Reds Capture 2 Nazi Trenches In Sudden Spurt at Stalingrad

Advance on Snowy Steppes to North as Defenders Inside City Wipe Out Enemy Battalion, Destroy Twelve Tanks

MOSCOW, Friday (AP)—The Red army fighting on the snowy steppes northwest of Stalingrad occupied two Nazi trenches in an offensive spurt yesterday while inside the besieged city the Russians in hand-to-hand combat killed a battalion of Germans and smashed 12 enemy tanks in a successful defense now entering its 60th day.

The Soviet midnight communique said 200 Nazis were slain in their trenches northwest of Stalingrad as "Red army men by a sudden blow broke into the enemy's positions," and five machine-guns, 36 tommy-guns and other equipment were seized.

A two-day fight in another sector of the same front where the Russians have been attacking the Nazi flank to relieve pressure on the Stalingrad garrison resulted in the killing of 500 German and Romanian troops, the bulletin added. This fight was said to have developed from an Axis effort to recapture some hill strongholds.

Coach of Navy Beahawks Dies In Auto Crash

Lieut. John E. Blicke, 37, battalion commander and coach of the Navy Pre-Flight school's Beahawks, was killed shortly after 11 o'clock last night when the car he was driving collided with another vehicle about eight miles south of Cedar Rapids. The body is at the Beatty mortuary in Cedar Rapids, police officials announced last night.

Earle N. Chadd of Cedar Rapids, driver of the other vehicle, has been placed in custody, Sheriff Jim Smith's office reported early this morning.

Connie Conklin, also of Cedar Rapids, who was riding in the Chadd car, received several broken ribs and a fractured collar bone. Her condition is described as "serious."

Lieutenant Blicke was born at Gallipolis, Ohio, July 13, 1905. Tomorrow he was to lead his Beahawks in their first home game of the season against Wisconsin's B team.

Lieutenant Blicke received his commission in the naval reserve March 16 of this year. Before enlisting in the navy, Blicke was assistant varsity coach of football, basketball and track at Ohio State university.

His collegiate days at Ohio Wesleyan university saw him earn nine varsity letters, three each in football, basketball and track. On the gridiron he was a star left halfback during 1924, '25 and '26, and an outstanding basketball guard during those same years.

The year of his graduation, 1927, saw him win a berth on the all-Ohio football team, and honorable mention on All-American teams. He was graduated that year with an A. B. degree in physical education.

Wife of 'Motorola' Head, Maid Slain

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Paul V. Galvin, wife of the president of the Motorola Radio Corporation, and a maid were found slain in the Galvin home here last night.

Police said no weapons were found near the bodies, which bore bullet and stab wounds. The bodies were found by Mrs. Galvin's son, Robert, a student, early yesterday evening.

Senate Denounces, Sidetracks Dry Amendment to Youth-Draft Measure

'Long Blue Nose of Prohibition' Ousted by Move, Norris Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dry amendment to the youth-draft bill was sidetracked by the senate, 49 to 25, yesterday after a hot debate in which supporters called it a necessary safeguard for soldiers and sailors and opponents denounced it as "the entering wedge of the long blue nose of prohibition."

Offered by Senator Lee (D., Okla.), the amendment would ban sales, gifts or use of all alcoholic drink from army and navy reservations and adjacent areas.

At the earnest suggestion of Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), majority leader, the senate decided to send the amendment to its military committee with instruction to hold hearings and report as soon as practicable.

Delay in Consideration

This meant, it was apparent, a delay in senate consideration until after the Nov. 3 elections and Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.) told his colleagues it spelled the death of the Lee proposal, which he supported.

"The military affairs committee is opposed to this amendment," Norris declared before a vote was taken, "and if you send it to that committee you are sending it to a pigeonhole where it will never again see the light of day."

The senate decision opened the way for an early vote on the draft bill, making youths 18- and 19 years old available for military service. However, this vote was put off at least until today when the senate recessed late in the day.

Police Guards

Extra policemen guarded the senate wing of the capitol as the dry issue was thrashed out. Police authorities described the guards as "purely a precautionary measure" because of the overflow crowds in galleries and corridors.

Barkley told his colleagues that congress ought to have additional time to study the question. Adoption of Lee's amendment now, he said, would be bound to delay final action on the draft legislation until some time in November. He said speaker Rayburn of the house had informed him it would be impossible to raise a house quorum until next month because so many members had gone home. The house passed a draft bill last Saturday, without any amendment such as Lee proposed.

Oppose Amendment

In a letter to Chairman Walsh (Dem., Mass.) of the naval affairs committee, which was read to the senate, Secretary of the Navy Knox joined Secretary of War Stimson in opposing the amendment. Knox contended that the navy was getting "gratifying results" in promoting temperance through its regulations and an educational program.

Knox noted that no alcoholic beverages in any form were allowed on naval vessels. War department officials had previously pointed out that sale of hard liquor at army camps is barred by regulations.

Lee warned his colleagues that if they rejected his proposal they might be only "fanning the flame for national prohibition."

Very Mild

"This is a very mild measure and yet its passage would take away the best argument the so-called 'dry' forces have, whereas to refuse its passage will, I believe, result in fanning the flame for national prohibition," he declared.

Senator Lucas (Dem., Ill.) and Tydings (Dem., Md.) were on their feet, immediately, however, to contend that the amendment would be a step toward drying up the whole nation. Tydings said he was not going to be a party to establishing "another Al Capone reign—another orgy of crime, murder and kidnaping."

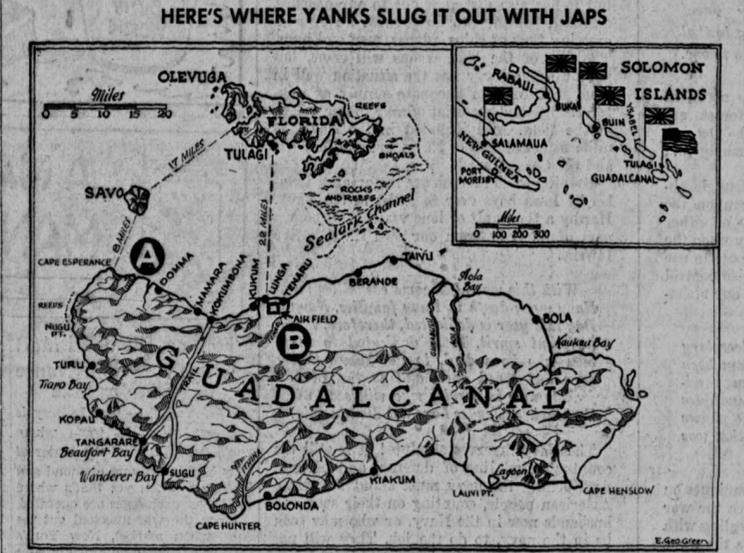

OPA Will Allot New Stocks of Used Tires

WASHINGTON (AP)—The office of price administration yesterday made arrangements to allow all tire dealers to stock up on new tires made of reclaimed rubber, and recapped and used tires for sale to owners of passenger cars who will become eligible for rationed tires in the near future.

Under the new mileage rationing program which will go into effect throughout the country November 22 every car, which actually needs it, will be able to get tires of one kind or another.

Willkie to 'Tell Truth' In National Broadcast

NEW YORK (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, back in New York after a rest in Rushville, Ind., from his globe-circling trip, said yesterday he was "going to tell the truth" in his radio report to the nation Monday night on his travels.

HERE'S WHERE YANKS SLUG IT OUT WITH JAPS

The detailed map, above, of Guadalcanal island shows the territory in which American army, navy and marine forces are throwing all their resources into battle with the Japanese for control of the Solomons. United States warships have bombarded Japanese installations and bases (A) on the northwest corner of the island while the enemy has retaliated with attacks on the American airfield (B). Inset map shows Jap bases (marked by Rising Sun banners) in the Solomons area which have been bombed by American planes.

Yanks Repulse Minor Jap Attack in Solomons As Both Sides Prepare Forces for Big Show

U.S. Airmen Hunting Down, Blasting Enemy Positions in Islands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Still waiting for Japan's big push, American forces in the Solomon islands repulsed a minor enemy thrust on October 20, destroyed an enemy bomber with anti-aircraft fire and continued a general process of seeking out and bombing Japanese positions on Guadalcanal island.

The navy made this announcement yesterday in a communique which indicated that the battle for the Solomons was still in its preparatory stages, with the Japanese attempting to mass troops and ships and American aviators striving to blast them before they can get set.

No Material Change

The communique reported no "material change in the military situation in the Solomon islands." It went on to say that on October 20 (October 19 in Washington) "a minor enemy thrust against the western flank of our troop positions on Guadalcanal was repulsed."

Activity Continues

"Our aircraft continue active in seeking out and bombing enemy troops and supply concentrations on Guadalcanal island."

In Washington, meanwhile, Assistant Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal said that if the American prospects in the Solomons were measured by "the courage of those men down there, there can be but one outcome, complete and final victory."

Improved Bases

Our troops in the Solomons, he said, worked from improvised bases hewn from the jungles and frequently lived on supplies captured from the Japs.

They were undergoing, he added, "black, thick jungle fighting, in the blackest of night." They were fighting without rest, he added, and have "been bombed by day and shelled by night and attacked from the jungles both by day and night."

At a Press Conference

Secretary Stimson said that General Douglas MacArthur and Vice Admiral Robert A. Gormley were "working in the closest possible cooperation."

Axis Prisoners of War in Canada Forcibly Resist Shackling, Brutally Assault Guards

U.S. Airmen Hunting Down, Blasting Enemy Positions in Islands

OTTAWA (AP)—Defense Minister Ralston announced last night that prisoners of war in Canada forcibly resisted shackling on Oct. 10 and that prisoners and guards received injuries, most of them of a minor character.

The government issued the following statement:

"The minister of national defense last night stated that when prisoners of war at Bowmanville, Ontario, forcibly resisted shackling on Saturday, October 10, both prisoners of war and guards received injuries, the majority of a minor character.

Refuse to Obey

"Refusing to obey orders, prisoners of war barricaded themselves in their barracks. It was necessary to fire four warning shots by rifle, three in the air and one toward the ground which ricocheted and wounded one of the prisoners in the leg. This took place at a time when the prisoners seized and brutally assaulted an officer of the guard. Two other prisoners received light bayonet wounds. There were no fatalities.

No Further Trouble

"No machinegun fire was used nor was there tear gas or any other form of gas resorted to throughout the trouble. Food was prepared and served to the prisoners, some of whom went on a hunger strike which lasted for two days. The shackling at Bowmanville prisoners-of-war camp was proceeded with. Normal prisoner-of-war camp life was resumed after the guard was reinforced by detachments from a nearby military camp. All has been quiet in the Bowmanville camp since a few days after the encounter.

CITIZENS' DEFENSE CORPS

All members of the corps who have not had their fingerprints recorded at the Iowa City police station are urged to do so as soon as possible.

A county-wide blackout will be held on the night of Nov. 19 from 9:30 p. m. to 10 o'clock.

Flynn Hearing Set for Nov. 2

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Errol Flynn, man of adventure and darling on the screen, will appear in superior court Nov. 2 for preliminary hearing on three counts of statutory rape.

Tolan Asks Complete Overall Urges Government Streamlining

WASHINGTON (AP)—A blueprint for sweeping reorganization of the federal government, aimed at complete wartime mobilization of the nation's resources in both materials and manpower, was presented to the house yesterday by the chairman Tolan (D., Calif.) of the special committee on defense migration.

The Californian introduced a bill to create an overall office of war mobilization, guided by an "economic general staff" known as the committee on requirements and program.

His call for a reshuffling and "streamlining" followed by two days a special report by his committee declaring that "despite numerous realignments, 10 months after Pearl Harbor business-as-usual considerations still permeate the Washington wartime agencies."

"This war can be lost in Washington," the committee declared.

Tolan said the purpose of the new measure would be:

"To inventory and mobilize all the economic resources of the United States including manpower, facilities, materials, technical and scientific knowledge, and natural resources for maximum use in the provision of military and essential civilian needs and to adjust and stabilize the economy in accordance with the needs of full mobilization and other conditions created by war."

A similar bill was introduced in the senate by Senators Kilgore (D., W. Va.) and Pepper (D., Fla.).

The proposed overall economic war office (OWM) would be

Rommel Takes Command Of All Axis Units

Hint Vichy Officials May Move to Africa To Escape 'Pressure'

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
Associated Press War Editor

From the approaches of the Nile valley to the western bulge, Africa was involved last night in developing military and political events of tremendous importance. There even was the suggestion that a governing body from Vichy France might move to the dark continent to escape the direct pressure of Nazi Germany, and, incidentally, the wrath of the people.

Over Egypt the Allied air forces, displaying a degree of superiority never before achieved, were fighting the preliminaries of the fast-approaching new campaign in the desert. From the Axis side, it was reported that Germany's Rommel had assumed supreme command of Axis air, land and sea dispositions in the Mediterranean in line with Hitler's own offensive plans.

The arrival in Dakar of Admiral Jean Darlan, chief of the Vichy armed forces, was the event which drew a new diagnosis of the fever which Germany, most of all, has been generating over the position of all French West Africa.

As soon as he reached the strategic naval-air base, Darlan went before the microphone with a message from old Marshal Petain, telling the garrison and population, "today new menaces hang over you." On the surface this appeared to be a reference to the storm of German charges that Allied forces, including troops reported to have landed in Liberia, are mounting a general offensive in West Africa.

But in Bern, Switzerland, usually well-grounded and observant observers said Darlan actually is sounding out the defense possibilities in French West Africa in case some kind of French government feels it must flee from Vichy.

In the Paris region of the occupied zone, the failure of "selected" French artisans to catch German-bound trains Thursday night threatened the Nazi commander to threaten to use force hereafter on reluctant workers drafted for the Reich.

Meanwhile a wide swath of unoccupied southern France had the air raid ritters. Anti-aircraft guns were blazing and sirens were screaming at both Vichy and Lyon; a blackout was ordered at Toulouse, in Midi. Possibly the alarms were caused by Allied planes heading for Italy. Radio Paris also was off the air.

On the air front in western Europe there was the news that nine more Nazi fighters had succumbed to the guns of the Flying Fortresses as the result of Wednesday's raid on Lorient.

German raiders struck back at England in daylight, attacking two Anglian villages and parts of the southeast coast, and killing at least 22 persons.

PRESENTING 1943 DOLPHIN BEAUTY CANDIDATES

Last night marked the end of the second round of the Dolphin beauty competition with the announcement of the names of thirteen women who were selected from the original 29 candidates submitted by dormitories and sororities on the campus. Pictured above, left to right, are: Dorothy Lee Earnest, Delta Delta Delta; Kathleen Timp, Coast house; Janice Sersig, Gamma Phi Beta; Pegge Terrall, Clinton Place; Kay Shaffer, Kappa Alpha Theta; Betty Doyle, Eastlawn; Eileen Schenken, Currier; Peggy King, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Marge Daughton, Currier; Andrene Pederson, Tau Gamma; Virginia Alm, Currier; Dorothy Binder, Alpha Delta Pi, and Mary Sparks, Chi Omega. From this group one will be chosen queen of the Dolphin Follies of 1943 and four others will be named as members of her court. The show will be held Nov. 5, 6 and 7 in the fieldhouse under the direction of Dolphin fraternity. As in the past, the queen and her attendants will be presented on the opening night of the aquade, and the announcement of these names will not be made until that time. In charge of the queens committee for the show is Clyde Kennitz, E4 of Chicago, member of Dolphin fraternity.

Main U.S. Trouble in Solomons--

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Japs Able to Concentrate Twice As Much Naval Strength There--

WASHINGTON — The trouble at Guadalcanal has been that the main Jap battle fleet was centered in an area just north of there, while ours was scattered around the world.

The Japs, therefore, have been able to call upon an overwhelming force of naval power to center upon that one point anytime they chose and we could do nothing to balance it. Their naval strength available for summoning to that point outclasses ours probably two to one.

Ashore, on that magnetized fly speck in the far Pacific, the opposing forces apparently were about equal, after the October 15 Jap landings. Each side presumably had something like 15,000 men.

But the final outcome of the struggle obviously rested from the start, not upon the land strength, or upon the ability of either side to reinforce its forces, but solely upon the extent to which the Japs would choose to use their fleet. With it, they might seize control of the seas at any time, and isolate our resisting land force.

This is the reason why Navy Secretary Knox and other officials lately have been viewing the situation with open pessimism. While the official communiques may have been holding back some phases of the operation, the basic situation was enough to inspire apprehensions.

You may have noticed, the communiques on this subject, for the first time since the war began, have been current, that is, dealing with day to day action. Up to this time the navy has espoused a policy of silence during actual continuing operations, and waited until engagements were concluded or longer before announcing anything important about them.

All-Important Guadalcanal Airfield-- Conflicting announcements about our plane operations the past week are attributable to the fluctuating status of our all-important airfield on the island. One day it was announced no American planes had been in the air for 48 hours, while the next day's news recorded the overwhelmingly successful operations of American planes.

Obviously, the Japs had been able to obstruct our operations from the airfield. Their artillery and bombers could knock it out for a day or so, but our subsequent operations from the field against their ships reflected the ability of the marines to put it back to effective use.

The main big weapon we had been able to swing against their naval concentrations was our land-based bombers, operating not only from this field, but long distance from New Caledonia and the New Hebrides.

These operations, coupled with hit and run maneuvering by our cruisers and/or battleships in the area could, however, merely serve notice on the Japs that they would have to come in with a big portion of their main battle fleet—bigger than they used before—in order to accomplish the objective which they had been pecking at.

That they intended to come in with greater superiority next time has been evident, in the fact that they called troops on transport from the Philippines and even far away China, and gathered them at their various nearby south Pacific bases.

You will have to blame geography most for an unsatisfactory condition like that.

Prohibition Agitation Is Result of Localized Dry Activity--

Drys have not descended upon Washington to promote national prohibition as they did in the last war. Congressional agitation which you see in the day's news merely is the result of local dry activity out in some sections in the country.

In many of the local elections this year, drys have shown renewed strength. An authoritative computation indicates the drys have gained about 16 local communities in the last 42 contests this year.

The explanation of Senator Josh Lee's attempt to tack a military post prohibition on the draft bill is two-fold. His Oklahoma is a dry state, into which liquor has seeped to the army in considerable quantity. Also, on a national scale, considerable trouble has developed from liquor dispensing conditions around army posts.

But when Mississippi's dry Senator Bilbo attempted to start a national dry campaign two or three months ago with a meeting here no one came (including the noted dry leaders like Henry Ford, who were invited).

So while the prohibition movement has gained some considerable momentum since the start of the war, it does not yet appear to be a potent political factor.

It is true that quiet local temperance units, exerting individual pressure upon politicians, without any national display, could conceivably exert a controlling influence on congress. So far, however, national prohibition is only an extremely remote possibility.

Our Navy Deserves a Salute--

Tuesday, October 27th, Americans will salute one branch of the armed forces now fighting to preserve the American and democratic way of life—the United States Navy.

Never in American history has the Navy been called upon to do the job facing it today. Not in one ocean, or even in two, is the Navy confined in this war. On all the oceans and seas of the World the Navy is now fighting, conveying, protecting, attacking, defending and patrolling. It is as herculean a task as ever confronted a fighting force.

Unlike many previous wars, this one has so far been a decidedly naval war with the United States—on the surface, below and above water. The Navy has taken some blows, but it has also dish it out to our enemies, and will continue to do so with an ever-increasing flow of ships, planes, men and guns. The day of the land troops will come, but not until the Navy has the situation well in hand to insure an adequate supply of reinforcements and material of war to our troops in the field. And included in the Navy, as units attached to the Navy, are the Marines and the Coast Guard.

Helping to do this job are the greatest number of Iowa boys ever to enlist in the Navy. Hardly a fleet unit or lone vessel is without a part of its crew from our own state, native Iowans.

With this war have come casualties for Navy men; death in Navy families. Navy Day this year is dedicated, therefore, in a different spirit. It is dedicated to the men who have died, to the homes that have lost loved ones, and to the Blue-jackets now in service who will see to it that their comrades have not died in vain.

The Navy deserves a salute! It is still the country's first line of defense, and offense. And behind the navy must stand the whole American people, counting on their sons and husbands now in the Navy, or who may soon be in the navy, to do the job. They will not fail.

'Yes, We Have No Bananas'

Yes, we have no bananas today! As most any housewife can tell you, the sentiments of that song are very true, and we must, therefore, suffer for the duration without our banana cream pies and banana splits. Indeed, I have been told that banana splits are still sold—minus the bananas at the old price of twenty-five cents.

Bananas, like rubber, are thought to have originated somewhere in Asia in the vicinity of the Indies, although there are some who believe that bananas might have grown on this continent before Columbus stepped ashore, having been brought over by ocean currents. In any event, there are bananas growing in this hemisphere now, mainly in Central America and northern South America. It is from these sources that our banana supply comes, or I should say did come until submarine warfare and ship sinkings have made it necessary to carry more essential commodities in the bottoms of available ships.

Americans like their bananas, as can be evidenced by figures from the reports of the United Fruit company, whose main ware was bananas. Using the year 1930 for this purpose, since this was the period following the world economic crisis, we find that the United Fruit company had 189,165 acres, or 295 square miles cultivated in bananas, from which it exported to the United States 65,000,000 bunches in that year alone.

Banana lovers will have to do without the luscious fruit, since the plantain is not essential to the security of our country as is rubber. And no one is working on synthetic bananas and certainly no one can retreat or reap them after use. We will have to wait then until victory is ours and the war is over or until Uncle Sam's fast growing Victory Fleet can carry them to our ports.

Famous Diamond Mart Gains New Importance

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK — The Bowers is the last street in town where you'd expect to find the center of New York's thriving diamond and jewelry market, yet that's where the larger exchanges are placed.

Since the war knocked out of the Amsterdam market, New York's market has taken on much greater proportions. Prices shot up so rapidly that diamond merchants came to work in the morning tens of thousands of dollars richer than they had been the night before, without lifting a finger.

The market is a most unglamorous place, not seeming at all out of place in the Bowery. The most important exchange has the dimensions of a large cafeteria and is a great deal like a department store, with individual show-cases not more than six or eight feet long huddled against each other all around the walls and in the center. Behind each showcase stands the lord and vendor of his stock, his name appearing on a stereotyped glass sign.

Some specialize in diamond jewelry, others in uncut diamonds, still others in gold jewelry, antique jewelry, watch cases, silverware and repairing for the trade.

Be sure that the million dollar stock is well protected by private and public burglar systems. Each safe is wired to a central office, and not even the proprietors themselves can open their strongboxes between regular closing and opening hours. Plainclothesmen and uniformed watchmen prowled around the marble floor watching for suspicious movements. At a signal from any merchant, exit doors lock automatically, gongs ring and officers from main police headquarters the double, and the place gets like a well disorganized boiler factory.

A couple of weeks ago, the alarm went off, and while the cops were dashing around with sawed-off machine guns, a building attendant found the guilty party—a pet cat which had tripped the basement alarm.

While multi - thousand dollar deals are taking place over the counters, another unofficial exchange takes place outside. Here a strong curb market operates in some of the cheaper items, usually picked up at auctions of unclaimed loan pledges.

These exchanges are wholesale markets, to which come most of the city's retail jewelry merchants. No sale is too small, but don't think that you can get it wholesale!

Saturday is the busy day, for it's still payday to millions of New Yorkers. More diamond-conscious than people in most cities, they often buy stones purely for investment. June and December are good months, because of weddings and Christmas, but summer

HOLLYWOOD NIGHTS SOUNDS

Hollywood Faces Along Broadway—

By ROBBIN COONS
NEW YORK—The curtain rises and there you are, back in Hollywood again. The same faces, most of them, you've seen back on the sound stages at one time or another. They're achieving the eternally voiced hope of most movie people: they're "doing a play" again.

Some of them are doing plays that are already headed for pictures. Some are doing plays that have already become pictures—like "Arsenic and Old Lace" which was finished in Hollywood these many months but has not yet seen the projection lights.

There are even a couple of offerings that "tried out" in Hollywood. There's "Angel Street," the chiller by Vincent Price as one of those evil husbands, and George Jessel and Jack Haley have brought in their "Show Time" variety to good reception.

"Star and Garter" rates as a hit, too, but you won't be seeing it on the screen unless in name only. It's burlesque, serving its cup of ribaldry via Gypsy Rose Lee and Bobby Clark.

Emlyn Williams' short - lived drama, "The Morning Star," illustrated a common difference in Broadway and Hollywood casting. Gladys Cooper, who plays supporting character roles in films, got her name in dimmed-out lights here, and Wendy Barrie, who has starred in Hollywood, got no marquee mention.

Wendy, new to the stage, did a convincing trick as a wily meanie. The boy of this piece, Gregory Peck, looks like a good bet for pictures.

Ray Bolger is back in his element after several pictures, enjoying "By Jupiter." Odd about this one: they say it's too rough for filming, but it's the same story (with Rodgers and Hart music now) that was filmed from the play, "The Warrior's Husband." But the movie code has stiffened considerably since those days.

In the list of current plays there's scarcely one that doesn't feature one or two movie-familiar names. Constance Moore is getting some stage training — and nice—with Bolger's show. Joseph Schildkraut is co-starring with Eva LeGallienne in "Uncle Harry," and Harry Richman, Bert Wheeler and Carol Bruce have shaken Hollywood temporarily for their "New Priorities of 1942," another vaudeville show.

Of the few shows a quick visit here would permit, "Blithe Spirit" would catch this vote as the smartest, brightest comedy.

Months are brutal. Many merchants shut down during July and August and have themselves a time somewhere. Winter or summer, the Bowery is no pleasure resort.

FACING THE FACTS ABOUT WAR FINANCE

No. 2 This, the second in a series of pictorialized articles compiled by the Tax Foundation, shows the over-all size of the war program as it relates to national income and a sound economy.

These questions and answers, along with the others in the series, are intended to assist the average American in better understanding the vital question of war finance. There are many fronts in this war. The battle front, the production front, the rationing front, the paying front... we have got to win them all! We can maintain a sound economy and hold inflation in check only by working together as a whole people. We can do that only if we have the facts and understand the problem and what it means to each of us.

1. What is the over-all size of our war program?
At the beginning of our new fiscal year, July 1, 1942, the amount authorized, requested and expended for war purposes was $222 billion. Of this, $33 billion had been spent and $187 billion remained to be spent in future years.
2. Will this cover all war expenditures?
The answer will be determined by the time required to win the war, the level of prices and the rate of spending. If prices do not exceed those of the first half of 1942, we can expect to spend from $70 to $75 billion a year for war purposes alone. If the war lasts more than two years or the price of war materials is not held down, both the amount and the rate of spending will increase materially.
3. What does this mean in terms of our income?
The national income in fiscal 1942 was $105 billion. It is estimated that it will reach at least $120 billion (in 1942 dollars) at the peak of our production. Our war expenditures are expected to reach an amount equivalent to 60% of our national income.
4. Will a national income of $120 billion, under war conditions, represent a condition of prosperity?
No, even a high national income under war conditions cannot create a permanent condition of prosperity. Approximately 60% of our production will be devoted to war purposes. Only 40% to the production of civilian goods. There will be much more money—more than ever before—but fewer goods to buy than in our worst depression year. Either the additional money earned will be drained off in taxes, savings or purchase of war bonds or it will be absorbed in the purchase of fewer goods at a much higher cost.

75 Jurors Selected For District Court Will Appear Nov. 23

Seventy-five petit jurors, who are to appear at the courthouse Nov. 23 to be selected for the winter term of district court, were drawn yesterday by an eight-member committee composed of Robert J. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Carlson of Minneapolis, Minn., in the Congregational church last night. The Rev. James E. Waery officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. H. H. Stewart of Kanawha, the bride wore a tailored afternoon dress of slate colored silk. Her accessories were brown and she wore an orchid.

Attending the bride was Ruth Youm. She was dressed in a frock of yellow wool.

Sergt. Donald Carlson of Ft. Snelling, Minn., attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Donald Montgomery, Donald Goodnow, Ens. Harvey Ring and Ens. Raymond Antil.

The bride's mother wore a dress of royal blue silk. The groom's mother was gowned in black silk with sequins and rhinestones. Each wore a corsage of pink roses.

The wedding was preceded by an organ prelude by Mrs. Gerald W. Buxton and a vocal solo by Mrs. James E. Waery. The prelude was comprised of Liebestraum (Liszt), "I Love You Truly" (Bond), "O Promise Me (De Koven) and "Salut D'Amour" (Elgar). Mrs. Waery sang "Because" by D'Hardelot.

Mrs. Buxton also played the professional, "The Bridal March from Lohengrin" by Wagner and Mendelssohn's recessional, "The Wedding March from Midsummer Night's Dream."

The church was decorated with palms, white candelabra and white chrysanthemums.

A reception for 100 guests was held after the ceremony in the church parlors. Out of town guests were Mrs. L. G. Baker of Algona; Mrs. Donald Carlson of Minneapolis; Donna Carlson of St. Paul, Minn.; Derwood Baker of Ames; Mrs. H. H. Stewart, Mrs. C. C. Lucas, Mrs. Wayne Yeakel and Robert Goodnow, all of Kanawha.

The bride was graduated from high school in Clarion and attended junior college in Eagle Grove.

Mr. Carlson finished high school in Alexandria, Minn., and was graduated from the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. He was athletic director of Augsburg College in Minneapolis until he entered the service, and is now stationed at the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school.

Following their wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 118 1/2 S. Dubuque street.

English Women Unite in War Effort

Hilda Beal, British War Worker, Tells of State Conspiration in Great Britain

So Iowa University women think they are united! They are—to a certain degree—but they haven't even scratched the surface in comparison to their English neighbors just across the Atlantic. That was the realization of every one of the group of University of Iowa women who heard Hilda Beal of York, England, yesterday when she described women and the English war effort at the weekly discussion group meeting held in the social room of the women's gymnasium by U. W. A., Y. W. C. A. and W. R. A.

"We are in a small area and so are easily mobilized," was Miss Beal's opening comment. "Organization has been imposed upon us," she said. "We no longer rely on individual efforts."

"With our men going off to war—men 18 to 51, married or single—women have had to take their places. You'll see women in slacks, women in uniforms on the streets of England every day." In addition to organizing the Women's Voluntary Service (canteen work, first aid, etc.), women are taking over all clerical work, all cooking, a great deal of the meteorological work, transport work, and so on, Miss Beal pointed out.

In England, all women between 17 and 51 must register so that the government may check on the type of work in which they are engaging and the type of work they are best qualified to do. Also, all women within the age limits of 20 and 24 are conscripted by the government and have their choice of working in munitions or joining one of the women's armed forces.

However, Miss Beal placed a special emphasis on behind-the-scenes everyday jobs when she said, "Most people think that when a nation is at war, all normal life must cease. Well, it doesn't." By this she impressed upon the minds of university women the necessity of education and of keeping home, business and schools working smoothly. She brought out the fact that they were, after all, the people's mainstay in peace and war, and that they will be essential in rebuilding nations after the smoke of war clears away.

Miss Beal came to America last January as the guest of the Business and Professional Women's organization and has been touring the middle west lecturing and exchanging discussions of domestic problems which arise in both England and America as a result of the war.

She spent some time in this country during 1938 and 1939 as an exchange geography teacher at State Teacher's college at Valley City, N. D. Her status in England is that of a geography teacher,

Homecoming Bonfire Included in Weekend Traditional Program

Something new in the way of Homecoming entertainment will be furnished university grads and guests during the coming homecoming weekend celebration, November 6, 7 and 8, according to an announcement by Joe Parkin, C3 of Garden Grove, chairman of the Town Council.

The fire and rally will be held in the parking lot on the south side of Iowa Union Friday night, November 6.

In order to direct returning alumni and former students around the city and welcome them back to the university, Town Council members will meet in coming trains and provide guides. The men plan to set up information booths and service bureaus at railroad stations and highways entering town as a courtesy to weekend visitors.

Eve Curie to Speak Monday in Macbride

Lecturer to Picture Eastern Battlefield; Tickets Now Available

Mahatma Gandhi, Sir Stafford Cripps, Nehru, Free French General Cakrous, Generaissimo and Mme. Chiang-Kia-shek, General Sir Archibald Wavell in India and young King Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Persia are among the world-famous figures interviewed by Eve Curie on her recent visit to the principal battlefronts.

The daughter of the discoverers of radium will tell of her impressions and her conversation with these important figures in the news of the day in her lecture on "Theaters of War" in Macbride auditorium at 8 p. m. Monday. Tickets will be given to students and faculty at the Iowa Union desk, beginning at 8 a. m. this morning.

Interviewed Gandhi Mile. Curie's interview with Gandhi took place during the recent negotiations there by Sir Stafford Cripps. She found Gandhi a most interesting personality, but was in disagreement with his views. Sir Stafford Cripps describes as an "uncompromising liberal."

"I am not in the habit of using on every occasion the word 'democracy,' but this time I feel that, having met a truly democratic Englishman, I might as well say so," she wrote in reporting an interview with the British emissary.

"Cripps is a man who will help in convincing not only India but all the United Nations that Britain is fighting for the freedom of all the people of the world."

Praises Wavell Britain's military commander in India, General Sir Archibald Wavell, she says is "a great soldier" who ignores so far as possible political discussions so that he may concentrate on his tremendous task, the defense of India from the Japanese invader.

In terms of human interest, Mile. Curie rates young King Mohammed Reza Pahlavi among the most charming and delightful of all the world-famous figures she encountered on her journey. She found him, she says, in spite of his modern streamlined palace, his railroads, radios and automobiles, as exotic and as graceful "as the young Oriental princes about whom I had read as a child."

World Court Will Form Basis Of Post-War Structure—Porter

"All systematic plans for world organizations after this war contemplate some kind of world court, even when the plan offers no details of structure and precise jurisdiction," Prof. Kirk H. Porter, head of the department of political science, said in a Baconian lecture last night discussing "Contemporary Research in International Law."

Undeniable Need

Thus far the interpretation and application of international law has been under the jurisdiction of national courts which have a much better record of impartiality than is generally supposed, but the need for an international court cannot be denied, he declared. "One of the best possible services a world court could render would be to construe and interpret treaties, since disputes constantly arise as to what words mean. Many intelligent people profess to have no faith in treaties, believing that states violate them when it suits their interests. This is to ignore the great number of international treaties which stand firm throughout the years," Professor Porter stated.

Treaties

The wonder is, not that treaties are violated, but that so many of them stand firm when there is no way of getting an authoritative and final interpretation of what words mean, he added. Moreover, treaties are supposed to remain in force under conditions which have long since grown untenable. This war will be settled by treaties. It is hoped that those who write treaties will give heed to researchers who have studied treaties of the past.

"Settlement of the rights of minorities and the fixing of boundaries will be staggering problems after the war. Here again the legal scholar with his hands full of precedents must not be the forgotten man. Most wars are precipitated over disputes about legal principles and could be prevented if a regime of law prevailed in international affairs," he concluded.

Games, Talks Will Highlight Hockey Clinic

"Field Hockey, a National Game for Women," subject of a talk by Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department, and "Experiences with the United States Touring Team," related by Mary Judd, G of Rochester, a former member of the team, will open the program of the W. R. A. Hockey club play-day and clinic to be held tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Fifty representatives from Iowa City high school, St. Mary's, St. Patrick's and University high schools will receive hockey instruction throughout the afternoon from personal coaching by club experts, from a demonstration game between the Iowa City Hockey club and the W. R. A. club and in actual field play in a high school girls' game.

Movies of a midwestern hockey tournament held in Iowa City will follow the talks. The first part of the program will be held from 2 to 3 o'clock in the women's gymnasium. Following the demonstration game and actual play on the women's field from 3 to 4 o'clock, an informal tea will be held in the social room of the gymnasium for guests of the clinic, members of the Iowa City Hockey club and members of the W. R. A. club. Evelyn Sturtz, director of women's physical education at Iowa City high school, and Agnes Best, director of women's physical education at University high school, will pour at the tea.
