

Government Damper Has Flaws

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Salary Limitation Law Due for Courts Soon—

WASHINGTON—The administration has hastened to put a legal damper on any suits arising out of the $25,000 salary ceiling limitation—but the damper itself seems to have flaws.

In the Byrnes order authorizing the war labor board to put a limitation on all salaries, and a lid on those above $25,000 net the administration lawyers took the apparently unprecedented step of barring their regulation from review in the courts. The regulation says:

"Any determination of the board, made pursuant to the authority conferred on it, shall be final, and shall not be subject to review by the law court of the United States, or by any court in any civil proceedings."

That damper in itself is enough to put the matter into the courts. There appears to be no precedent for it. One senator, in a position to be the best congressional authority, says, off the record, he knows of none.

Obviously, the treasury dropped that unique provision into the regulation to cover its own doubts as to the validity of the act. The only legal basis for the $25,000 limitation which has been furnished by congress, is in the anti-inflation law which authorizes the government to clamp down on "gross inequities" in salaries.

Obviously, some lawyers are going to make the government prove that a salary above $25,000 is a gross inequity. The regulation barring them from getting into the courts will no doubt prove them the basis upon which to sue.

A long line of court action is therefore in prospect, but meantime anyone who wants to sue will have to pay larger income taxes for the privilege. The bureau of internal revenue, which is something of a court unto itself, which taketh away first and then allows you to try to get it back, will not allow tax deductions for violations.

Anyone who wants to pay a salary above $25,000 can pay the taxes on the excess, and risk fines imposed in the doubtful regulations, thereby backing the matter of the validity of the regulations into the court that way.

The professedly true liberals and the administration have always eagerly pursued high salaries, as if they were a social menace, but I have always thought their drive in that direction carried more political weight than dollars or sense.

Everyone who makes $15 a week looks enviously at the man who makes $20, and no doubt the one who makes $100,000 is open to argument on the injustice of anyone making $200,000. It is good politics, therefore, to keep pushing this matter of salaries up front.

First, the administration did it by making public the lists of high salaries, and now by actual regulations proposes to cut them, ostensibly for anti-inflationary purposes, although only $180,000,000 of tax revenue is supposed to be involved.

For this amount of revenue and the inspiring of a lot of envy and some efficient politics, the true liberals, it seems to me, are playing with the primary American ideal.

The guiding star of this nation, taught us first in all the schools, is that any man can become president. The accompanying and most important doctrine which affects all of us who do not expect to be president is that we may become rich.

It is the lure of that pot of gold which has generated energy among our people, superior to the energy of other people in Britain, France, anywhere in the world. Their old world idea of America is that of the land where a man can make a fortune.

If this ideal is destroyed by doubtful regulation or otherwise, we may become a listless nation of dullards and sloths, certainly a less energetic driving one. If liberals question this, let them mark that this is the direction in which they are taking us.

If the government can regulate salaries at $25,000, it can cut them to $10,000 or $5,000. Personally, I have never been envious of a rich man. I never met one I thought was happy. Most of them carry their riches as a burden.

longer, if we followed the principle that a man has a right to his earnings (after taxes) if he lives by the laws of the country and earns his money in an honest way.

Britain's Formula for Labor—

Through earlier entrance into the war, Great Britain has already been confronted with many of the problems which America has yet to meet and soely. One wartime problem, however, has more than caught up with the United States already—labor difficulties.

Daniel J. Tobin, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and president of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, reported after a recent visit to England that our British ally has apparently arrived at solutions, which, coupled with 100 percent mobilization, minimize labor problems for that nation.

In England there are very few stoppages of work. When unions cease work, in violation of rules governing their procedure, the officers of the union denounce the strike, and backed by the minister of labor, force public opinion against the action. The strike usually lasts only a few days. When unlawful strikes occur in violation of the rules and against the advice of the officers, the agitators within the union are sought out. Then methods by which such disturbers are either sent to other employments, reshuffled for military service, or if necessary "placed out of reach of an opportunity to create trouble," are called into play. Thus Britain squelches strikes.

Absenteeism—persons staying away from their work without just cause or reason—is also dealt with seriously in England. In cases brought before the courts the individuals are usually found to be "willfully lazy or negligent," and are subject to fines and imprisonment.

Average working hours for all classes of workers in defense employments is about 53 hours a week. Overtime is paid after 48 hours. Thus the average English defense worker works both hard and long.

This is Britain's formula for labor. But it is not yet the American formula, and we hope it will not become so. The British laboring class has worked hard and long to obtain its rights from its capitalistic-conservative overlords. Those laboring men are jealous of their freedom, but the system was too strong for them, and they were forced to "suspend certain rights" for the duration.

How sharp is the line of demarcation between classes in Great Britain it is distinctions here though lightly conhard for us in America to realize. Class tested at times, are not a scratch on the union hall door as compared to the tenuous money lords of England.

We've seen the way one nation met its labor problems. Their difficulties are apparently alleviated through this system of government restriction and regulation. But we hope that in our own nation a similar system will not be necessary. We hope that American labor can understand the seriousness of the situation without being hit over the head with brass-knuckled restrictions. "Suspending certain rights" is one proposition, but having privileges forcefully snatched away would be government regulation of an undemocratic color.

Pacific No-Man's Land—

In the northern Aleutians and the Solomons in the South Pacific, where the no-man's land is narrowest, Japanese effort is being concentrated in an attempt to move toward the center of the bulging neutral area of the mid-Pacific.

Today, made up of actually three oceans, the Pacific is half in possession of the United States navy. Another third is in Japanese control and the bulging boundaries of the two form the battleground of the Pacific.

Once the island kingdoms of the South Pacific and the Aleutian islands are in our possession, the veritable no-man's land will disappear and Japanese and U. S. waters will meet. With this as their objective, American forces are fighting valiantly in the Solomons, pushing the Japs from their toe-hold grip in the Aleutians.

Mirrors Serve Only To Baffle You—

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—How would you like to have a hat for every occasion? Just one hat, mind you? Then Jack Marshall is the man you want to see.

Only thing is, Jack Marshall isn't selling hats. He's a comedian. One of his numbers has to do with an oval piece of felt, literally a hat brim without a roof. You ladies wouldn't believe the things that can be done with one piece of felt. Jack gives it 18 varieties—one for every eight bars of music to the chorus. It comes out Quaker Chinese, Paul Revere, Napoleon, almost everything.

The odd part of it is that professional milliners would like to know how it's done, even though they watch the act over and over again. Jack learned to twist the brim before a mirror and guide his hands accordingly. When you watch him, you get the reverse effect, and even the mirrors scattered about Jack's stamping grounds, the Glass Hat room of the Belmont-Plaza hotel, don't help you a bit.

It's a million-dollar idea—yours for nothing, if you can figure it out.

The first time I saw Beatrice and Evelyn Kraft I thought I was in for an agonizing fifteen minutes. They were on the stage in one of Broadway's several variety shows of the past year, and it was announced that the Jack Cole troupe would do some Indian temple dances.

Well, the act started stuffily enough, with the expected in make-up, posturing and the costumes. I looked down at my program and yawned. But abruptly the pit band stepped up the tempo, and on the stage they were doing something called "The Boogie Woogie Temple Dance." Or maybe it was "The Bombay Lindy." Anyway, it was fascinating, swing and Siva all mixed up.

I've seen the sisters twice since, once with Cole at the Rainbow Room, again when they made their debut two weeks ago at the Cafe Society Uptown. They're going places. Both are brunette, equally pretty. Beatrice, 22, has blue eyes; Evelyn, 21, has brown eyes. They got into this type of dancing through an original interest in drama, which included study at the Moscow Art Theater. And they were born—of all places—in Englewood, New Jersey.

You remember the story about Karen Gaylord, discovered in a Montana bank by Harry Conover and glorified on the covers of national magazines? Well, here's another. Two months ago Frances Long was a prisoner in a Japanese internment camp in Manila. In Shanghai she had been private secretary to J. B. Powell, the Missouriian famous as a newspaperman in the Orient, and who fared badly at the hands of the Japanese. Frances Long was released and arrived in New York on the Gripsholm last month, foggy and jobless. Conover met her, engaged her on sight. Next month she's on the covers of Vogue and Harper's Bazaar. What's that about beauty being its own reward?

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS SOUNDS

There's Plenty of Ice That's Off the Rink—

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—It may be the frigid air of the ice rink stages, but I've yet to meet in pictures a single ice star, feminine, who had a genuinely kind word to say for another ice star, feminine.

The love lost among them, if frozen over as it generally is, wouldn't make a postage-stamp rink of the type generally found in night clubs.

Actresses, many of them sincerely, will rave over the work of rival actresses. Athletes, generally sporting, will mean it when they shake hands with their winning or losing contestants. Ice queens, when rival names are mentioned, will freeze over, or say coldly "She's very nice, period," or "Yes, I know her, period." They will thaw, when the talk is turned again to their own excellence and brilliance.

Belita, the latest of these clammers to flash blades across movie ice is obligingly definite about it. "Ice-skaters," she said, "don't like each other."

Belita is a genuinely charming and pretty addition to the blade queens of Hollywood. She is only 18, tall, blonde and pleasantly curvied. However, lest rival queens be tempted to resort to physical violence in any future encounter, it should be recorded here also that Belita packs a wallop. And, on occasion, a temper.

"I am English, of course," she said. "Granny is practically Argentine and Italian in descent, granddaddy the same. They met in the Argentine, where granny still has many estancias. Daddy's blood was Spanish and Scotch. I'm sure we all have some French in us, too. That's why I've such a cool English temperament!"

"I've been really mad only about four times in my life. When I'm mad I generally bash my fists against doors. Once when I was 11 I was fighting with my brother Dick, he jumped behind a glass door and I bashed it with my fist (See HOLLYWOOD, page 5)

Discussion of Opinions in a Nation at War

Is a Second Front Practical At This Time?

As Debated By
Johannes Steel Allen Raymond
Author "Men Behind the War" Foreign Correspondent for N. Y. Herald Tribune

MR. STEEL OPENS: The war cannot be won on one front alone. A second Continental land front must be established while the first Continental land front still retains its offensive potential. This merely means that the United Nations in general and Washington, London and Moscow in particular must develop a strategy of coalition warfare. An end must be made of fighting three separate wars. A united strategy must be worked out.

The war cannot be won in the air alone; the war cannot be won on land alone; the war cannot be won by intelligent coordination of all three branches. Just as the three major Allied powers should coordinate their strategy, the three branches of the armed services must be integrated and transformed into a single striking force. Air war alone is a poor substitute for a second land front.

I am arguing for the establishing of a second land front after thorough preparation, this land front to be established before Russia's offensive capacity has been destroyed so that the offensive in the west can be coordinated with the Red army offensive designed to recapture the northern Caucasus and the Ukraine, Russia's breadbasket.

MR. RAYMOND CHALLENGES: Mr. Steel says a united strategy must be worked out, implying that a decision must be made somewhere. Experience shows that fore necessary for us to realize that... to use the words of the great American revolutionay, Benjamin Franklin, "we must indeed all hang together or most assuredly we shall all hang separately." This is certainly true today of the United Nations.

MR. RAYMOND OPENS: Armed forces of the United States are now fighting in the Aleutians, Solomons, New Guinea, Australia, China, India, Egypt, West Africa and Europe. That makes nine fronts. The decision on the where and when of American military effort must be left to our few top-ranking military experts, who have more facts than all of us put together.

Everyone hopes to relieve the pressure on Russia as soon as possible. Our aid to Russia is already considerable, but primarily it is not for the Russians, and particularly not for their government, that we are fighting. We are fighting a war for our own survival.

I believe a second land front in Europe impractical at this time. I believe we have neither the trained men nor machines to make it successful. Despite the fact I am an armchair strategist, like everyone else, I believe we have to trust the judgment of our own general staff, and I am confident they will not be swayed by political propaganda. While some reputable Americans are crusading for a second front now, I believe the bulk of the agitation is due to an understandable propaganda from Moscow. Personally I would be wary of it, and put my trust and all possible aid at the service of our own leaders.

MR. STEEL CHALLENGES: Mr. Raymond's suggestion that we are fighting for ourselves alone is a hangover from the pre-war isolationist philosophy which of the stage for and resulted in Pearl Harbor. Fighting for ourselves alone would mean that we would fight a limited war. It would mean that we should pursue the same policy that brought disaster to Belgium, Holland, Norway and all the other nations that believed that they were fighting for themselves alone. No doubt, Dr. Goebbels would agree with the statement that the crusade for a second front now is due to propaganda from Moscow.

MR. RAYMOND REPLIES: I wanted America to fight when Poland was invaded. I have long hoped that the United States, fully armed, and always ready, would join with countries of similar ideals to work for peace, and international justice. Some day, I hope and believe, the gallant British people will cast off their centuries of despairism and be qualified to join a society of free people. Meanwhile, we will fight as we can, giving Britain, China, and Russia what help we can. We will win the long, hard, bloody war. Thereafter, I hope, we will have the peace, either with the aid of others or by our own might.

Ballad Singers To Come Here

American Folk Songs Will Be Presented At Concert Monday

Three centuries of American folk songs will be represented on the program to be given by the American Ballad singers, a sextet of guest artists on the concert course series.

Formed by Director Elsie Siegmeyer for the purpose of presenting his collection of native songs, the sextet will sing numbers representing a survey of three centuries of American folk songs from colonial days to our own times. Included on the program will be ballads, psalms, chants, street cries and folk tunes.

Hawklets Drill For North High

Coach Herb Cormack sent his Hawklet gridders through light drills yesterday afternoon to get them ready for their final home game of the season when the Little Hawks meet North High of Des Moines Friday night here on Shrawfield. This game was originally scheduled to be played at Des Moines, but has since been changed to Iowa City. According to Coach Cormack, the regular season tickets will be good for this Friday's contest.

City high realizes that the battle with Franklin of Cedar Rapids last week was too close for comfort, and the Red and Whites will be out to prove that they are a first rate team when they tackle Des Moines this Friday. After North high, the Cormackmen will run into one of their toughest conference foes—Wilson of Cedar Rapids. If the Hawklets knock off Wilson, they will have captured the Mississippi Valley conference crown.

Although North high is not a conference opponent, the Little Hawks will have to turn in some good work this week to uphold the high rating that state sports experts have given them. Most of the Hawklet gridders seem to have come out of the Franklin scrap in good shape, but Dave Danner still favors a weak ankle he injured last Friday.

Coach Cormack ran over a few new plays yesterday and tried his first string backfield on pass defense. Danner was seen at the same halfback post that he played last week and tossed a few in passing drills. Linemen spent a good part of the afternoon in blocking practice.

Jefferson Captures Co-op Football Title

Jefferson's football juggernaut claimed the first touch football championship of the '42 season by blanking Maese by a score of 14 to 0. The victors were sparked by the passing attack of Bob Collins.

In one of the most unpredictable games of the season, Phi Kappa Psi chalked up its fifth victory without a defeat by toppling Alpha Tau Omega from the ranks of the unbeaten by a score of 12

Ray Eliot Won't Compare Michigan, Notre Dame
Wally Butts Proud of Georgia

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—The old professor crossed the room, his legs, and some more names off his list of undefeated teams before turning to address his Monday morning class of football coaches.

Old Professor—Let's see... Ohio State is out, and Alabama, and... say, the light's bad here. I can hardly read this. Must be something wrong with the power.

Ray Eliot, Illinois—Better call on that Michigan football team, then. There's a powerhouse, and the best team we've met this year better than Notre Dame? Gosh, don't try to pin me down like that, Michigan slowed our running attack to a whisper.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan—We came back remarkably well from our Minnesota defeat and beat a good Illinois team. Say, that Ray Florek is a quarterback any coach would like to have.

Old Professor—Mr. Schwartz, drop me a line sometime when you're away, will you?

Marchy Schwartz, Stanford—Let Babe Horrell do that, professor. He's got the best line at UCLA. My team has tackled all year, excepting Notre Dame, and I'd like to see the Bruins represent the coast in the Rose Bowl game. I think quarterback Bob Waterfield compares favorably with Angelo Bertelli, Notre Dame ace, but if Waterfield can kick all season the way he did against us today he's got it on Bertelli in that department.

Babe Horrell, UCLA—Our ground attack wasn't as sharp to 7. Steve O'Brein blocked a punt which Max Eggleston fell on in the Alpha Tau Omega end zone for the initial touchdown. Phi Kappa Psi led at the half, 6 to 0.

On the second play of the final frame, Shorty Hunter carried the ball through center for 25 yards and the second Phi Psi marker.

Spotlight SPORTS
BY MAXIE ROSENBLUM

Successfully past a scrappy Purdue outfit, the Hawkeyes this week will run into their biggest test of the season in Wisconsin. The Badgers will very likely be rated the number one team in the country when the weekly Associated Press poll is announced.

It's going to be a tough grind for Dr. Eddie Anderson's men in practices this week, and a tougher job Saturday if Elroy Hirsch, Pat Harder and Dave Schreiner are to be stopped. These three men carried the brunt of the attack against Ohio State last Saturday, and got some hard, rough blocking from the linemen to make their job all the simpler.

The psychological advantage will be playing before a Homecoming crowd on home territory, and probably will have the services of Dick Hoerner and Bill Burkett, out of the Boilermaker clash with injuries.

Furthermore, Wisconsin may be looking toward Iowa as a breather, after knocking the Buckeyes out of the undefeated class. These factors, plus an alert Iowa eleven, may make Saturday's contest the upset of the day.

The boys will be in there attempting to show the Homecoming fans that this team has the ability to go places. A victory over the Wisconsin team will have to be accomplished by the whole outfit working as a unit, coordinated blocking and hard tackling. Tommy Farmer, Chuck Uknes and the rest of the backfield may make the spectacular gains, but if they do it will only be by the work of a hard-charging forward wall that keeps tacklers out and opens the holes.

Certainly the task is not impossible. Greater college teams have been put on the field than this Wisconsin aggregation, and greater elvens have fallen before a game bunch of Hawkeys under Dr. Eddie.

Don't get us wrong, we're not try to belittle the abilities of Harry Stuhldreher's team. They're good, plenty good, but they're not unbeatable. Those unbeatable myths have been exploded before, right in Iowa stadium.

Moans and groans were heard about the country as a host of teams toppled from the unbeaten class. Ohio State, Army, Alabama and Penn State among others tasted defeat for the first time this year.

Some may regain their lost prestige this week. We have Army particularly in mind (Army football team, that is) as a potential team, that may hit the heights again. Saturday will see the annual Army-Notre Dame classic go before the board once more. The Irish didn't look too impressive in sneaking by a not-too-strong Navy eleven, 9 to 0.

Hawk Preparations Underway for Badger Homecoming Struggle

Farmer Game Captain; Hoerner, Burkett Drill With Rest of Squad

A week of hard work that will lead to a clash with Wisconsin's high-flying Badgers in the Homecoming game Saturday, got underway yesterday with a signal drill and a workout designed mainly to get the boys in top physical condition and loosen up any kinks remaining from the Purdue game.

The squad was in good shape, however, with Bill Burkett and Dick Hoerner going through the paces with the rest of the outfit. Both men probably will be in shape to get in on the Badger contest.

Frank Carideo, who scouted the Wisconsin-Ohio State game at Madison Saturday, had this to say about Elroy Hirsch: "He runs with a gangling, knock-kneed stride. Tacklers think they have him, only to find him twirling away from them. He performs like a track hurdler on the field, bounding over low obstacles and stretching out his stride."

Other Badgers coming in for praise are Pat Harder and Mark Hoskins in the backfield, and linemen Dave Schreiner, Fred Negus, Ken Currier and Bob Baumann. Coach Harry Stuhldreher makes Tommy Farmer, senior quarterback from Cedar Rapids, yesterday was named to captain the Iowa football team in its eighth game of the season against Wisconsin Saturday. Farmer is one of the leading passers in the Western conference, and in the games to date has passed Nile Kinnick, star of the Ironmen of 1939, in yards gained by passing. In eight games Kinnick hit for 638 yards. Farmer's record so far is 640.

double use of Baumann, employing him as a kicker besides his regular left tackle duties.

Saturday's game will be the 31st Iowa Homecoming game, with the all-time record showing the Hawkeyes with a slight edge over opponents. Iowa teams have won 14, lost 13 and tied three. It will be Wisconsin's fourth appearance as the Homecoming foe.

In 1912, at its first appearance here, and again in 1938 the Wisconsin men have been victorious. Iowa won the 1933 engagement.

Complete statistics for all seven games this season show that Chuck Uknes leads Hawkeye ground gainers with 353 yards in 66 trials for an average of 5.3 a try. Ted Curran is second with 271 in 66 attempts, for a 4.1 average.

True, the West Pointers took a lacing from powerful Penn, but they're still mighty tough, and in our opinion, tough enough to make Frank Leahy's men say uncle.

Badgers Eye Title But Stubborn Hawks Come First

Wisconsin's Badgers had visions of their first Big Ten football championship in 30 years before them yesterday but they brushed them aside and started pointing for their next engagement with Iowa at Iowa City Saturday.

The Badgers have had these visions before, only to have them blotted out when they forgot the business on hand to concentrate on future engagements.

This year, pushed to the front by their surprising victory over Ohio State, they are trying to avoid that mistake by preparing for the job at hand and letting the future take care of itself.

"Our big job right now is to forget Ohio State and play each ball game as it comes along," said their coach, Harry Stuhldreher. "We'll have to be more on our toes than ever because with each win opponents prepare only that much harder."

"The Iowa team we meet Saturday is a great team. They have the heaviest line in the Western conference, and in Tom Farmer a great pilot and passer. We're concentrating on that game and that game alone."

"After that we have two more tough ones before we can land on top—with Northwestern and Minnesota. If we get by Iowa we'll start thinking of Northwestern. The Minnesota game is not in our range of thoughts now."

The players came through the Ohio State game in fine shape and yesterday were given only a light limbering up drill. Pat Harder, whose plunging and defensive work against the Buckeyes was one of the highlights, had fully recovered from a hard bump in the head that had him groggy for a while Saturday.

The Badgers now boast six victories and one tie for their season's work. The tie was with Notre Dame and the wins were over Camp Grant, Marquette, Missouri, Great Lakes, Purdue and Ohio State. Wisconsin has scored 109 points while holding the seven opponents to 37.

From Ring to Track
BALTIMORE (AP)—Harry Jeffra, who recently retired after a boxing career which brought him the world's bantam and featherweight championships, is planning a switch from the ring to the racing oval.

Making no selections from the lengthy list prepared by Commissioner K. M. Landis were the Boston Braves, Detroit, New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees.

Branch Rickey, new president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, bid for Catcher D. C. Moore of New Orleans when his turn came, and baseball scribbled hurrying to the records find Moore hit 306 in 47 games last summer. Moore was Rickey's only choice.

With an eye on post-war building the St. Louis Browns took Robert Doyle, a pitcher who won 9 and lost 3 for Columbus, last season. Doyle is now on baseball's "national defense service list" and presumably will not be eligible for play until the end of the war.

Eleven Clubs Invest $139,000 in Playing Material at Chicago

Senators, White Sox Draft Three Apiece; Brooklyn Takes One

CHICAGO (AP)—Eleven major league baseball teams pledged themselves yesterday to purchase $139,000 worth of minor league players as they selected 20 men off the draft lists.

The Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox each invested in three players, with the Philadelphia Athletics, Pittsburgh Pirates, Cincinnati Reds, St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox taking two apiece and the Philadelphia Phils, Chicago Cubs, Cleveland Indians and Brooklyn Dodgers one each.

The emphasis in many cases was on age and selective service status rather than 1942 performance. The Cubs selected Dick Barrett, a pitcher in his late 30's who was with the Athletics in 1935 and since has spent seven years with Seattle, where he averaged 20 victories a season. He won 27 and lost 13 last summer.

The Senators took Angelo Giuliani, 29-year-old catcher, from Minneapolis. Bill Swift, 32-year-old St. Paul hurler, went to the White Sox. Cleveland called up 29-year-old Pitcher Jack Salvesson from Oakland.

There were several baseball players among the score of drafted players. Eddie Mayo, infielder who hit 310 for Los Angeles, and John Welaj, outfielder who had a .311 average for Buffalo, went to the Athletics. Ralph Hodgins, who hits 321 in 74 games as a San Francisco outfielder, was snapped up by the Chicago Americans.

The Pirates claimed Wally Hebert, a pitcher who won 22 and lost 15 for San Diego in 1942. The Cincinnati Reds got a pair of .301 hitting infielders in Charles Brewster of Milwaukee and Steve Messner of Sacramento. Salvesson goes to the Indians with a hurling record of 24 wins and 12 losses in 1942. The Browns took Joe Schults, Memphis catcher who hit 330 last season.

and removed all his own except his shoes." The two were in the bedroom about half an hour, Miss Hansen said.

Agnes (Chi-Chi) Toupe, a dancer, testified she entertained the party guests "for about 25 minutes" after the dinner with an impromptu Oriental dance.

She added she thought Flynn was in the living room doorway when she started, was not there when she finished but appeared shortly afterward. She said she did not believe Miss Hansen was present at all during the dance.

A blonde singer, Lynne Boyer, nervously testified she had accompanied Miss Toupe's dance with a vocal obbligato, and said she "didn't believe Flynn or Miss Hansen was in the room."

Afterward, she added, she knocked on the bedroom door upstairs and announced she was looking for a telephone. A voice she identified as Flynn's answered that "I could come in if I wanted to. He said he was taking a shower." Here Miss Boyer hesitated and then amended, "We were taking a shower."

"Then," she said, "I heard a rattle from the room." Questioned further she said she couldn't identify it positively. Later, she said, when Flynn was leaving, Miss Hansen "got up and raised herself up to kiss him goodbye. He kissed her on the lips." Miss Hansen testified earlier that there had been a knock at the door after the alleged act of intimacy.

"It was Lynne Boyer's voice," Miss Hansen said.

"She said something about wanting to use a telephone," Miss Hansen said. "Mr. Flynn told her he was taking a shower, and that there was a telephone downstairs. At the time of the knock Flynn was in the bathroom putting oil on his hair."

Miss Hansen testified there was no talk of the actor getting her a job in motion pictures.

She said Flynn left the party about an hour later, after kissing her goodbye. "He said he would telephone me the next night," she declared, "but he didn't do it. I didn't see him again until two weeks later at Juvenile hall."

Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler took Miss Hansen carefully over her version of what occurred at the party. "To get back to what happened in the bedroom," Giesler said, "I want to know who undressed whom."

"Well, I am sure he undressed me," Miss Hansen replied. "I remember he threw my slacks over on the other twin bed."

Giesler then reminded her that in a statement at Juvenile hall she had said she disrobed herself. She admitted making that statement, but said it wasn't true. She said that when Flynn asked her to lie down on one of the twin beds she wasn't aware of his intentions, and that she asked him why he had locked the door.

She testified she didn't meet Flynn until the day of the party, and in response to a question by Giesler said she had never lived with a man.

"Have you ever seen Mr. Flynn on the screen?" Giesler asked.

"Yes, at home in Lincoln (Neb.) I used to see his pictures once in a while, but I never thought much of him as an actor," responded Miss Hansen.

Flynn, who sat grim-faced through the hearing, constantly "doodling," smiled faintly at her remark.

and went through it. I was so cut up they didn't think I'd live—that's where I got my scar." It's a nice one, right beside her left eye.

Today her wrath rises "when I am double-crossed, or people are unnecessarily mean, or somebody steals a number of mine and does it ahead of me in a show."

Belita, who is starring in "Silver Skates," took to the ice at four years of age, primarily as an aid to dancing. Her mother thought all sports of value to rhythm, and Belita played all the sports with brothers Dick and Bill. She still considers herself primarily a dancer but likes skating money.

Her full name is Belita Gladys Olive Lynne Jepson-Turner, but when she's 25, she says, she's going to change it—"quit the whole thing and get married and have three children."

Dolphin Follies 'Gobs O' Fun' to Open Program Thursday

Aquacade to Feature Water Drills, Speed Swimming, Comedy

Queen, 4 Attendants Will Be Presented At First Performance

The presentation of the Dolphin queen and her attendants, spectacular water drills, speed swimming, fancy and stunt diving, the Dolphin chorus, swing music, comedy skits and dances, as well as the introduction of a new swimming feat, will be among the numbers included in the Dolphin Follies of 1943, "Gobs O' Fun," which will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p. m. in the university fieldhouse pool.

The navy theme of the aquacade will be portrayed by the scenery, as well as in some of the novelty dance numbers and other events on the program.

The Dolphin Follies, one of the main events of Homecoming weekend, is sponsored annually by the Iowa chapter of Dolphin national honorary swimming fraternity. The show is being presented for the 23rd time this weekend.

Highlight of the opening night's performance will be the introduction of five campus beauties as the Dolphin queen and her four attendants. They are being chosen by the members of Dolphin fraternity from a group of candidates submitted by the different women's housing units on the campus.

Invitations have been issued to the coach and swimming captain of every other Big Ten university and college of other neighboring athletic conferences, as well as to high schools in this vicinity, to attend the show.

University students and townspeople planning to go to the Dolphin Follies are urged to do so either Thursday or Friday night, because of the large crowd of homecomers expected Saturday evening. The show ordinarily plays before more than 4,500 persons in its three-night stand. This year tickets will be sold at the door only.

General chairman of the water show and president of the Dolphin fraternity is Bob Becker, E4 of Clinton. Committee chairmen are Clyde Kemnitz, E4 of Chicago, queens; Walt Woodrow, A3 of Newton, and John Gottsch, A2 of Shenandoah, scenery; Chuck McDonald, E3 of Chicago, and Nick Karaffa, E4 of Trenton, N. 1st Tea Dance To Be Today

The tea dance in the river room of Iowa Union tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 5:30 will be the first of the series of university tea dances, which will be held every Wednesday at that time.

Free of charge and open to all university students, the dances are sponsored by the Union Board tea dance committee, headed by Frances Simonsen, A4 of Sioux City. Committee members are Charles Ingersoll, A3 of Iowa City; Jean Franklin, A3 of Kansas City, Kan.; Robert Rigler, C3 of New Hampton; Gretchen Altfillisch, A3 of Decorah; Tom Ford, P2 of Moberly, Mo., and Jean Koenig, C3 of LeMars.

I.C. Chest Fund Lacks $285 of 1942 Quota

The Iowa City community chest fund stood $285 short of the $13,975 goal yesterday, Vern W. Bales, general chairman of the 1942 drive, announced.

Bales revealed that he would make what he hoped would be a complete report of the campaign to the community chest board of directors Monday. He asked that all contributors turn in their quotas before that date.

With the downtown office of the chest closed, Mrs. J. L. Records will accept contributions at her home, 121 Grand avenue court, Bales said.

A Homecoming highlight for Iowa students and alumni this weekend.

Crash Injuries Fatal To William O'Connell

Rites to Be Held In St. Patrick's Church Tomorrow Morning

William O'Connell, 71-year-old farm hand, died in University hospital at 7:30 yesterday morning of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile, five miles north of Iowa City on highway 218 late Saturday afternoon.

Eye-witnesses said that O'Connell had driven some farm machinery across the highway and was returning to shut the gate when he was hit by the front of a driven by Gordon E. Boyer of car driven by Gordon E. Boyer of the civil air patrol.

Sheriff Preston Koser and Coroner George D. Callahan explained, after an investigation of evidence, that the accident was entirely unavoidable and that probably no charges will be filed against Boyer.

Highway Patrolman Charles Fels was there immediately after the accident and rendered first aid. O'Connell was taken to the University hospital where he was treated for multiple injuries including fractures of the left leg, jaw and skull.

William O'Connell came to the United States from Ireland in 1899. He is survived by a brother and sister in Ireland and by cousins in and near Iowa City.

Funeral service will be held 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in St. Patrick's church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. The rosary will be recited at 7:30 this evening at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

Funeral Services Held For F. S. Morehead

Funeral service was held Sunday at the McCormick funeral home in Tipton for Frederick S. Morehead, who died at his home, 130 E. Jefferson street, last Friday evening.

Morehead was born July 24, 1865, near Springdale, the son of William and Mary Moch. In 1888 he married Mary Powell of Tipton. He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Mae Sherman and Mrs. Ruth C. Hamilton of Tipton; and four brothers, William Morehead of Clarence, Paul Morehead of West Branch, James Morehead of Beeler, Kan., and Lorenzo Morehead of Portland, Ore.

The islands usually comprised in the term "South Seas" have a combined land area of 391,000 square miles.

Motor Accidents Reduced 49 Percent In September

Restricted driving speed and tire rationing caused a drop of 49 percent in the number of motor vehicle accidents in Iowa during September as compared with the same month last year, according to a report issued by the state department of public safety.

There were 33 fatal accidents, 24.5 percent of which involved pedestrians. Fifty-five pedestrians were injured in accidents. Twelve of these were crossing streets in the middle of the block, 21 were crossing at an intersection where there was no traffic signal and 13 were coming from behind parked cars.

Pedestrians will be increasing in number as the rationing of tires and gasoline continues, the report stated, making it very important that they, as well as the drivers of automobiles, learn to obey traffic rules.

Statistics prove that the greatest number of pedestrian fatalities occur after dark. Persons walking at night, especially in unlighted areas, are advised to wear light-colored clothing or carry a light.

County Auditor Ed Sulek has announced that over 500 absentee ballots have been mailed to men from Johnson county now serving with the armed forces.

Voters have been warned to mark the ballots correctly or suffer the consequence of not having the vote counted.

An "X" must be placed to the left of the name of the desired candidate unless the voter wishes to cast his ballot "straight", meaning, for all the candidates of one party. In which case he marks an "X" at the top of the ballot in the circle next to the name of the desired party.

In special cases where the voter wants to vote the straight party ticket except for a few candidates, he places an "X" in the party circle and also an "X" in each box to the left of the name of the other candidates.

Where there are two or more candidates for one office, and the voter wants to cast his vote for one who is not in the party whose circle he has marked, the ballot

11 Traffic Offenders Fined for Violations

Bill Jacobs, Leon Reynolds and Al Barnes, all of Iowa City, were fined $3 apiece in police court yesterday for driving on the left side of the road.

Others who appeared before Police Judge Edward Lucas, the charges against them and the fines assessed them are as follows: Russell W. Hoskinson, $7 for leaving the scene of an accident; Robert L. Enfield, $10, Donald Romine, $7, and Jack Williams of Parnell, $30 days suspended sentence, all three on charges of intoxication.

William L. First, $3 for driving through a stop sign; Bob Knarr, $2 for parking with his left wheel to the curb; Donald W. Thompson, $3 for driving through a red light, and Donald J. Wheelan, $7 for speeding.

6th Red Cross Class In Home Nursing To Begin Here Today

The sixth Red Cross home nursing class in Iowa City and the eighth in Johnson county will begin this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the assembly room of the Iowa-Illinois gas and electric company with Mrs. J. E. Davis as instructor.

Twenty-three are enrolled for the class which will meet every Tuesday from 2 to 4 p. m. for 12 lessons. This is the first afternoon class to be scheduled.

A few more persons may enroll for the class and may come to the first meeting whether they are registered or not.

must place an "X" opposite all the candidates desired.

In any case of erasure, identification mark or soiled ballot, the vote will be rendered nil. The voter is asked to request a new ballot should any of these circumstances occur.

The voter will also be asked to vote on a constitutional amendment which would require the diverting of all funds received through motor vehicle registration fees and licenses and taxes on motor vehicle fuel to a fund for the maintenance and construction of public highways.

To signify approval or disapproval of this amendment, the voter should place an "X" in either the "yes" or "no" box.

In the county attorney and county sheriff election marked "to fill the vacancy," the voter must insert the name of the person he wants to have serve for the period from Nov. 4, 1942, to Jan. 1, 1943, at which time the candidate elected in the regular election will assume the duties.

2 Divorces Granted, One Filed in District Court Proceedings

Mary Kupka and Garnet Matthes were each granted divorces yesterday in Johnson county district court by Judge James P. Gaffney.

Mrs. Kupka was awarded her divorce from Rodney Kupka on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married Sept. 10, 1922, at Moline, Ill. Mrs. Kupka was given custody of a minor child and the defendant was ordered to pay $5 per week alimony.

The second decree of divorce, which was filed yesterday, was granted to Mrs. Matthes from Arthur Matthes, defendant. They were married at Napoleon, Ohio, Dec. 20, 1940, and lived together until November, 1941.

A petition for divorce was filed over the weekend in the clerk of court's office by Mary Bowden, who is alleging cruel and inhuman treatment by Charles A. Bowden, defendant.

They were married in December, 1934, and lived together until June, 1942.

In the final district court case, action was started to set aside a deed of city property by Albert S. Delay, plaintiff, vs. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Englehardt, defendants. After the case had been submitted to Judge Gaffney, he ordered the counsel to enter written briefs within five days.

West Liberty Editor To Be Buried Today

Funeral service for George A. T. Hise, editor and publisher of the West Liberty Index, will be conducted at 3:30 this afternoon in the Presbyterian church in West Liberty.

Hise, who had lived in West Liberty since 1911, died at 6 a. m. Sunday following a heart attack.

Hise is the father of Lieut. Dan Hise, a 1942 graduate of the University of Iowa, who is now stationed at Ft. Jackson, Columbia, S. C.

A marriage license was issued over the weekend by Clerk of Court R. Neilson Miller to William A. Buckley, of Ft. Benning, Ga., and Ruth E. Plass of Iowa City.

12 I.C. Men Return From Work in Alaska; 44 More Expected

A group of 12 Iowa City men returned last week from work on the Alaskan defense highway, the William Horrabin contracting company announced yesterday. Another group of 44 Iowa men, some of whom are from Iowa City, is expected to return this week.

The Iowa City men include Newell C. Bane, Milo Beranek, Duane Carlson, George K. Devine, Glen D. Devine, Clifford L. Douglass, Walter J. Dugan, Dewey Hinkle, George J. Krotz, Robert H. Montgomery, Roy P. Pierce and Fred J. Ruppert.

Immunizing Children To Prevent Epidemics To Begin This Month

The state-wide program of immunizing children against smallpox and diphtheria will begin in Johnson county Nov. 23 and continue until Nov. 28, Mrs. Mildred Johnson, county public health nurse, announced yesterday.

The campaign is sponsored by the Johnson County Medical society in cooperation with the Iowa state department of health and the Iowa State Medical society. It will be the fourth annual program of immunization in the county, according to Mrs. Johnson.

"Preventing the diseases that can be controlled, such as smallpox and diphtheria, eliminates the possibility of epidemics during this time of war and frees the physicians for attendance upon other cases," she declared.

Approximately 25 percent of Johnson county children between the ages of one and five years have been immunized and this is not enough to prevent an epidemic, Mrs. Johnson explained.

Issues Wedding Permit

A marriage license was issued over the weekend by Clerk of Court R. Neilson Miller to William A. Buckley, of Ft. Benning, Ga., and Ruth E. Plass of Iowa City.

Employment Students Are Needed To Fill Jobs

Jobs from shoe salesmen to typists and soda fountain workers, those which pay cash or pay in meals—in short almost anything and everything—are waiting for students who can and will work.

This fall a total of 2,613 jobs have been filled by university students through the employment division of the office of student affairs. Of these 1,899 were filled by men and 714 by women. A total of 1,093 of these were cash jobs filled by men, and 454 cash jobs were filled by women. Many more jobs are now open and students are urgently needed to fill them.

Persons who have two consecutive hours free during the day or have afternoons open are urged to call at the employment office in Old Capitol and inquire about these jobs. Boys are needed to help unload and unpack merchandise at local stores, and to serve on bleacher crews. Waiters and waitresses are needed especially during rush hours and weekends. Jobs for typists and those who can take dictation and do filing are open.

"It's the patriotic duty of every student who can work to do so," says R. L. Ballantyne, director of student employment. "This year the qualification of a student's needing a job is not so important as the job's needing someone to fill it."

County Ration Board Issues Tire Report

A joint report covering certificates for the purchase of vehicle tires and tubes which were issued in the weeks ending Oct. 24 and 31, was released yesterday by R. J. Phelps, chairman of the Johnson county rationing board.

Certificates issued include: passenger type tires, 2; passenger type tubes, 23; passenger type recaps, 42; passenger type obsolete tires, 19; truck type tires, 14; truck type tubes, 28;

Fuel Rations to Fit Heating Requirements

Board to Consider Age, Health, Home Of Person Applying

Buying and consumption of fuel oil in extreme quantities will be curtailed under the new fuel oil rationing plan; but the factors of age, health and special heating requirements of persons applying for oil will be taken into consideration by the Johnson county rationing board, Chairman R. J. Phelps stated yesterday.

Each fuel oil application will be compared with computation tables set up by government experts.

These tables, in the case of fuel oil, have been studied and checked by representative members of the petroleum, heating, construction and insulation industries, by health authorities, heating and ventilating engineers, and building managers as well as by members of the various government agencies.

To help classify and process applications, the Johnson county board has developed a list of volunteers who will give consideration to each application.

These volunteers include persons in business and insurance, ranking students in mathematics, school teachers in addition to many women of Iowa City and Johnson county.

The tables are based on formulas representing heating requirements of a typical free-standing house possessing standard insulation and burner efficiency under the normal degree-day temperature of the area in which the house is located. The formulas also take into consideration the number of occupants.

truck type recaps, 4; tractor type tires, 3; tractor type tubes, 7; ambulance type tires, 6; ambulance type tubes, 6; trailer type recaps, 1; combine type tire, 1; combine type tubes, 1, and implement type tubes, 1.

At the same time, Phelps announced that Dr. George Scanlon and Dr. F. R. Peterson had been given certificates for the purchase of new passenger automobiles.

BONDS OR TAXES

We are going to win the war with:

MEN—Our men in the armed forces are doing their job.

MINUTES—Let us make every minute work for victory.

MONEY—Our Government must have more money.

MUNITIONS—Production miracles are being performed by American Industry.

MORALE—The morale in the armed forces and on the home front is excellent.

We have the choice of making the soundest investment in the world through the purchase of War Bonds and Stamps, or of facing further increases in taxes.

We can choose—either more War Bonds or more tax receipts.
