Administration Majority Slashed

'Why Should People Be So Mad at Me?' Norris Tearfully Asks

81-Year-Old Senator Bewildered and Sad Over Election Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP)—With tears in his eyes, 81-year-old Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.), his 36-year congressional career ended by Nebraska voters, sat in his office on Capitol Hill yesterday and asked:

"Why should people be so mad at me?"

"The more I think of it, the more I get bewildered," he told a reporter. "I can't understand it. I simply can't understand it."

Norris said he hoped his philosophy of government "would rise again after I am gone and forgotten."

"I have faith it will," he said. "It is true—it is eternal. I wouldn't stay in office one moment if I had to vary my philosophy or if I had to practice any deception."

Philosophy

"I have lived according to my philosophy of government and now I am passing out of the political picture with the flag of that philosophy trailing in defeat."

The cornerstone of his philosophy, Norris explained, was a democracy where everyone had the right to vote at the ballot box as he saw fit, to award the faithful and to punish the unfaithful.

"But I think," he continued, "that sometimes in a democracy, in the excitement and on the spur of the moment, that is not always observed."

The senator paid special tribute to newsmen, asserting that while he knew many of them did not agree with his philosophy "it will always be one of the happiest recollections of my public career that I have commanded the respect of exceptionally able and keen men who had had an opportunity to observe my official life from an unbiased and unprejudiced viewpoint."

"You fellows have been so kind to me," he remarked to his interviewer.

Playground Accident Results in Suicides

Young Florida Boy, Aunt Hang Selves Over Slight Mishap

TAMPA, Fla., (AP)—The story of how a slight playground accident touched off psychological reactions resulting in the suicides of a nine-year-old boy and a 10-year-old girl was told yesterday by sheriff's deputies.

The victims of the tragedy were listed by Chief Criminal Deputy Ernest Gulbreath as Robert E. Gibson, 9, and his young aunt, Mary Helen Bickley, 10.

As related by Gulbreath and other investigating officers, this is the story:

Robert accidentally let his pocket knife slip out of his hand while making a tent and the blade struck his eight-year-old sister near the eye. She began crying and he asked to be allowed to wipe the blood away from the wound.

When she refused, he said: "Well, I guess there's nothing left for me to do but hang myself."

Later Robert was found hanging by the neck from a rope looped over a limb of a tree, and was taken to a hospital where he died of strangulation a few hours later. That was Wednesday.

Mary Helen, who had been an almost constant companion of Robert, was deeply upset by the tragedy.

Robert's funeral was held Friday. The family left Mary Helen at home. When they returned they found her hanging from a tree by a rope. She was dead.

Demos Retain Only 15-Seat House Margin

New Deal's Power At Lowest Ebb Since '36 as G.O.P. Scores

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new deal's once powerful working majority in both houses of congress virtually disappeared under the impact of Tuesday's Republican election sweep.

The Democratic house margin—which reached a peak of 244 after the 1936 elections—ebbed to something less than 15 in the congress which takes office in January.

In the senate, a majority which once was 58 shrank to 19 at most, with Republicans taking ten seats now held by the Democrats.

Technically, of course, the Democrats retained their control of both houses. However, the defections which frequently are numerous, particularly on domestic issues, made a dependable working majority virtually impossible.

In all, including Maine's, which voted in September, the Republicans elected 208 house members, and the Democrats 218, with four seats going to minor party members, and five contests still to be reported. A majority of the house is 218.

The Republicans elected 48 senators and the Democrats 15—including the south, with a Democrat leading in the single unreported senate contest, that in Montana. Added to the holdovers, that made the new senate line up 56 Democrats, and 38 Republicans—not counting the unsettled election. A majority of the senate is 49.

Whatever the final congressional count, it was obvious that in time of war, the party of the administration faced a difficult problem—perhaps to all practical intents rivaling that of 1918 when, despite the pleas of Woodrow Wilson, a Republican house was elected.

Past issues have found numerous conservative Democrats, particularly from the south, deserting the administration. Such defections have been sufficiently numerous in the past to create on many ballots a grave problem for the Democrats.

Extra Tickets

Students who want to purchase an extra ticket for the Wisconsin game are urged to do so before Saturday by Charles Gallier, business manager of athletics. Each student is entitled to but another ticket for a person to sit with him in the student section. Gallier said that prospective purchasers will be wise to avoid the Saturday morning rush at the fieldhouse. Tickets are on sale at the athletic offices, second floor of field house.

Bad News for Hitler

2-Party System Springs to Life

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two-party system, dealt a near knockout blow in the nation's great depression, revived with a vengeance yesterday in the midst of global war.

The Republican party, after suffering such shattering reverses in the past decade that many asked whether it was on its way out, has surged back to take a prominent place at the nation's council tables. Indeed, its voice may be the determining factor on many issues, for it is foreseeable that sometimes the greatly increased G. O. P. strength in congress may be combined with enough Democratic votes to put the new dealers in a minority.

Whatever the causes of this G. O. P. renaissance, however, one may feel about it, there are three men who would be well-advised not to take any comfort from it. They are Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo.

Nowhere on the nation-wide campaign map did any candidate arise to advocate appeasement of the United Nations foes, or to suggest that we pull our punches. Everywhere the demand was for total war, for hammer blows against the axis until the war is won.

That theme was emphasized in post-election statements by the Republican party's last president and also by the man who, at the moment, is most discussed as its probable nominee in 1944.

Said Herbert Hoover: "Our enemies can get no comfort from this election. The platform of every single candidate—Republican, Democratic and Labor—was vigorous, efficient prosecu-

AXIS SOLDIERS APPROACH CAIRO—UNDER GUARD

Months ago Field Marshal Erwin Rommel promised his Axis forces in North Africa that they soon would push right through to the Suez canal. Hundreds of them are getting there now, but as the vanquished, not the victors. A column of German and Italian soldiers captured in the British eighth army's offensive is pictured above marching to the rear of the Allied lines under guard.

Yank Advances Lessen Peril To Vital Guadalcanal Airport

17-Year-Old Peggy Satterlee Reveals Story Of Catalina Cruise With Screen Star Flynn

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The gallant and adventurous Errol Flynn of the screen was pictured in court yesterday by a 17-year-old girl as a man who knocked on her bedroom door and entered at the same time.

Peggy La Rue Satterlee, who accuses the actor of twice raping her on a Catalina island fishing cruise last year, told Judge Byron Walters she was in bed aboard Flynn's yacht, the Sirocco, when he suddenly appeared in the stateroom assigned her, clad in pajamas.

"He knocked and came in all at the same time," she said at the preliminary hearing of her charges. She said she chided him about coming into her room but he reassured her, saying: "I just want to get in bed with you and talk."

"Somehow or other," she testified, Flynn disrobed her and forcibly violated her, after which he left the stateroom, returning a short time later to bring her a robe and a glass of milk.

The alleged attack, she charges, occurred Aug. 3, 1941, as Flynn's luxurious sailing boat was off the Catalina isthmus. She told Judge Walters that the following day Flynn complained to her while he was diving to spear fish that his nose hurt "where you either kicked or hit me last night."

"But he told the others it was sinus trouble," she continued. "I don't know whether he was kidding or not."

"That night when we were about a half hour from the mainland, I remarked how pretty the moon was," Miss Satterlee said, "and Mr. Flynn said the moon looked much prettier from a port-hole. He asked me to go downstairs and I did. We entered his stateroom and he pushed me on a bed. I fought against him. I was mad this time and not scared like I was before."

Allies Push Nearer Jap Base in Guinea

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Thursday (AP)—Overcoming strong resistance, allied forces advanced further today beyond Kokoda in the Owen Stanley mountains toward the Jap-held north New Guinea coastal base at Buna, the high command reported today.

Allied medium bombers returned again to Dilli, harbor town and the Jap-occupied villages of Maobisse and Ailey in Portuguese Timor, causing heavy damage.

The land battling took the marines and soldiers forward two miles to the west with comparatively few casualties last Sunday, Washington time. They followed up the next day with several small advances in which enemy equipment was taken.

Returning to the attack the following day they continued to force the enemy westward. No details were given however, of the latest advances beyond the statement in the navy communique that "the advance to the west continued during the morning of November 3" (Solomon island time).

The naval engagements which roared through the ocean about the Solomon islands for many days, apparently continued in a lull. Of that phase, the navy's communique said only "there is nothing to report from other areas."

Largest Yank Fighting Unit Reaches Egypt

PORT ON THE RED SEA, Oct. 31 (AP)—(Delayed)—(Passed by U. S. military censor)—(AP)—The largest contingent of American fighting men ever brought to the middle east in one transport, 7,000 strong, arrived at this port today and for hours were ferried ashore from their great liner-transport by boats.

Specialists

The ship was crammed with specialists, technical troops and air force units from holds to top deck. Not a man was lost on the long voyage from New York. Colonel John E. Baird of Providence, R. I., was in command.

In the course of the voyage the ship's medical staff performed eleven major operations and on at least one occasion they improvised instruments out of nails. All patients are recovering rapidly. One man who had a broken jaw now has only a black eye as evidence of his injury.

1,000 Per Hour

As fast as the troops reached shore, which was at the rate of about 1,000 per hour, they were loaded into trucks and driven through the sleeping town to camps pitched on the edge of the desert. Later they will be dispersed to stations throughout the mid-east.

There were no attacks from submarines on the trip over, Colonel Baird said.

Gary Negro Slayer Trapped, Fatally Shot In Chicago Hide-Out

GARY, Ind. (AP)—A dramatic series of shootings and knifings in which the slayer, a 43-year-old Gary Negro, killed three persons, including his common-law wife, yesterday was climaxed a few hours later as Chicago and Gary police shot the killer to death in Chicago's south side Negro district.

Detective Sergt. Peter Billick of the Gary police department said the killer was Walter McClan, 43, of Gary.

Billick said McClan first stabbed his common-law wife, Elizabeth McClan, about 40, through the heart at their residence, drove a dozen blocks to the home of Sylvester Douglas, 40, killed a roomer, Alfred Dogan, 18, and then shot Douglas to death.

The detective said that McClan had shot Dogan in the back and stabbed him through the heart Douglas' wife, said Billick, apparently tried to interfere and was slashed across her throat. Her injury was not serious.

Army and navy planes joined in strafing the enemy and bombing Japanese positions, working in close support of the ground forces battling their way along the beach.

East of the airport, where Japanese reinforcements were reported to have landed last Monday night and Tuesday morning, the navy said there was no new action to report. Presumably those reinforcements had not swung into an attempt to pierce American defenses set up in anticipation of a Japanese attack.

The land battling took the marines and soldiers forward two miles to the west with comparatively few casualties last Sunday, Washington time. They followed up the next day with several small advances in which enemy equipment was taken.

Returning to the attack the following day they continued to force the enemy westward. No details were given however, of the latest advances beyond the statement in the navy communique that "the advance to the west continued during the morning of November 3" (Solomon island time).

The naval engagements which roared through the ocean about the Solomon islands for many days, apparently continued in a lull. Of that phase, the navy's communique said only "there is nothing to report from other areas."

Red Army Smashes New Nazi Offensive In Central Caucasus

1,000 Germans Slain In One Day's Battle By Russian Forces

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Thursday (AP)—The Red army held its ground in Stalingrad and the central Caucasus yesterday and scored successes on the Black Sea front and northwest of Stalingrad, the Soviet midnight communique said today.

The Germans continued to hurl masses of tanks into the battle on the Nalchik plains, at the foot of the 18,000 foot Caucasus mountains, and in the rubble-strewn streets of Stalingrad, but the Russians repulsed all attacks, inflicting heavy losses.

Hold Initiative

On the other two major fronts—northwest of Stalingrad and in the Black Sea area—the Red army continued to hold the initiative and captured a number of German positions in both areas.

The Germans were reported to have been forced to withdraw some of their elite troops from Stalingrad to meet the threat to their left flank northwest of the city after Red army riflemen, ferried by night across the Volga, entered the battle.

The communique said, however, that the Germans continued to attack all Soviet positions inside the Volga city with both tanks and infantry, indicating there had been no decrease in the intensity of the fighting. It said 1,000 Germans were killed and eight tanks disabled during the day, without any gains in ground.

Gain at Stalingrad

Strengthened by the reinforcements, Russian troops northwest of Stalingrad captured five dug-outs and fortified positions, while Soviet artillery demolished nine blockhouses. About 130 Germans were killed in this area, the communique said.

In the central Caucasus area, where the Germans are trying desperately to reach the historic Georgian military highway, main artery across the lofty mountain barrier, the Russians claimed to have repulsed all attacks in the big battle southeast of Nalchik.

At one point Soviet troops killed 350 Germans and set seven tanks on fire, the communique said, while at another place 16 German tanks were set on fire and an additional 17 disabled.

Greer Garson to Wed Richard Ney This Week

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Screen Actress Greer Garson and Ensign Richard Ney, former actor, applied for a marriage license yesterday.

Miss Garson gave her age as 31. Ney said he was 29. A spokesman for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios said the couple planned to be wed over the weekend but did not yet know where.

Ney, who received his naval commission Oct. 29, is on a two weeks leave.

High-Ranking Nazi General Killed in Rout

Imperials Bag 9,000 Prisoners as Enemy Withdraws Westward

CAIRO (AP)—Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis desert forces were officially declared in "full and disordered retreat" last night across the sands of western Egypt, pursued relentlessly by British imperial ground forces and under constant attack from above by American and allied airmen.

A special allied communique said General von Stumme, Nazi second in command, had been killed in the 12-day fight which preceded the flight of the "disordered columns," and 9,000 axis prisoners had been taken, including German positions in both areas.

BULLETIN

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Reports from Greece said last night that the Germans are rushing three or four divisions of troops from the Russian front to Africa to aid Field Marshal Rommel.

Four trainloads of Nazi troops passed through Athens Monday at great speed enroute to embarkation points for transfer to the island of Crete and then across the Mediterranean to Africa, these reports said.

Gen. Ritter von Thoma, commander of the Afrika Korps, and other topflight German and Italian officers.

The joint communique announced these tremendous axis losses in less than two weeks of battle:

- 600 planes;
- 260 tanks destroyed or captured;
- 270 guns and;
- 50,000 tons of shipping laden with supplies.

Allied air losses were described as "light" in the 12-day bloody break-through by which the British imperials hope to smash with finality the axis position in Africa.

(The victorious British communique was issued about the time the Berlin radio was acknowledging "British local successes," but insisting that "Marshal Rommel has the situation completely in hand and is in position to take the initiative at any moment he considers necessary." The German announcer quoted "military quarters" as saying the British had lost between 450 and 500 tanks in the action thus far.)

The British drive westward climaxed days of artillery and aerial preparation which softened the axis line, touched off an elaborate four-mile-deep mine field, and knocked out other fixed Nazi positions.

Hundreds of allied planes pounded the axis supply lines as far back as the Libyan port of Tobruk which was one of the main intake points for much-needed axis supplies hazardously ferried across the Mediterranean from Italy and Greece.

So superior was the advantage enjoyed by the allies this time in the air, the communique said that 300 axis planes were shot down in combat, and "a like number" destroyed or put out of action on the ground.

There will be a county-wide blackout Nov. 19 from 9:30 to 10 p. m.

WHY TURK PRESIDENT FEARS WAR

This Central Press map graphically shows why President Ismet Inonu of Turkey told the Turkish parliament at the opening of its special session that Turkey is in grave danger of attack and "nearer war than at any time since the world conflict began." The map shows how the Moslem nation lies in the path of any probable German blitzkrieg drive for the rich oil fields of Iran and Iraq.

Manpower Needs Quick Action

While thousands upon thousands of men are joining the armed forces of the United States, while numerous men and women are being attracted by the high wages of defense jobs and work in civil service, farm manpower is melting.

Already crops are being lost—soybeans in Missouri, corn fodder in Tennessee, apples in Washington—because of the lack of harvesters, and unless some remedy is found, approximately one-third of all agricultural operators and workers will be lost for the war's duration.

The resulting shortage of food appears especially to be a danger sign because farm production this year is hitting peaks in all basic commodities.

Something must be done to counteract the lure of higher wages in war production centers, to prevent needed farm laborers from being taken into selective service.

But the lack of manpower is not the only handicap of farmers. There will be rationing of farm machinery, and a satisfactory system of rationing offers another major problem.

According to R. L. Van Bostirk and D. W. Sautelle of "Nation's Business," "We are losing fodder for next year's cattle, crops that should be planned now aren't being planned, and if the present trend continues, thousands of farms will close shop this winter, and perhaps two million men will leave farms for the armed forces or city jobs."

If things continue as they are at present, by next summer 10,000 Minnesota and 10,000 Kansas farms will be sold or abandoned to weeds. In New York 1,400 farms have already gone out of production.

Unless something is done, lack of food may develop into a greater problem than the lack of rubber and scrap metal. Agricultural production is the No. 1 problem on the home front at the present time.

Substitute Something Better

There is a fatal fascination to men in the method of action that always starts with "Thou Shalt." Now in 1942, more than at any time since the 18th century, the advocates of this kind of direct action seem to have the logic of events on their side. Their arguments are powerfully buttressed by the example and ruthless efficiency of that sinister man with the scavenger's armband.

But nothing seems more peculiarly American than the philosophy that compulsion at home is not the best way to counter compulsion abroad. A great American industrialist advised that "instead of trying to equal Hitler's results by imitating Hitler's methods, we must surpass his results by avoiding his methods."

The splendid achievements of our American war surge to date are voluntary efforts. Fred DeArmond says that on the home front even generals and admirals must often stoop to request in order that the nation may conquer. "The public service voluntarily rendered by organized trade groups," he says, "is something that could not be drafted."

What we have achieved in conserving vital automotive transportation, for instance, may be credited in large part to those who are saying "Let's save," rather than "You must save." The educational work of such organizations as the Automotive Safety Foundation, National Highway Users Conference, and various trade groups is bearing fruit.

Anti-Jim Crowism Campaign--

Must Raise Average Negro Civilization

WASHINGTON—The cry of old fashioned liberalism to "end Jim Crowism" continues, as if that had anything more to do with the solution of the real Negro problem than the poll tax and anti-lynching bills.

An Antioch, Ohio, college professor has written me protesting a recent one-sentence side-remark in my column that Jim Crowism would end when the Negro section of the car was as clean as the white.

That remark was only symbolic of my theory that this question is a social problem, at least as far as this aspect is concerned.

The Negro has been led to believe that a separate section of the car is discriminatory. He, therefore, believes the solution of the problem is that he be permitted to sit with the whites.

Now that is not the solution at all. If Jim Crowism were abandoned in the south today, and Negroes were permitted to sit with whites, you would have trouble, disorder, discomfort, unhappiness on both sides.

Look through all this political haze that has been raised around the problem, for the real root of the trouble. Look at yourself first. When you go into any car, you choose a place to sit. You choose it because it is desirable to you.

If there is an empty seat next to the window and you want to sit alone, as most people do, you will choose the vacant seat. You choose on the grounds of personal preference.

Now if all the seats next to the window are occupied, and you must sit with someone else, an ordinary man picks the one where he thinks he will be the most comfortable, that is to say, next to a person who is satisfactory to him.

If you are in overalls and grimy and have just come from the mill, you choose to sit with someone in like circumstances so that neither you nor he would be uncomfortable. You do not choose a lady, all freshly dressed in clean white, unless you wish to make yourself irritating or unless you have no sensibilities on the subject.

That is the way I do, and I think the way you do. If you are a woman and do not like cigar smoke you sit next to someone not smoking—and so on.

The Negroes do this among themselves, just as the whites. They also make their personal choices. They pick the place to sit where they think they will be accepted, and therefore comfortable themselves, class to class, kind to kind.

Now you are not going to change this natural instinct of both Negroes and whites by legislation. I don't care how many laws you enact or repeal. There are certain natural instincts of men which are above legal or political influence.

Any Negro will be accepted anywhere in any car, only when he operates on that basis, as whites do. Therefore, the problem, as I see it, is to raise the average Negro civilization to the social standard of the white civilization in which we live, where he will be guided by the same instincts which inspire the majority civilization.

That is the direction in which both Negro and white leadership should turn its purposes, and not to such trivial results of these instincts as the abolition of a sign which marks where the whites sit and the Negroes sit. The sign merely represents deeper differences.

In the community in northern Virginia, to which I moved a few years ago, the Negroes have been allotted the section in the rear of busses. They have been led to believe the rear of the bus is not as good a place in which to sit as the front of the bus.

But if the bus companies reversed the arrangement and allowed the Negroes to sit in the front of the bus, the idea of discrimination which exists against them would immediately take the form of belief that the front of the bus is really the deferred position, the most uncomfortable, or something. They would then want to sit in the rear.

To my mind, that shows the foolishness of the anti-Jim Crowism campaign and the blinding effects of the poor leadership that has been given this problem by both whites and blacks.

If the way of old fashioned liberalism and unstatesmanlike political handling of the matter is allowed to continue, you will not get a settlement of the problem, but rather a bigger problem.

That is proved by a recent report of the U. S. Public Roads Administration showing that automobile traffic has declined almost as much in the rest of the country as it has in the gasoline-rationed area.

They'll Want to Stay—

The government's expert farm planners are dreaming up something new for post-war "Farms of the Future"—something to keep the boys down on the farm after the war is over.

M. M. Samuels, chief of the technical standards division of the rural electrification administration, declares that "farmers may soon be plowing with electric tractors, using high-frequency soil treatment in place of fertilizers, pasteurizing their own milk and waking the chickens an hour earlier with bedside buzzers."

This time we won't have so much trouble keeping the boys home after they've had a look at Reykjavik, Singapore, Berlin and Tokyo. They'll be coming back to a better life.

Nobody Can Understand—

With the tremendous rebirth of Republican strength in Tuesday's election, Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska was swept from 30 years of senatorial service.

Long the staunch rock of American liberalism, the veteran legislator's only reaction was that he "could hardly believe it!" Neither could the nation!

War Theme Changes Becoming Apparent

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Glamour factory at war.

Our town is getting down to brass tacks on the war movie question, even as its cameras continue to record war romances that are merely old-fashioned "chase" films with the modern, obvious background of combat.

The change in war themes is already becoming apparent, will become more so as films now editing or in preparation hit the screens.

Early emphasis in the movie war was on the enemy, mainly on his spies and saboteurs—a topical variant on the old business of cops and robbers.

Rare was the film that dramatized the real issues of the war (what we are fighting for; the American way of life). You could name "This Above All" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "Mrs. Miniver" and you had practically the whole list.

There were two dozen spy-saboteur plots, ringing in the services of Sherlock Holmes, E. J. Connelley, and the Invisible Man.

The production front? We had "Wings for the Eagle," some authentic Lockheed ornamented by Ann Sheridan, and "Priorities on Parade." The home front (civilian responsibility) was represented by such minor entries as "Blondie for Victory." The fighting forces found stirring presentation in "Wake Island," a Nazi chase in "Desperate Journey."

Nearly a dozen of the new films will center on "the issues"—films like "Keeper of the Flame," "The Last Best Hope," "The Enemy" will be pictured in his usual spy-saboteur frame, but also (and importantly) in films stressing the Fascist ideology—"Watch on the Rhine," "Hitler's Children," "Margin for Error."

"Hitler's Children," based on Gregor Ziemer's "Education for Death," has nothing—and everything—to do with the war, dramatizing as it does the Nazi system of education as opposed to the American. The film is typical of the new bare-facts approach to Hitlerism, mentioning hitherto tabu facts of the ideology such as mass sterilizations, sponsored illegitimacy and other cultural notions of the "new order."

The "brother-in-arms" will get 10 times the attention they had before: films not only on England but on China, Russia, Holland, Norway, other allied nations. Important among them: "Mission to Moscow," "Chetnik," "Timoshenko," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "The Moon is Down," "The Edge of Darkness," "Dragon Seed," "China Sky." The home front has nine entries.

The fighting forces are getting

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It wasn't Congress, it was the Army and the White House that held up passage of the 18-19 draft until after elections.

The War Department took one look at that amendment requiring that all 'teen-age selectees serve for a year before they could see action and ran screaming to the White House. The White House passed the word along to the Hill that rather than have the bill pass in that form, Congress could drop the matter entirely until the November ballots were tallied.

The motive for the amendment was commendable. There were men in Congress and constituents back home who remembered World War I and how a lot of boys were shoved into the trenches before they knew how to wrap a puttee or whether it was the muzzle or stock of the rifle that they put to their shoulders.

Two things the Senate overlooked in tacking on that amendment were: (1) That for reasons wholly unsentimental the War Department is less eager than any one else to see youths shoved into the fighting lines before they are properly trained; and (2) That such a stipulation on the new crop of 'teen-age selectees would knock the whole training program into a cocked hat and probably do the boys themselves more harm than giving them their baptism of fire with only a few months' training.

In the first place, under modern training methods, it no longer takes a year to train a soldier. Watch the boys on maneuvers who have been in eight or nine months and you'll understand.

In the second place, singling out the 'teen-age boys for a year of training would mean that the Army would have to segregate the youngsters in special training groups.

It would also eliminate one of the Army's most valuable training assets—"infiltrating" the youngsters into the ranks with older and more experienced men.

In other words, the 'teen-age selectees would be deprived of the experience of training with the older men. To put them into those corps and then jerk them out when the units were ordered into the line would cause a juggling of personnel with which the Army couldn't cope.

The Army needs manpower younger than it has been getting (the average age of the Army now is about 28 years) but it doesn't need it badly enough to want to set up "baby battalions" who would go into action in a year or so with nothing but 'teen-agers in the ranks.

The 18-19 draft will pass and the best guess here is that it will pass without the one-year training clause. If it doesn't pass that way, some observers think it has a mighty good chance of being vetoed. The matter is that serious.

By JOHN SELBY

"This Was Cicero," by H. J. Haskell (Knopf; $3.50).

For five years or more H. J. Haskell has been boning up on Roman history, and particularly on a certain curse of the school-boy, Marcus Tullius Cicero, Mr. Haskell is by no means the only student of Roman history who has written about Cicero. But strangely, he is the only one of my experience who has understood the man.

Cicero, Mr. Haskell points out, was born on the wrong side of the tracks. He was a self-made man, with many of the virtues of that status, and some of the faults. Particularly, he was mistaken in his own estimate of himself. He underestimated the literary value of his product, and he grossly exaggerated its importance as a statesman. This last mistake contributed very largely to his fall.

Mr. Haskell is sure that the reason most estimates of Cicero are out of plumb is that most people simply do not understand that Cicero's oratory was partisan politics in action. It is, he is convinced, no more to be taken literally than the campaign product of Jim Farley. Caesar's campaigns were fought in relatively simple surroundings; to wit, those of the battlefield. Cicero struggled in courtrooms and political campaigns, and it was his fate that this fact should be overlooked by most of his successors.

And it is amazing how much more human the man seems when Mr. Haskell shows what really was going on, and what Cicero really was trying to do. There are a great many examples, but the most famous is the conspiracy of Cataline. Mr. Haskell is convinced that this was exaggerated by Cicero and some others as a political device, and that instead of rendering a great service to Rome by squashing the debtors' protest, the net result was to undermine popular confidence because the conspirators disposed of without due process of law. Cicero reached his height at that moment, and at once started down the hill.

Mr. Haskell is no muckraker and no debunker. He has realigned a great amount of evidence open to anybody interested, and has seen one of the ancient greats accurately and as intimately as we see Tom Dewey today.

"This Was Cicero" is a great book. It is a masterpiece of scholarship and of literary style. It is a book that every student of Roman history should read. It is a book that every student of political science should read. It is a book that every student of human nature should read.

It is a book that every student of human nature should read. It is a book that every student of human nature should read. It is a book that every student of human nature should read.

Pep Meeting Will Be Held Friday Night

When the engineering whistle blows tomorrow night at 7:40, students, townspeople and alumni will join the cheer leaders, Scottish Highlanders, color guard, football team and coaches in the Homecoming mass meeting on the east approach to Old Capitol.

Craven Shuttleworth of Cedar Rapids and Raymond Justen of Iowa City, representatives of the 1922 and 1917 football squads which are being honored this weekend, will speak. Other members of the two teams will be seated on the platform.

Don Mallett of the office of student affairs will act as master of ceremonies. Other speakers on the program are President Virgil M. Hancher, Coach Eddie Anderson, and Tom Farmer, A4 of Cedar Rapids, acting captain for the Iowa-Wisconsin game Saturday. George Haskell, former professor in the college of commerce and now with the office of price administration in Des Moines, will make awards to the winners of the corn monument and Homecoming badge design contests.

The mass meeting will be followed by the receptions of the Triangle and University clubs, and the Homecoming party in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

FLORENCE ROHRBACHER TO WED

Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Rohrbacher, 811 E. College street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to R. Alan Williams, son of R. E. Williams, route 3. The wedding will take place Sunday in the First Christian church. Miss Rohrbacher, a graduate of Iowa City high school and the University of Iowa, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta social sorority. Mr. Williams attended the University and was graduated from Iowa State college at Ames, where he was affiliated with Alpha Zeta honorary fraternity.

Billiard Champ To Talk, Give Exhibition Here

Charles C. Peterson, the world's fancy shot billiard champion, will give a lecture-exhibition on all phases of the green table sport in the main lounge of Iowa Union from 4 to 6 p. m. Tuesday, under the sponsorship of Union Board.

Peterson will stop off here on his tour of United States army camps, where he has been performing for men in the armed forces. His exhibition includes a demonstration of billiard fundamentals, a variety of trick shots which are always amazing, and a discussion of billiards as played by Willie Hoppe and other champions.

Regarded as one of the great billiardists of all time, "Pete's" tour of the college campuses is sponsored by the Association of College Unions and the Billiard association of America. He is credited with the development of billiard interest in colleges, which at present reaches an annual climax in intercollegiate competition in pockets, straightrail and three-cushion play.

After he opens his bag of tricks to enliven the entertainment, Peterson will demonstrate the favorite shots of Hoppe, current three-cushion champion, Welker Cochran, the 18.2 balkline titleholder, and other stars such as Jake Schaefer Jr., Jay Bozeman, Allen Hall, Otto Reisel and Art Rubin.

Bonnie Bates to Wed Edward J. Bonham Tomorrow Afternoon

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bates, 215 Brown street, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Bonnie, to Edward J. Bonham, son of Mrs. W. C. Bonham of Sioux Falls, S. D. The ceremony will take place tomorrow afternoon in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride received her M.A. degree with a major in political science at the University of Iowa. Mr. Bonham, also a graduate of Iowa university, is now associated with the procurement division of the army air corps at Patterson Field in Dayton, Ohio.

Max Christie to Head Campus Camera Club

Max Christie, A3 of Spirit Lake, was elected president of the Campus Camera club at a meeting Tuesday night.

Other officers are Hollis Mounce, P4 of Jefferson, vice-president, and Gordon Kent, secretary-treasurer.

Meetings of the club are held every two weeks in room C1, East hall. Anyone interested in photography is eligible to join. The next meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 17.

Craft Guild to Begin Sale of Gift Candles Today for Red Cross

A candle sale, featuring a great variety of gift candles, is being sponsored by members of the Craft guild, beginning today and continuing until the supply has been exhausted tomorrow. The sale will begin at 11:30 a. m. at Iowa Union and Sidwell's store, 111 Iowa avenue. This evening the candles will be on sale in the Union.

The Craft guild is prepared to take orders for candles as well as to make direct sales. All money derived from the sale will be contributed to the Red Cross.

Any candle donations would be greatly appreciated by members of the organization.

Protestant Students To Convene Sunday

Problems facing university students during wartime will be discussed at a joint meeting of all Protestant youth groups on the campus at 5:30 Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian church, the Student Christian council has announced.

Among the speakers will be Chaplain A. C. McKelway of the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school and Dean Harry K. Newburn of the college of liberal arts.

Discussions will center on ways education and religion can help students face present day problems. Both student and adult viewpoints will be presented.

George Moeller, A4 of Iowa City, president of the council, will be in charge of the meeting; Jack Davies, M3 of Doncaster, England, will introduce the speakers, and Helen Lee Hensleigh, A3 of Iowa City, will be in charge of the program.

A supper and get acquainted period at 5:30 will precede the discussion group.

Theta Sigma Phi Pledges Eleven

New pledges in Theta Sigma Phi, honorary fraternity for women in journalism, are: Eleanor Sherman, J3 of Carroll; Margaret Kirby, J3 of Sioux Falls, S. D.; Marjorie Fewel, J3 of Des Moines; Marilyn McCurdy, J3 of Moline, Ill.

Mary Zuercher, J3 of Cedar Rapids; Ellen Morrison, J3 of Waterloo; Marian Clappison, J3 of Eagle Grove; Helen Dethlefs, J4 of Clutier; Rose Mary Randall, J3 of Waterloo; Lorraine Hawbecker, J3 of Storm Lake, and June Milner, J4 of Marion.

Consumers' Corner

Consumer conservation is now recognized as the "V" in victory. Every consumer is part of the supply regiment behind the front line of production. To aid Uncle Sam in his present need, this column will bring you weekly ideas on how to make the most out of the least.

We have seen the last of our raw silk supply from Japan. Ready-to-wear must rely on substitutes for the duration. But for a long time rayon has slowly been crowding silk out of all but the hosiery industry.

Silkworms Drafted For War Effort
Stockings were the last stronghold of silk, and now vital silk is needed for parachutes, summer uniforms, underwear and a thousand and one uses in army life. The government thinks so much of this precious fabric that a recent order of the war production board has frozen all used silk hosiery in the hands of dealers.

Where does this leave us? It sets us back on our ingenuity with every other red, white and blue American woman. It stimulates us to devise clever substitutes for the silk and nylon with which we have been spoiled.

Wear Old Hose And Like It
Those silk stockings we already have can be reborn by a quick dip into a stocking dye-bath. Summer shades, tucked back into the corner of your drawer, tone to up-to-the-minute fall and winter shades, and odd stockings revive as bright matched pairs.

This jifty dyeing process requires no boiling. Simply drop the stockings in a warm water solution of dye, swish until the desired shade is obtained, rinse thoroughly in cold water and dry in the usual way. Presto, a new pair of stockings from a home brew of thoughtfulness and thrift.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cox of Laurel, Miss., left yesterday after a three weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cox, 104 E. Market street, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Anderson, 1040 E. Burlington street.

Robert Healy of Davenport is spending Homecoming weekend with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Greer, 428 S. Governor street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gower, 19 Evans street, are expecting their son, Corp. William Gower Jr., of Chanute Field, Ill., home this weekend. Other guests will be Corp. Fritz Baker of Chanute Field and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Carr of Centerville.

Dr. Rollin M. Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Perkins, 1041 Woodland avenue, will spend the weekend with his parents. His wife and daughter, Patricia, will return to Davenport with him.

Opening Performance of Dolphin Follies to Be Given Tonight

14-Piece Navy Band Will Provide Music For Gala Festivities

Queen, Attendants To Be Introduced At SUI Aquacade

By DOLORES RIELLY

Tonight marks the opening of the 23rd annual performance of the Dolphin Follies, known this year as "Gobs O' Fun." The show, to be held tonight, tomorrow and Saturday nights at 8 o'clock in the fieldhouse pool, will star Iowa's outstanding swimmers, the Dolphins, in a program of comedy, thrills and surprises. Music will be furnished by the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school 14-piece band, led by Dan Tetslaff, musician second class.

Foremost among the show's featured events will be the presentation of the Dolphin Queen of 1943 and her four attendants. These five outstanding beauties are chosen each year from a group of candidates submitted by women's dormitories and sororities on the campus.

Also listed high in the evening's surprises is the introduction of something new in swimming. The swimming innovation was originated by Coach David A. Armbruster and information of its nature and purpose has been withheld until tonight's show.

Another highlight will be a comedy dialogue imitation of Hitler, "Reich or Wrong," portrayed by Herb Grove, E3 of Davenport, and Dean Darby, D1 of Des Moines.

Among the novelty dances appearing on the program will be an "Apache Dance" with Sid Craiger, A2 of Des Moines, and Dan Parry, A2 of Burlington, and a "Sailor's Hornpipe" featuring six members of the Dolphin fraternity.

Included in the exhibition diving events will be a triple somersault from the high diving board by Lyle Bron, E2 of Clinton, Dave Brockway, A1 of Marshalltown, who was rated among the top five all-American high school divers last year, will also appear as a stellar performer in the exhibition diving group.

Between the main acts of the Follies will be smaller stunt and novelty numbers. One of these will be presented by Ed Sundberg, A2 of Omaha, who will swim the full length of the pool with feet tied together and his hands fastened behind his back.

Additional attractions will be freshman swimming drills, the Dolphin chorus, and other special swimming and diving feats.

No advance ticket sale has been made for the show this year, and university students and townspeople are asked to choose either tonight or tomorrow night as their evening to attend the Dolphin show to avoid the large Homecoming crowd expected Saturday. The show ordinarily plays before more than 4,000 persons during its three-night stand. Because of this and the fact that the tickets will be sold at the door only, those planning to attend are urged to come early.

Bob Becker, E4 of Clinton, national and local president of the Dolphins, is general chairman of the aquacade.

NAVY RATING—'DING HOW'

Your serviceman home on leave will rate you "ding how," Chinese adjective used by navy men for something pretty special, in this strictly feminine purple jersey dress. The sleek draping does beautiful things for a waist line. Unusual are the fushia yarn butterflies, studded with sequins, on the shoulder. To carry out the two-tone theme as well as to rate you as the perfect date wear this veiled halo, cloche of fushia felt. This dress spells appeal in any man's language.

Hartzell Spence Writes of S.U.I. Life

'Get Thee Behind Me' Includes 4 Chapters On Campus Experiences in the 30's

Prof. Benjamin Shambaugh, with his tweed suits and his cane, was still on the campus, and the Phi Kappa Psi house was on the east side of the river, but life in Iowa in 1930 was little different than it is in 1942.

The Daily Iowan office was in the old journalism building then; Iowa Union had not struggled from under a heavy burden of mortgages. But Hartzell Spence, University of Iowa graduate of '30 and author of "Get Thee Behind Me," recent best-selling book, experienced the same fun and trouble, went to classes in the same buildings, walked the same streets that Iowa undergraduates walk today.

Spence, who is now Captain Spence of the United States army and executive editor of the Yank, the army newspaper sent to men in our armed forces all over the world, was managing editor of The Daily Iowan during his junior year. He failed in his greatest college ambition—to become The Iowan's editor-in-chief—but was elected to A. F. I., senior men's honorary society, and served as president of his fraternity, Phi Kappa Psi.

Much of "Get Thee Behind Me," which is subtitled, "My Life As a Preacher's Son," is devoted to an account of Spence's escapades in the various cities where his father held Methodist ministries. The four chapters concerning Iowa, however, are full of anecdotes about fraternity rushing, probation week, campus politics and campus personalities.

Spence was particularly impressed with Professor Shambaugh, who originated the campus course at S. U. I. He describes his hero as a man contemptuous of mental confusion, with but one goal—compelling his students to think. Professor Shambaugh died in 1939 and campus course was taught by Prof. Ethan Allen until this fall, when Professor Allen left for government service and Jack Johnson took over.

"A's and Play Although he maintained a straight "A" average during his junior year, Spence found time to play when he became a senior. He changed his major from journalism to English, stopped work at The Daily Iowan and discovered the delights of walking by the river and "coking" on the Union porch. In spite of his less scholastic attitude as a senior, Spence was bid to Phi Beta Kappa. After a summer at Clear Lake with his family, he was offered a job with United Press in Des Moines. He stayed with U. P. until the success of his first book, "One Foot in Heaven," convinced him that he could devote all his time to writing.

Then came the army, the captain's commission and the Yank. Capt. Hartzell Spence will write no more of his alma mater until after the war.

Tri Delts Lead In Badge Sales

Delta Delta Delta is leading in the four sorority teams selling Homecoming badges, with a total of 1,939 badges sold yesterday, according to a report by Prof. Louis C. Zopf, chairman of the badge committee.

Gamma Phi Beta ran a close second with 1,911 sales. The standings at the end of the day were:
Delta Delta Delta 1,939
Gamma Phi Beta 1,911
Zeta Tau Alpha 1,750
Sigma Delta Tau 1,200

TOTAL 6,800
In spite of the cold wind, the four teams succeeded in topping the total sales made the first day of last year's campaign by 180 badges.

Many students were greeted on their way to breakfast by the sorority saleswomen who invaded housing units at 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

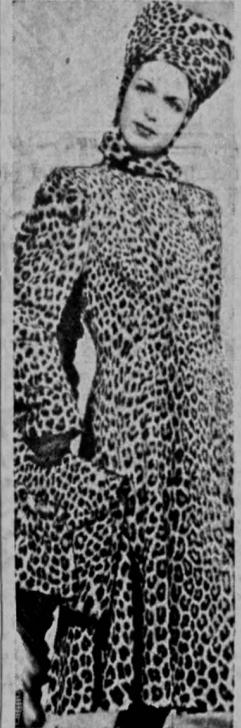

The silver loving cup which will be awarded to the team selling the most badges by game time Saturday is now on display in Whetstone's window.

Pre-Flight Battalion Will Be Entertained At Farewell Dance

A farewell party will be held by the seventh battalion of the Navy Pre-Flight school Saturday from 8 until 11 p. m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union, Larry Barrett and his orchestra will furnish music for the formal dance honoring the cadets who are leaving next Wednesday.

In charge of arrangements are Cadet H. H. Gooing, Cadet M. M. Fifield and Cadet J. L. McCullough, assisted by Lieut. A. C. McKelway. Guests of honor will include the heads of all the navy departments.

Baird Announces List Of 35 SUI Speakers

25 Schools to Attend Intercollegiate Institute Opening Here Monday

Names of students who will represent the university at the intercollegiate institute on war problems which opens here Monday were announced yesterday by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate.

Representatives from approximately 25 schools will attend the two-day conference to train students enrolled in "Speaking for Victory" programs in colleges and universities.

Iowa students who will take part in debate, discussion and extempore speaking at the institute include:

Jack Russell, A1 of Perry; Don Rivkin, A1 of Davenport; Ricka Wolff, A2 of Wilmette, Ill.; Verna Martin, A1 of Laurens; Tom Wuriu, A2 of Iowa City; Eleanor Keagy, A2 of Washington, Iowa; Louise Hilfman, A1 of Bettendorf; Jane Shipton, A3 of Davenport; Betty Peterson, A4 of Madison, S. D.; Rene Cappon, A2 of New York City; Albert Goss, A2 of Muscatine; Howard Thompson, A4 of Cedar Falls and William Arnold, A3 of Sioux City.

Lois Sernstrom, A3 of Sioux City; Ruth Moyle, A4 of Maquoketa; Gordon Christensen, A2 of Iowa City; Kenneth Thompson, A2 of Cedar Falls; Buddy and Buster Hart, both A2 of Rapid City, S. D.; Stanley Pierson, A2 of Alcester, S. D.; Don Ercroy, A2 of Arkansas City, Kan.; Robert Gregg, A2 of Hawarden and Sidney Weissman, A1 of Waterloo.

Tom Olin, A2 of Kenilworth, Ill.; Robert Hoyt, A4 of Creston; Marvin Laughed, A4 of Ottumwa; David Cornell, A2 of Knoxville; Marilyn Fontaine, A1 of Marion; Allan Cutler, A2 of Waterloo; Alan Polasky, C3 of Cedar Rapids; John Hanson, A2 of Manly; Betty Roberts, A2 of Council Bluffs; Miriam Baranoff, A1 of Newark, N. J.; Norman Duke, and Elbert Dempsey.

Ethan Allan, former professor of political science at the university, who is now senior mobilization adviser for the office of civilian defense, will be one of the speakers at the general session of the conference Monday morning. "Civilian War Services" will be the subject of his address.

Prof. Troyer Anderson of the history department will speak at the luncheon Monday, and Prof. Karl Robinson of the speech department will preside.

Ballad Singers to Give Concert Of Three Centuries of Folk Songs

Three centuries of American folk songs from colonial days to our times will be represented in the program to be given by the American Ballad Singers when they appear Monday in Iowa Union as the second feature in the 1942-43 concert course series.

The varied program by the mixed sextet will include psalms of the Pilgrims, songs of the early settlers, ballads of courting, chancies, game-songs and folk tunes. Director of the group is Elie Siegmester, distinguished young composer-conductor, whose songs have been heard in the major cities of this country and abroad, and who recently collaborated with Olin Downes of the New York Times in writing "A Treasury of American Song."

Music of early America, songs of Americans at work, and of the varied populations in the country today, folk songs and ballads of everyday life, are but a few of the types of music to be featured on the program. Two minstrel songs by Dann Emmett are examples of the unusual music presented by the group. The famous old songs were written in the 1830's and are still popular today.

"Cooper O'Fife," a New England Scotch song, and one of the tunes on the program, is the tune of the poor cooper who had promised never to beat his gentle wife. But when she refused to cook for him because work was beneath her, the wily Scot wrapped a sheepskin around her, and beat that. She cooked, so the story goes. Another

Four Groups Plan World Tomorrow Problem Discussion

Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., W. R. A. and U. W. A. groups will meet in the social room of the women's gymnasium at 4:10 this afternoon for a discussion of "Our World Tomorrow."

The discussion will be based on the World Today lecture on "International Organization for Public Health" presented last night by Dr. M. E. Barnes of the college of medicine.

Betty Jean Peterson, A4 of Madison, S. D., will lead discussion of the problem.

Engineering Students To Attend Convention

Civil engineering students will attend the 24th annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers in Des Moines next Tuesday. Maurice C. Miller, president of the Iowa section, will preside.

In the afternoon meeting E. Bruce Meier, E4 of Kansas City, Mo., will represent the S. U. I. student chapter.

Highlight of the meeting will be the evening address by E. B. Black, president of the society.

The members of the group are Elie Siegmester, composer-director; Ruth Fremont and Helen Yorke, sopranos; Rebekah Crawford, contralto; Thomas Edwards, tenor; Dolf Swing, baritone; and Earl Waldo, bass.

Tickets go on sale in the lobby of the Iowa Union today. Identification cards must be presented to obtain one, and must also be shown at the door, the night of the concert.

Pharmacy Display Forecasts Iowa Win Over Badgers

The sad looking, red-jerseyed Wisconsin Badger draped over the pile of old rubber and scrap metal objects in the pharmacy building window predicts the next addition to the Hawkeyes victory heap. "C'mon Hawks—Add Wisconsin to the Heap!" is the message written across the golden "V" in the background.

Down and out, the football player is lying on a washboiler marked "Boiler Makers," and scattered in among the assorted scrap are four football shoes turned up at the toes and labeled Camp Grant, Nebraska, Washington and Indiana.

On the huge Hawkeye victory quota card on the left, the draftees, old rubber, old metal and bond items have been checked, while in the square after the last item, a badger pelt, a red ribbon is fastened to specimen of a real badger in the corner.

A copy of The Daily Iowan on the right announces in bold letters "BIG BADGER DRIVE—HAWKS TO COLLECT BADGE PELT NEXT SATURDAY!" A placard above the paper holds two pharmacists' graduated cylinders and greets alumni with the pun "Welcome graduates!"

The two practical pharmacy students who canvassed the town for the scrap in the display and had charge of arranging the window are John Berg, P3 of Cedar Falls, and James Swank, P3 of Bloomfield.

LaVoor to Interview Navy Officers Today

Lieut. Comdr. J. C. McKee and Lieut. Comdr. Roy Follett of the Navy Pre-Flight school will be interviewed over station WSUI at 12:45 this afternoon by Ensign Babe LeVoor on the academic program at the Pre-Flight school.

Cadets must be more than athletes and practical seamen, thus study of such academic subjects as plane identification, seamanship, mathematics, physics, and the essentials of navigation are an integral part of the training program.

Lieutenant commanders McKee and Follett both graduated from Annapolis Naval academy with distinction. McKee is the only man in the history of the academy to win the navy sword twice during his training period. Such an honor is given in recognition of athletic and academic excellence.

PLANNED PROGRESS HAS MADE ROCK ISLAND ONE OF AMERICA'S GREAT RAILROAD SYSTEMS

Today Rock Island is hauling millions of ton-miles of vital war freight every 24 hours. And we are equipped to carry even more! For Rock Island was prepared for war.

We were ready, because our program of Planned Progress, embracing expenditures of millions of dollars, has made Rock Island one of America's most modern railroads. That these were wise expenditures is clearly shown by our ability to rush unprecedented shipments of men and war materials to their destinations with maximum speed and efficiency.

During the past six years many important improvements have been effected to make Rock Island the great railroad it is today. Among them are...

Local Merchant Dies After Lengthy Illness, Funeral to Be Today

The Joseph Pusateri funeral service will be conducted tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the Hohenstuh mortuary. Pusateri, who operated a grocery store in Iowa City for 34 years, died Tuesday night at his home, 414 E. Market street, following a long illness.

He retired last year from the proprietorship of his store at 130 S. Clinton street and moved to his new home on Market street. Born in Sicily, Italy, April 14, 1869, Pusateri was a member of the St. Mary's church, the St. Mary's Holy Name society, the Knights of Columbus in the mortuary Woodmen.

He is survived by his wife; two children, Gus A. and Mrs. Peter Rocca, both of Iowa City; two sisters; three brothers, and nine grandchildren.

A rosary will be recited by the Knight of Columbus in the mortuary this evening at 7:45, and a second rosary will follow at 8:15. The body will be at the funeral chapel until the service. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Commons Library 175 Books Purchased For Freshmen

The university library has provided the Freshmen Commons with a new collection of books of general interest which will form the nucleus of a recreational library for the dormitory.

Approximately 175 new books were purchased for this collection, divided appropriately between recent titles and old favorites. They have been placed in the lounge around the fireplace. The books are primarily recreational, though there is enough variety to satisfy a wide range of individual tastes.

Similar collections are housed in the Iowa Union library and the Currier hall library. The new collection in the Commons will partially take the place of the Quadrangle and Hillcrest libraries, which were turned over to the Pre-Flight Navy school with the dormitories.

Two Freshmen Fined For Disturbing Peace

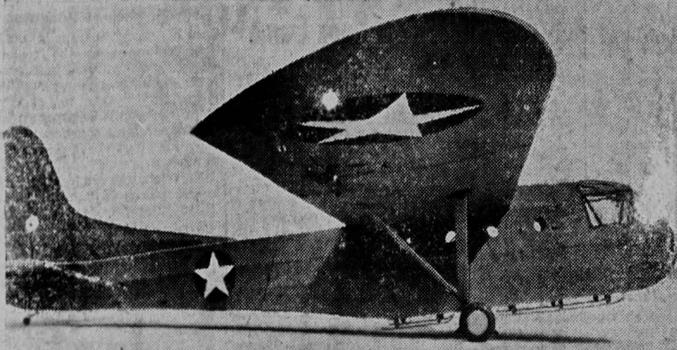

Weibert Dalton and Jack B. Egin, SU1 freshmen, were fined $3 and $1 apiece, respectively, in police court yesterday by Police Judge Edward Lucas on charges of disturbing the peace.

Tom Brogran of Iowa City was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence by Judge Lucas on a charge of intoxication.

MEET MR. LYNX

Resembling the common house cat except for its long legs, big feet and short tail, the Canadian lynx is found in eastern Canada, north-eastern and northwestern United States. The coloring of the lynx varies from grizzled gray to brown and black. Its ears are like those of the house cat, only magnified. The Canadian lynx is distinguished from the common bobcat by the tufts of fur that grow upward from its ears. This animal is mounted and on display at the University museum.

Symphony Orchestra Presents New Tone Poem by Alspach

Announced as a program of modern music, the performance given last night by the university symphony orchestra in Iowa Union was indeed that, and the combination of modern harmonies presented at intervals among a supporting background of conventional symphonic music gave both promise and disappointment to those present.

Promised as much in evidence with the opening number, the "Symphonic Fantasy, Pohjola's Daughter" by Sibelius, and the low, singing tones of the string sections and the powerful background of brass gave a ready response to the baton of Professor Clapp. Beginning in a movement as placid and pleasing as a drawing room classic, the well-rehearsed music evolved through a well-defined pattern to a very modern semi-climactic third movement and then suddenly dropped to the original quiet mood of the first movement. Developing momentum through the use of strings in supporting patterns, the piece reached a climax in the heavy but unsteady brass chords, ending with great power and fine harmony of the full orchestra.

Good String Section Meritorious in any capacity at last night's performance was the entire string section of the orchestra, led by the truly brilliant playing of Prof. Arnold Small. Particularly noticeable was the precision function of this first violin as one unit in melodic passages and again as a background for soloists. Unusual among the many programs presented by the orchestra, the works presented at the concert consisted mainly of works of contemporary composers. The symphony by d'Indy is very modern in sound although it first appeared in 1903, and Sibelius' symphony is but one of the well-known compositions of the Finnish composer. The tone poem, "Tomesha" by Professor Alspach is the most recent of the three presented, being completed in 1933 as a partial fulfillment of the requirements in musical composition for the Ph.D. degree.

George Hotz Loses Hand in Corn Picker

George Hotz, lower Muscatine road, had his right hand torn from his wrist yesterday morning when he caught it in a corn picking machine while working near his home.

His father, B. L. Hotz, heard his son's screams but was not able to turn off the machine in time.

Hotz was taken to Mercy hospital where reamputation was effected directly below the elbow. Dr. William Rohrbracher was the physician in charge.

Hotz is suffering from shock and is being confined to the hospital.

Red Cross Begins New First Aid Class

The first meeting of another standard course in Red Cross first aid was held last night at the Women's gymnasium under the direction of Prof. M. Gladys Scott. The class will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. for 10 lessons on Nov. 9, 16, 18, 23, 25, 30, and Dec. 2, 7, 14. It is open to any student or staff member of the university or any resident of Iowa City.

Nine Iowa City Men Return From Defense Construction in Alaska

A group of 25 men, including nine from Iowa City, returned from work on the Alaskan defense highway at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, according to information released by the William Horrabin contracting company. This is the last group of men that will return through Iowa City.

The Iowa City men include Joy Strong, Robert Monson, Arther Kondora, Albert J. VeDepo, Richard Smith, Nyle Jones, John Doss, Wayne Stake and Ed Matousek.

Iowa Business Levels Off, Reports Professor

Prof. George R. Davies of the University of Iowa bureau of business research stated in the current issue of the Iowa Business Digest that business in Iowa is obviously active, but that private business is giving place to war activities.

"Business in the state, aside from federal war activities, continues to level off, and in some cases to decline. This, of course, is to be expected as we approach all-out war organization," he said.

On the basis of September figures, bank debits still are well above those of a year ago, but building contracts show a decline of 90 percent.

In a national summary, Professor Davies said, "The physical volume of industrial production has reached the incredible level of nearly twice the prewar average and over three times the depression low. This record has been made with much of the best productive personnel in the defense forces."

SUI Housing Service To Stay Open Friday Night to Aid Visitors

The university housing service will be open all night Friday to help visitors find rooms as they come in, Mrs. Imelda C. Murphy, manager of housing, has announced.

Anyone wishing to find a room for Homecoming guests may call the housing service, extension 274. Persons in town having rooms available to rent during Homecoming weekend have been asked to list them with the housing service.

The wild running of Elroy Hirsch, plunging of Pat Harder, and pass catching of Dave Schreiner will be Wisconsin threats to the University of Iowa's football team at the 31st Hawkeye Homecoming Saturday. But Iowa will counter with the passing of Tom Farmer, who has hurried for 640 yards in seven games. Steady punting of Jim Youel, right halfback, will be relied upon to drive the Badgers deep in their own territory. Farmer has played full-time in the three conference games, while Youel and Bob Lauterbach, center, were iron men in the last two.

Tulsa Eleven Tops in Nation

CHICAGO (AP)—Those impersonal judges—the game statisticians—vote the Tulsa Golden Hurricanes as the nation's top football team, both in offense and defense. Tulsa, in winning six straight games and scoring 296 points while keeping its goal line uncrossed, has averaged better than 422 yards by rushing and passing while limiting its opposition to about 90 yards a game—less than the length of the field.

The American football statistical bureau, in reporting yesterday on Tulsa's sensational brand of play, pointed out the Hurricanes have been the total defense leader for four straight weeks. They hovered in third place in total offense for three Saturdays, however, before taking over the top berth this week from Missouri.

The Tigers, after losing last Saturday to Great Lakes, tumbled to fourth place, with Ohio State—despite suffering its first loss, to Wisconsin—climbing from fourth to third. Georgia, rolling on the mighty impetus of Frankie Sinkwich's passing and running, retained second position.

Tulsa and Georgia are mowing down the opposition at a pace never before recorded so late in the season. While the Hurricanes make 422.3 yards a game, Georgia forges for 412.9, and these two imposing 400-plus figures cause the bureau's tabulating machines to stutter as they grind out the totals.

Ohio State's pace is 394.3 yards a game while Missouri's is 392.4 and fifth-place Texas' 373.1. Tulsa, stopping its foes with 90.5 yards of gain a game, is followed on the defensive tabulation by Detroit, whose opponents average 108.2 yards, Duquesne 117.2 yards, William and Mary 125.5 yards and Boston College 127.2 yards.

The Golden Hurricanes built up a great share of their record on passing and pass defense. They have averaged 207.3 yards through the air followed by Columbia, 202.5 yards, Georgia, 194.7 yards, Maryland (with one game unreported) 161.6 yards and Southern Methodist, 138.8 yards.

Tulsa limited its foes to 26.5 yards per game through the air and has intercepted more passes than its opponents have completed, 14 to 13. Harvard is second in pass defense by yielding only 34.3 yards a game, followed by Georgia Navy 44.3, Manhattan 46.3 and Yale and Bucknell tied at 47.6.

Hardin-Simmons boasts the best rushing average with 324.6 yards a game, while Boston College has the most impregnable defense against its foes' rushing, yielding 27.2 yards a game.

Penn Seniors to Navy PHILADELPHIA—Five seniors on the Pennsylvania varsity football team are looking forward to the game with Navy on Franklin field Saturday afternoon with more than the usual amount of interest because they, like their opponents, will be riding the high seas or the airlines after graduating next spring.

Bill Stauss Works Out at Fullback Position As Dr. Eddie Anderson Juggles Backfield

First String Gallops Through Signal Drill In Lengthy Workout

Bill Stauss, Creston senior who was the regular right halfback on the Iowa football team earlier this season, may start at fullback against Wisconsin Saturday. Dr. Eddie Anderson said yesterday. Stauss worked at both positions yesterday as Anderson shifted his players all over the backfield in a long signal drill. Tommy Farmer stayed at quarterback but the rest of the backs alternated with each other at the other posts.

Chuck Uknes played both halfback and fullback as did Duke Curran and Jim Youel. The combination Anderson stuck with most of the time, however, had Curran at left half, Stauss at fullback and Youel at right half.

The reserve teams also ran signals and spent some time on defense against a reserve-freshman team using Badger plays. The regulars concentrated entirely on signals.

Saturday's game, the 31st Homecoming contest for Hawkeye football, will be the 20th against a Badger outfit. The record through the years, starting in 1894, shows 13 victories for Wisconsin teams, with Iowa capturing six.

The first time an Old Gold eleven could come out on the long end of a score was in 1924, when Wisconsin fell before Iowa power, 21 to 7. Anderson's record against the present Big Ten leaders is two victories in three tries.

The Ironmen of 1939 dumped the Badgers 19-13, and repeated in 1940 by a 30 to 12 score. Wisconsin got back on the winning trail last year by administering a 23 to 0 blanketing to the Hawks.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher has been attempting to impress upon his men all this week the importance of attending to the Iowa game without looking beyond. The Ohio State triumph is still on the minds of the Wisconsin squad, and Stuhldreher would feel better if his boys could forget it. Nevertheless, Harder, Hirsch, Hoskins, Wink and company will be a formidable opponent Saturday, and the Hawkeyes fully realize the job facing them.

Dates Moved Up MADISON, Wis.—Dates for two University of Wisconsin sports events for this week, the "B" team football game with Camp Grant and the freshman football game with Minnesota, have each been set ahead one day, it was announced yesterday by Harry Stuhldreher, Badger athletic director.

Whirly, Occupation, Riverland Will Miss Belmont Relief Races

NEW YORK (AP)—More hard luck has hit racing's "victory week" than the fellow who went to a beefsteak dinner without his store teeth, but in spite of everything, the war relief galloping starting today at Belmont Park is expected to toss more than $250,000 into the war effort.

Whirlaway probably won't show up. Occupation is out and yesterday it was learned that "Rags-to-Riches" Riverland, who has knocked off both Whirly and Alsab in the last week, also may be among the missing. This leaves Alsab and possibly Count Fleet as the only "name" horses of what was to have been a "week of champions."

Yet, aside from the fact that the abdications have necessitated a complete shift in the stake lineup, the Turf Committee of America, handling the meeting, wouldn't be at all surprised if 100,000 folks show up during the week and bet $7,000,000 before it's over. All income, minus operating expenses and purses, will be turned over to war relief, to which racing already has chipped in more than $2,000,000 this year.

Phi Kappa Psi Faces Unbeaten DUs Today

Phi Kappa Psi's unbeaten football machine meets a team with a similar record in Delta Upsilon today on the intramural grid fields. This tilt is one in a series of a round-robin semifinal to decide the champion in the fraternity class A league. Phi Kappa Psi thumped Alpha Tau Omega, 12 to 7, in the first game of this semifinal round.

Kellogg will tangle with Folsom this afternoon at 4:30 in the semifinals of the co-operative dormitory consolation round. The winner of this game will meet Dean house Monday for consolation honors.

In the dormitory consolation semi-finals, Commons A runs up against Lambert house, and McChesney will attempt to whip Howard. Victors in today's games will meet Monday in the finals.

Town league consolation semifinals find Thatcher A and Macbride clashing today, with the winner going on to play Slagle B in the finals the first of next week.

That Steely Kicker Really Has Feelings And Crowd of 20,000 Can't Hold Its Breath All at Single Moment

By WHITNEY MARTIN NEW YORK (AP)—Some day we're going to run across something like this in a football story, and we'll topple right out of our high chair.

"Gus Freebooter, trembling like the six delicious flavors and his heart beating eight to the bar, somehow managed to kick a field goal in the last minute of play to give Ab Normal a 9 to 7 victory over Luna Tech.

Nothing about Gooseflesh Gus, cool as morning dew, calmly standing back there and booting the ball squarely between the uprights for a perfect field goal.

It's fine to imagine that your hero has no more nerves than a telephone pole and is utterly oblivious of those ends and tackles and guards bearing down on him, and that he hasn't the slightest doubt that his kick will be good.

Sure, that makes a nice picture, with only one slight defect. It just isn't true, and if you'll just put yourself in your hero's shoes you'll realize why. There's a kid about to try something which, at that particular moment, is the most important thing in life to him.

He would be slightly less than human if doubts of his ability to do it didn't crowd into his mind somewhere, if the palms of his hands didn't get moist and his knees feel watery and start shaking so he is afraid it will be noticed from the stands.

But what do we read? We read, if the kick, thanks to hours of practice, was good, that our hero calmly kicked the ball squarely between the uprights. It would be a lot more interesting to read our hero's mind.

These calm kickers aren't the only by-products of the imagination that sprinkle our football stories. How often have you read about the silence falling over the stadium at a crucial moment, when you know that you could have fired a howitzer and it wouldn't even have been noticed. Or about 20,000 pop-eyed fans, when you know that there were at least a few dames there asking their escorts why the end men didn't crack jokes or sing songs like they do in a minstrel show, and how do you like my new hat?

Then you read about those 20,000 fans holding their breath. Haven't you a nice picture of 20,000 fans holding their breath simultaneously? And can't you imagine what would happen when, blue in the face, they simultaneously expelled the air? They would blow the teams right out of the stadium.

However, as to crowd reaction you can't go into detail about what each individual was doing at a particular moment, such as describing one man tying his shoelace, another taking a swig from a bottle, and another studying his program, so you just group them as pop-eyed fans, breath-holders, etc., and let it go at that. It gives a hazy picture of tension.

But as far as a kicker being cool and collected is concerned, if he's cool and takes his time he'll be collected all right. A leg here, an arm there from all over the landscape after that line gets through with him.

Spotlight SPORTS BY MAXIE ROSENBLUM

One of those Navy gridders making fans sit up and take notice around the east is Roe Johnston, recently converted from a halfback to an end. Johnston is a Davenport boy and a sophomore at Annapolis. He received his appointment to the Naval academy while attending St. Ambrose college.

Johnston is 20 years old, weighs 197 pounds. When injuries forced Comdr. John E. Whelchel to look around for another end, he decided to give Johnston a crack at it.

And his performance against Yale made the coaches wish they'd shifted him sooner. He speared a long pass from Capt. Al Cameron, and using his halfback running ability pranced another 11 yards to set up a score in that 13-6 victory for Navy.

His ability to break up Yale interference on Eli running attempts earned him high praise and a soft spot in the heart of the Navy brain trust. He's also turned in creditable performances against Georgia Tech and Notre Dame, and is slated to start the Penn game Saturday. His height, six feet, one inch, makes him a good target for Navy passers.

Those Ivy league teams are having one merry time of it this season upsetting one another. Princeton appeared to be on the upswing after beating Navy, 10 to 0, trying mighty Penn, 6-6, and clubbing Brown's Bears, 32 to 13. Last Saturday, when they had abandoned their underdog role and were figured to turn back Harvard, what happens? The Johnny Harvards forget their gentleman role and beat the Tigers into submission, 19-14. And Harvard hadn't won a game all season! Wonder if Michigan will show the men from Cambridge how not to be naughty boys.

Yale had taken two early-season lacings from Penn and Navy, and then upset favored Dartmouth, 17-7, and last Saturday continued bouncing by blanking Brown, 37-0. And Brown seemed destined for a good season with three consecutive victories over Rhode Island, Columbia and Lafayette, but Princeton and Yale had other ideas.

You tell me who'll win that Dartmouth-Princeton tussle day after tomorrow.

Bill Dudley and Merlyn Condit are still leading each other a merry chase across those yard stripes each Sunday. Dudley, Virginia's ace last year now playing with the Pittsburgh Steelers, stepped off 135 yards against the New York Giants Sunday, including a 66-yard touchdown run, to strengthen his grip on the lead. Condit added 99 yards to his total while the Dodgers were losing to the Cleveland Rams, but could do no better than hold second.

Ace pro performer Sunday was Andy Fatkas of Washington, who bolted up to third place among ground gainers with 166 yards in 24 attempts against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Although Cecil Isbell went on a record breaking spree against the Chicago Cardinals, slinger Sammy Baugh still retained first place among passers by completing 12 of 26 tries as the Redskins squeezed by the Eagles, 30-27.

Bobby Swisher Lost For Fort Knox Game

Attack of Influenza Benches Star Fullback; Coupee at Fullback

Iowa Pre-Flight school's Seahawks suffered another blow yesterday in their backfield when it became known that Bob Swisher, regular right halfback, will not make the trip to Fort Knox because of an attack of influenza.

Earlier this week Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman lost left halfback Bill Schatzer and fullback George Benson, who left for flight training. Both Schatzer and Benson had been playing regularly for the Seahawks.

Jim Langhurst was moved to Schatzer's post yesterday and former quarterback Al Coupee has taken over the fullback position vacated by Benson.

The Seahawks polished their defense yesterday and also ran through a long dummy scrimmage and signal drill in preparation for the Fort Knox tilt Saturday. To end the days football schedule a chalk talk was held last night at 7:45.

Last Saturday the Seahawks came from behind in the fourth quarter to push over four touchdowns to defeat Indiana 26-6. The Bierman men held the sensational Billy Hillenbrand in check and only allowed the Hoosier flash to score one touchdown.

Their competition this weekend will not be the calibre of the Seahawks opponents to date. Thus far they have faced Kansas, Northwestern, Minnesota, Michigan, Notre Dame and Indiana. From this array of powerful foes the Bierman men have suffered only one setback, that being a sound trouncing at the hands of the fighting Irish.

Saturday the navy men faced the Hoosiers at full strength, but since the Hoosier game they have lost the services of three of their outstanding backs. Schatzer and Benson being lost permanently until his recovery from influenza. In looking over the replacements for the vacated positions it is discovered that Coupee will be moved from quarter to full to replace Benson. Coupee while playing for Iowa consistently held down the quarterback post for the Hawkeyes. The Seahawks are looking ahead to their only home game when they meet the Cornhuskers of Nebraska in Iowa stadium Nov. 21. This will be the only home appearance for the navy men while the junior varsity Seahawks were defeated by Wisconsin's B squad 6-0 in the only bid at home Oct. 24. Bierman's squad still has two more road contests before the season closes.

ONE second saved in each of the 106 million telephone calls made every day would add up to well over 29,000 hours—would help greatly to keep lines open for vital military and war production calls.

A single second is that important. So answer promptly, giving your location and name, and keep your conversation brief. When making a call, be sure you have the right number—use the directory—call information only when it's really necessary. Dartmouth, Princeton Game Takes Limelight

Air Offensive Built Around Jack Sayers, Indian Star Passer

HANOVER, N. H.—Dartmouth and Princeton attempt to retrieve their football fortunes at each other's expense in Palmer Stadium this Saturday in a game which is destined to take its place beside the Harvard-Yale, Cornell-Penn. and Army-Navy games as an Ivy League classic.

Dartmouth and Princeton have agreed to end their seasons against each other starting in 1943. War conditions might conceivably balk those plans, but in this week's battle, at any rate, the Indians and Tigers will have a chance to fight it out for a victory that will mean much toward a successful season for either side.

After defeating Harvard, 14 to 2, the Big Green has been set back by Yale and William and Mary. Although Princeton lost to Harvard, 19 to 14, the Tiger has important wins over Navy and Brown, and a tie with powerful Penn. On the basis of the record, Saturday's game ought to be a toss-up.

The William and Mary defeat was not all bad news for Dartmouth, for in the game the Indians uncovered a promising freshman passer, Jack Sayers. The Green was forced to take to the air against the overpowering William and Mary line, but against a less formidable forward wall Dartmouth may be able to supplement its running attack with a dangerous air offensive built around this yearling from West Haven, Conn. Up to this point Dartmouth has lacked an aerial threat that would open up the opposing frontier and give its speedy backs a chance to run.

International Disease Control Urged by SUI Health Director

Disease no longer respects international boundaries, according to Dr. Milford E. Barnes, director of the department of health, who discussed "International Organization for Public Health" last night in the fourth of the "World Today" lecture series.

"Within recent years the development of air travel has revolutionized our idea of controlling disease on a national level," Dr. Barnes observed. "Diseases cannot be controlled on an individual or national basis. It must be an international method."

During wartime, the speaker continued, every health caution which has been observed must be abandoned. Illustrating his point, he cited the transmission of disease by uncontrolled rats, the intermingling of men living under the most primitive conditions, and serious nutritional problems.

"The world will be definitely changed within this war is over," Dr. Barnes prophesied, "and we must have some kind of mass attack on these problems."

He conceded that the difficulties of such an attack will involve expense. Commerce and travel must be regulated and there may arise disagreement among the educational, scientific and sanitation ideals of the various countries.

Pursuing his argument for an international health council after this war, Dr. Barnes recalled three attempts at such organizations. The Office International d'Hygiene Publique, organized permanently in 1907 with one representative from each country, made a satisfactory attempt to meet world health problems.

At its own request, he continued, this body was replaced by health organization of the League of Nations. A system was then set up for reporting diseases according to locality and an attempt made to system was then set up for reporting diseases according to locality and an attempt made to unify health procedures among the countries.

In this hemisphere, the speaker explained, a Pan American Sanitary bureau was set up with headquarters in Washington, D. C. He acclaimed it for accomplishing a great deal in building up good will in regard to health problems.

"Uncertainty lies ahead of us," Dr. Barnes concluded. "We must take a lesson from these three organizations and try to work out a solution of health problems, staggering in their importance."

State Demos Suffer Bitter Election Defeat

Wilson Well Ahead Of Herring in Race For U.S. Senator

As the smoke of the first wartime election since 1918 clears, analysis of the results in Iowa show emphatically that the Democrats were administered the most smashing defeat they have suffered in this state since a depression-prohibition-weary electorate decided to make a change back in 1932.

Late unofficial returns from 2,463 of the state's 2,464 precincts gave Gov. George A. Wilson 408,039 votes as against 292,726 for his Democratic opponent, Sen. Clyde L. Herring in the one-sided race for United States senator.

Wilson's running mate, Lieut. Gov. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, held a 177,499-vote margin over Nelson G. Kraschel in the governor's contest with all but one precinct reporting.

Wilson carried 94 counties and Hickenlooper 96.

Representatives

In the district competitions for representative to congress, Republican candidates were swept into office with impressive majorities. Following are the unofficial tabulations as of last night:

First district—287 of 291 precincts gave Thomas E. Martin, 53,521; Vern W. Nall, 32,032.

Second district—346 of 346 precincts gave Henry O. Talle, 62,316; William S. Jacobsen, 49,007.

Third district—312 of 312 precincts gave John W. Gwynne, 54,100; William D. Kearney, 34,813.

Fourth district—323 of 323 precincts gave Karl M. LeCompte, 52,256; Thomas L. Curran, 28,871.

Fifth district—224 of 224 precincts gave Paul Cunningham, 46,283; E. Frank Fox, 25,871.

Sixth district—357 of 350 precincts gave Fred C. Gilchrist, 49,397; Edward Breen, 31,059.

Seventh district—333 of 333 precincts gave Ben F. Jensen, 48,258; Jess Alton, 27,454.

Eighth district—285 of 285 precincts gave Charles B. Hoeven, 42,100; Walter T. Mahoney, 22,995.

Ninth district (to fill vacancy)—274 out of 310 precincts gave Harry E. Narey, 37,139; Otto J. Reimers, 21,017.

Blue Wins

In the contest for state lieutenant governor, late returns from 2,426 precincts put Republican Robert D. Ely in a decisive lead over Lester S. Gillette, 380,612 to 258,556.

Proof of the Republican avalanche in Iowa can also be found in the following late tabulations:

For secretary of state, 2,427 precincts gave Republican Wayne M. Ropes, 281,680; Democrat Mary K. Fagan, 243,777.

For state auditor, 2,427 precincts gave Republican Chet B. Akers, 385,987; Democrat W. M. Shaw, 233,961.

For state treasurer, 2,449 precincts gave Republican W. G. C. Bagley, 403,424; Democrat Walter Arant, 266,697.

For secretary of agriculture, 2,449 precincts gave Republican Harry D. Linn, 390,835; Democrat Frank M. Murray, 245,715.

The Democrats, however, were able to maintain their staunch and traditional hold on Johnson county, placing men in every county office except three.

Two of the Johnson county G. O. P.'s winning office were unopposed, R. J. (Dick) Jones, county recorder, and Harold D. Evans, district judge. Republican Edward F. Rate emerged victorious in his race for the position of county attorney against his Democratic rival, William J. Smith, now stationed with the United States navy.

In perhaps the closest race in the county, complete unofficial returns gave Jack J. Swamer, Democrat, a 307-vote edge over Republican William Morrison for state representative.
