Nazis Rush Troops West

Biddle Flays Nazi Agents Reinforce French Coast Areas As 2nd Front Fear Increases

High Tribunal Urged to Deny Pleas of Men

Defense Argues Right To Use Civil Courts Belongs to Everyone

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General Biddle denounced the alleged Nazi saboteurs in the supreme court yesterday as enemy aliens who came to this country bent upon destruction but who, now that they are caught, seek to avoid wartime penalties by appeal to the civil courts.

Emphatically, he urged the high tribunal to refuse to issue a writ of habeas corpus demanded by counsel for seven of the eight defendants. Such a writ would have the effect of freeing them from the custody of the military commission which has been conducting their trial.

Procedure Challenged
The whole military procedure, and President Roosevelt's proclamation ordering it, had been challenged earlier in the day as illegal and unconstitutional by Colonel C. Royall, one of the two officers assigned to defend the accused men.

Royall, who was sworn by his superiors to exhaust every possible tactic for defense of the prisoners, argued that everyone, enemy alien and loyal citizen alike, had a clearly defined right to the protection of the civil courts.

And to an accompanying stir of amazement in the courtroom, he said the prisoners contended they were not saboteurs at all, but merely refugees from Germany. In order to escape from that country, he said, they had consented to adopt the role of saboteurs and be put ashore here by German U-boats.

'Sustained' Contentions
Biddle, revealing for the first time a portion of the testimony given before the military commission, said the contentions of the government were "completely sustained" by long and detailed confessions signed by each of the eight men.

At the close of the day, the court, meeting for a specially-called term, had heard the arguments of both sides. Tomorrow both Royall and Biddle will present their rebuttals.

A DIRECT HIT—AND THE TANK TURNS INTO JUNK
An Australian soldier, practicing guerilla tactics at a special obstacle training course somewhere in Australia, is about to hurl a hand grenade at an approaching tank. Should the throw miss, the soldier ducks safely into the foxhole in which he crouches and the metal monster passes overhead. It is believed American soldiers soon will be undergoing like training on this course.

Tax Bill Criticized

Aviation Heads Agree On Cargo Fleet Idea

But Caution Against Expecting Impossible Feats of Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aviation experts agreed yesterday that huge fleets of cargo carrying planes would add tremendously to America's war potential, but cautioned against expecting impossible feats of production.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War ace who became president of Eastern Airlines, told a senate military affairs subcommittee he believed it would be wiser to build such planes in factories designed for the purpose than to attempt immediate conversion of shipyards into aviation plants.

Nazi Nuisance Planes Attack London Area
LONDON, Thursday (AP)—German nuisance raiders flying singly attacked London, the Midlands and east Anglia in full moonlight early today, dropped a few bombs in the greater London area and hurried away under the fire of new, secret anti-aircraft guns which were still firing when the all-clear sounded.

Said to Mean Corporations Would 'Die Off'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new revenue bill was vigorously criticized yesterday before the senate finance committee, which heard a representative of business complain that it would cause corporations to "die like flies" after the war and labor leaders demand an amendment limiting industrial incomes to $25,000 a year.

Passed by House
The bill, as passed by the house, is calculated to raise an additional $6,271,000,000 through heavier taxes on individuals and corporations.

Post-War Slump
Davidson, representing Fiduciary Counsel, Inc., of Jersey City, told the committee it ought to make provision in the pending bill against a tremendous post-war slump in employment and the consequent accumulation of huge agricultural surpluses.

Unemployment plus demoralization may equal demoralization," he declared.
The best way to do this, he said, was to build up reserves of corporation funds that could be placed in job-creating investments as soon as the last gun of the war was fired. Otherwise, he said, the government probably would call upon to spend $15,000,000,000 yearly to support the economic structure at a time when it would be faced with an overburdening war debt.

University Student Heard in Aroff Case

Stanford Girl Says She Saw Navy Man 'Sell' Commissions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Patricia I. Bouchard, Stanford university student from Beverly Hills, told a naval court martial yesterday she once heard Lieut. Com. Maurice N. Aroff suggest that two newly-commissioned navy officers give him cuff links and a gold identification bracelet.

Aroff is standing court martial on charges of scandalous conduct tending to the destruction of good morals, conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline, violation of regulations, and falsehood.

One of the witnesses still to be heard is Tony Martin, radio singer and screen actor from whom Aroff is charged with accepting an automobile as a "fee for facilitating the enlistment of the said Martin as chief specialist in the U. S. naval reserve."

Wrench Meets Man Who's That Knocking At My Dome?
DETROIT (AP)—This story is going the rounds of a war plant where safety helmets with separate sweat bands are worn by employees:
A worker was asked by a visitor how effective the helmets were:
"Just watch," he replied, and struck himself on the head with a wrench.
The result was painful. His helmet had dropped off and, feeling the pressure of the sweat band, he hadn't missed it.

Defense in Pelley Sediton Case Requests Subpoena of Eccles, Lindbergh to Testify

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The defense in the criminal sediton trial of William Dudley Pelley, silver shirt leader, requested last night a subpoena of Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, along with "any and all statements" showing the "gross worth" of the United States.

Pending Approval
The request still required the approval of Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell. However, Oscar R. Ewing, special assistant to the U. S. attorney general, said the prosecution would not oppose it if the defense insisted Eccles' testimony was necessary.

Post Guarantee
Earlier Pelley posted a financial guarantee of expenses for the appearance of eight other witnesses, including Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and others of national prominence, but the move to bring Eccles here was in a different legal category.

RAF Bombers Paste Hamburg; Germans Advance Below Don

Germany ostentatiously reinforced her coastal west wall with some of her best specialized troops yesterday and Berlin's propaganda agencies for the first time told the people that an American-British invasion is expected.

RAF Bombers Paste Hamburg; Germans Advance Below Don
The German thrust below the Don toward the Caucasus deepened despite a stiffening red army stand which was exacting frightful casualties, and the Germans were aware that this very success might force the United States and Britain to answer Soviet pleas for a second front with something more than air war.

U. S. Merchant Ship Sunk off East Coast
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A small United States merchant ship which went down 60 seconds after two torpedoes crashed into her sides off the Atlantic coast brought the unofficial Associated Press total of announced ship sinkings in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor to 402.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Thursday (AP)—British air raiders last night attacked Saarbruecken, industrial center of the rich Saar valley in western Germany near the French border, the German radio said today.

Stout Russian Stand
The Russian midnight communique, indicating a stout Russian stand, said the red army was fighting west of Kietskaya, on the Don 120 miles northwest of Stalingrad. This is near Yelansk, considerably west of where the Germans say they have advanced in the Don bend and on their north flank whence observers generally have expected a Russian counter-blow if one were launched.

Earlier accounts from both sides said the German "mot pulk"—the German term for a method that has replaced blitzkrieg tactics in Russia—moved further southward toward the Caucasus below the Don.
The "mot pulk"—something like a huge self-contained fortified circle with a barbed rim of tanks and weapons and a mass of men and supplies inside which can move like a ponderous steamroller.

CANADA TO PRODUCE NAVY'S FAMOUS 'HELDIVER'

The United States navy's famous Curtiss-Wright "Heldiver," above, will be manufactured in Canada also, according to an announcement. Curtiss-Wright corporation has licensed Fairchild Aircraft, Ltd., of Longueuil, Quebec, to build the plane, which is regarded as the world's best dive bomber.

It'll Help to Build the Fires---

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Recent Reports on Our Air Arm Not as Drastic as They Appear

WASHINGTON—Representative Lyndon Johnson tipped a few high officials' chairs over backwards when he came back from the Far East battlefield, and criticized our planes as well as our fighting leaders.

His criticism came forth the same day it was announced that American flyers had used British planes in their first raid on the continent, instead of their own.

Also at least one aviation manufacturer in this country has been heard complaining lately that our program puts too much emphasis on quantity, too little on quality.

The inference from all these and other similar murmurings is that our fighting ships are inferior to both the Japs and the British.

Such drastic conclusions however do not seem warranted. If they were true, we certainly have the most colossal assembly of dunderheads ever assembled, in charge of choosing planes for our fighting services.

They have known all about the Japs, as well as the British ships, for months, and only the most extravagant stupidity could possibly have prevented them from using the vast mechanical facilities and genius of American production.

But the situation is hardly so clear cut. The Jap ships, for instance, seem to be superior in some qualities, the British in others, and ours in still more.

You cannot have maneuverability, fast climbing and speed in planes without neglecting armor, firepower and self-sealing tanks. The Japs, the British and our people have been required to choose which of these qualifications they wanted and which they would sacrifice.

Now no cautious reporter will attempt to do anything more in the current argument among aviation technicians than report the full facts, without expressing arbitrary judgment. The other side of Mr. Johnson's story, as I gather it here, is this:

The Jap Zero is superior to our navy fighters in climbing ability and speed, but it is very vulnerable. An Associated Press dispatch recently claimed new Jap models are sacrificing their speed to put on more armor. The Zero has no armor now, and does not carry self-sealing gas tanks. One hit and it is gone.

In combat, so far, our planes have proved more than a match for the Japs, due perhaps in some part to our superiority in armor, firepower and self-sealing tanks, but most of all because our pilot efficiency is greatly superior to the Japs.

Our PBV flying boats (long-range patrol bombers), however, is one type of ship that has been no match for the Jap Zeros, but our Flying Fortress are supreme.

New navy planes will be coming along as soon as present orders are finished, and promise correction of some of our defects.

The army started off with planes similar to the light firepower and protection of the Zeros, as did the British, but these were soon abandoned.

Earlier models of our P-40 proved greatly inferior to both the British and Japs. But a British communique Sunday paid high tribute to the new P-51. Our latest North American pursuit ship.

The old P-40s have been used mainly by our air force in China and Libya, but new models in use elsewhere carry superior firepower, armor, etc. Although they are not as maneuverable as the Zeros.

Our new P-47 high altitude interceptor is supposed to fight higher and harder than anything flying today. Republic is building this new army ship and deliveries are being made but not in quantity yet.

It has a 2,000 horsepower air-cooled engine, and has tested at 680 miles per hour in a power dive, flying level at 400 miles per hour. It will outshoot the Zero and has greater protection.

As for the Americans flying British ships in their first raid, it is said that British production has concentrated on pursuit ships which they cannot easily get from us, as these must be crated and shipped overseas, while our production has placed emphasis on big bombers which can be flown over. The British are supposed to fly our bombers in England while we use their pursuits.

For these reasons, little official notice was taken of the Johnson charges or other critical murmurings. The men in authority seem to concede, by their explanations cited above, that all our ships are not the best in the world, that much remains to be done, although they, at least, seem to be satisfied that they are doing it.

Certain it is, that the isolated engagements in which we have been involved so far have proved that our fighting men have what it takes to win. Our leadership and our equipment still has not been so thoroughly tested as yet.

Until they are tested, no outsider can safely reach conclusions as to their efficiency. At least evidence will be lacking upon which any drastic changes can be forced by public opinion.

Meanwhile, the Johnson charges will serve constructively to build fires under the powers that be and force them to the utmost of their ability.

As the Crisis Approaches— Vest Pocket Edition —On Harnessing Old Dobbin

Harnessing a horse is a virtually a lost art—but one which will probably be reclaimed with more speed than the nation's old aluminum pots and pans.

Back in the "good old days" the harnessing methods were handed down from father to son, generation after generation, and every man knew just how to throw the steering gear over his steed. But it has been so long since we've had to depend on Dobbin to take us riding that we've forgotten the techniques.

After much difficult research (it's a difficult task to find information on how to overhaul and harness horses) we have garnered enough information to give you a short refresher course.

Before going into the technicalities of how to harness a horse—when you get one—it is desirable that you are fully acquainted with stable terms, which if not defined, might be as incomprehensible as Sanskrit to the average motorist. You should, therefore, be acquainted with the following terms, and while becoming acquainted you should feel a kindly feeling for the public relations man of the AETNA Life affiliated companies who discovered the authenticity of the terms:

- Stall—the horse's garage.
- Hames—steel necktie which the horse wears in his collar.
- Saddle-pad—that which the horse wears on his back. Difficult to define, but necessary, very necessary.
- Crupper—harness loop which fits around the base of the tail.
- Breast Collar and Traces—a sort of power transmission belt.
- Bridle, Bit and Reins—the steering gear.
- Girth—girdle, worn by male and female horses.
- Terrets—this one baffled us, too.
- Shank's Mare—a pseudo-horse. Unharnessable.

Now that you are fully equipped in the jargon of the stables let's progress to the barn and get down to some real laboratory work.

You've probably seen a couple of horses in your time so we won't waste time describing the animal to you. Harnessing, like any other task, becomes easier with practice. Here's the set-up, you—

- A) Release the mammal from his stall and back him to the main barn floor.
- B) If he will "stand without hitching," okay. If not you will have to snap the two ropes, which you will find at the edge of the stall, into the side rings in the halter, which should be on the horse's head.
- C) Take the saddle-pad and upportenances and place it in position.
- D) Take the crupper and put the tail through it. This is done by folding the long hair that extends beyond the fleshy part of the tail and putting the folded tail through the crupper.
- E) Seat the crupper in place by pulling the back strap taut.
- F) Fasten the inside girth.
- G) Take the breast collar, with the traces, and the bridle "assembly" in your left hand. Remove the halter and slip breast collar over head and neck. (Horse's head—not yours.) If a hames collar is used instead of a breast collar, that is something else again. The solid collar must be slid over the horse's face upside down and turned into position just as it reaches the smallest part of the neck. The hames are then put in place and fastened by the strap at the bottom. The traces are permanently attached to the hames so you can't go wrong there.

H) Holding the bit in left hand and top of bridle in your right hand, put the bridle on. (This requires some finesse. If the horse yawns at the opportune moment, your job is easy. Otherwise, the upper and lower jaws must be pried apart gently and the bit put in position.) Then the left ear is inserted in the proper place and then the right.

- I) Fasten the throat-latch. This is the strap that goes around the haws. Don't get it too tight or you'll choke Dobbin.
- J) Lead horse in position in front of buggy. Draw buggy forward, putting the shafts through the shaft loops which are on either side of the girth.
- K) Fasten the traces or tugs to the wiffletree, putting them through the loops that you will find on the shafts.
- L) Fasten hold-back straps. These should be not too tight nor too loose. (Better get some expert advice on this point.)
- M) Fasten the outer girth.
- N) Loosen reins from bit and run them under the breast collar and through the terrets. Buckle ends.
- O) Fasten the cheek reins.

GIDDAP!

(Though we publish this informative bit in all good faith, and hope that it will be of unending value to you in your approaching crisis, we can not be responsible for any failures caused by it.—THE EDITOR)

EVOLUTION MARCHES ON!

ACCORDING TO SCIENTISTS, ANCESTORS OF LAND DWELLERS WERE DRIVEN OUT OF THEIR NATURAL ELEMENT, THE SEA BY FEROCIOUS MONSTERS WHO THREATENED THEIR VERY EXISTENCE.

THE BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY

"JANE'S FIGHTING SHIPS," edited by Francis E. McMurtrie (Macmillan; $19).

One more sign of the times comes with publication in the United States, for the first time, of "Jane's Fighting Ships." This is the edition of 1941, although actually it contains data assembled as late as April 9 of this year. For 45 years "Jane's Fighting Ships" has been the standard reference guide to the navies of the world. It still is.

It contains the facts of life in the great British and United States fleets, and it still concerns itself with such matters as the Costa Rican navy, which for some years had no fighting ships at all, and now appears as the owner of a 56-foot patrol vessel. This year a shrinkage is to be noted in the pages devoted to the German navy. It seems, according to the editor, that Germany has done little to replace ships lost in action, except submarines.

The Italian navy also is shrinking, the editor remarks calmly, and the gaps in the Italian list would be still wider if it were possible to identify the cruisers and destroyers known to have been sunk by the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean. The editor believes that not more than half Italy's cruisers survive, and he further believes that very little replacement has been possible because of the known shortage of steel and other metals in Italy.

Considering the circumstances, the information on the Japanese navy is extraordinarily complete, although the editor admits a good deal of puzzlement, and wipes off the slate, practically speaking, the 2-man submarine which in an earlier edition he had considered at some length. The little fish just don't work. And of all the neutral nations, Sweden is apparently the only one attempting much naval construction.

Some high enterprise has gone into making this book, and an enormous amount of routine care. When the "final addenda" on a tipped-in page just ahead of the foreword are considered, the book becomes the most accurate picture available of the world naval situation up to early April. Short sentences sometimes carry considerable power, too. "Twenty-one submarines destroyed by United States forces in Atlantic up to April 2, 1942" is one of these.

Wartime Washington Unsolvable Puzzle

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Wartime Washington is a puzzle that even Professor Edward Lindeman of the New York School of Social Work can't unravel. During a brief stopover there Professor Lindeman telephoned a dozen high ranking officials whom he knows intimately. All were delighted to hear his voice but regretted they wouldn't be able to take time off for a little social powwow. . . . "Too busy," they explained. Then the professor telephoned the White House and was at once connected with Mrs. Roosevelt. . . . Not only did the First Lady insist on seeing him, she showed the president's dinner hour ahead one full hour so that Professor Lindeman could have dinner at the White House and still make his train back to New York.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

It's Same Old (Success) Story

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The big traffic cop at the busy intersection in New York was going about his stop - and - go assignment. He caught on the stop a certain debonairly quiet gentleman whom he recognized. He gave no sign, but went on directing the flowing river of vehicles. He was all business. But before he motioned the quiet gentleman on, he winked and said, "Hi-ya, Paul. How you like the big city?"

Paul Lukas likes to tell the story today. He likes to talk about New York. He likes New York. He will tell you about the big town's easy friendliness. He will even defend the climate—granted air-conditioning—of Manhattan. And then he will admit, with wise humor, that he would be as fond of Oshkosh if he had had a little success in Oshkosh.

Paul, the Hungarian-born actor, has had his "little success" in New York. He was star of the hit play, "The Watch on the Rhine," which is why—obviously to anyone who knows his Hollywood ABC's—he is again a star in Hollywood, making the film version of the hit play with a girl named Bette Davis in the cast.

If he is like other heroes of this old familiar filmland story, Paul has been making the discovery that a lot of movie people who looked past him before he clicked on Broadway now are "seeing" him. Not only seeing him but exclaiming with delight, "Paul! My old friend!" If he is like the other come-backs to fame, Paul has been responding to these gushing cordialities as any normally sensitive person would. As one of them told me once: "First it angers you. Then it becomes amusing. Then it seems pathetic. And finally it is sickening. It makes you retch."

But Paul Lukas, if he shared these reactions, is far too discreet to say so. Or too polite.

He says he wants to keep on working in Hollywood as well as on the stage. He wishes that Hollywood were not so given to "type-casting" as it is—that the casting directories were indexed for "actors" rather than for "types." You will find players catalogued as gangsters, district attorneys, detectives, housemaids, society matrons, gumshoes. If Lukas had been so classified in recent years, it would doubtless have been under "nazi agents." Such were his roles in "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," "We Dare Not Love" and other pre-Broadway films.

On the other hand, it was type-casting to which he owed his chance in "Watch on the Rhine." He was contracted for a role in "Hold Back the Dawn" when Herman Shumlin (now directing the "Rhine" film) sought him for the play. When he asked release from the picture it was readily granted—the director had seen Lukas in "The Monster and the Girl," had decided he was "tough and hard" for the "Dawn" role.

And so it came about that the big traffic cop could say "Hi-ya, Paul. How you like the big city?" and that Paul Lukas is back in pictures with a big role.

Navy Coaching School Opens Here Monday

Instruction in New Methods of Physical Training to Be Given

The navy coaching school will open Monday at the Pre-Flight school it was announced here yesterday. About two-hundred such men are expected to attend this school, open to all high school and college coaches, athletic directors and physical education instructors.

This program, under the direction of Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman will feature intercollegiate sports clinics in football, track, basketball, baseball besides lectures on individual sports by experts in each field.

Participation by delegates in military drill, mass exercise and sport competition will be included in the daily schedule, while a portion of each day will be devoted to observation of pre-flight school athletic classes and coaching methods.

The purpose of this coaching school is to acquaint coaches and physical education instructors with the new methods of physical training being used at the Pre-Flight school to train future navy flyers in order that delegates may organize physical programs in their own schools which will fit the needs of the armed services.

Physical Training
"Methods of physical training in use at the Navy Pre-Flight school will change the curriculum of all schools and colleges," it was announced by Bierman.

"In the future," he continued, "educational institutions will require all students to take physical training courses, using many methods developed at the school, in order that never again may our nation's youth be caught in poor physical condition. The average American boy is strong, but before he can be made into the world's best fighter he must be put into top physical trim to stand the rigors of fighting training."

"Those attending our coaching school will see for themselves what is possible to accomplish in the short period of two weeks by use of our newly developed methods."

The coaches will bring their own uniforms and will be quartered in the same building as the cadets, with four men to a room. Trainees will be required to observe the same rules and regulations as the cadets, and they will receive their liberty at the same time.

No Smoking
They will be required to make their own beds and police their rooms and no smoking will be permitted except in the rooms or in the canteens or when on liberty.

Football will be under the direction of Lieut. Col. Bierman; track and field, Lieut. Comdr. Larry Snyder; basketball, Lieuts. Rollie Williams and Eddie Bickler; baseball, Lieuts. Otto Vogel, Ed Roy and Vernon Wilshire.

Hancher to Give Talk At Graduation Dinner In Iowa Union Tonight

President Virgil M. Hancher will be the main speaker at the graduation banquet to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Iowa Union lounge.

Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division, will preside and Prof. Frederic G. Higbee of the college of engineering, is in charge of arrangements.

Degrees will be awarded tomorrow night at Iowa Union to men and women from 66 Iowa counties and from 30 states.

President Virgil M. Hancher will present the awards and Prof. Troyer S. Anderson, visiting professor of history, will be the convocation speaker.

3 University Students Win Honors in Radio

The staff of WSUI radio station, announces the presentation of radio honors at this commencement to three university students, Gene Claussen, Wilmer Grabau and Clair Henderlinder. Henderlinder will receive an M. A. degree at commencement tomorrow and the other two bachelor's degrees.

The honors are in the form of certificates for outstanding achievement in radio.

Claussen, who took part in radio here from 1939 to 1942, is being awarded his certificate for his work in news and sports; Grabau, who was active from 1940 to 1942, will receive his award for dramatic productions.

A certificate in recognition of his work on programs, interviews and discussions will be given to Henderlinder.

TO RECEIVE FIRST ART Ph.D.

Prof. Edmund D. Kinzinger, first candidate to receive a doctor's degree in the art department here, explains a piece of sculpture to Ann Harrell, graduate student in art from Waco, Texas, a former student in his classes at Baylor university. In the background is one of the three oil paintings Professor Kinzinger painted to complete requirements for his advanced degree. The panel represents Mexican women resting on their return from the public fountain.

Prof. E. D. Kinzinger to Receive Iowa's 1st Ph.D. Degree in Art

The first degree of doctor of philosophy ever awarded by the university art department will be conferred upon Prof. Edmund Daniel Kinzinger of Waco, Tex., at the convocation tomorrow.

Professor Kinzinger's Ph.D. dissertation is a series of three modernistic oil paintings depicting Mexican life, in which he has attempted to express the philosophy of the Mexican Indian. Original sketches for the group of these pictures were made in Taxco, Mexico, in 1936 and 1937. Though the paintings belong to the French school, the critic sees in them a vivid German romantic trend.

Art Training
Kinzinger, head of the art department of Baylor university, had his early training in Germany and France.

Graduate work at the Academie Moderne in Paris and the Staatliche Akademie in Stuttgart preceded his study here. Major fields of graduate study in creative painting completed at the University of Iowa included oil painting, sculpture, lithography, screen print and etching. A three-day examination in the history of art concluded the work in the minor field.

Professor Kinzinger, who has traveled extensively in most of the European countries, speaks French and German well.

Professional Experience
His scholastic and professional experience includes: Teacher, Art Institute and Art League of Minneapolis, Minn., 1928-1930; director, Schule fur Bildende Kunst, Hans Hofmann, Munich 1930-1933; director, Ecole de l'Epoque, Paris.

Smith was employed in the radio department of the board of education public relations office, Kansas City, Mo.

Smith received his M. A. degree here in 1935. Among the other schools he attended are Grinnell college, Grinnell, Arizona university, Tucson, Ariz., Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and Oxford and Cambridge universities in England.

Station WSUI has received recognition in a recent publication, "A New Slant on Public Relations for Higher Education" by Stewart Harral, director of press relations of the University of Oklahoma.

The book, published by the University of Oklahoma press, uses a picture of one of the university student forums conducted by Prof. A. C. Baird, a program broadcast regularly over WSUI. The picture was chosen as being typical of the public relations work of higher education.

A full page chart pointing out the total number of hours which the various departments of the university contribute in programs for state service is also given in the book.

Dodgers Hit Cooper, Cardinals for 6 Blows to Win

4 to 3 Contest Called in 7th

Dimout Rules Forbid Floodlights Being On More Than One Hour

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers waded into Mort Cooper with six timely hits last night to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4 to 3 before the game was halted in the last of the seventh inning by wartime dimout regulations.

It was the first game in the major leagues to run afoul of the dimout rules which forbid floodlights being on more than one hour after sundown in this area. The Cards threatened repeatedly to break out of Whitlow Wyatt's control. They scored two runs in the seventh and had the bases loaded when the rally died.

But Wyatt, in winning his 12th game against three defeats, proved equal to every occasion including his first turn at bat in the third inning when he singled Brooklyn's first run across.

Enos Slaughter, who had a perfect night at the plate, hit his ninth home run in the first inning.

Cooper was charged with his fifth defeat after 12 victories.

The victory, obtained before 24,744 fans, enlarged Brooklyn's National league lead to eight games.

Defender, Sensation Fall in First Round Of Badger Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Harlan Reich, of Madison, the defending champion, and Mark Weidman, 18-year-old-Baraboo farm boy who was the sensation of the opening day's play, were eliminated in first round matches in the Wisconsin amateur golf championship yesterday.

Reich, a mailman who spent his vacation winning the title last year, lost to Bob Hipke, of Milwaukee, 1 down, while Weidman was being eliminated by Mike Beniciscutto, long-driving Racine youth, 1 down on the 20th hole. Weidman took medalist honors Tuesday with a two-under par 68.

Still in the running was Lyn Lardner, of Oconomowoc, seeking his fourth title.

Norton Named Coach Of College All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP)—Homer Hill Norton, football coach and athletic director at Texas A. and M., last night was named to the coaching staff that will direct the collegiate all stars against Chicago's Bears Aug. 28 at Soldier field.

Norton will represent the south on the all star coaching staff for the second successive year. Three other coaches are yet to be named to the four-man board of strategy. The annual charity game is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

7-6 Victory Prevents Sox From Making It 3 Games in Row

Decisive Blow Hit With Bases Loaded On Pass, Wild Pitch

CLEVELAND (AP)—Roy Weatherly came up with the bases loaded in the eleventh inning yesterday and smacked out a hit to give the Indians a 7 to 6 decision over the Red Sox, preventing Boston from making it three in a row over the Tribe.

Red Embree, the fourth and winning pitcher for Cleveland, singled to open the last of the eleventh and with one down went to second on a wild pitch by Yank Terry, Boston's fourth and losing pitcher. With two down, Jeff Heath was passed purposely and Ken Keltner unintentionally, filling the bases to set the stage for Weatherly.

Washington Scores Four Times in Ninth To Edge Out Browns

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Scoring four runs on four hits in the ninth inning, the Washington Senators wiped out a seventh inning rally by the St. Louis Browns yesterday to win their second of the series in a row, 11 to 10.

The Browns, using six pitchers, raced three relief hurlers to the mound in the ninth in a futile effort to stop the Nats. But a two-run double by pinch batter Bob Repass tied the score and a single by George Case produced the winning run.

Trailing 7-5 going into their half of the seventh, St. Louis scored four runs on five hits, including Walt Judnich's three-run homer.

Cubs Wallop Mungo In First Game, 4-2; Lose Nightcap, 3 to 1

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chicago Cubs gave Van Lingle Mungo a rather rude welcome back into the National league yesterday, but the New York Giants retaliated for their 4-2 setback in the opening game of a doubleheader by winning the nightcap, 3-1.

Mungo, the former star of the Brooklyn Dodgers who was purchased by the Giants from Minneapolis of the American association this week, made his bow in the first game and was tagged for seven hits, including a homer by Bill Nicholson, in seven innings.

The Giants made ten off Hiram Bithorn, but trailed from the first inning, when the Bruins tallied twice on a walk, Lou Stringer's triple and Lou Novikoff's single.

The second game was a pitching duel between Bill Lohrman of the Giants and Les Fleming, each of whom allowed nine hits. Dick Bartell quickly tied the count with a home run and Lohrman himself singled home a run to put the Giants ahead in the seventh. Babe Young added to the margin with his fourth home run in the eighth inning.

Lorna Bain Married To William Hartney In Simple Ceremony

Lorna R. Bain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bain, route 2, became the bride of William Hartney of Chicago...

The bride wore a navy wool suit with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Denver Parrish, 332 S. Dubuque.

Fifteen guests attended the reception in the Hotel Jefferson immediately after the ceremony.

Prof. Elmer Peterson Addresses Lions Club Members at Luncheon

Prof. Elmer T. Peterson of the university college of education spoke on "Provision of School Facilities on Defense Areas" before members of the Lions club at their luncheon meeting yesterday in Reich's pine room.

Professor Peterson has been making surveys for the federal office of education as senior specialist on school facilities.

Bundles for Britain Aids Rescued British Seamen Now in U. S.

Bundles for Britain workers, unable to ship the garments they make and collect, are directing their attention to helping shipwrecked British sailors who are brought to this country.

In addition to sewing and knitting, they are soliciting contributions of men's shirts, shoes and other outer garments as well as luggage, to furnish the rescued.

Sixty-four free hospitals are being maintained by the organization throughout this country with funds collected by their workers.

Contributions of luggage, clothing or money can be turned in to the local chapter in room 314 of the Iowa State Bank building from 10 until 12 a. m. daily.

Mack-Mushrush Rites Planned for August 16

Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Mack of Storm Lake announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Anne, to Roy S. Mushrush Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Mushrush Sr., 910 S. Summit.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the University of Iowa, having received her B.S.C. degree in May.

Mr. Mushrush, a graduate of Iowa City high school, received his B.A. degree in electrical engineering from the university in 1941.

Canada's exports to England have doubled in the last two years.

John Justice Funeral Will Be Held Today

Funeral service will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Oathout funeral chapel for John W. Justice, 77, 621 S. Governor, who died early yesterday morning following a week's illness.

The Rev. M. Estes Haney of the Church of the Nazarene will officiate. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Former member of the Johnson county board of supervisors, Mr. Justice was born in Washington county, Tenn., March 14, 1865, the son of John and Edith Justice.

He moved to Johnson county with his parents at the age of two, and for the past 22 years has been a resident of this city. Since 1924, he has been employed at the Children's hospital.

Surviving are his widow; three children, Melvin and Irving of Iowa City and Mrs. Clifford Fry of Cedar Rapids; two brothers, James of Chicago and Tom of Cedar Falls, and 10 grandchildren.

Six brothers and sisters preceded him in death.

Bill, according to the author, was named "Backhouse" because to him was entrusted the delicate mission of photographing for posterity the vanishing and near-forgotten shrines of pioneer resourcefulness, the Chic Sale specials.

The story of his search over the frozen tundra and pictures of the few remaining "sentinels of comfort" make fascinating reading.

Underneath the pictures were such observations as "A comfort castle still standing like an imperishable roe in the garden of love." or "The scarcity of materials resulted in the erection of community buildings; there are no MOMS OR POPS in the territory."

Naturally, this sort of atmosphere has had an effect on writers who publish the Kodiak newspapers. A typical comment in the publication, Williwaws, under the column called "Base Talk," goes like this:

"We're sorry if we sometimes seem to place too much emphasis on the more rugged aspects of leisure occupations around Kodiak in our efforts to record the tempo of this frontier garden spot. Shucks, there are a lot of young people around here who don't even neck in parked cars. Fact is, the woods along the Potato Patch road are full of them."

The Kodiak Bear, soldier-paper, at Fort Greeley has the same bumptious style. Said in a column called "Bear Facts:"

"Harvard college, east coast educational institution, is finally cooking with gas!"

"The Harvard college library, at Cambridge, famed for the profuse growth of ivy on its walls, has been getting along with Chaucer, Thorau and Thackeray for 10, these many years, but on April 9 awoke to a new day."

"That there's life in the old boy yet is indicated in a letter of that date from its librarian, who asks for a complete file of Kodiak Bears."

"Why, sure, Harvard, we ain't proud. Move over Goethe!"

The cultural height of Alaskan literature, however, lies not in its prose but in its poetry. The stuff which its poets pour forth—and almost everybody who has ever been there writes a poem at sometime or another—is rugged and jagged, but in these untamed lines is to be found the true adventurous spirit of America's "Last Frontier."

You can see four yourself by reading a few verses (the tamer ones) from the following poem which the author simply named "Kodiak." The author is known as Whacky Mac. He has remained as anonymous as the labels on restaurant catsup bottles.

Where a man goes nuts and thinks it's fun. Days and miles off the beaten track Lies this Isle of Kodiak.

Nestled here in cool green hills Whose sight alone this mortal thrills, Its beauty has a far flung fame, Even the bear has earned his name.

Big and tough this bear has grown Where ever man lives this chap is known. But tho his name this isle has graced He's just a great big panty-waist.

Compared to life in Kodiak He'll have to take the seat in back. For life in Kody's twice as tough As that big bear out in the rough.

Here in this lovely garden spot One can find a goodly lot Of sourdoughs and cheechakos, Fishermen and Eskimos.

Alcuts—some Klootchies fair Dogs and children in the square Taxicabs—a score or more "Sleeper" lying round your door.

In their mad rush for the base The cabs flash right past Tony's place; Kick up the dust when streets are dry And when it rains the mud goes fly.

Now in the states where I'd lived long Life's made of Women, Wine and Song. But in Kody here you get your laugh With Hootch, a Klootch and a Phonograph.

So though it seems a lonesome battle Someday it's back to old Seattle,

And Kodiak will be to me A happy, rowdy memory.

Representatives of 13 Counties Expected at Triple-A Meeting

Symposium on Crop Insurance to Open One-Day Convention

An estimated 65 persons from 13 counties are expected to attend the special Triple-A conference for this district being held in Iowa City today.

Because of wartime restrictions, the originally planned three day program will be compressed into one day. WSUI studios will serve as headquarters for the conference. Ray Smalley, Johnson county

AAA chairman, will preside.

The confab will begin with a symposium on wheat crop insurance at 9 o'clock this morning. Radio publicity and dissemination of agricultural information will be discussed when conference delegates meet with the WSUI staff at 1:30.

At 6 o'clock delegates will attend a dinner at the Jefferson hotel, which will be followed by a two-hour meeting devoted to war program work and the production of vital agricultural supplies.

Each of the 13 counties will be represented by three county committeemen and one farmer field-woman. Several district farmer fieldmen are also expected to attend.

This district is actually composed of 10 counties, but because of rubber shortage and general wartime acceleration, three additional counties have been allowed to send delegates to the function.

Counties being represented at the conferences are Johnson, Iowa, Muscatine, Des Moines, Lee, Louisa, Henry, Scott, Cedar, Jones, Clinton, Dubuque and Jackson.

In addition to Chairman Smalley, Johnson county will be represented by Frank Sullivan, Dale Anderson and Mrs. Isabel Hunter.

Blanket Drive Starts Saturday

State-Wide Campaign To Collect Materials For Air Raid Blankets

The wool scraps and blankets to be collected in Iowa City Saturday as part of the state-wide air raid shelter blanket drive need not be clean or unsoiled, it was announced yesterday.

Local cleaning and laundry concerns have consented to clean the materials before they are cut for sewing. The cleaning committee consists of Mrs. William Parizek and Mrs. William Meardon.

The material for air raid shelter blankets will be collected Saturday by the Scribblers' club. Iowa Citizens are urged to gather wool and cotton garments, patches and blankets into bundles and place them on their porches before 8 a. m. Saturday.

Central store room will be located in the Little flower shop, 230 E. College. After cleaning and pressing, the materials will be cut and distributed for sewing.

Anyone interested in sewing the cut materials into blankets is urged to contact Mrs. Jack J. Hinman, general chairman in charge of collections, or Mrs. Rollin Perkins, chairman of the sewing committee.

Committee members plan to complete the blankets by Oct. 1 for Red Cross shipment to foreign and coastal cities.

Approximately 650,000 trucks of all kinds were purchased in the United States in 1941.

CHINA DECORATES U. S. AIRMEN WHO BOMBED TOKYO

The Military Order of China is presented above, by Maj. Gen. Shih-Ming, military attache of the Chinese embassy in Washington, to three of the American airmen who participated in the bombing of Tokyo. The presentation was made in Walter Reed hospital, Washington, where the airmen are recovering from wounds suffered since the raid. In front row, left to right, are Lieut. Charles McClure, Capt. Harold F. Watson, Capt. Ted W. Lawson, Brig. Gen. Shelley U. Marietta, commander of the army medical center, and General Chu, pinning medal on Captain Lawson. At right in rear is Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who led the raid. (Official U.S. Navy Photo)

Society for Disabled U. S. War Veterans To Be Started Here

An Iowa City chapter of the Disabled American Veterans society will be officially started in Iowa City within two weeks, it was announced yesterday.

Application for the chapter has been sent to national headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio. Congress has passed a law amending the charter of Disabled Veterans society to accept veterans of all American wars and the president has signed the bill. The national executive committee has taken the necessary action to put the provisions of the bill into immediate effect.

The bill states "Henceforth all men and women who have been wounded, gassed, injured or disabled in ANY war in which the United States has been engaged are eligible for membership in the organization."

Jesse L. Richardson is acting commander of the local organization and Wilfred Cole, acting adjutant. A national convention of the group, scheduled for Eugene, Ore., has been cancelled. A Cedar Rapids man, wounded on Wake Island, is the first soldier of the present war to be admitted to the group.

Boeing Aircraft Plant Needs 5,000 Workers

Employment Service Receives Order From Seattle Defense Firm

An order for 5,000 production workers for jobs with the Boeing Aircraft company, Seattle, Wash., was received yesterday by the United States employment service here, J. H. Patton, manager, announces.

Only requirements for the positions are that the applicants be in good health and have completed at least 100 hours of defense training. Sufficient training to qualify for these jobs can be secured locally in about one month's time, Patton said.

A regular hourly wage is paid to each worker while in training.

A new NYA defense training course will be started in the near future, according to Patton. Young men interested in this training and who are willing to accept war production work anywhere in the nation, are urged to apply at the employment office, Community building, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1 p. m.

Particulars on the course will be given to prospective applicants by a representative of the NYA.

The NYA project, which is operated through the local public school system and sponsored by the university mechanical laboratories, is open to all single men between the ages of 17 and 25, with the exception of those who are planning to return to school.

Training is given in actual machine shop techniques, such as the operation of engine lathes, turret lathes, milling machines, shapers, planers, grinders, drill presses and punch presses. Practice in mechanical drawing, blue print reading and foundry work is also offered.

Patton also announced that the first eight graduates of the local defense course have been accepted for jobs with the Boeing Aircraft company.
