Fans Recall '39 as Iowa Beats Badgers in Homecoming Game

By MAXIE ROSENBLUM
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Shades of a glorious 1939 filled the minds of many yesterday as a bunch of Hawkeys played their hearts out and saw their efforts bear fruit in what was the upset of the day. Mighty Wisconsin, conqueror of Ohio State, just had to admit it had met its master as Iowa held a second-quarter 6 to 0 advantage through the remainder of the struggle to send some 32,700 Homecoming fans home happy.

And it was the productive Farmer to Burkett combination that clicked again midway in the second period. Tommy, fading back from his own 21, threw a perfect strike to Burkett, who gathered it in in the end zone. Farmer's conversion attempt was blocked, but the six points proved enough for the margin of victory.

You can't pick a standout from that gang. Credit for the victory cannot be given to one man. The whole team as a unit earned that triumph, and the boys can justly believe that this Iowa team has never been shaded by any other through the years.

200,000 Married Men To Be Inducted Soon

The Badgers were a good ball club. The Hawk line, however, had Harry Stuhldreher's pride and joy, Elroy Hirsch, bottled up all afternoon, and he got very few chances to display what he had to show.

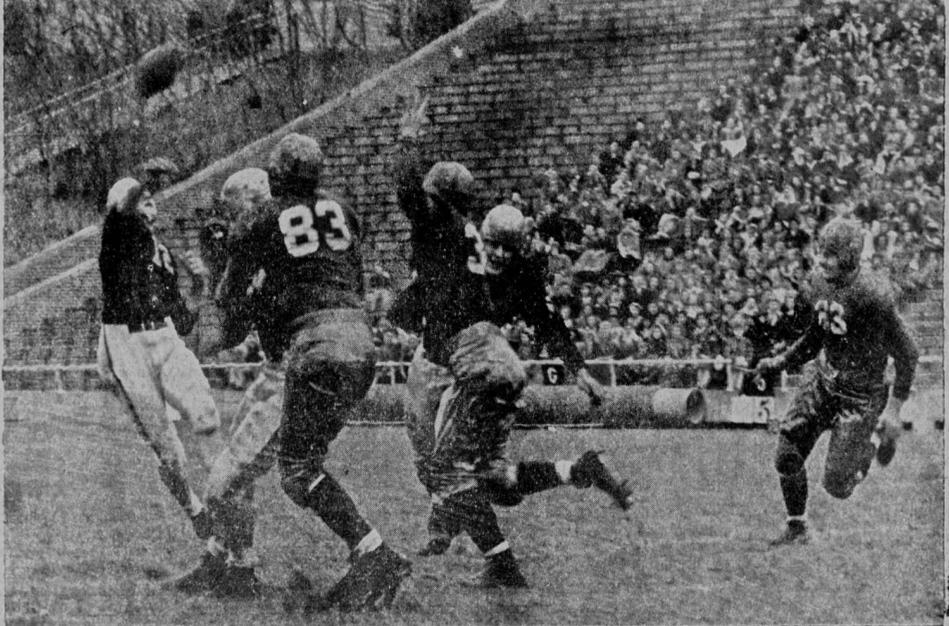

He toted the ball 21 times for a net gain of only 37 yards, while his running mate Pat Harder picked up 49 yards in 15 tries. In the matter of first downs Wisconsin held a slight edge—12 to 9, but on the ground the Hawks earned eight, to seven for the Cardinals. The Badgers picked up four first downs through the air, while Iowa was limited to only one.

The Hawkeye ground attack proved the more potent of the two, chalking up 178 net yards to 107 for Wisconsin. Individual ground-gaining honors went to slippery Ted Curran, who picked up 73 yards in 14 trials, followed by Chuck Uknes with 43 yards in 14 attempts.

The victory sent Dr. Eddie Anderson's charges into a first-place tie in the Conference standings with Ohio State and Illinois. The Badgers, who held undisputed possession of the top notch, were knocked clear out of the rarified atmosphere.

The men in red came close to knotting the count late in the second quarter. A kick by Jim Youel went to Harder on the Badger 11 as the second period slowly drew to a close. Harder (See HAWKEYES, page 4)

TOSSIN' TOMMY GETS OFF AERIAL AGAINST WISCONSIN

Tom Farmer, who captained Iowa to its great victory over previously-unbeaten Wisconsin yesterday, is shown, above, getting a pass off before those husky gentlemen from Badger-land can lay a finger on him. Farmer is receiving some nice blocking here from Jim Youel (facing camera) and another unidentified Iowa player, probably either Bill Stauss, Chuck Uknes or Duke Curran. That man with the 83 on his back is Bob Handzik, regular left end, Badger player with smirk on his face is left guard Evan Vogds. He can't seem to decide whether he'll go in on Farmer or do an about face to watch the flight of the pigskin. Faci is, Vogds didn't get in on this play at all, his change of mind not helping him find action. Crowd in background is not indicative of the attendance at all. Homecoming fans swelled the turnstiles to 32,700. Yesterday's contest was the last home game for 13 Iowa seniors, including Farmer. Next week Hawks meet Minnesota at Minneapolis.

5,188 Japs Slain in Solomons Since Invasion 3 Months Ago

WASHINGTON (AP)—American soldiers and marines, and their supporting air and naval forces, have killed at least 5,188 Japanese in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area of the Solomon Islands since the invasion began three months ago.

Comparable American losses can be estimated at about one-fifth of the Japanese total, or 1,000 men, on the basis of a remark by Secretary Knox that enemy casualties were more than five times as great as ours.

The total of Japanese dead was announced by the navy in a com-

U.S. Bombers Pound Sub Base as British Raid Northern Italy

LONDON (AP)—United States heavy bombers smashed at the big German submarine base at Brest in a daylight attack yesterday and reports from France and Switzerland indicated the RAF had its big bombers out last night for a new attack on northern Italy.

The raid on Brest was made by Flying Fortresses and Liberators (Consolidated B-24) accompanied by RAF fighters. A communique said bombs were seen striking the target—the docks and submarine pens—but no details of the damage were given.

Yank Troops Nearing Buna

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sunday (AP)—American combat troops are in action near Buna, vital Jap base on the north New Guinea coast, General Douglas MacArthur disclosed today.

Simultaneously, General MacArthur disclosed that the allies have occupied Good Enough island to the northeast of New Guinea, off Collingwood bay, in an obvious flanking movement.

"The allied forces now control all of Papua except the beach-head in the Buna-Gona area."

Northern Africa Coast Invaded By Troops Under Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—Powerful American expeditionary forces are landing on the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts of the French colonies in Africa in the first big-scale offensive of the war under the Star Spangled Banner.

An electrifying announcement of the action, obviously aimed at winning complete domination of the dark continent and re-opening the Mediterranean sea for the united nations in conjunction with the victorious British drive westward from Egypt, was made in a simultaneous announcement last night by President Roosevelt and communique from the war department.

Rommel Loses 100,000 Men During Retreat

CAIRO, Egypt, (AP)—Approximately 100,000 men of Marshal Rommel's axis army of 140,000 were reported captured or pinned down in pockets far behind the swiftly moving African front yesterday as the British eighth army swept on toward the Libyan border after smashing the German armor in its second attempted stand.

Disregarding the thousands of foot soldiers left in the dusty backwash of the battlefield, Lieut.-Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's British and American tanks tore into the disorganized flanks of their main prize—the battered remnants of the German armored divisions—west of Matruh in an effort to eliminate them entirely. They already had caught up with this fleeing force once and sent it into headlong, harassed retreat a second time.

Montgomery spurred his men on to swifter pursuit of the enemy with the admonition that the "battle just won is only the beginning of our task." The British object apparently was to harry Rommel's men constantly so they could not rest or regroup their shattered forces.

Only Beginning
Montgomery's observation was contained in the following order of the day to the eighth army: "I feel sure that the battle we have just won is only the beginning of our task. There is much to be done yet, and it will call for supreme effort and great hardship on the part of every officer and man."

"Forward then to our task of re-

Congressional Delay In Teen-Age Draft Requires New Step

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional delay in enacting the 'teen-age draft bill will cause the induction of 200,000 married men into the armed forces in December who otherwise might not have been called until late next spring if at all, informed legislators said yesterday.

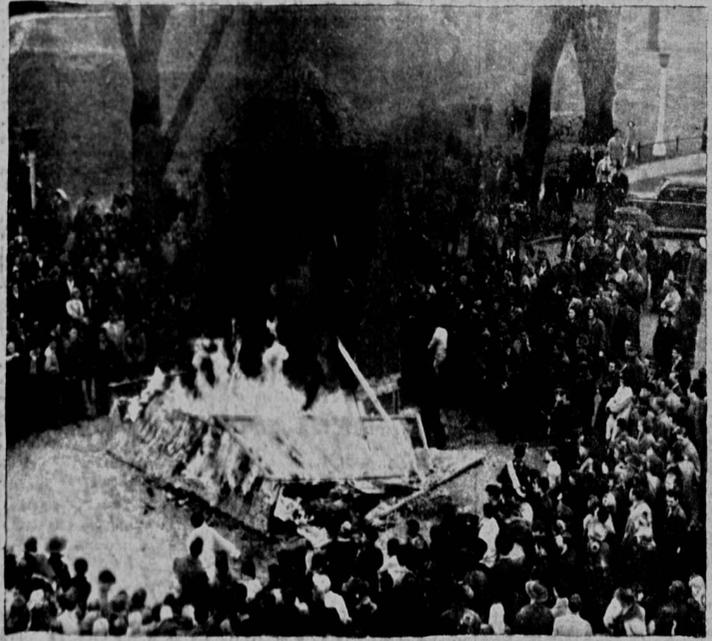

Local Variances
This was an over-all figure for the country as a whole. The effect will vary with each locality, depending on the supply of unmarried men still available to each draft board.

Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.) of the senate military committee said that even if the measure is finally passed next week and it is signed immediately by President Roosevelt, actual induction of 18 and 19-year-old men probably would not start until about Jan. 1.

Controversial Delay
Confirming this estimate, Senator Gurney (R., S. D.) attributed the result to delay caused by congressional controversy over a senate amendment requiring a year's military training after induction before 18 and 19-year-old selectees could be sent into combat abroad.

The war department has observed (See DRAFT, page 5)

Another Chinese Struggle

For years Chinese women have fought for an equality of the sexes and now that the principle has at least reached maturity the women of modern China are making their contribution to the war effort.

Realizing the tremendous sacrifices the men are making for their country, the women have turned to helping on the home front. Led by Madame Chiang Kai-shek, thousands of women have organized hospitals for wounded soldiers, are rolling bandages and collecting money to buy comforts and gifts for the men in the service. Young girls have volunteered to do propaganda work to inform the simple Chinese country folk just what Japanese war aims are, what they want in China and what the Chinese are doing to defend their rights.

The tasks are simple in design, easy to perform. The quiet heroism and calm determination to carry on despite unparalleled hardships have marked the Chinese women as deserving of equal footing with the male population. They, too, are fighting a war—a war of production on the farms, in the home and in the shops, which the men-folk have been forced to desert for war service.

War and modern education have pushed the Chinese women forward, and they are again fighting for their rights. But this time it's for the rights of all China—for the liberation of the nation. And they are doing their job well.

Hunters Take Heed

At noon Thursday the 1942 pleasant season opens in 59 Iowa counties, but in many of these areas farmers are tacking up "No Hunting" and "Keep Off" signs to add complications to the unacquainted hunter's problem of finding a happy hunting ground.

To trespass with dog or gun on any enclosed or cultivated land other than public shooting areas without permission of the owner is a violation of the Iowa statutes. Hunters are, therefore, urged to go into their prospective hunting territories early to make the necessary arrangements for shooting privileges.

The importance of the farmer-sportsman relationship is one all too easily forgotten and usually results in indignation on the part of one or both of the participants. However, the direct responsibility lies with the hunter, for it is the farmer's right to prohibit trespassing on his lands. Unless individual hunters recognize this requirement many an area may be closed for ALL hunters for a long period of time.

If everyone, beginning now, conducts himself as a true hunter, following the rules of the game, the farmer-sportsman problem will soon disappear, and with it the problem of finding accessible hunting grounds.

No Holiday Tomorrow

Back in the good old days before the war became our personal problem and before time became more precious than gold, we'd have been able to knock off studying and take a holiday tomorrow, but now we can't.

Yesterday's game was one of the most impressive gridiron spectacles we've seen. It was even more impressive than the Ironmen of '39 ever put out. They gave us some flashy football and plenty of thrill-packed moments, but not once did they show the ground power we saw yesterday. Under any ordinary circumstances tomorrow would be a gala holiday—victory dance, pep rally and everything—but all of that is changed now.

Eleven months ago today we entered the war and we took the pledge not to rest until we had won a victory over the axis. That pledge has brought about a thousand changes in our lives, the elimination of holidays not the least of them. We have an enormous amount of work to accomplish in a greatly reduced amount of time and can not afford to lose even a day.

So the going gets tougher. College life ceases to be filled with celebration as we bear down with grim determination to finish the job at hand.

Washington in Wartime

By JACK SINNETT

WASHINGTON—Well, folks, we've all been wrong. I mean about the 77th Congress, Second Session.

That's no name for a race horse, but 77th Congress, Second Session, was running true to form until it got into the home stretch. Since then, Old 77 has been running like a son of Man-o-War, with Whirlaway and Al-sab as godfathers.

Nobody thought it could happen here in Washington, but it has. With the November elections only a photo-flash away, there probably are more Senators and House members in the Capitol than any time since "national defense" was first mentioned.

Not only that, but Congress is taking those controversial hurdles like the man in the barrel took Niagara. A few months ago it didn't take much of a canvass to predict that anti-inflation, the 18-19-year-old draft, taxes and several other things would get no serious consideration until after the elections.

There were intimations in pretty high places that Congress wouldn't even be consistently in session until the votes were counted. The boys just had to attend the hustings, it was explained. No Congress ever had violated that political rule—not in World War I or even in the Civil War when, on still nights, you could stand on Constitution avenue and hear the Rebel yell echo from the hills of Virginia.

Yet when the vote on the 18-19 draft was talked in the House the other day, a scant two weeks before election, there were 361 members on the floor. Only in the case of the declarations of war have there been more members present in recent sessions.

Both House and Senate have been tossing political dynamite around as if there were nothing to it. The wage and farm price control act has become a law and is in operation. True, there was some haggling and the law, as passed, was called "a compromise measure," but it was mostly a matter of saving face.

There is, of course, a reason for all this and it's one that I've talked about before. Congress is the mirror of America. Let them know what the score has to be and they'll come through with that tally. Early in the war, it became apparent that a No. 1 order from home was: Stay on the job. It took a while for some members to understand this. They had been taught differently. But by the time a few House members and Senators had been renominated without even leaving Washington, it began to sink through.

There already have been some changes made that will be apparent in the 78th Congress. There'll be others when all the votes are in. But it isn't so much a matter of party now as it is of getting the job done as well and as quickly as possible.

THE BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY
"The Last Man Comes Home,"
By Stephen Longstreet (Random;
$3).

In all the stacks of half-rare books on how to win the war, how to win the peace and what Hitler said to Putzi on the first of October, 1934, it is a relief to find something you can laugh at. Something like Stephen Longstreet's "The Last Man Comes Home."

It is true that a confirmed looker for meanings can discover a meaning in Mr. Longstreet's book. It is a kind of composite picture of the parts of America he has been visiting the last few years—the caboose of freight trains, Boston, Hollywood and innumerable bus stops. I suppose Mr. Longstreet's moral may be that America, for all its vagaries, is a pretty darn good place after all.

It is fun. The author is a man who can throw any handful of syllables into the air and have them come down in amusing order. Sometimes he does it with an idea in mind, and sometimes just to see what the tea leaves say.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

Revolutionary Idea

On Open Criticism—

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I have just read "No Hiding Place," the autobiography of William Seabrook, a book so frank and reflective of others that when I met Seabrook in the flesh I was bursting with the question: How do people react when they see themselves pictured unflatteringly in print?

He had the answer ready. "When I wrote 'The Magic Island' I really went to town on some of the officials and leading people of Haiti. The only people who got sore were those I didn't mention."

William Seabrook is a most unusual man. He chucked tailor-made careers on the Augusta Chronicle and the Atlanta Journal, quit an advertising business paying him thousands, enlisted with the French and was gassed at Verdun, tired of writing lurid but profitable pseudo-scientific articles, lived with the Bedouins and Druses, with voodoo worshippers in Haiti, with cannibals in West Africa; flew to Timbuctoo, married three times, and along about his 57th birthday next Feb. 22 hopes to become the father of a girl who will be named Sebastiana.

"If it's a boy, as Constance hopes," he says, "we'll have to name him William Seabrook, I suppose, and that will be too bad because I'm the seventh William Seabrook and the world has had too many of us."

(His tall, red-headed wife is the former Constance Kühr, herself a writer, and their home is a remodeled barn at Rhinebeck, N. Y.)

Apparently it was a relief for him to write his autobiography, to get down on paper all the cankerous and admittedly unreasonable hatred he bore for his late brother, Charlie, to whom the book is dedicated. He dared to write of Charlie, and his autocratic mother, and his preacher father, and his two former wives, and his friends, just as he once dared to have himself confined to an institution as an alcoholic and dared write a best-selling book ("Asylum") about that.

The key figures in the book all saw advance proofs," he told me. "We only changed one little thing, about a moonshine still. If you write of people with malice, they (See MANHATTAN, page 5)

IS OUR QUOTA FOR VICTORY
U. S. WAR BONDS

Some Good Comes Of Personal Tours

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Claudette Colbert, Annabella, and other movie queens were squeezing baskets of lemons for lemonade for soldiers at one of the canteens. Practical Annabella remarked, "Now we'll have the whitest hands in pictures, heh, heh!" Thus proving there's always unexpected joy to be found in service.

Edward Arnold, going into "The Youngest Profession" after his bond-selling tour, is almost entirely paunchless—another proof of same.

Jane Wyman, back from her bond-selling through East and South, left something like a million dollars' worth of costume jewelry behind her—a million dollars figured in bond orders it brought as she auctioned the pieces in various cities. Total cost to the star, as she figures it, was $14.50.

"Paging Mr. Greenback" — a

makes a zingful finale to "Presenting Lily Mars." It's sung by Judy Garland and a workers' chorus before a huge backdrop representing the Capitol.

Contribution of Bette Davis, queen of tragedy, to the Warner all-star potpourri called "Thank Your Lucky Stars" will be a jitterbug number.

A between-scenes gin-rummy game started with "Action in the North Atlantic" wound up after five weeks with Sam Levene writing a $275 check for the Hollywood Canteen. The check was Levene's but the donor was new actor Bernard Zanville—the winner.

More cut-ups on that set. His face a black mask of oil, Raymond Massey as captain of the torpede tanker was rehearsing the scene in which he kneels on a life raft, and hurls cuties at a Nazi submarine. "Do you want one knee on the raft or both of them?" he asked Director Lloyd Bacon. Alap Hale protested, "Don't let him get up on one knee."

They'll think he's Tolson!

From England where he's directing Robert Donat in "Sabotage Agent," Harold Bucquet writes of his first air raid alarm. As the sirens moaned Bucquet was all for seeking the shelter, but noticed that none of the others seemed perturbed. "We've a spotter on the roof," Donat explained. "If the planes come our way, he sounds a bell on the stage." They went back to work—then the bell jangled. The crew and players marched out. The director headed for the shelter. No one was there. He found them all on the roof—looking for the raiders.

Bob Hope's sequence in "Star Spangled Rhythm" required him to be immersed in a bathtub full of suds—the latter supplied by a prop man who mixed them in a bucket, doused them on the Hope torso. After the seventh such smearing, Hope looked up at the propman: "You do this well," he said. "What are you doing Saturday night?"

Burton Holmes To Talk Here

Traveler to Present Lectures on Alaska, Mexico November 19

Burton Holmes, world famous traveler and dean of American travel lecturers will present two of his famous travelogues in Macbride auditorium Nov. 19. Both the lecture at 4 p. m. on "Alaska and the Yukon" and the speech at 7 p. m. on "The Magic of Mexico" will be accompanied by technicolor motion pictures.

For six months of every year Burton Holmes travels to new places, visiting strange lands and ports, re-treading well-known boulevards, speeding along the high roads, seeking unfamiliar corners and delightful byways so that he can bring to the stay-at-home the life and spirit of our own and foreign lands.

He has always been content to remain, as he expresses it, "a super tourist," a traveler with a desire to see what other travelers have seen or want to see. The ambition to explore has never appealed to him, nor has he wanted to break new trails.

He has tried to be always a little ahead of the crowd, but not too far ahead. The north and south poles, the summits of the Himalayas or the undiscovered peaks, he gladly leaves to the explorers, many of whom are his close friends.

Object of Travel
"Travel," says Holmes, "is not just going somewhere—travel is getting something—something different from what one leaves behind." It may be the excitement of boarding a steamer for an unknown port, or the education and culture which travel gives.

One may not travel for several years; one may never travel, but to have the fun of preparing for travel, lies within the reach of everyone, via the Burton Holmes travelogue route.

Y.W.C.A. to Entertain Scattergood Refugees

Guests from Scattergood hostel, West Branch, will be entertained at a 4 o'clock tea tomorrow afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. The meeting is the second in a "student meets refugee" series which will be continued throughout the year in order to acquaint students with people who have been forced to flee from Europe.

In order to accommodate the large number of interested students, the series provides for Sunday calls at the hostel and overnight bicycle trips to West Branch in addition to teas and informal chats in the Union.

Among guests here last week were former residents of France, Austria, Germany and other central European countries, in addition to Mrs. Martha Balderson, director of Scattergood hostel, and Roger Craven, staff member.

Singers to Present Folk Song Program at Concert Tomorrow

Age-old American folk songs and music gathered from its original sources—the people—will be presented in a survey of three centuries of American folk songs by the American Ballad Singers, directed by Elle Siegmester, when they appear in Iowa Union tonight on the second program in the 1942-43 concert series.

Performing at the university as one stop on a nation-wide tour, the group will present ballads and folk songs depicting musically the music of early America, Americans at work, the melting pot, folk songs of today and ballads for victory. Included on the program will be psalms, ballads of courting and love, sea chanties, game-songs, street cries, and many other representative American songs.

Informal Singing
Keeping the full quality and flavor of folk mood, with all its gaiety and informality, the six singers and their director sit at a long table and join together in singing songs from the extensive collection of Siegmester. Unaffected of the unusual demands this type of ensemble singing makes, the singers enter into the spirit with gusto, giving each song its proper due.

Collecting music for the performances of the group has been Director Siegmester's career since he graduated from Columbia college. After three years abroad, he settled down in earnest to make a truly representative collection of songs which have arisen from the everyday life of the American people, from the colonial times until today.

Words and Music
Beginning by setting tunes to poems of Carl Sandburg, Enda St. Vincent Millay and Walt Whitman, he has been composing on native themes since then, as the titles of his works indicate: "Abraham Lincoln Walks At Midnight," "American Folk Suite," and "Created Equal," a score for a living newspaper production on the growth of democracy from 1776 to the present.

Himself a distinguished young composer-conductor, Elle Siegmester has had his music performed in the major cities of this country and abroad. Recently he has been recognized as one of the leading exponents of our country's music with the publication of his and Olin Downes' book, "A Treasure of American Song."

Party Committee to Buy Jeep Instead of Big Name Orchestra

A real army jeep—that is the hope of the central student party committee for the motif of the Christmas Formal to be held Dec. 12.

Giving way to the victory theme, the all university party will take on an entirely new meaning for Iowa students. Previous plans included a "big name" band engaged to come to the campus to play for the formal dance. The committee voted to use a local orchestra and to spend the remainder of the money for a jeep for the army. The group felt that it would be the wish of the students to use this money for a more definite and patriotic cause.

An act of congress provides that individuals may donate money to the army and specify its use. Donation of the money to the Red Cross, purchase of war bonds and other defense measures were discussed but the committee felt that the money should be represented by something more tangible than such a contribution.

Col. Homer H. Slaughter of the military department and officials of the seventh corps area are co-operating with the committee to get the jeep here for the dance. If this is possible, the vehicle will be used as the key note of the party and publicity will be centered about the unusual theme.

The entire committee will work on plans for the party which will be the final party planned by the organization this semester.

Students interested in having the board come to Iowa or who have questions regarding the air corps should leave their names with William L. Adamson of the military department before next Wednesday.

U.S. Forces Open Second Front Attack on French North Africa

Isles for some time, itching for action as they went through the final stages of their battle training, for they were commanded by Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief in the European theater whose headquarters had been in Britain.

The landing, the announcement said, was being assisted by the British navy and air forces, and "it will, in the immediate future, be reinforced by a considerable number of divisions of the British army."

White House Secretary Stephen Early called newspapermen to a special press conference to make the formal announcement. He said it was issued in the name of President Roosevelt, with simultaneous communiqués coming from the war department and in London.

The announcement said the landing was to prevent an enemy invasion, which if successful would "constitute a direct threat to America" across the comparatively narrow sea from western Africa.

"This combined allied force," the announcement said, "under American command in conjunction with the British campaign in Egypt is designed to prevent an occupation by the axis armies of any part of northern or western Africa, and to deny to the aggressor nations a starting point from which to launch an attack against the Atlantic coast of the Americas."

President Roosevelt calling on the French to accept the American action calmly and peacefully.

A few hours before the supreme commander broadcast an appeal to the French people giving instructions on how they should behave to avoid bloodshed.

Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower assured the French in north Africa in a proclamation published by the war department last night that the allies "only objective is to defeat the enemy and to free France."

"I need not tell you that we have no design either on north Africa or any part of the French empire," the proclamation said. "We count on your friendship and we ask your aid."

The proclamation, which was broadcast in French, directed the French forces "to avoid any possible misunderstanding" to signal their cooperation by various means which were outlined.

General Eisenhower also broadcast a message in behalf of President Roosevelt.

"Help us and the day of a world of peace will be established," the president's message said.

The war department also published an English text of the joint American-British declaration asking the people of metropolitan France to remain calm but on the alert.

Broadcast in French and also dropped as a leaflet from planes over France, the message described the allied landing in French north Africa as "the first step toward the liberation of France."

"We enter, today, into the offensive phase of the war of liberation," said the joint declaration. "This is the beginning."

The English translation of the broadcast in French containing the text of Eisenhower's proclamation was thus given by the war department:

"Here is a communication of the American General Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the forces now disembarking in French north Africa. This is one of the general staff officers who speaks to you. This communication of the highest importance is addressed to the French armies on the land, sea, and air in north Africa: Roosevelt.

the sky. "I repeat, by night turn on a searchlight and direct it vertically towards the sky."

"Moreover, for reasons of military security, we are obliged to give you the following orders. Any refusal to follow them will be interpreted as a proof of hostile intention on your part. Here are the orders:

"To all naval and merchant marine units: first, stay where you are. Secondly, make no attempt to scuttle your vessels.

"To coast guard units: withdraw from the neighborhood of your cannon and your stations.

"To aviation units: Do not take off. All airplanes must remain in their usual places.

"General orders: in general you must obey all orders given to you by my officers.

"We come, I repeat, as friends, not as enemies. We shall not be the first to fire. Follow exactly the orders which I have just given you. Thus, you will avoid any possibility of a conflict which could only be useful to our enemies. We summon you as comrades to the common fight against the invaders of France. The war has entered the phase of liberation."

Ed Simpkins Dies After Short Illness

Edward Simpkins, 34, 417 S. Capitol, died yesterday noon at a local hospital following a short illness.

Born near Muscatine Dec. 3, 1857, Mr. Simpkins came to Johnson county at the age of 15. He was married in 1879 to Rose O'Neil who preceded him in death. Later he was married to Mrs. Mary Morgan, who died in 1939.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. August Avey and Mrs. Jack Dawson, both of Davenport; three sons, Frank and Leo, both of Rock Island, Ill., and William of Iowa City; one half-sister, Mrs. M. J. Rourke of Oxford; eleven grandchildren, and one great grandchild. Two children preceded him in death.

Funeral arrangements are as yet incomplete. The body is at the Oathout funeral home.

Humphrey's Return To Homecoming Game In Army Bomber

Capt. Don Humphrey and Cadet Howard Humphrey, former University of Iowa students now with the army air forces, probably came faster and father to see Iowa beat Wisconsin than most of the cheering spectators who filled Iowa stadium yesterday.

The Humphrey brothers, former members of Delta Upsilon fraternity, arrived in Iowa City from Florida aboard a B-17 army bomber yesterday. Their parents, whose home is in Postville, met them here as did the parents of many of the other 10 men in the plane's crew.

Bad weather prevented the B-17 from returning to its base last night. It will probably take off from the Iowa City airport sometime today, Florida bound.

Russian Units Hold Ground On All Fronts

MOSCOW, Sunday (AP)—The Red army held its ground on all fronts Saturday, the 25th anniversary of the Russian revolution, and killed more than 1,800 Germans in Stalingrad, the central Caucasus and the western front, the Soviet midnight communiqué indicated today.

The Germans continued to attack fiercely on the Nalchik plains at the foot of the 18,000 foot Caucasus mountains, where the Russians threw two armored trains into the battle yesterday, but failed to gain, the communiqué said.

In Stalingrad they also threw their tanks and infantry against a Russian stronghold in several attacks, but the Red army killed a few score tanks at the disposal of Rommel, who previously was reported to have lost 339 machines, captured and destroyed.

The main battleground, however, continued to be in the central Caucasus where the Germans were using large numbers of tanks and planes on the eastern southeast of Naichik in an effort to push through to Ordzhonidze, key to the Georgian military highway which leads over the lofty mountain range.

Speakers to Receive Blackout Instructions

A meeting of the student speakers' bureau will be held at 4:30 in Macbride auditorium tomorrow to instruct student speakers in preparation for giving information to student groups about the blackout Nov. 19.

moving the Germans from north Africa. The Germans began this trouble, and they must take the consequences. They asked for it, and now they will get it. Let no officer or man relax, let us drive ahead westward, destroying the enemy wherever he is met."

Yesterday's communiqué announced that the counted prisoners now totaled well over 20,000, and unofficial reports said six Italian divisions (an additional 80,000 men) were as good as under lock and key, for they had been abandoned without transport, food or water in the hasty Rommel flight at positions near the El Alamein line, 104 miles east of Matruh. The communiqué said these forces were being "mopped up."

Among them were the Italian Bologna, Trieste, Trento, Brescia and Folgore divisions.

said a total of 350 had been captured. This apparently left only a few score tanks at the disposal of Rommel, who previously was reported to have lost 339 machines, captured and destroyed.

Four hundred guns and "many thousands of vehicles" also were in the British booty, but correspondents at the front regarded even these figures as very conservative. They said 300 guns had been captured in the El Daba area alone.

The British were reported to have thrown ten divisions into the fiercely waged battle and among them were three tank divisions which now were ripped relentlessly at the battered and badly outnumbered remnants of Rommel's armored force.

After pursuing these tank elements 104 miles to Matruh, their chances of utterly destroying it before it even reaches the Libyan border seemed good, for Rommel still had more than half the distance to go. And even then he would not be safe.

jected strenuously to this restriction and has bent every effort to convince house members they ought to vote to eliminate it. The matter will come to a test in the house tomorrow on a motion by Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) to accept this and other senate amendments, including a provision directing draft boards to defer irreplaceable agricultural workers.

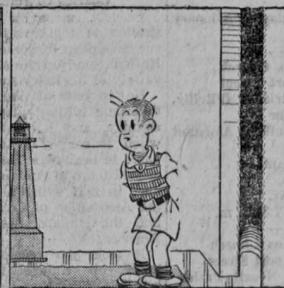

Selective service officials said it would take from 30 to 40 days after the bill becomes law to "process" the 18 and 19-year-old selectees and actually begin to get them into the army.

Those who have become 18 since the last registration may be asked to register shortly and there has been talk of installing an automatic system under which each youth would be required to report to his local draft board for registration within five days after his 18th birthday.

Dr. A. Carlson To Speak Here

Will Deliver Annual Paul Reed Rockwood Lecture Tomorrow

Dr. A. J. Carlson, well-known American scientist and professor emeritus of physiology at the University of Chicago, will deliver the annual Paul Reed Rockwood lecture to the members and faculty of the university college of medicine in the medical amphitheater at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

His address, "Some Unknowns in the Pathologic Physiology of Aging," is of interest at the present time because of the gradual increase from year to year in the average life span and the resulting increase in the number of persons in the older age brackets.

Research Work

Dr. Carlson, considered one of the most famous of present-day American physiologists, has done research in the rate of conduction of the nervous impulse, the nature of the heart beat, lymph formation, salivary secretions, physiology of the thyroid gland and physiology of the gastro-intestinal tract.

A member of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, he is also past president of the American Physiological Society and the American Association of University Professors. He is noted for the extensive national work he has done in connection with each of these groups.

Active Instructor

Dr. Carlson retired from his professorship at the University of Chicago in 1940, but is still active there in the instruction of undergraduates.

His fame in research and experiments was the subject of a featured article in the medicine section of "Time" magazine several months ago.

Dr. Carlson will also speak before the local organization of the American Association of University Professors at 6:30 tomorrow evening in the Triangle club rooms in Iowa Union. His topic will be "Some Current Problems Confronting University Faculties."

Young Negro Writer, Lecturer Will Speak In Iowa Union Today

Bayard Rustin, young Negro lecturer and writer, will speak in Iowa City today in an appearance sponsored by several campus organizations. He will give an address on the subject, "Race Relations in the War Crisis" in the Y. W. C. A. conference room at Iowa Union at 2:30 this afternoon, and following the Student Christian Council services this evening, will conduct a round table discussion at the Wesley foundation.

Rustin is best known for his opposition to racial discrimination which presumes the Negro unfit to associate with white people. In this connection he has been arrested a number of times in the south, but has always emerged the victor in court battles, an unusual record in southern jurisprudence.

Returning from a Pacific coast Christian conference, he is filling a number of engagements on mid western campuses. His appearance here is sponsored by the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the Wesleyan Foundation, the Cosmopolitan club, Negro Forum, and Y. W. C. A.

Rustin is a traveling secretary for two national organizations, the American Friends' Service committee and the Fellowship of Reconciliation. A graduate of City College of New York, he has worked abroad with the Quakers.

Legion Groups Plan Education Programs

Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion and the Legion auxiliary have planned several projects for the 22nd observance of American Education week which commences today.

Plans have been made for a round table discussion of topics concerned with "Education for Free Men," the theme of the week, over WSUI Thursday evening from 7 to 7:30.

The local Legion post has also made arrangements for the appearance of Legionnaire speakers in the city high schools at special Armistice day assemblies, Wednesday.

Shirley Ann Neider Struck by Automobile

Packer Heads State Teachers

Dean Paul C. Packer of the college of education was elected president of the Iowa State Teachers' association in Des Moines yesterday. He succeeds Arthur C. Deamer, Cedar Rapids school superintendent.

Announcement of Dean Packer's election was made at the closing session of the association's institute on war and education, which replaced the state teachers' convention this year.

John Lumsden Rites To Be Held Tomorrow In St. Mary's Church

Funeral service will be conducted at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in St. Mary's church for John J. Lumsden, pioneer Iowa City resident, who died Friday night after having been confined with failing health for some time.

He was born June 18, 1870, in Brooklyn, N. Y., but had spent most of his lifetime in Iowa City. In 1899 he married Clara Rummelhart. He was a member of St. Mary's church, the Knights of Columbus, Moose lodge, Moose Legion, and the Holy Name society.

He is survived by his widow; one son, R. J. Lumsden of Iowa City; three daughters, Mrs. H. H. Blair and Mrs. Ray Baschnagel, both of Iowa City, and Mrs. Henry Hetherington of Pueblo, Col.; three sisters, Mrs. Albert C. Dunkel, Mrs. Ernest Schroeder, and Mrs. Will Fryauf, all of Iowa City.

The body will be at the McGovern funeral home where a rosary will be recited at 7:30 tonight. The Knights of Columbus will recite the rosary again at 8 o'clock tonight.

Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. The Pastime theater, which is owned by Mr. Lumsden's son, Raymond, was closed yesterday and will be closed again today.

Billiard Champ In Exhibition Of Fancy Shots

The world's fancy shot billiard champion, Charles C. Peterson, will give an exhibition of his cue wizardry in the main lounge of Iowa Union from 4 to 6 p. m. Tuesday, proving again that no one should say "impossible" in reference to billiard shots until they have seen "Pete" in action.

Peterson's exhibition Tuesday will be devoted to billiard fundamentals, proving that application of a few simple pointers makes for good billiard play, and a demonstration of the favorite shots of cue champions of the last 40 years. He will wind up the show with a variety of his fancy shots.

Billiard Expert

Charles C. Peterson

He is one of the most enthusiastic billiard players in the country, and his zeal is great when it comes to teaching the game to beginners. He started his annual tours of American colleges back in 1931 with the blessing of the Association of College Unions and the Billiard Association of America.

It took him several years to build up college interest in billiards, persisting as he did in the face of trying experiences, but he was rewarded when, several years ago, colleges instituted intercollegiate play in pockets, straight-rail and three-cushion play. Last year, for the first time, sectional winners of college titles were brought together at the University of Wisconsin for a national play-off.

Peterson visited more than 200 schools, boys' clubs, army and navy posts and civic centers last year. He is now on a tour of army camps, performing for the men in the service.

The Union Board committee in charge of the exhibition is composed of Reeves Hall, A3 of Mason City, and Kenneth Lampe, P4 of Ft. Madison, chairman; John Doran, A2 of Boone; Robert Hughes, P2 of Emmetsburg; Robert Lunsted, A2 of Rock Island, Ill., and Wilbert Dalton, A2 of Audubon.

Protestant Students Plan Joint Meeting

Problems in Wartime To Be Topic Tonight Of Campus Groups

"Student Life in Times of Strife" will be the general theme for consideration when campus-wide Protestant student groups gather for a joint meeting in the Presbyterian church tonight at 6:30.

The meeting is an effort to bring about greater unity among students and help them cope with problems of adjustment during wartime.

The Student Christian council has secured as speakers Dean Harry K. Newburn of the college of liberal arts, Chaplain A. C. McKelway of the Navy Pre-Flight school, Howard Hensleigh, L1 of Iowa City, and Mary Louise Nelson, A4 of Laurens.

Chaplain McKelway, who has been on active navy duty for 14 years, will speak on "Personal Religion in Armed Forces." Howard Hensleigh, member of university R. O. T. C., will help to present the student's point of view in his talk, "The Future Challenges Students of Today, Men of Tomorrow." Mary Louise Nelson will discuss "How Education Will Aid Student to Meet Wartime Problems."

Bayard Rustin, prominent Negro speaker for Fellowship of Reconciliation, will present an a cappella solo. Mildred Nichols, president of United Christian Youth movement, will speak on youth organization to the group.

Newel Taylor, A2 of Iowa City, will be in charge of the music, and Don Halboth, A3 of Odebolt, the ushers.

A 5:30 supper will precede the discussion group. The committee in charge includes Fern Harris, A2 of Newton; Elizabeth Brinker; A1 of Keokuk; William Hoops, A4 of Galva, and Marjorie Synder, A2 of Council Bluffs.

Chemistry Head to Speak

Prof. George Glockler, head of the chemistry department, will speak on "I Have Lived in Japan" at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club in Reich's pine room at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Prof. Glockler will discuss his experiences in Japan during his service in the army. He will also discuss the conditions in Japan during the war.
