44,143 U.S. Casualties Since December 7

Total Includes Dead, Missing Of All Branches

Bulk of U. S. Losses In Pacific Believed Prisoners of War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The office of war information announced last night that United States armed forces have suffered 44,143 casualties—dead, wounded and missing—since the start of the war.

The total includes 4,801 dead, 3,218 wounded and 36,124 missing. The figure, which includes the casualties at Pearl Harbor and all those up to date, represents the combined losses of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard and the Philippine scouts.

In addition, 1,022 navy officers and men were reported prisoners of war. Of these, 301 were navy personnel and 721 marines. Only 20 of the army personnel listed as "missing" have been officially reported as prisoners.

"The bulk of army casualties fall into the category of missing," the OWI said, "and since most of these were at Bataan and Corregidor in the Philippines, and in Java, they are believed to be prisoners of war. No definite report as to their status, however, has been received from the International Red Cross."

William Hart of Iowa City Nominated as State Supreme Court Justice at Democratic Meeting

Atty. William R. Hart of Iowa City was nominated for justice of the Iowa supreme court by the democratic judicial convention which convened in Des Moines yesterday. The convention also re-nominated Justices Richard F. Mitchell of Ft. Dodge and E. A. Sager of Waverly.

A resolution unanimously endorsing Attorney Hart as candidate for the position was introduced at the district democratic judicial convention in the Johnson county courthouse last Thursday.

Attorney Hart has lived in Iowa City most of his life. Born at Maloy, June 16, 1893, he moved here with his family while still a child, and attended Iowa City high school and the University of Iowa.

Graduate of SUI
He received his B. A. degree here at the university in 1913 and his J. D. degree in 1915. He was also awarded a degree as Doctor of Medical Juris Prudence, and was elected to the Order of Coif, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Treason Law May Be Invoked To Halt Union Disputes--Morse

WASHINGTON (AP)—A stern warning that the treason laws would be invoked if necessary to halt union jurisdictional disputes leading to war work stoppages was sounded yesterday by Wayne L. Morse of the war labor board.

Morse, one of the public representatives on the board, talked directly to union representatives who are debating the question whether C. I. O. or A. F. L. painters should do work necessary to convert a Dayton, O., refrigerator plant to war work.

He promised that the public would take drastic action unless labor settled its own jurisdictional disputes, "even to the application of the laws of treason if necessary."

"As we go further and further into this war," said Morse, dean of the University of Oregon law school, "it becomes clearer and clearer that we cannot permit any stoppages of work. I don't care whether they are over jurisdictional disputes or what they are over. They simply have to stop."

Later the four labor representatives on the WLB disclosed they were requesting Philip Murray, C. I. O. president, and William Green, A. F. L. chief, to set up machinery for determination of jurisdictional disputes for the duration of the war.

As a result of this move the board asked A. F. L. craft unions to resume work which is not in dispute at the Dayton plant pending action by Murray and Green. Should the two labor leaders fail to act, the board said, it would resume consideration of the case.

Meantime a strike of 1,600 employees at the Fisher tank plant at Grand Blanc, Mich., was certified to the WLB by Secretary of Labor Perkins. The walkout occurred a week ago after the firm suspended 50 men for three days for taking time out to smoke, a board spokesman said. Both A. F. L. and C. I. O. workers are involved. The board said the strike was unauthorized.

Some 3,000 A. F. L. truck drivers employed by terminal and transfer companies in St. Louis, Mo., struck for higher wages yesterday. Delivery of materials to many defense plants was stopped. At one war plant production was cut 30 per cent production was cut 30 per cent prospects of a shutdown quickly if the strike continued.

WAAC's Pledge Aid To England, China

Mrs. Oveta Hobby Promises Steadfast Assistance, Courage

FORT DES MOINES (AP)—Director Oveta Culp Hobby of the women's army auxiliary corps pledged to England and China last night that the women of the United States "shall be with you in the bitter struggle that is still ahead of us."

Mrs. Hobby, here for the mustering in of the first women soldiers in this country, declared in a message prepared for shortwave broadcast last night to England: "American women will never forget that when the blitz struck England, no Englishman nor Englishwoman ever gave in. In service to their own nation, and to the united nations, the women of America will also carry on."

Praising the performance of English women's military organizations in the war, she promised: "Soon we, too, shall be ready for similar assignments. We shall be with you in the bitter struggle that is still ahead of us. Our service will continue, wherever it is needed until victory comes to the united nations."

In a separate message to the Chinese, Mrs. Hobby declared that "we shall give our hearts, our minds, our hands, to crush the militarism of Japan and her axis partners."

Paying tribute to the courage of Chinese women in the "bombings, starvation and death," of the past "five terrible years," the WAAC director asserted "your steadfast stand has been a beacon of courage to the women of the United States, and of the united nations."

July Shipping Losses Highest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war shipping administration reported yesterday that shipping losses during "the week of July 12" were the highest since the war began and that sinkings of united nations vessels "have greatly exceeded new construction."

To counteract the effects of "enemy action and marine casualties," the administration announced that shipping space in future would be reserved entirely for import and export cargoes "essential to the prosecution of the war."

"Every effort must be directed to achieving our objectives designed to offset losses even though sinkings continue temporarily at their present high level," the announcement declared.

The administration added that enforcement of its cargo space order would mean a substantial increase in movement of military supplies.

F. R. Selects Leahy As Right-Hand Man

Admiral Given New Post of Chief of Staff In Prosecuting War

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an unprecedented move, President Roosevelt yesterday selected Admiral William D. Leahy sailor-diplomat, to be his right-hand man in prosecuting the global war on the land and sea and in the air.

Leahy was given the newly created title of chief of staff to the commander-in-chief of the armed forces—that is, to the president. Immediately, there was a surge of speculation that Leahy's counsel would have great effect on such questions as the possible opening of a second European front. Some suggested Leahy might even be slated eventually to become top man of a unified united nations high command.

Refused to Comment
Mr. Roosevelt, making his announcement at a press conference, was besieged with such questions. He firmly declined, however, to amplify his announcement in this direction.

He did, nevertheless, volunteer the information that the admiral would do whatever was necessary from the point of view of the commander-in-chief. For one thing, he said, it was necessary for the president to read all kinds of quantities of documents and reports.

Save Valuable Time
Someone else could do leg work, indexing and summarizing for him, and thus save many hours of valuable time.

Although the president parried questions about the Leahy appointment, one highly placed army officer, speaking anonymously, remarked later that the title certainly implied something more than that of an administrative assistant to the president.

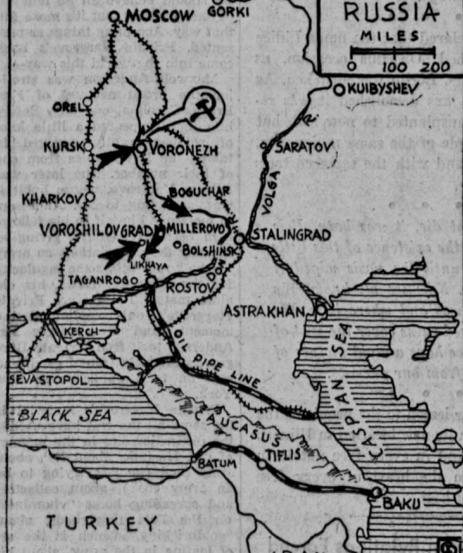

Economists Predict Higher Grain Prices Despite Good Crops

AMES (AP)—Despite forecasts of an average-or-better corn crop and the release of up to 125 million bushels of government-held wheat, corn and other feed grain prices are likely to be somewhat higher during the next feeding year, according to Iowa State college economists.

Writing in the July issue of the Iowa Farm Economist, monthly publication of the college, the economists report that the huge food-for-freedom livestock program has depleted corn reserves from last October's total of 846 million bushels so that this fall's total is likely to be only about 450 to 500 million bushels.

On the brighter side, the college experts point out, is the fact that increased supplies of high-protein feeds may result in improved diets for livestock this year. Surveys have shown in the past that too little high-protein feeds was being used.

LONE BRIGHT SPOT: VORONEZH SECTOR

While farther south the Germans still press their drives toward Rostov and Stalingrad, the Russians have wrenched the initiative from the nazis on the Voronezh sector, driving the enemy from the east bank of the Don river. Arrows on the above Central Press map indicate lines of attack of the Russians and Germans.

Army Enlisted Reserve Corps Open to Iowa Men—Hancher

University Students May Join on Deferred Basis Till Graduation

Iowa men may join the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps soon after the opening of school in September, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday, revealing first details of a plan designed to meet the needs of the army, navy, marine, and coast guard for officer candidate material.

Although quotas for the enlistment have not been determined, the president indicated that they are expected to be large enough to meet all the services' needs and permit the student to choose his own branch of the armed forces.

Will Not Be Drafted
Student members of the Enlisted Reserve Corps, since they are inactive members of the armed services, will not be subject to the draft, but will be available for active service in case of need.

Students who enlist will follow the regular course of study, including military training for freshmen and sophomores. Upperclass reservists will be allowed to graduate unless the exigencies of war demand their earlier service, according to President Hancher.

Lowerclass enlistees will continue through their sophomore year at the university when they will take examinations that will be given to all army and navy reservists in the country.

Qualifications
On the basis of these tests, those who qualify will:

- (1) Enroll in the R. O. T. C. advanced course, remaining in school, war needs permitting, until graduation.
 - (2) Become privates in the Army Air Force's Enlisted reserve, remaining in school until graduation.
 - (3) Remain in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, unassigned to a service branch, or
 - (4) Request discharge from the Enlisted Reserve Corps, after advanced R. O. T. C. and Army Air Force quotas are met, in order to re-enlist in officer candidate classes of the navy, marine corps or coast guard, on the basis of personal desires and subject to the qualifications required by those branches of the service.
- Most of the service branches the president said, permit students to remain in school until graduation, provided they maintain satisfactory scholastic records. (See RESERVE, page 5)

German Tanks Drive Forward Near Caucasus Gateway Cities

'2nd Front' Discussed as Russian Plight Grows; Three More Enemy Destroyers Sunk In Aleutian Theater

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
Associated Press War Editor

Germany's threats to the Caucasus gate cities of Rostov and Stalingrad were multiplying last night and the question of swift, if limited, "second front" relief for the red armies was being discussed by U.S. and British allies in London staff conferences of an urgent and perhaps decisive nature.

Military dispatches from the Don-Donets battlefields drew a sombre picture of German tanks and motorized infantry crumpling forward through the blazing coal fields north of Rostov, and of powerful concentrations of troops moving into position for a triple attack on this west Caucasus key and for a dual assault on Stalingrad, the guardian of the Volga.

German high command bulletins said Rostov was aflame and her Don river bridges destroyed; that the city was under concentric attack from east, north and west.

Russian advices indicated Marshal Timoshenko still was trying to disengage from the main battle areas north and northeast of Rostov in order to mass behind a line anchored on Rostov and Novocheerkassk; then running northeast behind the lower Don to the Stalingrad region.

Vague Nazi Claims
Somewhat vague German claims to a 50-mile eastward advance along the upper curve of the Don would, if taken at face value, put nazi advanced elements little more than 130 miles from Stalingrad. Other German sources are expected to try to push toward Stalingrad up the lower course of the river, which makes a wide curve in front of Stalingrad.

Again the lone major element of encouragement in the Russian situation was the sustained red army counter-assault before Voronezh, on the left flank of the Germans' 250-mile southern battle-line.

Now on both banks of the upper Don, the Russians reported they were holding the principal crossing, among others, and successfully isolating German forces which earlier had crossed to the east.

A special statement broadcast from Moscow Tuesday night said the Germans at Voronezh were in "deadly peril" suffering from unrepentant losses. A British radio announcement at about the same time said some German advices admitted a nazi withdrawal.

10,000 Germans Killed
The midnight Soviet communique bore this out, saying the Russians had captured additional uninhabited points, and in one sector 10,000 Germans were killed in a week's time by one red force.

The German high command betrayed concern over circulation of news that German divisions were menaced before Voronezh. Included was an angry denial of these "Russian and British reports."

The London conference on some sort of European military diversion were between Prime Minister Churchill, his service chiefs and U.S. army, navy and (See INTERNATIONAL, page 5)

F. R. Planning to Put Thumb on Living Cost

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt said yesterday he hoped to send a message to congress in a few days dealing with ways of keeping a thumb on the cost of living.

Announcing his intentions at his regular press-conference, the president thus gave an answer to the congressional leaders who have expressed an eagerness to get a message from the White House soon if it is forthcoming at all.

Mr. Roosevelt described the cost of living issue as the first real domestic problem in carrying on the war. In discussing the message on new inflation curbs, the president replied in the negative when asked if he intended to freeze wages.

Bill Creating Sailorette Corps For Shore Duty Wins Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—A measure creating a corps of shore-bound sailorettes, to relieve thousands of naval officers and men for sea duty, weathered a squall of ridicule in the house yesterday and received final congressional approval.

Formation of the feminine auxiliary—naval counterpart of the women's army auxiliary corps already in training—awaited only President Roosevelt's signature.

Handling the Cause of 'Labor'

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Hail Steel Workers' Wage Increase As Economic Adjustment for Labor

WASHINGTON—Government award of 44 cents a day more to little steel workers was hailed everywhere as an economic adjustment for "labor." The wage increase formula of this initial war test is presumably to be extended to Chrysler, General Motors, and a score of other cases pending before the war labor board. The government announces this as its method of handling the cause of "labor," although probably no more than a million workers are involved. Now again, as upon every occasion in which a C. I. O. or A. F. L. union tangles with government, the public will be led to believe that "labor" as a whole is involved.

The whole governmental system, and even the press handling of such news, has encouraged the fallacious notion that this small A. F. L.-C. I. O. minority of the nation's workers are "labor." The war labor board was set up by Mr. Roosevelt to handle only union cases. Even back before the new deal era, congress and the government gave no special consideration to the rights and interests of other workers, excepting these organized minorities. Now when government controls have been extended over all economic life to such an extent that the bread people eat is measured in Washington, the popular fallacy is continued without objection or notice. The newspapers unwittingly perpetuate this deception by publishing both in headline and text about "labor did this" and "labor got that," when they mean only the C. I. O. or A. F. L.

There are 50,000,000 workers in this country. No more than 8,000,000 belong to C. I. O. and A. F. L. The acute interest of the other 42,000,000 in our war economy and in our preparations for a managed post war system are ignored.

The A. F. L. claimed 4,569,000 paid-up members last year and no doubt has more now. The C. I. O. claimed 5,000,000 members but did not mention how many were paid-up, and probably has less than 3,000,000 in good standing.

Latest figures from the McNutt public welfare headquarters here officially place the total number of workers at 50,800,000, including:

- War Workers 17,500,000
 - Non-War 20,500,000
 - Agriculture 7,800,000
 - Self-Employed 5,000,000
- There are also unemployed (meaning unemployable) 2,400,000, and 5,500,000 are in the armed services.

The national income division of the commerce department has figures showing that salaries and wages were paid last year to 33,887,000 workers, skilled, unskilled, white collar, etc., not including agriculture or governmental. These 33,887,000 received much more than half the national income, $53,701,000,000 or an average of $1,584. You must add to these the 4,523,000 self-employed who received $6,160,000,000, or an average of $1,362 each. Also to be added are 6,073,000 farmers who are workers. According to these inadequate national income figures, they received more than the self-employed (little business men mostly), about $8,482,000,000, an average of $1,400. (This does not include hired hands.)

There are four representatives of the public on the war labor board, along with four union leaders and four industrial representatives, but no consideration beyond this "public representation" was given to the interest of the great bulk of the workers of this country in this little steel case, or any other. Their interest however is obvious. Whether the 44 cents increase is to cost $22,000,000 a year for little steel alone, or $44,000,000 for all the steel industry, or hundreds of millions when the increase is spread to unionized Chrysler, General Motors, and the others, labor will have to pay it. The cost of government contracts will be increased by that amount and the implements of war will drain just that much more from the treasury.

No one will arise to claim the little steel increase was not justified on a basis of increased cost of living—the yardstick which Mr. Roosevelt has fixed. But any thinking person can see the political sham and economic pretense that enters into a government managed economy which considers only the interests of a minority of workers. If increases to the 8,000,000 are justified by the yardstick, some increases to the other 42,000,000 can hardly be neglected. They cannot live outside Mr. Roosevelt's yardstick. Their rights in a democracy are no less just for their having failed to pay tribute to A. F. L. or C. I. O. for their jobs.

But if this is done and the increases are extended to all, inflation will surely rise in a greatly accelerated spiral, and defeat the purposes of any wage increase. The logical solution dictated by these facts therefore would seem to require a freezing of all, including little steel.

Certainly this governmental pretense of helping "labor" by only helping a few unions will become increasingly apparent and unjust as Washington proceeds upon the path of managed economy into which it rushed at the outset of war to fix prices, wages and the economic lives of its people.

In All of the World's Free Lands Lidice, Though Demolished, Lives—

Lidice, in Czechoslovakia, was a humble little mining village. No doubt its way of life was something like that of small, American towns of a generation ago. It was six hundred years old, but not old enough to think much of the nazis.

Whether its people did or did not support and assist the men who shot "Hangman" Heydrich in May, is not known. Though it would be strange if they cared much for the monster, or grieved over the bullets in his spine. Following Heydrich's death the nazis boasted to the world that they had shot all of the men in Lidice, put all the women in concentration camps, sent all the children to "centers of education" and destroyed the village.

Berlin, then declared that the name Lidice had been abolished. On this occasion, as on numerous others, Berlin was mistaken. As quickly as Lidice was demolished it was rebuilt again, transplanted to new soil, but populated by people of the same nationality, the same speech and with the same customs and habits.

Lidice did not die, it was born. Few people knew of the existence of this little mining village until the nazis wiped it from the earth. Now we all know. We know where it was and where it is. We know why charred ruins cover the spot of its origin, and we have a vivid picture of what to expect from our enemies.

Lidice is another lesson to the people of the united nations. On its new location in Illinois, Lidice will live. And in every free nation in the world, and in the heart of every free man, its heart will beat.

Finno-American Relations Forced To Close, by Outside Conditions—

Closing of the Finnish consulates in the United States came after a gradual cooling off of Finno-American relations, which began with Finland's entry into the war against Russia, on the axis side, more than a year ago.

In addition to the consulate order, the U. S. state department has informed the Finnish minister, and the legation staff, that they no longer can travel in the United States without the specific permission of the government.

The United States has been more than understanding in its consideration of this Finnish problem because of the general feeling that their position was forced upon them, and came about, to a great part, from conditions beyond their control.

Even the present request, just announced by our state department, seems to us a very mild move when it is considered that for nearly a year Finland has been refusing the United States any consular privileges, except those available through the American legation at the Finnish capital. It was apparent the move was made at the insistence of Germany.

The closing of the Finnish consulates in the United States is a proper precaution against transmission of vital information, through them, to our real enemies.

Utilization of American Colleges Is Important Move in War Effort—

George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, has raised an important question which concerns the college men and the colleges throughout the United States. Zook asserted Sunday that it is imperative that the government develop a comprehensive plan for the utilization of our higher educational institutions in the war effort.

In answer to Zook's statement, Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt said Monday that plans are now being made to coordinate America's colleges and universities in the war program. He pointed out that the manpower commission has for some time been working out the details of this problem and that the commission has even called in Dr. Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue university, for this very purpose.

We are losing valuable time by letting the advantages of our colleges go to waste. With the opportunities in medicine, science, engineering and many other fields offered in these institutions, college students should be allowed to complete these courses without being plagued by the uncertainty of the draft. As it now stands, a young man hesitates even to enter college unless he is enlisted in some reserve branch of the service.

In the last war the government took over the colleges and started a student army training corps which was a combination of education and army life. At last the necessity for a similar program is realized and now we must see that such a system is adequately and promptly put into effect.

THE BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY
"SEE HERE, PRIVATE HARGROVE," by Marion Hargrove (Holt; $2).

Private Hargrove does not believe all his buddies tell him, and there seems to be no reason why we should believe all he tells us, beyond the fact that it's more fun that way. Accepting things as presented, Private Hargrove's book came into the world this way—

Maxwell Anderson was strolling the broad avenues of Fort Bragg, Carolina, one day. Before him there appeared a little knot of soldiers, rapidly engaged in taking the last pennies from one of their number. The loser was Private Hargrove, whose habit it was, according to Mr. Anderson, to mortgage himself to his fellow-man between paydays, giving as security the dissertations on army life he wrote with some regularity for the Charlotte News, his old alma mater. These were Private Hargrove's only capital at the moment. And these pieces Mr. Anderson took from Private Hargrove's Shylocks, found good, and sent on to a publisher in New York.

Private Hargrove's material is the same all the rest have used—the distinction lies in the manner of use. He talks about KP, about army food (he was trying to be an army cook), about collecting and spreading horse "vitamins" on the Fort flowerbeds, about "goldbricking," which is the art of loafing in the army, about his fellow soldiers and his officers and all the rest of it.

But with one exception, he has avoided the traps that catch much more experienced writers. He has not, for example, tried to point a moral. Neither has he pretended to be illiterate, which never struck me as funny no matter who wrote the stuff. Most of his fun is poked at Private Hargrove, and although plenty of it is broadly masculine, there is subtly as well. Most of the stuff has bounce in it, a youthful viewpoint, and at the same time an unexpectedly knowing attitude. Indeed, the only difficulty I found was an occasional piece that evidently had been spun out of nothing because the News needed a column that day. This book is rich fun.

Morgan is a grouching radio comic who castigates and browbeats his sponsors. . . . In one of his broadcasts he casually referred to Adler as "that runt." . . . The reason for the party, as Adler stated on his invitations was "To celebrate my ten years with Morgan." . . . "But you've only been my sponsor for one year," Morgan pointed out. . . . "That so?" ejaculated Adler. . . . "Well, it seems like ten years."

As the party got underway a messenger arrived with a letter from Fred Allen. Allen was supposed to be there but had to leave town and couldn't make it. After conveying his excuses, Allen's note wondered if Adler, by any chance, had a pair of shoes that would make a man appear four inches shorter than he was. "My wife has been complaining that I tower above her too much in public," Allen wrote, "and if you can help me out in this respect, I'll be very much obliged. I've tried lowering the bags in the knees of my pants four inches but that doesn't do any good."

A little later Hal LeRoy, the dancer and his pretty wife, Ruth, came in and Hal told of something new that had been added to his experiences—in Montreal.

Hal was just back from an engagement at an exclusive Montreal supper club. He opened on a Friday. The next afternoon he went out to the ball park to see the Montreal Royals play the Rochester Red Wings, and while he was there a fellow he had never seen came up to him and said, "Aren't you Hal LeRoy?" Hal told him yes, and the fellow said, "Here's a tip—tonight, when you get back to the club, why don't you ask the management for an advance on your salary?"

Next day Hal went back to see the Royals play again, and this same fellow sidled up to him again. "Did you get that advance?"

Hal admitted he hadn't given it any thought. "Don't be stupid," the guy argued, "go on in and ask for an advance. Ask for a couple of hundred bucks."

But Hal didn't.

Next day the club went bankrupt. As a rule Americans playing Canada take little money with them, as the exchange rate from Canadian money to American is 11 per cent. He had some money himself, but several of the other acts were stranded. They all hurried over to the American consulate and put in their claims, but there they were told little could be done.

"What do you recommend we do?" the Consul was asked.

"Turn yourselves over to the Canadian government and they'll deport you. They'll get you out of the country by train or by boat, and at least they'll drop you off on the other side of the border."

It was, Hal said, something brand new for him.

AND WE'RE GETTING "OURS"

The cartoon depicts a man in a suit holding a sign that says "LABOR" and another man holding a sign that says "WAR CONTRACTS". A speech bubble says "I GOT MINE!" and another says "I GOT MINE!". The scene is set in 1942, with a sign for "INCREASED COST OF LIVING" and another for "WAGE INCREASES". The man with the "LABOR" sign is looking at the man with the "WAR CONTRACTS" sign, who is looking at the "I GOT MINE!" speech bubble.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

Film Inspector Finds Movies Good Recreation

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Another side of Hollywood:

Esther Clark sees movies for a living. Six hours a day, six days a week. But when she wants to see a movie she goes to a theater and lays her money on the line.

Esther Clark is a film inspector in M-G-M's big laboratory. She is one of 16 girls who do their work in small individual projection rooms under supervision of Betty Markley, forewoman.

Esther is on the first shift. Every day she is up at 5:15 a. m.—she likes a leisurely breakfast—in order to be in her dark cubby hole at 6:30. At 9 a. m. she has 15 minutes' rest. At 12:30 she is through for the day.

Today you could find her, if you could see in the dark, checking a reel of "Crossroads," the William Powell-Hedy Lamarr feature. She sees it on a miniature screen about six feet away. When these 1,000 feet of film are checked, Esther starts another— a copy of the same reel. Her job is to catch any flaws in release prints as they come from the laboratory. The other girls are looking at "Crossroads" too—different reels.

They look for flaws not only in the pictures but in the sound tracks. They see the sound—the track is projected at the left of the screen—but they do not hear it. A bit of dust or dirt in the track, which would cause crackling noises if not removed, shows up in the "picture."

Seeing the same scenes over and over, the girls will see an entire picture before they finish with it, but not in continuity.

"Sometimes," says Esther, "I am surprised when I see the picture in a theater, with sound and dialogue. We are trained to detect flaws, but at the same time we are conscious of the action on the screen. Subconsciously, I suppose, I figure out what the action means—and then when I hear the dialogue later it may turn out to be something entirely different. After a while you get to be fairly good at lip-reading."

Esther goes to movies about once a week, usually selecting her fare from the films which have picked her interest while working. Some pictures which had no appeal for her as she worked on them turned into favorites when she saw them "whole."

Union scale for her job is $1.10 an hour, or $41.76 for a 38-hour week, plus time and a half for overtime. She shares a five-room home with a defense worker's family, shares in housekeeping and cooking. She drives the 15 blocks to work—at low speed to conserve tires. She buys a War Bond each five weeks. Her hobby is leather-work, making purses, billfolds, keycases.

She has never been to Ciro's (her hours would forbid even if she cared to go) and—though she has been on the M-G-M lot eight years—she has never seen Garbo who works there too.

Will Speak Friday On Union Campus; To Discuss Citizenship

Speaker for the last university lecture of the summer session Friday evening will be Robert Kazmayer, writer, news commentator and lecturer on world events. His subject will be "Citizenship in a Democracy Today."

Kazmayer has had wide experience in the lecture field, and his success can be accounted for by the fact that he combines his broad background of formal education with actual experience, gained by writing and working in today's headline countries.

After graduating from high school, he spent 18 months hiking and working his way completely around the world, visiting Central and South America, Australia, Japan, China, Egypt and other countries of the eastern hemisphere.

South America. His trip to Europe in the summer of 1939 ended just as the war broke out and his last trip to the Latin American countries was made in the summer of 1941.

Because of his experience as a writer and lecturer, Kazmayer was four years minister of the 10th avenue Methodist church in Rochester, N. Y. He was graduated from the University of Rochester in 1932 and prepared for the ministry at Colgate-Rochester divinity school. He holds ordination as both deacon and elder.

Civic Leader
Taking active part in civic and community leadership in Rochester, he was president of the Rochester chamber of commerce, president of Rochester's first consumer's cooperative, and moderator of the Rochester Town Hall.

Leaving the active ministry in 1938, he gave his full time to lecturing and broadcasting activities, maintaining his contacts with correspondents in the countries he had visited. He has addressed some of the largest clubs and organizations in the country.

Two New SUI Loan Funds Now Available

Two funds, from which loans are made to qualified students in professional areas of study vital to the war effort, are available at the University of Iowa students this year, Presidential Virgil M. Haner announced yesterday.

Such loans carry a 2 1/2 per cent interest rate, the president revealed, and are payable to the United States treasury. Recommendations are made by the university's committee on student aid. A $24,000 fund has also been made available to the university by the Kellogg foundation, the president added, from which loans will be made to qualified students in medicine, dentistry and nursing.

First Drawing Room Comedy Scheduled for Friday Opening

"The School for Scandal" by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, scheduled to open at the University theater Friday night for six performances, is known as the first of the modern drawing room plays.

Though the setting of the comedy is 18th century London, the plot and characters belong to the ages and have traits found in people everywhere.

The brilliant dialogue which characterizes the play is far more important than the two comparatively simple plots which form the story.

Among the clean cut, appropriately named characters are a dashing widow, an old husband married to a young wife, a pair of contrasting brothers and the dandy of the day. The society gossip included in the cast give the play its name.

The role of Joseph Surface, the hypocrite, who above all wants others to think well of him, will be carried by Walter Craig. Charles Surface, the "bad boy" who is filled with generosity and good intentions, will be portrayed by Lewis Miller.

The rollicking, extremely gay Lady Teazle, who becomes no end of a problem to her old husband, will be interpreted by Florence Healey. Sir Peter, thoroughly lovable and every inch a Harold Hansen. The part of Maria, gentleman, will be played by the girl Charles finally wins, will be taken by Jean Boehner.

Directing "The School for Scandal" is Frederic McConnell of the Cleveland Playhouse, visiting lecturer on the University theater staff this summer. Designer of stage settings is Prof. Arnold S. Gillette of the dramatic art department.

Prof. Hunton D. Sellman of the dramatic art department, assisted by John Felton, visiting lecturer on the theater staff, will have charge of lighting. Costumes have been designed by Helen Forrest Lauterer, visiting lecturer in the dramatic art department.

Others connected with the production are Verner Haldene, assistant director; Dwight E. Hook Jr. and John Thiele, stage managers, and Celia Thompson, bookholder.

Tickets may be reserved at the University theater office, room 8-A, Schaeffer hall. Students registered in the university will be admitted without additional charge by presenting identification cards at the box office or at the theater.

Dodgers Wallop Paul Derringer, Cincinnati, 8 to 4

Brooks Get 5 Tallies in 2nd

Errors Aid Bums In Pennant Campaign As Allen Gets Win

BROOKLYN (AP)—Paul Derringer wasn't any puzzle to the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday but neither were his teammates any help with the result the National league leaders pounded out an 8 to 4 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers jumped on the veteran righthander for five runs in the second inning, all of them unearned, and that was enough to win the ball game as Johnny Allen hurled six-hit ball for his eighth victory.

Derringer yielded five hits, but might have escaped without serious damage if Ray Lamanno had not dropped Bob Mattick's throw to the plate and Frank McCormick hadn't let loose with a wild throw. Lamanno's error, coming with one out and two on, allowed Billy Herman to score with the first run. Augie Galan's two-bagger sent two more tallies across after Allen had sacrificed and then scored himself when McCormick made a wild throw past Derringer, who covered himself on Arky Vaughan's hit.

The Dodger's nicked Derringer for six more blows and one run in each of the third, fourth and fifth frames before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Clyde Shoun pitched no-hit ball the remainder of the way.

Eric Tipton, rookie outfielder, batted for Derringer and came through with his first homer as a Red.

One Captained Illini Golf Squad, Other Won Western in '30

64 Amateurs Qualify On 36-Hole Course At Tam O'Shanter

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Lehman, Chicago insurance salesman, split medalist honors yesterday with youthful Johnny Holmstrom of Rockford, Ill., at the completion of Tam O'Shanter's 36-hole qualifying trials in the all-america amateur tournament.

Lehman, who at 35 had been living on memories of his hey day in golf when he won the western amateur in 1930 and then became a Sunday player, tripped home in par figures of 36-36-72 for a 143 total. His subpar 71 Monday had projected him into the early leadership.

Stroke Above Record

Holmstrom, a 21-year-old graduate of Illinois and captain of the school's golf team, forged his 143 with a spectacular 66, one stroke above the course record set last year by pro Leonard Dodson of Kansas City. The husky, bespectacled college star who hopes to enter law school trailed the field Monday with a 77.

The Illinois youth's booming drives and deadly putts brought him a 32, four under par, on the outgoing nine and a 34 coming back. He required a total of 27 putts and was on his game so well that he banged a 275-yard tee shot to within four feet of the cup on no. 5 for an eagle 2.

64 Qualify

Sixty-four amateurs, aiming at $1,800 in war bond prizes, qualified to march through 36-holes of match play today. A card of 197 was good enough to get under the wire. That score was hit on the nose. No playoffs were necessary and the better known players made the grade.

The 48 amateurs eliminated today will compete in open competition the rest of the week. The remaining amateurs will compete in both the amateur and open tournaments.

Following co-medalist Holmstrom and Lehman yesterday was Frank Stranahan of Toledo, this year's Ohio amateur champion, with 145. At 146 were Bob Cochran, the St. Louis city champion, Omaha's Johnny Goodman, former national open and national amateur king, and Corporal Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash., the present national amateur titlist.

Appling's Hit in 10th Beats Boston, 5 to 4

CHICAGO (AP)—Luke Appling's single in the tenth inning with Myril Hoag on second gave the White Sox a 5 to 4 victory last night over the Red Sox before a crowd of 14,071. The White Sox tied the score in the ninth when Taft Wright doubled and Dario Lodigiani singled.

Johnny Humphries turned in his sixth victory, although the Red Sox made 12 hits off him. Humphries' chief tormentor was Bobby Doerr, who singled twice, doubled once and hit his twelfth homer of the season.

Judnick, Cliff Homer To Give Browns Win

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two home runs in the first two innings enabled the Browns to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 3, last night. Walt Judnick hit one with two mates on base in the first and Harland Clift followed suit in the second with no one on base.

GIANTS HUMBLE PIRATES

Murphy Helps 'Lefty' Gomez As Yanks Down Tribe, 8 to 3

CLEVELAND (AP)—The New York Yankees jumped on Cleveland's Al Smith for four runs in the first three innings last night, then coasted to an 8 to 3 victory as Lefty Gomez and Fireman Johnny Murphy limited the Indians to five hits, including Kenney Keltner's sixth homer of the year.

Running in high gear, the Yankee steamroller ground out its 10th consecutive victory, and Joe DiMaggio got out a ninth inning single to mark the 18th straight game in which he has hit safely. The blow was delivered under dramatic circumstances, for it was necessary that six of his teammates go to bat before he could get the chance to swing again. They cuffed Tom Ferrick for three hits, bringing DiMag to bat with two out.

This time he swung at Ferrick's first pitch and lined it to right. It was in a night game at the stadium July 17, 1941, that Smith and Jim Bagby ended Joltin' Joe's record-breaking streak of 56 games in which he had hit safely.

Tigers Beat Bobo, Washington, 6 to 4

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers defeated the Washington Senators yesterday for the first time in five starts by belting their old teammate, Bobo Newsom, for eight hits that produced a 6-4 victory. Rookie Hal White pitched a five-hitter over five errors to gain his seventh victory.

Three triples, two by Ned Harris, led to the downfall of Newsom, who was charged with his 14th defeat against seven victories. Harris sent two runs across in the first inning and scored a third himself, and then tripled for another run in the second.

The victory boosted Detroit back to the .500 mark.

Hawkeye Candidates For All-Star Football Game Gain Steadily

With another flood of votes from eastern Iowa, Iowa's candidates for the all-star football game with the champion Chicago Bears August 28 at Soldiers' field, Chicago, continued to gain steadily yesterday in the nation-wide voting.

Bill Green and Big Jim Walker led the six Hawkeye candidates as yesterday's returns were tabulated.

Green received 11,970 votes and Walker was credited with 10,642. The star fullback remained fourth with 57,114 votes in the national voting behind Bobby Sweiger of Minnesota, Jack Graf of Ohio State and the leader Bob Westfall of Michigan.

Walker Ninth

The 10,000 votes for Walker, pushed him up a notch to ninth place in the tackle race. Walker's total is now 46,144.

In yesterday's voting Al Coupee received 9,319 votes, Bill Diehl 9,958 and George (Red) Frye garnered 8,688 votes.

Coupee made the biggest advance in the national voting, moving from sixth to fourth place for the quarterback spot. Coupee's grand total is now 64,918 votes.

Still leading the quarterback race are Erditz and Kruger of Northwestern, with well over 100,000 votes. In third place is Frankie Albert of Stanford with 76,000.

Captain Diehl clung to firmly to his third place spot among the center candidates.

Diehl's national vote is now 49,836, some 20,000 behind Vince Banonis of Detroit. Harold Jenkins of Missouri still holds a commanding lead over the field with nearly 80,000 votes.

Frye, Iowa's second center candidate, still holds firmly to ninth place, with 17,644 total votes.

A newcomer to the balloting is end Johnny Maher who has received 2,358 votes to give him 15th position among the end candidates. Ballots have been distributed to local stores in an effort to place Iowa men in the starting lineup against the Bears, or at least on the squad. These group ballots, along with the ballot printed below, give local fans a chance to put the Hawkeyes on the all-star squad.

Braves Sneak Past Cubs in 17th Frame On Cooney's Single

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Braves, after filling the bases by expert bunting, gained a 17-inning victory over the Chicago Cubs yesterday, 4-3, when Johnny Cooney singled to right-center against righthander Hiram Bithorn with none out.

While capturing the longest game played in the majors this season, the Braves came from behind and pulled into a 3-3 deadlock in the eighth with a two-run rally. Then the marathon battle settled down to a stirring pitching duel between Bithorn and Johnny Sain, who held the Cubs to two hits over the last seven and two-thirds frames.

Both teams used 17 players and each collected 12 hits, the Braves against five rival pitchers and the Cubs against three.

2 Steel Firms Plan to Meet Union Officials

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philip Murray announced last night the Bethlehem and Inland steel companies have agreed to meet representatives of the C. I. O. United Steel Workers of America next week to resume negotiations for a contract—a move the C. I. O. president said he interpreted as meaning the concerns were accepting the war labor board's decision last week in the "Little Steel" case.

Meet Starts Monday
The conference with Inland is to start Monday in Indiana Harbor, Ind., and with Bethlehem on Wednesday in New York. Dates are expected to be arranged later for meetings with Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Republic. The negotiations were broken off last February when the parties became deadlocked over three issues decided by the labor board.

Murray's announcement came shortly after a policy committee of the union instructed its officers to demand new contracts from the U. S. Steel corporation and other large companies, Jones and Laughlin, Pittsburgh Steel, Sharon Steel, Wheeling Steel, Allegheny-Ludlum, Great Lakes Steel, Hanna Furnace and Crucible Steel.

5 1/2 Cent Increase
The demands include the 5 1/2 cents an hour wage increase, retroactive to February 6, maintenance of union contract clause and a check-off of union dues, all awarded by WLB in the "Little Steel."

The retroactive clause of the wage demand would call for payment of more than $55 to each of industry's 650,000 workers in back pay, a sum exceeding $35,000,000.

air force leaders.
There was intense speculation about the probability of an early, limited offensive to help the Russians—perhaps an assault on Nazi air and U-boat bases in northern Norway which would make the Arctic supply route to Murmansk and Archangel more secure.

Allied shipping is so limited at present that an immediate attempt to open and maintain a major second front, which would require at least half a million men, would all but stop the seaborne flow of armaments to the Russians.
Once the sealanes to Russia are safe, however, allied ships saved from the German planes and submarines which are now operating from Norway and Finland could be applied to the job of all-out invasion.

Direct Air Route
The Aleutian and Siberian situations are closely connected: The lands are squarely on the route which U. S. aircraft would follow to reach East Russia.
The newest submarine victories brought to 18 the number of Japanese warships officially declared sunk or damaged since the invaders landed in the Aleutians in early June, successively occupying three islands.

The latest echo of Japan's military preparations on the fringes of Siberia came from London, where the subject was raised in connection with the Anglo-American staff conferences.

One British spokesman echoed earlier American convictions that Japan is so well prepared for the Siberian campaign that she need only "press the button" to start a large-scale invasion in motion.

Egyptian Success
There was, however, good news from Egypt—destruction of more than 50 axis planes caught on desert landing fields by allied fliers, and the most devastating attack yet by British naval forces on the enemy's most advanced supply port, Matruh.

On the ground there was no major change in the position of the opposing armies 80 miles west of Alexandria.
In a sustained under-sea attack started on the Fourth of July, U. S. submarines were disclosed last night to have sunk eight Japanese destroyers in the fog-hidden waters of the western Aleutians, where Jap invasion forces stand on North American soil.

A navy communique, disclosing that three more enemy destroyers had been sent to the bottom by American submarines in the vicinity of Kiska island, coincided on the Pacific war scene with renewed speculation over early Japanese invasion of Siberia.

incumbents. The third incumbent is Justice Carl B. Stiger of Toledo, who announced recently that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

A native of Ft. Dodge, Justice Mitchell has been a member of the supreme court since 1932, serving as chief justice in 1934 and 1939. He was graduated from high school at Ft. Dodge and from the University of Iowa.

Justice Sager was born and reared in Bremer county. After his graduation from the University of Iowa, he practiced law in Waverly and Waterloo until elected to the high court in 1936.

Principal resolutions adopted by the judicial convention included one reaffirming the one-sentence democratic state platform which pledges allegiance to President Roosevelt, both in the war effort and domestic policies, and another paying tribute to retiring Justice Stiger.

Recruiting Here

Army, navy, marine corps and coast guard recruiting parties will visit the campus regularly to enlist students in the different service branches, the president declared.

The plan at the university where army R. O. T. C. is required by designed to meet the needs of the army, he asserted. The plan varies in schools where naval R. O. T. C. is a requirement, and in schools where neither army nor navy R. O. T. C. is required.

The president announced that the plan will be administered by Col. Homer H. Slaughter, head of the university military department.

Johnson County Ration Board To Issue Sugar for Canning Fruit

One pound of sugar for every four quarts of fruit to be canned will be issued to Johnson county consumers by the rationing board beginning Monday and continuing as long as there is sufficient demand.

The Johnson county board, located in the courthouse, stated yesterday that no sugar will be provided for home canning of vegetables. If the consumer has not obtained the one pound per person preserving sugar, he may do so at this time.

Consumers are reminded that it will not be necessary for them to rush to local stations for their canning sugar as they will be able to acquire it whenever needed after Monday.

In addition to the Iowa City board, local boards will be established at Center, Coralville, Cosgrove, Frytown, Hills, Lone Tree, North Liberty, Oxford, Solon, Swisher, Tiffin and Windham.

Consumers are requested to apply at the board nearest their home because the Iowa City board will be over-burdened. Persons who do not yet have war rationing stamp books should apply for them at the Iowa City board before Tuesday.

Books will not be issued at the out-county rationing offices. Any member of the family 18 years or over or a representative of the family may make application.

Instructions for obtaining canning sugar are as follows:

(1) The person registering for the family unit must have the war ration stamp books of the individuals of the family unit.

(2) If they have excess sugar at the time of registration and do not have their stamp books, they must fill out application form R-315 which permits them to use the amount that they need for fall canning out of the sugar that they have on hand. If the amount that they need is more than the amount they have on hand, the balance will be issued by a sugar purchasing certificate. This will make such applicants eligible for their stamp books immediately and they may apply for them at the local rationing board.

(3) People who have failed to register with their local rationing board previous to this time are not eligible for any sugar and must register at the local board immediately.

(4) After the sugar purchasing certificate is made out for the correct amount, the duplicate should be signed by the consumer and thus transformed on the triplicate (this signature should be written under the line "to be retained by the local rationing board"). The original and triplicate copies should be given to the consumer and the duplicate should be retained by the registrar of the local board.

(5) The date and amount of sugar allowed for canning should be written on the war rationing stamp book below the serial number in ink.

Local Doctor Speaks To Surgeons on New Method to Check Pain

A new method of checking chronic pain by surgery was recently explained by Dr. Olan R. Hyndman of University hospital at a meeting of the International College of Surgeons in Denver, Col.

Reporting that he had performed the operation successfully in a number of cases, Dr. Hyndman said it had given remarkable relief to the patients.

The operation, he said, is particularly effective in the relief of pain accompanying cancer of the pelvic region, post-herpetic neuralgia and traumatic neuralgia (pain along the course of the intercostal nerves about the chest).

As explained by Dr. Hyndman, the operation consists of sectioning of the Lissauer tract, a small bundle of nerve fibers in the spinal cord which carry the sensation of pain.

Sectioning of the Lissauer tract eliminates pain in a band about five inches wide over the chest or abdomen and completely around one side of the body, as desired, depending upon where the fibers are cut. The skin affected by the operation is not left dead to sensation, he said, but is merely insensitive to pain after the operation. Dr. Hyndman said.

Men, Women Needed To Fill Board Jobs, L. Sweeney Announces

Men and women are needed to fill board jobs from the present time until Sept. 3. Leo Sweeney, manager of the division of student employment has announced.

Students or non-students interested in such work should report to the employment offices in the basement of Old Capitol immediately.

Most jobs available are within university units and will require work at meal hours.

8,000 Home Nurses Set as County Goal

Instruction to Begin First of September; 12 Lessons Planned

Eight thousand persons above 16 years of age to be trained in home nursing is the goal of Johnson county for 1942. The training will be given by nurses of the city hospitals and will be managed by the local Red Cross organization.

Classes will be started in Johnson county the first week in September. The course includes 12 lessons.

The national goal for 1942 is 15,000 nurses to train 500,000 persons above 16 in the work.

If one person is every ten has this type of training, community health can be raised to a higher level. Good health for the nation is important in the defense of the country.

A reserve of homemakers trained in home hygiene and care of the sick will release doctors and professional nurses for service with the armed forces.

Home nursing courses differ from the first aid classes normally offered by the Red Cross. First aid teaches what to do until the doctor comes; home nursing teaches what to do after the doctor has gone and what to do to keep him from coming.

Anyone interested in information or in registering may call the Red Cross office, 6933, Mrs. E. D. Plass, 3362, of Mrs. H. S. Ivie, 6194. The Red Cross office is in room 312 of the Iowa State Bank building.

String Quartet to Play Over WSUI Tonight In Special Program

The university string quartet, with Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp as pianist, will be heard tonight at 8 o'clock in a specially planned program over station WSUI, studio E, playing Shostakovich's "Quintet for Piano and Strings, Opus 57" in five movements.

Completing the program will be "Opus 19" by Arnold Schonberg, played by Professor Clapp, head of the music department. The broadcast of the quintet is being repeated because of many requests from those who heard it played on the program of the string quartet July 1, the opening of the fine arts festival.

Shostakovich's quintet was awarded the Soviet prize of 100,000 rubles ($30,000) as announced in "Time" magazine, and has had world wide attention focused upon it. Until the completion of the quintet, Shostakovich was known mostly as a symphonist.

Quartet members are Prof. Arnold Small, violin; Gibson Walters, violin; Otto Jelinek, viola; Prof. Hans Koebel, cello, and Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, piano.

Quadrangle Director Submits Resignation

Mrs. Maud Hollis Tindall, director of the Quadrangle for the past five years, has resigned her position, effective Aug. 1, it has been announced.

She will be succeeded by Charles A. Bowman, with George Neilson as assistant. In charge of the cadets' laundry service will be A. C. Meyer.

Mrs. Tindall has accepted a position as branch manager of a large Chicago organization, she said. Before beginning the new work, however, she plans to spend a month with her son and daughter-in-law, First Lieut. and Mrs. Duane Tindall at Long Branch, N. J.

Two Iowa Men Given High Naval Decorations

Two Iowans have been honored by the navy for heroism since the United States entered the present war. They are Ensign Edward R. Sellstrom of Rockwell City, naval reserve (deceased), navy cross; and Lieut. Ina William Brown of Ottumwa, naval reserve, distinguished flying cross.

A compilation by the navy for the nation as a whole showed 231 men in the fighting service of the sea have been decorated for acts beyond the call of duty.
