Cut Rommel's Corridor Of Escape to 33 Miles

French Column Threatens End Of Mareth Line

Hint Major Offensive Planned at Conference Of High Military Men

LONDON (AP)—American troops were reported to have narrowed Marshal Erwin Rommel's escape corridor to 33 miles and a combined Giraud and De Gaulle French column threatened the southern end of his protective Mareth line yesterday as indications grew that the allies were beginning a major offensive in Tunisia.

Among these indications was a full-dress 48-hour military conference among the highest military officials of Britain and the United States which was concluded at Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters in north Africa.

The Algiers radio, as heard by Reuters, said American troops had reached Maknassy, only 33 miles from the Gulf of Gabes in an advance toward the rear of the Mareth line only 75 miles to the south-east.

BULLETIN WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt, following the Anglo-American war conference in north Africa, was disclosed officially last night to have stopped in Liberia and Brazil to greet the presidents of those two allied nations.

Simultaneously, the broadcast said, British troops to the north were showing marked activity in the Medjez-El-Bab and Bou Arada regions facing Tunis and Bizerte and a French communique announced that the Italian garrison had evacuated Gadames, in Tripolitania, some 195 miles south of the end of the fortified Mareth line, and that the fort had been occupied by the combined forces of Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles DeGaulle of the Fighting French.

The American thrust, obviously aimed at either Sfax or Gabes or at the coast between, put these troops in a position to sever the connection between Rommel to the south and the axis forces of Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim around Tunis and Bizerte to the north.

The radio broadcast said the enemy troops retreated to the west and a number of them were captured. Maknassy was the scene of an American raid early this week when the Americans answered a German dare to "come out and fight" and captured 80 prisoners.

The axis, apparently anticipating the all-out attack, put out reports through the Paris and Vichy radios saying that British-American forces concentrated in the regions of Medjez El Bab and Bou Arada already had "begun an offensive against the axis forward positions" in Tunisia and that in the southern sector strong American and French forces were massing for a companion offensive.

No such present activity was indicated from allied north African headquarters, the communique reporting that activity on the Tunisian front had been confined to patrolling.

The coordinated drives, which the enemy seemed to fear, would be aimed at cutting the axis corridor into three segments to prevent a full juncture of Field Marshal Rommel's army, retreating from Libya, with the Tunisian axis army of General von Arnim.

MacArthur Air Arm Smashes Timor Drome, Strafes Nipponese Float Planes Off Dobo

Long Range Fighters, Heavy Bombers Strike Enemy in Ten Places

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Friday (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's ever busy air arm has struck the Japs in 10 places, the moon communique reported today.

Long range fighters heavily strafed the Fuuloro airdrome on Portuguese Timor. In Binnin bay, an allied heavy bomber attacked a Jap merchant ship and shot down one of five Jap planes which attempted to intercept.

In the Arge island area, long range fighters strafed enemy float planes on the water off Dobo. One was destroyed. Jap ships in Open bay, New Britain, were strafed by an allied heavy bomber.

In New Britain's wide bay, an allied bomber scored near hits from a low altitude on a Jap cargo vessel and a nearby boat. It also strafed a coastal village.

At Gasmata, New Britain, a medium bomber raided the airdrome. The airfield at Cape Gloucester was attacked by a heavy bomber.

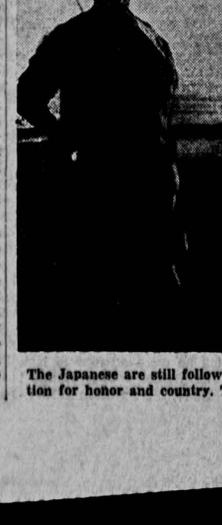

Over New Guinea, heavy bombers and attack planes struck at airdrome at Wewak. A heavy bomber raided the Finschhafen area and attacked planes struck at Mubo.

LONDON (AP)—Hundreds of tons of explosives and fire-bombs were delivered in blitz style on Duesseldorf Wednesday night by a heavy force of the biggest RAF bombers flying the night schedule of a stepped-up aerial offensive on Germany.

It was the 51st raid on the great industrial center. The air ministry, terming the attack "Duesseldorf's quickest blitz" said most of the thousands of bombs carried were dropped within 10 minutes of the 20-minute raid.

The report of one pilot indicated it was a "saturation raid" one so concentrated that it overwhelms the capacity of defenses to deal with the bombers. He noted that anti-aircraft fire, intense at first, gradually thinned out until there was little, if any, flak.

Beat Back Landing Party CHUNGKING (AP)—Shore defenders inflicted heavy losses on Japanese troops who landed from two warships on the coast of Kwangtung province near Swatow Jan. 21, the Chinese high command said yesterday. It reported that the Japanese withdrew to their ships immediately after the engagement.

Outwit Captors—3 Yanks Escape

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Three members of a B-26 Martin bomber crew told yesterday how they were shot down behind the German lines in Tunisia, overpowered their captors and made their way back to American lines after seven days.

They are Lieut. G. H. Ogburn of Meridian, Miss., the pilot; Sergt. H. D. Smedegar of Lewisville, Ind., the tail gunner, and Sergt. N. F. Parsons of Birmingham, Ala.

The three other members of the six-man crew became lost and have not been reported.

Met by Arabs The plane was shot down by a ME-109 on its first mission and crashed landed near a highway. Crawling from the wreckage the men saw motorcycles and trucks on the road but apparently the Germans had not noticed the plane.

Crews of Arabs gathered and a deal was made for a guide to take them back through the German lines.

They spent a night at a village, but as they started to leave the next day, they ran into a German command car. There was no chance of getting away without running a gantlet of machineguns so they came out quietly.

Machinegun Guard "The German in charge of the bunch frisked up and took our guns," Ogburn said. "He put all six of us in the back seat of his car and gave a machinegun to a guard in the front seat. It was a mistake to give the machinegun to the guard because I don't think he knew how to use it.

"As soon as we drove around a curve, one of the boys jumped the German driver and another guard. While they were being overpowered, Sergt. Smedegar was grabbing the wheel and gear shift lever to keep the car from turning over."

Dispose of Car The Germans were thrown out of the car and the crew sped up the mountain road. They pushed the car over a cliff and set out on foot.

For the next three days and nights they wandered through the hills. In a narrow gulch they ran into a German sentry who opened fire. In the ensuing excitement, Ogburn, Smedegar and Parsons became separated from the other three men.

After hiding for a while the three men continued their trek until they finally located the village occupied by the Americans.

Will Interview Applicants For Navy Airforce

Officers Here to Give Advice on Enlistment Plan for 17-Year-Olds

Lieut. Sherman S. Senne and Ens. Loren L. Hickerson, members of the St. Louis naval aviation cadet selection board, will be in Iowa City today and tomorrow to supply university and high school students with information concerning the new enlistment program for that branch of the service in which only 17-year-olds are eligible.

Ens. Hickerson is former editor-in-chief of The Daily Iowan. The beginning of enlistments in naval aviation for 17-year-old high school seniors, graduates and college students was recently announced by Lieut. Comdr. W. H. Gardner, officer in charge of the St. Louis board.

17-Year-Olds Lieutenant Senne and Ensign Hickerson will interview 17-year-old university men in the navy's new enlistment program from 9 to 12 o'clock tomorrow morning in room 102, university hall. It was announced yesterday by the office of student affairs.

Quotas under the new program will be limited, Lieutenant Commander Gardner said. Applicants must be endorsed as to all-round capabilities by a three-member faculty board of the high school or college through which enlistment is sought, he stated. High school graduates who are not now in college must secure the recommendation of the high schools from which they were graduated.

High School Seniors High school seniors who expect to graduate by June 30, and who rank in the upper one-half of their class, are eligible to apply, the officer said. College students who have not yet reached their 18th birthdays must rank in the upper two-thirds of their college class in order to be eligible.

Applicants who are enlisted will be sworn in as apprentice seamen, V-5, and must return to their high schools—in the case of high school seniors enlisted—to complete their (See INTERVIEWS, page 5)

Senators Deadlocked In Flynn Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the hottest controversies in years found senate supporters and opponents of President Roosevelt's nomination of Edward J. Flynn as minister to Australia almost deadlocked last night on the basis of membership polls.

An Associated Press canvass which reached 89 of the 96 members showed 31 senators publicly committed to vote against confirmation and 30 on record as supporting the president's choice.

NAZIS TRAPPED IN CORRIDOR

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's scattered Afrika Korps has, according to reports last night, drawn his line of retreat behind and perhaps beyond the Mareth line as shown in the map above. The Mareth line is approximately 60 miles from Tripoli, the Italian city which Rommel passed through hurriedly last week. Until yesterday it had appeared that contact had been lost between the British Eighth army and Rommel's line of retreat, but now the enemy's rearguard is again reported under heavy attack by the British.

Americans of Nippon Descent To Be Inducted in U.S. Army

To Form Voluntary Combat Unit of Loyal Japanese in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons reported yesterday he had been directed to induct 1,500 Americans of Japanese descent as volunteers in the U.S. army.

The statement by the commander of the Hawaiian department, U.S. army, followed word from Washington that the army had plans for a combat unit of loyal Japanese-Americans.

General Emmons, who also is military governor of Hawaii, said "these volunteers will be formed into combat units on the mainland and will, when trained, be sent into an active theater of operation."

"A large percentage of the officers will be citizens of Japanese ancestry. The places of induction, the age limit, and other information will be announced at the earliest practicable date."

"Once in a great while," the general said, "an opportunity presents itself to recognize an entire section of this country for its performance of duty. All people of the Hawaiian islands have contributed generously to our war effort. Among these have been Americans of Japanese descent."

"Their role has not been an easy one. Open to distrust because of their racial origin and discriminated against in certain fields of

General German Retreat in Caucasus Indicates Hitler Is Attempting to Abandon Army Before Reds Crush Last Remaining Outposts

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE Associated Press War Editor

The Germans in a general retreat beyond Voronezh on the front midway between Moscow and Stalingrad were abandoning last night vast and bloodily-won areas, and in the Caucasus they were falling back on such a scale as to strongly indicate that Hitler's one effort there now was to evacuate his army.

The Caucasian campaign was confronting him with a crisis; there were indications that perhaps his withdrawal had begun too late.

The midnight Soviet communique disclosed that an envelopment of two of the key railway points on the main line of exit to Rostov—Tikhoretsk and Kropotkin—was well advanced, and the Nazi Maikop oil field forces also were threatened.

It reported the reconquest of Kalinibolotskaya, 18 miles northeast of Tikhoretsk, and of Gulkevichi, only eight miles southeast of Kropotkin.

About Kropotkin, the towns of Otrada-Kubanskaya, 16 miles to the southeast, and Petropavlovskoye and Mikhailovskoye, respectively 27 and 30 miles to the south, also were regained.

Altogether, it was said, "many big points" in the north Caucasus were reconquered.

The final bankruptcy of what Stalin all along had called the real masterpiece of all Hitler's 1942 strategy and one to which even the Stalingrad drive was subordinate until events willed otherwise—to break through past Voronezh in an attempt to encircle Moscow—was acknowledged by the Nazi high command in this communique:

"Heavy fighting west of Voronezh (more properly northwest, it appeared) is continuing with undiminished vigor. After repulsing all enemy attempts at encirclement, the German troops, obeying orders, are withdrawing to a new, shortened line."

This was another in a series of retreats which were fast pushing Hitler's line back to where it was when he began his 1942 offensive and, by Russian accounts, was being accompanied by the frequent surrender of large German troop bodies.

The Russian push above and to the west of Voronezh was an extension of the existing offensive from an area south of that point upon Kharkov and Kursk.

The continuing loss of important German positions made it appear that the German Caucasian forces were withdrawing fast, although offering vigorous rearguard counterattacks, in an effort to reach Rostov lest the main Russian offensives engulf that key to all southern Russia and cut off escape save possibly via the Crimea.

In the Stalingrad trap, the few thousand axis troops surviving from what once had been an army of about 220,000 men appeared to be running short of ammunition and the end there was very near.

In north Africa the announcement of the allied war council coincided with the broadcast by the axis, apparently in anticipation of a major allied effort, of assertions that British and American forces about Medjez El Bab and Bou Arada before Tunis and Bizerte already had begun an offensive and that in the south of Tunisia American and French forces were being massed for another.

The Algiers radio itself, without confirmation from allied headquarters, announced that British and American forces were active in the Medjez El Bab and Bou Arada sectors.

In the west, the allied air offensive against Germany—which in the past few days had been vastly stepped up—went on in what is now virtually a 24-hour basis.

Overnight the British, who have more or less taken charge of night bombing attacks while the Americans carry the load in daytime, put down hundreds of tons of bombs on the big German industrial center of Duesseldorf. Six British bombers were lost; the indications were that hundreds participated.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

A Comprehensive Look at Allied Plans to Crush the Axis Powers

WASHINGTON—The Roosevelt-Churchill promise of heavy actions, great battles and smashing victories to come will naturally stimulate the inquisitive imaginations of Americans who, like myself, know nothing of the plans—and should know nothing.

Yet, a careful, comprehensive look by us at the obvious military situation may do much to clarify our thinking and expectations. Hitler's retreating troops in Russia are seeking refuge on a defensive line, probably half as short as they have occupied. This means they still hope to maintain a new defensive eastern front with half as many troops, half as much material.

As the Reds advance, they must run increasingly into the same obstacle which hindered Hitler, namely extensive communication lines. They too will have to stop somewhere to reorganize and repair communications. They have insufficient strength to run on into Germany.

Even if cracking morale demoralizes completely the Nazi forces on the eastern front, Hitler can still hope to maintain some sort of defensive line in Poland and the Balkans to protect the homeland and central European conquests temporarily.

So also in the west, Hitler has been pushing civilians out of Marseilles, apparently in anticipation that one of the Roosevelt-Churchill "heavy actions" will be an invasion of southern France. Indeed, Mr. Roosevelt hinted as much when he spoke of the liberation of France as a primary war aim.

Hitler could thus let Italy go and try indefinitely to hold the small, ill-gotten empire he has acquired in the center of the continent.

He may try invasion of Turkey, and has threatened invasion of Spain, but the latter prospect has faded since the bombing of Berlin showed the Spanish what would happen to their cities if they let Hitler in.

A Nazi air-borne invasion of the Suez from Crete is not unlikely.

Our immediate objective is the annihilation of Nazi forces in Tunisia. The British-American forces should accomplish this in coming weeks.

Then, invasion of Italy seems called for, rather than an attack on the southern coast of France, which would entail long communication lines. The taking of Sardinia and Sicily would probably have to come first.

The British have armies at home supposedly available for invasion. If Hitler moves too much to the south of France, they could conceivably strike directly against the formidable prepared fortresses across the channel, although Hitler has an army of 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 fairly good troops to dispose upon the western ramparts of his continental fortress.

A more enticing point for British invasion is Norway, and here is where the German radio has been expecting it.

Certainly Hitler, (now nearing defeat at such a rapid pace that Mr. Roosevelt talks of unconditional surrender as the only term of peace) is digging himself in on shorter last-ditch internal lines, letting Russia, and perhaps Italy, go. Unless he collapses before spring, these lines must be cracked by us to attain our terms.

The mourning in Nazi news and funeral dirges played over the Berlin radio are, unhappily, not the good signs of German cracking that the American public wants to believe them to be. If they were entirely authentic, the end, indeed, is at hand.

But the clever Nazi psychologists, apparently are using their military setbacks—which could not be concealed anyway—to frighten and shake their people into the last ditch stand that Hitler is preparing. The Goebbels gang seems to have ordained an era of publicity realism for the German people solely for their own fighting purposes, and not for peace.

As for the far east, it is common for American authorities to say that victory over the Japs will take years and years. It should not.

General MacArthur has pointed out one way to crush them more quickly. His public statements from New Guinea urge the adoption of new tactics to take far flung Jap island strongholds by air.

He wants, presumably, 1,000 big planes or more to carry 20 to 70 men each, and supply them, for the taking of Jap island centers rather than tedious amphibious warfare.

Other still better ways of hastening victory over the Japs are apparent here. MacArthur, naturally, is speaking of his own immediate problem after New Guinea, and is trying to promote more planes for his purposes.

But the Jap empire can be forced into submission most quickly if we strike at the source of their power rather than chasing them over vast jungle islands.

A heavy concentration of American plane power in China can cut the Jap line of supplies to its island bases and do more damage to Tokyo than the RAF has yet done to Berlin.

If we can arm the vast empire of China, the Japanese armies can be driven back into the sea, and once her military power is broken, the end of the war will not be years and years away.

This, the Roosevelt-Churchill, agreement, proposes to undertake.

Battle of Tunisia Must Be the Pivot Of Casablanca Meet

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Whatever the actual purpose of the follow-up conference of British and American military leaders with Generals Eisenhower and Alexander in the wake of Casablanca developments, it can hardly contribute to axis peace of mind.

Central Pivot

The coming crucial battle of Tunisia must be the central pivot of Casablanca war policy-making. Elimination of the last axis toehold in Africa is the quickest road to achieve any of the strategic objectives revealed or intimated in connection with the Casablanca session. Whether it is to help Russia to a victory that will destroy Nazi power again to take the offensive in the east, to curb the still grave U-boat menace to allied sea communications or to prepare an African springboard for allied invasion of the continent, Tunisia is the obvious hub of the global war wheel at this moment for the brightening allied cause.

Great Allied Nutcracker

Once the final siege lines in Tunisia are set, a junction of the east and west jaws of the great allied nutcracker around the siege perimeter will be established. At that moment if not before, military expediency would dictate the establishment of a single allied over-all command in Africa. Its job would be to oversee the siege operations and also to plan for subsequent action to consolidate the whole North African coast for later trans-Mediterranean offensive operations.

Ultimate Unification

It is possible that the sessions at Eisenhower headquarters were to implement promptly decisions taken at Casablanca both as to ultimate unifications of all allied forces in Africa under a supreme command and as to supply line priorities to be put into effect once a junction is made. Once the (See INTERPRETING, page 5)

Washington in Wartime U. S. Kitchen Census

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Not many weeks ago, this column suggested that wartime government agencies use the Census Bureau in assembling statistical information on which to base the big decisions that affect our daily lives.

It would be presumptuous to say that had anything to do with the O. P. A. decision to place its nation-wide sampling of food consumption, prices, shortages, etc., in the lap of the Census Bureau. It is, however, so far as I know, the first time that any war agency has called on Census for anything more than the now stale facts and figures that grew out of the 1940 enumeration.

MISS HARDING GETS A WELL-EARNED REST: HOLLYWOOD—Miss Ann Harding, who to these eyes is the truly beautiful woman of the movies, is enjoying a well-earned rest from the slings and arrows of outrageous and pitiless scenario-writers.

MISS HARDING IS NOT suffering nobly, bearing her woes in silence, nor giving her all with her chin held high. She is not protecting the weak, taking the rap for another's sin, nor paying the piper proudly for her own. She is merely being her natural, gracious self, with no burden on her frail, feminine shoulders other than the smart suits, gowns and furs which would have been worn by the wife of the former U. S. ambassador to Russia—Mrs. Joseph E. Davies.

THIS STROKE OF FORTUNE is due, of course, to the fact that for the first time Miss Harding is playing a real-life, living character, one who is a frequent visitor on the set where her husband's book, "Mission to Moscow," is being filmed. Scenarioists who tested the depths of the Harding capacity for nobility and suffering in her earlier films like "Holiday," "Devotion," and "East Lynne" must hew to the line in dealing with realities.

AND SO MISS ANN HARDING gets her holiday from war.

MISS HARDING, with her classic profile and ash-blond hair, is making no more attempt to look like Mrs. Davies, who is beautiful also, than Walter Huston is making to look like the former ambassador.

"I think there's been a mistake in casting," she says. "I think Mr. and Mrs. Davies should be playing themselves—they're both charming. But I'm playing the role as Mr. Davies described it: an ambassador's wife is a background figure. She is pleasant and agreeable, a good hostess and a pleasant guest. I say 'How do you do?' a great many times—I'm trying to use different inflections on it." She laughs: "I'm afraid it's a bit part, really. Mr. Huston and I go through the story, observing a lot of fine acting by other people, but we ourselves don't have much to do."

MISS HARDING, in gay good spirits, is living close to Hollywood again. For the duration, at least, she has given up the idyllic ranching life she and her husband, Werner Janssen, the symphony conductor and composer, used to enjoy.

IT'S A SHORT, c'est la guerre tale. "It was beautiful down there at Fall Brook on our 80 acres," she says, "and we were growing things and loving it. But suddenly Camp Pendleton was right beside us. We could scarcely get into our road for the jeeps, and bugs calls and building noises aren't exactly bird songs. The man of our couple got a job at camp for several times what we could pay, and then gasoline rationing ended our necessary commuting. The man is living on the place now, us, and we've bought a house in Beverly Hills."

IF ALL THIS means more Harding pictures, I say it's to the good.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

Are the Russians Only Second?

Leland Stowe, famous war correspondent, hit the American people right between the eyes during his talk in Des Moines the other night. But he might have gone further yet in explaining why the United States will "be on the spot" in 1943.

Mr. Stowe did a fine job of denouncing our isolationists, of praising the Russians, of getting across the idea to "local" minded mid-westerners that the defense of Stalingrad probably saved the lives of a million American soldiers. He reiterated the statement "We have not yet begun to fight a war," and pointed out the fact that the Russians, up till now, have been doing our fighting for us. Yet after paying tribute to the Soviet people, he made the mistake—a gross mistake if you look at things as they really are—of calling Russia the second greatest nation in the world, next to the United States.

Second to the United States in what, we ask. Bungling, red-tape and over-optimism? It is doubtful if they would rank second even in the category, for they have proven themselves capable against greater odds than we have ever faced or will ever face. As far as military accomplishment—and this does not mean "potentiality," a term which we Americans have grown altogether too fond of—is concerned, the Russians obviously rank far ahead of us. If they are second it is only because China, and not the United States, comes first.

When the Russians and the Chinese think of sacrifice it isn't in terms of coffee and sugar and gas. They went through that stage long ago. They think in terms of life lost—a brother, a father, a friend, an entire family perhaps. We have given them guns, but THEY have been the ones who killed German and Japanese soldiers with them. We have given them lend-lease, plenty of space in our press and an over-abundance of promises; but THEY have been the ones who actually fought Hitler with everything they had. We have, in other words, left the human element out of our thinking.

This condition wouldn't be so bad if it were only on the surface. But it goes deeper than that. It has become almost a fundamental attitude to regard the Russians as an impersonal whole; a great mass inching back and forth across the battlefield in an effort to destroy an enemy of the United States, Great Britain, China and every other allied power.

This type of "local" thinking, this indifference, doesn't make you anxious to fight. It works the other way. It may also, with just as much ease, work the other way at the peace table. Who are we to attempt the running of a post-war world if we did not help to create it?

The best example of the Russian attitude as contrasted to the American, was summed up a few months ago during the visit of a young Russian girl—the member of a guerilla band—to the United States. She was introduced to numerous American girls her own age, many of them WAAC officers, but she told newspapermen they were strange to her because all they talked about was "lipstick and hair styles and the latest dresses." We wonder what she told Stalin about the American trend of thought when she returned to Russia.

'No Man Is an Atheist'

Applying the principle "No man is an atheist in a shell hole," the American Bible society has taken the same belief to the sea. It has placed 20,000 New Testaments in rafts and lifeboats. The Bibles have waterproof coverings that will serve to preserve them for days at a time even after they have been submerged in water.

Army and Navy chaplains report that the religious beliefs of our servicemen are exceptionally high. Voluntary services are well-attended and the men look forward to worship. This may be a reassuring sign, perhaps showing that the world may soon come out of its heathenish state and once more become pious.

In times of extreme mental or physical stress, men find that their religion is a type of relief or escape. We can all recognize the many evils and hardships of war but we may see an era of faith follow the conflict in which religion will again play a powerful role.

Honorary Cadet Colonel to Be Presented At 1943 Military Ball Tonight in Iowa Union

Bernie Cummins Band To Play for Dancing From 9 to 1 O'clock

A backdrop, picturing a cadet saluting a rank of cadets and a regimental flag, will set the mood for the annual Military Ball to be held tonight from 9 until 1 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union. An American flag and a regimental flag, crossed, blowing in the breeze, and emphasized by spotlights will decorate the balcony. Bernie Cummins and his orchestra will furnish the music for this affair sponsored by the military department.

Grand March

The grand march, scheduled for 10:15 p. m., will be made up of the five honorary cadet colonel candidates, their escorts and second semester seniors in advanced military. The march will precede presentation of the cadet colonel and the announcement of regimental promotions by Col. H. H. Slaughter, head of the military department.

The honorary cadet colonel and her four attendants, chosen by the men in advanced military, will be introduced. Candidates for the title of honorary cadet colonel are Kathleen Davis, C4 of Des Moines; Elizabeth Charlton, A4 of Manchester; Enid Ellison Cutler, A4 of Webster Groves, Mo.; Mary Louise Nelson, A4 of Laurens, and Ruth Smith, C4 of Iowa City.

Khairon Rummels

Khairon Rummels, C4 of Iowa City, chairman of the dance, will escort Dorothy Anne Kohl, A4 of Des Moines. She will wear a dress of white silk jersey, fashioned with a bodice top shirred skirt and accented by a jade necklace. William Bliss, M3 of Ames, will be accompanied by his wife, who has chosen a black taffeta gown complemented by a white fur jacket.

Barbara Kent will be the guest of John Greenleaf, M3 of Centerville. Her fitted gown of royal blue silk, styled with a round neckline and short sleeves, is contrasted by a red jerkin, decorated with gold beads.

Stephen Slaughter

Stephen Slaughter, A4 of Iowa City, will escort Patriciaanne Baldwin, A3 of Iowa City. She will wear a formal of coronation blue taffeta, trimmed in velvet.

Accompanied by Duane Carson, A3 of Iowa City, Margaret Anne Rivers, A3 of Topeka, Kan., will wear a gown fashioned with a black velvet bodice, trimmed with gold sequins, and a bouffant net skirt. Her accessories will be of gold.

Max Landes

Rose Gordon, A2 of Council Bluffs, will be the guest of Max Landes, A4 of Marshalltown. Her plaid taffeta gown, styled with a sweetheart neck, is emphasized by a dark red velvet jacket. With it she chosen white accessories.

Robert Holloway, C4 of Iowa City, will escort Ethel Martens of Center Point. She will wear a dress designed with a black and white draped silk skirt, and a white top highlighted with sequins.

Other committee members include Alfred Holmberg, E4 of Glenbrook, Conn.; George Hopley, C4 of Atlantic; James Forrest, C3 of Paola, Kan., and James Kosar, E4 of Nevinville.

Chaperons

Chaperoning the affair will be Col. and Mrs. Slaughter, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. M. W. Hall, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. W. L. Smith, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Emery Wells, Maj. and Mrs. Charles H. Obye, Maj. and Mrs. Earl O. Culver, Capt. and Mrs. Glenn R. Dixon, Capt. and Mrs. Francis A. Nolan, Capt. and Mrs. William A. McKee, Lieut. Kenneth K. Bennett and Lieut. and Mrs. Guy W. Johnson.

Prof. Orvis Irwin Publishes Pamphlet

"How to Care for Children During an Air Raid," a pamphlet written by Prof. Orvis C. Irwin of the child welfare department, has recently been published by the Iowa child welfare research station at the university.

The pamphlet is based on Prof. Irwin's lectures to mothers in connection with a civilian defense neighborhood project in Iowa City. Because there have been many requests for this material in written form, the child welfare research station has included it in its regular pamphlet series.

Students and parents should find this pamphlet of value in preparing to meet problems of children during air raids. Subjects discussed include: Preparing the safety room, practicing the air raid drill, supervising children during the raid, and observing effects after the raid.

Kappa Beta Sorority Plans Bobsled Party

A bobsled party will entertain members and guests of Kappa Beta sorority Sunday between 7 and 8:30 p. m. The group is to meet at the Christian church about 6:30, and the sled will leave at 7. Should bad weather conditions prevail, members are asked to contact the party chairman, Thelma Strubhar, A3 of Thayer, at 4825.

Y. M. C. A. Speaker

DANIEL HUGHES

'Y' Student Secretary To Address Members, Friends at Meeting

A general Y. M. C. A. meeting for "Y" members and their friends will be held in conference room number two in Iowa Union at 4:10 this afternoon.

Daniel Hughes, student secretary of the north central area of Y. M. C. A., who is visiting the campus organization today through Sunday, will be the guest speaker. Khairon Rummels, C4 of Iowa City and president of Y. M. C. A., will outline the program for this semester. General election of officers for the 1943-44 school year will be held.

"Y" members will present an entertainment program and refreshments will be served.

Old Capitol Auxiliary Installs 17 Officers At Regular Meeting

Installation of 17 new officers preceded the business meeting and social hour held Wednesday at 8 p. m. in Odd Fellows hall by Old Capitol Auxiliary No. 29, L. A. P. M.

Mrs. R. W. Hughes was named president. Other officers chosen were Mrs. L. R. Morford, vice-president; Mrs. W. J. Phelps, secretary; Mrs. Estelle Gilbert, treasurer; Peisis Sheldon, chaplain; Mrs. Carrie Fryauf, past president; Mrs. E. J. Foida, flagbearer, and Mrs. John Kadlec, inside sentinel.

Officers were installed by H. H. Batterson, and Mrs. Ruth Neff of Cedar Rapids, past president of the Rebekah Assembly of Iowa, witnessed the initiation ceremonies as a guest.

The past president's pin was presented to Mrs. Fryauf by Mrs. Kershner, and a gift from the auxiliary was presented to Mrs. Orr as inspector. During the meeting the charter was draped for Mrs. Caroline Darby, who died recently.

Committee members serving refreshments during the social hour were Mrs. Fryauf, Mrs. S. A. Fitzgarrald, Mrs. Kershner and Mrs. Kimmel.

Plans for a card party Feb. 17 are being made now by a committee of which Mrs. Fitzgarrald is chairman.

Basketballers To Have Tea

A basketball club tea will be held today at 4 o'clock in the social room of the women's gymnasium. Teams made up of club members will be announced and captains elected. Helen Cook, A3 of Booneville, president, requests old and new members to be present.

New members recently elected are: Merrilee Newell, A2 of Woodward; Jean Koenig, C3 of LeMars; Marilyn Schrimper, A2 of Cedar Rapids; Dorothy Mohr, G of Alhambra, Calif.; Florence Stolte, A1 of Lowden.

Margaret Mott, A1 of Marion; Jo Lafler, G of Warsaw, Ind.; Margaret Macomber, A1 of Olin; Geraldine De Spiegelare, A2 of Batavia; Jesse May Nielsen, A1 of Amherst, S. D.; Dorothy Wards, A1 of Iowa Falls; Helen Michaelson, A1 of Hubbard; Gloria Zemanek, A3 of Cedar Rapids; Maxine Hunt, A3 of Eagle Grove.

Avon Florence Pingel, N3 of Iowa City; Ann Casey, A4 of Mason City; Andrea Pederson, C3 of Radcliffe; Bettie Lew Schmidt, A1, of Freeport, Ill.; Gayle Fisher, A3 of Clinton; Mary Ellen Zybelle, A3 of Lake City; Mary Phillips, A3 of Lynchburg, Va., and Eileen Culhane, A4 of Des Moines.

One of the annual services sponsored by W. R. A. is the weekly roller skating night. Ann Oliver, A3 of Schenectady, N. Y., is in charge of these sessions that are open to all university students, faculty, and staff for the small sum of 15 cents. Two sessions are held on the nights the gym is open; one at 7:30 and the other at 9:15. Dates on which roller skating will be held are Jan. 29, Feb. 6, Feb. 12 and Feb. 20.

Girls to Study Engineering

Three SUI Alumnae To Become 'Cadettes' For Plane Builders

Three former University of Iowa students, Marilyn MacDougall of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Jeanne Barto of Kansas City, Mo., and Eloise Lapp of Iowa City, have been accepted by Curtiss-Wright aeronautics corporation for training as engineering "cadettes."

The program was organized by the corporation to give technical training to women to help meet the war demand for engineers. Approximately 100 "cadettes" will be trained in each of eight colleges and universities throughout the country.

Miss MacDougall and Miss Lapp will take training at Purdue university, and Miss Barto will study at Iowa State college at Ames.

Training will start Monday and upon completion of the course, the "cadettes" will be assigned to one of the Curtiss-Wright plants and will receive salaries of $130 to $150 per month, depending upon the type of work performed.

During the training period, tuition, room and board will be paid for the "cadettes" by the corporation, and in addition they will receive salaries of $10 per week. The curriculum which they will study during the first semester of training consists of such courses as mathematics, elementary engineering physics, chemistry, applied mathematics, mechanical drafting, slide rule and shop practice. The second semester's course will include production engineering, design, electrical currents and systems, orientation and production terminology, aerodynamics and stress analysis.

Schools in which the training will be given include Cornell university, University of Minnesota, Northwestern university, University of Texas, Pennsylvania State college, Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, Iowa State college and Purdue.

PROF. B. SMITH HOPKINS

Illinois Professor To Talk at Meeting Of Chemical Society

Prof. B. Smith Hopkins of the University of Illinois will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Iowa section of the American Chemical society Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. His topic will be "Some Recent Advances in the Metal Industries."

Professor Hopkins received his Ph.D. degree in 1906 from John Hopkins university and has been an instructor in the University of Illinois since 1912.

He is best known for his research on the rare earths and uncommon elements and for his discovery of illinium. He is the author and co-author of several textbooks of chemistry and numerous articles in the technical press.

Professor Hopkins is a member of the American Chemical society and has served as secretary and chairman of its division of chemical education and as councilor-at-large. In 1933 he was president of the Illinois academy of science. He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of the Electrochemical society, and of the Philosophical society.

Ruth Prybil to Wed Ray Frank February 1

Mr. and Mrs. William Prybil, route 6 of Iowa City, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Ray Frank, son of Harrison Frank of Riverside.

The ceremony will take place at 4 p. m. Feb. 1 in the First English Lutheran church here with the Rev. Ralph M. Krueger officiating.

The bride is a graduate of Iowa City high school and the bridegroom was graduated from Sharon high school.

The couple will make their home on a farm near Sharon.

Journalism Fraternity Invites 16 Pledges

Sixteen men have been invited to become members of Sigma Delta Chi professional journalism fraternity, it was announced today by Secretary Dan Welch, A3 of Des Moines.

Initiation ceremonies will be held Sunday, Feb. 7, at 3 p. m. in East hall.

Professor Hopkins is a member of the American Chemical society and has served as secretary and chairman of its division of chemical education and as councilor-at-large. * Braves Make Room For Young Players
* Like Lefty Gomez

NEW YORK (AP)—It now seems clear why the Boston Braves turned loose those two ancient baseball mariners, Johnny Cooney and Paul Waner. They wanted to make room for some young fellows, such as Lefty Gomez.

Senior Gomez is only 32, at that, although you have been reading about him for so long you might have the idea he was pitching during the Boxer rebellion. That's partly due to the fact he was with the Yankees so long. And the Yankees, because of their excellence, got more publicity than the other clubs.

But an even more pertinent reason is Senior Gomez himself. The slender southpaw always has had the happy faculty of leaving a quotable trail of wisecracks in his wake. In other words, he is very, very funny, and not because he makes any obvious effort to be funny.

He just has one of those rare senses of humor which prevent their owners from taking anything too seriously. Particularly themselves. And it is this ability to poke fun at himself and otherwise enliven a game which too many of the chatters consider with ponderous, director's-room dignity that makes him one of our favorite ball players.

He has the nickname "Goofy," derived possibly from some of his witty sayings and boyish antics. As a matter of fact, we've always found him one of the most coherent of ball players, with a surprising mental agility. You always can get more than a well-modulated grunt when you address the senior.

A dugout rover instead of a squatter, Gomez is all over the place, interested in everything and everything. Particularly things beyond the rim of baseball, which may account for his almost childish fascination by the sight of an airplane. He was the original airplane-spotter and undoubtedly his rotating noggin as he followed the sky trail of a big mechanical bird suggested the first revolving gun turret.

But most of all he is interested in his hitting, which, in his case, is practically beyond the rim of baseball. He'll admit he can't hit an elephant with a paddle, and one of the still unsolved mysteries of the sport is how he happened to get four hits in one game last summer.

We still can see his air of utter frustration blended with speechless rage when Lee Grissom fanned him in an exhibition game at Tampa a couple of years ago. Grissom, no Ted Williams himself, and Gomez had agreed to serve up soft ones to each other when they came to bat. Grissom threw three strikes past Lefty so fast the senior was swinging at the echo.

One thing about it, no matter what kind of a ball team the Braves will have this year they will have the best song and dance act in the game in Manager Casey Stengel and Gomez. Stengel himself is straight, place and show when it comes to dry wit, and teamed with his new pitcher he will be able to wow the fans.

Just what the Braves will do without Johnny Murphy is a question, and it really looks like they slipped under, as buying Gomez without Murphy is like buying a pair of pants without suspenders. That is, Gomez needs somebody to hold him up in the late innings, and Murphy as the Yankee relief pitcher, did just that.

At any rate, New York loses a smart, likeable ballplayer who may do better at Boston than a lot of people might think.

Navy Malmen At Davenport

Having dropped a 19-11 verdict to Minnesota last Saturday, the Seahawk varsity wrestling team gets under way again tonight when they travel to Davenport to tackle the Davenport Y.M.C.A. Lieut. Dave Bartelma's navy lads will be seeking to gain a .500 rating in four meets this season.

The Davenport team, composed of several former Iowa high school and college mat stars, has lost a pair of decisions this season to the same Cornell college team which handed the Seahawks their first defeat.

SPORT SIDELIGHTS
By DON SLYE

Lately there has been brought up the subject of the foul rule in basketball and several changes in the ruling have been mentioned. We agree that changes should be made but do not favor the plans recently devised.

One suggestion comes from Marquette's coach, Bill Chandler. Instead of the removal of a player after four fouls have been called on him, Chandler likes the penalty box idea as in hockey. The difference would be that in hockey a team must play along one man shy while an offender is in the clink, while Chandler would permit a basketball team to substitute a player during the penalty status of an ousted player.

On top of that, as he points out, it is often the star player who is guilty of rule violations, and the spectators, some of whom undoubtedly have been lured to a game by the star, should not be deprived of seeing him in action as much as his coach deems advisable.

Plan by Flora
The other plan is submitted by Ben Flora, coach of the Raceland, Ky., high school cage team. Here is Mr. Flora's idea in brief: Classify the so-called personal fouls into two groups—flagrant and otherwise.

The flagrant fouls would be those which definitely are deliberate or definitely interfere with an opponent's shot, such as holding while the opponent is in the act of shooting, pushing as the opponent goes in for a shot, and tripping when a player drives toward the basket.

This type of foul would cost two free throws, and four such fouls would put the offender out of the game from that point on. For fouls other than flagrant, yet of a personal nature, such as body contact in a jump ball or rebound situation, accidentally hitting an opponent's arm in trying to get the ball or break up the dribble, or overguarding from the rear, Mr. Flora would give the player fouled one shot and allow his team to take out the ball at center court. In other words, it would be treated the same as a technical foul, and the player would not be disqualified no matter how many he committed.

Cause Congestion
We can see only one thing wrong with Mr. Chandler's idea and that is the congestion it would cause at having players run on and off the court from the penalty boxes. There would also be the trouble of keeping track of the time while the various players are in the box. We wonder if they would change on the run as they do in hockey.

Mr. Flora's plan is not as good

12 Hawk Swimmers Named for Wildcat Contest Tomorrow

A squad of 12 tankmen was named by Coach Dave Armbruster for the University of Iowa's opening swimming meet with Northwestern at Evanston tomorrow afternoon.

The backbone of the squad is composed of veterans of last year's squad. These are headed by Capt. Clyde Kennitz of Chicago, Ill., in the sprint division and Bob Becker of Clinton, in the back stroke.

The Hawkeyes held a record of four straight triumphs over the Wildcats in dual meets. Northwestern defeated Wisconsin, 44-40, in its season opener.

Following are the 12 mermen who will leave at 9 o'clock this morning: Capt. Clyde Kennitz, Vito Lopin, Don Holmwood, Sid Craigie, Clarence Moore, Nick Karaffa, Ernie Stranglen, Bob Becker, John Gotsch, Lyle Brown, Dale Lounsbury and Hubert Norman.

Coe College Quintet Faces Ripon Cagers

CEDAR RAPIDS — After a two-week layoff from competition, the Coe college basketball team this weekend will begin Midwest conference play, meeting Ripon tonight and Knox tomorrow night. Both games will be played here.

The Coe team should be well rested and raring to go against Ripon and Knox, although Coach Willis Lamb has drilled his men strenuously. The Hawkeyes have won two and lost one in non-conference competition.

Can't Stop Minnesota
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—It only takes six men to make a hockey team but Coach Larry Armstrong of the University of Minnesota lost 12 members of last year's squad and has come up with another good team.

as the former. Personally, we can't see how an official could determine whether every foul is either deliberate or unintentional. It would probably cause ill feeling between the players and the official. It would also slow up the game by bringing the ball back to the center of the court every time.

Our idea would be to leave the system of play as it is but to allow a player six personal fouls before he is ejected from the game. This would take care of most of the trouble and still keep the players under some kind of control. The fast play of the present day cage teams is too well liked by the spectators to drastically change the foul rule.

However, some change should be made because basketball is the only sport that calls for the permanent ousting of a player for what often are minor rule infractions.

Rambler Cage Team Travels To C.R. Tonight

St. Mary's Ramblers held a light practice last night in preparation for tonight's basketball tilt with St. Wenceslaus of Cedar Rapids to be held in the parlor city. Predicting a Marian win, Coach Francis Suplee added,

"Nine out of twelve sounds better than eight out of eleven or seven out of ten."

After a third quarter deficit of two points when the score stood at 22 to 20, the Ramblers rallied in the final stanza of their game with the Irish of Iowa City Wednesday night to pour in 15 points to 7 for the Shamrocks, to outdistance them 37 to 27 and rack up their 13th victory in a row over St. Patrick's in an eight year period.

This is the condition that Coach Suplee expects them to maintain the rest of the season. Although Co-captain George Seemuth, high scoring Rambler forward, was closely guarded and held to six points, Bill Sweeney, rapidly improving at the center post, came through with 15 points for the evening's high scoring honors.

Bill Sweeney possesses an uncanny shooting eye, shooting long and short shots with equal ability. This center, recently converted from the forward position, is rapidly becoming one of the smoothest ball handlers in the city, coming into his own shortly after the Solon defeat.

In this first of a two-game series with St. Wenceslaus, the Marians hold a seasonal record of eight wins and three losses. St. Mary's will travel away from home to battle Sharon in a return engagement before entering the diocesan tournament the second week in February.

Hawkeye Highlights

Indiana made 12% more of its shots than Iowa in the recent basketball series. . . it was 36% to 24%. . . Tom Chapman, Iowa's leading scorer who also tops the league to date, made 14 of 53 for 26%. . . Ben Trickey hit 11 of 44 for 25%. . . Jim O'Brien improved his shooting, with 36% on 8 goals in 22 attempts.

Vito Lopin, sprinter, is the most improved swimmer on the Iowa team, says Coach Dave Armbruster. . . Lopin will compete in the 50 and 100-yard free style events. . . the most improved sophomore is Donald Holmwood of Buffalo, N. Y., also a sprinter.

Harold Fiala of Waterloo, last spring's state high school outdoor high jump champion, will be the first of the athletes who entered the university last summer to begin intercollegiate competition. . . he will appear in the first track meet with Wisconsin here Feb. 6. . . a calendar year of residence no longer is required for eligibility. . . Fiala can leap nearly 6 feet and also is a good hurdler and broad jumper.

Little Hawks Travel To Play Charles City

Dick Lewis, George Mellicker Scheduled For Starting Lineup

City high leaves this afternoon for Charles City where the Little Hawks meet the Comets in a non-conference tilt. From all reports the Charles City quintet is having a good year led by Don Mills and Davis Smith.

Mills, 6'3" senior, is playing his third year as a regular center. This is Smith's first year as a first stringer, but he's been racking up a good many points this season for the Orange and Black. Coach C. C. Boylan is enjoying his 20th year as the Comet pilot.

Coach Fran Merten has been concentrating on hard scrimmages and shooting drills most of this week. Yesterday the first string found the reserves a tough foe that made the regulars work extra hard to get through a tight man-for-man defense.

Although Bill Sangster returned to school yesterday, the veteran guard will not be able to make the trip today. He probably will report to practices next week to give the Mertenmen full strength for the Clinton invasion.

George Mellicker will get the nod for Sangster's post. He has done good work this week both offensively and defensively. Dick Lewis will start his second game as a regular, but Curly Brack undoubtedly will see a lot of action.

Lewis and Brack have alternated at the forward position left vacant by Dale Sleichter. Lewis made a good showing against Davenport last week by teaming with Dave Danner, Hawklet captain.

Willie Pep, Al Stolz Fight Expected to Be Very Close Scramble

NEW YORK (AP)—The happiest guys in town yesterday were the big-hearted betting boys who have to set the odds on fights, because in tonight's collision between Willie Pep and Al Stolz they've finally found a scramble they can't go wrong on.

The two little larruppers meet in a ten-rounder in Madison Square garden before what looks like a sell-out crowd of 17,000 or more. And the whole thing adds up to such a close affair that the benevolent betting gentlemen just can't split them apart. So they've put up the old "5 to 6 and take your pick" on their slates, thereby making sure that no matter how much "play" there is for either combatant, the bookmakers show a dollar profit on each five-dollar bet.

As usual when Wee Willie and Agile Alie go to the post, their respective neighbors from Connecticut and Jersey are marching on the Garden to see the hometown boys try to make good. As a result Uncle Mike Jacobs may have to dust off the S.R.O. sign before it's over. As a matter of fact, Uncle Mike's cash register jockeys say there may be $60,000 in the till by the time the shooting starts at 9 p. m. (CWT).

Although Wee Willie's New York half of the world featherweight championship will be safely stored among the mothballs for this occasion, each has a lot on the line. For Pep it marks the toughest test he's had in his all-victorious string of 58 straight fights.

For Alie, it is the "or else" match of his career. He has to hit the jackpot this time, or his hopes of ever climbing to the head of the lightweight parade will be about as bright as a blackout in a coal bin.

BLUES' LEADING SCORER

Carl Hubbell, pictured above, will lead his Bluehawk mates into battle against the West Branch cagers here tonight. Shay, who was a regular guard on the Bluehawk quintet last year, is leading the U-high five in the scoring department. In the Blues last game, Shay racked up 19 points from his pivot post and looked especially good in getting rebounds. The Bear contest will be one of the most important conference battles during the current season for the Blues.

Carl Hubbell Ready for His 16th Campaign With New York Club

By SCHUYLER ALLMAN
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Carl Hubbell, the well-known New York Giants meat ticket, is ready to be punched for another season undaunted by the perils of training in frosty latitudes.

The sixteenth contract which the Giants have mailed him came by the post yesterday, but the club policy keeps even an old-timer like Hubbell from saying whether he accepts or holds out.

However, since Hubbell was full of talk about the new season, and since he never has held out anything worse than his bat (and his hitting record teaches us that is bad enough) it takes no sleuth to figure he'll be on hand to begin training March 15.

What about trying to get his weather-beaten wing into shape on the snow-bound coast of Lake-wood, N. J., where the Giants will train to keep some of the load off overworked transportation.

"Why," said Hubbell, "it won't make any difference. In the last few seasons I haven't got started until no weather anyway. I'd get in shape down in Florida, go good in the exhibition games, then move north into that cold, damp weather, and there I'd be, right back where I started."

This new business of locating training camps up north far from the luxury of tropical scenery is going to give pitchers an early-season edge over batters, Hubbell believes.

While the hitters are out hitting in the blizzards, the pitchers will be pitching in a nice warm field-house and loosening the kinks of the winter layoff.

Hubbell hasn't spent quite as much time in recreation this year. The nearby golf club has been pretty hard hit and most days there aren't enough members

U-High Faces West Branch

Game Tonight First Real Test for Loop Leading Bluehawks

In playing host to West Branch tonight, U-high's Bluehawks will face their first crucial test in Eastern Iowa conference play.

The Blues are undefeated in conference competition to date with a record of three wins against no losses. Coach Louis Alley's quintet has polished off Tipton, West Liberty and Monticello in that order.

West Branch has made two appearances here, falling before City high and St. Pat's. They possess terrific scoring punch, vested in their two forwards, Anderson and Rummells.

U-high will depend upon Capt. Jack Shay and Don Wagner to carry its scoring hopes, helped out by Jim Rasley and Ed Smith. Bud Halvorsen, the other regular, has never figured in the scoring column to any great extent but can be depended upon to play a good floor game.

Shay is leading the Bluehawk scorers, followed by Wagner and Rasley. The Blue center is one of the best rebound men in the conference and if he hits his stride can be expected to keep the opposition in plenty of trouble.

In their last time out the Bluehawks were trounced by Anamosa 58-44. In this contest the U-high squad ran into difficulty on personal fouls. Four of the starters had three personals at halftime and this greatly hampered the Alley quintet's attack.

West Branch uses a fast break and feeds the ball to their scoring forwards. The Bears are used to a small hardcourt and since the Bluehawks possess a fairly large court, their attack may be slowed.

Coach Alley has been juggling his lineup throughout the week's practices and it is probable that Smith and Shay will see action at forward positions. In the last few contests Smith has been hitting consistently from a front court post.

Durocher Gets Job
WEST POINT (AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, yesterday was named advisory baseball coach for five years at the U.S. military academy by Col. Lawrence (Biff) Jones, graduate manager of athletics.

Sixteen regimental champions in wrestling, boxing and water polo were decided in cadet matches at the Navy Pre-Flight school last night.

The entire cadet personnel sat in the northern half of the field-house and cheered the participating teams, who were products of the eliminations held in the intramural sports program during the past month.

It was the first water polo championship meet held at the base, and the third boxing and wrestling title cards. No knockouts were recorded in the fight ring but five wrestlers pinned their opponents in 3:10 or less.

The water polo team coached by Lieut. Dwight Hoover, former Iowa athlete, defeated the team coached by Ens. John Kulbicki, 8-2, for its eighth straight victory and regimental championship.

Comdr. Tom J. Hamilton, director of the navy's pre-flight school program who arrived at the base Wednesday on an inspection tour, attended the final matches and was introduced to the cadets.

So Hubbell has spent more time at his country place, taking care of his horses and a few head of cattle. Next month he will begin warming up with a little gym work.

Bernice K. Bradley Weds John A. Oaks

W. P. Bradley, 23 W. Harrison street, announces the marriage of his daughter, Bernice K., to John A. Oaks, son of Mrs. Faye Oaks, 71 Bowers street. The wedding took place Jan. 18.

Attending the couple were Helen Kenne and Luther Oaks, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride wore an aquamarine cape suit with brown accessories. Her only jewelry was a gold ring, a gift of the bridegroom. Miss Kenne wore a powder blue wool dress with beige accessories.

The bride was graduated from St. Patrick's high school and attended business college in Iowa City. She is employed in the office of Collins Radio company in Cedar Rapids.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Iowa City high school, is first man first class in the navy.

Women Voters Plan Five Radio Programs, Post-War Discussions

The League of Women Voters announces a series of five programs on post-war problems to be conducted by Mrs. H. H. McCarty, radio chairman, beginning tomorrow at 9 a. m. over WSUI. Speakers will be Prof. Paul Olson and Prof. Addison Hickman, who will discuss the topic, "Looking at the Future with Latin America." The next four programs will be presented on the first Saturday of each month.

The study group of the League of Women Voters will meet today at 1:30 p. m. in the board room of Iowa City public library. Discussions will be presented on "State Income Tax in Relation to Movements to Eliminate It," and "The Federal Withholding Tax."

population is, what the birth rate is doing, what happened to last year's spinach crop, what state probably will have the most illiterates in 1950, and what became of the Joads.

On a few weeks' notice Census undoubtedly could start turning the wheels of machinery that would give a truer sampling of our nation's woes and wants than all the polls put together—simply because Census has been sampling scientifically for years.

That's why it's good news to this correspondent that OPA has called upon them to produce the "War-time Food Diary." Census is going into 58 counties in 45 states, selecting 3,000 "representative families" and asking the "lady of the house" to keep a day-today record of food purchases, consumption, prices, etc.

The reports will be made frequently and will provide OPA with almost a daily picture of what is going on in the kitchens and dining-rooms of American homes. Coupled with reports from producers, wholesalers and retailers, it should leave OPA no out in forestalling regional or national shortages, surpluses, price changes, or diet deficiencies.

Whether these ailments can be corrected will depend on a number of things, over many of which OPA will have no direct control (transportation, crop failures, abnormal demands from the military forces, etc) but being able to spot the symptoms quickly in 3,000 representative homes should go a long way toward providing immediate cures.

I'll place my bet now that the "War-time Food Diary" will be one of OPA's most effective weapons in getting the job done in the war months ahead.

INTERPRETING—

east and west allied jaws do meet, a reshuffling of the logistics of the merged campaigns to get greater efficiency out of available cargo tonnage should be possible.

There have been many hints apparently based on good if unidentifiable authority both on this side of the Atlantic and in London that one aftermath of Casablanca to be looked for is appointment of an allied generalissimo for the European theater as a whole. If that is in the works, the conference at Eisenhower's headquarters must have had something to do with the matter.

Eisenhower and his British colleague, General Alexander, imperial commander in chief in Egypt and now conquered Italian north Africa, head up the only land fronts where allied troops other than the Russians are in contact with the foe as yet. If a new overall command in Europe, or only in Africa, is to be set up, both Eisenhower and Alexander would have to be consulted.

Assuming that a merged supreme allied command in Europe or in Africa is to be expected soon, another opportunity to dispel the mists of French political factionalism or military jealousy would arise. Now that Fighting Frenchmen are back into action against the foe on a growing scale, must rate consideration in the makeup of a supreme command whatever its scope. It could result in General Giraud taking command of all French foes in Africa in the field while General DeGaulle was elevated to a place of consequence on the staff of an allied generalissimo. The temperament of the two veteran French foes of the axis would indicate the acceptability of some such division of responsibility between them.

Boy Scouts to Collect Tin Cans From Homes in Drive Saturday

Headquarters for tomorrow's tin can collection drive will be located at 19 E. Washington street, in the space formerly occupied by the Singer Sewing Machine company. A. M. Ewers, the owner, has donated the use of the building, according to Salvage Chairman Dean Jones.

Iowa City boy scouts, under the direction of Owen Thiel, local scout executive, will collect cans from homes all over the city, bringing them to headquarters. The collection center will be open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. tomorrow, and barrels will be placed outside for the deposit of cans brought in after 4 o'clock.

Proper Preparation

The cans must be properly prepared in order to be usable at the detinning center, salvage officials pointed out. They must be washed, their labels removed, and their tops and bottoms cut out. Then they should be stepped on and flattened and packed in clean cardboard or corrugated boxes. The prepared cans should be placed on the curb in front of the house early tomorrow morning to be picked up by the scouts.

Unprepared cans will not be collected, as storage space is limited. In case of rain or snow, the boxes of prepared cans are to be left on the front porch, since they are worthless if rusted.

Packing Directions

Small cans must not be packed inside larger ones, according to the salvage committee. Cans must not be flattened by hammering, since that prevents the free flow of detinning fluid through them. Paint and varnish cans, oil cans, condensed milk cans and flat cans such as sardine tins are not usable.

Anyone missed by the boy scouts in their collection tomorrow should call scout headquarters, 5673, if he cannot bring his cans to the collection center.

SUI to Discontinue Every-Pupil Testing Program for Duration

The every-pupil high school testing program, which has been sponsored by the university for the past 14 years, has been discontinued for the duration of the war, according to a recent announcement made by Prof. E. F. Lindquist of the college of education.

This step has become necessary because of decreased clerical and statistical staffs and because many of the authors of the tests are in war service.

However, the college will maintain two significant testing programs, a new fall program for high schools and a basic skills project for grades three to nine.

Special printings of the 1942 every-pupil tests may still be secured if ordered from the bureau of educational research and service before Feb. 15.

Students Present Skit On Nurses Heroism At Rotary Meeting

Radio students of the university staged a dramatization entitled, "An Evening On Corregidor" at the regular Thursday noon luncheon of the Rotary club at the Jefferson hotel yesterday.

The skit extolled the heroism of American nurses on Bataan and Corregidor by presenting glimpses from the life of one, named Mary, who sacrificed everything including her life for her task.

Harold Boughan, narrator, provided the necessary atmosphere and explanations to bring out the theme of the skit, an appreciation of what is being done by the nurses serving on the scattered battle fronts with our armed forces, and an appeal for more women to enter that line of duty.

Written, largely in verse, by Paul Hennessey, a graduate student in journalism at the university, the dramatization was under the direction of Prof. Clay Harshbarger of the department of speech.

The cast included Paul Pappas, Bob Jenksy, Ann Trave and Virginia Alm. Piano accompaniment was provided by Tom Donohoe.

Red Cross Goal Set for County

A quota of $26,600 has been set for Johnson county in the annual Red Cross war fund drive to be conducted in Johnson county from March 1 to 15. This amount is an increase of $18,700 over last year's goal.

The 1943 campaign will be conducted under the direction of Mrs. Maurice E. Taylor, 1855 Muscatine avenue, who has been named general chairman.

Solicitation in rural areas will begin the middle of February. Collections under the pledge system will be discontinued this month in order to standardize methods of raising funds, national Red Cross headquarters has announced.

Mrs. Alice Greigg Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow in Chicago

Funeral service will be held in Chicago tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Alice Greigg, mother of Mrs. I. W. Leighton, 947 Iowa avenue. Mrs. Greigg died at a local hospital at 7:45 yesterday morning.

Mrs. Greigg, born April 16, 1880, in New York state, was a member of the Methodist church and chapter E of the P.E.O. sisterhood.

She is survived by a son, M. C. Greigg of Wilmette, Ill.; a daughter, Mrs. Susan Buck of Chicago, and a brother, A. J. Nichols of Wellman.

The body was at Hohenschuh mortuary yesterday.

St. Louis Orchestra Cancels Concert Tour

Russian Duo-Pianists Scheduled to Appear In Iowa City Feb. 17

The St. Louis Symphony orchestra has been forced to abandon its 1943 spring tour because of wartime restrictions. The cancellation of the tour, which was to have included two performances in Iowa City Feb. 17, was announced by Prof. C. B. Righter, manager of the university concert course.

In announcing the cancellation of the St. Louis concerts, the committee indicated that a substitute attraction had been engaged for the date vacated by the orchestra. The famous Russian duo-pianists, Vronsky and Babin, will appear in a recital Wednesday, Feb. 17.

There is a possibility that an additional concert attraction will be booked for April, following the appearance of Jan Peerce, popular radio and operatic tenor soloist.

The St. Louis orchestra has appeared here annually since 1935 and has proved a favorite attraction with local audiences. A total of 17 concerts has been presented over the eight year period, culminating with the series of four concerts played last season. All of these concerts have been given under the leadership of the group's renowned conductor, Vladimir Golschmann.

Official to Interview Prospective Graduates For Y.W.C.A. Work

Mrs. F. K. Anderson of the national Y. W. C. A. personnel bureau will be in the Y. W. C. A. conference room in Iowa Union Monday and Tuesday to interview women graduating in April or August and graduate students who are interested in Y. W. C. A. work.

Mrs. Anderson would like interviews especially with those women interested in health education and recreation secretaries, business and industrial secretaries and Girl Reserves. Physical education and sociology majors are particularly well qualified, but all women students who are interested are invited to meet her.

Appointments should be made with Lois Snyder, Y. W. C. A. secretary, today.

SUI Debate Students To Appear at Newton

Donald Rivkin, A1 of Davenport, and William Arnold, A3 of Sioux City, will go to Newton today to represent the university in a demonstration debate before the high school assembly there.

The coach of the high school debate team with which they will confer is Elaine Nelson, who received her M. A. degree here last year.
