RAF Hammers Berlin in Daylight Raid Sweep Westward on Voronezh Front to Continue Annihilating Remnants of 9 Trapped Units

Attack Upsets Anniversary Of Hitler Rule

Bombers Interrupt Address by Goering, Sweep Nazi Capital

LONDON (AP)—The official Nazi observance solemnly marking Hitler's tenth anniversary in power was terrorized, upset and delayed for an hour yesterday by the first daylight raid on Berlin, carried out with precise timing by the British Royal Air force.

Precise Timing The RAF bombers arrived over Berlin punctually at 11 a. m., the moment Reichsmarshal Herman Wilhelm Goering was to begin speaking in the air ministry building.

Another flight made a follow-up attack just before Goering did go on the air at noon.

The raids recalled Goering's old boast that bombs never would fall on the Reich.

None was lost out of the 11 raid flights but one plane failed to return from the nighttime foray.

Hitler was reported off somewhere "with his soldiers" but when order was restored his proclamation was read by Propaganda Minister Goebbels, asserting that the German people faced enslavement to Bolshevism unless they bucked up and fought on to the end.

Talks 90 Minutes The other headline, Reichsmarshal Goering, whose speech suffered the hour of confused delay, talked for 90 minutes on the perfidy of the Russians, of their long war preparations "camouflaged" by their inept 1939-40 winter war against Finland and of Stalingrad, which he distorted into a token of ultimate German victory.

The explosive results of the British air raid and the confusion were audible in England over the German radio set up to broadcast grim Nazi defiance in the face of enormous reverses in Russia and threats poised elsewhere against the Reich which Hitler wrested from Von Hindenburg in 1933 with new faded promises and threats.

The raid was made by the RAF's Mosquito bombers, capable of skimming the housetops at speeds reckoned up to 400 miles an hour.

Orchids to Military Ball, But

To the military department goes the year's biggest bunch of orchids for bringing the first well-known professional band to the campus this season.

This reaction is certainly not strange. It is only natural that college students—especially those at Iowa, since they have little opportunity to hear good dance music first hand—should enjoy dancing to a big-name band, such as Bernie Cummins.

We realize and appreciate the fact that because of the war Iowa's social program had to be slashed. But this should not stop the university from having at least three big-name bands on the campus each year.

Where, then, does the trouble lie? It seems to us the crux of the problem lies not so much in the fact that the social program had to be curtailed as it does in a gross misjudgment of student opinion concerning this curtailment.

Early last summer a meeting of 40 students was called by Miss Reich, then Union social director, to sample campus opinion in regard to social activities during the coming academic year.

Most of the male students now on the campus will be in the service before the year's end, and consequently are working harder than ever before.

Why not give it to them more often?

'30 Days Hath September . . .

According to a booklet recently released by the World Calendar association, the old rhyme "30 days hath September," may become practically all-inclusive if we follow their suggestion.

This last proposal is, frankly, the only worthwhile thing we can see in the entire program, since it would be an effort to promote international feeling.

They go on to say that "better guys than we have reformed the calendar, but it is still no good," and we can, to be truthful, agree with them to a certain degree.

Let's forget about our minor troubles until the war is over and we find out for sure just what language the calendar will be printed in before urging any changes.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

We Can't Even Feed Ourselves, Let Alone the Post War World

WASHINGTON—The happy notion that we might feed all the world after this war has slipped away fast as it has become apparent we cannot even feed ourselves and allies well during it.

With spring planting only a few weeks off, some agricultural officials are conceding that less food may be produced this year than last, to meet greatly increased war demands.

Our industrial output has been expanded 350 percent over last year and will jump nearly two-thirds as much again this year, but the food production is running along just about the same—and the extraordinary part of it is no one is even proposing expansion to meet the situation.

Food Administrator Wickard and manpowerer McNutt are pecking away at the problem here and there with soy bean bonuses, and the rationers are getting ready to impose a radical point system to divide our food scarcity but the idea of crashing through the obstacles and really raising enough for Americans, British, Algerians, Russians and others apparently has not occurred to anyone.

A farmer friend of mine, who is also a good business man, has devoted some thought to the condition and has reached the conclusion that three things are wrong—three basic things which could be met if sufficient energy and intelligence were applied to them.

The first, he said, is fear, the fear among the farmers, and he thinks this fear is going to make production this year a lot less than the Washington bureaucrats concluded with their little pens and pencils.

The farmer fears to plant primarily, because he has no prospect of getting enough help to harvest. He will trim his crop planting to what he can safely handle unless he gets some formidable assurance from the government that greater planting is possible.

A number of solutions have been offered on this phase—the importation of Bahamans to the southern vegetable and fruit areas and cotton fields, Mexicans to the middlewest, and even Chinese to the Pacific coast—but no one has done anything about it, or offered any promise.

Temporary release of some men from the army or non-essential industry or schools to help in planting or harvesting is possible, but so far the only hope offered the farmer has been the decision of the draft boards not to take much more of his help—and talk, only talk from McNutt about amassing a "land tilling army of civilians" who would probably ruin more acreage than they harvest.

The production of pigs and poultry could have been quadrupled in this country if anyone had the sense, immediately after Pearl Harbor, to institute government sponsorship of such a movement, but officials then all were saying we would have enough food because we had great stores of surplus wheat.

Pigs and poultry could even now be doubled except for fear. The farmer must pay a high price for feeder hogs and premium prices for feed for chickens, and the margins ordained by the government are so short that if a few die he cannot make any money.

Far better it is for him individually—no matter how disastrous it is to the country—to tighten his production range to what he needs for himself and can handle safely in addition. This is the second correctable thing wrong.

Fear of his farm machinery and repairs and the gasoline rationing restrictions is the third factor working toward curtailment. His situation on trucks, tractors and tires urge him not to and, in fact, prevent him from doubling or tripling his production as the national situation requires.

Unless someone takes hold of this situation like Jeffers took hold of the similar confusion on synthetic rubber—and he did take hold of it and dispel it—food production may decline to such an extent as to startle the bureau boys.

Regimented economy seems to have failed again. It worked all right on the way down, when it was distributing largesse. But it has failed completely when the problem is to get production up.

Mr. Jeffers Shocked Officialdom

The incident of Mr. Jeffers saying what he thought about "loafers at army and navy desks" shocked officialdom and has been getting Mr. Jeffers some bad publicity. Apparently, the government is trying openly to maintain the principle that no official should say what he thinks without getting it approved—an idea which has its merits.

But behind this controversy lies the fact that Mr. Jeffers has done well with the synthetic rubber program. For 55 percent of his program, he has been given "directives" (above priorities) to obtain materials.

It is only on the other 45 percent that the "army-navy expeditors" have stolen some of his materials. This theft will delay his program by a few months, but not prevent its fulfillment.

The passenger tire situation looks fairly good. The bureaucrats thought we only had 8,000,000 new tires in storage, but apparently we had 10,000,000 and will get 6,000,000 used tires from the recent turn-ins. Of the 12,000,000 tires turned in, nearly half are suitable for retreading. Farm truck and commercial tire users, however, will have troubles.

Interpreting The War News

Red Casualty Lists Now Encompassing Regiments on Masse

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Due to the discussion and speculation let loose by the Roosevelt-Churchill strategy conference in French Africa, a new note in Russian war bulletins more or less escaped notice.

Instead of stressing casualties in dead and wounded inflicted on the enemy day by day, reports of increasing enemy surrenders, sometimes including large groups, even regiments en masse, have been increasingly frequent from Moscow.

What that could bode as to cracking Nazi army morale if the Russian accounts are anywhere near accurate could be a better gauge of what to expect in Russia, or in Germany itself for that matter, than any other available yardstick.

Russian casualty figures for the foe day by day have never been convincing. They have been as subject to suspicion as Berlin reports of tremendous Russian losses. Taken at face value, neither side would have enough troops fit for action to wage major conflict. They were obviously intended only for home consumption. The conditions under which battles are fought make it impossible for any accurate figures on losses to be computed so quickly.

Difficult to Check

Checking up prisoners is another matter. The aggregate number taken a day's action must be promptly known. Provision for their safe-keeping movement to the rear without clogging vital supply lines, and for feeding them must be made promptly. Even herded into wire pens to await disposition, some immediate and reasonably accurate estimate of their numbers is possible and necessary.

There is small reason to doubt that some breakdown in front line morale has taken place in axis ranks in Russia as the war tide ran so heavily against the invader on so vast a front. British experience in Egypt and Libya leads to acceptance of Russian reports of Italian and Rumanian and other axis services.

This much is known, however: It's going to get much worse before it gets better. Some observers say that as soon as rationing is under way on canned goods, it will have to be extended to meats and after that to eggs, butter, cheese and fish.

Take Your Choice Tenderloins or Tokyo

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—"We've got to make up our minds whether we want butter or Berlin, tenderloins or Tokyo."

In that pithy quip Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the U. S. Health Service, sums up the food situation of the future.

And in it, too, is the answer to the question being asked in the kitchens and grocery stores of the land: "Where is this rationing going to end?"

If any one could answer that question, he would be a wizard and you could wager your last kopek that OPA Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, and Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt would do battle royal for his services.

This much is known, however: It's going to get much worse before it gets better. Some observers say that as soon as rationing is under way on canned goods, it will have to be extended to meats and after that to eggs, butter, cheese and fish.

Terrible-Tempered Mr. Donald Meek

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Hereafter, we will please think of him as the terrible-tempered Mr. Meek. Mr. Donald Meek of the righteous wrath and the radiant roses.

For nine years Mr. Meek, mild and little and bald, has been popping in and out of scripts to your delight and mine. He plays long roles too, but I remember him most fondly when he scurries unexpectedly onto the screen, like some strange woodland gnome from behind a rock, and paints a quick character portrait.

These are what he calls his three-minute roles, like the little nut in "They've Got Me Covered" or the hobo on the park bench in "Come Live With Me."

Mr. Meek has notable acting specialties. He is the timid mouse of a man, nourished on milk toast. And he is the heartless skinflint who persecutes widows and orphans and forecloses mortgages.

But Mr. Meek is not meek. He is a very precise, well-brushed, neat little gentleman with a scholarly anger. His object is the harsh treatment given, too frequently, to young men and women who are first offenders against the law.

Forty years ago Mr. Meek, then a young actor, was sitting with his friend Jack London when a lad, fresh out of jail, told them

He plays long roles too, but I remember him most fondly when he scurries unexpectedly onto the screen, like some strange woodland gnome from behind a rock, and paints a quick character portrait.

These are what he calls his three-minute roles, like the little nut in "They've Got Me Covered" or the hobo on the park bench in "Come Live With Me."

Mr. Meek has notable acting specialties. He is the timid mouse of a man, nourished on milk toast. And he is the heartless skinflint who persec

Seven Ohio State Men Will Report to Brown

Pre-War Conditions Would Have Brought Back 39 Footballers

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Marriage, asthma, deafness and varicose veins!
Those "four horsemen" came to the rescue of Coach Paul E. Brown yesterday, assuring the Ohio State university mentor the nucleus of a 1943 football team to replace the star-spangled 1942 Big Ten and national champions.

Were Strong Once
Under pre-war conditions, the battling Bucks would have had 39 of last season's 42 varsity players available for service this year, augmented by a freshman squad tabbed by Brown as "the best anyone ever had anywhere."

Then the draft, enlistments, withdrawals and scholastic hurdles cut a swath through the Ohio talent.

As Brown thumbed through the list yesterday, he moaned:
"We have just seven boys coming back from last season, and we may lose some of them. Of the seven, one is almost deaf as the result of scarlet fever when a boy; another has asthma, ear trouble, and eyes so bad he wears contact lenses; another is married and has a daughter, another has one of the worst batches of varicose veins I've ever seen."

"Those four have been rejected by draft boards, but they'll probably be first stringers for us next fall. The other three returning have been deferred because of their courses—engineering, dentistry and medical—assuring us of a squad of seven. We've lost all the good freshmen, but we expect some of the others to come out. If things don't get better, we may wind up playing six-man football. We'll probably have a squad big enough for that."

One Starter
Only one starter from the 1942 title team is returning. He's big Bill Willis of Columbus, a tackle suffering with varicose veins, an ailment which prevented him from the full distance in any of the 1942 contests.

Brown's biggest trouble whirls around the backfield. Not one of the seven veterans is a ball-toter.

Practically all the football boys are in the army or navy reserves, and expect to be called in a week or two, but Brown declared:
"We'll go ahead with what we have left, plus any draft-deferred cripples we can find on the campus. Our motto is 'Football as usual,' and we'll put some sort of team on the field next fall."

"Fanny how things change, isn't it? We thought we would have our pick of some great material next fall—but here we are hunting boys with all kinds of ailments to fill our football uniforms."

Wildcats May Give Illini Cagers Trouble

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Northwestern's basketball team which appears here tomorrow night, despite its spotted record, is likely to prove the most stubborn Big Ten foe the Illini Whiz Kids encountered so far, Coach Doug Mills believes.

Although the Wildcats have lost to Minnesota (46-47) Wisconsin (65-67), winning only from Michigan, Mills points to the close scores against the Gophers and Badgers and recalls the decisive defeat of Great Lakes by the Wildcats, Northwestern has also lost a pair of games to Notre Dame.

A chunk of the Northwestern football team will be seen in action, Otto Graham and Nick Vodka, backs, and Bud Hasse, end. When the Wildcats lost in football to the Illini at Evanston, Graham passed to Vodka for their only touchdown, Graham, Jake, Wendland and Hasse are lettermen, Vodka a sophomore.

As a sophomore last year Graham placed second to Kotz of Wisconsin in Big Ten scoring with 196 points.

Victory would be savored by the Wildcats, who last defeated the Illini in 1939, at Evanston. Their last triumph on the Illinois floor was in 1937.

Ken Menke who tallied 19 points in the last basketball game against Northwestern in the Chicago stadium last season, is expected to be back at his forward starting position. Menke played only part of the Iowa series because of a bruised foot.

Bowling Due For Changes, WPB Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bowling, the occasional or steady pastime of 12 million Americans, is due for some hard blows before the war is much older.

So much was revealed by the war production board yesterday, and the board's reassurance that there will be little trouble for archers, ping pong addicts, badminton enthusiasts and billiard players will not soothe the feelings of the seekers after spares and strikes.

"All bowling balls eventually will be wooden ones, WPB said. Some laminated wood balls are being offered for sale already. Plastics are out unless casein, a milk product, or lignite is found suitable. They are being tested.

It is uncertain, also, whether pin makers can continue to turn out more than a million pins a year, because they are made from extremely well-seasoned maple, the same grade need for lasts for army shoes.

The pin boys, of course, have been marching off to war or the shipyards in great numbers, and in some places girl pin-setters in nifty uniforms already do the job. The gain in eye-appeal is expected to offset the fact that no more new pin-setting machines will be made.

There's hardly enough shellac for planes, tanks and guns, and this presents a problem to the average alley manager who shellsacs the space behind the foul line every ten days and the rest of the alley about six times a year. A possible solution is a special wax, which if applied frequently enough would preserve the shellac already on alleys.

New alleys cannot be built at the former rate, about 4,000 a year. Even if the necessary maple and pins continued to be available, the ban on non-essential construction forbids erection of buildings to house the new alleys.

Bowling shoes have not been affected by WPB prohibitions yet, although the use of natural rubber is prohibited, leather and fabric still are available for bowling bags.

Yanks Busy Traders During Last 8 Days

Times Have Changed Since Former World's Champs Were Best

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees, who used to spend the winters in regal aloofness toward the trading efforts of the other major league clubs, have become the busiest barterers in baseball.

This month the American league champions completed two trades and the sale of Vernon (Lefty) Gomez within eight days and previously had maneuvered the winter's biggest multiple player swap with the Cleveland Indians.

It all goes to show how times have changed and how different the Yankees are going to look next season. They now have 30 players on their reserve list, the fewest in years, and about half of these are newcomers. Other changes may be yet to come.

Gone from last year's familiar array are Gomez, who was sold to the Boston Braves for an estimated $7,500; Infielder Gerry Friddy, who was traded to Washington Friday along with Milo Candini, a minor league pitcher; Catcher Buddy Rosar and outfielder Roy Cullenbine, who were traded to Cleveland; Infielder Red Rolfe, who has voluntarily retired to coach basketball and baseball at Yale; and Pitches Red Ruffing, First Baseman Buddy Hassett and Outfielder Tom Henrich and George Selkirk, all of whom have entered military service.

To compensate for this big turnover the Yanks have obtained an unspectacular assortment of re-fills including Pitcher Bill Zuber from Washington, where he won nine and lost nine last year; Outfielder Roy Weatherly and Infielder Oscar Grimes from Cleveland, where they batted .258 and .179, respectively; First Baseman Nick Etten, who hit .264 for the Phils; and Infielder Billy Knickerbocker, a free agent who was with the Yanks once before without distinguishing himself.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—With Forward Johnny Kotz scoring 18 points, Wisconsin routed Minnesota, 54 to 33, in a Western conference basketball game last night before 12,600 fans.

Wisconsin, holding an upper hand throughout, ran up a 30 to 15 halftime lead. Except for rebounds, the Gophers fared badly on short shots and were ineffective at long range.

The Badgers showed increased speed and accuracy in their return to league play after a long layoff for semester examinations. The victory gave them a conference record of three wins in five starts, against Minnesota's 500 standing in six games.

Kotz, the conference scoring king last year, exhibited his best form of the season in tallying eight field goals and two free throws. He was assisted ably by Center Fred Patterson, who netted 13 points.

Present Enlisted Reserve Corps Program Outlined

E.R.C. Students to Be Called To Duty at End of Semester

Medical, Engineering and Pre-Medical Reservists Will Return for Training at Colleges; R.O.T.C. May Volunteer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of the enlisted reserve corps students in colleges of the United States will be called to active duty at the conclusion of the current semester, the war department announced today.

Exceptions are those students taking medical, engineering or pre-medical courses, who, generally speaking, will be ordered to active duty at the conclusion of the first semester beginning in 1943. A greater part of those students probably will be sent back to school to continue their training.

"Normally," the war department said, "enlisted reserve corps students, unassigned group, will be ordered to active duty 14 days after the completion of the first academic quarter, term or semester, terminating after December 31, 1942, or as soon thereafter as practicable with due regard to the avoidance of congestion in reception centers. Each reservist ordered to active duty under this directive will be dispatched, after processing at a reception center, to a replacement training center of the services of supply or army ground forces as part of current quotas.

Those students who have undergone training in a senior unit of the reserve officers training corps will be assigned to a replacement training center of the branch in which they received training. In the orders issued to a student calling him to active duty, he will be directed to appear at the reception center with a transcript of his college academic and ROTC records for presentation to the classification officer.

"Enlisted reserve corps students will be called to active duty by the commanding general of the service command in which the individual records of enlistment are filed.

"Thirty days, or as soon thereafter as practicable, prior to the issuance of any orders calling to active duty enlisted reserve corps students in a particular college or university having students in the enlisted reserve corps who indicated in writing at the time of their enlistment a preference for the navy, marine corps or coast guard, the names of such students will be forwarded to the bureau of naval personnel, navy annex, Washington, D. C., with a statement that they are eligible for discharge from the enlisted reserve corps for the purpose of enlisting in the service of their indicated choice. In no case will an enlisted reserve corps student be inducted at enlistment a preference for service in the navy, marine corps or coast guard, be ordered to active duty before such service has had an opportunity to indicate whether he is acceptable to such service. Those not accepted for enlistment by the navy, marine corps or coast guard, will be processed in the same manner as other enlisted reserve corps students."

or substantially corresponding academic period that begins in 1943 and will then be called to active duty. Those selected at the completion of their basic military training will be detailed for such instruction under the army specialized training program.

"(8) All other enlisted reserve corps students will be called to active duty at the end of the current semester or substantially corresponding academic period, and upon completion of basic training, will be eligible for selection for training under this program or for other military duty. No orders will be given to report on a date prior to two weeks after the completion of the students first academic quarter, term, or semester, terminating after December 31, 1942.

"(1) Medical students (including dental and veterinary) will be called to active duty at the end of the first full semester, or substantially corresponding academic period, that begins in 1943, and will be detailed to continue courses of medical instruction under contracts to be made by the war department with medical school for facilities and instruction. Medical students who have been commissioned in the medical administrative corps may, at the same time, resign such commission, enlist as privates and be detailed in the same manner as medical students in the enlisted reserve.

"(2) Pre-medical students in the enlisted reserve corps taking approved courses, will continue in an inactive status until the end of the first full semester, or substantially corresponding academic period that begins in 1943, and will then be called to active duty. Those selected at induction or at the completion of their basic military training for further medical or pre-medical training will be detailed for such instruction under the army specialized training program.

"(3) Medical and pre-medical students not in the enlisted reserve corps, taking approved course, if inducted under selective service prior to end of the first full semester or substantially corresponding academic period that begins in 1943, will be placed on inactive duty to continue such course until the end of that semester or period. They will then be called to active duty, at which time they may be detailed for further medical or pre-medical training under the army specialized training program or assigned to other military duty.

"(4) Senior (4th year) students in the enlisted reserve corps (non-ROTC) who are pursuing approved technical engineering courses will continue in an inactive status until graduation or upon the completion of the first full semester or substantially corresponding academic period that begins in 1943, whichever is earlier. Those selected at the completion of their basic military training for further technical training will be detailed for such instruction under the army specialized training program.

"(5) Junior (3rd year) students who are pursuing approved technical engineering courses and are not members of the enlisted reserve corps will, if inducted prior to the end of the first full semester or substantially corresponding academic period that begins in 1943, be placed on inactive duty while continuing such technical engineering course until the end of that semester or period. They will then be called to active duty. Those selected at the completion of their basic military training for further technical training will be detailed for such instruction under the army specialized training program.

"(6) All who are attending essentially military colleges or universities designated by the war department as MC colleges will continue in an inactive status until the end of the first full semester

active duty enlisted reserve corps students in a particular college or university having students in the enlisted reserve corps who indicated in writing at the time of their enlistment a preference for the navy, marine corps or coast guard, the names of such students will be forwarded to the bureau of naval personnel, navy annex, Washington, D. C., with a statement that they are eligible for discharge from the enlisted reserve corps for the purpose of enlisting in the service of their indicated choice. '42 Bond Sales Exceed Quota

Chairman Announces $2,278,712 as Total For 12-Month Drive

Total war bond and stamp sales in Johnson county amounted to $2,278,712.30 during 1942, exceeding the quota by some $60,000, Frank D. Williams, general chairman of the county war savings campaign, announced yesterday.

The month of December, when $305,410 worth of bonds and stamps were bought by Johnson county residents, made a big difference in the total, according to Williams. December's quota was only $186,000. During the other months of 1942, sales approximated the quotas set, but did not greatly exceed them.

This year's quota for Johnson county will probably be substantially larger than last year's, since the statewide 1943 goal, announced yesterday, is an increase of $35,000,000 over 1942's. This year, Iowans are asked to contribute $215,000,000, while last year this state's quota was $180,000,000.

The increased quota takes into consideration higher taxes, and is based on the fact that the national income is larger, State Administrator V. L. Clark explained.

County war bond chairman from southeastern Iowa will meet in Iowa City Thursday to discuss plans for the new campaign.
