at Weimar.

The first performance of the transcription was given by the St. Louis symphony under its permanent conductor, Vladimir Golschmann, on Jan. 8, 1933.

Occupying the major portion of the opening concert will be the "Symphony No. 7 in A major, op. 92" by Ludwig von Beethoven.

The first performance of the symphony was at a benefit concert in Vienna on Dec. 8, 1813.

The seventh has been subtitled "the dance symphony" or the "apotheosis of the dance" because of the pronounced rhythms in all the movements, especially in the bacchanalian finale. It is in the traditional four movements, Poco sostenuto—vivace, Allegretto, Presto—presto meno assai and allegro con brio.

Paul Dukas, the comparatively unknown French composer, is today noted only for his popular work, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice."

Mobilization of the vast army of farm workers throughout Iowa and the middle west for the production of the greatest harvest in history is the task undertaken by the United States employment service.
