F.D.R. Declares Lend-Lease Aid Too Small

Reports $2,570,452,444 Help For United Nations During 1941

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reporting a total of $2,570,452,444 lend-lease help for the United Nations in the last year, President Roosevelt bluntly told congress yesterday that "what has been done falls far short of what is needed to turn the tide toward victory."

The war will be won, he asserted, "only by contact with the enemies, and by attack upon them." It takes time and "more and still more equipment and transportation" to organize the offensive, he said. "Success will come dearly at the price of defeats and losses," he added, and: "The offensive that the United Nations must, and will drive into the heart of the axis will take the entire strength that we possess."

The $2,570,452,444 in assistance extended is but a fraction of the total lend-lease funds of $48,006,650,000 authorized by congress, and when broken down, it includes but $1,411,000,000 in actual transfers of materials.

Of the remainder, $448,000,000 is awaiting transfer or use, $138,000,000 is in process of manufacture, $126,000,000 was in repairing and servicing ships of United Nations, $243,000,000 was in the rental or charter of ships, and $176,000,000 was invested in production facilities in the United States.

However, nearly $12,985,000,000—the total of the first two lend-lease appropriations—has been obligated or is covered by contracts already let. Further progress lies in the rapidity with which American industry can convert itself to war time production. Mr. Roosevelt repeatedly emphasized that the combined and total effort of the nation is needed.

Transmitting the report to congress, as required periodically by the lend-lease law, Mr. Roosevelt praised the program as having sustained the nations which were fighting the aggressor and prevented a situation which would otherwise have seen the axis nations attacking the United States directly by now.

The fact that the program was inaugurated nine months before America's entry into the war, he said, had enabled us to increase our industrial capacity for the manufacture of war materials, and have them tested in actual combat, with resulting improvements in design.

Moreover, he said, reciprocal lend-lease is now a fact, with other United Nations furnishing materials to the United States when it seems that this country can use them more effectively.

Freighter Malama Believed to Be Sunk By Surface Attack

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Matson Navigation company's 3,275-ton freighter Malama was presumed lost in the Pacific by the navy yesterday. The disclosure of radio messages from the ship indicated she was followed by an unidentified plane Jan. 1.

Twelfth naval district headquarters said the radio station at Papeete, Tahiti, received a message from the Malama, reporting she was being followed. Later another communication received at Rarotonga, Cook Island, said she was "ordered to stop by an unidentified plane."

Hart Declares Jap Air Superiority Responsible For Victories, But Says Enemy Losses Heavy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Smashing Japanese aerial superiority that showed up at every crucial phase of battle was credited by Admiral Thomas C. Hart yesterday with having produced victory for the enemy in the first great campaign of the Pacific war.

The former Asiatic fleet chief and commander of allied naval forces in the western Pacific declared, however, that the enemy had paid such a high cost in ship losses for the vast, rich territory captured that he must have "great concern" for the future.

Hart told his story of the tragic failure of the American, Dutch and British allies at Secretary Knox's press conference. Beside him sat Admiral Ernest J. King, supreme United States naval commander.

House Okays New Proposal Of Farm Bloc

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house approved yesterday a farm bloc proposal designed to prevent the sale of government-held surplus crops below parity prices but some members questioned whether the action would accomplish the purpose in the face of administration opposition.

No Trace of Sabotage In Burlington Blast, Safety Board Reports

BURLINGTON, IA. (AP)—Vigorous manual operation of a valve controlling the flow of TNT is considered most likely cause of the explosion at the Iowa Ordnance plant here March 4, which killed 22 men, preliminary findings of the ordnance department safety board showed yesterday.

The preliminary findings, handed to Maj. Gen. Charles M. Weston, chief of ordnance, yesterday and released here by Major John H. Eagerly, acting commander of the Iowa plant, said "No evidence of sabotage has yet been discovered."

Asserting that millions of pounds of TNT have been handled over a period of years with similar equipment to that in the plant, the safety board pointed out that the equipment is "not absolutely foolproof."

The board said changes will be made in the "draw-off valve system to make it more foolproof, before resuming operations."

Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen, who interrupted a tour of mid-west defense plants to come here for the start of the investigation, announced then that the melt units at the plant had been shut down and would remain closed until the cause of the blast was determined.

The explosion, the second at the plant in less than three months, occurred in a melt building at 11:53 p. m. Twenty bodies have been recovered and identified and two other men are missing. More than 50 were injured. The other explosion, which killed 13, happened at 1:05 p. m., last Dec. 12.

Pickets Evict Guard From Shed in Strike At Peoria Rail Yard

PEORIA, ILL. (AP)—About 75 men took over picket lines at the entrance to the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad company's yards in East Peoria last night, evicted a company guard from his one room shanty, tipped it into a creek and set it afire.

Last night's disturbance followed a day of activity by pickets from the ranks of the AFL and CIO who offered their aid to members of brotherhoods striking against the road and stopped four freight trains. Another train, however, sped through the picket line.

Named Property Custodian

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday named Leo T. Crowley alien property custodian and gave him potential control over an estimated $7,000,000,000 frozen alien assets in the United States.

Brazil Indicates Plans To Enter War Soon

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil was given pointed notice last night that President Getulio Vargas holds single-handed power to declare war, and further indications of this nation's approach to open hostilities appeared in the withdrawal of all Brazilian merchant ships from seas where at least four have been sunk by the axis.

President Vargas by decree reiterated his constitutional powers to declare war or a state of national emergency and cleared the way for seizure of axis subjects and property without further ado.

Brazil's anger toward the axis was indicated by headlines on the latest known sinking, news of which was withheld until early last night.

Report Seven Enemy Vessels Sunk, Damaged off New Guinea

CANBERRA, Thursday (AP)—The spearhead of a Japanese invasion fleet trying to reinforce its holdings on New Guinea island off the northern Australian mainland was believed today to have been broken by two days of violent Australian aerial bombardment which blasted airport runways at Salamaua and Lae and sank or damaged at least seven Japanese ships.

Reports here also indicated that United States bombers were participating in the steady slashing at the Japanese.

"Further smashing blows will be dealt the Japanese in that region," a government spokesman said. "What has happened at Salamaua is only the beginning."

(The U.S. war department in Washington announced Wednesday that American planes were responsible for the sinking of two Japanese ships, as well as setting four others afire and causing one to be beached on the New Guinea coast.)

American and apparently to some extent other allied air power was giving a good account of itself, for in the opening phases of a counter-offensive just getting well under way the war department announced that seven Japanese ships had been destroyed or otherwise put out of action by heavy American bombers off the northeastern New Guinea town of Salamaua, but the outlook was not bright for the defenders.

For in the face of these casualties—those confirmed by the U.S. government were two ships left sinking, four afire and one beached and there were indications from Australian sources that two other enemy vessels perhaps had been knocked out—enemy flotillas escorting a large convoy toward the southern New Guinea harbor of Port Moresby were reported sighted.

Striking Heaviest Blows

The war department's late afternoon communique incidentally was the first indication that it was American pilots who were thus far striking the heaviest blows in defense of the Australian approaches. Earlier, the action off Salamaua had been reported by the Royal Australian air force with the use of the expression "our bombers." It turned out that apparently this was used in the sense of allied bombers, not Australian bombers as had been supposed.

Port Moresby of all points in the outlying islands—where the invader already held beachheads both on New Guinea and New Britain—would be the most logical marshalling point for a major force attempting to leap the Torres Strait onto Australia proper 300 miles to the southwest. The town and harbor were raided during the day by 12 enemy bombers with undetermined results.

Ration Cards For Gasoline May Be Used

WASHINGTON (AP)—Petroleum coordinator Ickes announced yesterday the petroleum industry had recommended to him rationing of gasoline in the east by a card system to meet the supply emergency caused by the sinking and war transfer of tanker ships.

Until the card system can be set up, which would require several days or possibly weeks, the industry proposed that the government adopt a system of limiting supplies at filling stations which in turn would distribute limited amounts to purchasers.

The immediate limitation figure was proposed at 25 per cent in over-all consumption, as compared with a year ago.

The industry suggested also that immediate action be taken to reduce deliveries of fuel oil, and that pipeline facilities be constructed from the Gulf area to the New York-Philadelphia area.

Ickes issued a statement saying that the industry recommendations were receiving full consideration and would be acted upon promptly.

Reds Capture Key Junction

MOSCOW (AP)—Red army troops were reported last night to have captured a key junction in the Lake Ilmen area where Soviet fighter pilots have steadily destroyed big Nazi planes trying to ferry reinforcements to the trapped 16th German army under General von Busch.

Dispatches from the Staraya Russa sector said the Germans were using a transport route from Koenigsberg in eastern Germany via Riga, Latvia, in an effort to shuttle plane-loads of 30 to 35 men to the encircled garrison.

Forests and airfields along the last leg of this service were littered with the burned-out wrecks of these big planes, the Russians said. Twenty-five such transports were smashed in three days.

Tass also reported that the number of suicides of privates and officers alike in the besieged army were increasing, and that General von Busch had issued orders that the bodies of these men be buried outside military plots and without honors.

JAPS PREPARE FOR ATTACK HERE

Groundwork for an apparent assault on northern Australia has been laid by the Japanese in their landing on northeastern New Guinea, only 400 miles from Australia's northernmost tip at Cape York. It was predicted that heavy air raids by Jap planes based on New Guinea and Timor could be expected by Australian cities along the north coast. The Central Press map above shows how enemy forces have closed in from the north on the commonwealth.

● Average American Is Asleep To Great Perils Before Us—

The United States is fighting for her very life against an enemy who gives no quarter and expects none — against an enemy who adopts any measures to gain his ends. Part of our enemy advocates the extermination of the white race; the other the mastery of the world in the hands of an Aryan race.

A great majority of Americans have failed completely to adopt a wide-wake attitude toward this war. They seem to believe that because America has never lost a war we can't lose this one. They have the notion that American soldiers are a form of Superman, that they are invincible in battle.

They fail to realize that we are fighting an enemy who would make World War I despoils look like a group of angels. The Italians, Germans and Japanese have been taught to hate America. They have been taught that America is a land of grasping, conniving capitalists who desire to rule the world. They have been taught that to die saving the world from such a fate is glorious.

To accomplish this, to discover the weak spots of their adversaries, these nations have sent innumerable 'fifth columnists' to this country. These men, be they executives in large plants or the meaneast laborers, observe and report to their homelands all the weaknesses they observe. The West Coast, with its great Japanese population, is a veritable nest of subversive activity.

Yet, aware that these enemy agents are at work, Mr. Average American does not worry. He calmly listens to every Tom, Dick and Harry talk, not caring if these people are disclosing valuable information which might be of great importance to any enemy spy. Hartzell Spence, prominent writer, reported that in his travels over the nation, soldiers and sailors on leave, or friends they talked to are divulging military secrets. He termed the attitude of the American citizens as 'shocking.'

Not only can these agents find valuable information, but America is the saboteurs paradise. The fire of the U.S.S. Lafayette is a good example. While the blaze has not been definitely attributed to sabotage, FBI reports reveal gross negligence on the part of officials and workers on this giant vessel. Edmund Scott of the New York paper PM investigated and found that almost anyone could get aboard, longshoremen were hired by incompetent bosses, that the government made no check-ups.

Furthermore, there were no fire check-ups or drills, workmen were allowed to work close to highly combustible materials and the fighting of the fire had been sadly mismanaged. In short, while sabotage has not been proved, the 'Lafayette,' like thousands of other vital points in America, was wide open to sabotage.

As to the actual war itself, we are taking the defeats in the Pacific too lightly. The average American fails to realize that the crucial period for the Allies is at hand. The Japanese have taken Java, are moving toward Australia. Successful there, they will attack Hawaii and then the American mainland.

But how does Mr. Average American take this news? He glances at the front page, casually reads that the Japanese are raising 'hell' in the Pacific, mutters 'too bad,' and then turns to the sports page to see whether Di Maggio will sign and the chances for Brooklyn in the pennant race.

This attitude is natural. Never before have we weighed the possibility of an invasion of our shores. We have read lengthy articles by experts who have said that no navy or combination of navies could accomplish this feat. We clapped our hands in glee and many of us Mr. Americans screamed to the heavens when we read the war budget. Many of us said, "Why arm, we're safe? Let England and Russia fight their own war. America First, it isn't our fight."

Even when enemy planes appeared over our coast, Mr. American on the coast did not and has not taken alarm. Blackouts were tried, but a blind man could have found most of these cities. Even now, people returning from the war zone are amazed that the big coastal cities do not have blackouts and that many of us, all too many of us, are unconcerned about the war.

What is going to make us come to our senses? Is it going to take another Pearl Harbor, or possibly, and it IS NOT impossible, a 'San Francisco Harbor,' a 'San Diego Harbor,' or a 'New York Harbor' to wake us up, to make us realize that we are fighting to the death, not only to make the world safe for democracy but to make America safe for democracy.

● Making the Minutes Count—

When Theodore Roosevelt was in the White House, he astonished everyone by the number of things he got done. Rarely did a week pass that the newspapers did not tell of some new and almost unheard of feat. One of his most popular accomplishments was this: he went each day to the White House barber. While the barber was working on him, and when his face was drifted with a white beard thick as Santa Claus', he held conferences. Now comes the surprise, when the barber put him in the chair and the shave was over, Teddy leaped out, seized a towel and washed his own face.

One day someone asked him why he did that. "Why, I save half-a-minute a day!" he said.

How important this principle is! Not that mere saving of thirty seconds, but the realization of the value of time; the desire to accomplish everything possible in a day; the knowledge that once time is gone, it is gone forever.

Putting time to the best use and using spare moments in helping with various defense activities, is helping America preserve her way of life.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

● Congress Moves on Tax Bill As They'd Move on a Bomb—

WASHINGTON—Congress is handling the Morgenthau tax program as an incendiary bomb. It is advancing slowly with black glasses, and overcoat on backwards, looking for a sandbox.

On their private pads, ways and means committees have discovered the total tax on some corporations would run from 65 to 80 per cent. One senator figures that if General Motors earned $240,000,000, it would be lucky to have half of it ($120,000,000) for dividends, which would mean a sharp cut in earnings distribution.

Most of the taxmaking legislators think the income rates proposed are far too high to maintain popular enthusiasm. Nor do they like the substitute ideas of a sales tax or a withholding tax any better.

This overall dissent is too widespread to warrant any predictions on the final form of the bill yet.

Government Relies on Unstimulated Patriotism

Drooping of the stock market, in the face of this tax threat, again raises a fine question of government publicity emphasis and public morale. In the last war, decline of the stock market would have been considered a bad sign. Public confidence was supposed to follow the market.

Not so now. Most administration authorities discredit the stock market as an influence on public opinion on the ground that stocks are narrowly held.

That may be, but the government is also relying on sheer patriotism, unstimulated by any direct personal interest, to sponsor enthusiasm for the war effort in many other ways (crowding of little business, prices, rationing sugar, tires, labor's priorities).

Abandoning the old profit motive for stimulating of the utmost national productive energy and enthusiasm, the question arises as to whether an adequate substitute has been provided to furnish the same full spur. Is personal incentive being blunted? Is the maximum driving force of the nation being maintained?

No one here seems worried. They expect to get the production job done better than planned. Yet the cumulative effects on the public mind of the peculiar new hope-killing ways in which the government, through necessity, is going about the purely non-military aspects of this war, may be a subject for investigation by Mr. MacLeish.

Months of Planning, Still No Airfields—

Wrath is rising in the war department at delay in getting new air fields started, weeks and months after the decision to build them has been announced. Temperature around air corps headquarters here is so high that the staff has been warned, upon threat of court-martial, not to talk.

All types of red tape, resulting from conflicting authority between the air corps and engineers, is responsible in some instances. Projects involved:

Rapid City, Pueblo, Klamath Falls, Richmond (VA), Topeka, Lampoo Maria (CAL), Greenville (S.C.) Hattiesburg (MISS), Fort Worth, Spokane.

Congress appropriates money for the fields and then the army decides the exact size. This decision is generally announced through senators and representatives, in order that they may get publicity back home.

But politics about the choice of local land sometimes becomes involved. Then the air corps and engineers are supposed to inspect the site and agree on installations, but agreement has not been easy.

It has been four months since the Greenville project was announced, three months since Lampoo Maria, two since Pueblo, Rapid City and Richmond—yet work has not started. In another case, the army planned a field at Vero Beach, Florida, but the navy claimed this was too near one of its fields, and forced the army to move 25 miles south to Ft. Pierce.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

● A Movie to Make Your Blood Boil—

HOLLYWOOD—It was in Shanghai, on December 6, 1941. The drab little office with the opaque glass door had a flag on the wall—the Setting Sun of Japan. A pudgy Japanese sentry by the opaque glass door puffed on a cigarette, lounged against his rifle. On the other side of the glass, the silhouette of a man, an evil man—and a sudden tortured cry of anguish from this evil one's unseen victim. . . . The Japanese sentry puffed on his cigarette, lounged against his rifle, unmoved. . . . Even now, a Japanese fleet was moving stealthily across Pacific waters with its ownership of the olive branch. . . .

It was a scene for "Secret Agent of Japan," and right now—without seeing any more—I'll venture a guess that this is a picture to make your blood boil over, and over, and over. Hollywood, with its labor unions, over the handicaps, fears no investigation for its "propaganda" (nor ever did for that matter), and we can be treated to an honest, enjoyable hate.

It's as startling now to see Japs in uniform off the set as it used to see Nazis with swastika arm bands. Most of these Japanese are the real thing—and Americans—but the arch-fiend, the secret agent, who comes from behind that door with a friendly grin is Noel Madison, transformed by make-up into a convincing Oriental. It's really no change of pace for him—Noel usually plays gangsters in pictures.

There's another Noel around. Noel Cravat, Christmas necktie, Elsie Janis calls him. Cravat, slant-eyed and dark, plays the secret agent's henchman, another sweet character. Cravat looks more oriental than Madison.

"It's not make-up," he says. "My eyes slant naturally. All they had to do was pluck the outer ends of my eyebrows."

This being so, here's a young man who stands to clean up a quick piece of change, if he doesn't mind risking the transferred hate and suspicion of fans. He doesn't. Cravat (Noel because he was a Christmas baby) is of Dutch, French, Hungarian descent, and was born in . . . the Dutch East Indies! Yes, he feels that way too about the Setting Sun.

Of course there's an American around to fill all this secret agent stuff, and that's Preston Foster. Here he is right here, though, that was his tortured cry you just heard behind that door. He's grinning about it. This is one knockout punch he's going to have to take. "I've been knocked out in pictures plenty," he says. "I've been knocked out—accidentally, of course—six times. Noel Madison here—he slipped me the kyo too. First time was in 'The Last Mile.' He misjudged a punch. I've even knocked myself out. Took a spill in 'The Last Days of Pompeii' that put me out cold. Lee Tracy got to me in another picture. . . .

"But you never catch me doing any stunt stuff nowadays— not when I can help it. Who thanks you for it? Nobody. You can break your neck in a picture, and they see it and say, 'Aw, it was faked anyway.' So-o-o-o. . . ."

Door-kicking reminds me, for obvious reasons, of U-No, distinguished movie who has been on stage or screen some 25 years. U-No, playing a good old army hulk in "Ten Gentlemen from West Point," is a versatile fellow but there is a streak of ham in his make-up.

On the stage, whenever he hears audience laughter, he advances to the footlights and takes a bow. U-No must be disappointed in the movies: Nobody laughs when he is on the set. Somebody laughed—once. U-No couldn't find any footlights, so he bowed all over.

● Wartime Pattern Of Living—

WASHINGTON—The pattern of wartime living is beginning to shape up.

The future still is too uncertain to make predictions safe but some lines in the picture of things to come for John A. Public are being rapidly sketched in. To consider a few of the most important:

No. 1 on anybody's list must be transportation for it is likely to be the most drastic of all the changes ahead and probably will be felt first. Some here predict the auto and rubber shortages will set a lot of us back on our heels by autumn. That's going to affect home life, social life, recreation, and vacations (train travel might be restricted too). Getting acquainted with one's close neighbors is likely to become more popular than hiking or pedaling across town or to the next village to spend the evening with Bill and Mary. And recreation will be found closer to home than the country club that is ten miles out. As for vacations, transportation will affect them most, but restrictions on coastal areas and a rapidly expanding army on wheels ranging over vast sections in maneuvers, will also have their affect.

(2). Food. There's going to be plenty of it even if the war drags on, but menus are going to change. Try putting together a meal without using anything that comes in a can (except soups, the supply of which may not be reduced), no spices or condiments that come from the Orient, less sugar (and therefore more sugar substitutes).

No. 3. Clothing. This, too, will be plentiful, but it won't be the same. Silk is out and nylon, too, as soon as present processed stocks are depleted. Cotton and rayon are plentiful. The wool supply is being carefully shepherded. Women's dresses will have fewer frills, gadgets and costume jewelry—or none at all. Male attire may undergo drastic changes. Eliminate two trouser suits, vests, cuffs, pocket flaps and possibly even lapels. There will be fewer colors in women's wear and the gent given to flamboyant colors and race-track checks will have to do his sartorial strutting in black and the darker shades of blue and brown.

(4). Money. The prospects here are too complicated for any one outside the field of economy to forecast with any certainty. If

Atty. Arthur O. Leff Will Present Awards For Junior Arguments

Activities for the 16th annual Supreme Court day in the college of law will begin this afternoon at 4:30 with the initiation of eight students into the Order of Coif, honorary legal group.

"Because of the large number of men in law school in the armed forces of the United States, and the concentrated program permitting acceleration of work, the Supreme Court day in its traditional form will be suspended and only that part of it pertaining to the educational program will be carried on."

Committee members for the supreme court day activities are Steve Nugent, L3 of Clarence, chairman; Louise Beyer, L3 of New London; Tom Bell, L3 of Burlington; Max Goldenberg, L3 of Burlington; Melbourne Halsrud, L3 of Bode; Eli Samore, L3 of Sioux City, and John Sprout, L3 of Iowa City.

Chief Justice William L. Bliss of the Supreme Court of Iowa, selected as honorary member of the Order of Coif by the faculty of the college of law, will deliver the address at the Coif initiation.

The hearing will involve a controversial issue of hearsay testimony. Facts in the arguments will involve a suit by an heir at law for his share in his deceased father's estate. The basic problem involves the whole philosophy of the hearsay rule and exceptions.

Both sides will be fully presented, according to Dean Ladd. Plaques will be presented the four speakers following the arguments.

Sew for War—Buy Stamps With Savings

Those Who Sew to Save Should Observe The Following 10 Commandments

Sew for the war. Buy stamps with the savings. Here are 10 commandments for those who sew to save.

Sew buttons on firmly, but not so tight that there will be friction or difficulty when you "button up." Achieve this result by putting a pin into the material on the inside while sewing. Wind the thread around the shank after the button is sewed on and the pin removed.

Use more or less flat-surfaced to pick up a second color in a dress or to accent a trimming color. Sew with a contrasting thread.

Cut Larger Cut buttonholes 1/2 inch larger than all average and large size buttons and 1/8 inch larger than tiny buttons.

Sew an extra small button on the inside of a coat at the same time as the outside button is sewed on to prevent loss.

Use more or less flat-surfaced buttons for the back of dresses so they will not be uncomfortable and will not rub off.

Remove fancy buttons before washing unless they are guaranteed washable. This quality will be featured on the button card.

Inspire Style A clever button makes a dress. Look for buttons even before you decide on your material. Picturesque, colorful buttons may sometimes inspire a dress style.

Make four-hole buttons decorative by sewing on in a cross-foot design—that is, all three leading to one hole in the lower corner.

Remodel last year's frocks with new buttons. Select captivating clever ones for old frocks, blouses and sweaters and watch them come new again.

Buy several more buttons than are needed so that if buttons are lost, you won't have to buy a completely new set.

Presenting the Fast Rhumba—An Intricate Latin Dance

—With Plenty of Lively Steps

Popularly acclaimed on both the east and west coast, the rhumba may follow the route of La Conga to popularity in the conservative middle west. It is really more like the conventional fox trot than the "community dancing" of the Conga. Here's a couple ready for the rhumba craze whenever it strikes—Doris Larson, A1 of Clarion, and Marvin Dirks, A1 of Spencer, are caught in a side step.

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of features on dancing presented by The Daily Iowan.)

By PAT FLYNN When a dancer speaks of the rhumba, nine times out of ten he means the fast rhumba in contrast to the rhumba "Son."

This fast rhumba is done to a much livelier tempo than the "Son" making it more intricate. But so picturesque a Latin dance is worth a little practice to perfect it.

The basic step of the fast rhumba is like that of the Son. Step forward with the left foot and draw the right up beside it on the counts "1 &." On "2" take another step forward with the left. Bring the right foot up to it, toe pointed toward the floor and weight still on the left.

Here is a variation of the rhumba turn. Do a basic forward on the left foot, making a quarter-turn to the right, then a basic step backward on the right, making another quarter-turn. Continue until five basics have been done to complete a full turn.

The "Grapevine," acclaimed by many a jitter-bug, is an original member of the rhumba family. This racy step is a rhythmic contrast to the basic rhumba steps done in place.

The following directions are for the man's part. His partner will do the counterpart. Do a forward basic beginning with the left foot and making a quarter-turn to the right. Cross the right foot in front of the left changing from a closed position to a right side position (in which the man holds his partner to the side so that their right hips touch). Close the left foot to the right turning to closed position.

Cross the right in back of the left into left side position (so that left hips touch). Close the left foot to the right, ending in closed position again. Repeat as often as you like (or as often as a crowded dance floor will let you).

Woman's Chance In a ballroom, any woman is a forgotten woman. The man sets the step and to him, naturally, goes the credit. But some rhumba steps dare to be different. Ladies, here's your chance:

SUI Library Shows Exhibition on Russia

Russia, one of the least known countries in the world, is the subject of this month's display in the general reading room of the university library.

Pictures of street scenes in Moscow showing modern buildings, subways and busy railway stations indicate the industrial progress of the Russians in the past few years since the revolution.

In contrast, a touch of the days of serfdom is evident in an old silver knife and fork hammered out by serfs on the estate of Prince Stroganov in 1852. Another item is a paper cut carved by neices of Leo Tolstoy, Russian novelist, from a cherry tree planted in his yard.

Russian currency, ikons or small paintings of saints and the madonna, and other articles on display have been loaned by Prof. C. W. Clark of the history department and Prof. A. K. Miller, of the geology department.

Examples of Russian literature and education are shown in books and newspapers including a copy of the Moscow Daily News issued for English speaking foreigners in Russia.

lady comes into the limelight. This one will receive a little more space. The man crosses his left foot in back of his right, steps in place with his right, then brings the left up to the right (as his partner did in the step just described). He alternates this until it has been done twice on each foot.

Complete Turn For the first two counts of each measure—when her partner crosses his left foot behind his right—the woman does the counterpart. She crosses her right behind her left, steps in place with the left and steps to the side on the right. This puts her in position to make a complete turn to the right under the man's left arm with three small steps. This is done on the counts "3 and 4."

Repeat this routine four times. It can be varied by the follower's doing a counterpart to the man's step for the first six counts instead of the first two.

Now, put on a toe-teasing record and rhumba on, chillun. It's fun!

Tiburcio Calderon, Student From Honduras, Describes Central America for Lions Club

"Before the war Germany dominated most of the foreign trade of Honduras, but at the present time most of the Central American exports are marketed in the United States," said Tiburcio Calderon, exchange student from Honduras, speaking at Lions club yesterday.

"Honduras exports great quantities of tobacco and coffee to this country," he continued, "and in return she imports machinery, manufactured products and textiles. United States capital finances the great Honduras fruit companies, of which the banana is the most important product, but the work is done by the people themselves on their own land," he said.

Calderon, who came to the university last fall on an American scholarship, is a graduate student in the college of engineering. He said that benefits from exchange scholarships will be more apparent now than in the past.

The Listening Post--

By LOREN HICKERSON

IT'S LATE... There appeared in the New York World-Telegram on March 5 an editorial which said more about America's battle and how it's going than any other I've seen.

The nation needs to awaken to the full gravity of the peril that confronts it.

It needs to appreciate how badly we have been defeated in three months of war. It needs to understand that it is possible for the United Nations and the United States to lose this war and suffer the fate of France.

It needs to realize that there is grave chance of the Japanese pushing through India and the Germans driving through the Near East, to join their armies and resources in an almost unbeatable combination.

It needs to get away, once and for all, from the comforting feeling that while we may lose at the start we are bound to win in the end.

Only when fully aware of existing perils will the United States do its utmost. Pray God that awareness will not come too late, as it did in France!

Production Director Don A. Nelson appeals for vastly increased industrial output on a 24-hour, seven-day basis—168 hours a week. Maximum production, in short.

Can we get it? Not on the present basis—not under the psychology of recent years.

Not until we quit thinking in terms of less work for more money.

Not while there is greater concern about overtime pay than overtime production.

Not while farmer politicians are more interested in higher prices than raising more essentials.

Not while government bureaus—created to meet a depression emergency that is ended—continue to grab for themselves money needed for armaments.

Not while an army of federal press agents clamors to promote and perpetuate activities that have no present need or value.

Not while Congressmen try to put over useless canals and river schemes and take up the time of defense officials clamoring for factories and contracts as if war were a great gravy train.

Not while WPA, despite a shortage of labor, seeks to carry on projects which it doesn't have the men to perform or the need for performing.

Not while strikes hamper war production, despite a solemn promise that they would stop.

Not while the life-and-death need for uninterrupted production is used as a weapon to put over the closed shop.

Not while double time is demanded for Sunday work which is only part of a 40-hour week.

Not while a man can't be employed on an army project or in a war plant until he pays $20 to $50 or more to a labor racketeer.

Not while criminal gangs control employment and allocation of men to work on the Normandy and the other ships along New York's vast waterfront.

Not while fifth columnists are pampered and enemy aliens move freely in defense areas.

Not while the grim job of preparing our home communities against air raids and sabotage is gummed up with a lot of high-falutin', boon-doggling, social service activity.

Not while pressure blocs clamor for higher benefits, bounties and pensions.

We will not get maximum production, in short, unless, first, we fully realize our awful peril; and, second, get over the gimmicks of recent years.

Gimme shorter hours, gimme higher wages, gimme bigger profits, gimme more overtime, gimme less work, gimme more pensions, gimme greater troop benefits, gimme more appropriations and patronage, gimme plants for my congressional district, gimme fees and dues to work for Uncle Sam, gimme ham 'n' eggs, gimme share-the-wealth, gimme $30 every Thursday.

France had the gimmes, too.

I. C. School Board Votes Salary Bonus for Teachers

Janitors, Secretaries Also to Get Increased Cost-of-Living Bonus

Board Reduces Usual One Week Easter Vacation to 2 Days

The Iowa City school board at its regular meeting in the Junior high school building last night voted an "increased-cost-of-living" salary bonus for all teachers, janitors and secretaries for the last half of the fiscal year ending June 30 and reduced the usual one week Easter vacation to two days.

The bonus, which allows a 5 per cent increase, was passed with the provision that all increases of full time employees be not less than $5 per month for that period and that the pay of substitute teachers be increased 5 per cent an hour for service commencing March 1, 1942.

The Easter vacation, which had previously been set for March 30 to April 6, was limited by the board to two days only—Thursday and Friday, April 2 and 3. According to the new arrangement, graduation will be June 1, instead of June 4, with school closing June 2.

In addition, the board passed a resolution authorizing an increase of $20,000, 80 per cent co-insurance, on the new high school building to cover increased valuations of building and equipment.

Discussed also was the installation of a more rigid physical fitness program in the schools this spring. The members present referred to a committee the business of carrying on an investigation of the matter. The possibility of a three-hour-a-week program was mentioned.

Erich Tillman of the agricultural marketing association, outlined for the board a "penny milk program." According to Tillman's plan pupils would be required to pay only one cent for a one-half pint bottle of milk, the remainder of the cost being made up by the government.

This system, which would cover a nine month period, would not supplant systems already in operation, Tillman said.

The board told Tillman to go ahead with a survey to ascertain if the Iowa City schools were eligible, and to make a report on the matter to them at a later date.

The next meeting of the board will be Monday night at 7:30. At that time the newly elected members will assume office.

University Choral Group Gives Excellent Concert in Iowa Union

Magnificent choral singing was heard last night in Iowa Union when the 100 voice University chorus presented a concert under the guest conductorship of Prof. Addison Alsopch.

Professor Alsopch is well suited to choral conducting as last night's program evidenced. All his interpretations were warm and vivid and his abilities to bring out the inner voices in the music greatly enhanced the performance.

He was an able technician as well balanced, attacks and releases for the most part were exceedingly well done, and the diction of the group was clear and precise.

Sir Walter Scott's poem, "The Quiet Hour," has been most effectively set to music by Prof. Phillip Greasley Clapp. Professor Clapp has splendidly realized the possibilities of choral writing in his work and it was given a fine reading by the chorus. The audience warmly received this two year old composition and called

Mathews vs. Sladek Case Goes to Jury

Sealed Verdict to Be Returned in Action For $8,558 Damages

With instructions to return a sealed verdict, a Johnson county district court petit jury retired at 5:30 o'clock yesterday to deliberate the $8,558 damage action of Julius J. Mathews against John Sladek.

The jury of five women and seven men yesterday heard remaining testimony of witnesses and closing arguments of attorneys. Judge James P. Gaffney presided.

Jurors who heard the case that started Monday are Elizabeth Doty, Roy J. Brysch, Ione B. Hills, Ruth M. Randall, Charles Meyers, Ed Poul, R. H. Schilling, Albert F. McMahon, Peter J. Duffy, Inez Rinehart, Louise H. Sheldy and T. R. Edwards.

Mathews charged in his petition that Sladek was negligent in operating his car Sept. 20, 1941, causing an accident in which the plaintiff alleged he received severe permanent injuries.

According to the petition, Mathews charged that Sladek drove into the rear of his car, causing him to be thrown into the back seat of the car.

He stated the impact caused injuries to his right pelvis, a chip fracture of the right hip joint, numerous contusions and a chip fracture of the third vertebra.

The plaintiff sought $8,300 for medical expenses, for pain and suffering, and for permanent injuries to his back, and $258 for damages to his car.

Mathews was represented by the law firm of Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher. The law firm of Messrs. Hamilton and Cahill represented Sladek.

Judge Gaffney announced yesterday that the next and last jury case of the February term of district court will start today at 9:30 o'clock when the petit jury panel is designated by the state headquarters, Mrs. Gordon said.

Following selection of a jury the Linder vs. Iowa State Highway commission action will get underway.

Alaska contains vast undeveloped potentialities for water power when population or industry may require them.

Two Iowa Draft Administrators To Conduct Open Forum Today

Grahl and Shaw Here To Answer Questions About Draft, Deferment

Two leading Iowa draft administrators, Ad. Gen. Charles H. Grahl, state director of the selective service act, and Lieut. Col. Robert J. Shaw, state advisor on occupational deferments, will conduct an open forum meeting on selective service questions at 1:30 this afternoon in the main hall room of the Community building.

The officials will answer any and all questions concerning registrants and their status in the draft, the Johnson county draft board announced yesterday.

Subject matter to be discussed will include appeals, grounds for deferment, methods of obtaining new classifications and reasons for the refusal or acceptance of appeals for new status in the draft.

Some time will also be devoted to the discussion of occupational deferments and to clarifying policy that will henceforth govern the local board.

Questions from men enrolled in the last three registrations will be welcomed by the speakers, officials said, and will help the local board in carrying out the provisions of the act.

These men are to be here this afternoon in response to the great number of appeals for reclassifications which the local board has received lately, hence, it is urged that those who desire a change of status should attend.

Boyd is chairman of the finance committee of the Iowa State Board of Education and for many years was associated with Iowa newspapers.

His first program, at 3:30 today, will deal with the life of Col. David B. Henderson of Dubuque, speaker of the Iowa House of Representatives from 1883 to 1903.
