Congress Groups Okay Stabilization

Approve Bills Carrying Out F.R.'s Wishes

Both Groups Refuse To Include Proposal For Higher Parity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Committees of both house and senate yesterday approved bills empowering President Roosevelt to stabilize living costs—measures which in general carried out administration wishes.

Both committees refused to include a farm bloc proposal that a new and higher formula for parity govern the ceilings to be fixed for farm products. Mr. Roosevelt had specifically objected to the idea.

The senate banking committee made of its bill not only an authorization but an order to the president that he act to stabilize salaries, wages and prices by Nov. 1. The deadline recalled that Mr. Roosevelt had given congress until October 1 to pass the enabling legislation, asserting that otherwise he would act under his war powers.

In this connection, Chairman Brown (D-Mich) said he hoped it would be noted that the committee's deadline falls before the November congressional elections.

While the house committee, like the senate, gave the president broad authority, it wrote into its bill the wage increase formula adopted by the war labor board in the little steel case. Consequently under the house committee bill wage no employer may, without government permission, grant a wage or salary increase, if the employee involved is earning 15 per cent more than in January 1, 1941. Raises are permissible if the employee has not had a fifteen per cent increase since that date.

An amendment writing this "little steel" formula into the senate bill was offered by Senator Ball (R-Minn), but the committee disapproved it. The bill provides, in general, for stabilization of wages and salaries at the level of Sept. 15, 1942 but permits the president to depart from this policy to correct "gross inequities" or aid in the prosecution of the war.

Offer Compromise
While both committees turned down the farm bloc proposal for an upward revision of the parity price level, each offered the farmers a compromise. Parity is the crop price level calculated to give the farmer a purchasing power equal to that which he enjoyed during a past profitable period.

In asking for the legislation, Mr. Roosevelt emphatically demanded that present provisions forbidding farm price ceilings at less than 110 per cent of parity be repealed. The farm bloc offered to agree to parity ceilings, if parity were redefined to include the cost of farm labor.

Voting this proposal down, the house committee instead offered the farmers a provision requiring that no farm price ceiling be established which would return the farmer less than parity, as now computed or less than highest market prices this year. And, following the president's lead, it also included a stipulation that farm prices not be allowed to drop below 90 per cent of parity. The prices would be supported at that level for three years after the war.

On the farm question, the senate committee adopted, 12 to 7, an amendment by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) authorizing government loans at 90 per cent of parity prices on major crops for the duration of the war. The present loan rate is 85 per cent of parity.

In addition, the senate bill would authorize the president to take the factor of farm labor costs into consideration in fixing farm price ceilings. Brown expressed the opinion that this, with the loan stipulation, would satisfy farm state senators.

Canadians Say 'Very Heavy' Dieppe Loss

OTTAWA, (AP)—The Commando assault on Dieppe cost Canada the "very heavy price" of 67 per cent of her attacking forces killed, wounded or missing, the Dominion government disclosed yesterday in a plain-spoken resume of this greatest Allied attack on the Nazi-held coast of Europe.

Of the 5,000 Canadian troops who made up five-sixths of the assault forces, there were 3,350 casualties, the statement said. There were 170 dead, 633 wounded and 2,547 missing.

"For the lessons learned and the advantages gained the forces engaged, and particularly the land forces, paid a very heavy price," said defense minister J. L. Ralston. "The history of similar operations in the past serves to indicate that heavy losses are to be expected in amphibious operations of this type, directed against a fortified coastline held by a determined and alert enemy."

At least a part of the casualties probably were due to an unlucky encounter between the supporting No. 3 Commando landing craft and a German tanker escorted by half a dozen armed vessels, the statement said.

The resultant minor naval encounter evidently gave the Germans ashore warning of the approach of the attacking force and led to these setbacks.

Most of the No. 3 Commando force was unable to land in the Berneval area 6 miles east of Dieppe and destroy enemy guns at this point.

The landing of a Canadian force at Puits, which was to secure a headland east of the town, was delayed until broad daylight, the regiment suffered extremely heavy casualties and "only a temporary lodgment was obtained."

The headland east of Dieppe never was cleared of the enemy and thus its guns were brought to bear on the forces landing on the main beaches fronting Dieppe itself.

Interpreting The War News
Last-Ditch Russian Stand Has Thrown Hitler off Schedule

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst
The Russians' last-ditch stand at Stalingrad, described by the nazis as "embittered" and "suicidal," has thrown Hitler off schedule at least another day.

The fact must be that the Nazi attempt to storm the city streets from the northwest was more "suicidal" than the Russian defense.

Heavy Nazi Casualties
German casualties inevitably were heavier than those of Russian defenders who first contained the twin thrusts in a house-to-house battle, then drove the attackers out. In close quarter action of that type, the attacker invariably pays a heavier casualty price several times over than the defender.

The Russian success in expelling the first invader units may not guarantee that Nazi follow-up drives of the same nature can be turned back.

Pivotal Point
Stalingrad is so certainly proven now both a symbol and a strategic pivot which Hitler must have at any price that it is a fair guess he is lashing his generals and troops to match the Russians in suicidal determination. Yet that first repulse tended to confirm the impression that when the battle reached the street fighting stage, the odds against the Russians lessened rather than increased.

The enemy could not bring to bear in such close action and on so restricted a maneuver field his dive bombers or tanks superiority. Man to man, the Russians stood him off. Only by throwing overwhelmingly superior manpower at terrible cost into the fight can the city be recaptured.

Counter Attacks
London has forwarded a report from Moscow that at the supreme moment, orders to counter attack, not to stand and die where they fought, were issued to all Russian units in Stalingrad. They stressed that every house or hill regained meant time lost to Hitler. There were also Moscow reports of reinforcements from central Siberia pouring into the battle along the Don and Volga.

Stalingrad does not offer the Russians a base for a major counter offensive.

155 More Persons Executed by Germans
LONDON, (AP)—The execution of 155 more persons by the nazis including 116 in Paris for attacks on German troops, was disclosed yesterday.

Those put to death in Paris were described as "communist terrorists," a customary designation for persons who violate Nazi rules.

They were charged with attacks on German occupation troops and with being "in the pay of Britain."

RIO DE JANEIRO, (AP)—Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha declared yesterday a strong axis attack on Brazil was a certainty, but added that it would be unsuccessful.

Report Attacks Retard Enemy Moresby Drive
GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Saturday (AP)—Unending attacks pressed by allied warplanes against Japanese bases in the New Guinea area gave indication today of having slowed the enemy offensive aimed at Port Moresby.

Allied headquarters, in its mid-night communique, said the newest of these aerial assaults had carried—apparently both by night and day—against Buna, Lae and Salamaua, the Japanese shore positions on the northwest coast of New Guinea, and against Rabaul, New Britain island key to the enemy's operations in the southwestern Pacific.

Activity Reduced
The same communique reported "activity was reduced during the day" in the Owen Stanley mountains, through which attacking forces had pressed to within a bare 32 air miles of Port Moresby, vital allied center on the south coast of the great island.

"Only minor fighting is taking place," the high command said. In the air phase of the campaign heavy bombers visited Salamaua, Lae and Rabaul, while fighters were sent over Buna, which lies within closer reach of Port Moresby across the towering Owen Stanley range.

Large Fires
The Rabaul raid, made at night, resulted in "fires in the target area visible for 150 miles," the communique said. "Numerous fires" also were observed at Salamaua and Lae, where the attack was aimed at "supply bases and installations."

At Buna enemy supply lines were strafed by the fighter planes. Transport and installations were damaged," the report said, adding: "A reconnaissance unit reported 27 burned barges on the beach as a result of the previous day's attack."

On Mountain Slopes
The communique did not indicate the exact location of the limited ground activity, but an earlier statement had placed the Japanese in the neighborhood of Ioribaiva, a hamlet on the southern slope of the Owen Stanley mountains.

That apparently marked the high point of the enemy's advance to date. The previous day's communique likewise had spoken only of "sporadic fighting," although reports earlier in the week told of a clash between the main forces on both sides in the same general area.

Imperials Reported Only 75 Miles From Madagascar Capital
LONDON (AP)—British troops were reported only 75 miles from Madagascar's capital city of Tananarive yesterday in one of several approaches after the capture of Tamatave and its railroad on the east coast after the Vichy French had asked and then rejected armistice terms.

A Reuters dispatch reporting the deepest penetration toward the capital plateau did not say from what direction it came, but apparently it was from one of the three main west coast landings made eight days ago.

French reports from Madagascar to Vichy said the British landed at Majunga last week were advancing yesterday morning in large force on Ankanosoa, 80 miles northwest of Tananarive. These reports told of attacks by the British and continued resistance by the French.

British Reveal RAF Using 8,000-Pounders
Huge New Bombs Ruin Vast Sections Of 2 German Cities
LONDON, Saturday, (AP)—New 8,000-pound bombs were used by the RAF in raids which laid waste to vast areas of Karlsruhe Sept. 2 and Duesseldorf eight nights later, the air ministry announced today in the first official disclosure that such massive explosives were being loosed upon Germany.

Four thousand pounders, which have been in use for some months, now are commonplace in the almost nightly assaults on Hitler's industrial establishments.

Square Mile
More than a square mile of Duesseldorf was wrecked in the latter raid and in Karlsruhe 270 acres were laid waste, the ministry reported after a study of photographs made by reconnaissance planes.

More than 100,000 fire bombs were showered on Duesseldorf spreading great fires in the wreckage churned up by the "great weight" of 8,000 and 4,000-pound high explosive bombs, the air ministry news service said.

Heavy Damage
Four photographs showed the Duesseldorf railroad station heavily damaged by a direct hit, and much new destruction in the dock area.

Among factories destroyed or badly damaged were the International Harvest factory, Deutsche Rohrwerke steel tube factory, Oberbilker steel works and Ruhrstahl steel works.

Kaiser Will Build 3 Super-Cargo Planes
Ship-Builder, Hughes Named to Construct Experimental Craft
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser west coast ship-builder, and Howard Hughes, noted plane designer, have been authorized to build three experimental super-cargo planes for a total of $18,000,000, Donald M. Nelson, war production board chairman, announced yesterday.

Neither Kaiser nor Hughes will make any profit from the job, arranged through a letter of intent from the defense plant corporation, but Kaiser was directed to draw plans for a factory in which the giant twin-hulled flying boats could be manufactured in volume should the army and navy find the experimental ships successful.

The letter of intent prescribes that all three planes be completed within 25 months, the first in 15 months, but a Hughes representative predicted the job would be done in 18. Volume production, however, could not begin before another 10 months, he said, which would mean that Kaiser and Hughes could not begin turning the ships out before early 1945.

It was understood that the 60-ton planes would be powered by seven engines and would have a capacity about double that of the huge Mars flying boat built by Glenn L. Martin in Baltimore.

Engineering and construction will be done under Hughes' direction in his plant at Culver City, Calif. Construction will be of Duralumin, a combination of plywood and plastic material, and engines, propellers and instruments will be made available by the war and navy departments.

Nelson emphasized that any cargo plane program which might result from the experiment would be in addition to the regular army and navy cargo plane program.

Ample Rubber for U.S.—Jeffers
NEW YORK (AP)—Ample rubber for military and essential civilian needs was promised unqualifiedly by William M. Jeffers, the nation's new rubber administrator, yesterday in his first interview since his appointment Tuesday.

Swift inauguration of synthetic rubber production will be made according to known processes, he said, and research for improvement can continue on the side.

"What we need is action," he said bluntly, "and we need it quickly. And we are going to get just that."

Jeffers said that when he had the problems of his new assignment "all pulled together" he was going to say "some pretty sharp things."

"My notion is to get the mystery out of this tremendous job; to get it on the table, and get the job done.

"A lot of extremely capable men are working on the rubber program, both in Washington and elsewhere," he continued. "My job is to get the best for all of them and get going. My job is to give this undertaking direction and stop the interference. You have got to reach decisions and you have got to put them into effect."

Jeffers said he thought the people "are more confused about what to do than not willing to do what is right."

Jeffers praised War Production Board Chief Donald Nelson and said he would fill his assignment without asking any spotlight. The rubber chief said he had all the authority he needed.

"We have got to become realistic," he continued. "We have to think in terms of killing as many of the enemy as we can with as little loss of life among our own forces as possible.

Jeffers said synthetic rubber plants would be rushed to completion and their output stepped up to whatever is required.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A possibility that the office of defense transportation rather than the office of price administration might handle the forthcoming nationwide gasoline rationing arose yesterday as President Roosevelt issued an executive order defining the powers of William M. Jeffers, the new rubber administrator.

Following a disclosure that the Baruch committee had recommended that the rationing be directed by the ODT, the president's order gave Jeffers full authority to obtain compliance with his directives from both the ODT and the OPA, as well as all other government agencies concerned with rubber.

The Oil Rationing Question--

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Many Oil Experts Believe Nelson Cut Consumption Too Extensively

WASHINGTON — Donald Nelson's announcement, ordering a 25 per cent fuel oil cut for the midwest and east, strangely lacked any recommendation from Oil Coordinator Ickes, who is supposed to tell him what to do.

No official wants to talk about it, because Mr. Roosevelt has ordered all disagreements kept out of the public prints. But, this much is evident:

Mr. Nelson appointed a three-man board to decide on what should be done about fuel oil, as distinct from gasoline, and from Ickes. On this board were Mr. Ickes, Leon Henderson, the price holder-downer (not fixer) and Under War Secretary Patterson.

Mr. Ickes is on vacation, and his place was taken by his assistant, Ralph K. Davies. If either of them had approved, you may be certain their recommendation would have been in the announcement. Their opposition may be confidently assumed.

This void is not the only suspicious circumstance of the order. The announcement lacked any convincing evidence of justification for the step.

Mr. Nelson's assistants explain it, and seek to justify it, unofficially, as a safeguard against a hard winter. They concede such a drastic step might not be necessary if the weather is mild, but they cannot take a chance on that.

To many an oil man, however, it seems Mr. Nelson took in more territory for rationing than is absolutely needed to furnish additional fuel cars for the east in any kind of winter. As they see it, if cars are taken off the midwest runs, it will no doubt be necessary for some midwest regions to get their winter oil by truck, but certainly not as many regions as Mr. Nelson has specified.

Few people will now attempt to criticize technically an order which must have been prepared on the basis of the superior knowledge of Nelson's experts (minus Ickes and Davies.)

At the same time, the tone and lack of reasonable explanation offered in the announcement revived suspicions that here again in this instance the administration might be slipping back into its old way of trying to make people more uncomfortable than necessary for the sole purpose of letting them know a war is on.

Officials do not yet seem fully to realize that their old false cries of "wolf," and the experience of the public with the same, now requires them to justify their crack-down orders fully and fairly on a basis of necessity. Otherwise cooperation may not be hearty and controversy may ensue.

The announcement came, unfortunately, the day before Nelson's ODT announced a record-breaking tank car movement to the east of 834,440 barrels in a single day. Railroad men expect to boost this to 900,000 or possibly more a day eventually, without western rationing, by further speeding up the haul. They now rush all such shipments both ways in special trains and are trying to cut down the loading and unloading period to about 24 hours.

Fear of Too Much Gasoline?

Another peculiar factor may have swayed the Nelson board to vote two to one for this rationing order. Heavy fuel oils formerly came from Aruba and Curacao in Venezuela. There is plenty of oil and production capacity in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma to make up this supply now cut by Hitler's submarines.

But, gasoline is made as a by-product of this heavy fuel oil. If our own heavy oil production was expanded, we would have too much gasoline and no place to put it, as storage capacities are filled.

It is just possible that Mr. Ickes and Mr. Davies may have felt that this situation—not the overall problem of transportation—would create a midwest heating and industrial supply problem, which would eventually justify the action which Mr. Nelson has hastened to take.

Listen, Mr. John Doe--

As of last Dec. 7, our country has been at war but it seems that a good many people can't recognize the fact. To these people, and there are a good many of them, the war seems greatly removed, something to talk about and then to relax by going out for a drive or peacefully sitting back and letting the other fellow do your part for victory.

Whether you have a boy in the service or whether your neighbor has, whether your sweetheart's serving the colors or whether it's that fellow who used to live down the street that is now serving somewhere in Europe, you owe it to him to do your part.

Whether you believe it or not, Mr. John Doe, you owe your very life at this moment to the millions of men fighting for you, fighting to preserve you—you and your complacent attitude.

We know nothing here of the hardships of war; we are too accustomed to having what we want, that extra lump of sugar in our coffee, that drive over to Aunt Edna's tonight. We don't know what hell war can be.

We listen to the war news and shake our heads. We criticize our leaders and imagine what we might have done and how we might have done it in a better way if we had had the chance. We were so cocksure that this war would be over with by the end of the year and now that the chances seem so remote, we wonder why. I'll tell you why John Doe.

You wanted to let the other fellow do his share alright but you weren't willing to accept your burden. This is a war of the people and that means all of the people, not everyone except you.

Instead of spending that money for drinks or a show, why didn't you invest in war stamps? Instead of driving out to Aunt Edna's to spend a few hours, why didn't you stay home and save those tires and that gasoline? Why? I'll tell you why. Because there are too many like you. Too many other people who aren't carrying their share of the burden, and you like a sheep follow the herd.

Think it over, John Doe, and see what you can do to help bring victory. The longer you refuse to do your share, the longer our boys will remain at their posts.

Think it over, John Doe, and see if it's worth the price.

Physical Conditioning--

After a war has gone on a while, weaknesses spring up that no one thought existed before the beginning of the struggle.

One of those weaknesses in this war is the noticeable poor physical condition of the men fighting the war. Of course the men engaged in athletics before the war were ready, but the great majority of the male population of the United States was in a degenerate state.

Steps are now being taken to remedy this fault. One of the best examples is right here in Iowa City. The Navy Pre-Flight school is tops for physical conditioning of men. Many young men came to this training school who never had participated in athletics. Once they get into the training schedule they acquire the competitive spirit, and after a few weeks they feel better than they had at any time in their lives.

Physical conditioning such as this, on a somewhat smaller scale, is being given in every service camp in the United States. Once these men are in condition we won't need to worry about their fighting abilities. Grade schools, high schools, and civilians are taking up this conditioning training. Soon every school in the United States will require its students to take exercises.

At the end of this war, the male population of the United States will be in the best physical condition that it has ever been. Let's hope we keep it that way.

THE BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY
Before he departed for an army camp, Frank A. Reilly, Wide World Features comics editor, delivered the manuscript of "Freddie," a new sort of juvenile, to his publisher. As you might guess, it had to do with comics, and is a partial answer to the ever-present question facing parents, to wit, what shall we do about the funnies?

Mr. Reilly's book is about a comic strip character named Freddie. Freddie is always doing goofy things, funny things, and always pays for them one way or another. He is dissatisfied, and he envies the brilliant exploits of the characters above and below him on the page—Tex O'Toole, who is a Ranger, and Whiz Walton, who is a kind of super G-man. He escapes from his strip, but he finds life pretty difficult in the others. The idea is neat, the illustrations by Donald Gunn are excellent, and the result is a juvenile of first rank. (Farrar & Rinehart; $1)

Perhaps you may have missed that very tough private detective named Michael Shayne, and if you have, it is now possible to catch up with him. Four of his earlier adventures have been bound together in an omnibus called "Michael Shayne Takes Over," four books that show Mike solving important cases in spite of the enmity of Peter Painter, who is police chief. These stories are by Brett Halliday—and he moves them fast. (Holt; $2.49)

"Come Slowly Eden" is not strictly a biography of Emily Dickinson up to the time of her withdrawal from her fellows, since its scenes are mostly imaginary. But it is hardly a novel, for it is founded on a vast amount of research, and conforms so strictly to the pattern of the poet's life that it seems not to be fiction. Its charm lies mostly in the appreciation for Emily Dickinson in the mind of the author, who is a poet herself—Laura Benet. The writing is as distinguished as you would expect. (Dodd, Mead; $2.50)

Elizabeth Corbett's long list of good novels is richer this week for a story of the period after the War Between the States, of a young woman who married an Illinois lawyer with a good many children, of their life and its events, and of the daring return of the lawyer's first wife and the consequences thereof. It is a warm and nostalgic novel. (Appleton-Century; $2.50)

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

Those Elusive Popular Titles

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—This is Manhattan . . .
A mounted cop in Central Park sees another horse coming at a clip that is a little better than fast, and on that horse is a blonde who is somewhat less than nonchalant . . .
So he gets himself set and he stops that horse, and when the girl grins he bawls, "Who taught you to ride?"
"Will Rogers," the blonde said.
He did, too. She was Paula Stone, back in town for a revival of "You Can't Take It With You." Will used to spend a lot of time out at Fred Stone's place on Long Island, where he taught all the kids to ride.
Of course Paula could have slipped a little since then.
Titles mean next to nothing. I mean, they are like mercury. You have a hard time pinning them down, and holding onto them. Take "The Wind and the Rain." That was the autobiography of one of the best newspapermen England ever produced—Thomas Burke.

You'd think that title would be his, but it wasn't. Along came somebody and wrote a musical comedy called "The Wind and the Rain."

Take Carl Carmer, who wrote a book and called it "Stars Fell on Alabama." It wasn't a week after the book became a hit that a song writer had a song by the same title. Once while Carmer was attending a theater a man came out on the stage and said, "I'd like you to meet the man who wrote 'Stars Fell on Alabama,'" and before Carmer could swallow his surprise a musician bobbed up and took a bow.

I see where Lou Walters is about to go into rehearsals with a new musical called "Spice of Life." . . . Not that it matters, but once before there was a show called "Spice of Life." . . . Titles, it seems, mean absolutely nothing. They belong to anybody who uses them.

With pop songs, the title is usually the "clutch" line of the lyric. With a book a title occasionally is ambiguous. With the movies they seldom mean anything at all. They are put there only to snare attention.

105 Piece Football Band to Appear at Iowa-Washington Game

Will Maneuver Colorful New Routine Today

Half-Time Program to Feature National Baton Twirling Champ

Precedents will be broken and new color will be added to the halftime routine of the university football band today when the 105-piece marching organization presents its first program of the season at the Iowa-Washington U. football game.

Precedent breaker for the event will be Marilyn Anderson, former national champion, baton twirler from Marshalltown and now a freshman at the university, who will invade the all-male status of the colorful "redcoats" in presenting a demonstration of her twirling feats.

Under the direction of Prof. C. B. Righter, director of university bands, the band will maneuver to form a huge diamond shaped "stage" surrounding Miss Anderson during her exhibition. To the tune of "Indiana State Band" in slow time, Miss Anderson will perform such twirls as the figure eight, the finger twirl, the cartwheel, the two-handed twirl, around-the-body and the difficult high throw.

Adding interest to her routine, Miss Anderson will combine her twirling with a series of dance steps. Included in this feature will be a high stepping movement with the baton twirled under the legs in time to the music. She will also perform a "step" incorporating the flashy horizontal twirl. One of the outstanding features of her exhibition will be the execution of cartwheels with one hand while twirling her baton with the other.

Marching down the south steps approaching the field preceding the game the band will perform a "spread" formation, then swing down the field led by two drum majors, to the tune of "March of the Champions." Reaching mid-field position, the red coats will give a salute to the Washington U. fans with the "Hello" march while facing the east stands. Iowa fans will then receive a salute by the band on an about face and the "Howdy" march.

Joined by the Highlanders, the Pontoniers and Pershing Rifles, the band will then play "The Star Spangled Banner" for the raising of the American flag. Completing the pre-game routine the band will next perform a side step exit in which the whole organization "peels off" into the west stands, the back row leading.

For its halftime routine, the band will present a program of formations planned especially for the game by Professor Righter and the assistant director of university bands, Arnold L. Oehlson. These formations are of the same type as those presented at previous Iowa games, which have given the Iowa band a widespread reputation for the best in halftime entertainment.

Following an entrance and maneuvers by the Highlanders, the band will form a huge "V" at the north end of the field, 30 yards long and extending almost to the sidelines. After the brilliant "Victory Penfare," the band will march the length of the field in the "V" formation, playing "Iowa On to Victory."

Double-Header Scheme

Employing the double-header instrumentation of the band, which allows the red coats to march with either end of the band in the lead, the Iowa band will about face and march to the center of the field playing the "Hail America" march and divide into two groups. Facing each other, the sections will each play a strain of the march and then join together in playing the final chorus. Following this maneuver, the band will form a "W" in honor of Washington U.

Next routine for the band will

Local Civilians Urged To Aid in War Work

Prof. Rollin Perkins Explains Different Courses in Defense

Any person who feels he wants to aid in Iowa City civilian defense work but is undecided as to just what branch he is best fitted, is advised to take the courses in defense training now being offered and make his decision later.

In an interview yesterday, Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, commander of the Iowa City citizens' defense corps, explained that many persons are interested in helping out in some way but are not sure as to what form of work their talents are best suited.

They think that in order to join the corps and take the courses they must sign up with a certain unit, such as the auxiliary police corps, and then will be forced to remain in that group," he added.

"This is not the case," Commander Perkins said. "A person may start taking the courses which are being held in gas defense and fire defense and wait until they see the results of their work before joining any branch of the corps."

The make-up classes in gas defense will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, and those in fire defense will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the week following. The make-up classes for the general

Police Issue Warrant For Mrs. R. Madsen On Murder Charges

A $100 reward has been offered for the capture of Mrs. Ruth Madsen, 26-year-old farm wife, who is wanted for the shotgun slaying of her husband, Henry Madsen, and a warrant for her arrest was delivered to Cedar County Sheriff W. W. Christian yesterday by Coroner A. M. McCormick.

The reward is being proffered by various residents of West Branch and has been deposited in the First State bank of that community, according to William B. Anderson, mayor of West Branch.

Report of the coroner's jury investigating the case was filed in the office of clerk of court yesterday in Tipton. It stated that the 12 gauge shotgun used in the shooting was "supposedly in the hands of one Ruth Brooks Madsen."

"We believe her to be demented and recommend her apprehension and detention," the report concluded.

The posse is searching along the Cedar river near the point where it is believed she may have drowned. Bloodhounds led the searching party to the stream Thursday.

Because of the fact that the river has risen and become muddy from recent rains, posse members did not drag the stream for her body yesterday.

The body of Henry Madsen, 34, was found last Monday in an upstairs bedroom of their farm home five miles southeast of West

The Ordeal of the Family Budget

PITY the poor budget! Even under peacetime conditions he leads a strenuous life, but now he's really under fire. Ten percent for War Bonds, a big slice for taxes, ever-growing pressure from the rising cost of living — and on top of it all provision must be made for regular bank deposits. Impossible! No it isn't, if you face the grim facts that this is war, and that you must make sacrifices and give up things you thought essential. Organize our budget for victory without delay.

Art Exhibition Opens Today

16 New Reproductions Will Be on Display in Union Main Lounge

The annual Iowa Union loan collection art exhibit opens today and will continue through Sept. 31. As many as possible of the 109 reproductions owned by the Union will be on display in the main lounge, while others may be found in various university offices. The collection includes 16 new reproductions.

Representatives of the various campus housing groups desiring to rent pictures may make arrangements for reservations with Mary Bracewell, secretary of the director of the Union, beginning Wednesday, and until Oct. 1. After that date individuals may make their choices. The pictures are rented by the Union at the rate of one dollar per semester for both housing units and individuals.

Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of Iowa Union, began a program of buying fine reproductions each year for display five years ago. Many of the reproductions are importations and cannot be obtained any longer. The purpose of the loan collection arrangement is to develop student appreciation of art through everyday contact with fine reproductions.

Victory Dance Sales Increase

'Wake Island' Tickets Near Sell Out Point; All Seats Reserved

More tickets to the victory "Buy A Bond" dance have been sold today than on any other previous days since sales began. The box office at the Englert theater and all the Iowa City banks have been going at a break-neck pace to fill the orders. There are still several tickets available, however, but persons who have not bought their bonds are urged to do so at once. Admission price is the purchase of a $25, $50, $100 or a $1,000 bond.

Simultaneously with the announcement that "Buy A Bond" dance sales had increased, came word that over 98% of the seats for the "Victory Premiere" showing of "Wake Island" have been reserved. There are still 90 seats left.

A member of the Johnson county war bond committee said last night that there was some confusion over the actual procedure in gaining admission to the "Victory Premiere." For those who are not familiar with how to get the tickets for "Wake Island" this is how you may receive your admission: go to your bank, the Englert theater or the War Bond Headquarters on Washington street and buy a bond. You will be given a coupon or stub at the time you purchase the bond. Take this coupon or stub to the box office of the Englert theater and you will be given your ticket to the "Victory Premiere."

Persons who have not bought their bonds are urged to do so at once so they may be assured of getting their seats reserved at the Englert theater.

The Johnson county war bond committee said last night that the response of the Iowa City people and those in Johnson county has been splendid, but that there were still many tickets to be sold for the "Buy A Bond" dance in order to make the current bond drive a success.

Time and Place: Saturday, 2 p. m. Iowa stadium.

Tickets: No stadium seats reserved; general admission tickets at $1.25 on sale at stadium box offices or field house.

Iowa's 1942 Hawkeyes open their tough 10-game schedule here this afternoon, when Dr. Eddie Anderson sends a lineup composed of nine veterans and two sophomores against Washington university of St. Louis. Game Captain Bill Stauss, who has been a doubtful starter due to a leg injury, will be in the opening lineup. Coach Anderson indicated yesterday that Bob Lauterbach, Sac City senior, will start at the center post, having beaten out Tommy Hand for the honor. The two veterans have been waging a hot scrap for the opening berth ever since practice started, and this game may decide the regular center.

Recruits in Lineup

The only recruits to break in at the kickoff will be Bruno Niedziela, 230-pound Chicago tackle, and Dick Hoerner, 198-pound Dubuque fullback. Niedziela, who beat out Al Urban and Roger Kane for the right tackle post, won his berth during the last two weeks, while Hoerner, who Anderson classes as one of the finest of all Hawkeye prospects, was tabbed to fill Bill Green's shoes as early as last spring. The action of both boys will be followed closely today.

Anderson, having classed this as "shoot-the-works year," will start eight seniors and one junior in addition to the two first-time men. Tommy Farmer, senior left half from Cedar Rapids, is expected to carry the brunt of Iowa's offense.

Farmer a Triple-Threat

The 185-pound triple-threat will do much of the passing and running, and will share the kicking with senior quarterback Jim Youel. Hoerner will help Farmer with the running.

In the course of his experimentation, Anderson will call into action such Hawks as Bill Barbour, Jim Keane and Al Mannino, ends; Al Urban and Bob Yelton, tackles; Orv Davidsmeyer and Bob Penasuna, guards and Forrest Masterson and Hand, centers.

Seeing action in the backfield will be Ben Trickey and Sam Vacanti, left half; Chuck Uknes, fullback; Duke Curran and Lewis, right half.

Iowa Outweighs Bears

Iowa will outweigh the Bears about 15 pounds to the man, figured on the starting lineups. Lee Tevis and George Seith, however, spearhead an all-sophomore backfield which has plenty of speed. Anderson has had no information on Washington, and hasn't been able to set up a definite defense.

Stauss and Lauterbach will back the line with Farmer and Hoerner handling the defending balls, and Youel at safety.

Yesterday the Hawkeyes took a light workout in the stadium rigged out in their new game uniforms—white satin pants and jerseys, with black numbers.

In the stands today will be Ensign Nile Kinnick, 1939 Iowa all-American. Kinnick slipped onto the practice field yesterday and threw some passes in the stadium where he made history with the "Ironmen". Kinnick will be interviewed by Chuck Rehling over WSUI at halftime.

Badgers Given Edge In Camp Grant Tilt

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin opens its 10-game football schedule today at Camp Randall stadium against the Camp Grant (Ill.) Warriors.

Although the Warriors have played two games and will hold a distinct weight advantage, the Badgers, with 19 lettermen, were favored to win. A crowd of 15,000 is expected to attend.

Coaches: Gwinn Henry, Kansas; Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman, Seahawks.

Officials: O'Sullivan, referee; Hedges, umpire; Noble field judge; House, head linesman.

Broadcasts: WREN, Lawrence; WHB, Kansas City; KTSW, Emporia; KFBI, Wichita; KSAL, Salina; KVGB, Great Bend.

Game Time: 4 p. m. (CWT)

The Seahawks begin one of the toughest schedules in the country when they open against the Kansas Jayhawks at Lawrence, this afternoon at 4 p. m. For the next eight weeks they play every weekend, and then after a week off, play four more in a row. During this time, they will meet five Big Ten teams, three service squads and three Big Six teams, with Notre Dame thrown in for good measure.

After a light workout yesterday afternoon, a traveling group of 46 left Iowa City for Lawrence. 36 players will suit out for the opener. Bobby Swisher, shifty halfback, will miss the game because of an ankle injury sustained in practice.

Five cadets, five officers and one enlisted man will compose the Seahawk starting eleven. Bus Mertes, former star Hawkeye right halfback, was moved up to the Seahawk right half post in yesterday's drills, and is expected to start against the Jayhawks. Forrest Evashevski also moved into the first string backfield.

Lieut. Col. Bierman expects to win his opener, without showing too much of his strength, but Kansas coach Henry maintains that he has 15 players as good as any in the country, and if they pull an "ironman" stunt, the victory bell may ring on Mt. Oread.

A strong line and a weak backfield—three starters have been lost, including all-Big Six Ralph Miller—is the story at Kansas; Henry believes, however, that his starting line should be able to take good care of itself today.

4 Runs in Ninth Inning Gives Cincy 5-1 Win

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Big Jack Hallett, rookie strikeout king up from the International league, blew up in the ninth inning of a brilliant hurling duel with Johnny VanderMeer last night and the Cincinnati Reds scored four times to beat Pittsburgh, 5 to 1. Doubles by Linus Frey and Max Marshall, each with the bases loaded featured the big rally.

All Was Calm, Quiet For Baseball Writers In Dodgers Press Box

NEW YORK.—All was calm and peaceful in the Brooklyn Dodger press box.

Large John McDonald, paced up and down, beads of perspiration standing out on his high brow like glycerine drops. Occasionally he would approach the ticker bringing in the results of the Cardinals-Braves game, stand for a moment in fearful indecision, then grasp the tape savagely and glare defiantly at the figures.

Veteran baseball writers whose hearts belong to the Dodgers gnawed furiously at stubby fingernails between furtive glances at the big scoreboard in right center.

Larry MacPhail wasn't around. He was holed in at the Dodgers' downtown office.

Calm and Peaceful

Everything was calm and peaceful in the Dodgers press box.

The Dodgers took a commanding lead early over the Pittsburgh Pirates, and there was little to do but wonder what was happening in Boston, and ponder again the possible reasons for tragic decline of the beloved Bums.

"I saw this coming last July when they were seven and a half games in front," said a scribe who has followed the club periodically. "Why? Because it's a one-shot ball club. It was put together to win the pennant last year. There are too many old men. I saw Herman and Vaughan showing up. The team was hot then, too hot. It wasn't as good as it looked. The slump was bound to come."

The scoreboard showed the Cards with a run in the first and another in the third, with the Braves scoreless. McDonald mumbled something about "wish Lombardi would hit a home run with three on."

Then the word grapevined through the box with the speed of bad news:

"Cards Get Four"

"The Cards got four more in the sixth."

A newcomer approached the ticker, noted that the Braves got two runs in the sixth, but failed.

"Whee," he burst in gleeful ignorance, and pranced down the length of the box spreading the glad tidings:

"Braves got two and tied it up. Lombardi hit a home run with one on."

The wiser scribes, already aware of the Cards' scoring, smiled wanly and shook pitying heads. There was bliss in such ignorance. McDonald forced a sickly grin and commented dryly:

"Well, that's close to what I asked for. But it's too little—too little and too late."

The Dodgers had been powdering the ball and there was little interest in the game on the field. And little joy in the victory, either. Not while the ticker and the scoreboard showed the Cards sailing blithely along. Only a calamity befalling Billy Southworth's team could bring satisfaction to the Dodger followers.

St. Louis 6, Boston 2

The game progressed to its satisfactory conclusion, but the scoreboard also read: St. Louis 6, Boston 2.

MacPhail still was absent. Led Durocher dressed quickly and disappeared. The gaudy press room, usually ringing with lusty chatter long after the field was deserted, was licked up early as the usual inhabitants hurried away to mope in silence.

Everything was calm and peaceful in the Dodger press box.

City High Rolls Over Dowling Eleven, 21-0

Casey Scores All Markers For Hawklets

By JOHN GRAHAM

City high rolled over a hard fighting eleven from Dowling of Des Moines on Shrader field here last night, 21 to 0, in the Hawklets' first game of the season. Although the game was played on a slippery field, the Red and Whites were in control throughout and Dowling was unable to pass Iowa City's 13-yard line.

Joe Casey lived up to all expectations and monopolized the scoring column by making all three Hawklet touchdowns. Casey made two scores with four-yard plunges and another by taking a 16-yard sprint.

Dave Danner started the Little Hawk offensive by almost running through the entire Dowling team on the opening kickoff, but was finally stopped after a beautiful 67-yard run. A series of plunges and off-tackle plays with Wayne Hopp, Bill Sangster and Casey totting the ball, set up the first City high touchdown. Casey then went into low gear and barreled over the double stripes for 6 points.

Sangster tried a dropkick for the extra point which was good but both teams were offside and the play was called back. Sangster's second attempt was also good and gave the Cockscomen a 7 to 0 lead in the first two minutes of the game.

Sangster and Hopp brought the ball to Dowling's 16-yard line late in the first quarter on two consecutive first downs and then "Joltin' Joe" took his second trip across the goal line to put the Hawklets on the long end of a 13 to 0 tally. Sangster had no trouble in making his second conversion to give City high a 14 to 0 lead.

After their second score, the Red and Whites got a break when Jim Smythe, Dowling halfback, fumbled Sangster's kickoff and Bob Roth recovered for Iowa City. Casey took another sprint, this time 19 yards, and then Hopp carried the ball to the four. Casey then galloped over for the third touchdown and Sangster's dropkick made the score Iowa City 21, Dowling 0.

It looked as though Dowling was hitting its stride after City high's third score when the Hawklet kickoff was returned 36 yards to the 42-yard marker. Luck didn't seem to be with the Irishers, though, for just after a spectacular run by Ed Fosselman, shifty Dowling back, the gun ended the first half.

Dowling opened the second half with a futile attempt to get into Iowa City territory, but hard-hitting lineman Dean Yanush kept the academy boys from making much yardage. From here on in, fumbles on both sides were numerous and it was just a question of who could hold on to the slippery ball the longest.

Casey was undoubtedly the bright light for City high both offensively and defensively. When he was not making first downs or touchdowns runs, the big back would be jolting Dowling ball carriers or pepping up his teammates from his defensive linebacker position.

Other outstanding defensive men were Yanush, Wayne Brown and Dick Lee. There had been some doubt as to the capabilities of the Hawklet line, which is relatively green, but last night's performance should assure Coach Herb Cormack that his veteran backfield has plenty of support.

University high gained a nine point lead in the first half, which proved enough as Kalona high bowed 9 to 7 yesterday afternoon on the latter's field. Jack Shay, veteran fullback, accounted for all of U-high's points.

Outweighed by Kalona, the Bluehawks used their speed to build up the early advantage. Shay drove eight yards off tackle for the first score, and a pass from Shay to Helm was good for the extra point. Just before the half ended, Shay blocked a punt on Kalona's 5-yard line and the ball rolled beyond the end zone for an automatic safety.

U-high made its first scoring threat in the first quarter when Bill Cobb recovered a fumble on Kalona's 25-yard line. The Blues drove down to the two, but were stopped there. Kalona punted out as the second quarter started, and the Blues again threatened but this time were held on the three. The Bluehawks were not to be denied however, and they made the next opportunity good.

Kalona fumbled the kick off, but recovered on the 5-yard line. After two plays, which gained nothing, they attempted to kick out but

Lon Warneke to Pitch Against Cards Today

To Face Mort Cooper In 1st Tilt of Series With League-Leaders

CHICAGO. — (AP)—Lon Warneke, the Old Arkansas Hummingbird, will be on the firing line against his old teammates, the fiercely battling St. Louis Cardinals, in the first game of the important two-game Cub-Card series opening at Wrigley field today.

Opposing him will be Mort Cooper, the Cardinals' famed 20 game winner, who will be seeking his 21st triumph to keep the Red Birds in the lead for the National league pennant.

Warneke, former Cub who was returned to the Chicago club on waivers by the Cardinals in mid-summer, declared he bears no malice toward the St. Louis crew, but that he was going to bear down to the very limits of his physical capabilities.

"You're damned right," he exclaimed, "I'm going to be out there to win this one for myself, if I can. I'll be out there to keep the ball away from my own door. I'll give 'em everything I've got, you can bet on that."

Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Cubs revealed that Warneke asked to pitch.

"I told him to go ahead," Wilson commented, "You know it was Lon who started the Dodgers on their nosedive a few days ago. Now maybe he can help Brooklyn out a bit."

Cooper may give up his pet superstition of wearing the jersey with the number on it corresponding to the game he wants to win, but today will tell whether he gives up this idea.

Manager Wilson yesterday deposited his rookie help and reinstated regulars at five posts for the important two-game series.

"We're going to give them everything we've got—the best we have," Wilson said. "I'm not going to say we will win... they are really a tough ball club to keep down. I saw them pull a game out of the bucket at Philadelphia and look what they did in the ninth inning at Boston yesterday. But we're going to make it hot for them."

Texas Starts Football Season Minus Stars

21 Lettermen Ready However, for Opener With Corpus Christi

AUSTIN, Tex., (AP)—That precision line is gone, Cowboy Jack Crain roams southwestern gridirons no more and the University of Texas settles down to the more prosaic ambition of a conference championship than national glory.

Twenty-one lettermen make Texas a first division choice. None of those men were starters last season, however, and there's not a publicized star in the lot.

But Texas will have a well-balanced team featuring a hard running game, with fair passing and a strong defense.

A couple of track men, each doing 100 yards in under ten seconds, head a backfield corps carrying more than a quota of speed, Jackie Field, 190-pound youngster, has been the top man of fall training.

The other speedster is pianollegged Max Minor who also depends mostly on power.

Surprise of the backfield, however, is a stocky fellow named Joe Magliolo. Joe came out twice for spring training but didn't try for the varsity until this season. He immediately stepped in as starting blocking back.
