All-Out Madagascar Push

Nazi Hordes Overrun Stalingrad Outskirts

German Juggernaut Forces Soviets Back In Unending Assault

MOSCOW, Friday (AP)—German tanks and infantry smashing frontally at Stalingrad forced the red army to abandon three more populated places immediately west of that city in the fourth Russian retreat in as many days, the Soviets announced early today.

Over muddy battlefields soaked by the first autumnal rains and strewn with wrecked tanks and mangled bodies the Nazi mechanized masses hammered even closer to the Volga river stronghold. Soviet airmen were reported taking an increasingly heavy toll of the advancing German legions.

Southwest of Stalingrad, the Russians said, they still were holding despite repeated Nazi attacks. On the Black sea coast the red army now is engaged in street fighting at Novorossiisk against the Germans who crashed through to the northwestern outskirts of the city, the communique said.

At Mozdok on the road to the Grozny oil fields the Russians reported their only signal success—the continued annihilation of German infantry battalions which had crossed the Terek river. German officers of the 360th division were quoted as saying their division had been routed, and in some companies only ten or 12 men survived.

Fighting also flared on the relatively dormant front at Voronezh on the upper Don river where the Russians said that German tank-supported troops overran one populated place south of that city, but later were thrown back to their original positions. Twenty German tanks were reported destroyed and three Nazi infantry companies routed.

The new red army withdrawal west of Stalingrad gave the Nazis five populated areas in two days. Four Nazi tanks were destroyed and 400 Germans killed in one sector, the communique said, but the heaviest destruction was credited to red airmen who in the last two days "destroyed or damaged about 30 tanks, 100 trucks with troops and supplies, and in air combats brought down 15 German planes." Shifting the bulk of their equipment and troops directly west of Stalingrad the Germans have gained steadily in the last week. Tough storm troopers from the streets of Berlin were reported participating in the assault.

On the southeastern side of the city the Russians said their artillery and infantry had beaten off the enemy, destroying 13 more tanks, 14 trucks, and 42 military dumps. The firm defense of this sector as well as the northwestern approaches resulted in the German frontal drive.

Down the Black seacoast the Germans, who occupy part of the former Soviet naval station of Novorossiisk, were trying to land infantry from the sea behind the Russians' backs, but, red dispatches said, they lost at least four cutters and two torpedo boats in the attempt. Frontally the Germans were putting on heavy pressure to get to the center of the city.

In the Terek valley of the deep Caucasus, 50 miles from the Grozny oil fields, the Germans who have crossed the river near Mozdok were reported driven back to the water's edge in some places. Several new German river crossings were smashed by strong Soviet airpower.

ALLIES STEM JAP PUSH ON PORT MORESBY

This Central Press map shows areas where allied forces have halted a Japanese drive on Port Moresby, allied advance base in New Guinea. The Japanese broke through the Owen Stanley mountain pass south of Kokoda (1) and advanced within 44 miles of Moresby where they were finally stopped by allied troops. The enemy has also shelled Australian forces in the Milne bay area (2) at the southeast tip of New Guinea.

Allied Forces Check Jap Thrust Over Owen Stanley Mountains

Bitter Fighting Rages 44 Air Miles From Port Moresby Base

By MURLIN SPENCER

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEAD-QUARTERS, Australia, Friday.

(AP)—Japan's thrust through the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea has been checked south of Ewigi, 44 air miles from the big allied base of Port Moresby, and "bitter fighting continues with casualties reported heavy on both sides," a communique said today.

Allied attack bombers continued to pour explosives on the veteran Japanese jungle fighters and their tortuous supply lines leading back through the mountain pass to Myola on the northern slopes.

"The enemy yesterday made no further progress" in the area of Ewigi, the communique said.

Outflanked Allies

The 12-mile Japanese advance from Myola to Ewigi first was announced yesterday. The green-painted Japanese jungle fighters had outflanked allied positions on the northern side of "the gap," an 8,000-foot pass, then executed a second flanking movement at Ewigi to carry them south of that native hamlet.

The communique indicated that the allied ground defenders aided Ewigi, the communique said. Their resistance since yesterday, when the invaders were reported to have pushed through the Owen Stanley mountain range to filter down the south slope toward Port Moresby, main allied base in New Guinea.

21.5 Bushels

The soybean crop, on the basis of Sept. 1 conditions, was estimated at 21.5 bushels an acre. Total production was estimated at 43,366,000 bushels, an increase of 161 per cent over last year and "by far the largest soybean crop in the history of the state," Carl's report stated.

"In fact," the report continued, "the current year's production for Iowa alone will be well above the 10-year (1930-39) average production for the entire nation."

Last year the soybean yield per acre in the state was 17.5 bushels and the crop totaled 16,608,000 bushels.

the difficult Owen Stanley range was found in the words of Gen. MacArthur, addressed to U. S. troops.

He advised the Americans never to let the Japanese attack first whatever their position might be.

Large Jap Force

The size of the Japanese force on the south slope of the mountains near the allied base was not disclosed, but it was not believed large. Moreover the forces probably had only light equipment due to the difficulty in transporting tanks and heavy guns through the narrow, jungle-clad mountain passes.

Australian troops predominated among the allied forces opposing the Japanese, although a unspecified number of American service troops including Negroes are based on Port Moresby. The tide of the battle was not disclosed.

Economist Calls Beef Shortage 'Artificial'

CHICAGO, (AP)—H. M. Conway, economist of the National Live Stock Marketing Association, asserted yesterday that the beef shortage "is being artificially created through mistaken government policy at a time when all-out production is the crying need."

"I doubt that the OPA and the economists in Washington yet realize what is happening in the livestock industry," Conway said. "They don't seem to appreciate what governs livestock production."

"The solution to the problem is to get range cattle into the feed lots. That can be done by putting ceilings on choice dressed beef back where they belong. It will do no good to put lower ceilings on range cattle. The cattle growers do not have to sell. They have plenty of feed and will hold their stock on the range."

LONDON, (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill disclosed last night that Britain's home guard now numbers 1,750,000 men.

Men in Army Reserve To Be Called to Duty As They Become 20

Will Draft Students Already in Reserves By End of Semester

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Because of the "exigencies of war," Secretary Stimson announced yesterday the war department's intention to call to active military duty all college student members of the army enlisted reserve as they reach the draft age.

Students in more than 1,000 colleges and universities have joined the reserves under an arrangement whereby they would continue their studies, although they were subject to call if needed.

Semester Left

"It is now expected that by the end of the college term or semester beginning in September those student members of the reserves who have reached selective service age will all or for the most part be called to active duty," the war secretary said in a statement.

"Those reaching that age during subsequent terms will similarly be called."

The new policy, officials said, applies also to students who have joined the army air forces reserve. The navy, however, reported no change in its announced intention to permit its student reservists to continue their studies as long as possible.

Running Short

Noting that "we are running short of army manpower now," Stimson also announced that several thousand members of the regular army, reserve, enlisted corp, and the national guard, who have been deferred thus far because of dependency, would be recalled to active duty in October and November.

All are former servicemen. Their recall was made feasible, it was explained, by the cash allotments to dependents voted by congress and by the raise in pay given men in the armed services. Reservists not ordered to duty will be discharged from the reserve as of December 31.

In another manpower development the navy announced the release of local draft boards must be obtained before additional men were enlisted in the navy from the 2-A, 2-B and 3-B selective service deferred classifications.

'Dangerous' Rubber Shortage Prompts Move—

F.R. Okays National Gas Ration

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The War Relocation Authority immediately approved yesterday the imposition of nationwide gasoline rationing and other rigid civilian motoring restrictions to keep a "dangerous" rubber shortage from producing "both a military and civilian collapse."

Asserting that "the naked facts present a warning" which the country dare not ignore, that the choice is "discomfort or defeat," the committee recommended:

A nation-wide speed limit of 35 miles per hour.
Reduction of the average annual mileage per car to 5,000, with the mileage of the "less essential drivers" cut far below that point. The allocation of rubber and Thiokol (a substitute) to maintain essential civilian driving by recapping tires and making new ones.

Compulsory periodic tire inspection.
A voluntary program of rubber conservation, until these controls can be established.

Nationwide application of all restrictions.
Bluntly criticizing administration of the rubber program for "overlapping and confusing authority," insufficient reliance upon technical advisors, and procedures "bordering on the chaotic," the committee recommended the creation of a single rubber administrator to have complete charge of the program under the chairman of the war production board.

"One example of inexplicable administration that we can mention," it said, "is the failure to obtain detailed technical information concerning the experience of Soviet Russia in making synthetic rubber."

Russia has been manufacturing synthetic rubber successfully for more than ten years. Had the offer of the Soviet government made in February to exchange full information been accepted, it is conceivable that plants for producing synthetic rubber by the Russian processes might well be on the way to completion.

It found that the nation must rely upon the production of synthetic rubber, and upon the uncertainties of creating in a few months an industry which ordinarily could be established only in a dozen years, for rubber for both military and civilian uses.

Senate Group Eases Lower Bracket Rates

Increases Liabilities In Advanced Levels With New Surtaxes

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The senate finance committee yesterday eased the impact of proposed individual income taxes in the lower brackets and increased tax liabilities somewhat in the higher levels by adopting a new schedule of surtaxes for net incomes up to $8,000 a year.

The new rates, for incomes below $2,000, would be imposed in $500 income bands instead of one $2,000 bracket as under present law. This made possible a more gentle graduation of the rates, and imposition of a 10 per cent rather than 13 per cent surtax rate on the first $500 of surtax net income.

13 Per Cent
From $500 to $1,000, the rate was set at 13 per cent, as proposed in the house bill, but from $1,500 to $8,000 the senate voted rates ranging from one to five percentage points higher than the house proposal, but the total surtax would be larger through the cumulative effect of the $1,500 to $8,000 bracket increases.

Treasury officials estimated the change would add $33,000,000 a year revenue.

Forced Savings

During the day secretary of the treasury Morgenthau told a press conference that he was spending made inevitable some form of "forced savings."

He still held to his belief that a proposed tax on individual expenditures which the senate committee rejected, was the best method to be adopted and "would furnish a strong deterrent to spend money."

Red Bombing Attacks Fire German Cities

LONDON, (AP)—Russian bombers ranging over wide axis areas from the east in their part of a great allied air offensive touched off scores of fires and explosions Tuesday night in Berlin, Budapest and Koenigsberg, the Moscow radio announced last night.

It was the second time within a week that the red bombers spread alarm over Nazi and axis areas. This time the Russians said two bombers failed to return to their bases.

Thirty-eight fires, 12 of them large, were observed in Budapest and eight explosions were caused in the Hungarian capital.

In Berlin, 12 fires and four explosions were observed. There were 16 fires in Koenigsberg, east Prussia.

The Germans acknowledged yesterday that Russian planes penetrated again to the environs of Berlin Wednesday night and attacked Budapest.

Regimental Review

A regimental review of the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school will be held this morning on the athletic field south of the fieldhouse, it was announced yesterday.

The review will be given in honor of Commander Julian F. Woodruff, USNR of the bureau of aeronautics in Washington who is visiting the local base.

AFL Strike Spreads Through Alton Plant

State Militia Watches Orderly Picket Lines As Single Crew Works

ALTON, Ill., (AP)—With more than 1,000 men of the Illinois reserve militia mobilized and standing by, the huge Western Cartilage co. plant at East Alton remained virtually shut down last night by a strike of AFL chemical workers and sympathizers.

The strike, which began Tuesday over the discharge of one employe in the smokeless powder division, spread to the entire plant early yesterday. Only a skeleton crew of maintenance workers passed through the strongly reinforced but orderly picket lines.

Gov. Dwight H. Green ordered 12 companies of the militia mobilized as a "precautionary arrangement" for possible duty at the scene. They were being held in readiness at their respective armories.

Union leaders protested there was no need for troops. Fred Olds, AFL organizer, telephoned President Roosevelt to send in regular army troops instead of state militia, "if he thinks any armed forces are necessary."

Meantime, war department officials at Washington said the strike was "in the war labor board's lap." Union members have twice rejected WLB requests to return to work pending negotiations of a new union contract.

Army spokesmen declined to say whether the army is considering taking over the plant.
While specific information on production or the number of employes is not permissible, the company declared "a great deal of production" was being lost as only "comparatively few" employes were at work. The company holds many war contracts.

British Launch Drive to Take All of Island

Throw Forces Into Attack to Neutralize Potential Axis Base

LONDON, (AP)—The British launched a powerful sea, air and land offensive yesterday to neutralize all of Madagascar and eliminate reported fueling of Japanese submarines in secret harbors and Nazi espionage carried on with connivance of Vichy French agents.

Almost as soon as Vichy announced that the British navy and the royal air force were shelling and bombing three key ports on the west coast of the island off east Africa, it was disclosed here that Japanese planes have been permitted to reconnoitre the southern part of Madagascar.

It was stated also that Japanese submarines had put into remote coves to be supplied for attacks on allied shipping in the Mozambique channel and Indian ocean, and that German spies who made their way to Madagascar were assisted by some local officials on orders from Vichy.

Reconvoys
The island is so situated that in enemy hands it could become an important rendezvous of communication and supply between Japan and Germany and Italy.

There were some fighting French soldiers in the offensive, which the war office said was "continuing satisfactorily," but the brunt of the attack was borne by three squadrons of warships and RAF planes.

Implementing the fighting with a political declaration, the British government announced that it had acted only after the Madagascar authorities had refused to cooperate in making the island safe for the united nations against the axis.

Further, the British government promised that it has no territorial designs on Madagascar.

Madagascar remains French, an announcement said. The British had little to say about the operations but Vichy dispatches reported that the British forces coming from the Mozambique channel, where Japanese submarines have been operating against allied shipping, were attacking Majunga harbor, 320 miles southwest of the British-held naval base of Diego Suarez, Morondava, 690 miles southwest of Diego Suarez, and Amanja, about 120 miles below the naval base.

The French said it was apparent that the British were building up to a landing attempt at Majunga, where the shelling continued all day.

18 Warships

Eighteen warships were in the flotilla standing off Majunga, the French said. The assault there was reported timed to coincide with an attack from the north by fighting French soldiers, who were said to have attempted to land nine miles from Majunga two days ago.

The Vichy reports said the De-gaullists were driven off. Majunga is the largest port in the island and is the gateway to Tananarive, the inland capital of Madagascar. It could provide shelter for large naval forces.

Amanja is a control point for the only overland highway with the rest of the island and Morondava, the third most important port after Majunga and Diego Suarez, controls the Straits of Mozambique.

The west coast apparently was chosen for attack because of the difficulty of landing assault forces on the almost inaccessible east side which has no harbor.

The British struck, with the full agreement of the United States, five months after they had captured Diego Suarez.

Considered it necessary to seize control of the island to make safe convoy routes to Egypt, India, Australia and Russia.

It's tough work but when these soldiers are through with their special training course at Harding field, Louisiana, they will be skilled in the technique of silent attack. They are shown above swimming with full packs and rifles, only their heads above the water.

Rommel Bested at Own Game

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Marshal Rommel's Full Scale Offensive His 1st Big Error—

WASHINGTON—The smart Marshal Rommel got his nose caught in his own tank treads at El Himeimat. He was outwitted by a new adaptation of an old trick he played on us.

The drive he started at the southern tip of that 31-mile British line was the opening maneuver of a full scale offensive. He marshaled one-third of his entire force against what he thought was the weakest point of the British line, at least it was farthest from the shore railroad, and without any direct road back to the Alexandria base.

With skill he pushed his tanks through eight miles of British mine fields that lay out in front of their defensive positions, like a protective explosive apron. Mines, of course, are not visible to the eye, and the British could not plant them as thick as carrots, a foot apart, but they had the field securely sprinkled.

The trick by which Rommel got through, was to spray all suspected spots with artillery and gunfire to explode the mines, and his tanks thereupon coasted safely over the peck-marked territory.

This brought him up against the allied defense line, intact and ready for battle. He found the line was not a series of trenches, but the usual defensive positions in depth, with machine gun pill boxes and artillery positions—much artillery, more than he had seen before.

Rommel had brought along his magnificent 88 mm. guns, the big mobile cannon, which served him so effectively against our tanks in Auchinleck's near-disaster at Rezegh, before the fall of Tobruk.

Our General Grants and the British tanks were supposed to come out to do battle with his tanks in another open field conflict of the mechanized monstrosities, whereupon Rommel would again unleash his 88s and make scrap metal of them.

The British need only one lesson. They kept their tanks safe inside their lines this time. Instead, they leveled their artillery at the German tanks, and called up dive bombers, as well as fast fighting pursuit planes (hard to hit) carrying small bombs. These went after the Nazi tanks with great fury, in excellent clear weather. (A sand storm hindered operation only the first day.)

Rommel persisted in his position for several days, but he never got into the British lines. Wendell Willkie (who put more past the Egyptian censors than the correspondents) says 100 of Rommel's 270 first-line tanks were crushed and ruined.

General Alexander then switched his bombers to the Nazi lines of gasoline supplies, which rambled far back through the desert. After these had been pounded for several days, and much German gasoline destroyed, Rommel was forced to retire, because of a shortage of fuel. Berlin explained away his misadventure as "a reconnaissance in force."

There can be no doubt from the size of the force, and the way Rommel used it, this was a big drive to break the British lines. It was the opening of a major offensive that did not fully materialize, because the first move failed.

And it failed, not only because we had more bombing power than his limited plane force could cope with (Hitler drew in practically everything in the air for the Russian drive), but because General Alexander fought his superior airpower with skill, matching Rommel's generalship.

This should keep Mister Rommel quiet for an indefinite period. He will probably need more tanks and gasoline before starting anything very important.

On the other hand, his losses may not have been sufficient to encourage the British to launch an offensive, especially as they now occupy a short compact battle position, better than the desert in front of them offers Rommel, and with excellent short roads back to their base.

At any rate, you can score the latest fight on the Libyan front as a major defeat of the Nazis.

Mark Up an Error to Paul Mallon—

While you have your pencil out, score an error for me. Down in this column published September 3, the terse, strong, fact-packed communiqué on the battle of the Solomons was attributed to the pen of General MacArthur.

This was an unintended and therefore a greater tribute to Captain Leland P. Lovette, new director of naval public relations, who really wrote it. The style was so good, I thought it was MacArthur's. Naval communiques are going to be better now.

Hitler Quite Responsible—

Professor Reuter's statement the other night to the effect that Hitler and associated personalities are merely results and not causes of movements leading up to the present conflict and that they should be considered as "incidentals" in examining the war raised several questions in our minds.

Would, or could any other man or group of men have led Germany to war? Wouldn't German "feelings" have remained hidden without Hitler's leadership, his psychological genius to sway and unite all followers?

The obvious answer to these questions—the one usually given by competent foreign observers—is that the Nazis simply took advantage of their opportunity; that conditions in Germany were ideal for the type of political seed which Hitler was trying to plant.

This seed—superficially a combination of racial propaganda, flattery and other equally palatable Nazi "ideals"—found a warm spot in the German soul and so flowered into what we now know as the Third Reich.

The two factors, then, leadership and the particular social, economic and political condition in which Germany found herself following World War I, seem inextricably united; as if one needed to fuse with the other in order to attain the present results. In other words, one is just as important as the other.

Admittedly, the Germans were down-trodden, despondent and open to all suggestions to raise them from the chaos following their defeat in the first war, but they would likely have remained in that condition—smoldering with dormant hatred and nationalism—had not Hitler made capital of their attitude by installing his "New Order."

Hitler gave the German people not only military supremacy, but more important, psychological superiority. He saved their wounds and inflated their egos. Without a doubt he did it more effectively than any other one man could have done, had one attempted.

H. B. Knickerbocker, noted foreign correspondent who has talked with Hitler and heard him speak publicly numerous times, contends that World War II would have been long delayed, if it had come about at all, had it not been for Adolf Hitler.

"He is the greatest mass organizer, the most dynamic mob psychologist the world has ever known," Knickerbocker opines.

Thus it appears that while Hitler found things ripe in Germany for his "New Order" and took advantage of the opportunity—and in this respect he may be considered a "result" or reflection of the German soul—he can hardly be classed as "incidental" in listing the causes of this war.

For Men of 30 to 60—

If you are a patriotic, reasonably healthy male between the ages of 30 and 60 and have not yet found your war service niche, there may be a place for you in the Army Specialist corps. Our armed forces can use every specialist they can find.

The corps is new to the army and officials expect it to be a reservoir of qualified specialists, skilled in every line of professional and business activity. It will be composed mostly of men who because of age, physical handicaps or other restrictions are not eligible for appointment to the regular army.

To qualify for the uniform of the Army Specialist corps, an applicant should possess specialized knowledge, and experience in such diversified occupations as appraising, traffic, warehousing, machine parts inspection, editing of technical service publications, mechanical and communications engineering, utilities operation, metal lurgy and many others. He should be able to pass a physical examination having in mind the character of work to be done. He should not be liable for military duty under a 1-A selective service classification or be considered essential in his present civilian post.

Rank and pay will range approximately the same as for regular army commissioned officers, but with special non-commissioned classifications.

If you've been eager to get into the service, and have some knowledge in one of the above mentioned fields, here is your chance to help your country.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

News From Broadway In Little Items—

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The John C. Wilson office, representing Noel Coward in America, has a special clipping bureau service on Coward as an added means of checking up on Coward plays being produced by small companies and amateur groups throughout the continent.

These clipping bureaus comb the newspapers and magazines of the country for mention of a client's name. And each clipping is relayed to the client at, roughly, 7 cents per clip.

The other day Dizzy Dean, broadcasting a baseball game in St. Louis, cried: "I ain't no Noel Coward"—and it cost Coward $17 in clipping fees.

Incidentally, this little mention will cost him a pretty penny, too—but with "Blithe Spirit" making the kind of money it has been making—Coward can afford it. Touring rural England in a cycle of three Coward plays.

Barry Wood will argue with you that Connecticut tops the nation in vocal output, pointing out that these singing celebrities have homes in the Nutmeg State—Glady's Swarthout, Grace Moore, James Melton, Libby Holman, Anna Kaskas, Charles Kullman, Lawrence Tibbett, Paul Robeson, Eileen Farrell, Rose Bampton, and Rosa and Carmen Ponselle. Wood: "Why go to night-clubs?"

One of the real phenomena of show business in a decade or more has been the changing of leads in "Life With Father," which Howard Lindsay and Dorothy Stickney have played nearly three years on Broadway. Last year Miss Stickney and Mr. Lindsay brought in Margalo Gilmore and Percy Waram to take their parts while they went gaily off on a vacation. This year they have brought in Dorothy Gish and Louis Calhern for the vacation stint. The phenomenon is this: Plays—as a rule—don't last that long, and even when they do the stars usually cling to their own roles rather than serenely go away on vacations leaving their lines to someone else. In reporting the change the local critics looked upon Miss Gish as a beguiling replacement and on Mr. Calhern with equal favor.

Washington in Wartime

WASHINGTON—There's bad news on the horizon for wilful violators of retail price ceilings and gas, tire and other rationing orders.

Up to now, the office of price administration has concentrated on educational measures, to acquaint merchants and the public with the regulations. "School days" are over now, however, and the warning is out that crackdowns are in order.

Rationing has brought the bootlegger of prohibition days back into circulation, recent surveys indicate. Prosecutions for violation of the rubber tire rationing order disclosed highly-organized rings of peddlers.

One such organization sold illegally acquired tires to its salesmen at a flat rate—about double the market price—and the salesmen in turn sold to their customers. The sales got "all the traffic would bear" for the illicit merchandise. It was this price-gouging that finally resulted in breaking up the ring. Customers were willing to get the tires but squawked at the fantastic prices.

It is the general feeling of OPA enforcement officers that the wartime bootlegger of rationed goods will be easier to trap and convict than his prohibition era counterpart.

The prohibition law wash thoroughly unpopular with a great many people. It was often difficult to empanel a jury that would convict a booze peddler. Customers of an alcohol merchant in those times not only did not snitch on their favorite bootlegger but were extremely reluctant to give officers useful information.

The situation is considerably different now. The general public is convinced of the necessity of rubber, sugar and gas rationing. It's generally known that measures are necessary to the war effort, and there is evidence that the public isn't winking at violations.

Furthermore, that price element is certain to be the jinx of the 1942 bootlegger. Without organized buying power, the bootlegger himself must pay normal prices for the goods he intends to retail, as in consequence of the risk involved, jacks up the price. The customer who pays two or three times the value of a tire is generally burned up and ready to spill the whole story to enforcement officials.

Enforcement of the gasoline regulations in the rationed area is generally considered satisfactory. The first ration card system was full of loopholes and there was widespread violation. The present system, which requires a garage man to show coupons for all gas sold before being able to replenish his stock, pretty well eliminates giving favored customers extra gas.

Enforcement of the gas rationing order will be pretty near perfect when a checkup of unlimited commercial coupons is completed. There have been instances where unlimited coupons holders sold whole pages of coupons to unscrupulous service station men, who then had gas take care of favorite customers at above-market prices.

Homecoming Plans Made

Prof. A. C. Tester Will Head Committee In Charge of Event

Prof. Allen C. Tester of the geology department has been named chairman of the 14-member homecoming committee now beginning work on the university's first wartime homecoming in 25 years, to be held here Nov. 6 and 7.

Professor Tester is serving his first year as chairman, succeeding Prof. George Haskell, who is now in government service. Other new members of the committee for the 31st homecoming are Theodore Rehder, manager of the dining service and W. W. Mercer of Iowa City, alumni representative.

Iowa vs. Wisconsin
Main event of the homecoming will be the football game with the University of Wisconsin, scheduled for 2 p. m. Nov. 7. Many of the traditional events of that week end will be continued, Professor Tester said, including the Friday evening party, mass meeting and receptions.

Iowa's corn monument, constructed by students in the college of engineering, will rise again at a street intersection. This year, however, an attempt will be made to embody the idea of war bond sales and the Hawkeye state's corn harvest as an aid to the war effort, in the monument.

Economy will characterize the whole program now being planned by the committee, Professor Tester said.

Homecoming Committee
Other committee members are: Prof. Thomas G. Caywood of the college of engineering; Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department; Prof. Frederic G. Higbee of the college of engineering; Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division; Donald R. Mallet, associate director of the office of student affairs.

Program to Feature M. Kennedy's Book

Dorothy Ward will begin reading "Where Stands a Winged Sentry," by Margaret Kennedy at 10:30 tomorrow morning on The Bookshelf program over WSUI.

The book is a story of the author's life in England, from Dunkirk and the fall of France through the first summer of the war. Her husband worked in London and she lived with her children in a small west coast town, where there were also 800 evacuated children.

Miss Kennedy's story brings out some of the changes that are taking place in England, and in the social outlook of wartime Britain. She does this quietly by telling about little things that happen to little people.

Margaret Kennedy is the author of "The Constant Nymph," which created wide-spread interest. "Where Stands a Winged Sentry" is even better, and people will no doubt still be reading it after the war to gain an insight into the reactions of the middle-class people of England in wartime.

Cards Cut Brooklyn Lead to Two Games

Cardinals Clip New York, 5-1, Behind Pollet

Schumacher Clubbed For Three Counters In Hectic First Inning

NEW YORK, (AP)—With the help of a "crooshal" error charged against a fielder for doing the right thing, the St. Louis Cardinals clouted the Giants, 5 to 1, yesterday to breathe even more fiercely down the necks of the Dodgers in the roaring National league pennant race.

With Brooklyn losing to Chicago, the Cards moved up to within two games of the pace-setters through their own victory, in which young Howie Pollet, the southpaw who always finds his "cousins" in the Giant lineup, served up a four-hitter.

And as they danced into their club house, the St. Louis lads were more confident than ever that they'd make up the difference between them and the top in the two game series with the Dodgers today and tomorrow.

Preliminary Licks
Yesterday's outing enabled them to get in some good preliminary licks. They pushed over three runs on Hal Schumacher in the first inning, largely through that unusual "error," added another on a pair of hits in the fifth and wound up their run making when Terry Moore smashed his fifth homer of the year on the left field roof in the eighth.

Meantime, Pollet was having the time of his life chalking up his sixth victory of the year. From the first frame, when the New Yorkers connected for two of their safeties, until Mel Ott poked his 27th round-tripper in the seventh, not a man got on base.

The first inning saw all the fuss and fire works and peculiar antics. Jimmy Brown walked and Terry Moore scratched a hit down the third base line. Enos Slaughter then poked a single into right scoring Brown.

Ott Throws to 3rd
Ott fielded the ball and threw to third—the proper play with two runners on base. However, third-sacker Bartell had run into back-up any play at the plate, and the bag was unprotected, so Ott's shove rolled all the way to the box seats, and Moore came home and Slaughter went all the way to third.

The misplay had to be charged against Mel for throwing to an open base, although it was no fault of his that neither Bartell

Hawk Diamondmen Open Practice Today

Coach Waddy Davis, newly appointed head of the Iowa baseball team, announced yesterday that the Hawkeye diamondmen would start fall practices this afternoon at 3:30.

At a meeting held yesterday in the fieldhouse, Davis acquainted himself with the squad and outlined some of his plans for the coming year.

Coach Davis has replaced Lieut. Otto Vogel as head baseball coach for the duration of the war. Vogel is now stationed here at the Navy Pre-Flight school.

nor shortstop Bill Jurgens covered the bag.

Later Slaughter came home on Walker Cooper's fly, to finish up the rally that gave the Cards enough to win right there.

Just for the records, Schumacher was only a "substitute" going into yesterday's game. Carl Hubbell was slated to do the tossing, but he was hit on the head by a ball thrown by a Cardinal in the St. Louis fielding drill, suffered a bruised mastoid, and had to be replaced.

Cochrane, who sprang the fistic upset of 1941 by winning the title from Zivic the last time, relied almost entirely on a wild-swinging body attack last night. It did some good through the first five rounds, but from the sixth to the finish, Zivic had more fun than a kid at the circus banging away at Freddie's head almost at will.

Finally getting the revenge for which he's been "eating his heart out" ever since the Jersey red-head took the 147 pound crown from him a year ago last July, Fritzie handed Red a gaudy, boxing lesson, puffed his face up with knife-like punches and won going away in rough and tumble brawl that had a near-full house hopping to its feet time after time.

Injuries have already hit the Hawkeye camp to put Hirt, Danner, Brack, Todd and Lay on the sidelines. Probably all but Brack will be back in uniform by next week.

It is still a little early to pick a first team, but a sideline's idea of probable starters might be Don Williams and Dave Danner, ends; Bob Arn and Dean Yanaush, tackles; either Bill Frey or Ruben Snider, center and a mighty backfield of Wayne Hopp, Bob

Fritzie Zivic Captures Ten Round Decision From 'Red' Cochrane in Non-Title Tussle

Zivic's Extra Weight Allows Welterweight Champ to Keep Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Fritzie Zivic last night gave Red Cochrane the beating he'd been promising him for a year and easily won a ten round decision over the welterweight champion in Madison Square Garden in a bout that was a non-title tussle by a mere quarter of a pound. Zivic weighed 147 1/4; Cochrane 146.

Cochrane and Fritzie drew a crowd of 13,259 customers, who contributed to a gross gate of $30,817.

Cochrane, who sprang the fistic upset of 1941 by winning the title from Zivic the last time, relied almost entirely on a wild-swinging body attack last night. It did some good through the first five rounds, but from the sixth to the finish, Zivic had more fun than a kid at the circus banging away at Freddie's head almost at will.

Finally getting the revenge for which he's been "eating his heart out" ever since the Jersey red-head took the 147 pound crown from him a year ago last July, Fritzie handed Red a gaudy, boxing lesson, puffed his face up with knife-like punches and won going away in rough and tumble brawl that had a near-full house hopping to its feet time after time.

Injuries have already hit the Hawkeye camp to put Hirt, Danner, Brack, Todd and Lay on the sidelines. Probably all but Brack will be back in uniform by next week.

Hawk Gridders Again Open Up Passing Attack

The air-minded Hawkeye gridders filled the air with passes again yesterday, as Dr. Eddie Anderson again sent Iowa's 40-man squad through passing and signal drills. Anderson indicated there would be a couple of light scrimmages sometime next week, but that the rest of the time preceding the Sept. 19 opener would be spent on defensive drills.

Ted (Duke) Curran, breakaway sophomore halfback, took a turn at passing for the first time, while Tom Farmer worked part of the time on the second string backfield. It was the Cedar Rapids halfback's debut with the reserves.

Jim Youel was working at the quarterback post on the varsity, with Dick Hoerner at fullback, Bill Stauss at right half and Curran filling out the combination. Farmer, however, moved into the left half post for most of the workout, and shared the greater part of the passing chores with Youel.

These five have been interchanging during all the drills, and they will undoubtedly be seeing most of the action against Washington university in the opener. Within these five players are concentrated the squad's offensive power. Youel and Farmer as well as being two of the team's top passers, are the two longest kickers, and with Stauss in the backfield there will be Iowa's three longest punters in the game at one time.

Bill Burkett, who had a bad charley horse the day before, took a light workout again, but the big end said he would be ready to go today.

Harris Stageberg, junior guard, reported for his initial practice, after completing his registration in the morning.

Phils Best Pirates In 11 Inning Contest

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Phils came from behind yesterday to snap a 13-game losing streak with a 2-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates in an 11 inning contest. The weather broke up the second game of the scheduled double header after three and half innings of play.

Danny Litwhiler welloped a mighty center field triple in the 11th frame to score Nor Northey from first base and give pitcher Tommy Hughes his 10th victory of the season. Huges relieved John Podgajny in the ninth.

Both Pirate manager Frankie Frisch and third baseman Bob Elliott were banished from the game for arguing too warmly over a decision in the 10th inning.

Paul Derringer Wins For Cincinnati, 6-2

BOSTON.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds were given splendid pitching performances by Paul Derringer and Ray Starr yesterday but they netted only one victory in their final appearances of the season against the Boston Braves. Derringer was credited with a 6-2 win in the opener but Starr's two-hitter was wasted because the Reds had to have the scoreless nightcap called at the end of the ninth to board a train for Philadelphia.

Seahawk Grid Squad Again Given Practice On Offensive Action

Bierman Cuts Squad To Thirty-Three Men For Opening Contest

Offensive action held the spotlight again yesterday as Seahawk football activity drew toward the close of its second week. Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman will top off the week's work with another full-time scrimmage tomorrow afternoon.

Most of yesterday's work was taken up with field and passing scrimmages against the B squad. Bill Schatzer and Bobby Fisher handled most of the passing chores.

After a short limbering up drill, Bierman sent his charges through a blocking drill on the dummies and a live tackling session, moved into the scrimmage and wound up with a hard running signal drill.

With the Kansas contest little more than a week away, Bierman has narrowed his varsity squad down to 33 men. At left end he has Matt Bolger of Notre Dame, Whitey Fraumann of Michigan and Bob Daly of Northwestern; the left tackle post will be contested for by S. W. Kolens of Illinois, Bob Wilson of Millikin and Forrest Jordan of Michigan.

Christian W. Slagle Returns to SUI

In 1877, Christian W. Slagle agreed to act as president of the university. In 1942, Christian W. Slagle registered as a freshman in liberal arts.

But don't be confused — the latter Christian W. Slagle, who enrolled here last week, is the great-grandson of the university's renowned pioneer for whom he is named, Christian.

From 1886 until his death in 1888, Christian W. Slagle, that is, the present Chris's ancestor, was a member of the board of trustees of the university. Previous to this, from 1849 until 1853, when the University of Iowa was still in the making, he served on the board of directors at Fairfield. Then for a single year during 1877 and 1878, Christian W. Slagle was president of the university here.

Iowa's 1942 Christian W. Slagle is 18 years old, comes from Chatham, N. J., and plays the French horn. In fact, he is planning to major in music and is a member of the university band.

"Hope I don't have to live up to anything," says Chris. "That would be too gruesome!"

Surviving are three sons, Theodore and Irving G. of Iowa City and Herbert of Oxford; one daughter, Mrs. A. A. Welt, and seven grandchildren.

Officials of Bond Drive Discuss Plans for 2 Big Victory Parties

'Victory Premiere' To Be Held Sept. 21 At Englert Theater

Representatives from more than 40 Iowa City organizations assembled with members of the executive committee of the September war bond drive in the campaign headquarters at 118 E. Washington yesterday to discuss plans for the "Victory Premiere" and the "Buy-A-Bond" dance.

The "Victory Premiere" which consists of the showing of "Wake Island," Hollywood's latest war epic, and the appearance on the stage of Gray Gordon and his renowned 16-piece orchestra will be held on the night of September 21, at the Englert theater.

Albert Davis, local motion picture executive, explained that tickets would not be sold for this event but could only be obtained by the purchase of United States war bonds. The purchase of a $1,000 bond entitles the buyer to two tickets. Purchasers of bonds in denominations of $100, $50 and $25 are entitled to one ticket each. All seats will be reserved. Bonds may be bought at any of the local banks, the post office, or theater box offices.

The "Buy-A-Bond" dance will be held at the Iowa Union immediately after Gordon's orchestra completes its appearance on the Englert stage and admission for each couple will be on the basis of the purchase of a $100 bond. F. L. Hamborg, university treasurer, and Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of Iowa Union, were named co-chairmen of the dance committee.

No tickets for either affair can be reserved by telephone. Tickets will be issued until they are sold out.

Davis estimated that $118,000 would be contributed to the bond drive through this effort. At the present time, plans call for the sale of 1155 tickets to the show and 1000 tickets for the dance. He expects to have a sell-out by the middle of next week.

Prof. Karl E. Leib of the college of commerce, in explaining the need for an increase in bond sales, said at the meeting that the government wants citizens to invest in this type of savings for two reasons: one, to take money out of circulation and thereby eliminate the upward trend of prices and wages, and two, to build up savings for the post-war era when war production will return to peace-time status.

Members of the various organizations present were asked by E. F. Lenthe, general chairman of the war bond committee to consider themselves appointed as committees of one to solicit their respective groups. Theater parties or dance parties were some ideas suggested for boosting sales.

Lenthe announced that within 48 hours after the first announcement was made, 15 persons had purchased $1,000 bonds.

Among the civic, service and fraternal organizations represented at the meeting were the Moose lodge, Sons of Union Veterans, Eagles lodge, Women's club, Lib-

World War Guns Scrapped by Military Department

Twelve tons of steel in the form of four field guns and five machine guns of World War I vintage were presented to the Johnson county scrap drive by the university military department yesterday.

In addition to the steel which will be released for the manufacture of later type artillery more than 800 pounds of rubber will be salvaged from the wheels of the four field guns.

The guns were acquired by the university in 1922 as a gift from the mayor of Iowa City. They were sent to Iowa City immediately following the signing of the Armistice.

Five Claim Petitions Filed at Court House As Deadline Nears

Five claim petitions were filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday as the allotted time for filing neared expiration.

Today is the last day for filing, explained Clerk R. Neilson Miller, since the new court term begins Sept. 21 and the law requires that petitions be filed 10 days in advance.

Petitions filed yesterday include:

F. E. Frazier vs. Reuben W. Scharf for judgment of $121.65 and interest for goods sold. Dr. D. F. Fitzpatrick vs. William Pohler and Jean Pohler for judgment of $134 for medical services rendered.

George R. Draper vs. Office Trosper for judgment of $5,300 for injuries and damages incurred in an automobile-motorcycle collision. Lloyd A. Freswick, administrator of the estate of Peter Freswick, deceased, vs. Leslie E. Freswick and Elizabeth for $5,495.50 for failure to live up to the terms of a contract.

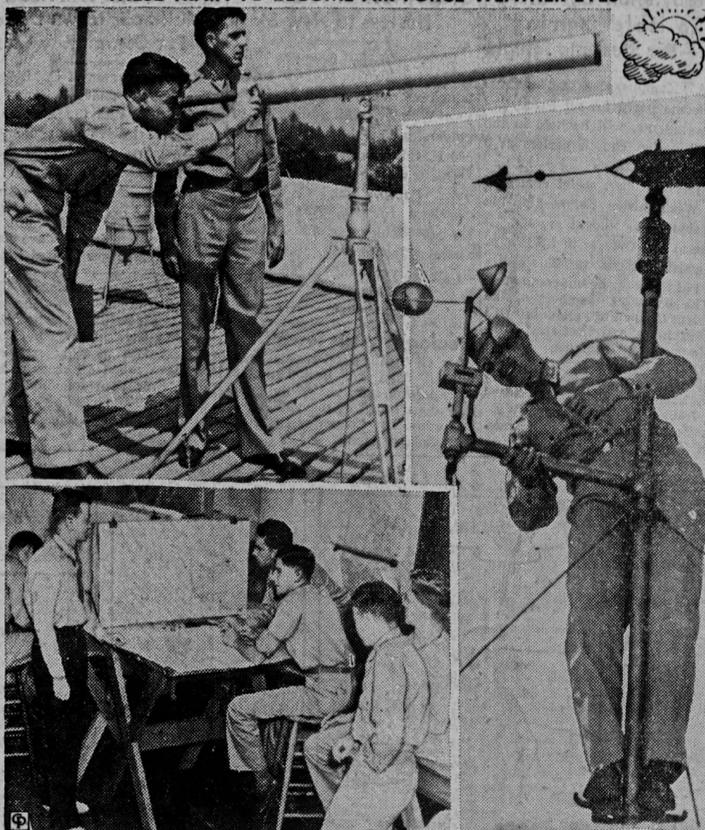

J. E. Fechner vs. William Pohler and Jean Pohler for judgment of $138.13 for failure to maintain payments on a promissory note.

THESE TRAIN TO BECOME AIR FORCE WEATHER EYES

After all these years, something really new is being added to the lexicon of American sailors. These new words and phrases include such things as "Prepare to mount," "Mount," "Gallop," and "horse"—not the sea variety either. While emphasis is being placed on mechanization in modern warfare, the United States Coast Guard for the first time in its history has organized "cavalry"; horse patrols like the one pictured above that will guard the long stretches of lonely beach along the coasts.

Board Announces Air Raid Drills for Iowa City Public Schools

Students to Receive Training in Connection With Civilian Defense

Air raid drills will be held regularly in the city public schools this year, Supt. Iver A. Opstad announced yesterday.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Iowa City school board it was decided that, in accordance with civilian defense regulations, children will be taught air raid precautions and will remain in the school building rather than going home when the warning is given.

Milk Program Dropped
The board also announced that there will probably be no penny milk program in the public schools this year because of the present milk shortage. Two local milk dealers must have milk transported in from distant points and it was deemed virtually impossible to continue the school milk program.

Three new history textbooks which were approved by the textbook committee are "Life in Early America," "Life in Modern America," and "Other Lands and Other Peoples," all by Mary T. Kelly.

Since the insurance premium on the low pressure boilers used in the school buildings is to be doubled Oct. 15, it was recommended that a technical inspection be made of them to determine whether the insurance could be withdrawn.

To Inspect Ventilation
A recommendation for a better ventilation system for the men's locker and dressing room at Iowa City high school was made because leather goods and clothes deteriorate under present conditions. An investigation of the cost and possibilities of obtaining such ventilation will begin immediately. The calendar for the school year was recommended and approved. Vacation dates will be as follows: Thanksgiving, Nov. 26 and 27; Christmas, Dec. 18 to Jan. 3; Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, and Easter, April 22 to 25. Schools will remain open on Armistice day. School year will end June 1.

Residents of Flooded Areas Must Beware Of Using Well Water

Residents in the flooded areas of Iowa City should use special precautions in the use of well water for drinking or other domestic purposes until such water is either boiled or tested, Clarence J. Ruppert, city health inspector, and K. S. Krause of the state health department, announced yesterday. Testing can be done at the university state hygienic laboratory.

There is no need for alarm at this warning, Ruppert said, but citizens should be aware of the fact that well water which may have been contaminated by flood waters may prove dangerous if not tested or boiled.

HOW TO HAVE A Better Trip BACK TO SCHOOL

3 IMPORTANT POINTS on How to Use Buses in War Times

New demands on bus transportation call for a change in the travel habits of the public. We are doing our utmost to make traveling as pleasant as possible, but small inconveniences sometimes do occur. When you head back for school this year, you will find the going better if you will observe these travel tips:

- 1 Plan your trips well in advance. Return to school on mid-week days instead of week-ends when buses are usually crowded with essential war-workers and men in the armed forces.
- 2 Ask your bus agent for schedules which are least crowded. Avoid peak rush hours when you leave for school.
- 3 Get your tickets early and avoid last minute confusion. Limit yourself to one suitcase, if possible. Ship your luggage ahead instead of carrying it with you.
