Marines Avenge Wake Island; Annihilate 800 Japs in Solomons

By CLARK LEE

WITH THE UNITEL STATES MARINES ON GUADALCANAL ISLAND, (DELAYED), (AP)—"We've started to pay them back for Wake sland," I.. was ..told today by American marines who occupied Guadalcanal and Tulagi islands in the southeastern Solomons two weeks ago in the first stages of the still-continuing Japanese-American land, sea and air battle.

The marines, who since August 8 successfully have fought off one large landing attempt and numerous air attacks, reported they had found on Japanese bodies rings and other possessions belonging to American marines who had been stationed at Wake island.

Evidently these shock troops were among the 800 Japanese annihilated by the marines last week after a strong Japanese force which landed secretly on the coast of Gudalcanal was intercepted by the marines and wiped out by tanks and machine guns.

At his headquarters, which until August 7 were occupied by the Japanese, Maj. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift told me that marines under his command met far less opposition on Guadacanal than had been expected.

"The Japs took to the hills like rabbits when our airplanes attacked on the morning of August 7 and our ships started shelling," General Vandegrift said. "Army planes had raided them during the preceding several days and they thought it was just another raid.

"We came ashore here almost without opposition since they had fled to the hills instead of manning the beaches."

Thereafter the Japanese. who were cut off from their supplies, were unable to do much more than snipe at the marines until August 18 when they landed in force. The marines, however, cut them off in a cocoanut grove several miles from the airfield and wiped them out.

"In addition to the 670 bodies you've seen in the cocoanut grove," General Vandergrift said, "some 150 more were killed attempting to swim away. Their bodies washed ashore and the Sealark channel and the Tenaru river were red with their blood. We believe no more than 30 Japs escaped and fled to the hills."

Well-Timed

It was eveident out attack August 7 couldn't have been better timed. The Japanese obviously did not expect an attack and the majority of the troops on Guadalcanal were work battalions with a relatively small number of regular soldiers.

The airfield on the island had just been completed and Japanese planes probably would have moved in within a few days. Our planes now are using the field.

The Japanese had completed construction of steel hangars, telephone and water systems, and had large quantities of heavy materials such as dynamos, steam rollers, and trucks. Tents and wooden barracks also had been set up.

Our marines are using all these materials. They also are eating Japanese rice, drinking Japanese beer and saki, driving Japanese trucks, utilizing their gun emplacements, wearing enemy raincoats and smoking Japanese cigarettes.

I started looking for cover when the first group of marines drove onto the airfield in Japanese trucks. From a distance they looked exactly like the Japanese marines we used to see in China.

300 Prisoners

Visiting the prison camp in the cocoanut grove, I saw some 300 prisoners of whom only seven were regular troops. The others were workers—small, scrawny and scared. They have been surrendering in small groups since August 7, either through natives or by approaching marines with their hands raised.

Soldiers who have been surrendering contended they were workers too, but the marines were able to pick them out.

Both captured workers and soldiers said they were driven by hunger to surrender. They said they had been unable to find any food in the tangle of the unexplored hills behind the cleared area where the airport was located.

Two frightened Japanese emerged from the woods only 50 yards behind our parked plane this morning and surrendered to the marines who were eating breakfast. Simultaneously, marine sharpshooters knocked a Jap sniper out of a tree a few hundred yards down the runway.

The mraines reported that the Japanese were using all the tricks of fighting they had employed in the Philippines.

The campaign there, however, differs radically from that in the Philippines in that we—and not the Japs—have control of the air and superior equipment and numbers. Also, the cocoanut groves here and the grassy plains behind them offer considerable visibility in contrast with the dense jungles of Bataan.

The marines said the Japanese on Tulagi used Japanese nurses as human decoys. When the marines approached a hospital, a group of Japanese girls in white uniforms came out. The marines went over to them and Jap soldiers opened fire with machine guns from the hospital windows, cutting down both the marines and the Japanese nurses.

A typical Japanese trick that worked only once resulted in the death of some 20 marines. A Jap major came out of the wood on Guadalcanal and reported that 70 soldiers wished to surrender. He offered to lead the marines to them.

The marines followed him into ambush.

Japanese frequently played dead then threw grenades when the marines were not looking. Others,

Down 96 Jap Planes Over Solomons

U.S. Losses 8 Pilots Missing In Air Victory

Huge Jap Battleship, Cruiser Are Damaged In Guadalcanal Action

By CLARK LEE

AT SEA WITH THE U.S. FLEET OFF THE SOLOMONS, (Delayed) (AP) — The greatest air victory of the war against Japan has been won by American fliers who Aug. 24 shot down ninety-six enemy planes in a far-flung battle over Guadalcanal island and over our navy task force. Our losses were eight pilots missing.

In addition, and without loss of a single pilot, a small group of U. S. dive bombers and torpedo planes damaged a huge Jap battleship of the Mutsu class, and a heavy Jap cruiser.

(The air fighting was presumably in connection with the repulse of an enemy force of warships and transports which approached Guadalcanal from the northward. The presence of the transports indicated, in the words of a navy communique, "that an attempt to recapture the shore positions in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area was intended."

(The Japanese naval counter-attack was beaten back by army "flying fortresses", carrier-based naval planes, and marine and naval aircraft based at Guadalcanal. The Japanese plane losses occurred not only in the fighting at sea but also in three heavy attacks which the Japanese made on Guadalcanal while the naval action was in progress.)

55 Downed

From the sip's bridge I saw our fighter pilots shoot down 31 planes and anti-aircraft down 24 more in only ten minutes of terrific action. Those 55 were in an 80-plane Jap formation trying to attack our surface ships.

The most encouraging feature of the battle was that Japanese pilots definitely were inferior to those in previous flights over the Pacific, and their planes continued to burst into flames and crash when hit by even a few bullets.

Death brushed by the wing-tops of our boys in the daylight attack on the large Jap naval formation.

Lieut. (jg) Robert Elder, 24, of Milwaukie, Ore., related "There were four heavy cruisers, six light cruisers and six destroyers in the main formation. Over at one side, I sighted a huge battleship trying to sneak away."

"The battleship changed its course and started to run, "Lieutenant Elder continued. "The anti-aircraft fire was coming pretty thick. It was a beautiful evening; I could see a big white circle on the deck of the battleship. I pushed into a dive; held my sights all the way and released, then pulled out. My rear seat man saw a big burst of smoke and flame on the starboard side amidships, just behind the funnel and between the forward and after gun turrets."

British Forces Slash Deep in Madagascar

LONDON, (AP)—The British advanced quickly into the interior of Madagascar against light opposition yesterday while the island government denied it was used as a secret axis base and Pierre Laval in Vichy angrily protested the forthright American endorsement of the British campaign to take the French possession out of the sphere of axis intrigue.

Naval Barrages

Vichy dispatches said the British forces had made their landings after naval barrages and air attacks begun Thursday morning on the west coast from Mozambique channel and were advancing on the inland capital, Tananarive, with the inhospitable terrain as their most serious barrier.

Laval said the defending forces were "very insufficient—and I regret it," and the French on the island were described as putting up mere token resistance intended "above all to save our honor." (The Italian radio broadcast a Tokyo dispatch Friday reporting a Japanese submarine had sunk a 10,000-ton British transport in Mozambique channel between Madagascar and the east African coast, apprently referring to a sinking reported Wednesday in a German broadcast quoting a dispatch to the Italian newspaper La Stampa.)

Several Ships Sunk

Several allied ships have been reported sunk in the last several weeks in the vicinity of Madagascar.

Prime Minister Churchill announced the landings on Madagascar in the house of commons, and a British commentator said it was an all-empire undertaking —that it did not include the fighting forces as reported Thursday by Vichy.

Jap Destroyer 'Sinking' After Bomb Attack

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Saturday (AP)—Allied bombers fired a Japanese destroyer and left her sinking off eastern New Guinea and also blasted Buna, the enemy's supply base for the overland drive toward Port Moresby, a communique said today.

Japs Stopped

"The enemy has made no further advances," the communique said, in the Efogi area, 44 miles short of Port Moresby, where bayonet-wielding Australians were fighting the invaders.

A "very near miss" was scored on a second Japanese destroyer which was probably damaged, the communique said. Both ships were encountered off Normanby island which is north of Milne bay, scene of a frustrated Japanese invasion.

"Allied heavy bombers," the announcement said, "attacked two enemy destroyers, obtaining a direct hit on one which was observed afire and sinking by the stern.

"Rafts and personnel were seen in the water.

Planes Return

"Our medium bombers scored a very near miss on the second warship, probably damaging it. All our planes returned."

6 Killed, 47 Injured As Plane Strikes Plant

BUFFALO, N. Y., (AP) — A flaming Curtiss-Wright airplane plummeted into the roof of a building at the Curtiss-Wright airplane division plant late yesterday, killing six workers and injuring 47 others.

The pilot, J. Bertrand Purnell, 33, a Curtiss test flier since May, parachuted to safety two miles from the plant. He suffered burns.

Services to Reject Key Industry Men

Lowering Draft Age Not Necessary Yet, Roosevelt Declares

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The army and navy last night formally announced they would refuse to accept volunteers who were deemed of greater use in their jobs in essential war industries and in federal agencies.

This was the second development of the day relating to the selection of fighting men. At a morning press conference, President Roosevelt expressed the opinion that the drafting of 18 and 19 year olds would not begin until after the first of the year.

The army-navy statement of policy said:

"Civilians occupying key positions in federal agencies and in a list of other occupations in war industry will not be accepted for commission or enlistment without first obtaining a written release from the head of the agency or war industry concerned."

Release

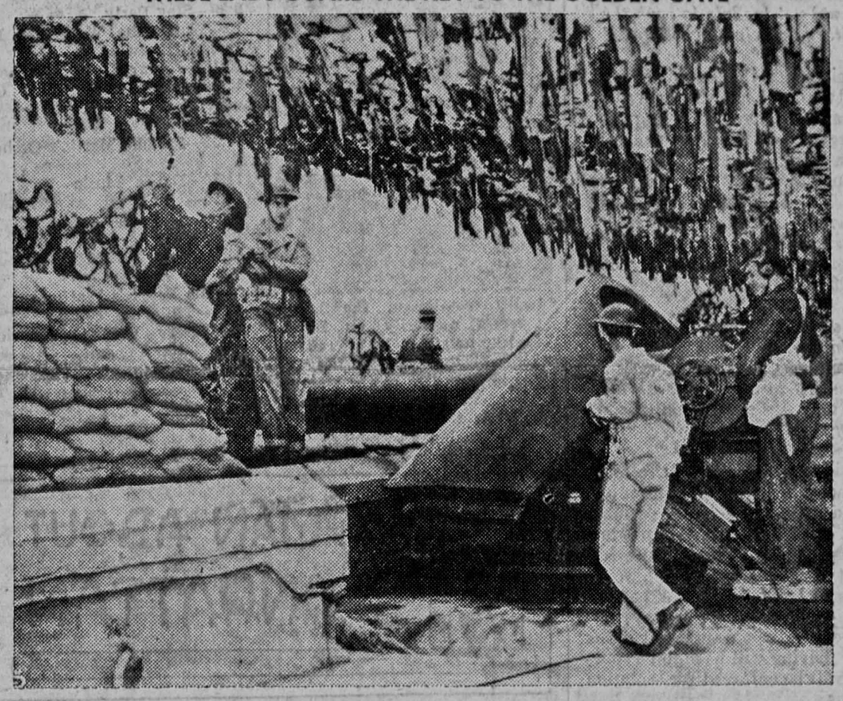
Lesser employes in these occupations must obtain releases from their local selective service boards, it was stated. In cases of men not subject to the draft, individual decisions will be made whether releases must be obtained.

Adoption of the new policy reflected complaints that some industries were being crippled by losses of men to the armed services. Secretary of War Stimson took note of these complaints last week in stating that the war department was being "most careful" not to raid industry.

Students

The new policy announcement said also that "except in furtherance of definite mobilization plans" no persons would be commissioned or enlisted and then permitted to retain their civilian employment or an inactive military status. Students in recognized institutions were excepted.

THESE LADS GUARD THE KEY TO THE GOLDEN GATE



When an alert sounds these vigilant United States artillerymen leap to their battle positions, draw back part of the cleverly-placed camouflage and prepare the huge six-inch gun which is always in readiness to hurl its blasting shells at an enemy. This big rifle is one of those assigned to guard the San Francisco coast line.

Duesseldorf Pulverized in New Six-Hundred-Bomber RAF Raid

31 Planes Downed As Industrial City Becomes 'Furnace'

LONDON (AP)—Duesseldorf on the Rhine lay pock marked yesterday in a pall of smoke left by hundreds of British bombers Thursday night in the accelerating RAF offensive to cripple the supply centers of the German army.

The 50th attack on the city cost the British 31 bombers, but the price was considered small compared to the fiery, explosive destruction left in the metal, machinery and chemical industries. It was the seventh large RAF attack on the Reich in ten nights.

The air ministry said more than 100,000 incendiaries were dropped and they "did the work of the moon." The raid was the heaviest ever made by the RAF on a moonles night.

Flares and fires made the landmarks and factories conspicuous and one pilot told the air ministry Duesseldorf soon became a furnace.

"Streets, buildings and the Rhine —everything stood out in the fires," the pilot said, "when we came way, the fires grew and grew and it wasn't until we were over the sea that we lost sight of the glow."

Pathfinders, the specially picked crews who find the target and light the way, had fires well kindled when the main attacking force roared in.

Other objectives which the air ministry did not name were attacked in western Germany.

The destruction of Duesseldorf, 24 miles from devastated Cologne, must have been enormus because the Berlin radio broadcast this grudging admission from the German high command:

"Numerous conflagrations as well as damage to material and buildings were caused, particularly in the residential quarters of Duesseldorf. The civilian population suffered losses."

Returning Canadian pilots described the Duesseldorf destruction as "one of the best concentrations of fire" yet seen. The first raiders ran through a wall of anti-aircraft fire but as the last great bombers arrived to deliver their individual loads of eight tons of explosives, the flak and searchlights were dying down.

"The city was well alight with smoke or smoke haze which rose to about 1,000 feet," Flight Sergt. Jim Clarke said.

The "powerful force" of attackers numbered perhaps 500 to 600 Halifaxes, Lancasters, Stirlings and others.

Unanimous Approval Ends Four-Day Strike

War Labor Officials To Settle Argument At Western Cartridge

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—The four-day paralyzing strize at Western Cartridge company's huge East Alton plant was terminated last night as several thousand employes gave unanimous voice of approval of an agreement to return to work at 8 o'clock (CWT) this morning.

The agreement was reached at 8:30 p. m. (CWT) at a conference attended by company representatives, officials of AFL chemical worker's union, Francis B. Murphy, director of the Illinois department of labor, Robben Fleming, WLB mediation officer and William F. White, federal conciliator.

Union officials immediately left the conference, held in a company office, and taking the picketeers with them, asked the strikers, assembled close to the plant, to ratify the agreement.

The agreement provided they return to work at their regular shifts beginning Saturday morning and that the dispute be settled by the war labor board in Washington Sept. 21.

Under terms of the agreement the union's local president, Francis Bunzy, over whom the strike was participated when the company refused to reinstate him, will not return to work.

Bunzy was suspended June 19 for allegedly entering a restricted area of the plant. Following the war department investigation the company agreed to restore him under suspended status, subject to action by the company's diciplinary committee, the union objected to these terms.

Interpreting The War News

British Get Jump On Possible Jap Invasion of India

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

If India is the next attack goal set by Hitler for his Japanese axis mate, there is no doubt that this time the British, despite perils that faced them in Egypt or the urgency of home demands for a second-front concentration, have got the jump on the enemy.

Even as Mr. Churchill voiced his first and soothing statement to parliament on the Indian situation, powerful British air, sea and land forces were deployed to mop up Madagascar. That his India exposition was timed to coincide with that move is obvious.

Stumbling Block

Complete British occupation of the huge French island must prove a stumbling block in the axis pathway, whether it is a junction of axis forces in the middle east that is to be attempted, or whether a Japanese assault upon India to capitalize on internal disturbances there is in the making.

The excuse offered for the Washington-approved British action was Japanese submarine activity off Madagascar and Japanese air reconnoitering over the island.

Jap Threats

Their presence was a sure indication of threatening Japanese activities against the allied supply lines around the cape both to India and to Egypt and the middle east. It warranted the London and Washington assumption that Vichy might be winking at, if not directly fostering, axis efforts to set up secret Japanese submarine and air basis on the great French island.

If so, British action has gone far to scotch the plan. And with Madagascar not only eliminated as a posisble sore spot on the flank of the allied supply routes in the Indian ocean but available as a powerful supporting base for united nation use, Tokyo probably would be forced to reconsider any project for invading India across the Bay of Bengal.

Nelson May Appoint Rubber Ration Head Monday, Says F.D.R.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt said yesterday that the new rubber czar would be named soon, probably on Monday, and that most of the recommendations of the Baruch committee would be put into effect simultaneously.

However, the nation-wide gasoline rationing is not expected to become effective until later, due to the necessity of preparing ration books.

In addition to rationing and other measures to reduce the mileage of the civilian motorist, the committee proposed the appointment of a "rubber administrator, delegating to him full and complete authority in all matters related to rubber, including research, development, construction and operation of plants."

Reporters quizzed the president at yesterday's press conference as to who the appointee would be, but received no indications. He is to be appointed by Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, after consultation with the president.

Defenders Told 'Fight to Death' At Stalingrad

Novorossisk, Russian Black Sea Navy Base, Abandoned to Nazis

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Saturday, (AP)—Russian troops defending Stalingrad under a "fight to the death" order were reported officially today to have stopped the nazi tide in one of the greatest struggles of history, but Novorossisk, on the Black sea coast, has been abandoned.

Courageously holding under constant artillery and dive-bomber charges, the red army west and southwest of Stalingrad beat off repeated German infantry charges, destroying 31 more nazi tanks and killing hundreds of the enemy, the communique said.

Death at Russian hands was promised for any red exhibition of cowardice in the epic struggle on the western bank of the Volga.

It was the first time the Russians had stopped the Germans west of the city after the nazis really began moving in from that direction this week. The Soviets had withdrawn four times in the previous four days.

Soviet troops even counter-attacked southwest of Stalingrad in one sector to throw the Germans "back to their initial positions" after several nazi assaults had carried the enemy into Russian defenses, the communique said.

The Germans had claimed the capture of Novorossisk last Sunday. The withdrawing Soviet units apparently retreated into the mountains which sweep close to the sea between Novorossisk and Tuapse, 65 miles farther south along the coast.

Continued Russian success was reported at Mozdok on the Terek river 60 miles west of the Grozny oil fields. Still fighting against German units which had crossed the river, the Russians were reported to have killed 2,000 Germans and destroyed 90 tanks in the last five days.

The communique reported a resumption of fighting on two sectors far to the north, the Volkhov river sector in the Leningrad defense area, and also west of Moscow. Several inhabited localities were captured in the Volkhov region, and the Germans lost 26 tanks in an unsuccessful counter-attack, the Russians said.

West of Moscow several enemy strongpoints also were reported taken.

But one of the biggest battles of this war and of history was the fight for Stalingrad.

(The Vichy French radio said in a broadcast today that street fighting was raging in the southern suburbs of Stalingrad where advance German elements had penetrated).

Battle dispatches said the total armies involved exceeded the 1,000,000 men who fought on both sides in the battle of Moscow last year. They said, too, that the most powerful army that the Germans ever assembled in Russia, more than 500,000 men, 1,000 planes and many hundreds of tanks, had orders from Hitler to take Stalingrad, immediately, at any cost.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

• Feeling for the Real Truth In Those Little Stories—

WASHINGTON — How ridiculous stories get started, and come to be believed by a large number of people, is well proved in the uncelebrated case of Leon Henderson and corporation statistics.

* * *

Mr. Henderson made a speech a few weeks back, mentioning incidentally that corporation profits had increased about four times since before the war, but he made it plain he was talking about "profits" before taxes. The figure, of course is deceptive and meaningless, because taxes are by far the biggest item in reducing profits.

* * *

Mr. Henderson's idle remark was just as foolish as saying everyone in the east now has more gasoline, except for rationing.

Nobody loves a corporation. It is a soulless economic factor, now used as a political scarecrow to inspire popular scorn, even though it is, at the same time, the basis of the capitalistic system, and thus furnishes the nation with major war taxes, workers with their means of livelihood, and supports labor unions. Economically, it is the cash register of democracy.

No one here, paid much attention when a radical newspaper picked up Henderson's incidental remark and played it up prominently —"corporate profits up 400 per cent"—accusing other newspapers and magazines of not having mentioned the matter in their accounts of his speech.

* * *

Until the day following, it forgot to mention, itself, that Henderson's estimate was "before taxes," and therefore misleading in any arguments about taxes or social problems confronting us.

Then the CIO weekly national newspaper here picked up the idea, put it above the masthead on the front page in black type!

"Corporation Profits up 400 Per Cent."

* * *

Now if this were true, as CIO workers were told through their newspaper, and New York radicals have been led to believe, the CIO workers should demand a 400 per cent wage increase, and the administration has deceived us all by increasing our income taxes to the extent of the present bill, instead of seizing more corporate profits.

No proof that this is untrue is necessary to people who read the stock market pages, and know much reduced dividends now are, as compared with even depression periods of the past, or to anyone who knows how Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Morgenthau like to tax the corporations.

But how wrong it is, is clear from calculations made in the current bulletin on business by the National City bank of New York, an authority hardly inclined toward misleading investors.

* * *

It investigated earnings, before and after taxes, the first six months of this year, in 125 large corporations holding the biggest war contracts, and found the net income 36 per cent less, after taxes, than in the first six months of last year.

* * *

Taxes this year will take 74 per cent of the otherwise net income of these corporations—yes, 74 per cent—as compared with 52 per cent last year. Federal income and excess profits taxes are being increased 68 per cent from last year to this.

So the real truth behind Henderson's improperly explained statement is that corporation profits are declining, not increasing, because of taxes.

But the radicals and the CIO may go on saying, "profits are up 400 per cent," encouraging workers and taxpayers to believe there is something phony being practised on them, and that all newspapers, except their own, are "afraid" to mention this "400 per cent."

* * *

No better propaganda against our war effort has been conceived by Goebbels than by some of our own well-meaning, but thoughtless, citizens, who thus bestir unrest.

The importance of Mr. Roosevelt's revelation of his own war plans in his fireside chat apparently has been lost in the price-wage discussion.

* * *

Primarily, FDR made it plain he had rejected the idea of concentration of our strength for one big blow, and intended to maintain four fronts—offensively. But he clearly suggested his mind was not looking forward to decisive results on any of these four fronts anytime soon.

He suggested this in two ways, first by disclosing that only about 500,000 troops had yet been sent abroad ("three times more men than we transported to France in the first nine months of the first World war, which was 176,000") and, secondly, by saying the cost of war would be $100,000,000,000 the next calendar year, meaning the full year of 1943, of course.

He does not expect the war to be over in the next 15 months.

* * *

The president likewise made plain that he did not agree with those who have been strongly advocating and expecting the bombing of Hitler into submission from the air. Suggestions that we could win the war that way, he rejected by saying, the war will be won on the battlefields of Europe.

* * *

He implied our invasion of Europe will be launched on many beachheads, possibly a dozen.

Well—he is the commander-in-chief, and therefore should know what is needed better than anyone.

Rubber Investigation—

Mr. Baruch and committee have reported. The conclusions reached in their investigation into the rubber shortage in the United States were not entirely unexpected, but the sudden shock of realization of our true position was none-the-less a bit hard to take.

* * *

"The naked facts present a warning" which the country dare not ignore; "the choice is discomfort or defeat," so read their assertions. Our situation is dangerous" but it is not yet too late to curb the pending "military and civilian collapse."

* * *

Surpassing their hopes, the committee made its report several weeks ahead of the day they had originally planned. They had been greatly aware of the urgency of speed in the completion of their task from the first. The rubber shortage question and synthetic rubber production problem had been knocked about by several governmental agencies and numerous private concerns and as a result both the public and the government was utterly confused. They needed the facts—and quick.

* * *

Now we have the truth and there is no further need to argue, Baruch and committee were probably the best qualified men in the country to carry on such an investigation, we can rely upon their word, and they say it's tough.

* * *

Heavy restrictions are going to have to be placed on the public. National gas rationing, long debated as a means to cut down rubber consumption, is nearly a reality. The production of synthetic rubber must be put into full swing—an industry which in peacetime would have taken years to build, must now be producing in a period of months. The average motorist will have to make a drastic cut in his auto mileage. All driving will have to be slower and penalties will be enforced for violation of any restrictions.

* * *

The Baruch committee knew their ground and quickly saw the errors of the government. Their criticism was blunt and directed at the administrative handling of the rubber program. We all knew the faults, but without the facts we couldn't find means of correcting our procedure. Their advice was one which has been suggested for the correction of the ills of several departments—more authority and one-man administration.

* * *

With the completion of this report the United States was launched on a new course. No congregressional action has been taken, but we have the facts, we know the faults, and action is promised immediately. We have chosen discomfort.

Some Rougher Roads—

If Hitler's legions crash through the Caucasus and turn their eyes further eastward, they will find no royal road to the wealth of India.

* * *

Iran is a land of great mountains and deserts, and its food production—mainly cereals and fruits—is too scanty to sustain an invading army. In recent years it has been the scene of hectic road building—both rail and motor routes—but cloaked by military secrecy.

* * *

To go through Russia to India by pushing north and east of the Caspian, the nazis would be forced to traverse vast barren steppes, meagerly habitated, and with little food cultivation.

* * *

Unless Hitler captured Russian shipping in the Caspian or built a new fleet on its shores, he could not transport troops to Iran by water, for there is no way to bring ships into the sea.

* * *

However, Hitler probably isn't interested in the Indian gold mine right now, his road to Stalingrad seems suddenly to have become something of a volcanic lava stream. Despite his recently expressed desire the German shouldn't worry about India until he has downed a lot more Russians.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

• With Nothing But A Train to Catch—

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There was a cocktail party for Sonja Henie at Music Hall, but after waiting 35 minutes and finding no Miss Henie I hurried to the elevators and was on my way to the station when a girl got on the elevator at the Executive's entrance. It was Miss Henie. "I've just been to your party," I told her, "but I've got a train to catch."

"You should have told me," she said, "I just turned one loose."

* * *

One of the big scenes from "This Is the Army" is Pvt. Alan Manson's impersonation of Jane Cowl, one of Broadway's most gifted and yet singular actresses. Manson's face registered no emotion whatever when, at the beginning of rehearsals, he was told that the Cowl role was his. He had never seen Miss Cowl.

One must admit that the direction of his scenes is superb. When Miss Cowl saw the show Irving Berlin took her backstage and called Private Manson over. "Jane," he said, "I want you to meet the boy you've been impersonating all your life."

* * *

Few collaborators on Broadway are as far apart physically and temperamentally as Rodgers and Hart, whose newest opus is the great hit "By Jupiter," with Ray Bolger. . . . The songs they have written would fill a trunk—"My Heart Stood Still," "Thou Swell," "Ten Cents a Dance," "You Took Advantage of Me," "The Lady is a Tramp," "I Married an Angel," "With a Song in My Heart," "I Didn't Know What Time It Was" —and a million others. They see eye to eye while composing songs, but on the street, well—one is crazy about nightclubs and the gilded lights, the other prefers quiet evenings at home; one is married and has two kids, the other is single; the short one (Larry) smokes cigars, while Dick (that's Rodgers) goes for cigarettes. Hart's dress is on the loud side; Rodgers is more somber in tone. . . . In the twenty years or more they have been in show business, they have never worked with anyone else.

Inspiration is okay at the right time, they explain, but when you write songs on order—that is, for a show, you can't sit around and wait for inspiration to hit you. However, "And Then My Heart Stood Still" originated in a hack in Paris, after they barely missed a smash-up.

Ziegfeld once shouted across the lobby of the Ziegfeld theater that he needed a torch song, quick, and they wrote it for him, then and there. The name of that hit was "Ten Cents a Dance." Old timers remember that one with a sigh.

Navy Official Brings Encouraging Reports Of Pacific War Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just back from an inspection of the Pacific fighting area, James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the navy, said yesterday it would "be a tough job" for the Japanese to recapture Guadalcanal in the Solomon islands.

"In the marines," he added, "they have met equally tough and alert people for the first time."

The undersecrtary described his experiences at a press conference held jointly with Secretary Knox. The conference also produced the following:

Knox will visit Rio de Janeiro within the next two months and inspect American outposts en route.

The secretary said that ship launchings are now greater than ship sinkings.

Forrestal highly praised American planes and their crews. The Japs were outmatched in the air, he said. The Jap Zero fighter was light and highly maneuverable, he added, but one hit was enough to finish it.

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

By JOHN GROVER
(For Jack Stinnett, On Vacation)

WASHINGTON—You probably never heard of Martin A. Broadfoot. He died a short time ago, a self-effacing little man, who died quietly and quickly, as he did everything else, after 43 years' continuous service in the Washington bureau of The Associated Press.

Since April, 1899, "Broad" has had something to do with almost every story, big and little, that you've read under a Washington dateline. He was a hero of the famous inaugural blizzard of March 4, 1909, when every telephone and telegraph line into the capital was downed before President Taft took the oath of office.

"Broad" took the sheaf of copy describing the inaugural to Baltimore, and there put the world's first news of the ceremonies on the wire. It took him several hours by various conveyances to make the trip, btu he got through with the story.

* * *

Broadfoot helped to bring you the news, the history of events since the century's turn in this world capital. He didn't make the news, or even have a finger in high political policy. His was the job of seeing that millions of readers had the facts as they developed. It was his efficient use of the seconds after a big story broke that flashed the word to the rest of the country.

"Broad" saw the mechanics of news dissemination change incredibly since he joined the staff in 1899, a kid of sixteen. He remembered when reporters on a hot story rode horseback, as they did when Broad—a telegrapher then —helped cover the first successful flight of a military airplane.

* * *

Telegraphers sent AP stories manually in Morse code in those days. There were unavoidable delays in transmission that would be unforgivable now. Broad saw wirephoto make the rapid exchange of vital newspictures a matter of minutes, where before days were required.

In his later years, Broad was chief of the AP dictation staff of men in the office who take down the story from the reporter on the scene, facilitating quick editing and quicker transmission.

Broadfoot always set up the physical details of coverage at the national party conventions that choose presidential candidates. In the midst of those madhouses, Broad's system functioned smooth as grease to get the constantly changing picture out to the world.

* * *

He had a box seat at thousands of "big" stories and dozens of news events of really world-shaking importance. Without Broadfoot, and dozens of others like him anonymous as raindrops, quietly functioning in a worldwide intermeshing of newsgathering cogs, you wouldn't have had the facts on which you base your judgments in your daily paper.

You never heard of Martin Broadfoot, the jolly little bachelor who lived in suburban Alexandria. But "Broad" spent his life in your service. He helped make this country the nation with the best newspapers and the best-informed general public basing its democratic decisions on the intelligence carried in those papers.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

• They'll Send Him Off With Worst Wishes

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Some of Fredric March's friends in Hollywood wish him the best of everything, and some of his friends don't wish him any bad luck, they just hope his New York plays will flop.

Fred must know it. He must know it as he packs up to leave after a spring and summer session in the movies. He must know it this time as he hits New York to rehearse Thornton Wilder's new play, "Skin of Your Teeth."

It's people who want him to keep on making movies. It's been going on for several years now, ever since March decided the play —on Broadway—was the thing for him, at least at regular intervals.

He tells them what they already know—that he has a stage contract already. That he has to be leaving.

"Well," they suggest hopefully, "you know how plays are. Yours will probably be a hit. But just in case it isn't, how about coming back to this picture?"

* * *

Last year it was Jesse Lasky. Jesse had a little thing he called "Mark Twain," and he didn't, of course he didn't hope that Freddie's play would flop. All he wanted was for Freddie to promise that, after his long successful run in "Hope for a Harvest," he'd make no other picture deal without seeing him first.

So "Hope for a Harvest" lasted five of six weeks and Fredric March was back to do "I Married a Witch" with plenty of time before Jesse and Fredric March started "Mark Twain."

This year it was Ernst Lubitsch. Lubitsch and several other producers with movies he "couldn't afford" to pass up. None of them came right out to say, "I hope your plays a flop." All of them said, "You know how plays are."

* * *

To the question as to whether he cares when Eddie "Rochester" Anderson steals a scene, said Jack Benny:

"All I know is that at the end of the year the studios look over their books. When they come to the Benny pictures they look at the red ink and they look at the black ink. And if there's more black ink than red ink it's likely they'll want more Benny pictures.

"I've got a fine car. I've got a swimming pool and a tennis court and a lot of furniture and my wife wears a fair amount of pretty things and I've got a nice house. All made out of money from pictures and shows that Rochester stole from me."

Cooper Pitches Shutout as Cards Win, 3-0

Hard-Hitting Browns Drub Senators, 10-4 Behind Ostermueller

ST. LOUIS (AP) — With the benefit of three home runs, a triple and one double, the St. Louis Browns drubbed the Washington Senators, 10 to 4, on an even dozen hits yesterday to keep up their hot third place pace.

This barrage of extra base blows accounted for six of the Brownies 10 runs, all coming off the pitching of Sid Hudson before he was replaced with none out in the fifth inning.

Lammano Sparks Cincinnati to Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cincinnati defeated the Phils 8-5 in 11 innings yesterday when catcher Ray Lamanno sparked a three-run last-inning flareup that broke a 5-5 tie with a home hun into the left field bleachers.

17-Hit Boston Attack Crushes Tribe, 15-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Boston Red Sox collected 17 hits off Jim Bagby and two ineffective successors yesterday to crush the Cleveland Indians, 15 to 2. Southpaw eKn Chase, an old Tribe jinx held the Indians scoreless until the second-placers piled up a 12-run margin.

The Indians never had a chance after Ulysses Lupen doubled with the bases clogged in the first inning, sending three men across the plate.

Navy After Rizzuto

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Shortstop Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees has been ordered to report at the Norfolk naval training station October 10 for recruit training, the fifth naval district announced yesterday. Rizzuto was sworn in as a seaman first class earlier this week.

Cardinals Trail By One Game

Cooper Bests Wyatt To Win 20th Victory, Scores Two Tallies

BROOKLYN (AP) — Mort Cooper, the big, gold-toothed Missouri farm boy, squeezed the National league pennant hopes of the Brooklyn Dodgers almost dry yesterday with a stunning three-hit 3 to 0 shutout that lifted the surging St. Louis Cardinals within one game of first place.

Matched against Brooklyn's best bet, Whitlow Wyatt, and with money riding on every pitch, Cooper simply smothered the Dodgers with his pitching and in addition led the Cardinals' eight-hit offensive.

After the two rivals had struggled through five dramatic scoreless innings, he opened the sixth stanza with a hard ground single to center. Jimmy Brown laid down a bunt on the first pitch to sacrifice Cooper to second and after Terry Moore had flied to short right Enos Slaughter almost knocked First Baseman Dolph Camilli's glove off with a vicious line single that brought Cooper home standing up.

Then in the eighth Cooper beat out a hit to deep short and again set in motion the Red Birds' scoring machinery. This time Brown belted a double that put Cooper on third. Moore cracked a sharp single into left center to score both runners and put victory out of sight of the Dodgers.

Yesterday's win was St. Louis' 28th victory in 33 games and Brooklyn's 10th defeat in 20 games.

Lefty Edgar Smith Whitewashes Yanks On Seven Hits, 1-0

Atley Donald Bows As Chicago Scores Lone Tally in Eighth

CHICAGO, (AP)—The New York Yankees bumped into their second straight shutout today when the Chicago White Sox blanked them, 1-0.

Lefty Edgar Smith, who has lost 19 games this year, handcuffed the champs on seven hits and had sparkling support from his mates, who stole some of the Yankees' thunder by completing double plays.

Ace Adams Wins Over Cubs, 4 to 3

NEW YORK, (AP)—Relief pitcher Ace Adams, making his 57th appearance of the season, broke the modern National league record and registered his eighth triumph yesterday as the New York Giants squeezed out a 4-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Hiram Bithorn, who went all the way for Chicago, handed the Giants the winning run with two out in the ninth when he walked pinch hitter Hank Leiber with the bases loaded.

All of Ace's appearances have been relief jobs. The previous mark of 56 games, which he tied Thursday, was set by Christy Mathewson of the Giants in 1908 and equalled by Hugh Mulcahy of the Philadelphia Phils in 1937.

Philadelphia Beats Detroit's Paul Trout

DETROIT, (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics yesterday defeated the Detroit Tigers 5 to 4 by making good use of their scoring opportunities off Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who retired to his 17th defeat when umpires chased him for making a pass at a spectator.

Trout, who yielded four runs on five hits, reached into the field boxes while returning to the dugout in the sixth inning and grabbed a spectator, who reportedly was taunting him. There were no blows struck, but Umpire Steve Basil shooed Trout from the premises when the seventh opened.

3 Lettermen Report For 1st Baseball Drill

Iowa's baseball squad went through its first practice of the season yesterday under the direction of Coach Waddy Davis.

Included among those who turned out for the first practice were three major letter winners and three players who received minor awards last season.

Major letter winners who reported were Capt. Harold Lind, Harry Rinkema and Roy Stille, while minor "I" men were Max Landes, Bob Collins and Don Thompson.

The first session was devoted mainly to short batting and fielding drill, btu Coach Davis promised a more extensive practice this afternoon.

Olson to Grid Cards

CHICAGO (AP)—A 225-pound tackle, Carl Olson, former U.C.L.A. star, was acquired yesterday by the Chicago Cardinals from the Philadelphia Eagles.

Bierman Light On Seahawks In Grid Drills

Iowa's Seahawks took it easy and got their breath yesterday as Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman gave his squad its softest workout in nearly two weeks of practice.

The navy outfit worked out in shorts and it was the first time since practice opened they left out scrimmage. Bierman gave them the rest in preparation for today's full game scrimmage.

Bierman worked his backs and ends on forward passing and then had his three varsity teams rehearse their entire offensive attack. Today's skirmish will probably be the last heavy workout prior to next Saturday's opener against Kansas at Lawrence.

Bierman has worked with two backfield combinations, one composed of officers and the other of three cadets and an enlisted man. The officer group has included Ensigns Al Coupee at quarterback, Jim Langhurst and Dick Fisher at the halves and Ed Jankoski at fullback. The cadet group includes Fred Folino at quarterback, George Benson at fullback and Bill Schatzer and petty officer Bus Mertes at the halves.

Intramural Governing Committees Named

Govering committees for eligibility and protests for intramural sports have been chosen for the coming year by Dr. Fred S. Beebee. The men chosen for fraternities are Tom Tierney, Alpha Tau Omega; Don Campbell, Phi Kappa Psi; Bob Meardon, Pi Kappa Alpha; Don Weagley, Beta Theta Pi, and Bill Bowles, Sigma Nu. Men representing town sections are George Willhoite, A3, Dan Murphy, A3, and Lawrence Williams, A2.

The nine managers of the cooperative dormitories will act as a committee for the league. The league will be divided into two sections with a round robin schedule. Play is scheduled to start on Sept. 21.

Practice to Start

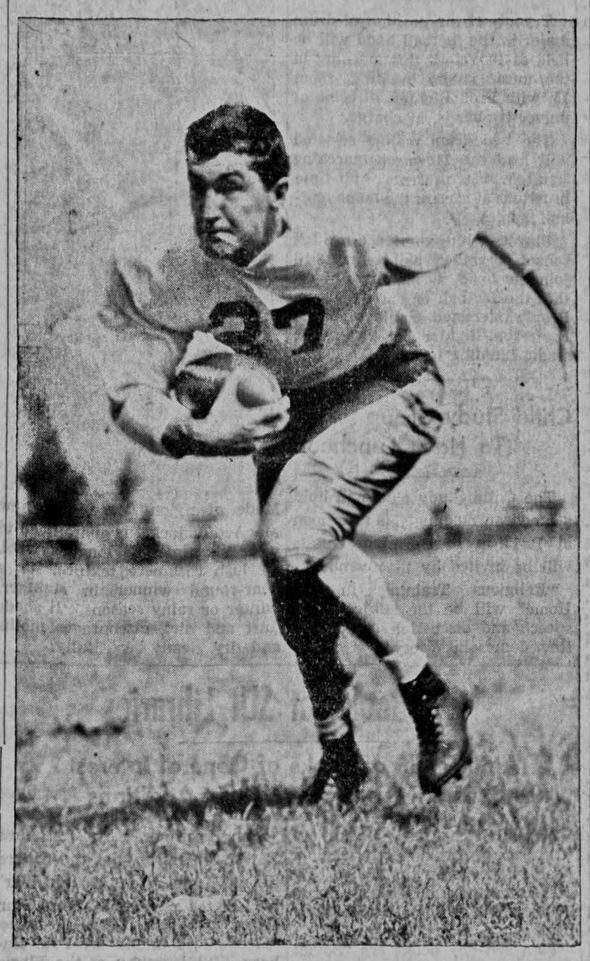
A schedule for small town dormitories and the commons will be arranged next week.

Next Wednesday, Sept. 16, all men living in private homes south of Iowa ave. will practice at 4:15 p.m. On Thursday all men living north of Iowa ave. will practice at 4:15 p. m. Men unable to attend either of these practices can still engage in intramural sports by calling the intramural office.

Additional practices will be arranged for each group before actual play begins.

Young to Coast Guard

NEW YORK, (AP)—Norman (Babe) Young, New York Giants' outfielder, was sworn in as a member of the United States Coast Guard yesterday but will be allowed to finish the season with the club.



PRIZE PACKAGE—Tall (6-foot 3½-inch), husky (198-pound) Dick Hoerner, sophomore, has been running in the number one Iowa fullback position since football practice began 12 days ago. The former Dubuque all-state prep star is being counted on to fill Bill Green's old position; he possesses great plunging power and unusual speed for a big man.

Dummy Scrimmage Enables 'First Team' To Work on Their Passing, Running Plays

Niedziela, Sophomore, Keeps Hold on First String Tackle Position

The Iowa varsity went through its toughest workout of the 11 day season yesterday, as Dr. Eddie Anderson held a dummy scrimmage with his "first team" on the offense.

Bruno Niedziela, outstanding sophomore right tackle candidate, was handling that post on the first string line yesterday. The big Chicago boy is the regular right tackle until somebody beats him out for the position. Anderson expects "big things" of Niedziela, and the 230-pounder is already beginning to prove his worth.

Bill Barbour, sophomore end from Mason City, was paired with Bill Parker at the end position on the offensive team. John Staak and Niedziela played the tackles, Del Dickerhoof and Gene Curran handled guard duties, with Forrest Masterson 220-pound sophomore who reported late, handling the center position.

In the backfield, Ben Trickey called signals for Sam Vacanti, left half; Russ Benda, right half, and Chuck Uknes, full back. This team ran and passed against the second string line for about half of the time—until the varsity backfield for the day, composed of Bill Stauss, Jim Youel, Duke Curran and Dick Hoerner, took over.

Stauss was handling the quarterback chores in a backfield of Youel at left half, Curran at right half and Hoerner in the fullback position. Tom Farmer, Cedar Rapids halfback, who is counted on to handle the Hawkeyes' offensive tasks, was once again running with a reserve group, although he moved into the varsity quartet in the last part of the drills. The shifting of Stauss up to the quarterback post indicates that Anderson wants his starters to be able to handle all positions in the backfield.

Barbour replaced Bill Burkett, who has been hampered with a pulled muscle, at right end. Burkett was running at full speed catching passes, but Anderson didn't want to take any chances of reinjuring the muscle in the day's contact work.

The shifting of Masterson to the first string center job was merely to give the Ohio husky a taste of offensive work. Tommy Hand, who has been working most of the time with the varsity line, and Bob Lauterbach are the leading candidates for the post at the present time.

Gunder Haegg Runs Three Miles in World Record Time—13:35.4

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Setting his eighth world's record in 74 days, Gunder Haegg last night lopped nearly 15 seconds off the standard for three miles by running the distance in 13 minutes, 35.4 seconds.

The slim Swedish fireman made the whole run in darkness to shatter the listed mark of 13.50.6, set by Lauri Lehtinen in Finland on June 19, 1932.

Officials of this country have contacted Haegg, in order to bring him to this country for the fall track campaign, but nothing definite has been arranged.

OPPORTUNITIES

—In United States Civil Service

Following is the second set of question and answers concerning navy enlistment which are being released regularly at this time by the bureau of navy personal Washington, D. C., in connection with the navy recruiting campaign in this area.

Q. May I have an opportunity to get into Annapolis if I enlist in the navy?

A. Yes, a total of 200 men from the regular navy and the naval reserve may be selected to attend Annapolis each year. The navy seaman who applies for admission into the United States naval academy must not be over 21 years of age on April 1 of the year he hopes to enter Annapolis. Your nearest navy recruiting office will supply you with complete information.

Q. What will the private yachts, sold or presented to the United States navy, be used for?

A. These boats will join the sea forces as gun boats, sub-chasers and patrol boats. Automoblie ferries can be used as mine lyers.

Q. Does the navy give a man vacations with pay?

A. Yes. All men in the navy are entitled to a long leave with pay each year of their enlistment. During war time, however, most men do not ask for leave.

Q. Can a navy seaman express his preference for his next assignment to duty?

A. Any seaman can express his preference for his next assignment to duty and so far as is practical his wishes are granted. However, the contract that is signed by all enlisted men in the navy states among other facts that "no promise of any kind has been made to me concerning assignments to duty. . . ."

Q. When I have received a navy rating in one field, may I change to another field?

A. Yes, if you are qualified. And you will not lose either your rating or your pay.

Q. Is exercise required in the navy?

A. Yes. In addition to regular training activity there is an order from the secretary of the navy that requires the entire personnel of the United States navy to take thirty minutes of exercises daily.

Q. When I enlist in the navy or the naval reserve may I do any work in connection with aviation?

A. Yes, if your aptitude qualifies you, you might choose to study any one of these trades—for example, aviation machinist, areographer, radioman, aviation metalsmith, bombsight mechanic, parachutist or aviation ordnanceman.

Q. Is it necessary for a sailor in the navy to know how to swim?

A. It is not necessary for an applicant to know how to swim in order to be accepted by the navy, but every new recruit is given a swimming test at the navy training school. He must be able to swim at least 50 yards. If a man doesn't know how to swim he is given instruction until he can meet this requirement.

Q. What are the duties one performs in naval occupations?

A. The duties performed are two-fold—military and specialized. The military duties consist of gunfiring, watch-standing, ship operation, etc. There are over 50 different trades available for selection in the regular navy, in addition to the military duties. Some of them are radio, baker, machinest, electrician, painter, printer, shipfitter, molder, carpenter, boilermaker, musician, metalsmith, stenographer, sailmaker and pharmacist.

Q. Why the current big rush for navy enlistments?

A. We've got to prepare men to man the navy ships now coming down the ways. The quota is unlimited, and there is a place for every one regardless of his previous trade or experience.

Q. In what section or divisions of the navy are men most needed now?

A. Men are urged to enlist as apprentice seamen. They will be sent to special training schools in various sections of the country where in a short time they will be on a level with rated men.

Q. Is this the only section or division where men are needed?

A. No, the navy has openings for many men. There is a need for men in the navy salvage division —men such as divers, general mechanics, shipfitters, carpenters, metalsmiths and boilermakers.

Q. Is it true that physical rements have been modified for the naval reserve?

A. Requirements on eyes, teeth, height and weight have been modified. Height requirements, at least 5 feet 2 inches, weight in proportion, and as for eyes, you can qualify with combined vision (both eyes) of 15/20 and not less than 6/20 in worst eye.

Q. How long is the enlistment in the reserve?

A. Two, three or four years. Men will be released at the conclusion of the war and placed on inactive service lists as conditions warrant even if another enlistment has just started.

Q. Is the occupation overcrowded?

A. Vacancies are constantly crenated by virtue of expiration of enlistments and retirements. The "Two-Ocean" navy program necessitates increased personnel.

Q. On what basis is a worker paid in the navy?

A. A navy man is paid on the basis of the rate he holds and his length of service.

Q. Are there more advantages for more pay?

A. There are also many advantages for additional pay while on active duty such a gun pointers and special details (messmen, mail clerk, etc.). Also longevity—at the rate of five per cent of the base pay every three years.

Q. How about transferring from the reserve to the regular navy?

A. It can be done if the man is physically fit, under 31 years of age and recommendd by his superior officer. Transfers can be made only after serving nine months in the reserve.

Q. Does the navy provide my clothing?

A. Yes, $135 worth.

He served for several years as treasurer of the Johnson county Republican central committee and held this position at the time of his death.

At the time of his death he was also chairman of the board of the First Capital National bank. His interest in this enterprise dates back to the time when the bank was named the First Capital State bank. Upon the re-naming of the bank, he became its president and held this position until Jan. 1, 1942.

Mr. Nagle was always interested in civic activities. He was a past president of the Rotary club, a 32nd degree and Scottish Rite Mason. He was a member of the chamber of commerce, the Iowa State Retail Lumber Merchants association and the Kaaba shrine.

Entered Lumber Business

Upon his graduation from high school Nagle entered the lumber business with his father and worked there until 1897. At this time he aided in the organization, and was a cashier in the Farmers and Merchants bank until 1902 when he moved to Red Oak.

After he left his father's lumber business in 1905, Mr. Nagle was sales manager for the Replogle company there until 1922.

For nine years he was member of the Red Oak school board. During the World war I he served as fuel adminstrator for Montgomery county.

Iowa City Business

In 1922 he began the operation of the Nagle Lumber company here in Iowa City. During this time he took his two sons into his business and in 1930 he took over the Oxford company.

Mr. Nagle is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Lelia York of Grinnell and Mrs. Gwen Olander of Wichita, Kan.; two sons, George and Leland Nagle of Iowa City; two brothers; four sisters, and nine grandchildren.

MARINES—

their hands raised in apparent surrender, would throw small pellets of explosives when the marines came near them.

Now the marines make sure that dead Japs are dead.

The Japanese also used firecrackers in an attempt to lead our mopping-up squads into traps.

The marines aren't the least bit awed by the reputed fighting ability of their enemies. They said with the exception of at Tulagi and Tanambobo the Japanese showed no signs of courage or intelligence.

When the Japanese lose their leadership or something goes wrong with their plans, the marines said, they become confused and do not know what to do except to stand and be killed or try to run or swim away.

Our marines, from foot soldiers to the aviators, and from privates to generals, are the most impressive body of fighters I've seen in this war. Their organization is thorough and smooth-working. Their officers are real leaders who do not hesitate to make decisions and take the responsibility.

Over 150 Buy Bond 'Tickets' For Premiere

More than 150 persons have exchanged receipts from purchases of war bonds for tickets to the "Victory Premiere" as the latest count was taken at 9 p. m. last night.

The "Victory Premiere," scheduled for the evening of Sept. 21 at the Englert theatre, consists of a preview showing of the motion picture "Wake Island" and the stage appearance of Gray Gordon and his orchestra.

Tickets which could only be obtained through the purchase of war bonds were distributed, one to buyers of $25, $50 and $100 denomination bonds and two to purchasers of $1000 bonds.

The premiere combined with the "Buy-A-Bond" dance which will also feature Gordon's orchestra are the main events scheduled for the Iowa City September war bond campaign.

Admission to the dance will also be on the basis of bond purchases. The purchaser of a $100 denomination bond will be allowed a ticket good for one couple to the affair which will be held at the Iowa Union.

Persons who have already bought bonds and have received their receipts are urged to exchange them as soon as possible for theatre tickets because the better tickets are being distributed to the first customers.

The sale of 1155 tickets to the premiere is expected and 1000 tickets will be available for the dance. It is anticipated that these two affairs will increase Iowa City's contribution to the national September war bond drive by $116,000.

Albert Davis, manager of the Englert has predicted a sell-out by the middle of the coming week. Davs is anxious for Iowa City to take its place with the other cities and towns in Iowa which have contributed overwhelmingly to the national campaign.
