Japs Bomb Port Darwin

Alies Hit Invaders of Java Australia Prepares for All-Out Invasion as Enemy Attacks Port

Down Five Jap Planes in Raid On Dutch Base

Allies Fight Last-Ditch Battle to Stem Nippon Drive in East Indies

BATAVIA, Java, N.E.I. (AP)—A staunch allied air defense of Java's Soerabaya naval base knocked out nearly one-fourth of a Japanese raiding force yesterday while isolated Dutch Indies battalions fought fatally at many points in the archipelago and U. S. and Netherlands air squadrons beat hard at the invaders of Sumatra.

Third Mass Raid It was the third mass raid in three weeks on the Java naval base and seemed an ominous prelude to the expected grand assault on this rich island. But the defenders destroyed five of the 21 planes which came from the sea in two waves, and the Aneta agency correspondent at the base reported there was little damage and few casualties.

On Sumatra, in numerous centers of resistance on Borneo and on the southwest peninsula of Celebes, last-ditch delaying actions, comparable in miniature to General MacArthur's defense in Luzon, were being fought by the N.E.I. troops left behind after the invader came.

In south Sumatra these fierce Indonesian fighting men, charging with pistol in left hand and razored "kewang" sword in right, were wiping out Japanese machine-gun nests and smashing enemy formations superior in both size and equipment. In one attack, native regulars of the N.E.I. army charged across an open field to seize eight machine-gun emplacements and slaughter the crews.

Battle Still Raging A communique said fighting still raged in many places on Borneo; a dispatch from an official N. E. I. war department correspondent on Celebes disclosed that the defenders, after withdrawing from the city of Macassar, had established new positions and were carrying out intensive activity against the invaders. However, another official announcement said fighting was almost over on the northern Minahasa peninsula of Celebes where the Dutch have prolonged resistance since the invasion of January 10.

Reds Advance As Big Guns Lead Offensive

MOSCOW (AP)—Continued general advances for the red armies were reported this morning by the Soviet high command, which declared that nazi losses had been heavy in men and material and announced the largest bag of German planes in recent days—35 destroyed aloft and ground.

Earlier front dispatches had told of heavy Soviet artillery action—in some areas directed by the radios of guerrilla bands operating behind the German lines—which had smashed gaps in the nazis fortified front and broken down tank-led counter-attacks. (The Vichy radio reported, without confirmation from any other source, that the far southern Russian forces had opened a new and large-scale offensive in the Crimea, directed mainly against the port of Feodosiya.) Units which filtered through the German lines on the Leningrad front were said to be calling the shots of the Russian big guns so closely that strong German positions were blasted off the battlefield.

The "nuisance value" of the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and of the German cruiser Prinz Eugen is seen greatly increased by their escape from Brest, France, to their German home port. Their new must be considered a menace to the United States-British Isles Atlantic supply line and also to the United States bases on Iceland. Also, major British naval units must now be kept constantly ready to deal with them if they come out again, thus partially immobilizing part of the British fleet. This Central Press map illustrates the situation.

Japanese Begin New Onslaught Against Positions of MacArthur

More Enemy Forces Arrive for Expected Critical Bataan Fight

By RICHARD L. TURNER WASHINGTON (AP)—The army yesterday reported the beginning of a big, and perhaps climactic, Japanese drive upon the battered troops of General Douglas MacArthur on Bataan peninsula.

New enemy air units were bombing the American and Filipino forces "almost constantly." New Japanese artillery batteries pounded the defending positions with increased intensity. And meanwhile, even more Japanese reinforcements were landing at nearby Subic Bay.

The army communique also reported a successful attack upon Japanese shipping in the Dutch East Indies by American army pilots flying four motored bombers. Direct hits were scored on a big transport and a small one, and both were believed sunk. Two enemy barges were destroyed. None of the planes was damaged.

Daladier Goes On Trial Today

VICHY, Unoccupied France (AP)—France's most controversial trial since the Dreyfus affair in the '90s opens today at nearby Riom when five leaders of the dead Third Republic file through an underground tunnel from their prison cells to a courtroom to face charges of responsibility for France's military defeat.

On hand to report this strange post-mortem on France's collapse and Germany's triumph will be 10 German newspapermen and other axis representatives. Working across from them will be seven American correspondents whose government now is engaged in a death struggle with the axis.

Altogether 119 newsmen from 16 countries will be present. Only a handful of public spectators will be admitted to watch these defendants enter the dock: Edouard Daladier and Leon Blum, former premiers; Maurice Gustave Gamelin, former allied generalissimo; Pierre Jaquet, former administrator of national defense industries; Guy La Chambre, former air minister.

Adolf a 'Crack-Pot' 'Hitler Couldn't Even Hang Paper'

NEW YORK (AP)—Benny Nussbaum, New York paperhanger, knew Adolf Hitler when he said Hitler was known as plain Shieklergruber, the paperhanger.

"He was not only a crack-pot," said Nussbaum yesterday, "but he couldn't put paper up straight. His work was terrible. With one arm I could do a better job than that guy. No wonder he gave it up. "He was a punk soldier, too. We both were privates. I rose to the rank of sergeant. He never got higher than corporal."

Nussbaum, who became an American citizen shortly after he arrived in this country 19 years ago, is now a senior air raid warden in Queens. He has a memento from Hitler—a medal sent to him by mail in 1935, awarded "in the name of the reichstuehrer and chancellor of the German people for conspicuous bravery and service to the fatherland in the last war."

Letters Introduced as Evidence Against Alleged Nazi Agents in Espionage Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—Letters written by alleged German agents here to agents in Spain and Portugal, revealing information concerning American troop disposition, defense plants, labor and war material were introduced as evidence in federal court yesterday in the trial of five men and a woman charged with espionage conspiracy.

Every able-bodied man and woman is being mobilized on the continent to counter the Japanese tide. # Can We Forgive Them---

WILL WE POSSESS THE STRENGTH TO HOLD TO OUR PURPOSE WHEN THIS WAR ENDS?

Forty days of the Lenten season began yesterday and this year ought to take on a special meaning to all of us, Catholic, Jew or Protestant.

It is the custom to observe this period in denial and abstinence in honor of the last month of the life of the Master Human whose life we are trying so desperately to emulate. It may seem treasonable to rock back to the immortal words of Jesus, and especially in a war time when the nation is faced with its darkest hour, but we submit that if nothing else, if we want to make the world a better place in which to live, we ought to remember what He said on the Cross.

"Forgive them, Lord, for they know not what they do."

Of all utterances in history, this is the most powerful, the most simple, the most admirable. And in our time we hear voices raised against it.

Can we forgive the vile and insidious attack on Pearl Harbor, the vicious stab in the back that took American lives and property? Can we forgive the cruel and inhumane treatment of the hospital ships sailing the South Pacific from Manila to Australia? Can we forgive the merciless and barbaric bombing of the free city of Manila? Can we forgive the stealthy and wolf-like attacks of the U-boats in the Atlantic, the ruthless torpedoing of American ships laden with women and children, defenseless in the torpid, olive-green waters of the South China Sea?

We ought to think about these things if we want to be Christians. We ought to be at rest with our own souls on the matter: are we going to let the nation and not be forgiving, but permit the principle of the vendetta to rule our minds and our bodies, and not call a halt until we have set ablaze every paper house in Tokyo and castrated every German and exile every Italian and punished each Frenchman; or are we going to be loyal to ourselves and the Almighty Spirit that we like to say we believe in and take these enemies unto us and call them brethren?

Any man who professes himself a Christian or Mohammedan, or Buddhist, or Jew ought to think about these things. And if he is a good and just man, and thinker as well as a believer, perhaps he will act and speak in the manner of that Spirit: "Forgive them, Lord, they know not what they do."

There is a middle path, a road that, however high, no matter the avenues that lead away from it, will eventually lead all mankind to a firmer foundation and a better superstructure.

The road has three tickets, and they are these:

1. Belief in the omnipotence of the Almighty.
  2. Belief in one's self as the reincarnation of His spirit.
  3. Acceptance of the Two Great Commandments, in any faith, so long as one loves his God AND his neighbor.
- The odd thing about these tickets is that anybody can buy them, and they cost nothing but a willingness to listen and an eagerness to believe. They are available to men and to women and to children, of all creeds, of all colors, of all nationalities. The Mohammedan calls his Almighty by another name, yet he accepts the teachings of that concept quite as faithfully as the Christian accepts God. The Buddhist, in some ways, is even more pure in heart, more humble in soul, than the Christian.

The point is, that in 1942, it is not impossible to construct a new society, a world federation, built upon the foundation of mutual respect and understanding and exchange of admiration. Politically and economically, we are leading toward that direction. Spiritually we must, also.

No encyclical of any church can keep us from it. If we are fighting this war, once and for all, to chase out the serpent from among us, to stamp out barbarism and greed and filth and intolerance, we are going to be quite

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Re-Establishing Confidence Between Citizen, Government

WASHINGTON—Answers of the average citizen to government officials who have called him apathetic continue coming to this desk in unprecedented volume suggesting all is not straightened out yet.

Promised clean-out of Civilian Defense and repeal of congressional pensions will do much toward re-establishing that mutual confidence between citizen and government which is essential to success in our war effort, but according to my mail it leaves the chief popular plaint untouched.

The main demand is that the taxpayers and bond buyers, straining to give every possible cent to the war effort, receive some convincing assurances their money is being wisely and economically spent.

This should be easier to meet than the other two. Mr. Roosevelt could appoint some economy-minded authority whose name would inspire confidence (such a man, say, as Senator Byrd) and let him chase and eradicate waste. Or perhaps the job could be done by the Truman committee, which is now trailing the same subject, but too far behind.

Inspiring the Men of the Street, Factory and Barnyard

A second step toward inspiring the men in the street, factory and barnyard might well be the search hereafter by Mr. Roosevelt for appointees not identified with his old New Deal socializing groups.

It is a surprising fact that only one of my growing list of complainants is dissatisfied with production. Public dissatisfaction on this score seems relaxed since the reorganization of OPM and the designation of Donald Nelson to do the job, although this was the sorest spot until the change was made.

But a number of people apparently still believe the greater half of the war effort is in the hands of familiar reform faces like those of Henderson, Landis, MacLeish, Hopkins.

Columning is a two-way reporting duty. Having reported what the government officials fear concerning public apathy, I believe it is my duty to continue reporting the responses of the people who continue writing me in greater earnestness and volume than upon any subject in my previous twelve years of columning.

Only along this line can democracy function efficiently, drawing out into the open every well founded grievance, laying all dark suspicions on the table for debate and classification. Only thus can harmful atmospheres be cleared.

In furtherance of that duty, here are excerpts from the last tabulated batches of mail (supplementing those reported in this column published Feb. 16):

"Cut out hundreds of New Deal bureaus, and put the bureaucrats to work in industry or in the armed forces" . . . "Outlaw labor politics" . . . "We need less propaganda, fewer publicity schemes to build morale and less extravagance in government" . . . "We don't need bands and minute speakers. What we want is sincerity and the absence of deception" . . . "Let our officials try to give us wise, efficient leadership and see how our apathy disappears" . . . "Our boys have been taken away, but welders and men essential to the war effort are allowed to strike at will and slow up production. They should be put under the same discipline as soldiers" . . .

"Every newspaper is to blame for the attitude each and every one of us has toward the war. Let's hear the bad news. Don't stress just the good" . . . "There isn't anything about the people's morale that calls for their being treated like a nation of sub-normal juveniles" . . . "It is possible that the American people have been under the impression that part of this tax that we pay was being used for our protection" . . . "Imagine the sale of war material to a potential enemy six months before they declare war on us" . . . "Not enough letters in the alphabet now for identification of boards in Washington" . . . "Let the politicians show their willingness to sacrifice" . . .

"It seems the words 'alert' and 'careful' are not to be found in the lexicon of our navy" . . . "The man next door gets relief, why should not I?" (apparently serious) . . . "Labor has been petted and pampered. Why?" . . . "A housecleaning in the army and navy departments" . . . "The Japanese have not been removed from areas on the Pacific coast where they endanger the safety of the country" . . . "Farmers are worried about where they are going to get help to keep their farms going" . . . "If soldiers can be sent to Ireland, why cannot MacArthur get reinforcements?" . . . "Could we, via the Aleutians, slam into one of the islands just north of Japan proper, and use them as bombing bases for a week to destroy Japan and then get out?" . . .

But perhaps the whole thought of these people is wrapped up in an editorial, sent by a reader, from the Glen Falls, N.Y., Post Star, which concluded:

"Lead us keenly and we will show you an invincible tidal wave of fighting people."

GETTING SICK OF IT

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—They say that the only man in the movies who can make one without a script is Gregory LaCava. This is partly true, but largely horsefeathers.

LaCava is directing "Sheltered Lady" now. Irene Dunne again, this time with Patric Knowles. LaCava started, as usual, without a script. Without a complete script, that is.

LaCava starts in his head, and work themselves down into a loose-leaf notebook. He takes a character or characters that intrigue him, puts them in a situation that interests him, and he lets them go on from there.

He works with a writer or writers, and he'll toss the thing around with them for weeks before he comes to the sets. Usually he knows ahead for which star he's pointing the story, hence figures on the player's personality—talents and limitations—in the story development.

Eugene Trackrey is his current writer. LaCava and Trackrey huddle in the director's trailer, always parked outside the stage, and polish up each sequence as it comes along. Trackrey's specialty is dialogue, but LaCava works at the speeches too. Trackrey says LaCava is no fonder of LaCava lines than another writer's, and never quibbles over wording so long as it gets over the desired thought.

He is stickler for accurate "flavor" in dialogue. When he was making "The Primrose Path" he sent a secretary down to get a job in one of the San Pedro canneries—simply to take notes on the language of the other girls. When he was preparing "Stage Door" he sent a helper to live at the local Studio club, home for extra girls, to jot down the talk of the theater-struck lodgers. He might never use any expression literally, but he would use the "flavor."

A piano-tuner got an unusual order the other day: to untune a piano for "Yankee Doodle Dandy." Must have been quite a nice change—perhaps the gratification of a long-suppressed desire.

Like the picnic Thomas Mitchell had on the "Moon Tide" set. Supposed to be in a drunken rage, Mitchell had to wreck a whole movie room—crash dishes to the floor, break up chairs, toss pictures, and stuff a rug into a fireplace. Which of us hasn't wanted a chance like that—especially to get paid for it?

Preston Sturges' scarcely secret urge is for trains. It's scarcely secret because in his last three pictures—"The Lady Eve," "Sullivan's Travels," "The Palm Beach Story"—he has had lengthy train sequences.

one prime purpose. That was to cripple or at least greatly diminish nazi striking power in Russia come spring. If it does not succeed in doing that, the outlook for the allies will be as ill-omened in the European war zone as it still appears to be in the far Pacific.

Neither side has clearly defined the major fighting fronts in Russia since the German retreat from Moshaisk weeks ago. A series of tremendous salients and counter-salients is indicated from the Azov seacoast to the Baltic. The strain on both sides to keep these manned against entrapment of advance forces by an enemy junction across the base of each salient must be terrific.

In the center, west of Moscow, and supported by the Smolensk and Vitebsk junctions, the Germans appear still holding a huge eastward bulge. It still is an ominous threat to Moscow along the Napoleonic route if the Russians fail to crack it finally.

Unofficial reports, however, have indicated that Russian spearheads have driven deeply westward on both sides of the bulge. One has been reported across the Vitebsk-Nevel road and rail connection and reaching the vicinity of Polotsk. If that is true a red force is operating close to the old Polish border more than 100 miles west and north of Smolensk. It not only has cut direct communications between the German northern flank, but is menacing the Vitebsk key to the great nazi bulge in the center.

Similar reports place a second red spearhead west of Smolensk to the south at Kirov (Cherikov) on the Soltz tributary to the Dnieper. If that is true the Russians are within 40 miles or so of the Dnieper below Orsha.

A new process is being developed to make soap out of petroleum.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There used to be a candymaker at No. 50 on Lower Broadway whose two children, a boy and a girl, grew up to influence the whole course of American history. He was a soap boiler as well as a "tallow chandler" and it was his daughter who married Matthew Calbraith Perry, the American admiral who "opened up" Japan. The boy, John Slidell, after a number of youthful indiscretions which included a duel with a theatrical manager over the affections of an actress, fled South, took up the practice of law, and later became Jefferson Davis' special envoy to the Court of Napoleon III in an exciting but futile effort to win French recognition for the Confederate States of America.

I went down to 50 Broadway to have a look at the old site of the elder John Slidell's tallow and soap establishment. In its place today stands a 37-story building known officially as Fifty Broadway. Across the street, at 45, is the Merchant Marine Enrolling station. To the right is the gigantic Central Hanover Bank and Trust Co., and a few doors further on rises what is perhaps New York's most beautiful skyscraper, the Irving Trust Co.

Broadway at this point is only 27 feet wide, thus accounting for the term "canyon" applied to those narrow passageways between the climbing towers.

Of special interest is the fact that Trinity Churchyard with its ancient tombs stands less than 100 feet from where old John Slidell carried on his thriving business in 1810. Alexander Hamilton, killed in a duel with Aaron Burr, is buried there, and so is Robert Fulton, credited by some authorities as the builder of the first steamboat.

The Hamilton-Burr affair has significance here, for as Burton J. Hendrick points out in his magnificent analysis of Jefferson Davis and the men who formed his cabinet, "Statesmen of the Lost Cause":

"The arctic glory of New York from 1800* to 1820 was the old Park Theater. Here Slidell was a frequent attendant, interested not only in the plays but in one of the most popular ladies of the cast. In this romance again the adventurous young man met opposition—this time in the person of the celebrated Stephen Price, manager of the Park. One morning on the city's outskirts the two rivals met at pistol point in the most approved Hamilton - Aaron Burr manner, the theatrical manager was seriously wounded, and this, as well as his multitudinous debts, made desirable for Slidell a residence in some distant region."

Thus it was that a Broadway Yankee, with his duelling plumes and a backstage valentine among his souvenirs, fled to New Orleans where he took up the law, became a planter, and in due time claimed a Creole bride. It was from here, during the turbulent days of the infant Sixties, that he made his entrance upon the stage of history.

The Listening Post--

LOREN HICKERSON

(Bob Noble Pinch hits in the absence of Loren Hickerson.)

THEY ASK MENTAL SUPPORT

"They just don't realize yet what is going on..."

A former university student, ex-member of the class of '43, now H.A. 2-c, U.S.N.R. in his own vocabulary, versed his bewildered impression of Iowa's student body's thinking...

"Going back to the university on my liberty was the happiest week-end I have spent in a long time..."

Mr. Ex-'43 declares that he had a swell time...

"But there was a blot on my week-end..."

"Despite the fact that our country is at war and we should all be doing what we can to help in this fight, there is still a feeling in our own University, in our own students that we enlisted men have lowered ourselves by joining the armed forces of our country..."

"The feeling that students have that they are in some way superior to our boys in uniform is unfounded..."

"A great many of the enlisted men were college students too or have degrees from colleges. Every day I meet some fellow who has been at Illinois, Indiana or some other college..."

"I am in the Navy, but I know that the boys in the army and marines feel the same way..."

"Perhaps this attitude is caused by the fact that the war has not yet been brought close enough to many to make them realize the gravity of the times..."

"These boys in uniform, these friends, relatives, sons and sweethearts are the ones who are at this moment defending America..."

"I know this attitude of indifference on the part of civilians is not intentional..."

"...the change from civilian life to this life is hard enough to make without outside opposition..."

"Since the selective service boards issued their first call 17 months ago, we here at home have expended all of our efforts in aiding the boys at camp with gifts of cigars, candy, cookies and books..."

"Mr. Ex-'43 requests nothing material, nothing toward his physical comfort, but aid for his mental self..."

SUI Men to Compete In Radio Prize Debate

Hines and Thompson To Enter Semi-Finals Of National Tourney

Howard Hines, A3 of Iowa City, and Howard Thompson, A3 of Cedar Falls, will compete in the semi-finals of the national intercollegiate radio prize debate sponsored by the American Economic Foundation.

Hines and Thompson were chosen from contestants in a local tournament here last Saturday. Topic of the contest is "Does Youth Have a Fair Opportunity Under Our American System of Competitive Enterprise?"

Prizes of $50 are offered for the eight best briefs entered in the semi-final round, and debates are broadcast over Blue network stations in the region of the contestants.

The four finalists will have traveling expenses paid to New York for a Nationwide broadcast of the debate, with first and second prizes of $1000 and $500 awarded to the winners.

Thompson and Hines have prepared eight-minute speeches and debate briefs on the topic. They were selected to enter further competition on that basis combined with the originality and effectiveness of their work.

TO SING AT COMMERCE MART

Helen Hartley, the petite featured vocalist who sings to the smooth accompaniment of Hal Leonard and his band, will sing her songs at the annual Commerce Mart to be held in the main lounge of Iowa Union tomorrow night from 9 until 12.

Hal Leonard's unique musical style is based on the use of a triple-tonguing trumpet section which employs three-foot long trumpets for special effects.

The party features a "Keep 'Em Flying" theme and one of the special features of the evening will be the presentation of a $25 defense bond.

All-University Skate To Open Tomorrow For Students, Faculty

Roller skating for all university students and faculty members will be held from 7:15 to 8:45 p.m. and from 9 to 10:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday nights in the women's gymnasium.

Two sessions are being held each night in order to accommodate more skaters.

Roller skating, an activity begun last year by the women's physical education department, will continue throughout the semester on Friday and Saturday nights. However, skating will be suspended Feb. 23, March 14 and March 28 because of the all-university square dance parties.

Popular music for skating is provided by means of a public address system and various kinds of skates are scheduled each session.

Skates are furnished by the women's recreation association although anyone having skates with fiber or composition wheels may use them as long as they do not mar the floor.

Coats and books are checked free of charge.

The cathedral at La Paz, Bolivia, can accommodate 12,000 worshippers.

Attending Convention

Prof. Kurt Lewin of the child psychology department and the child welfare research station left yesterday for Milwaukee, Wis., where he will speak at the 20th annual convention of the International Council for Exceptional Children.

He will discuss "Experiments in Social Atmosphere and Children's Moral" at the second general session tomorrow morning.

Sugar, Water Form Effective Wave Set

The next time you set your hair try two teaspoons of sugar in water for a lotion. It's hard to believe that you could get anything but a sticky mess, but the result is surprising.

It seems that this solution makes your hair easy to handle, dries more quickly than a heavy lotion and leaves your hair soft and silky. The set will remain intact for days, too.

To Join War Relief

All interested members of Women of the Moose will join the organization's war relief committee in sewing and knitting for the Red Cross tomorrow afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 in Moose hall.

Mrs. Frank Strub, chairman of the committee, is in charge.

Natural Gas NOTICE!

Any increase in the use of natural gas in 17 states has been banned by the Government. The next step will be that already taken in Canada; i. e., limiting the use of gas for home heating.

Users of natural gas may find it best to examine their own situation immediately. It is possible TODAY to change to fuel oil or stoker fired coal. There is plenty of fuel oil and plenty of coal.

IN A FEW MONTHS, IT MAY NOT BE POSSIBLE TO BUY EITHER AN OIL BURNER OR A COAL STOKER.

The time to change your heating plant is right now; DELAY may mean a return to hand firing of coal.

Williams' low pressure OIL-O-MATIC burners and IRON FIREMAN coal stokers are the world's best. Let us survey your heating plant and quote cost of an immediate change-over.
