Hull Tells Post-War Plan

Russians Fall Back on Critical Rostov Front

Fighting Rages 20 Miles North Of Vital Caucasus Gateway City

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Friday (AP)—With large forces of axis tanks and mechanized infantry beating at the defenses of Rostov, the Russians reported today that their hard-pressed armies had fallen back on one sector of that critical front after repulsing seven attacks throughout yesterday.

Meanwhile, the Russians said, their forces defending the road to Stalingrad, on the Volga, repulsed strong enemy onslaughts yesterday, while in the Voronezh area at the northern end of the blazing front the Russian successes continued.

The Novocheboksak area of the Rostov battle, some 20 miles northeast of the city proper, saw perhaps the most intensive fighting of the day, Russian reports indicated.

"In the Novocheboksak area our troops fought defense battles against large forces of enemy tanks and mechanized infantry," the midnight communique said.

"One of our units during the day repulsed seven enemy attacks and killed over 1,000 German officers and men. When our troops were threatened with encirclement they retreated to new positions."

"This was the second straight day that the Russians had acknowledged a crack in the defenses around Novocheboksak. Just how far the red forces retreated was not indicated."

Near Stalingrad

Heavy pressure on the forces standing guard over Stalingrad continued.

"In the Tsimlyansk area fierce fighting is continuing," the communique said. "Our units are repulsing fierce enemy attacks."

The Russians declared the Germans were throwing in reserves in the fighting around Voronezh "and are trying with all their might to regain this lost position."

The Russians in the Voronezh area are hitting the Germans fiercely in an effort to relieve the pressure on the armies to the south.

The most intense fighting was on the lofty north bank of the Don at Novocheboksak, 20 miles northeast of Rostov, but other German columns were converging on the delta port from Voroshilovgrad and from Taganrog, 40 miles west on the sea of Azov.

A similar three-headed thrust increased by the hour the peril of Stalingrad, the great Volga city of tanks, munitions and refineries.

One German spearhead was about 100 miles west of Stalingrad along the railway leading to Likhaya. A second was in the southern valley of the Don near Tsimlyansk, which is about midway between Rostov and Stalingrad. Yet a third vanguard was striking along the Don valley southeast of Boguchar.

At the northern extremity of the 300-mile Don front the Russians made further bloody gains around Voronezh, killing about 3,000 Germans. Front dispatches said the narrow terrain was so littered with German and Rumanian dead that the Russians walked over corpses as they pressed forward.

The stoutness of the Russian position at Voronezh constituted a potential threat to the German flank and might be a birthplace of a Russian counter-attack against the extended 1,000,000 man invasion force overrunning the rich farm and industrial basin of the Don.

Thunderous artillery duels were fought on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow and before besieged Leningrad but the rest of the 2,000-mile front was relatively quiescent compared to the bitter fury of the conflict along the Don.

(The German communique said Nazi and Slovak troops had reached the outskirts of Rostov and penetrated fortified bridgehead positions.)

Russia's military position was declared to be the most critical in the 13 months' war and the gravest since the Mongols were driven from south Russia in the 13th century.

While the great battle raged for Rostov, other Russian troops under Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's command fought grimly at Tsimlyansk to thwart a German ambition to cross the widening Don and cut the railway, 35 miles to the south, which is the last remaining rail connection from Stalingrad to the Caucasus.

All War Production Of Civilian Goods To Be Concentrated

Nelson Reveals Plan To Become Effective For Duration of War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Virtual all production of essential civilian goods will be concentrated in a comparatively few conveniently located plants for the duration of the war, production chief Donald M. Nelson announced yesterday.

Nelson said the war program had reached a point where the curtailment and limitation orders issued up to now to trim down manufacture of civilian goods did not go far enough toward mobilizing the resources and facilities needed for arms manufacture.

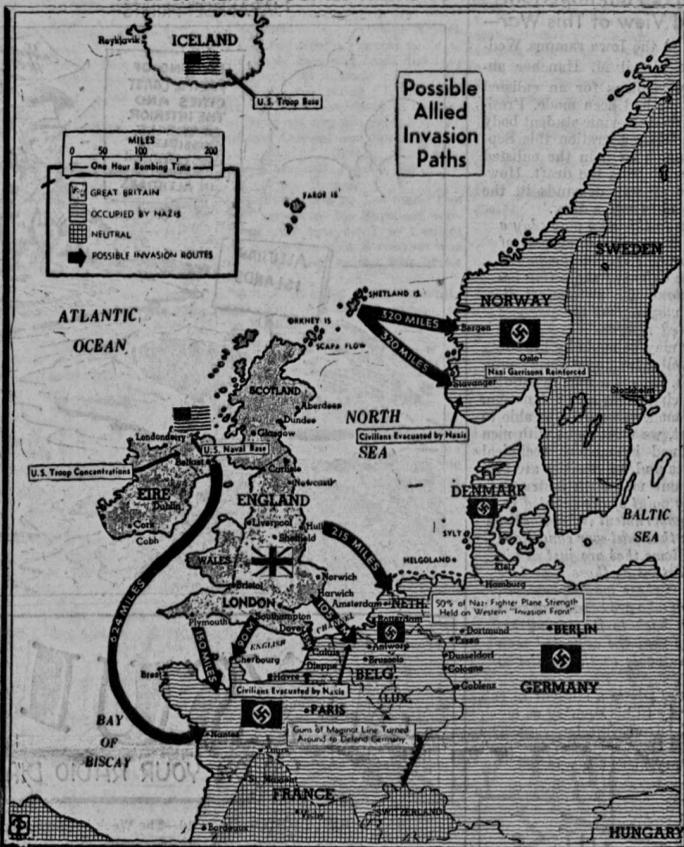

The war production board, he disclosed, therefore had approved broad policies designed to go far beyond mere curtailment and enable WPB to designate, arbitrarily, certain plants which will carry on the civilian business of entire industries.

The system is comparable to that which has been in operation for some time in Great Britain and Germany. Wherever possible—and WPB indicated "a very large part" of civilian industry would be affected—the output of an industry will be restricted to a few of the industry's plants if:

1. Some or all firms in the industry are needed for war production and can be converted to such production.
2. Permitted civilian production is so restricted that economic operation of all firms in the industry is not possible; or
3. A significant part of the production is continuing in areas where there are bottlenecks in labor, transport, power or warehouse facilities.

3 Enemy Supply Ships Sunk
CAIRO (AP)—Three enemy supply ships were sunk recently by two submarines operating in the eastern Mediterranean, the British announced yesterday.

WAR OF NERVES COMES HOME TO ROOST—HERE'S WHY

The Nazis perfected the war of nerves and applied the technique as a prelude to every attack, but now they themselves are learning what it is like. The United Nations have been talking about the opening of a second front in Europe to relieve the pressure on the Russian armies and to bring the war to a swifter end. By his actions, Hitler apparently is wondering anxiously just where that second front may be opened. All along the coasts of Nazi-occupied Europe, from Norway to France, German troops have been placed to meet invasion. Forts and pillboxes have been erected. Bases for fighter planes have been cleared. Farther inland, the guns of the Maginot line are reported to have been reworked to protect Germany itself from attack. The map above shows possible invasion routes that may be used by the British, Canadian and American troops in the British Isles who will launch the invasion when it comes. A list, preparations that Germany has been reported to have made to meet the thrust are indicated.

Declares Allied Countries Must Watch Over Aggressor Nations

Secretary Warns Remaining Neutrals of Their 'Absurd and Suicidal' Professions Of Present Neutrality

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Hull, looking forward to a postwar world, said last night that while a permanent mechanism for peace was being built "the United Nations must exercise surveillance over aggressor nations."

The secretary's blueprint for peace was given in an address broadcast throughout the United States and, by shortwave radio, to the world. It followed by only a few hours a similar discussion from London by Hull's counterpart in England, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Hull included among the measures he said would be needed for a better world an international agency to keep peace "by force, if necessary," and "adjustment of national armaments."

At the same time he warned remaining neutrals that their professions of neutrality were "absurd and suicidal" in the face of the world-wide conflict and called upon "all peoples who prize liberty" to fight for it as their duty.

Hull's outline of post-war projects was one of the most specific yet made by a responsible official of the United Nations and amplified the policies previously advanced by Vice President Wallace and Undersecretary Sumner Welles, among others.

It was delivered in an address prepared for broadcast over all national networks and for short-wave to the world. The speech had been eagerly awaited since President Roosevelt heralded it at his Tuesday press conference.

In appealing to neutral nations to apply "the law of self-defense and self-preservation rather than professions of neutrality," Hull asserted that this was no ordinary war but an attempt by depraved and cruel leaders "to conquer and enslave this country and every country."

In such a conflict, Hull emphasized, professions of neutrality "are as absurd and as suicidal as are such professions on the part of a citizen of a peaceful community attacked by a band of confessed outlaws."

For the would-be conquerors against whom 28 United Nations are fighting are determined to "convert two billions of the earth's inhabitants into abject victims and tools of their insatiable lust for power and dominion," he said.

"There is no surer way for men and for nations to show themselves unworthy of liberty," Hull solemnly warned, "than by supine submission and refusal to fight, to render more difficult the task of those who are fighting for the preservation of human freedom—unless it be to align themselves freely and voluntarily with the destroyers of liberty."

Hull did not single out any particular neutral statesman or nation but emphasized that "there is no chance for liberty for any people anywhere save through the victory of the free peoples. Never did a plainer duty to fight against its foes devolve upon all peoples who prize liberty and all who aspire to it."

The secretary of state said the present world conflict actually began in 1931 when Japan invaded China.

In the years that followed, the United States "made every honorable and feasible effort to prevent spread of the conflicts and to safeguard this country against being drawn into war."

"But danger increased all around us," he went on. "Peaceful, unoffending countries, one after another, were brought under the heel of the invader, both in Europe and in Asia. Hitler and the Japanese war lords, by their acts and their official declarations, have made it plain that the purpose of the Japanese is to conquer and dominate virtually one-half of the world with one-half its population, while Hitler's purpose is, first, to conquer continental Europe, and then seize the British Isles, and through control of the British fleet to dominate the seven seas."

"The war, he said, will not be won on the defensive."

"We cannot win this war by standing at our borders and limiting ourselves to beating off attacks. Air, submarine and other forms of assault can be effectively defeated only if those attacked seek out and destroy the sources of attack. We shall send all the aid we can to our gallant allies. And we shall seek out our enemies and attack them at any and every point of the globe at which the destruction of the axis forces can be accomplished most effectively, most speedily and most certainly."

Further, it is officially disclosed that another United States convoy, one of the largest ever to cross the Atlantic, had brought many more U. S. soldiers and airmen to augment the allied divisions now in the British Isles.

American Soldiers
The thousands of newly-arrived soldiers included American pilots, ground crews, Negro troops and other forces, a large corps of nurses and quantities of equipment.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Lord Privy Seal and Commons spokesman for Prime Minister Churchill, gave the members of Commons to understand the government would not tip its hand in reply to a frequent government heckler, Laborite Aneurin Bevan.

British Cooperation
Skipping all mention of the second front issue, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told an audience of factory workers, soldiers, sailors and airmen at Nottingham that Britain is ready to meet and work with the United States in shaping the post-war world.

RAF Cadet Training At U. S. Fields Moved To British Dominions
WASHINGTON (AP)—The growing air might of Britain and America was reflected last night in an announcement that the royal air force cadet training program at U. S. air fields was being shifted to bases in the British dominions to make way for the rapidly increasing numbers of American aviation cadets.

An RAF announcement, issued simultaneously in London and through the war department here, said the change was agreed upon because Britain has developed her training capacity in the dominions and because the rapid strides in American training.

The British training program began June 7 last year, and called for 1,000 British cadets to be trained in the first year as navigators, and 7,000 as pilots.

Court Indicts 28 Conspiring Against Army

Accusation Climaxes 9-Month Investigation Calling 150 Witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP)—A widespread conspiracy to promote revolt in the army and navy was charged yesterday in an indictment against 28 persons which was opened in federal district court here.

The accusation, carrying penalties up to 20 years in prison and $10,000 fine, climaxed nine months' investigation by a federal grand jury which reached into all parts of the country in hearing nearly 7,000 pages of testimony by 150 witnesses.

The defendants probably will be arraigned in Washington next Thursday, a justice department official said, with the trials probably starting in late September or early October.

The indictment was returned secretly on Tuesday and handed up to Judge James W. Morris in the district court for the District of Columbia. Its existence became known yesterday when some of the accused were arrested, but details of the charges were not disclosed.

It charged in the first count that the defendants and others—intending to impair the loyalty, morale and discipline of the armed forces—conspired to commit acts which would:

1. Advise, counsel, urge and cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny and refusal of duty by members of the military and naval forces of the United States; and
2. Distribute and cause to be distributed written and printed matter, advising, counseling, urging insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny and refusal of duty by members of the military and naval forces of the United States.

Morgenthau Requests Two Additional Billion On New Tax Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau asked the senate finance committee yesterday to tack up the house-approved $6,271,000,000 tax bill by another $2,500,000,000—and was immediately subjected to a blast of republican criticism that the treasury's war borrowing program would "destroy any hope of controlling inflation."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) made this charge after the treasury chief had outlined proposed increases in individual, corporation and other taxes and had asked for the closing of such "loop holes" which permits some state and municipal bonds to go untaxed by the federal government.

Questioning Morgenthau and Undersecretary Daniel W. Bell, Taft said he was convinced the treasury would have to sell more than $30,000,000,000 in bonds to commercial banks in order to financing the war.

Wickard Announces Plan to Relieve Meat Shortage by Increasing Pork Processing

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A plan designed to relieve the widespread shortage of meat was announced yesterday by Agriculture Secretary Wickard.

The program was aimed at increasing the processing of pork by small packing plants which curtailed operations when pinched between the rising uncontrolled prices of the animals they buy and the fixed ceiling prices of the meat they sell at retail butchers.

To Lower Prices
The department decided to lower the price it pays for lease-lend meat approximately $1 a hundred pounds in the midwest next week and about 75 cents in the east in belief such action would drop live hog prices and thus give processors a wider margin between their buying and selling prices.

The mid-west buying prices will apply at all packing centers in Illinois and Indiana; Milwaukee and Madison, Wisconsin and cities in other states which are on the boundaries of Illinois and Indiana.

Rumors of Parachutists Are 'Proven Negative'

Enemy Suffers Heavy Losses In Bombings

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Friday (AP)—Allied dive-bombers attacked a new Japanese base on the northern coast of New Guinea Thursday and left a 5,000-ton transport loaded with oil burning in a renewal of offensive action which has cost the Japanese three transports in the last three days, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

The most recent attack against the Japanese toehold in Papua was announced in the official communique. Details of three days of fighting off Japanese incursions into the Gona mission, Buna and Ambasi areas came from a military spokesman.

For the first time in the Papuan sector, allied fliers used dive-bombers to make five attacks on land installations. Thursday Buildings and barges were bombed and machinegunned at Gona Mission, a small village 15 miles from Buna. All the bombs fell in the target area, a communique said.

The transport reported set on fire in today's communique was the third to be hit in as many days, the spokesman disclosed.

The first action against the convoy which carried between 1,500 and 2,500 Japanese troops from Salamaua to Gona Mission was on Tuesday, when a transport crowded with soldiers was hit, he said.

The next day, another transport, believed at first to be the same one but later identified as a second, was sunk.

Tanks, Infantry Unit Pound Egyptian Front

Reinforced English Troops Seek Decisive Battle at El Alamein

CAIRO (AP)—Tanks and infantry of the army of the Nile slugged continuously yesterday on all sectors of the desert front, seeking to force a decisive battle with axis armies dug into 40 miles of sand before El Alamein.

Going into the third night of British attack, the fighting was heavy but yet indecisive. Preliminary assessment of British gains showed tank-infantry advances and consolidation in the central sector, at the western end of Ruweisat ridge and about Deir El Shein, and some progress by imperial infantry in both the northern and southern sectors.

Obviously the British had many new tanks and guns.

The enemy forces encountered at most points were predominantly German, indicating diminished Italian participation in the main battle cauldron about 80 miles west of Alexandria.

Allied light bombers and fighter-bombers were late in starting their operations Wednesday because of dust storms churned up by the bombing of enemy positions in the light of flares and the half-moon the night before.

The dust subsided about three hours after dawn, however, and the bombers attacked relentlessly throughout the rest of the day.

Among their targets were tanks, presumably disabled, which the Germans had embedded in the sand and were using as pillboxes. The RAF lost 11 planes.

The British training program began June 7 last year, and called for 1,000 British cadets to be trained in the first year as navigators, and 7,000 as pilots.

What Should We Believe About The Synthetic Rubber Situation—

One of the big problems in the American mind today is just what is the right answer to the rubber question. Hardly a day passes that at least one article is not in the newspapers commenting on the seriousness of the rubber shortage, that synthetic rubber is on its way or some other unofficial statement. It is these unofficial reports that confuse us and make it difficult for the American reader to know what to believe.

For example, let's take a look at a few stories which were released the same day this week and all of which refer to the rubber shortage. One item stated that Senator Norris forecasts a tremendous expansion of the synthetic rubber program and that the manufacture of rubber from grain alcohol has been a huge success. At the same time, Senator Gillette gave the government agencies a severe tongue-lashing for failing their duties of synthetic production by doing nothing.

A completely new and different approach was then made by American rubber firms. These firms said our worries are over for they have a plan which would provide everyone with tires for at least the next two years. It stands to reason that a person reading these stories could not believe them all so what should he do? The best advice to the average reader is not to believe any reports on the rubber question unless they are from official governmental agencies. However, even these agencies make occasional mis-statements so take your time in making up your mind.

U. S. Housewives Are Presented A Plan for Helping the Nation—

The campaign for salvage of kitchen fats offers an opportunity for housewives to enlist in the national war effort and to enlist for the duration. By saving meat drippings they can convert another everyday activity, cooking, into a continuing aid to the national war effort.

There are sound satisfactions for all concerned. The more belligerent may vision that the grease sputtering in the old frying pan may some day explode in the face of a Nazi, for the cause of freedom, while those less warlike may soothe themselves with the thought that the grease they contribute may be converted into soap.

Just how great a quantity of fats can be collected is, of course, a matter for speculation. Though Americans are often said to be careless with food, it is doubtful that kitchen fats are an example. By necessity in some cases and personal taste in others, they are more frequently put to a good use.

Salvage officials are reported to estimate that 2 million pounds are wasted each year and that 500,000 pounds or 25 per cent may be gathered in by the collection campaign. They have taken a fairly safe position.

But, regardless of how the actual record runs as the campaign progresses, the immediate duty is clear. Each housewife should undertake to save all kitchen fats, strain them preferably in cans and, when a pound or more is collected, take it for disposal to the neighborhood butcher.

Iowa City Can Learn a Lesson From a New England Village—

Iowa City may well take a lesson from a small New England town (population less than 4,000) when it comes to civilian defense organization. Recently a policeman on dimout duty in that village (a grocer by day) saw a flash at sea. He immediately telephoned the coast guard and a plane was sent to investigate. Early the next morning a coast guard officer phoned the local chairman of the committee on public safety, telling him to prepare for survivors of a sea disaster. Less than an hour later schoolteachers, housewives, shopkeepers, nurses, fishermen, artists, wearing the arm bands of auxiliary police, canteen workers, air raid wardens, first aiders, were rapidly assembling at the report center. A half hour later arrangements were completed by the chief air raid warden to borrow a local hotel to care for the survivors. Canteen workers took over the kitchen and started preparations for food supplies.

When the first rescue boat landed 14 drenched, shivering and badly shaken men everything was in readiness. Blankets appropriated from surrounding houses covered the men. Commanded cars served as ambulances to carry them to the hotel, where they were quickly put to bed and served hot soup prepared an hour before. Thirty-five home nurses, aiding a group of registered nurses, and four male air raid wardens drafted as orderlies had the men comfortable in rapid-fire time. Before the day was over the canteen corps had served 500 meals, 1,000 cups of coffee and 250 sandwiches. Next day after the men had been removed by a state bus, workers returned to the hotel and gave it back to its owner in the same condition in which it was borrowed. The regional director summed it up thusly: "I can add no word to this. God bless the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

Iowa City naturally cannot expect the same type of emergency to arise. An emergency may never come up, and we hope that one won't, but if something should arise, Iowa City must be prepared. The local organization was slow in getting started, and still must have more volunteers before the setup can be organized to the point where it should be. Iowa City has been designated as one of the ten target areas in the state by the army, and as such, must be completely and fully equipped and ready to tackle any situation that it may be called upon to cope with. Let's show the state that Iowa City will be ready when called upon. Let's model our home defense after that great little New England village.

Enlisted Reserve Plan Important In Far-Sighted View of This War—

Good news came to the Iowa campus Wednesday when Pres. Virgil M. Hancher announced that definite plans for an enlisted reserve corps at Iowa had been made. President Hancher informed the male student body that starting with fall registration this September, a young man may join the enlisted reserve and be exempt from the draft. However, if the course of war demands it, the student may be called to active duty.

Public reaction to this step may play a prominent part in the future success of the program. For this reason the public should realize the object of the action before taking a stand for or against it. Hasty decisions may defeat the purpose behind the enlisted reserve.

A common error may be made by branding the program as a shelter for unpatriotic young men from the draft. This is a narrow-minded point of view and challenges an explanation. We are fighting a modern war. To be able to survive this conflict, we must fight with men who are well trained in modern technical warfare and colleges and universities are best equipped to offer our men such instruction.

Another strong point of the enlisted reserve is that our government is far-sighted enough to realize that post-war conditions will present problems that are just as big and just as important as those that face us today. To solve these many problems, we must have men who are capable of putting the country back to its normal capacity. It is here that the educated man will be just as valuable as the soldier is now.

The time has come where a student in college is doing his duty by his country as much as the fellow in the front line trenches. The enlisted reserve has come none too soon and will help spell victory after the war.

Columbia University, No One Else, Controls the Rockefeller Plaza

NEW YORK—Here's a note on one of the shortest and richest streets in New York. It cuts through leased ground. It is fronted by banks, publishers, cash register companies, and representatives of foreign governments. The name of this street is Rockefeller Plaza. Its numbers run from 9 to 50. It begins at 49th street and ends at 51st street, and it lies between fifth and Sixth avenue.

The Associated Press building is on Rockefeller Plaza. So is the RCA bldg. So is the Time & Life Bldg. And the International Bldg. Also Eastern Airlines.

From high on the tenth floor of no. 10 Rockefeller Plaza emanate the theatrical enterprises of Noel Coward, whose partner and representative, John C. Wilson, ex-Yaler, has his offices there. Into the Plaza each day comes Lowell Thomas, whose offices are at 50 Rockefeller Plaza. In the space of a few weeks I have seen the former Wallis Warfield, a former democratic presidential nominee (Al Smith), a republican ex-president (Hoover), and a hundred Hollywood picture names, half a dozen ranking generals, and the representatives of the united nations walking in the Plaza. It's quite a street. It has an unmistakable air of respectability. It's well-bred. No murder has ever been committed there.

But, the city of New York no more owns Rockefeller Plaza than it does. It belongs to Columbia university. It isn't a city-built thoroughfare. The Rockefeller built it, and the trustees of the university permit its use by pedestrians through sufferance only.

But one day each year the trustees of Columbia university take time out to remind the people of New York that they, and no one else, control the Plaza. White ropes block off traffic. The doors of all buildings on the street are bolted. Guards patrol the precinct, and in the center of each opening is a large sign that states: "This street is closed to public use on behalf and in the name of the trustees of Columbia university in the City of New York."

Nazis Using New Crash-Diving Submarine

Craft Will Operate 600 Feet Undersea

WASHINGTON—The continued unsatisfactory news from the Atlantic shipping front can be traced, in large part, to the secret Nazi development of a new type submarine.

This one crash-dives at an unprecedented speed to an unbelievable depth. Various stories suggest it can drop to a 300-foot level as fast as a rock.

Apparently it can stand a depth of 600 feet, where pressure is greater than submarines have been able to venture before. These great depths diminish the chance of reaching it ordinary depth bombs.

Also the crafty nazis are using a submarine engine which eliminates electrical batteries. No longer are they required to surface for long hours during the night to recharge their power.

On the surface they use a diesel motor and below they operate on a hydrogen and oxygen mixture. This assures them greater security from detection.

The Hitlerites also have come up lately with a new type of magnetic mine, which is supposed to break through the perfected British defense arrangement of ships.

The British degaussing arrangement was founded on the principle that copper cables, placed around a vessel, would nullify its magnetism, and enable the ships to pass over magnetic mines without tripping or exploding them.

These few factors are enough in themselves to make the situation as bad as all officialdom is proclaiming it to be. They have become apparent only within the last month or so.

JAPANESE ATTEMPTING TO THREATEN RUSSIA

Heralded recent Chinese successes betray further Japanese efforts to threaten Russia with attack.

The Japanese are withdrawing or weakening their forces in south China, and concentrating in three areas near the Russian frontier.

Their forces in Manchuria and Korea have been enlarged within the last few weeks. Mechanized equipment has also been moved to these two districts.

Time will be required to meet them but they will be met. No device of warfare has ever been conceived against which adequate defense was impossible, and none ever will be.

The Japanese have no great difficulty cutting that road and severing the line of supplies from the Urals to the eastern red armies, if they accumulated sufficient troops at that point.

Their force was not yet large enough to move at last accounts. But even a few saboteurs could play havoc with the railroad in the central Siberian district where it winds through 43 tunnels within 21 miles.

LATE CHINESE VICTORY OF LITTLE PRACTICAL VALUE—

Those three south China seaports, which General Chiang Kai-Shek's valiant but ill-armed troops recently recaptured, are of little practical use. The Jap navy and air force control the sea, and in effect, maintain a blockade through which our aid to China cannot be expected to move. The new ground gained by the Chinese is valuable chiefly for air bases from which our air force eventually can reach Tokyo and the Formosa naval base.

But it would be expecting too much to interpret these victories as evidence of anything more than Chinese local successes. The Chinese still have insufficient artillery and air power to start a major campaign.

So it looks from here as if the Japanese had decided the monsoon season in Burma, and the closing of the Burma road, and the static situation in central and southern China, would make it safe for them to move their heaviest fire power up north, where the months of August and September afford the best season of the year for mechanized attack.

These shifts aid the Chinese materially, however, because they relieve the pressure on Chungking and Kunming. The Japs would have to keep the ground from which they are withdrawing in order to launch any successful campaign against these two key Chinese cities.

'The School for Scandal,' Final Summer Play, Opens Tonight

Costumes Designed By Helen Lauterer Will Be Featured

Richard Sheriden's 18th Century Play To Run Six Days

Color and line of costume have been used to accent character roles in "The School for Scandal," last play of the summer series, which opens tonight at the University theater for a six-performance run.

Costumes of the 18th century, especially designed for the production by Helen Forrest Lauterer, visiting lecturer in the dramatic art department, have been used to heighten the crisp brilliance and a certain artificiality in the well known classics.

In the 18th century the upper class of London, from which characters in "The School for Scandal" are drawn, was extremely dress conscious.

Exaggerated Dress
Men wore knee breeches, cut-away coats, jabots and ruffled cuffs, large tongued shoes adorned with buckles, and bows on their long hair. Women's dress was exaggerated and picturesque. The full, oval-shaped skirts, over numerous petticoats, were attached to tight bodices. Hair, heavily greased and powdered, was done up over frames and padding. High heeled slippers were in vogue, and fans were considered almost indispensable.

In "The School for Scandal" light weight brocade, taffetas, flowered and plain fabrics running through fawn browns into greens and yellow have been used to suggest character values.

Functional Costumes
Functional costumes in this comedy of manners suggest sincerity, craftiness and other qualities. Sir Peter's dress suggests simple dignity. Joseph Surface parades the popular virtues; Charles, his brother, the popular vices. Lady Teazle is modest, demure and simple in one scene, and a woman of wiles in scandalous garb in another.

The spirit of the play is reflected in the lighting as well as in the costumes. Since the play is a bright and sparkling comedy, light values have been used to suggest lightness of mood. Prof. Hunton D. Sellman of the dramatic art department, assisted by John Felton, visiting lecturer on the theater staff, will have charge of lighting.

Directing "The School for Scandal" is Frederic McConnell of the Cleveland Playhouse, visiting lecturer on the University theater staff this summer. Designer of stage settings is Prof. Arnold S. Gillette of the dramatic art department.

Cast of Characters
Members of the cast are Walter Craig, Harold Hansen, Lloyd Roberts, Frank Barnhart, T. D. Hanley, Lewis Miller, Warren Brumister, Julian Benjamin, Verner Haldene, Richard Bergstrom, Horace Hoover, Tom Mahan, John Thiele, Florence Healey, Jeanette Lloyd, Rosa Neil Reynolds, Jean Boehner, Robert O'Hearn, Lowell Matson, and Loetta Curran.

Verner Haldene is assistant director; Dwight E. Hook Jr. and John Thiele, stage managers, and Celia Thompson, bookholder. Tickets may be reserved at the University theater office, room 8-A, Schaeffer hall. Students registered in the university will be admitted without additional charge by presenting identification cards at the box office or at the theater.

Interpreting The War News

Nazis Crossing Don May Have Averted Break to Oil Fields

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

The ominous German boast that nazi forces have crossed the lower Don east of the Donets confluence on a wide front remained unconfirmed as this was written, encouraging hope that the Russians have averted a perilous breakthrough on that vital river front.

The nazi battle design must fall short of decisive results while a Russian stand along the left bank of the Don is possible. The Russian defense line still guards the all-important oil fields of the Caucasus, communications between red armies of the south and those of the north and east and the allied supply routes for Russia via the Persian gulf, Iran and the Caspian sea long as it lies unbroken along the Don.

Moscow confirms nazi claims of close investment of Rostov on the right or north bank of the Don near its mouth, officially stating that "the battle of Rostov is on." The implication is that Marshal Timoshenko has elected to stand siege at Rostov rather than fall back across the Don at that point to stand along the left bank.

His reasons for holding the Rostov outpost north of the river are not clear. Berlin has claimed destruction of bridges in the Rostov area. The major bridges, including the main rail connection between the Caucasus and the rest of Russia and the pipeline crossing, are at Rostov itself. They join the sections of the city separated by the Don.

The Germans' mention of bridge destruction may have been intended to convey the impression that a considerable portion of the Russian left wing army had been trapped north of the river and was about to be annihilated. It did not say so. Nor is it likely that any larger force would be marooned north of the river than its commander elected to leave there as a rear guard.

It follows that if Timoshenko has left a heavy force on the north bank, he has some other purpose in mind than merely outpost protection for his Don front. He still may hope to use his north bank bridgehead for counter attack operations, once his enemies could be brought to a stand against the lower Don and its marshes.

The fact that Russian forces still were fighting north of the Don in the Rostov environs, according to last reports from Berlin, tends also to challenge the German claim to a wide-front eastward above the Donets inflow point. Had any substantial German force reached the south bank of the river at that point, it seems unlikely that Timoshenko could have attempted to keep a north-bank foothold at Rostov. He would need all the forces he could concentrate south of the river to meet the German threat to rupture his lines.

Moscow also admits a further German advance eastward in the Don bend toward Stalingrad where Berlin said little Russian resistance was being encountered. The indicated explanation of that is that Timoshenko is still falling back upon the Don to keep his lines intact around the perimeter of the bend and thus guard at least the narrow, highground corridor between the Don and the Volga east of the Don bend which is Stalingrad's last protection.

THE UNION HAS A PARTY

Approximately two hundred couples have attended each of the Union-sponsored parties held for the first time this year. Shown above are couples escaping the heat in the air-cooled main lounge of Iowa Union. The final dollar-a-couple dance will be given tonight from 9 until 12 o'clock with music furnished by Paul Arthur and his Count 11 band. Members of the Union staff will chaperon.

Midwest Must Raise Livestock Production

Economists Believe Revised Programs To Aid War Effort

AMES (AP)—Livestock production, especially of hogs so desperately needed by the united nations yesterday, can and should be greatly increased in the great plains states of North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, in the opinion of Iowa State college economists.

Writing in the July issue of the Iowa Farm Economist, D. Gale Johnson and T. W. Schultz of the agricultural economics department declared the adoption of a few changes in the national farm programs would not only enable great plains farmers to contribute more to the war effort but would also put them in a sounder position for the post-war period of world-wide economic adjustment.

Fully Restocked
The extensive droughts of the early '30's lowered feed production in these states and caused a sharp reduction in livestock numbers that has never been regained, they said. Hog numbers almost were cut in half, falling from an average of 11,000,000 head per year during 1926-32 to 6,000,000 at the present time. Cattle numbers also were reduced, but have been more fully restocked.

Johnson and Schultz argued that AAA allotments now result in less production of feed for livestock than otherwise would be produced. What is an excellent feed but its production is being cut by those areas by the AAA program. Moreover, when farmers reduce wheat acreage they do not substitute an equal acreage of feed grains so there is a net reduction in feed-crop production, the economists said.

Without wheat allotments this year great plains farmers would have raised 80 million more bushels of wheat for feed, the economists believe, and the government plans another cut in wheat acreage next year.

Look to Future

Releasing wheat allotments, however, would not do the job alone, according to Johnson and Schultz. Farmers cannot be expected to go full-steam into a livestock program without a guarantee of future feed and hence a much larger ever-normal granary program.

"Farmers in these states have raised many hogs in the past; they know how to do the job; all they need is feed—and assurance that they will continue to have it in the future," the writers said.

Their specific suggestions for increasing pork production in this area were to encourage the feeding of hogs to much heavier weights than is customary; encourage the breeding of 750,000 more sows and gilts; and make wheat available for feeding in this area at about 65 cents per bushel.

The average age at death of physicians in the United States in 1941 was 65.9 as compared with 66.3 the previous year.

'Flying Tigers' Continued Fight Against Japs Two Extra Weeks

Outfit Was Disbanded July 4 But Aviators Refused to Quit Then

By DANIEL DELUCE
CALCUTTA, India (AP)—Volunteers to the last, a bunch of "die-hard" American volunteer group veterans stayed on in China and fought two extra weeks against the Japanese after their outfit was formally disbanded July 4.

Today these former "Flying Tigers," most of them combat aces, rested in India and the AVG's final roll of honor showed 299 enemy aircraft officially confirmed as destroyed. An official AVG report made July 3 just before the group disbanded showed 284 planes had been destroyed up to that time.

Last Saturday Squadron Leader Bob Beale, husky navy-trained crack shot from Seattle, took the last patrol of shark-mouthed AVG P-40 planes through the China clouds.

Come Home Soon
Today he's looking up boat and plane movements toward America and in his pocket is a cablegram from his bride, Frances, asking him to come home soon.

The extra bit of work after the world thought the AVG was washed up cost the life of one battle-tested pilot and the liberty of another.

They were assigned to raid Japanese army field headquarters at Linchaung July 10, dropping a series of 35-pound bombs.

J. W. Petach Jr., of Perth Amboy, N. J., had just released his bomb load when flames burst from his fuselage and the left wing crumpled.

He crashed without a chance to use his parachute.

The second pilot, Red Shamblin, of Commerce, Okla., also encountered trouble but bailed out and was believed captured.

Petach married a pretty red-haired AVG nurse, Emma Jane Foster, last spring. She was in Chungking waiting for him to finish his extra duty and accompany her back to the United States. Now Petach's brother pilots will see that she reaches home safely.

Bag 299 Jap Planes
Sixty airmen shared the prize money for the AVG's official bag of 299 Japanese planes but a number never lived to spend it.

Nearly 90 fliers joined the AVG originally but only about 75 completed the training in the Orient and engaged in action.

Twenty-four are now dead or imprisoned—approximately one-third casualties for the flying group.

In addition to the honors announced in the official report of July 3, more honors became known yesterday.

The AVG produced 20 full-fledged aces—iron-nerved young marksmen who each knocked down five or more enemy planes in combat in the skies.

The ace of aces is Bob Neale, who ran up 13 air victories and also destroyed three planes on the ground.

Other names high on AVG's final victory roll include: Big Bob Smith, Lincoln, Neb., eight in the air.

R. H. "Snuffy" Smith, Eagle River, Wisconsin, five in the air.

For concentrated destruction on the ground, one of the AVG's best feats was a two-man raid at dawn on Moulmein, Burma, last March when Kenneth Jernstedt, of Yamhill, Oregon, and William Reed, of Marion, Iowa, definitely knocked out 15 planes and probably got 10 more.

Jernstedt's final record was three planes in the air and seven on the ground for eight months of the war. Reed has three in the air and eight on the ground.

Dr. C. W. Thompson Speaks to Rotarians

Dr. C. W. Thompson of the University of Illinois, father of Prof. C. Woody Thompson, director of student affairs, addressed members of the Rotary club yesterday at the Jefferson hotel on "Small Business Clinics in Illinois."

Since March 10, Dr. Thompson has been giving all his time to defense work as a member of the Illinois defense council.

He explained that the purpose of the merchant clinic is to aid retailers in adjusting to war conditions. The OPA, ODT, Federal Reserve bank and other agencies are cooperating with the defense organization in sponsoring these clinics.

"The defense council places the problem of civilian production next to that of armament for front lines," said Dr. Thompson. "We need a high civilian morale behind, as well as in front of the lines."

Cleveland Breaks Yankee Winning Streak, 3 to 2

Tribe Knots Score in 9th

Phil Rizzuto's Error With 2 Out Allows Indians to Tally Twice

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians wrecked the 11-game winning streak of the New York Yankees yesterday after Big Ernie Bonham had a 2-0 shutout in his grasp with two out in the ninth inning.

But just as the world champions were preparing to trot to the clubhouse, Phil Rizzuto made an error, the Tribe added three singles to tie the score, and in the 11th collected two more singles off Johnny Murphy to win, 3-2.

The winning rally started with Oscar Crimes' smash through Third Baseman Red Rolfe for a single. He was sacrificed to second by Jim Hegan and then Otto Denning delivered a pinch single to bring him home.

It was the second extra-inning game in two days between the clubs and like Wednesday was a pitching duel with Lefty Chubby Dean working well against Bonham.

Joe DiMaggio, after being held hitless Wednesday made three singles yesterday.

Pops Harrison, Davis New Hawk Mentors

To Coach Basketball, Baseball, Respectively; Both Former Stars

Lawrence (Pops) Harrison, assistant basketball coach at Iowa since 1931, succeeds Lieut. Rolfe Williams as the Hawkeyes' new varsity basketball coach, and John (Waddy) Davis, physical education instructor here for six years, takes over as Iowa's head baseball coach, replacing Lieut. Otto Vogel, it was announced here yesterday.

Lieutenant Williams and Lieutenant Vogel have both completed the navy indoctrination course at Annapolis and are stationed at the naval pre-flight school here.

Former Star Athletes

The new coaches are former star athletes and graduates of the University of Iowa, each having had years of coaching experience in his respective sport.

A 1928 graduate, Harrison played guard on Iowa basketball teams of 1926-27-28. After coaching several winning teams at Westminster college of Pennsylvania, he returned to the University of Iowa in 1931 as assistant coach in basketball and baseball.

Harrison helped Williams develop the 1942 team which shared second place in the Big Ten, and is thoroughly familiar with Williams' style of basketball. For many years Harrison's duties have included scouting Iowa's opponents.

Great Drop-Kicker

Davis, Hawkeye halfback in 1915-16-17, was one of the greatest drop-kickers ever developed at Iowa, and he won several close games with his long goals. He was captain of the gridgers in 1917, and graduated here in 1918 with a B.A. degree.

Following two years as high school coach at Newton and one year at Kansas Wesleyan, "Waddy" went in 1921 to Washington university at St. Louis, where he developed baseball teams which captured the Missouri Valley title three times and shared championships two other seasons.

During his 12 years at St. Louis, Davis also coached track for four years, was varsity backfield mentor and coached freshman basketball.

In 1937, Davis joined the sports staff at the University of Iowa, where he worked with freshman football, taught physical education classes and been supervisor of the fieldhouse. In 1937, he received his M.A. degree in physical education here.

Venezuelan Pitches Senators to 5-3 Win

DETROIT (AP)—Pitcher Alejandro Carrasquel, Venezuelan righthander, scored his third triumph in a week yesterday as the Washington Senators defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 3, to clinch the series.

While he scattered 10 hits, Carrasquel got some fancy batting support from young John Sullivan, rookie shortstop, who belted a three-run double off Lefty Hal Newhouse in the sixth and doubled another run home in the eighth. Bob Repass topped the seven-hit Washington attack with his second homer.

The defeat was Newhouse's fourth straight. He has won four.

Lawson Little, Nelson Both Post 67's to Tie In Open Tournament

Blond Toledo Star Strings 5 Birdies Through His Card

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—In the shadows of dusk yesterday, Lawson Little of Monterey, Cal., winged around the Tam O'Shanter course in 67 to tie Byron Nelson for the first round leadership in the $15,000 open tournament.

Hours earlier, Nelson, winner of the first Tam O'Shanter open a year ago, had registered his score and seemed confident it would not be surpassed. But the blonde Toledo, Ohio, star, had not taken into consideration the danger pursuing him in the challenge of Little.

Little was out in 33 and back in 34, stringing five birdies through his card.

"I was hitting my best shots since winning the national open in Cleveland in 1940," the broad-shouldered pro observed.

In quest of golf's greatest money prizes were 138 pros, while 64 amateurs went after war bonds totaling $1,300.

The 67 by Little and Nelson was two strokes above the course record and five under par.

Nelson, who last year won the inaugural open with a 72-hole card of 278-10 under par—also admitted he was at his best yesterday in posting 33-34 rounds against par 36-36.

While upwards of 8,000 customers poured over the course to watch the first day's action of big name performers, one of the lesser known pros, Gib Sellers of Walled Lake, Mich., walked in with a 68. Sellers is the former open champion of Arkansas, Michigan and Oklahoma.

Trailing Sellers by one stroke was Chicago's Dick Metz, and grouped at 70 were Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., Jim Ferrier and Ky Laffont of Chicago and Jim Milward of Madison, Wis.

Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the season's leading money winner, was bunched in the 71 bracket with John Malutic of Cleveland, Herman Schlarau, Bloomington, Ill.; Bob Stuppel, Chicago; Pat Abbott, Pasadena, Cal.; Gene Sarazen, Hartford, Conn.; John Lehman, Chicago, and Mike Sipula, Ottawa, Ill.

Abbott, the western amateur champion who was eliminated in the first round of the All-America amateur tournament, and Lehman were the leading amateur scorers in the open competition.

Raider Nine Downs Navy Team, 7 to 4

By MAXIE ROSENBLUM

The Cedar Rapids Raiders did most of their raiding in the seventh inning here yesterday afternoon to push across five runs, more than enough to down the naval pre-flight school's Seahawks, 7-4. The Raider nine pounded three navy pitchers for a total of 10 hits.

The Three-Eye league team, trailing 3-1 as the seventh opened, scored its five markers on two hits, three walks, a hit batsman and an error. Left Fielder Cliff Mapes opened with a single, and came all the way home when Cadet Joe Renner, playing right field, let the ball go through his legs.

Pat Seery fled to center and Kahn went out, pitcher to first. Hurler Fritz Romple worked Cadet Jim Reusswig for a walk, and Reusswig promptly issued another pass to Jim McDonnell. At this point Cadet Hal Carlson took over the mound duties and followed Reusswig's example by walking Joe Frazier to fill the bases. The Raider were presented with their second run of the inning when Phil Seghi was hit by a pitched ball, bringing in Romple.

Lieut. Otto Vogel, Seahawk coach, sent in Ensign Gene Flick to stem the tide. Cleanup batter Ace Freiberger promptly greeted Flick with a triple to clear the bases and send runs three, four and five of the inning scooting over the plate. Manager Ollie Marquardt ended the parade by flying deep in center to Cadet Jim Phipps.

Flick gave up another run in the ninth on three successive singles by McDonnell, Frazier and Seghi. The visitors' other run was scored in the initial frame on McDonnell's double and Freiberger's single.

The Seahawks knotted the count in the first when Cadet Dave Nelson reached second on an error by Shortstop Gus Gregory, went to third on a passed ball and scored in Lieut. Joe Truskowski's infield single.

The navy outfit forged ahead in the second by scoring two runs on successive singles by Cadets Joe Renner, Bob Jenkins and Reusswig, coupled with a wild throw over third by McDonnell. The final Seahawk run came in the ninth when Phipps smashed a long drive to right for a four-bagger. The ball rolled all the way back to the football stadium.

Nelson, a baseball and football star at Michigan for three years, played a sparkling game at short. In the fourth inning he came over behind second base to scoop up a grounder and throw the batter out at first. Phipps and Ensign Jim Langhurst also played outstanding games in center and right fields, respectively.

Truskowski and Jenkins led the Seahawk batting attack of eight hits with two each. McDonnell garnered three for four on the Raider side of the ledger.

Cedar Rapids committed five errors behind Romple.

The navy team will travel to Davenport Sunday to take on the Maroons, and Monday a return match with the Raiders will be played at Cedar Rapids. Monday's game will be a night affair.

Giants Crush Pirates, Move Into 3rd Place

Johnny Mize Notches 19th Circuit Blow In 1st Frame With Ott On

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants won a battle of home runs from the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, 6 to 4, for their sixth triumph in seven games and took undisputed possession of third place in the National league.

Johnny Mize notched up his 19th homer with Mel Ott aboard in the first inning, but the big power in the Giants' 10-hit attack on Rip Sewell was provided by Babe Young, now converted from a first baseman to a centerfielder.

Young drove in one run with a single in the third and then brought New York from behind in the fifth with a three-run circuit clout, his first of the year.

The Pirates waded into Lefty Dave Koslo for three runs in the second inning when Vince DiMaggio hit his tenth home run with two on and they knocked Koslo out in the third when Johnny Barrett walked, moved to second on an infield out and scored on a single by Maurice Van Robays.

Mrs. Dilling Enters Plea Of Not Guilty

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, author of "The Red Network," pleaded innocent to an indictment charging conspiracy to break down the morale of the United States armed forces when she was arraigned yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Commissioner Walker set July 23 for hearing of her case and fixed bond at $5,000 which was immediately posted by a professional bondsman.

She was accompanied by her husband, Albert W. Dilling, a Chicago attorney with whom she recently had divorce litigation, and her daughter, Elizabeth Jane, 16.

Two other Chicagoans, George Otto Brennerman and Dr. Donald Judson McDaniel, who had been arraigned earlier on identical charges and also entered pleas of innocence, were released from jail late yesterday when bond of $4,000 each was posted. Their hearing also was set for July 29.

The woman author, who has exhibited a fiery temperament at times during court hearings on her husband's divorce complaint, appeared happy and amiable as she listened to the charges against her read by Commissioner Walker. To that, she replied:

"I am absolutely not guilty."

Commenting on the charge, Mrs. Dilling later said:

"I've devoted ten years to advocating a strong army and navy for defense of the nation from outside enemies and to defending it against enemies from within."

"Last war they put the communists in jail; this war it's the anti-communists," she added.

Dutch, Polish Naval Forces Attack Enemy Shipping Off France

LONDON (AP)—Two effective attacks on superior enemy naval forces aided by German coastal batteries on the French coast have been made by units of the royal Netherlands navy, a Polish navy unit and a number of light British coastal craft, it was reported last night.

One patrol of light coastal craft, including Netherlands and Polish naval craft, engaged a force of enemy minesweepers off the French coast, heading toward Calais.

After a brief fight in which the minesweepers were assisted by shore batteries, the Germans broke off and headed for safety, the report said.

Another allied patrol, under British command and including a Netherlands unit, attacked a large enemy tanker screened by armed trawler and a large number of torpedo boats.

One British boat was hit but she continued the attack and scored a torpedo hit on the tanker, the reports said.

5 Axis Planes Downed
VALLETTA, Malta (AP)—Two German bombers and two German and one Italian fighters were destroyed over Malta in the last 24 hours without an RAF loss, the British reported yesterday.

LONDON (AP)—A proposal by the American federation of labor for formation of a British-American trade union committee was approved yesterday by the British trade union congress.

Baby chicks and not human babies consume most of the cod liver oil and other vitamin fish oils.

Nazi Bombers Blast Midlands

LONDON, Friday (AP)—The heaviest German air attack on Britain in weeks broke over three sections of England early today, with Nazi raiders scattering bombs and flares and defying intense anti-aircraft fire.

There were no immediate indications that the raiders were concentrating on any one town.

The raiders hit at the north and east midlands, eastern England and East Anglia, sending down showers of flares and following them with high explosives.

British Spitfires flew fast and low over the German-occupied coast yesterday in their fifth consecutive day of such raiding, spattering machine-gun fire and pouring bombs on enemy troops and gun positions and road, rail and canal traffic.

Although the air ministry said the operations were not on a large scale, they were described as intensive, and stiff opposition from the defenders was implied in British announcement of the loss of seven fighters.

The Germans sent a single plane over the shopping center of one English East Coast town yesterday, killing a number of civilians, including one family of six. Other German planes were over east England and the midlands.

that the meat deficiency probably would continue for another month or six weeks—until a heavy run of livestock reached the markets in the fall.

Meanwhile, many communities remained on a subnormal standard—particularly in beef.

At Atlanta, Ware Hutcheson, southeast food representative of the OPA, said the beef shortage in that section would be worse next week and that the army quartermaster corps may be forced to requisition. Members of a committee of Boston wholesalers reported army and navy buyers were unable to get bids on beef needed for service men.

fiscal year.

"Any program that leaves the sale of $30,000,000,000 in bonds to commercial banks destroys any hope of controlling inflation," the Ohio senator declared.

These bond sales, he continued, would add just that much more to purchasing power, observing that any efforts price administrator Leon Henderson made to control inflation would become insignificant in the face of such a wave.

Taft did not offer an alternative to bank borrowings during the hearing, but told reporters later he believed the answer lay in some form of compulsory bond sales or savings.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) had opened the discussion by asking Morgenthau what amount of bonds he was going to have to "force" into commercial banks.

"If you don't mind my saying so," Morgenthau snapped; "the choice of the word 'force' is unfortunate. I enjoy these little exchanges with you, but what we have to do with the banks and the whole country on this borrowing program is damn serious. In the final analysis, we have to look to the banks for the money we don't get elsewhere."

In his formal statement to the committee, Morgenthau reiterated recommendations he had made to the house ways and means committee for the higher individual and corporate taxes.

He asked that new individual income taxes be increased from $2,872,300,000 to $3,228,000,000; that additional corporate taxes, including excess profits levies, be increased from $2,589,200,000 to $3,347,700,000; that revised excess taxes be raised from $816,800,000 to $1,253,700,000; that changes be made in estate and gift taxes to produce $316,100,000; and that "loop-holes" be plugged to bring in another $601,500,000.

A scale of personal income tax exemptions of $600 for single persons, $1,200 for married persons, and $300 each for dependents was recommended. The present law is $750, $1,500 and $400. The house voted for $500, $1,200 and $400.

Synthetic rubber

AND STANDARD OIL COMPANY (INDIANA)

Rubber... let's get it. Fast... and plenty of it!
No matter who makes it or what it's made from!

● We want to see America get the rubber it needs, whether natural or synthetic. We want America to get that rubber in the quantities required and in the shortest possible time, whether it is made out of petroleum, out of alcohol, dandelions, guayule, or sawdust. The main thing is to get the rubber!

To those who are working to make rubber out of materials other than petroleum, we say, "God speed your efforts." Solving the rubber problem is necessary for winning the war and winning the war is our main concern.

Much has been said about making rubber from alcohol derived from farm crops. We do a great deal of our business with farmers. We should like to see them having a hand in supplying the raw materials for rubber.

We are working with petroleum because we understand it. At the request of the Government we have helped form Rubber Synthetics, Inc. In 1943 that company expects to put into operation at Gary, Indiana, a large plant financed by the Defense Plant Corporation to produce butadiene, which is one of the principal ingredients of synthetic rubber. Negotiation is now under way with the Government to supply that plant with a part of the petroleum raw materials required in its operation.

Nevertheless, we urge a "green light" and all speed for any other practicable method of making synthetic rubber.
