Allies Register Aerial Successes in Egypt

British Holding Positions West of Alexandria

Recent Axis Moves Limited to Countering Allied Flank Attacks

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Waging a war of nerves in the desert, allied air and ground forces were reported last night scoring a series of successes with counter-attack actions and aerial attacks on the positions of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel west of El Alamein.

British General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck is retaining the initiative he took when the present positions some 70 miles west of Alexandria were assumed. The enemy movements of the past week have been mainly to counter allied threats to the axis flank.

There are indications that Rommel would like a respite of two or three weeks before making another push toward the Nile but it was by no means certain he would be allowed this much time to rebuild his strength.

Night Sallies
Night sallies by the British are especially annoying to the enemy, according to prisoners, as the Germans usually base their operations so every soldier may get a good night's sleep.

Not knowing when a bayonet party will charge out of the darkness at them and having to jump into split trenches when allied planes come over, they have anything but a restful night.

The British patrols, operating mostly at night, ranged the curving southern sector of the front at the head of an expanse lying between the axis' extended flank and the Qattara depression.

The axis position on the south extends some 30 or 40 miles to the west of a line drawn north and south through El Alamein but there was no indication the British ground forces had ventured to the westward along the southern line held by the forces of Marshal Rommel.

The harassment of the westward portions of that sector was undertaken by the British fighter plane patrols.

Dust was a problem in the aerial operations but fighter-bombers attacked enemy positions on the axis airfields at El Daba and scored direct hits on planes refueling there. Enemy vehicles dispersed over the desert were also hit.

Down 7 Planes
A fighter patrol downed seven enemy aircraft on one mission and another axis plane was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

Of three enemy aircraft raiding Alexandria last night, with no damage reported, one was shot down and another damaged by night fighters. In all the British reported six aircraft lost.

Reds Say Super-Battleship Put Out of Action—

Tirpitz Limp to Fjord Hideaway

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian naval authorities said last night the German super-battleship Tirpitz had been put out of action for several months by the daring attack of a red submarine, but saw her sortie into the Arctic as evidence that the nazis have turned their main naval effort against ship lanes from America and Britain to Russia.

Twice torpedoed and officially declared seriously damaged, the Tirpitz limped back to the shelter of a western Norwegian fjord with her accompanying squadron, the pilots of Soviet reconnaissance planes reported. There, while under-going repairs, she may be vulnerable to renewed RAF air attacks.

Russian dispatches said the submarine attack disrupted operations of the strong German squadron against a big allied arms convoy,

124 Bundists Taken Into Custody During Coast-to-Coast Raids

NEW YORK (AP)—Three leaders of the German-American Bund and its former national counsel were held in bail totaling $85,000 last night as the total number of Bundists arrested by the FBI in nation-wide raids during the last three days rose to 124.

All four pleaded innocent yesterday in federal court to charges of conspiracy to advise Bund members to refuse to serve in the country's armed forces, and to make false statements in connection with registration of aliens.

A need for 50 persons, 25 men and 25 women, to act as messengers with the Citizen's Defense Corps was announced yesterday by H. I. Jennings, corps director. The recruiting of this body of messengers will begin immediately.

The organization of the volunteer police and fire squads of the Citizen's Defense Corps has not been completed. Men interested in serving with these corps are urged to make application immediately with either the city police or fire chief.

Applicants for Nurses aides are urgently needed. A new class for the instruction of nurses aides will be started as soon as the minimum enrollment requirement is reached.

British Occupy French Island

LONDON (AP)—The British yesterday announced the capture of the French island of Mayotte, strategically situated at the top of Mozambique channel in which Japanese submarines recently have attacked at least nine allied and neutral ships.

The official war office report said the 140-square-mile island with a population of less than 18,000, was occupied by British forces July 2 without resistance or casualties.

Citizen's Defense Corps

Classes for general instruction of the members, approximately 200 in number, of the Citizen's Defense Corps will be conducted in the junior high school building every Monday and Friday night, beginning July 20th. A group of 25 instructors has been secured by the corps and will conduct two hours of class work at each meeting of the unit.

8 Nazi Spys on Trial In Secret Proceedings Before Military Court

Report Officials Differ On Publishing Hearing Before Its Conclusion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government prosecutors, unfolding before a special trial commission a bizarre story of sabotage plotted in Berlin, appeared yesterday to have reached the chapter dealing with the arrest by FBI agents of the eight nazis who landed on the east coast from submarines last month.

Deepest Secrecy
The trial of the eight on charges of violating the articles of war continued to be cloaked in the deepest secrecy. However, the commission issued a brief statement—the first official acknowledgment that the trial was underway—that gave this summary of yesterday's proceedings:

"The military commission convened at 10 a.m. The defendants, accompanied by their counsel, were brought before the commission, and will remain before the commission throughout the proceedings.

"The sessions will be closed, necessarily so, due to the nature of the testimony, which involves the security of the United States and the lives of its soldiers, sailors and citizens."

An hour after the overnight recess, a second statement was issued which disclosed that seven witnesses had been heard and that the defense counsel was given the opportunity to cross-examine each one. It explained also that every person appearing before the commission, except the prisoners, was sworn to secrecy.

There have been reports of a sharp difference of opinion whether anything at all should be said about the trial before its conclusion. This question was believed to have been before a White House conference today of President Roosevelt, Director Elmer Davis of the office of war information, and Secretary of War Stimson.

Apparently, the decision was to give out some information but leave except for General McCoy, R. McCoy, president of the commission which is sitting in life or death judgement on the accused men, the question of what should be said.

After the first statement, it was announced there would be no release except from General McCoy. (See TRIAL, page 5)

FBI Seizes Nazi Spy Attempting U.S. Entry

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bold Nazi attempt to slip a spy into the United States on the steamship Drottningholm, diplomatic exchange vessel, was charged by the justice department yesterday with announcement of the arrest of Herbert Karl Friedrich Bahr, 29-year-old former American college student, on charges of espionage.

Bahr, educated in Buffalo, N.Y., schools and at Rensselaer Polytechnical institute, has been in Germany, the federal bureau of investigation said, since 1938. A statement from J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, quoted him as admitting that "he was enlisted in October of 1941 by the German gestapo for the purpose of returning to the United States to secure and transmit to Germany information pertaining to the war effort of this country." The FBI said Bahr was being held in New York pending arraignment in Newark, N.J.

The nearly 1,000 passengers on the Drottningholm, which arrived in New York harbor June 30, were detained several days for questioning. Disclosing that Bahr, who was among them, had been arrested, the FBI said he was born in Klopferfelde, Germany, Aug. 27, 1913, came to the United States with his family in 1926, and lived in Buffalo. His father was naturalized and he claims American citizenship.

After his education in this country, he went to Germany in 1938 as an exchange student and studied at a technical school at Hannover, receiving a degree. Hoover's statement said the gestapo taught Bahr in the art of spying, as well as writing with secret, invisible inks, and gave him various addresses in Spain, Switzerland and South America where he was to send written results of his activities.

Bahr had $7,000 in United States currency. This, the FBI director said, was for transportation, the securing of military information, and "the loosening of tongues."

Germans 235 Miles From City; Reds Stand Fast at Voronezh

Moscow-Rostov Railroad, Last North-South Link Of Supplies to Timoshenko, Threatened By Assault on Rossosh

MOSCOW, Friday (AP)—The massed steel might of the German armies in south Russia had driven to within 235 miles of industrial Stalingrad on the Volga today, but the determined red armies held their ground firmly before gravely imperiled Voronezh and the upper reaches of the Don, the midnight Russian communique disclosed.

"During July 9 our troops continued their stubborn battles to the west of Voronezh and in the area of the town of Rossosh," the communique said.

Rossosh is 100 miles southwest of Voronezh and 150 miles directly east of the great steel city of Kharkov. On a tributary close to the Don, Rossosh is 90 miles northeast of Kupiansk—the first major point captured in this major German offensive of the year. It lies only 235 miles northwest of Stalingrad, on the broad banks of the Volga commanding the northern approaches to the oil bearing Caucasus, which apparently is the German goal.

(Russian sources in London conceded the latest German advance was of the gravest importance.) Rossosh is a manufacturing town about 20 miles from the middle Don area. The new 90-mile German advance pushed the Nazi right wing far forward while the Russians threw in hundreds of thousands of soldiers in an effort to hold the Nazi center and left along the line of the upper Don farther north.

By the advance, the Germans went a long way towards establishing a new line extending northward from the Rostov area, the point of their deepest penetration last year, 300 miles northward to Voronezh.

The critical nature of the fighting in the Rossosh area was pointed up by the fact that the town lies on the Moscow-Voronezh-Rostov railway, the last remaining north-south link over which supplies are funneled to the desperately pressed armies of Marshal Semion Timoshenko.

The assertion that the righting was "in the area of the town" suggested that the railway might

Sink 3 Ships
Three ships totaling 22,000 tons, a tanker and two transports, were declared sunk in the Baltic sea. Soviet submarines have been active in that "German lake" for nearly two weeks, disrupting German transport lines to their siege lines before Leningrad and the north.

Telling of the great battle on the upper Don, the communique said:

"On one of the sectors west of Voronezh, fierce battles are continuing." The communique said "no material changes took place on other sectors."

A huge mass of 800 German tanks was reported stalled on the west bank of the upper Don and Timoshenko was reported counter-attacking boldly in an attempt to crush the enemy before he could cross the vital waterway in force.

The outnumbered and out-gunned Russians said the situation was serious along the violently erupting 120-mile southern front where German advance guards were struggling mightily to breach the red army defenses.

The shallow, sluggish upper Don which is 500 to 700 feet wide at the point of battle west of Voronezh offered only a slight barrier to the German juggernaut, but the determined red army was installed in the ravine-cut hills above the east bank and putting up fierce resistance.

Roosevelt Refuses to Accept Compromise on Farm Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt, in a new rebuke to the house farm bloc, made it plain yesterday he would accept no compromise of the farm appropriations dispute which restricted the government's authority to sell surplus wheat for livestock feed at sub-parity prices.

Signing a stop-gap measure to provide the agriculture department with July operating funds, the president said in a statement that "our war needs do not permit compromise of partisan record." He added that the disputed issues involved "more abundant production of things we need" which he previously had defined as meat, poultry and dairy products.

"This is no time," he commented, "to hamstring successful principles."

Senator Russell (D-Ga), chairman of a senate-house committee which has sought unsuccessfully since May 25 to compose differences of the two congressional branches over the $880,000,000 agriculture fund, immediately interpreted this as flat support of the senate's amendment authorizing sale of 125,000 bushels of government-held wheat for feed at about 83 cents a bushel.

Accordingly, Russell said that when the conference group meets again, probably next week, he would ask the house members to seek another vote of that body on the question. The house previously had voted to bar the sale of grain held by the commodity credit corporation at less than full parity prices, $1.34 on the farm in the case of the wheat.

"I think there is a possibility that the house may alter its stand," (See FARM, page 5)

Eastern Mine Blast Kills Twenty Men

MORGANTOWN W. Va. (AP)—An official of the Pursglove Coal Mining company reported late last night that 20 miners were killed in an explosion in the concern's mine on Scott's Run.

Joseph Pursglove, who directed rescue operations for the company, issued the statement giving the definite total of victims almost seven hours after the blast trapped two crews of miners four and a half miles underground.

Pursglove said the bodies would be brought to the surface in the early morning hours and taken to a Morgantown mortuary for identification by relatives. Eighteen of the dead had been tentatively identified earlier.

War Throws Iowa's Labor Problems Into Reverse—Now It's a Shortage

Iowa should have little worry during the next year over the problem of unemployment according to a recent report issued by the United States employment service. War industries in this state are providing the greatest remedy for the ever-present problem. Approximately 50,000 men and women are employed in these industries and about 20,000 more are expected to be added during the next six months.

Scientists began study of the possibility of producing synthetic rubber, for commercial use, from farm products, immediately following the enactment of the tire rationing program. According to the findings of these scientists grains were declared to be the best suited for this production.

Although the labor supply today is sufficient, the greatest difficulty for the industries is in finding skilled workers. Thirty-five hundred persons are now taking schooling to enable them to fill vital industrial posts.

One of the most noticeable shortages of labor at the moment is in rural communities where farmers are being faced with the problem of harvesting their crops with less aid than in former years.

Iowa no longer is faced with an unemployment problem, but instead is faced with one of finding sufficient labor for the needs of the state in all areas.

Nazis Forced to Move Factories Out of Reach of British Planes

The R.A.F.'s massive raids on German industrial towns are having their effect. Top speed production in the German Reich has been slowed down and in some locations evidently seriously hampered, perhaps put out of action for a considerable length of time. Reports coming out of Turkey quote a spokesman as saying that Germany is sending thousands of workers and establishing many new war factories in Czechoslovakia since the heavy British raids on German industrial towns.

More raids of this sort are going to keep Hitler from sending the steady stream of supplies he must keep flowing to his armies in Russia and Egypt to wage all-out war. And the united nations' cause is also being helped by the courageous Czech people. In an attempt to continue this impeding of production, it is reported that bands of marauders are operating from the forests around Prague in ever-increasing numbers to sabotage the new setup devised in Czechoslovakia.

A German arrival in Ankara told German residents there Monday that since the death of Reinhard Heydrich, "Hitler's hangman," 25,000 German soldiers, aided by 100,000 Gestapo men, are working night and day to halt these sabotage efforts. It seems that the slaying of 10,000 Czechs in reprisal for Heydrich's assassination is not making the people cower in fright as the Germans thought it would do, but is working the opposite way.

Combined British and American air raids on Germany in the near future, plus the continued resistance by sabotage of the Czech nationals in combatting totalitarian rule, may yet be one of the deciding factors in the downfall of Hitler and his butchers.

Government Plans to Curtail Waste of Food Products in Country

With everyone being urged to close cooperation, the American housewife has also been called upon to lend valuable aid in the all-out war program. New projects and plans have been started since our entrance into the war and the most recent is the Victory Food program. This plan has been established to enable the housewives of America to aid in the war program through the use of special foods during specified periods of time.

Given the name Victory Food Special, the plan was developed by the United States Department of Agriculture. Every two or three weeks a food item is designated as the Victory Food Special. Usually this item is chosen because of an over-supply, or because shipping difficulties brought on by the shortage of transportation facilities make it impossible to move the product to distant markets.

Fruits and vegetables, which in former years were allowed to ripen in railroad cars, must now be transported to the markets as soon as possible. The government is attempting, now that we are at war, to do away with the great amount of waste permitted in former years.

By listing the item as a special food for a designated period, the item can be purchased at new low prices, thus offering the housewife an opportunity to save money while at the same time she is aiding the government in guarding against waste of vital food stocks. So far this summer tomatoes have been the only Victory Food placed on the market. Merchants, restaurant owners and consumers are urged to cooperate with the Victory food program.

Iowa May Soon Take a Big Part In Production of Synthetic Rubber

The possibility that Iowa and other mid-west farming states may play leading roles in the drive toward the development of synthetic rubber, now looms in Washington. Congressional action on legislation to increase the utilization of farm crops in the manufacture of alcohol and synthetic rubber is scheduled on two fronts this week.

A measure calling for the creation of a rubber supply agency which would be required to have synthetic rubber and alcohol produced from grains or other farm products has been reported favorably to the senate by an agricultural committee and will be given close consideration. Senator Guy M. Gillette has announced that he or some other senator will call the measure up for debate.

Scientists began study of the possibility of producing synthetic rubber, for commercial use, from farm products, immediately following the enactment of the tire rationing program. According to the findings of these scientists grains were declared to be the best suited for this production.

Leading the nation in corn yield, and well up at the top in figures on other grains, Iowa stands in line to benefit from the new program. Should the legislation for the forwarding of this synthetic rubber program be enacted a number of plants will probably be constructed in the state.

Commandos Set for Hollywood Before It Appeared in Magazine

HOLLYWOOD — Lester Cowan, the producer, is excited about "The Commandos," the C. S. Forester story he bought for pictures even before it appeared in magazine form. John Farrow, directing, is finding "The Commandos" his meat.

Paul Muni, who is starring, is excited, too, in a way—a cautious way. It is not that Muni is still worried that, being dark, he will not be accepted as a Norwegian hero. He and Farrow went down to Los Angeles harbor and talked to heroes of Norway's merchant marine — men who face Quisling, which is death, if captured—and saw that some of these heroes were as dark of skin and hair as Paul Muni.

Muni will tell you that he has no cause for misgivings. He will tell you that Irwin Shaw has done a beautiful job of the script. He will tell you that he sees in "The Commandos" not so much an "action picture" as the story of the stoicism of a people who have suffered invasion and will not bow to it.

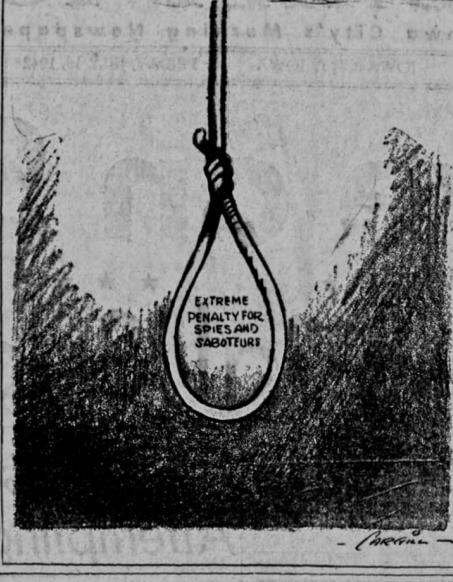

Muni, answering questions straightforwardly, talking quietly and earnestly, will make you understand that he can be "excited" about no picture-in-the-making. He can mention without wincing even "Hudson's Bay," his latest and most unfortunate film — it started well, but soon there were signs on the horizon, like storm clouds, and the signs materialized into a new low for the Muni career.

Paul Muni, who was content to be Muni Weisenfreund in the old days and to stay in the theater, to wear beards one week and kneepants the next, first came to Hollywood when talking pictures were in their infancy and nobody knew whether the new-born was prodigy or idiot. He made "The Valiant" to critical praise, and then—because Lon Chaney was a make-up king and very, very popular—somebody at the old Fox studio decided to go Lon six better. Muni came forth in "Seven Faces." Muni was in hearty agreement with the studio executive who said the femmes would never take him as a substitute for handsome Charlie Farrell, and he retreated to New York. He had made $750 a week, more money than he'd dreamed of, and he and Bella Finkle, his wife, knew so little about spending it that they invested it in stocks—$22,000 worth.

Came 1929, and they were back on Broadway, broke. A new "cycle" had hit Hollywood. James Cagney in "Public Enemy," Edward G. Robinson in "Little Caesar," Gangsters. Howard Hughes wanted Paul Muni to do "Scarface." Muni, no handsomer, asked $25,000. An agent of Hughes offered $15,000. Then his wife settled for $22,500.

And so "Scarface" became a hit that still plays, and Paul Muni became a star—a star who, understandably, cannot become "excited" over a new role.

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHTS

- TREASURY STAR PARADE—Edward Kilenyi, American-born pianist hailed by Sir Thomas Beucham as "an artist in the grand manner of Liszt and Rubenstein," describes in music and narration the growth of nazism as it appeared to him in "I Saw the Lights Go Out in Europe," on the Treasury Star Parade program broadcast at 12:30 o'clock this morning on WSUI. Kilenyi was in Vienna just before the Anschluss, in Poland before it fell, and escaped from France shortly before the Nazi victory.

- FBI AGENT—J. L. Dalton, special agent for the FBI in Des Moines, will be interviewed by Barbara Hudson at 12:30 this noon on the Views and Interviews program heard over WSUI. "Tire Stealing" will be the subject of the interview. Dalton is in Iowa City attending the peace officers' short course, where he is one of the speakers.

- NAVY TIME—Lt. Alexander McKelway, chaplain of the naval pre-flight training school here, will be interviewed by Ensign Vernal LaVoi on the Navy Time program broadcast over WSUI at 12:45 this noon.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS By PAUL MALLON

Heat Waves From A Closed Session

WASHINGTON—The heat waves you have felt lately probably emanated from the closed sessions of the war labor board, which has been trying to decide, in seclusion, the question of a wage increase in "little steel."

This dominant current economic issue has brought out the hottest in the members of the board. They immediately became deadlocked as soon as the doors were closed.

Reading aloud the report of the preliminary panel board stating the facts of the case, was the first order of business. At every other sentence, the industrial and labor members (four of each) jumped up to make challenges or leveled their retaliatory fingers at those who did.

One of the public members, Wayne L. Morse, from the Oregon university law school, indicated by his attitude that he was in favor of granting the $1 a day wage increase demanded by the union, but the other three public members, who hold a balance of power, merely shuffled their feet, scratched their heads and attempted to look non-committal.

These doubtful three included Board Chairman William H. Davis, as well as George Taylor, the University of Pennsylvania professor, and Frank Graham, of the University of North Carolina.

The argument centered entirely around the question of whether the union should have the $1 a day or nothing. But it was quite evident that the board's attempt to solve this most vital point in the government's war-economics policy would have to be taken to Mr. Roosevelt in the end for a compromise solution, either publicly or privately.

The panel board passed the buck to the trembling twelve by concluding the cost of living had increased 13.3 percent in steel cities between April 1941 and March 1942, the period of the last contract. In a way, this really suggested more of an increase than the union demanded, as a boost of $1 a day works out to about 12 1/2 percent increase.

But as everyone knows such an increase, or any part of it, will break the whole structure which the administration has loosely erected against inflation, attempting to hold present wages in line with present prices.

The "little steel" case is, therefore, a test not only for General Motors, Chrysler and other similar cases now pending before the board, but for all wages.

With a political campaign coming on, however, few expect the administration to defend its current price-structure firmly by denying any increase, as that stand might have labor repercussions in congressional elections, a compromise that will keep labor quiet and preserve some semblance of an orderly anti-inflation policy, therefore, is obviously forecast by the circumstances.

Even so, the question of how long this whole loose anti-inflation technique can continue to have general effect already is being raised, in view of the variety of agitations in the congressional farm bloc, the two back-trackings by Leon Henderson (under congressional pressure), and the coming period of scarcity of consumers' goods.

The talked-of national gas rationing step cannot possibly be taken this month, or very soon, on a scale such as is being imposed in the east. Publication and distribution of nearly twenty million books would require several months. OPA has not yet started to print the books on the required scale.

But a distributors' rationing program, limiting the supplies to dealers, could be put into operation without any advance preparation, except toward education of the public as to the necessity. Consumption outside the east could thus be limited as much as 25 percent without any disastrous effects. At least no hardships were experienced when such a method was tried first in the east.

The latest authoritative impression (it has changed often in recent weeks) is that some such program of control rationing may be attempted before the elections. Anything more drastic could logically be expected to wait until after the printing is done—and perhaps the balloting.

The smaller war plants corporation legislation was rushed through congress as an emergency to save small business, but three weeks after its adoption WPB Chairman Donald Nelson was still fingering a list from which to choose a director.

Congressional pressure has been brought on him in favor of certain highly-backed candidates for the job from the middle west, but Nelson has told all the influence wielders he intends to back a legitimate small business man (a promoter or a small business politician) and such a one has been hard to find.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—One minute interview with Billy Rose: "This is certainly a tone-deaf war."

Where is the equivalent of all the great songs of World War I—such as Tipperary, There's a Long Long Trail, Over There? You can't say the boys haven't tried. The song writers have certainly put enough notes down on paper. . . . But, somehow, they don't come off. . . . Only one good song so far, and that's British. . . . I wrote one myself, "Keep 'Em Smiling." . . . Charlie King sings it at the Diamond Horseshoe, and he gets a good hand. . . . But, generally, the response hasn't been good. . . . I've come to the conclusion that though the American people are thoroughly aware of the seriousness of the job they're facing they don't want to harmonize about it."

I said, "Billy, what about that new farm you've bought?" "Let me tell you about my victory garden," he enthused. "It's wonderful. Eleanor wants to stay out there all the time. I can hardly get her to come into town."

"How's that biography of you that John Anderson is writing?" "It's coming along fine. It'll be out in the fall. That Anderson is a good writer."

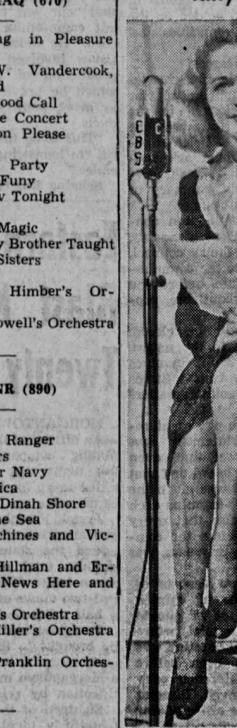

"Is he going to tell all, Billy?" Billy thought that over for a moment. "Well, almost all."

Lionel Hampton wants to know. "Who was that woman I saw you outfit last night?" "That's just give you something to think about. . . . Yesterday I was walking along a side street and two girls were about ten feet in front of me. Suddenly one of the girls began to beat the air as if she were trying to chase away a swarm of bees. "That's exactly what she was trying to do. Several bees were swarming around her head. They weren't paying the slightest attention to the other girl. After she had chased the bees away, she said, "You know, I gotta quit using that honeysuckle perfume. Every time I use it and walk down the street the bees come after me."

Ed Wynn's newest invention is a racing form which he presents, during "Laugh, Town Laugh," to Emil Coleman, the orchestra leader, who conducts the pit band. "I thought you boys'd like this," giggled Wynn, "since you seem so crazy about the horses." Then Wynn unfolds the form and it turns out to be a pair of paper pants. . . . "So you'll have something to get home in," he explains. Another of Wynn's new inventions is a collection box for churches that expresses emotion. If you give a quarter, the box chimes a happy little song. But if you throw in a plug nickel a sign unfolds which says "Miser."

The Network Highlights

Kitty Foyle

Julie Stevens recreates "Kitty Foyle" heroine of Christopher Morley's best selling novel of that name on "Stories America Loves," on the Columbia network. Miss Stevens made her stage and radio debuts in her home town, St. Louis. In the role of "Kitty" she has an opportunity to draw on her Irish ancestry for authenticity.

Final Meet of Peace Officers' Short Course to Be Held Today

Press, Fifth Column, Electrical Protection Problems Discussed

Press relations, fifth column activities and electrical protection were among the problems considered by peace officers yesterday as the sixth annual peace officers' short course progressed through its fourth day. Final session will be held today.

Newspapers, like peace officers, are servants of the public and a necessary part of a democratic society, Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism, told delegates in the opening session yesterday.

Peace officers must understand newspaper aims and news-gathering techniques, Professor Mott said. If the officers' daybook, which ought to be a complete, open record, has facts in it not to be printed, a "do not publish" notation will put the responsibility on the newspaperman.

Second speech of the morning was given by W. M. Sirene, special agent of the FBI, Washington, D. C., whose topic was "Recent Developments in Fifth Column Activities."

The term "fifth column" originated in Spain, where General Franco used a fifth column in taking Madrid, Sirene explained.

R. E. Maginnis, special representative of the American District Telegraph company of New York City, discussed electrical protection against fire and burglary.

The term "protective signaling" is perhaps best descriptive of our activities, which are confined to control of the property and life hazard involved in fire, burglary and related risks, through systems we contract to install, operate and maintain.

There are two types of electrical systems rendered the preventive which is designed for summoning emergency assistance, and the supervisory, involving personnel activities or functions of equipment or processes, according to Maginnis.

Dr. Robert N. Bartels of the University hospital spoke to delegates yesterday on ways to stop bleeding. Demonstrations were given to explain the techniques described.

A banquet in the river room of Iowa Union last night brought to a close yesterday's sessions. Speaker of the evening was Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department, who presented "The Pattern of Violence in Early America."

Moot court sessions and report writing will occupy officers in their conferences today. The short course will close tonight.

The first submarine, made of oak, weighted with lead and having a time bomb attached to its topside, was tried several times in the Revolutionary war against British brigs, but never sank any.

Trend Toward Simplicity Reflected in War-Time Hair Styles

—By Feather Bob and Smooth Coiffures

History, geography, play and war affect women's fashions and coiffures all over the world.

A war sweeps the world; a new sport comes into being; a designer wanders through an art gallery; a play makes a hit on Broadway; and within a few months hair-dos and hats reflect these influences.

War has increased the tempo of living. First aid classes, war work and committees leave women little time to fuss with elaborate hair-dos. Tire and gasoline rationing and victory gardening expose hair to the dust and sun, adding another problem to the care of hair.

Feather Bob Shorter arrangements such as the "feather bob" mean less time spent in the morning and more satisfactory results throughout the day. Brushing will improve anyone's "crowning glory," be it long or short. Frequent use of a liquid soapless shampoo will take all the dust and grime out of the hair.

For work in the nation's defense industries a short hair-do is almost essential. Time is limited for all workers, and in a factory amid whirling machines, short hair is a matter of safety.

Allies' Influence "Good neighbor" influence is seen everywhere—from fashions to furniture. The use of bright flowers or snood in the hair, and the sleek shining coiffures copied from the Latin senoritas indicate

PROF. ROLLIN M. PERKINS

Navy Chaplain to Talk Over WSUI Today

Lt. Alexander McKelway, Protestant chaplain of the naval pre-flight training school here, will be interviewed over station WSUI at 12:45 this noon by Ensign Vernal LaVoi.

This interview is a part of the Navy Time program, a series of weekly interviews designed to acquaint the people of Iowa with the naval pre-flight training school.

This is Lieutenant McKelway's first assignment as chaplain. He has seen service in the navy before, however. In December, 1917, he left the University of Virginia and joined the navy as an apprentice seaman. In January of 1918 he transferred to naval aviation and received his commission as a naval aviator that same year. The next year he was assigned to Anacostia air field as test pilot.

He became a lieutenant (jg) before he resigned his commission and returned to civilian life. Entering the Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va., he was graduated in 1926.

On April 1 of this year Lieutenant McKelway returned to active duty, this time as a full lieutenant in the chaplain corps. He was assigned as Protestant chaplain to the naval pre-flight training school here on June 7, 1942.

Buy Boutonnieres! Increase Your Stamp Collection Today

War savings stamp boutonnieres and corsages will be sold here today, under the sponsorship of the local "Retailers for Victory" committee, as part of national corsage day.

Mrs. A. L. Towner and Mary T. Newell, who are in charge of sales through the war stamp booths, announced that approximately 15 girls will be selling on downtown streets.

Corsages and boutonnieres will sell for $1 and may also be purchased at the war savings stamp booths.

The Jessamine chapter of the Order of Eastern Star made the entire supply of boutonnieres for Iowa City distribution.

Hospital Gets Disney Paintings

Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, officially presented 12 original Walt Disney water colors to Dr. Robert E. Neff, administrator of University hospital, yesterday morning on behalf of John Morrell and company of Ottumwa.

Flora Weber, supervisor of nurses, and Mary Dickson, supervisor of the girls' ward, are shown above describing the new pictures to a group of their patients.

The pictures, each of which cost $1,000, will be mounted on panels so that they can be moved for exhibition among the wards, allowing all the children to see them. They will be displayed in the hospital schoolroom first, where the teachers will explain them to the children.

The pictures were on display in Iowa Union until yesterday as part of the fine arts festival exhibit.

Presented through the courtesy of T. Henry Foster, president of the Morrell company, and the board of directors, the pictures were originally commissioned by the company for its 1942 calendar.

YANKEES' BOROWY DROPS ST. LOUIS, 5 TO 2

Victors Chase Auker Early

Joe DiMaggio, Keller, Henrich Lead Attack On 5th Place Browns

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees turned loose some of their old-time power yesterday to whip the St. Louis Browns, 5-2, in their series opener as Hank Boroway registered his seventh pitching triumph against one defeat.

Boroway, top ranking pitcher of the American league, held the Browns to six hits in seven and two-thirds innings but had to turn the game over to Johnny Murphy, when a blister developed on the middle finger of his right hand.

The Yanks went to work on Eldon Auker early, scoring three runs in the fourth off the submarine ball pitcher who had beaten them twice before. It was the eighth defeat against 10 wins for Auker.

Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich and Charlie Keller led the nine-hit Yankee attack.

Auker went out for a pinch hitter in the fifth and Steve Sundra held the champs scoreless for two frames before he also stepped down for a substitute batter, but George Caster was not so fortunate.

Henrich blasted out his ninth home run in the seventh inning and Keller followed with his 10th four-master in the eighth.

The game was the 77th for the Yanks, bringing them officially to the half-way mark in their schedule. The victory enabled them to hold their four-game lead over the Boston Red Sox, who stopped the Detroit Tigers.

Widow's Pride Wins $7,675 in Tight Finish

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP)—Piloted by the veteran Vic Fleming, Widow's Pride won the $7,675 Village Farm stake for two year old pacers, feature of the grand circuit program at Goshen raceway yesterday, but only after the tightest finish of the meet in the final heat.

Elimination heats were required because of the large field and Widow's Pride, carrying the colors of Sullivan and Mawhinney of Machals, Maine, won the first easily in 2:08 1/4. When nine horses came back for the final heat, Widow's Pride set all the pace, but was extended to the limit to win by a nose from King's Counsel.

An upset marked the 12 trot when Fex Hanover, winner here last week and the favorite to repeat, was able to place only third. Speed King took the first heat and then Willie Hope, owned by Angelo Monzo of Paterson, N. J., and driven by Leon Toole, took the next two heats and the race.

Young Hawkeyes Will Dominate Iowa's 1942 Roster

Youngsters just about to enter intercollegiate competition, most of whom are not old enough for selective service, predominate on the University of Iowa's 1942 football squad roster.

The mid-summer roster, subject to some revision before practice opens Sept. 1, shows 29 sophomores, 13 seniors and seven juniors. At least 22 of the sophomores are 18 or 19 years old.

Recruits are scattered liberally through the various positions. Some of the new men are physical huskies—for instance, Jerry Kubal, 238 pounds and 6 feet 3 1/2 inches; Bruno Niedziela, 230 pounds and 6 feet 2 1/2 inches; Stanley Morhacher, 214 pounds and 6 feet, and Roger Kane, 225 pounds and 6 feet 3 inches.

These are the sophomores by positions:
Ends: Bill Barbour, Mason City; Jim Keane, Belleaire, Ohio; Waldo Marolf, Davenport; Jim Sweeney, Cedar Rapids, and Harry Frey, Fairfield.
Tackles: Niedziela and Kubal, both of Chicago; Kane, Mundelein, Ill.; Mohrbacher, Cedar Rapids; Henry Blum, Terril, and Warren Vogt, Council Bluffs.
Guards: Ralph Beardsley, Anamosa; Bob Liddy, Monticello; Donald Lehmkuhl, Cedar Rapids; Orville Davidsmeyer, Downers Grove, Ill.; Keith Stinson, New Hampton; Leo Masterson, Louisville, Ohio, and Bob Davis, Des Moines.
Center: Forrest Masterson, Louisville, Ohio.
Quarterback: Ed Schweizer, Burlington.
Right halfbacks: Russell Benda, Tama; Bob Spencer, Chicago; Aubrey Daedlow, Mediapolis, and Ted Lewis, Iowa City.
Fullbacks: Dick Hoerner, Dubuque; Charles Uknes, Sioux City, and James Ferguson, Downers Grove, Ill.

White Sox Defeat Nats As Johnny Humphries Annexes 4 to 2 Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chicago White Sox defeated the Washington Senators 4 to 2 last night, collecting six of their eight hits in two innings, three in the first and three in the sixth. A crowd of 7,000 saw the game.
Singles by Hoag, Wright and Appling along with a walk to Kuhel and Cullenbine's error gave the Sox a three run lead in the first inning.

Pinch-Hitter Cronin Wins Tilt in Eleventh As Tigers Bow, 2-1

BOSTON (AP)—Manager Joe Cronin, pinch-hitting with the bases loaded and one out in the 11th inning, banged out a long fly that sent Pete Fox home with the 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday as they launched a home stand against the western clubs.

The overtime game was a stirring pitcher's duel between Broadway Charlie Wagner and Lefty Hal Newhouse until the latter found himself in his deep hole in the final frame. Wagner turned in a four-hitter to gain his eighth win of the season and the Detroit southpaw held the sockets to that many blows for 10 innings.

by WHITNEY MARTIN
★ Layden Says Army Teams May Develop ★ Into Nation's Best

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
(Pinch Hitting for Whitney Martin)

CHICAGO (Wide World)—National league club owners are determined to carry on at all costs with what material is left... They view it as a patriotic duty to contribute whatever they can to the morale and to the physical well being of America.

That's Elmer Layden, $20,000 a year president of the National professional football league, summing up the policy of the league for its first year.

What lies ahead for the professional game, however, is problematical. The squads may be smaller, and the attendance may show a sharp decline from the banner, big money year of 1941. Replacements must be made because of the terrific loss in personnel.

The league now has 158 men in the armed services. This figure includes 121 of the 346 men who played in the league games last year and 37 players who were members of the National league teams at the close of the 1940 season, but who were called last summer before the opening of the training season.

All of that is not disturbing to Layden, who preaches that competitive athletics are necessary elements in American life. He says: "They promote the essential attributes of teamwork, self-sacrifice and loyalty, around which we rally in times of stress... For generations they have served as the common bond between the young and the old, rich and poor... If democracy means anything at all, its dynamic powers and justification must spring from its spirit and not from the political theories, laws or constitution in which the system is expressed."

"Nowhere is this spirit more prevalent than in competitive athletics."

Strangely enough, Layden believes the army may develop elevens that will be the outstanding aggregations in the country.

"There will be some great football played this year, Layden predicted," and the best of it most likely will develop in the games between the National league teams and the elevens recruited from the ranks by the war department to help swell the army emergency relief fund. We have 89 players in the army alone. Of course, not all of them will be available for the service elevens since nearly a dozen already are on the battle line in the far reaches of the globe. But with the college men who are in the service and a nucleus for two championship teams from our league, the army elevens are very likely to be the best in the country."

Football's worth as a mental and physical conditioner for war is manifest, Layden pointed out, in the army's and navy's intensive conditioning program.

"The public is beginning to realize that the army and navy officials knew precisely what they were doing when they enlisted the help of football coaches and other athletic men in the strenuous conditioning programs necessary to toughen men for modern warfare," Layden continued.

"The army and the navy and those of us in athletics who frequently were attacked for defending the athlete and his commission knew no man was given an easy job in a safe place because he was adept in kicking a football. It took little time, however, for the public to learn that these men eventually would get to the front and that they would be in the thick of terrifically strenuous and important work before they got there."

BASEBALL BANTER

By Judson Bailey

NEW YORK (AP)—When Mayor LaGuardia complimented the crowd at the Polo Grounds for its orderly conduct during the blackout after the all-star game, he didn't know that the pocket of Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, was picked off $50, or that several bottles were thrown from the upper stands and one shattered dangerously close to Connie Mack... The chief reason Bobby Feller has lost 10 pounds is that his father is desperately ill at Mayo clinic.

Possibly as a result of the Brooklyn Dodgers sending a makeshift team of substitutes to Kansas City for an exhibition, one paper in Milwaukee limited its buildup for the Brooks' exhibition there Wednesday to a one-column picture of Fred Fitzsimmons... But Leo Durocher showed off his regulars for Milwaukee and coached at third base himself... The reason First Baseman Max West of the Boston Braves tried to take a poke at Beans Reardon the other day was that the umpire called him a "semi-pro"... And the way Shortstop Johnny Pesky of the Red Sox was able to work the hidden ball trick on the Yanks' Tom Henrich was Henrich telling Umpire Ed Rommel about the lead off the base taken by Ray Mack of Cleveland in another game... "It was this far," said Henrich as he stepped off the bag—and got tagged.

Most fans believe a player cannot be charged with an error unless he touches the ball, but Tom Swope of Cincinnati charged one against Shortstop Eddie Joost for not covering second on a force play and proved there is no rule against it... Somebody jibed Frank Pytkak about his old days with the Indians, when he used to go A.W.O.L

Berlin Claims Sinking of 8 Russian Subs

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), (AP)—Seven and perhaps eight Russian submarines have been sunk and at least five others seriously damaged by German and Finnish air and naval attacks in the Baltic in the last two weeks, the German radio last night quoted a special Finnish bulletin as announcing in Helsinki.

The Soviet submarines had attempted to break through the gulf of Finland to the Baltic, but only one submarine was successful, the bulletin was quoted as saying.

(The Soviet communique issued early Friday indicated there had been new Red fleet submarine operations in the Baltic, saying officially that "our ships in the Baltic sea sank two enemy transports and a tanker of a total displacement of 22,000 tons.")

The Finnish announcement broadcast by the Berlin radio follows:

"During the past two weeks the Soviet fleet displayed remarkable activity in the eastern part of the Finnish gulf. Without regard to losses the enemy tried to break through to the Baltic with his submarines but only one of them has been successful.

"Finnish and German naval forces as well as the Finnish air forces have sunk in the period under review altogether seven submarines, namely, the naval forces six and the air force one. In all probability another submarine was also sunk while at least five were seriously damaged. These figures do not contain losses which the German air force and German coastal batteries inflicted on the enemy."

reached might be gauged by this information:

1. Advances in advance of the trial that prosecution would require two or three days to present its case.
2. The presence yesterday of witnesses who might be used to picture the background of the accused.
3. Appearance late yesterday of some coast guardsmen, indicating that the story had reached the arrival of the first group of nazis, who rode ashore in a rubber boat from a submarine near Amagansett, Long Island, on the morning of June 13. The nazis are understood to have encountered a coast guardman shortly after landing.
4. The appearance of a sizable group of FBI agents, who might be describing the search, and capture of the eight men.

A strong hint that treason trials in the civil courts were in prospect for persons who aided the eight nazis after they landed from the submarines was given by chief G-man J. Edgar Hoover.

Speaking in a radio interview (NBC), Hoover made a reference to the FBI cleanup of domestic

U.S. Army to Use Big Air Ambulances in Combat Regions

WASHINGTON (AP)— Huge air ambulances, it was announced yesterday by Secretary Stimson, will be used by the army to speed sick and wounded men from combat areas to hospitals in protected zones.

The planes will be fitted with supports for standard army litters and, equipped as flying hospitals, will be able to carry as many as 40 patients.

The new unit will be known as the air evacuation group (medical), and plans for its administration are being prepared by Brig. Gen. David N. W. Grant, the air surgeon, under supervision of Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding the army air forces.

Each flight with patients will be directed by a flight surgeon and in the plane will be an army nurse and an enlisted man of the medical corps.

The planes will have facilities for surgery, blood transfusions and medical treatment.

The medical group represents an important extension of the functions of the air transport command, which for more than a year has been moving bombers to allied bases and carrying in them large quantities of supplies and mail.

FARM—

Russell told reporters, "I believe there was misapprehension on the part of some members that parity to the farmer was involved in this amendment when it is only parity to the government that is involved."

Russell said he thought the senate's action in approving this week a bill directing government loans at full parity on six major farm products demonstrated that the farmer was going to get parity prices for the things he raised. (Parity is a price calculated to give the farmer the same relative return he obtained in a past period, usually 1909-14.)

Officials Form Plan to Instruct County Rural School Teachers

Dr. E. L. Ritter of Iowa State Teachers college and county school Superintendent Frank J. Snider last night outlined a new plan for the instruction of rural school teachers, whereby all women in Johnson county who are graduates of accredited high schools with satisfactory scholarship records will be eligible for teacher's training.

The meeting to consider the plan was held in the Johnson county courthouse. Snider explained that the plan will allow high school graduates to procure a rural school teacher's certificate after completion of four 12-week quarters at Iowa State Teachers college. The highlight of the course is one quarter of directed apprentice teaching in one of the rural schools in the home county of the apprentice teacher.

The apprentice teaching is to be done under the direction of a selected senior teacher, the regular one in the school, and will be supervised by a representative from the Iowa State Teachers college, who will advise the student teacher and teach her rural school methods and management.

According to the proposed plan, the enrolled students will spend the first two quarters in classes on the campus of Iowa State Teachers college, the third quarter in observing and teaching in the rural school and the last quarter completing the course on the college campus.

By allowing the apprentice teacher to practice in her home county, the plan involves less expense than otherwise. The Iowa State Teachers college stands ready to grant tuition exemption to the amount of $20 for the fourth and last quarter of the course, leaving only $6 in fees to be paid for this quarter.

Each student admitted to the course agrees to teach at least two years in a rural school in the state of Iowa. Work taken will apply toward the requirements for any higher grade of elementary teachers certificate.

The fact that some 300 Iowa law enforcement officers are practically over-running Iowa City during the Peace Officers' short course didn't seem to hamper the activities of a sun-tanned six-foot check artist who victimized three local firms this week.

Endorsing the checks as Paul McCue, the man collected $42 in his three attempts. The checks were made out by a B. J. Peterson. Stores which received the checks and the amounts were Leno and Cilek, $12; Stillwell's Paint store, $15, and Co-operative Grocery, $15.

The man was described as being about 24 years old, weighing 175 pounds and dark complected.

United States Moves To Strengthen Military Ties With Free French

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States yesterday strengthened its military ties with the Free French but made clear the action had no political implications. ## Film Program Given For Defense Group

Approximately 150 members of the civilian defense organization in Iowa City attended a motion picture program last night in the audience studio of station WSUI. Three short films were shown which illustrated the need for civilian cooperation in the war effort. The films were "The Warning," "Ack-Ack" and "London Affire."

The program presented was under the direction of H. I. Jennings, head of the Iowa City defense council, and Fred W. Ambrose, local air-raid warden chief. Ambrose announced that all fire wardens will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the lecture room of the chemistry building.

Interpreting The War News

Nazi Generalizations Lend Color to Red Claims of Slowdown

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

German reports from the critical Don front in Russia have reverted from specific claims to sweeping generalizations, lending color to red contentions that Hitler's mightiest offensive effort of the year has been slowed down if not halted within less than two weeks of its onset.

It is much to soon, however, to conclude that the crisis in the battle of the Don has been reached or passed, though nazi difficulties must be increasing.

But for the fact that Russian armies of the center or Moscow area, above the Kursk-Voronezh railroad and German break-through point, are still to be reckoned with, Marshal Timoshenko's position would be much worse than that of his nazi foes. He holds the exterior, long-way-round lines while the Germans hold the interior communications within the Kurks-Don-Kupyansk triangle.

Even so, armies of the size of those Hitler has thrown into the Don bulge require a tremendous daily flow of supplies and equipment. The military weakness of the sector through which the Germans are seeking to drive a wedge between Russian armies of the south and center is its lack of east-west railroads or good highways.

There are but two such rail lines, the Kursk-Voronezh road and the Kupyansk-Liski line which reaches the Don 50 miles south of Voronezh. There are not even any through highways on available Russian maps, and the farther east and south the Germans progress, the more difficult becomes the terrain.

Moscow announced evacuation of Staryi Oskol before Berlin could claim its capture by assault. Just how deep a Russian withdrawal was involved is not indicated. It seems probable, however, that in order both to shorten and strengthen his lines from the Don breach to Kupyansk and to take advantage of natural defense positions, Timoshenko has fallen back to the Oskol river valley.

Like the Don front in the Voronezh-Liski sector, the Oskol river line southwest of it is backed by successive lesser watercourses and the steppes are studded increasingly with small hills rising several hundred feet above the general level of the rough country about them.

Out of this can be deduced the fact that while the Germans have driven to the Don on an apparently narrow front west of Voronezh,

BUND LEADERS ROUNDED UP BY FEDERAL AGENTS

RUSSIAN

held five days west of the Don in their supreme effort of this year to thrust a salient across the waterway and cut railway and highway communications between Moscow and the south.

The Moscow radio said local Soviet counter-attacks were being struck outside Voronezh, vital railway junction on the Moscow-Rostov line through which supplies to the southern armies pass.

Small groups of nazis forced river crossings and maintained precarious footings on the east bank in the face of withering Russian fire, but most of the storm units were declared wiped out.

Heavy artillery thundered in duels between opposing batteries. The stout Russian defenses were declared to be exacting of the Germans thousands of men and scores of tanks.

Violent battles also were in progress west of Voronezh, 120 miles east of Kursk whence Marshal Fedor von Bock set his mechanized steamroller in bloody movement nearly two weeks ago.

The Russian air force struck mightily at the German concentration on the Don, wrecking 60 tanks.

(The German high command said Russian defenses had been breached over a breadth of 330 miles and that the Russians were in disorderly retreat. The German armies were declared in "full movement." A Russian offensive north of Orel, to relieve pressure in the south, was declared repelled after four days of fighting.

(The nazis said officially 289 tanks had been destroyed, and DNB raised the figure to 490 for six days.)

The river Don—the great waterway which winds 1,325 miles through rich lands from Tula

province to the sea of Azov—

was mentioned for the first time in frontline dispatches, which called the battle the supreme German offensive of 1942. The nazis aimed at shattering the Russian armies for a drive south into the oil-rich Caucasus.

Nowhere had the Germans—with their assortment of Hungarian, Rumanian and Slovak mercenaries—been able to cross the Don in force, the Russians said. While repulsing the German vanguards, the red army gained precious time to organize strong point on the east side of the river.

The west bank of the Don and roads and ravines leading to it were described as jammed with hundreds of tanks and trucks concentrated for a crossing in force. The accumulation represented an easy target for air force raiders.

"Stretching the Sugar" is the title of a demonstration being sponsored by the Iowa City nutrition study group this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the main auditorium of the Community building, Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, head of the local Red Cross nutrition program, announces.

Sister Mary St. Clara, head of the home economics department of Clark college, Dubuque, will present a demonstration, "Keep 'Em Flying With or Without," and will lead a discussion on various substitutes for sugar.

To be distributed at the meeting are pamphlets containing sugarless recipes recommended by Sister St. Clara, sugar rationing recipes published by Iowa State college and a bulletin from the ODA in Washington, D.C., entitled "Recipes to Fit Sugar Rations."

The meeting is open to the public. Persons attending are asked to bring recipes which require a minimum amount of sugar or none at all. These recipes will later be compiled into a file for the use of Iowa City housewives.

Sister St. Clara, who is a graduate student in the university's home economics department this summer, will be assisted by Elizabeth Demoon of the home economics department of the Centerville public schools.

Hostesses will be Mrs. H. J. Mayer, Mrs. C. E. Beck, Mrs. Eldon Miller and Mrs. H. R. Jenkinson. A public address system has been installed for the meeting.

WOMEN DRIVE TANKS, FIRE BIG GUNS TO TEST THEM

Slender, shapely hands pilot monster tanks and delicate, white fingers fire huge, black-snouted anti-aircraft guns these days at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds. More than 1,000 women, replacing men who are thus freed to enter the fighting forces, are giving their time to the government as ordnance department workers at the proving grounds. Pictured top is a "General Grant" tank, "manned" by a crew of girls. Lower photo shows women firing three 90-mm. guns while a group of officers under Maj. Gen. Charles T. Harris, Jr., commanding officer of Aberdeen proving grounds, look on.
