RUSSIAN WAR MACHINE ROLLS ON ACROSS CAUCASUS

German attempts to halt the Russian drives forward have failed as the Soviet armies continue their advances on all fronts. Red units advancing through the Caucasus now are nearing the Kalmyck steppes and Cossack cavalymen are pursuing the still retreating Nazis far to the south. Note the pocketed German forces before Stalingrad.

Red Army Nearing Kalmyck Steppes More Than 170 Miles in Caucasus

Betty Hansen Testifies in Flynn Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Betty Hansen, 17, slight and blond, was led weeping from a superior courtroom yesterday after almost an entire day on the witness stand during which she testified that actor Errol Flynn raped her during a party last Sept. 27. She had maintained her calm during her direct testimony and throughout a searching cross-examination by Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler. Only occasionally did she raise her voice when, during the cross-examination, she found herself in difficulty explaining apparent contradictions with her testimony at Flynn's preliminary hearing and before a county grand jury. As she related incidents of her

Russian Columns Along Don River Beat Off Repeated German Counterattacks Chalking Up Total of 1,000 Nazi Dead and 22 Tanks

MOSCOW, Friday (AP)—The Red army rolling northwestward through the Caucasus now has advanced more than 125 miles, reaching Sotnikovskoye near the Kalmyck steppes, and Cossack cavalry and Red tank men are pursuing the still retreating Nazis, it was announced today. Occupation of Sotnikovskoye, about 65 miles above the Mineralnye Vody-Rostov railway, marked a 26-mile advance yesterday from the Zhuravskoye area to the south. It brought the Caucasus army within 45 miles of the Kalmyck region, where other Red army forces pushing southward from Stalingrad are operating. Other Soviet columns operating in the Kalmyck republic were driving steadily westward after crossing the lower Volga river at the beginning of their offensive.

To Examine Edward Flynn's Record

Barrage of Republican Charges Forces Senate to Hold Hearings On Ambassador Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP)—A barrage of Republican charges against the record of Edward J. Flynn, retiring Democratic national chairman, prompted Chairman Connally (D-Tex) to assure the senate yesterday the foreign relations committee would not act on Flynn's appointment as minister to Australia before holding hearings. Leading the attack against confirmation, Senator Bridges (R-N.H.), read four specific charges against Flynn. These ranged from the accusation that Flynn's law firm once represented a man who presented a gift of money to the Japanese government to the allegation that the Democratic chieftain had been cleared in a "paving block scandal" by a grand jury "conducted by a political stooge of Flynn's." After listening to these charges, Connally arose to remark that the foreign relations committee, scheduled to consider the nomination at a meeting this morning, "hoped to perform its duty." Connally remarked that Bridges would be welcomed at the hearing and could bring along, if he chose, a Belgian paving block to exhibit there. Bridges had previously shown the senate such a block, tied in a purple ribbon. "The senator from New Hampshire is welcome to attend the hearing," Connally said. "We'll hear him and look over everything he brings. We have sanitary facilities in the committee room where he can dispose of any bucket of slop he may have." Obviously angered, Bridges shouted back: "There won't be any bucket of slop unless Flynn is there in it." Previously, Bridges had read to the senate a series of four charges he had outlined at a press conference yesterday. Advised of the accusations, Flynn subsequently issued a statement asserting they were "wanton falsehoods" which he was prepared to disprove fully.

Hickenlooper Takes Office as Governor In Quiet Ceremonies

DES MOINES (AP)—Wartime simplicity marked the inauguration yesterday of Bourke Blake Hickenlooper as the 29th governor of Iowa. A guard of honor from the Cedar Rapids American Legion post of which Hickenlooper is a member, provided a military note for the ceremonies. Hickenlooper, 46-year-old attorney, is the first veteran of World War I to become chief executive of his native state and the first Iowa governor to be inaugurated while the nation was at war. 1,000 Persons Watch More than 1,000 persons—including several score from his home city—looked on as the governor pledged to fulfill the duties of his office at 2:28 yesterday afternoon. Standing on the flower-bedecked rostrum of the house, Hickenlooper took the oath from Chief Justice T. G. Garfield of the state supreme court while a few feet away members of his family watched with evident thrill and pride. Representatives, senators, state officials, court justices, representatives of most of the military organizations of past war, state-house employees and other spectators jammed the house chamber for the event. Enter Amid Cheers Shortly before the arrival of the governor, escorted by a committee of lawmakers, his family entered the chamber amid standing applause by the crowd. Blue took the oath immediately after the governor and then introduced the chief executive, praising the latter's World War record and declaring that he had the confidence of all the lawmakers with whom he had served and all the people who knew him. The governor's 37 minute inaugural address was interrupted three times by applause. He outlined 15 suggestions for legislative actions and governmental programs which he thought essential to meet wartime needs and promote governmental efficiency.

Slay 116 Japs In 2-Day Foray

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Friday (AP)—Allied jungle fighters counted 116 dead Japanese today and beat the bushes for more bodies after a surprise two-day foray against the enemy in the Mubo area, inland from Salamaua, and 12 miles to the south, in New Guinea. It was the first reported land clash in that area in months. (However, increasing attention has been given trails of the area by strafing planes, according to recent communiques.) Continuing rainy weather kept fighting down to a minimum on the Sanananda front but the enemy is being nudged back by patrol activity. Sanananda is the only point in all the Papua peninsula where remnants of a Jap army which once totalled 15,000 still are holding out. General Douglas MacArthur's bombers and fighters maintained their daily pressure on Japanese landing strips and bivouac areas, striking along the New Guinea coast from Sanananda to Madang. The heaviest raid was aimed at Lae where the Japanese made no attempt to interfere while Mitchell bombers, escorted by Lightnings, started big fuel fires along the shore. Absence of Jap aerial opposition was in sharp contrast with last week when the enemy sent over swarms of planes in an attempt to provide cover for a reinforcing naval convoy and, for their pains, suffered the loss or damage of more than 130 planes.

Tempestuous Frannie Farmer Begins Serving 6 Months' Jail Term for Breaking Probation

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The tempestuous Hollywood career of Frances Farmer came to a new and violent climax yesterday as the actress, looking anything but glamorous, started a six months' jail term. Violates Probation The comely blonde, a university graduate who once won a hometown newspaper's popularity contest and a trip to Russia as a reward, was sentenced for violating probation in a drunk driving case. As she was waiting in the matron's office for removal to jail, she asked to use the telephone. Denial set off a melee in which one husky officer was floored, the matron and another officer bruised, and Miss Farmer herself battered somewhat before the law restored order and removed her shoes to prevent additional damage. Haven't You Heard? She finally began serving her term, after haughtily telling the desk sergeant who asked her occupation: "I'm an actress, hadn't you heard?" Her eyes were bloodshot, her blonde hair was straggling, her blue suit was mussed as she waltzed into Police Judge Marshall Hickson's court this morning. A warrant had been issued for her arrest Jan. 6, after she had failed to pay the remaining half of a $250 fine assessed in October for drunk driving in a dim-out zone. "Since you appeared in this court Oct. 24," Judge Hickson asked, "have you had anything to drink?" "Yes," she shouted, "I drank everything I could get, including benzadrine." "You were advised," the judge declared, "that if you took one drink of liquor or failed to be a law-abiding citizen..." "What," she interrupted, "do you expect me to do? I get liquor in my orange juice—in my coffee. Must I starve to death to obey your laws?" Chinese Reoccupy Kwangshan, Loshan After Fierce Fight CHUNGKING (AP)—The Chinese high command last night announced the reoccupation of the Honan province towns of Kwangshan and Loshan and declared that Chinese troops fiercely attacking the Japanese within the city of Sinyang and its environs had made progress.

Scheduled Coal Strike Called Off by Miners

HAZELTON, Pa. (AP)—A general strike in the Pennsylvania anthracite field, scheduled for tomorrow, was called off last night, pending a report of a committee that will meet today in Washington with the war labor board. Rank and file delegates at a last minute meeting of the tri-district mine committee, called to consider the WLB's demand for an immediate end to the wildcat strike of 19,000 miners who already had left their jobs, adopted unanimously a resolution holding the strike deadline in abeyance. A committee of 15 was named to carry the miners' grievances to the war labor board. The resolution declared that "satisfactory progress" must be reported by the committee, with an assurance that the WLB will make any wage increase it might grant retroactive to January 15. Another meeting was scheduled for Sunday afternoon to hear the committee's report from its Washington trip. Meanwhile, at Wilkes-Barre, where the walkout already in effect has centered, officials of some local unions also decided last night to send representatives to the WLB hearing in Washington. The widening Russian advance up the Rostov-Baku railway reached a point less than 235 miles southeast of Rostov; troops astride the lower Don were within 60 miles of the gateway city. Russian communiques and dispatches said nothing of new Red offensives reported by the Germans in the Voronezh sector midway between Stalingrad and Moscow and in the Lake Ilmen region south of Leningrad. Russian policy has been to conceal news of any new drive until it had achieved considerable success. The extreme western advance from Mineralnye Vody carried the Russians to Novo Blagodarneye while the northern flank swept past Zhuravskoye. In between, the Russians straightened their lines engulfing some of the best farm lands in the Caucasus. The noon communique reported a number of villages captured overnight. At one point, the speedy Russian advance enveloped a concentration camp where many prisoners were set free. The gains were made despite steady rains mixed with a wet snow which made roads and battlefields bogs.

French Forces Make Strategic Gains Northwest of Kairouan

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—A French attack northwest of Kairouan, the traffic junction below Tunis, drove the Germans from two strategic heights in the mountains, a French spokesman announced yesterday. Bad weather limited both allied air and ground activity over other fronts, and also temporarily checked the aerial offensive from the west against Marshal Rommel's army in Tripolitania. The heights seized Wednesday by the French—Jebel Haoub and Jebel Bou Davouss, about 15 miles northwest of Kairouan—were said by the spokesman to be important gains. "The Lafayette Escadrille went

Federal Jury Convicts Three as Seditious

CHICAGO (AP)—Three men were convicted of sedition by a federal court jury yesterday at the end of the first trial of its kind here since World War I. Elmer Hartzell, a statistician, was convicted of all counts of the seven-count indictment. Newell Mecartney, an attorney, and Elmer Soller, a mimeographer, were convicted of three counts. The defendants were accused of obstructing recruiting in the armed forces and attempting to cause insubordination by distributing pamphlets. The prosecution contended they attacked the president, Jews and the British. Government witnesses testified that Soller, in a statement made last September, said he printed hundreds of pamphlets written by Hartzell, and that they were written and printed in Mecartney's office.

Mrs. Sullivan Deserves More

Mrs. Sullivan of Waterloo has a little something coming to her, we think. She didn't kill any Nazis or set a new production record; in fact she really didn't do anything at all except leave her fellow Americans far behind. She joined all the other Mrs. Sullivans in Poland and France and Norway. She deserves something for that, we think.

Now, you can't estimate the value of five Americans in dollars and cents—the five boys she lost when the Cruiser Junco went down—nor can you say "Here, Mrs. Sullivan, we feel sorry for you, but war is like that." She doesn't want to be paid off with cash and routine sympathy.

What, then, can you give a woman who has lost everything in life except the negligible matter of living itself?

The navy thinks it has found the answer by giving Mrs. Sullivan a new tug to christen, as soon as it is completed. Although she had been invited to do this before her sons were lost, we still cannot help wondering a bit over the punyness of the remuneration, and thinking: "Imagine that, a brand new tug boat."

Before this war is over, every community will have its Mrs. Sullivan. We would like to see at least the first one treated like a heroine—an example for those who are to follow. If the navy plans to carry out the ceremony, why not do it right? Why not give Mrs. Sullivan a battleship or carrier to christen? She deserves the whole cake, not just the crumbs.

Manpower and the Farm

Perhaps the greatest danger to our farm production is the manpower problem. Some two million workers have left the farms. Many of them have gone into the armed services. Others have gone to the cities to work in defense factories.

During the last harvest many crops were wasted because farmers could not get workers. Quantities of fruit and vegetables rotted on the ground. Enough sugar beets went unharvested in California to supply the rations of every person in America for a week and a half.

By the next harvest, it is estimated that another million workers will have left the farms. If they do, farmers will have great difficulties producing food in the quantities needed.

Draft boards have been ordered to defer essential farm workers. Farm labor is being brought in from Mexico and other Central American countries. School children have been asked to train this winter in order to do farm labor next year. Victory gardens will again be in fashion. Through such measures as these, America hopes to be ready to feed hundreds of millions both at home and abroad.

You and your family can help by seeing that no food whatsoever goes to waste in your home.

Isolationists Came Through To Save Battered Mr. Barkley

WASHINGTON—It is a good thing the Democratic senators closed the door for their initial caucus. Only by manipulating a temporary inside truce did they avoid exposing the shattered condition of their senate majority.

It was indeed the hated isolationists who came through and saved the bruised and battered head of Alben Barkley as senate leader.

Barkley would have been defeated for reelection, and the party plunged into a new scramble for control, had not the most outspoken democratic critics of Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy, senators Burton Wheeler, of Montana, and the two Clarks, of Idaho and Missouri, undertaken leadership to reelect him.

Tennessee's Senator McKellar had offered a resolution providing that the caucus, instead of Barkley, fill two vacancies on the steering committee, a body which decides the order in which legislation is to be taken up. Barkley took the position this would be an insult to his leadership and he would have to resign.

It was then Wheeler arose. He said that while he had fought Barkley over the Roosevelt foreign policy from 1938 until the war, the Kentucky Roosevelt leader had always been fair. Wheeler plainly told his colleagues that if they fought the leadership issue out now, neither side would gain.

The two Clarks chimed in their assent, and the resolution was defeated by a margin of only 34 to 20.

The southern Democrats were out to get Barkley, because of his recent enthusiasm for the anti-poll tax bill. They were able to stop him with his new-found isolationist support, however, on only one point.

They kicked out the new dealer (Senator Wallgren, of Washington) whom he had named as secretary of the caucus and installed an anti-new dealer, Senator Francis Maloney, of Connecticut.

The incident clearly showed Barkley will not be able to handle the majority on most issues during the coming session. Bloes (farm, southern, isolationist) are likely to do the leading.

Sounded Like Republican Convention
The Democratic conference sounded like a Republican convention as far as criticism of the administration was concerned. Texas' Tom Connally said at one point to Barkley:

"You are taking the position that you are bigger than the caucus when you are the creation of the caucus. That is the trouble with these bureaucrats downtown. They are created by congress and the people and then they think they are bigger than the people who created them."

Many Democratic senators from the north and west made speeches plainly saying that they thought their goose was cooked or cooking for reelection in 1944, unless changes are made.

All wanted a change in everything except the name of the leader, and this desire will dominate the upper house from now on.

Lameducks Taken Care Of
Mr. Roosevelt's initial appointments took care of most of the lameducks, but it is not clear yet whether they took care of the problems at hand.

Judge Rutledge will make the new deal court majority seven to two, but it is not known whether he will join the Frankfurter bloc or new dealers of the Black bloc. Perhaps it makes little difference because the only margin between the two is that Black wants to go further and faster than Frankfurter.

Ed Flynn is not very popular even with new deal Democrats, who privately expressed distaste for his choice as ambassador to Australia. But after the Republicans have a little fun with him, the Democrats will vote for him and no doubt confirm him.

As for Prentiss Brown in Henderson's place, the defeated Michigan senator is more popular in Washington than apparently even in his home state. Around the senate, he is regarded as much less of a new dealer than Henderson and a high-class citizen.

Incidentally, although he is to be in charge of housing, he has been unable to find an apartment for his family. The manager at his former apartment house promised to let him return, but that manager was drafted and the new one refuses to honor the agreement.

Brown is usually diplomatic in his choice of words, will make fewer speeches than Henderson, and more palatable ones.

Little Comment On Huge Budget
You have heard little or no detailed comment on the amazing $109,000,000,000 budget. Not much is possible except the obvious suggestions concerning the unprecedented amount.

Particularized ways in which the money is to be spent could not be disclosed by the president, because they are military secrets. No one, therefore, can surmise how wisely the money is to be spent or for what.

Indeed, it is impossible to analyze non-war savings, as a reader of the message cannot know how much government activity has been transferred to the war side of the books.

Budgets have lost their original purpose in recent years. They were devised as a method of effecting economies, but when allocations are made in grouped round numbers, they serve more effectively as good war propaganda than as an indication of plans.

Suicide for Hitler?

Hitler will commit suicide because the "spottiness and contrariness of his personality make him a nuisance to the world and poor company to himself," a leading sociologist, Dr. Ernest Talber of the University of Cincinnati, has said in an analysis of the Fuehrer's future.

As Dr. Talber sees it, a collapse will surely take place at the moment when German defeat becomes certain enough to destroy the illusion of destiny which has shielded Hitler from a full realization of his own weakness. When this time comes, the Nazi leader will take his own life.

Thought along this line brings up, however, the question: why would Hitler choose to die so ingloriously and destroy all those myths he has built up around himself? He has said himself that he envisages a Hitlerian form of religion after his death—such a posthumous following would be impossible if his people lost faith in him.

The question of Hitler's future is just about as interesting as it is unimportant at this stage of the war, but it is, nevertheless, enjoyable to speculate on the possibilities.

We in this corner think the German Fuehrer will either choose to die in battle or surrender peaceably to the allies. He values himself too highly to take his life in such an insignificant manner as suicide. We feel, however, that regardless of which way he chooses to leave the world no one will lose any sleep worrying about him.

Interpreting The War News

Sidelights of Reds' Silence Over Great Winter Offensives

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Official Berlin reports of an ever-widening Russian winter offensive that has set the whole eastern front aflame from the Leningrad siege ring to the central Caucasus and the Black sea coast still finds no echo from Moscow.

Nazi Magnification

Whether that is due to Russian censorship or Nazi magnification of the situation in the east for home front recruiting purposes it is impossible to say.

There is no question, however, that the three sectors where the Nazi reported Russian attacks above the extreme northern flank of the vast Don-Caucasus battleground are of critical strategic importance. They would be the natural scenes for major Russian thrusts in the north to match the

Recent Marriages, Engagements Announced By University of Iowa Students and Alumni

Announcements have been received of the marriages and engagements of students and alumni of the University of Iowa.

Huxford-Whisenand
In a New Year's day ceremony, Barbara Huxford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Margerum, 1714 E. street, became the bride of J. D. Whisenand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whisenand of Chariton. The single ring services were read in the Little Chapel of the Congregational church.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Max Wheatley of Iowa City as matron of honor and Raymond Whisenand, brother of the bridegroom as best man.

The bride was graduated from Ottumwa high school. Mr. Whisenand was graduated from high school and junior college in Chariton. He is enrolled as a junior in the college of liberal arts at the university. The couple is residing in the home of the bride's parents.

Rasmussen-Thompson
In a double ring ceremony, Bethene Rasmussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Rasmussen of Webster City, became the bride of Leonard M. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thompson of Webster City, Dec. 26 in Seattle, Wash.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Edrynn H. Jones. They are residing in Seattle, where Mr. Thompson is stationed as a pharmacist's mate in the naval hospital.

The bride, a graduate of Lincoln high school, attended junior college in Webster City for one year. After graduating from Capital City Commercial college, she enrolled in the University of Iowa. Mr. Thompson was also a graduate from Lincoln high school and junior college in Webster City and received his degree in pharmacy from the university here.

Jankowski-Kolb
In a military wedding, Jan. 7, Stella Jankowski, daughter of F. A. Jankowski of Detroit, Mich., became the bride of Sgt. Robert R. Kolb, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kolb of Davenport. The ceremony took place in the chapel of Selfridge field near Detroit.

The bride attended high school in Davenport. Sergeant Kolb, a graduate of Davenport high school, received his B.S. degree from the University of Iowa. He is now employed in the finance department of the army air force.

McNeal-Underwood
Announcement was made Jan. 9 of the marriage of Corinne McNeal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McNeal of Chicago, to Martin E. Underwood, son of Mrs. Anna Underwood of Dubuque. The ceremony took place in St. Peter's Catholic church in Chicago.

Mr. Underwood, a former student at Iowa University, is now assistant to the regional manager of WPBS conservation division in Chicago.

Bransby-Petrus
Dr. and Mrs. C. Carson Bransby of Council Bluffs announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Rhoda, to John Bernard Petrus Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bernard Petrus of Council Bluffs. Miss Bransby attended MacMurray college at Jacksonville, Ill. Mr. Petrus was a student at the University of Iowa, where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Henry-Thornton
In a New Year's eve ceremony, Edith Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Henry of Waukon, became the bride of Lloyd Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton of Toronto, Canada. The ceremony was held in the Presbyterian church in Toronto.

Mrs. Thornton was graduated from Waukon high school and attended Iowa State college at Ames and the University of Iowa. The couple will live in Toronto, where Mr. Thornton is employed.

Schneider-Granaglia
Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider of Waukon announce the marriage of their daughter, Harriette, to Capt. Vincent J. Granaglia, which took place Jan. 1 at Ft. Riley, Kan., where the bridegroom is stationed.

The bride, a graduate of Waukon high school and the University of Iowa, will continue her work as dietitian in the Whiteside hospital at Ft. Riley.

Scholten-Jolly
Marguerite Mae Scholten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Scholten of Doon, became the bride of W. P. Jolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Jolly of Waterloo, in a Christmas eve service held in Bellingham, Wash.

The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Iowa. The couple will live in Bellingham, where Mr. Jolly is stationed with the coast guard.

Sanderson-Lindaman
In an informal ceremony, Florence Sanderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanderson of Humboldt, and Lieut. F. Eugene Lindaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lindaman of Aplington, were married Dec. 27 in a single ring service.

The bride, a graduate of Humboldt high school and the University of Iowa, has been teaching at Central school in Iowa Falls. Lieutenant Lindaman was graduated from Aplington high school and at-

STUDENTS TO WED

Merron-Reichmann
In an informal candlelight ceremony, Betty Merron, daughter of Mrs. Buena Merron of Estherville, became the bride of Lieut. E. A. Reichmann of Chicago. The services were read in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Thompson of Estherville, Dec. 26.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Reichmann were graduated from the University of Iowa. The bridegroom is a newly-commissioned officer in the army, having returned from the Jamaican islands for officer's training. Mrs. Reichmann will remain in Estherville while her husband is temporarily stationed in Chicago.

Nool-Miller
Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Busby, 316 S. Dodge street, announce the marriage of their niece, Mildred Nool of Okaloosa, to Marion A. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Miller of Montezuma. The ceremony took place Dec. 28 in Lancaster, Mo.

Mrs. Miller, a graduate of Iowa City high school, attended the University of Iowa and Simpson college at Indianola. Mr. Miller was graduated from Montezuma high school and is at present employed in farming with his father.

Smith-Kerr
Announcement has been made of the engagement of Eleanor Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Everett Smith of Newton, to Lieut. Wendle L. Kerr, son of Mrs. G. P. Rose of Humboldt.

The bride-elect was graduated from the University of Iowa and has since been employed by the Banker's Life Insurance company in Des Moines. Lieutenant Smith, a graduate of the college of pharmacy at the university, was affiliated with Sigma Nu fraternity. He is now associated with the army medical corps at the Billings General hospital in Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Rhea-Smith

BOYCOTTING WINTER WINDS

University Women Dety Freezing Weather With Old-Fashioned, Youngsters' Nightwear

Stray drafts won't chill these young university women, as they settle down in their toasty-warm nightwear for a short hand of bridge. Joan Zabel, A1 of Aurora, Ill., defies Jack Frost in an old-fashioned nightie of outing flannel. Blue ribbon draw-strings at the neck and wrists highlight the paisley print material. With it she wears soft, wooly scuffs of dark blue.

Shaking the shivers in novel skiant styled pajamas is Patti Stoltz, A1 of Ottumwa. Her blue and white striped pajamas are completed by knitted cuffs at the ankles and wrists.

Back to Baby Days
"This can't be winter," exclaims Kathleen McGaldrey, A2 of Cedar Rapids, as she relaxes in her peach-colored Dr. Denton's They're a large edition of those Kathleen wore in her teething days, even to the drop-drawers and sewed-in feet. Favored by many girls for cold winter nights, Dr. Denton's come in fascinating shades of fireman red, pink and light blue.

Bette Lou Lever, A2 of Davenport, dresses for a 65 degree temperature in a quilted robe of red silk taffeta, fashioned with brace-

Iowa Cave Talks Archaeologists Unearth Early History

What an Iowa cave had to say—under an archaeological third degree administered by Prof. Charles Reuben Keyes of Cornell college about the life of the long-vanished "woodland culture" Iowans is told in the Jan. 15 issue of the Palimpsest, monthly publication of the Iowa State Historical society.

One of about a hundred "rock shelters" found to date in the northeastern part of Iowa, the cave, located near Mt. Vernon, was explored last summer by a party made up of Professor Keyes, state archaeologist; Prof. Harold Ennis, also of Cornell college, and three students at the college summer sessions.

In and about the eight-foot-square cave the party found over 11,000 items testifying to the generations of "woodland culture" men who occupied the shelter. Pottery fragments, flint knives, hammerstones, animal bones and mollusk shells were most significant of the objects discovered in the three and one-half feet of refuse which had been built up through the ages from the original rock bottom of the cave. Among the 11,000 items was one ornament—a canine tooth pendant, lost from someone's necklace.

Curiously mingled with the top level of the stone age deposits, the searchers found evidences of another culture—cartridge shells, old Indian head pennies, bottle caps and other items which confirmed an old story of the locality that the cave had been used back in the late 60's by an early resident, Capt. James Minott, as a trap-line shelter.

Col. H. H. Slaughter Speaks to Rotarians

Col. H. H. Slaughter, head of the university military department, addressed members and guests of the Rotary club at the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon.

12 Fellowships Now Available

Graduates of the university may apply before Feb. 15 for the 12 Lydia C. Roberts graduate fellowships that will be available next year for study at Columbia university. Applications should be made at the office of the dean of the college of liberal arts, or direct to Philip M. Hayden, secretary, Columbia university, New York City.

Each fellowship provides an annual amount of $1100. They are awarded yearly to persons of the white race, of either sex, born in the state of Iowa, and who have been graduated from an Iowa college or university.

Awards are made to persons selected because of their scholarship, seriousness of purpose, moral character and need of financial assistance.

No Roberts fellows may pursue, as majors, the studies of law, medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, or theology. In accepting the award, the holder must state his purpose to return to the state of Iowa for a period of at least two years following the completion of his studies at Columbia university.

Townsmen Proctors, Officers to Discuss Plans for Semester

The town proctors, athletic proctors, and senior ranking officers of each section will meet to discuss plans for the activities of the Townsmen organization for the coming semester with Richard Lindquist, A4 of Des Moines, chief of proctors, tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in Old Capitol.

The constitution, which is being drawn up by a committee headed by Ted Hess, A3 of Charles City, will be reviewed. Other men on this committee are Edward Clausen, C4 of Ricketts; Ray Sievers, A1 of Remsen, and Robert Groy, A1 of Iowa City.

Lawrence Kier, A2 of Maquoketa, and Harris Stageberg, A4 of Port Arthur, Tex. have been appointed as athletic proctors for the Townsmen.

Kier will work with the individual section athletic managers and town proctors in arranging schedules for the intramural sports of the Townsmen.

Stageberg will be available at the field house every afternoon from 2 to 5 and every Saturday from 8 to 12. He will aid in instruction of any town man interested in a particular sport and will have charge of the equipment to be used.

All townsmen who are interested should contact him in the office of Glenn DeVine, director of intramural sports, room 116 in the field house. Each athletic manager will know the events and scheduled times.

- * Induction of Reiser
- * An Example Baseball
- * Predictions Useless

NEW YORK (AP)—Pete Reiser the Brooklyn Dodgers' brittle and brilliant centerfielder, now has been called to the colors, and if this steady stream of players into the service continues the major league clubs will feel rather silly visiting the army camps to let the soldiers see some major league ball. In fact, the camp teams should visit the major clubs to show them some major league ball.

Reiser's induction is just one more indication that only a dope would try to dope the major league races at this time. In the past, even including last year, most fans at this time of the year had a pretty fair idea of which clubs could be rated contenders and which were only pretenders.

Yankees Also Weak
But there is no way of telling the sharps from the flats now, with every lineup so full of holes it looks like a tray of doughnuts. Even the Yankees, with a perennial victory itch, will have to do a lot of scratching to get together even a working model of a major league team.

Getting back to the subject of exhibition games, it's no joke that before the season is over there may be more major leaguers in the army than there are in the major leagues, and that if these service stars were concentrated they would make a lot of duration major leaguers take to the bushes.

But naturally they won't be concentrated. They'll be scattered in all branches of the service and in all corners of the world, so the boys in the camps might appreciate a chance to watch the current major league clubs perform.

First Game
We recall that the first time we ever saw a major league club in action was when we were alternately toasting and freezing at Camp Cody, Deming, N. M., in the first World War. The temperature down there changed so fast you felt like a hot fudge sundae.

Anyway, some major league club—we believe it was the White Sox or Cubs—stopped off for an exhibition game with a camp team, and it was quite an occasion for the boys. Everyone who wasn't on K. P. or walking a post or in the brig was on hand to gaze goggle-eyed at the great stars whom most of the soldiers never had seen.

It was quite a treat, and it would be no less of a treat today when there is not the antagonism on the part of enlisted men toward draftees and civilians such as ball players that existed in the last war.

We haven't checked up to see how close the major league clubs have pitched their transplanted training camps to army camps, but we hope that in most cases an effort has been made to locate them as close to an assembly of service men as possible, although we doubt that the clubs even considered that angle.

Had Difficulties
The major league clubs were too darned busy trying to get any place which had hotel accommodations and suitable indoor and outdoor practice ranges to bother about such trifles as the location of the camp in relation to the soldiers. And considering the difficulties involved in arranging camp sites on such short notice they can't be blamed much for looking out for their own business first.

Anyway, we note with satisfaction that all the clubs are planning exhibition games at the camps, although, as previously remarked, the duration major leaguers won't owe the soldiers too much. When you're bunking with a major league star you don't get too excited by the presence of a couple of dozen other ball players.

All 5 Chicago Race Tracks to Operate
CHICAGO (AP)—Members of the newly chartered Illinois Turf association announced yesterday that all five tracks in the Chicago area planned to operate as usual this year.

They agreed, however, if transportation difficulties made it impractical for each racing association to operate in its own plant, shifts in the sites of meetings would be made to tracks more conveniently located.

The Turf association elected this board of trustees: Matt J. Winn and Stuyvesant Peabody, representing Lincoln Park; John D. Allen and Joseph J. Rice, representing Arlington Park; Walter Gregory and Benjamin F. Lindheimer, representing Washington Park; Charles Bidwill and Charles K. Rutckoff, representing Hawthorne, and John L. Keeshin and Joseph Donovan, representing Sportsman's Park.

Whirlaway Leaves Florida for Wealthy New Orleans Race

By E. V. W. JONES
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Warren Wright's Whirlaway, sent forth to greener pastures now that Florida's horse racing tracks are closed, shook Miami sand from his hooves for what may have been the last time yesterday.

The great money-winning champion was loaded aboard an express railway car at Hialeah Park for a two-day trip to New Orleans, where there still are purses to be picked up.

As Jimmy Jones—son of Whirlaway's trainer Ben—superintending the transfer of the long-tailed horse to the car, he said the Calumet Comet may never be brought here again.

"If things don't look any better by the end of this year, I doubt very much that Whirlaway will be back here, although it's hard to look that far ahead," Jones added.

Owner Wright is thinking of retiring the winner of $560,911 to the stud farm after this year, and Jones pointed out that he probably will carry out the plan if racing finds the going tough throughout 1943.

Whirlaway made his first three-year-old appearances at Hialeah, giving no sign then of developing into the ball of fire that made a clean sweep of the three-year-old fixtures and went on to great triumphs as a handicapper.

Last year Whirlaway was caught in California when Santa Anita

Hawkeye Cagers Leave Today For Two Games With Illinois

Ten University of Iowa cagers will leave this morning on the Rocket for Champaign, Ill., where they will attempt to knock Illinois from the conference lead Saturday and Monday nights.

The Hawkeyes now share fourth place, having broken even with Minnesota in the opening series. They face an uphill fight against the Whiz Kids from Illinois, who defeated Michigan, 47-34, and Wisconsin, 52-40, in their first games.

Another jinx will face the Hawks at Champaign. They have dropped eight straight contests on the Illinois floor, getting their last victory in 1928.

Coach "Pops" Harrison said his starting lineup for Saturday's game would probably have Tom Chapman and Ben Trickey, forwards; Jim O'Brien, center, and Theron Thomsen and Gene Nesmith, guards.

The Hawks have spent most of the time this week on defensive drills in preparation for the high-scoring attack of Illinois. Iowa will have some sharp shooters also with Chapman leading the way.

Other players making the trip include Sam Vacaenti and Bob Lundstedt, forwards; Jack Movoid, center, and Jim Humphrey and Chuck Uknes, guards.

Cincinnati to Train On Indiana Campus

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Athletic Director Zora G. Clevenger announced late yesterday that the Cincinnati Reds of the National league and the Indianapolis Indians of the American association would conduct their spring baseball training at Indiana university.

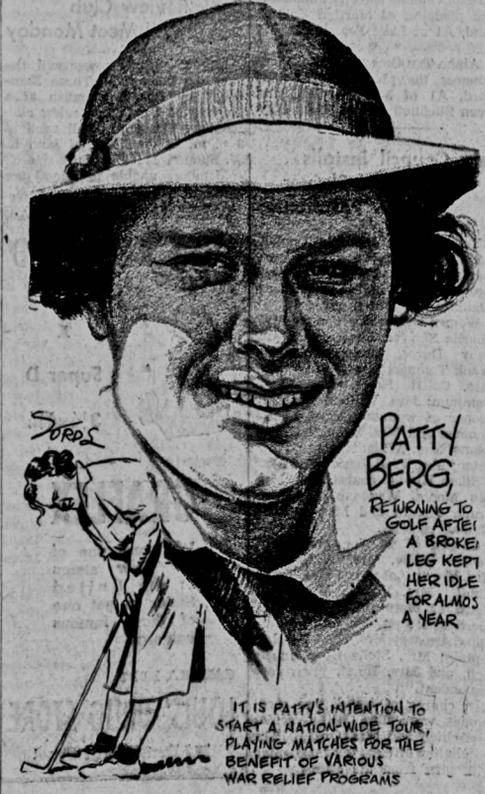

Clevenger said the Reds would arrive on the Indiana campus about March 15 and would remain here until April 10. The full Indianapolis squad will not arrive until April 5 although battery men will report earlier.

Clevenger also disclosed that prior to signing the Reds and the Indians, the university also had negotiated with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Pittsburgh Pirates, Cleveland Indians and several American association clubs.

The Reds and the Indians will use Jordan field and a new baseball field adjacent to the fieldhouse. In bad weather they will do their practicing in the fieldhouse.

The fieldhouse is 200 feet wide and 300 feet long and is large enough to accommodate two practice fields and two batting cages. It was built in 1928.

closed, and spent months of enforced idleness. Ben Jones was determined not to keep the horse on a shelf this year, and decided to ship him to New Orleans once the ban on pleasure driving forced the closing of both Florida tracks.

Ben Jones went ahead to New Orleans by automobile yesterday, leaving Whirlaway's pet handler, Pinky Brown, in charge of the horses sent along in last night's shipment.

Other Calumet horses will be sent to New Orleans today, leaving 30 thoroughbreds here in charge of Jimmy Jones.

Jones said Whirlaway, a regular "work horse," will run two or three times at New Orleans.

About 1,200 horses were stranded here by the Florida shutdown, and most of them will have to remain until spring when northern tracks open.

Illinois Grid Guard Chosen Mat Captain

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Alex Agase, guard on the Illinois football team last fall, yesterday was elected captain of the university's wrestling team, succeeding Norman Anthonisen who entered the navy.

As a sophomore last year Agase placed third in the heavyweight class in the Big Ten wrestling meet.

CHICAGO (AP)—Teams of the National football league played before a greater attendance in 1942 than in any previous year since the professional sport was organized.

Elmer Layden, commissioner of professional football, announced yesterday that spectators totaled 1,725,764 despite the uncertainties of the war and the most wretched weather conditions in ten years.

Fourteen charity games drew 453,652 fans and pre-season exhibitions were played before 156,958 more. The remaining 1,115,154 attended the regularly scheduled contests of the championship season—total that was six percent less than the record number of games the previous season.

However, sixteen of the 1942 games, 30 percent of the regular schedule, were played in severe, adverse weather. The weather was so bad on one occasion that a game had to be postponed.

Commissioner Layden said that a better break from the elements in any of five or six of these games would have set the 1942 attendance above the all-time high of 1,188,616, for the regular schedule, established in 1941.

7 Major Lettermen On Swimming Team

Season's First Meet Just 2 Weeks Away With Badger Squad

Seven major lettermen, at least one for every event except diving, will be the balance wheels of the University of Iowa's swimming team this season.

With the opening meet with Wisconsin only two weeks distant—here Jan. 30—Coach David Armbruster Thursday summarized the prospects for his twenty-eighth year of coaching. "We won't be as formidable as in recent years. But the senior veterans and sophomores may show unexpected strength as the season progresses," the coach said.

Sprint Vets Return
He thinks highly of his sprint squad, headed by Captain Clyde Kennitz of Chicago, Ill., who was third in the Big Ten 50 yard dash and fifth in the 100 yard dash last season. Vito Lopin of Rockford, Ill., is another speedy man, while the third veteran is Clarence Moore of Clinton, now shifted from the distance events to the sprints.

Kennitz was second Iowa high scorer last year and with Lopin was a member of the Hawkeye 400-yard relay team which placed fourth in the national collegiate title event.

Bob Becker of Clinton is a senior back-stroker who was third among Iowa scorers in 1942, and Nick Karaffa of Trenton, N. J., heads the breast stroke group. Distance veterans are Dale Lounsbury of Oskaloosa and Jim Forrest of Kansas City, Mo.

Some Good Sophs
Coach Armbruster expects numerous sophomores to develop well. These include John Gottsch, Shenandoah, back stroke; Hubert Norman, Clinton, distance; Lyle Brown, Clinton, diver; Ernest Stranglen, Omaha, Neb., breast stroke; and Jim Craiger, Des Moines; Donald Holmwood, Buffalo, N. Y., and Dan Parry, Burlington, sprints.

The Hawkeyes have dual meets with Wisconsin, Northwestern, Michigan, Michigan State and Minnesota, as well as the Big Ten and National Collegiate events.

U-High Meets Monticello Five Here Tonight

University high's undefeated Bluehawks will have an opportunity to surge into undisputed lead in the Eastern Iowa conference when they tackle Monticello here tonight.

At present the Blues are tied with West Branch at two wins and no losses at the top of the loop. The West Branch quintet plays a non-conference foe tonight and a win for the Bluehawks will put them in the lead.

Monticello has a record of five victories as against three defeats for the season. Coach Alley's men have been working hard for the coming tilt and will be in top condition. The Blue attack will be built around Don Wagner and Jack Shay who have garnered 79 points between them for the three contests to date.

The Bluehawks will be after the fourth straight win when they face the Monticello quintet tonight and it will be the first game before the home fans in the '43 season.

During the past week the Blues have worked on offensive and defensive plays and looked well in both. The most pleasant note that was struck was Ed Smith hitting consistently on long shots from his back court position. If Smith and Bud Halvorsen, in the other guard slot, can connect on long attempts they will keep the visitors in plenty of trouble.

Jack Shay can be depended upon to play his consistent game at the pivot post. Shay is a rugged lad who can hit the rim with either hand and his rebound work is one of the highlights on the team's work.

In their first conference tilt against Tipton the Blues were faced with a team who used set plays and their defense simulated their offensive work. In this game Coach Alley's five tore the defense apart and while on the defensive smeared the opposition's plays before they could materialize.

Durocher Gets Order To Report for Army Physical Examination

NEW YORK (AP)—The army beckoned for another baseball headliner yesterday with a draft board notice to Leo (The Lip) Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, to report for a physical examination.

The call was announced by Branch Rickey, president of the and Philadelphia in Brooklyn Nov. 15.

Green Bay's annual visit to Chicago to engage the Bears topped attendance for the regular scheduled contests, drawing 42,787 to Wrigley field on Nov. 15.

Little Hawks Tackle Dubuque Five Tonight In Conference Battle

Outcome Determines Which School Retains Second Place Berth

If yesterday's practice is any indication, City high will be a big headache to Dubuque as the Little Hawks invade the Ram camp tonight. A loss to either team will mean a chance for the conference championship is pretty slim.

Dubuque had gone undefeated until last week when Davenport took a 46 to 27 count over the Rams. The Blue Devils are the only conference five to trip the Hawkeyes, so tonight's contest should be evenly matched.

Iowa City looked plenty rugged yesterday as Coach Fran Merten ran his Red and White cagers through their paces. Work this week has been centered around shooting and defensive drills and the first stringers got a good dose of defense as well as a touch of offense yesterday.

Dave Danner and Dale Sleichter time after time slipped under the defensive guards to score consistently on set-ups, and center, Bob Roth, and guards, Bucky Walter and Bill Sangster, dropped them in from far out and controlled most of the rebounds.

Curly Brack, George Mellicker and Dick Lewis saw a bit of action in the first string lineup by replacing Sleichter, Roth and Walter.

After looking down the Mississippi Valley conference scoring column, the Mertenmen will undoubtedly keep close tab on Bill Pender, the Rams' center who is the leading loop scorer with 46 points. Danner runs a close second, however, with 45 points.

Both quintets have chalked up 134 points in their four league tilts, but Dubuque has had 109 points scored by opponents and Iowa City 94.

City high is already turning its eyes towards the encounter with Davenport next week and Dubuque travels to Freeport, Ill., tomorrow night for a non-conference game.

Dodgers, at his weekly press conference.

Durocher, who will be 38 years old next July 23, at present is undergoing a checkup at Mayo clinic, which he has visited annually for several years.

Rickey reached him there by telephone to inform him of the notice from the Brooklyn draft board, No. 133, where several of the Dodgers registered, and Durocher said he would take the examination when he returned to his home in St. Louis.

The notification apparently took Rickey by surprise and he told newspapermen he had no plans about a manager.

Injuries Hinder St. Pat's Again

Irish Will Play West Branch With Connell As Doubtful Starter

The St. Patrick's cagers press releases, which have sounded more like hospital reports than sports stories for the last three weeks, once again feature the physical side as Billy Connell, co-captain and star guard, is a very doubtful starter for tonight's game with West Branch.

Connell suffered a dislocated vertebra in last Monday night's immaculate Conception game. Whether he will see action tonight depends on a doctor's report which will come sometime this morning.

In case Connell is not ready for this game, Phil McLaughlin, Coach Cliff Kritt's newly-discovered offensive star, may be shifted from the front court to replace him.

Forward Jim Russell, completely recovered from an ankle injury, center Bob Connell, and guard Don Gatens will be in the starting lineup for sure tonight.

If Connell is out, Early Murphy will be back in his former starting forward position. If Connell plays, McLaughlin will handle the forward job.

This will be the season's second meeting of the two squads, West Branch having knocked the Irish from the unbeaten class last December 11 with a one point victory on the Bears' home court.

Playing at home, the Irish rank as favorites to top the West Branch cagers, although veteran forwards Bill Anderson and Don Rummells have given the Bears one of the strongest teams in this section.

Coach Kritt expects McLaughlin to take over the team's scoring burden tonight. The big forward looked very good in last Monday's game at Cedar Rapids and has been improving daily in practice sessions.

If McLaughlin starts to hit, it will take some of the burden off sophomore center "Doc" Connell, who has been the team's leading scorer to date.

Hancher Sees Old Classmate Assume Office

DES MOINES (AP)—Former classmates of Gov. Bourke B. Hickel at the State University of Iowa were here today to witness his inauguration.

They included Dr. Virgil M. Hancher, now president of the university; Francis H. Uriell of Evanston, Ill., an attorney in Chicago, and Justices Frederick M. Miller and John M. Mulrooney of the Iowa supreme court.

Miller has been a member of the court since 1939, while Mulrooney took office only this month.

Uriell, formerly of Elkader, and Hancher were members of the same Chicago law firm before Hancher became head of the university.

Hickel, Uriell and Miller, and Mason Ladd, now dean of the law college at the university, were roommates during their last year of study at Iowa City. Dean Ladd also had planned to be here today but was called to Washington unexpectedly.

great southern offensive if forces were available.

Tremendous Manpower Drive

A possible explanation of the German high command's reasons for picturing the Russian offensive as on a far greater scale than Moscow has claimed is to be found in reports from neutral observation posts of a tremendous new drive to comb out the last man of available German manpower to meet the crises in Russia and Africa. The whole weight of the Nazi home-front propaganda machine has been thrown into it, calling for a new German "total war" effort.

A further significant element of that recruiting campaign is that Berlin radio and press spokesmen now admit some reserves in Russia where a week or two ago they brushed aside Moscow versions of the Don-Caucasus battles and of favorable developments in the center in the Veltke Luki operations as untrue or unimportant.

That is a complete about-face from previous Nazi practice in reporting on events in Russia to the home front. Hitler mouthpieces are now calling on the German people to accept new burdens and hardships cheerfully to match the sufferings and sacrifices of the troops in Russia.

Whatever the actual Russian strategy or the nature or purpose of Red offensive operations unadmitted by Moscow in the Leningrad vicinity, near Lake Ilmen and now around the Voronezh anchor which Berlin records, all three are potential if not yet actual new theaters of Red action. Russian cracking of the eastern spearhead of the Leningrad siege ring, the Neva-Lake Ladoga sector, would finally lift that siege. It could free part at least of the powerful Leningrad garrison for attack operations southward on the Volkhov to link up with the Lake Ilmen front.

It seems clear that Russian forces presumably west of Staraya Russia, south of Lake Ilmen are within 100 miles or so of the Rostov junction, rail pivot of the whole northern flank of the enemy line. It is as vital to German communications on the Baltic flank as is Rostov to the logistics of the Caucasus. Hitler could deal a dazing blow there to warrant a major Russian offensive on the Lake Ilmen sector sooner or later.

Voronezh on the Don is no less the logical site for another Russian jump-off southwestward whenever forces are available. Its stout defense last summer to keep it out of enemy hands gave that position potential attack values in the eyes of the Russian command.

'Liberalism Dead Until Ideals Redefined'—Prof. T. Anderson

'Nineteenth Century Revolution' Subject Of Instructor's Talk

By SHIRLEY McKIM
The old, middle class liberalism, outcome of a thousand-year revolution of the middle classes, came to an end three quarters of a century ago because its ends were achieved. It will not revive until it "comes once more to represent the search for an... unattained goal by a class of people who are determined to reach it," Prof. Troyer S. Anderson of the history department said last night in a Baconian lecture.

Speaking on "The Nineteenth Century Revolution," Professor Anderson declared: "Liberalism will not revive until its ideals are redefined in terms of the present obstacles to be removed, rather than in terms of obstacles which had disappeared by the middle of the nineteenth century."

In his lecture, Professor Anderson explained what happened to historic liberalism and why the general failure to appreciate the events leading to its decline tend to produce a misunderstanding of the history of the nineteenth century. This misunderstanding has resulted in a confusion in contemporary thinking and crippled our ability to close our ranks against the dangers of our own day, he believes.

"The average man—and this includes most scholarly men as well—generally thinks of the nineteenth century as substantially a single unit of history," the speaker said. Generally speaking, it was a period of peace. That peace gave an appearance of unity to the whole period.

Too, the amazing technological improvements of the industrial revolution burst upon the public consciousness suddenly and helped to convince the average person that he was living in an age different from any other in history. The new Darwinian science painted a picture of man in relation to the universe which made previous pictures obsolete.

Most important of all the unifying factors was political liberalism, evidenced in England, France, Italy and the countries of central Europe. The feudal restrictions upon commerce and industry had nearly everywhere been routed. A more sympathetic and enlightened attitude toward the problems of the industrial worker brought about social legislation.

World War I did not destroy the hopes of liberals, although it shocked those who had been naive enough to imagine that the danger of a general war had been averted. The collapse of Prussian Junkerdom, Russian czarism and the Hapsburg dynasty appeared to guarantee that, as soon as the exhaustion of war was over, liberal progress ought to be more rapid and brilliant than ever.

"The story of the disappointment of that hope is too recent, too familiar and too disheartening to need retelling," Professor Anderson said. "It is a story of calamitous retreat from the hopes of 1918 to the grim realities of the world today; it is the story of the lives of all of us."

Because we possess a wealth of candidates for the title of scapegoat, upon whom to blame the collapse of our faith, we are blind to the fact that our hopes were built upon a shallow and inadequate interpretation of the history of the nineteenth century, he added.

The remainder of Professor Anderson's lecture was devoted to tracing the growth of, and the historical reasons for, liberalism. He pointed out that the nineteenth century, in spite of its outward appearance, was not a period of unity, but that in reality it was definitely divided during its middle years. This division he termed "the end of the thousand-year revolution of the middle class."

Fundamental reason for the end of this revolution was that by about 1850, the middle class had either attained its ends—control of commerce and industry—or had so nearly done so that the revolutionary urge began to die.

"The dynamic drive which, for nearly a millennium, had shaped the destinies of western European institutions, ended," the speaker said.

"Where we are tending today, what is the exact nature of the obstacle to be overcome and what is the identity of the class which will lead the assault on it, it is difficult to say," Professor Anderson concluded.

Chaplain to Speak
Chaplain Robert M. Schwyhart of the Pre-Flight school, will speak at the meeting of the Masonic Service club at noon today. The chaplain, who has the rank of a lieutenant, has seen action in the Pacific area.

Former Students—Serving the Nation—Former Iowa Citizens

LIEUT. JONATHAN E. BOGGS

LIEUT. LEO F. PAUL

LIEUT. WILLIAM HENRY

FLIGHT OFFICER LINDER

Two former university students and a university graduate have received their wings in the army air corps at the Gulf Coast army air force training center at Randolph field, Tex.

Lieut. William Henry attended the university from 1939-41. Walter Jay Linder, who was appointed to the newly created rank of flight officer, was a student in 1938.

First Lieut. Leo F. Paul, who received his B.A. degree in 1936, is a former resident of Iowa City.

Lieut. Johnathan E. Boggs, a former student at the university, was graduated yesterday from Brooks field observation school in Texas as a qualified aerial observer.

His training included courses in photography, radio and visual communications, photo interpretation, combat intelligence and camouflage detection.

Boggs, also a former student at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, Ark., enlisted in October, 1940. He attended officers candidate school in Miami Beach, Fla., where he received his commission in the air corps.

Four Iowa City young men were graduated recently from the San Antonio aviation cadet center pre-flight school in San Antonio, Tex.

Rev. J. B. Code, New Chaplain, Will Meet Newman Club Sunday

The Rev. Joseph B. Code, who arrived recently as chaplain for Catholic students and adviser for Newman club, will be introduced to members of Newman club at a general meeting to be held at 7:30 p. m. in the pine room of Reich's cafe Sunday.

A new vice-president will be elected to succeed Margaret Kane of Lawler, who was graduated mid-year.

Other matters of business to be considered at this meeting will be a financial report to be given by the club treasurer, Larry Barrett, D2 of Bettendorf, and a report of the social program for the present semester to be given by Catherine Harmeier, A3 of Iowa City, social chairman.

An announcement will also be made of plans for a series of discussion groups within the club by Mary Modesta Monnig, A2 of Iowa City, discussion group chairman.

Presiding at the meeting will be Ed Bowman, A3 of Downey, club president. All Catholic students and members of Newman club are invited to attend the meeting.

Before the meeting a supper will be held in the same room. Any Catholic student or Newman club member wishing to attend the supper may make reservations by calling Catherine Harmeier, 4472, or Mary Modesta Monnig, 2745. The supper will begin at 6:30 p. m. Dancing will follow the meeting.

I.C. Women Hear Details Of FBI Jobs

More than a score of women, many of whom were university students, expressed an interest in the clerical positions now open with the federal bureau of investigation in Washington, D. C., when interviewed at the Iowa City post office by James G. White and Ralph Harmon, special FBI agents.

Recent legislation has raised the entrance salary for general office and clerical work to $145 a month. Secretarial and typing positions are also open to women who can take dictation at the rate of 120 words a minute and type 55 words a minute. The salary for such positions is approximately $175 monthly.

Although the majority of jobs are in Washington, D. C., there are some stenographic jobs in field offices, and those who meet the typing and shorthand requirements can state a preference. The agents stated that college education is definitely an asset and the jobs are permanent. Women desirous of such employment may apply anytime at 739 Insurance Exchange building in Des Moines. No prior appointment is necessary.

Two Seek Divorces On Charge of Cruelty

Two divorce cases were filed in the district court this week, R. Nelson Miller, clerk of court, stated. Marianne Munt filed suit against Duane C. Munt on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. Arthur O. Left is representing the plaintiff.

Zereda VanDeusen filed suit against George L. VanDuesen on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. Arthur O. Left is representing the plaintiff.

Paralysis Drive Started Here

Nurses Will Employ Sister Kenny Method In Treating Children

Every Johnson county citizen will be contacted by direct mail during the next two weeks as Iowa's 1943 drive to reduce the threat of infantile paralysis to boys and girls of the state gets underway.

The campaign will continue from Jan. 15 to 30, and will be materially different from the infantile paralysis campaign which Iowa has conducted in former years," Atty. William F. Morrison, chairman of the Johnson county drive, said yesterday.

County to Send Nurse
This year each county will endeavor to raise sufficient funds to send a nurse for a course of training in the Sister Kenny method of treating infantile paralysis, according to Morrison. The plan is for the nurse to return to her own county after completing the course, where she will be available instantly to care for children stricken with paralysis.

"Funds raised during the drive will also be allocated to continue research work toward other important methods in combating the disease," Morrison explained.

Achieves Remarkable Results
The Sister Kenny method has achieved remarkable results at a clinic directed by Iowa Lutheran hospital in Des Moines. Of the 35 children who have been treated there since last July 29, 22 have been discharged as cured.

This type of therapy, developed by an Australian nun and involving the use of hot packs and the technique of muscle reduction, has also been used successfully in other hospitals, both in this country and abroad.

"This is a remarkable record and shows what can be accomplished for Johnson county boys and girls if we have the funds necessary for doing the job," Morrison said.

Blonde Betty Hansen Describes Happenings At Hollywood Dinner Party Last September 27

FLYNN—

jection to the act of intimacy, Miss Hansen replied, "No, sir."

Shortly after the alleged intimacy in an upstairs bedroom of the Bel Air home of Fred McEvoy, former British sportsman, she said, Flynn chatted with McEvoy in French—"and I couldn't understand what they said"...

She said she asked Flynn, "Do you swear to see me tomorrow?" and that Flynn swore he would...

No Opinion
Concerning whether she wanted the film favorite to remove her slacks, Betty said: "I didn't have any opinions."

But she was positive about one thing: she thought Flynn was helping her to bed only because she had become ill at the dinner party downstairs a little earlier.

Flynn's attorney, Jerry Giesler, demanded on cross-examination: "You just thought, 'This nice man is going to help me undress and lie down because I am sick at my stomach?'"

"That's right," declared Betty, former Lincoln, Neb., schoolgirl. The prosecution objected violently to defense efforts to question Betty on her movements between the time she left the home of her sister, Mrs. Patricia Marsden, after an argument Sept. 14, and the night she met Flynn.

But Superior Judge Leslie E. Still overruled the objection, and Betty recalled that on a Hollywood street a man named Sammy accosted her, took her to a hotel, paid a week's rent and twice gave her money for food.

Moved Elsewhere
Later, she said, she got a job as a waitress and took a room elsewhere.

Asked if she ever discussed with Armand Knapp, a friend who introduced her to Flynn, "that you were to play up to Flynn and drink with him?" Miss Hansen replied "yes."

"And even have intercourse?" Giesler asked.
"No."

Flynn is charged with three counts of statutory rape—one involving Miss Hansen and the other two involving Peggy La Rue Satterlee, 16, Hollywood entertainer, who says she was twice intimate with her aboard his yacht Sirocco last Aug. 3.

wiping his forehead and begged: "Please autograph it for me." Albums, handkerchiefs and pieces of paper were thrust at Flynn for him to sign.

'Mrs. Miniver' Voted Top Film of 1942

'How Green Was My Valley' Rated Second In Nation-Wide Poll of 592 Critics

By CHESTER B. BAHN

NEW YORK—"Mrs. Miniver," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's dramatic masterpiece, directed by Sidney Franklin and produced by William Wyler with a glove-fitting cast topped by Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon and Teresa Wright, is rated 1942's No. 1 feature release by American critics and reviewers for press and radio in the 21st annual Film Daily "Ten Best Pictures" poll.

Five hundred and fifty-five ballots were cast for the brilliant screen adaptation of Jan Struther's best-seller in the coast-to-coast and border-to-border contest, which saw the critics of 524 newspapers, magazines, wire services and syndicates and the film commentators of 68 radio stations participating. Total number of participants in the poll thus was 592, a new high.

"Mrs. Miniver," which finished with a 55-vote lead over its nearest rival, received ballots of 490 of the 524 press critics and of 65 of the 68 radio commentators, analysis of the "returns" discloses. Invitations to station commentators were extended for the first time this year.

Second place in the race for critical laurels in the 21st yearly symposium went to Twentieth-Century-Fox's magnificent "How Green Was My Valley," produced by Col. Darryl F. Zanuck and directed by Com. John Ford, which polled an even 500 ballots. "Mrs. Miniver" and "Valley" took early leads and the two pictures fought it out until the final ballots had been tabulated and audited. The polls closed on Dec. 31.

The other eight outstanding 1942 features, as determined in the pioneer national contest, in order of selection follow: "Kings Row," "Wake Island," "Pride of the Yankees," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "One Foot in Heaven," "Suspicion," "Woman of the Year" and "Pied Piper."

Under the contest rules, only features released for exhibition between Nov. 1, 1941 and Oct. 31, 1942 were eligible. In recent years, a further point of eligibility has specified general release. The fact that some companies no longer set general release dates and others give pictures extensive bookings prior to general release made it advisable to waive the general release requirement. However, pictures presented on a roadshow basis—advanced admissions—and specially shown were not considered unless their respective distributors believed there had been sufficient playdates to insure a fair vote. Thus, such pictures as "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "Eagle Squadron" were not submitted. Important pictures released in November and December commonly do not reach a maximum national audience until much too late to permit them a fair break in the competition—hence the Oct. 31 time limit. That explains the omission of "In Which We Serve," "Random Harvest," "For Me and My Gal" and "Road to Morocco" to cite typical examples, from the roster of eligibles.

A total of 174 pictures were nominated by the producers-distributors for critic and commentator consideration; however, the voters were not bound by the list and were permitted to cast ballots for any other pictures which they fancied, subject only to the specified 12-month period.

The 555 votes cast for "Mrs. Miniver" compares with 452 for GWTW last year when 548 critics and reviewers participated. In 1940, "Rebecca" topped the "Ten Best" with 391, while in 1939 "Good-bye, Mr. Chips" polled 472 to set a record up to that time.

Warner Bros. with three features leads the "Ten Best" procession, taking the distinction from Metro which claimed it for four successive years. Metro, Twentieth-Fox and RKO Radio each have two features on the current list, with Paramount supplying the tenth. One of RKO's was contributed by a so-called outside producer, Samuel Goldwyn.

The productions listed on the honor roll are, in order: "Fantasia," "Reap the Wild Wind," "My Sister Eileen," "Holiday Inn," "Tortilla Flat," "This Above All," "The Talk of the Town," "The Major and the Minor," "Now, Voyager," "Tales of Manhattan," "Bambi," "Hold Back the Dawn," "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," "The Magnificent Ambersons," "Take a Letter, Darling," "Joe Smith, American," "Ball of Fire," "The Male Animal," "In This Our Life," "The Moon and Sixpence," "The Gold Rush," "Sullivan's Travels," Louisiana Purchase," "Desperate Journey," "Moonlight," "My Gal Sal," "Saboteur," "This Gun for Hire," "Mister V," "The War Against Mrs. Hadley," "Babes on Broadway," "The Gay Sisters," "The Great Man's Lady," "My Favorite Blonde."

"Remember the Day," "Johnny Eager," "To Be or Not to Be," "Joan of Paris," "Target for Tonight," "Captains of the Clouds," "Somewhere I'll Find You," "To the Shores of Tripoli," "One of Our Aircraft is Missing," "The Remarkable Andrew," "Across the Pacific," "George Washington Slept Here."

"The Fleet's In," "Moscow Strikes Back," "Swamp Water," "The Vanishing Virginian," "The Invaders," "Rudyard Kipling's Jungle Book," "Roxie Hart," "Birth of the Blues," "They Died With Their Boots On," "The Chocolate Soldier," "Flying Tigers," "Wake Up Screaming," "Ten Gentlemen from West Point," "Crossroads," "Son of Fury."

To Give Love Toxicological Report Today

State Toxicologist Wilber J. Teeters, dean emeritus of the college of pharmacy, disclosed last night he would turn over his report on chemical analysis of the bodies of Randall C. Hansen and Darlene DeMuelenaere to County Coroner Frank L. Love this morning.

The coroner said an experiment was performed yesterday in the cabin where the 27-year-old Davonport medical student and 21-year-old Brooklyn, Iowa, nurse were found Monday afternoon.

According to the medical examiner, the room's gas heater, which was still burning when the bodies were discovered by the proprietor of the cabin camp, was lighted and allowed to burn for more than three hours.

Previous accounts of events surrounding discovery of the couple stated the temperature of the room was 110 degrees. Yesterday's experiment saw the temperature reach only 98 degrees.

On the whole, said Dr. Love, little was learned from the test. "If the (toxicologist's) laboratory tests don't show what caused the deaths, we'll be right back where we started," he declared. His verdict, added Dr. Love, will depend on the findings of these tests.
