Eisenhower Heads Africa Staff

New Allied Chief Commander Confers on Tunisian Offensive

British Middle East Officers Join General to Plan Final, Crushing Blow to Drive Axis Forces From African War Arena

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. (Ike) Eisenhower, new allied commander-in-chief in north Africa, conferred yesterday with British staff officers from the middle east on completion of his unified command of powerful allied forces for a final, crushing offensive to drive the axis from Tunisia.

The array of military leaders serving with Eisenhower, who commanded the allied occupation of north Africa, includes Britain's foremost commanders of land, sea, and air successes in the Mediterranean area, battle-tested American generals and French army generals.

To head this centralized command of generals and a British admiral, the popular Eisenhower was nominated by President Roosevelt to become a full general, a rank otherwise held only by John J. Pershing, George C. Marshall, and Douglas MacArthur.

As his deputy commander-in-chief, Eisenhower has Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, former British middle east commander, who will direct all land operations. Like Eisenhower, he is young and energetic, and favors direct action.

Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, air commander-in-chief for the Mediterranean area, will be responsible for all air operations in this vital theater.

Directing the allied navies is Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Broun-Cunningham.

Powerful Line-Up
Land operations in north Africa have this powerful line-up:

Under Alexander are the crack British Eighth army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, which chased Rommel 2,000 miles from Egypt across Libya; the British First army under Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson, Gen. Henri Giraud's French forces and two American corps commanded by Maj.-Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall and Maj.-Gen. Charles W. Ryder.

Still directly under Eisenhower for the time being is the American Fifth army of Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark in northwest Africa.

In the air: Tedder becomes "strategic chief" of all Mediterranean air forces, and air adviser to Eisenhower, who will issue orders for execution by Maj.-Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, his deputy chief of staff for air. All aircraft, whether from the middle east or not, "based" in this theater still will be under General Spaatz.

The other air commanders in this centralized control are Air Vice Marshal Arthur Coningham, in support of the British First and Eighth armies and other troops in Tunisia, Air Vice Marshal R. E. Park, Malta, and Air Marshal Sir William Sholto Douglas, middle east.

"I consider," said Eisenhower, "that I have been given the stars, so far as I know them, of Britain's military strength."

Intensely Satisfied
"Of course I am intensely satisfied. It is all one battle now in Tunisia, and we are fighting together in it. On our side, we are going to throw every American soldier we can get into the fight."

For all practical purposes, Eisenhower now heads all operations in a theater from Casablanca to the Tripolitanian border, and even Libya as well because the Eighth army's reserves and supply line reach across that vast land.

Because operations in Eisenhower's new theater will affect RAF operations in the eastern Mediterranean, it will be necessary that air work be coordinated, and Tedder, as air chief marshal, will be commander in his own right of air forces in the Mediterranean outside the north African theater.

Cunningham will hold a similar position as commander-in-chief of naval forces in the Mediterranean. In addition to operating naval forces under Eisenhower's direction as they concern the north African theater, Cunningham will be commander of all naval forces in the Mediterranean operation on standing patrols such as do not directly come under this theater.

In the near future an American vice-admiral will join the north African theater as Cunningham's deputy commander of naval forces.

Churchill Reports Allies Plan European Invasion Within Nine Months, Probably From Africa

LONDON (AP) — Winston Churchill, disclosing that nearly half a million allied troops now stand in Africa at the great bridge-head to Europe and that Casablanca had produced an immense and detailed allied offensive pattern for the next nine months, solemnly proclaimed yesterday the allied resolve to make the Nazis "burn and bleed" on other fronts as already they were over nearly the length of Russia.

In an exuberant appearance before the house of commons—where as he looked out upon the grand vista of the war he found obvious difficulty in adhering to what he called "the strictest standards of anti-complacency opinions"—the prime minister made these disclosures:

First—"We have now a complete plan of action which comprises apportionment of forces as well as their discretion and this plan we are going to carry out according to our policy during the next nine months, before the end of which we (Churchill and President Roosevelt) will make efforts to meet again. . . everything in human power is being done and will be done to bring British and American forces with the utmost speed and energy and on the largest scale."

Second—that the allies were drawing steadily ahead toward winning the greatest of all battles of this war, and the battle that stood at the forefront of every other discussion at Casablanca—the battle against the submarine.

Third—that the supreme commander of the allied armies of north Africa was General Dwight D. Eisenhower, U. S. A.—("one of the finest men I ever knew," Churchill observed—) and that Britain would gladly and loyally go forward as subordinates to this essentially American enterprise.

"Great Britain and the United States," the prime minister told the house proudly, "are now warrior nations, walking in fear of the Lord, very heavily armed and with an increasingly clear view of their salvation."

Again, he made clear that Casablanca had reaffirmed the view of the western allies that it was Hitler who must first be beaten down; but again he pledged all the might of Britain for the struggle against Japan once the victory had been won in Europe.

"With the authority of the war cabinet," he said, "I renewed this declaration at Casablanca. I offered to make it in any form that might be desired, even embodying it in a special treaty if that were thought advantageous. The president, however, said that the word of Britain was quite enough for him."

"We have already bound ourselves, along with the other united nations, to go on together to the end, however long it may take or however grievous the cost may be."

At the moment he spoke, the prime minister went on, the reaffirmed and strengthened allied unity achieved at Casablanca was at work in Asia. Lieut.-Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the American army air forces, and British Field Marshal Sir John Dill were "in Chungking concerning what we have in mind with the Chinese generalissimo."

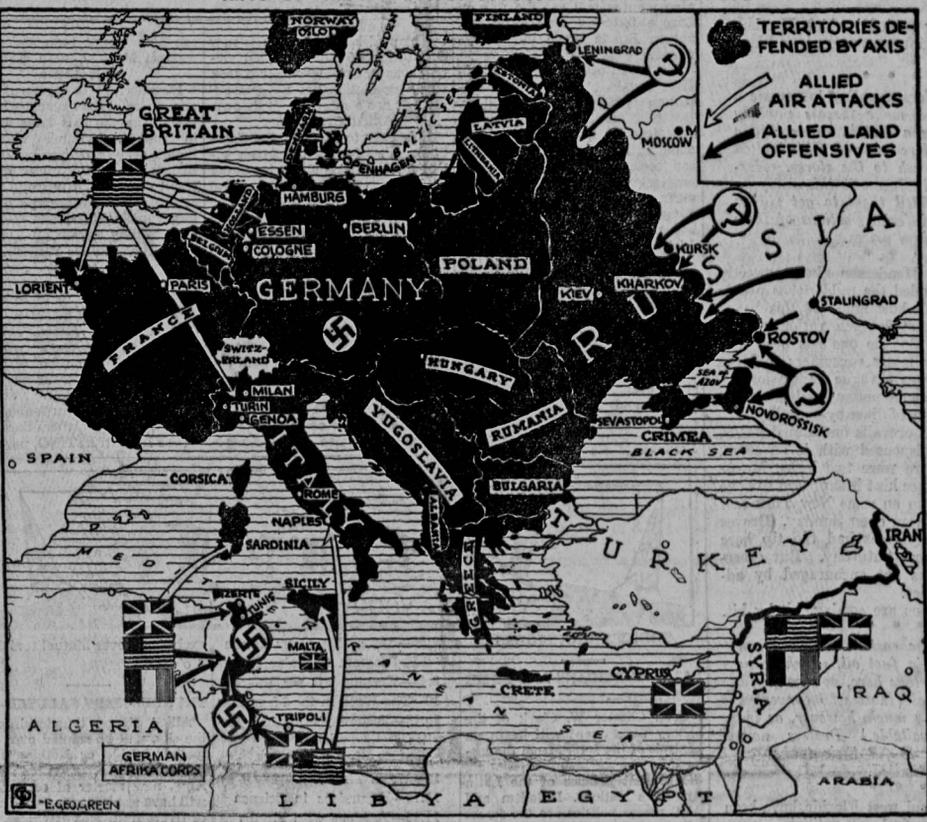

Churchill, in the most buoyant form he ever had displayed in commons and his spirit a long way from the "blood, sweat, toil and tears" of 1940, ranged for 65 minutes, and through an almost constant undertone of applause, over the whole world-wide face of the war.

Quintuplets to Launch 5 Cargo Ships on First Visit to United States

TORONTO (AP) — The Dionne quintuplets will launch five cargo ships for Britain at Superior, Wis., next May 9 and each vessel of the "quint fleet" will bear the name of one of Olivia Dionne's famous daughters from Callander, Ont.

The announcement of their first visit to the United States was made to the Ontario legislature yesterday by Premier Gordon Conant, who said the government concurred in "the decision of Mr. and Mrs. Dionne to participate in this international gesture of good will."

RING OF FIRE AND STEEL CLOSES IN ON AXIS EUROPE

WITH AMERICAN and British bombers smashing away at many points in axis-controlled western Europe and the Russians continuing their gigantic land offensive which has already attained amazing success, the allies' vast nose, woven of fire and steel slowly closes in on axis Europe. White arrows in this Central Press map show targets of latest large scale American-British bombings.

Draftees With Children Must Be Inducted Within Next Three Months, Hershey Says

Draft Director Fights House Bill to Defer Men With Dependents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most draftees within the next two or three months will be fathers, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey reported yesterday, "because there'll be no one else to induct."

The selective service director declared it necessary to draft men with children in testifying against a bill to put the draft on a statewide instead of a local board basis and to require draft boards to consider dependency as a ground for deferment. Further hearings are set for Monday after which Representative Kilday (D-Tex.) said he would demand that the house military committee approve the bill.

Within State Limits
The measure would provide for this order of induction within state limits: single men without dependents; single men with collateral dependents such as parents; married men without children; married men with children. In effect, it would prevent the induction of a married man in any state so long as eligible single men are available.

Hershey said he had no desire to put heads of families into uniform but presented figures which proved, he said, that it was necessary. These figures showed an available pool of 22,000,000 men of draft age of which Hershey said only about 14,000,000 could meet physical requirements and of those 14,000,000, approximately 1,500,000 must be deferred for essential work, leaving 12,500,000 to meet the requirements of the armed forces.

Denies Charge
Hershey denied a charge by Kilday that a recent war manpower commission order was a direct evasion of congressional intention and an effort to use the selective service act as "a substitute for a national service act." The order served notice that after April 1, dependency no longer would defer men in designated non-essential work.

Hershey told the committee he believed it was proper to induct fathers doing non-essential work if their deferment meant the drafting of men engaged in vital industry.

Estimating the monthly rate of induction for the next four months at 400,000, Hershey said that "in coming months, most of the men we take will be married men with children."

"The inevitable tendency of manpower procurement during the next eight or nine, or even the next two or three months," he testified, "must give more weight to what the registrant is doing rather than to the relation he has with dependents."

Fleeing Jap Regiment 'Decisively Defeated' in New Guinea Battle

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Friday (AP) — A large Japanese ground force which on Jan. 30 had attempted to capture Wau, New Guinea, 35 miles southwest of the important Jap base of Salamaua, has been "decisively defeated" in a series of engagements and is in full retreat, leaving behind an estimated 1,000 dead.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's noon communique announced yesterday that the Japanese force, estimated originally to have constituted a regiment, or 2,800 men, is fleeing toward Mubo, some 12 miles below Salamaua after being battered by jungle-trained Australians, harassed by American flyers and badly hurt by artillery.

Nation Must Prepare For Heavy Casualties In Immediate Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — New allied blows at all the axis partners were strongly hinted yesterday in a series of developments capped by a grim admonition from Secretary of War Stimson that the nation must steel itself for heavy American casualties, "perhaps in the near future."

All pointing toward early unfolding of the strategy mapped by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca to bring about "unconditional surrender" of the enemy were these actions in addition to Stimson's warning:

1. Nomination of Lieut. General Dwight Eisenhower to be a full general and disclosure that he has been given command of all allied sea, air and land forces engaging the axis in the Tunisian area. Only three other Americans hold the rank of general: John J. Pershing, the world war commander; Chief of Staff George C. Marshall, and Douglas MacArthur, commander in the Australian area.

2. An announcement that an Anglo-American military mission has completed lengthy conferences with Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Field Marshal Sir Alexander Wavell, British commander in India, and reached an accord on "coordination of offensive plans."

3. An announcement that President Roosevelt will make a 20-minute radio speech over all networks at 8:30 p. m., (CWT) tomorrow, discussing subjects concerned with the foreign and home fronts.

4. A vigorous expression of opposition from Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, to restrictions on drafting fathers. He told the house military committee that "in the next two or three months the great majority of men inducted will be men with children because there will be no one else left."

Down German Seaplane
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A Swedish warship's anti-aircraft gunners shot down a German seaplane yesterday off Karlskrona on the southern coast, an official announcement said last night.

Arnold Chosen by F.R. To Replace Rutledge In Court of Appeals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurman Arnold, who has instituted the record-breaking number of 230 cases under the Sherman anti-trust act during his five years as head of the justice department's anti-trust division, was nominated yesterday to a high place on the federal bench.

President Roosevelt chose the 51-year-old Arnold to be a judge of the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia, a post vacated by the elevation of Wiley Blount Rutledge to the United States supreme court.

Mentioned as a possible successor to Arnold is High Cox, his former first assistant, who is now on loan to the board of economic warfare.

Capture of Lozovaya Brings Reds Within 65 Miles of Dnieper

LONDON (AP) — The Red army in its smashing semi-encirclement of Kharkov has cut the Ukraine bastion's main railway to the south and the Crimea by capturing the key rail junction of Lozovaya, the Moscow radio announced last night in a special communique recorded here by the Soviet monitor.

Capture of Lozovaya apparently represented a 35-mile advance westward from Barvenkova by a force which, threatening at any moment to turn southward toward the Sea of Azov, is menacing from the rear hundreds of thousands of German troops in the area of Rostov.

Kharkov, which has been the Germans' strongest position in all Russia east of the Dnieper, already has had the main railway from the north cut and is engulfed by Red army troops on a 50-mile arc reaching as close as 22 miles.

The Red army's westward push to Lozovaya brings it to within 65 miles of the great Dnieper river, along which many observers believe the Germans are now planning to make a stand in retreat.

From Lozovaya, which is 75 miles south of Kharkov, the nearest point on the Dnieper is the city of Dnepropetrovsk, site of the great hydro-electric dam, which the Russians themselves destroyed in their retreat more than a year ago.

By knifing through to the Kharkov-Crimean railway at Lozovaya the Russians have split the German armies at Kharkov from those in the Donets basin.

Other Russian forces in the immediate vicinity of the Rostov gateway drove in still closer.

Chamber of Commerce Tells Members To Await Word Concerning New Workweek

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States chamber of commerce disclosed yesterday that it has advised its members to "sit tight" and await official regulations before rushing into a change-over to the 48-hour workweek ordered by President Roosevelt.

Eric A. Johnston, president of the chamber, made this disclosure yesterday after a White House conference.

He said he told the president that the nation was already in a "dangerous inflationary period"; and there is "some fear" that the 48-hour week would tend to aggravate the danger. Labor, management and other groups must do everything in their power to curb increases in wages and prices, he added.

Lincolnan Reflections—

"As I would not be a slave so would I not be a master... in giving freedom to the slaves, we insure freedom to the free, honorable alike in what we give and what we preserve."

These words of a great American whose birth we commemorate today, Abraham Lincoln, should be etched in the mind of every person—American, British or otherwise—who sits at the peace table after this war, deciding what type of future world we shall live in; indeed, whether coming generations throughout the world shall be allowed to 'live' at all.

Lincoln's words concerning humanity and government, like Voltaire's and Shakespeare's literary analyses of human character and emotion, stand today just as firmly as when they were uttered because they are timeless, universal; as applicable today as they were 75 years ago, and as they will be 200 years from now.

We realize, however, even the most naive among us, that Lincoln's desire for "equality" of all people can only be a goal to be strived for; a goal which can never be reached, except in theory, because of human physical inequality.

There will always be the man who, because of sheer superior mentality and great ambition, will be able to rise above his fellow men. It would be foolishness to try to suppress him by force, for, if he is able to raise himself by his own bootstraps, he should, according to every democratic theory, be entitled to what he earns.

But Lincoln's beliefs do not conflict with this; rather, they agree. What he denounced was the willful and pemeditated suppression of one people or one nation by another. His plan was not that everyone in America make the same amount of money, live in the same type of home, be in every way equal with one another; he simply wanted the OPPORTUNITY to be equal available to everyone, regardless of color or creed.

Likewise, Lincoln's plea for "government of the people" and racial equality applies internationally with the same degree of relevance.

This Fascist ideology, however, fails to take into consideration man's eternal, perhaps subconscious desire to be free. These men fail to recognize—as the very heart of Lincoln's beliefs maintain—that slavery is not the BEST way; that progress can only be furthered by giving every man a chance to develop his talents; that no sort of brotherhood among men can be established in a society which is based upon one group dominating another, and that, one man has just as much right for equal opportunity as another, if for no other reason than the fact that his chemical constitution is the same.

Thus, today, as we dream of international unity after this war, it is doubly significant to recall to mind the thoughts of another American who dreamed of a true brotherhood among men also. Maybe we will never be able to realize a "Parliament of Man and Federation of the World" such as Tennyson spoke of, but it is a noble and Lincolnan hope—one which the great man himself would have today died for.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Entirely Different Ration Policy Being Worked Up by Brown

WASHINGTON — A wholly different policy on rationing is being worked up by Prentiss Brown.

The first modicum of common-sense changes to correct the inefficiencies and injustices of the Henderson regime was evident all down through the shoe order, although no official pointed them out.

In the first place, it was Henderson's custom to ration the retailers without applying production control at the same time. The regulations on producers generally came along three or more weeks later, and, until then, the producers manufactured as much as they wanted or stewed in confusion.

This time, Brown issued the regulations promptly. The "hoarding period" which Henderson always provided for consumers was likewise dispensed with.

It was Henderson policy to assume a dark scowl and make threats publicly about rationing a certain commodity a month or so before he acted. This invited the public to rush to the stores. Merchants were not adverse to this shopping rush as it enabled them to get rid of even the most inferior portions of their stocks at premium prices.

Of course, Mr. Henderson always sweetly and piously reminded the public that people would have to tell how much of this hoard they had accumulated when rationing was finally ordered. But no one has been able to determine how many consumers told the truth, and there was a vague impression extant that Henderson's policy tended toward promoting a nation of liars-by-necessity.

This policy still prevails on canned goods, but Mr. Brown dispensed with it on shoes. Apparently, there were two leaks. Mayor LaGuardia's advance hint is supposed to have started a minor run on some New York east side shops which were open Sunday. Drove of government employees had the tip here and purchased shoes Saturday. But otherwise, hoarding was not encouraged by advance official notice.

Other moderations are coming, bit by bit.

Portions of the eastern seaboard are now swimming in fuel oil, which fully corrects the shortage here, now confined to anthracite coal (those who converted are not suffering much, however, as inferior coal is available.) Dealers now want consumers to fill their tanks as storage space is limited.

West Virginia and west Florida have been pushed out of the fuel oil rationing area. The "B" card ceiling on gasoline is being broken to let people get to work.

Recapped tires are to be authorized soon without certificates. But most of all, no one here is talking about forcing the public to get pneumonia if necessary (as Henderson did). This time, on shoes, Brown hastened "to inform the public as to the reasons for the action."

Senate Leader Barkley (leader in name, anyway) refuses to take seriously the Bankhead campaign to limit the size of the army. He does not think the restrictions will pass, but many another congressional authority notes the growth of its support.

Letters continue to pour in from farmers, labor groups and plain citizens to an extent where chief of staff, General Marshall, may have to make some compromise with congress. He may not get the 11,000,000 total he desires but neither will he be cut as much as the Bankhead group wants.

Compulsory Labor Bill Seems Destined for Defeat—

The Wadsworth-Austin national service (compulsory labor) bill seems destined for defeat. Already, it is being called the "involuntary servitude" bill and union leaders doubt its constitutionality.

Public opinion will probably be allowed to sift on this subject for a long time before the bill is pushed.

British Pushing General Marshall—

Reports that General Marshall would become supreme commander of all Anglo-American forces died down after Casablanca, but have been cooking quietly inside since then. The British have been pushing it.

Such an appointment would not only provide supreme command, but would promote the unity of the two nations for the post war settlement.

Hoover for President in '44?

It was the Democrats who drew Mr. Hoover into the national spotlight here with his views against increasing the size of the army to the extent desired by the war department. The Hoover viewpoint happened to coincide with Senator Bankhead's.

Some months ago, Bankhead also called Hoover in to testify on price controls, because his views conformed with those of the administration.

While the Hoover move has been widely characterized as an indication of his intent to run for president in 1944, the above circumstances belie such a conclusion.

DeGaulle Will Continue To Fade—

General DeGaulle will continue to fade from the picture. The impression he made at Casablanca was not forceful. He controls a relatively small group of Frenchmen as compared with Giraud.

Interpreting The War News

Optimistic Outlook For Ultimate Victory Voiced by Churchill

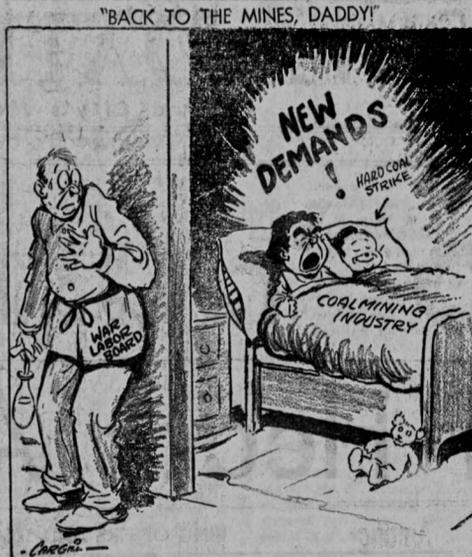

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Prime Minister Churchill's war review in parliament was strikingly notable for its tone. It breathed a calm confidence in ultimate complete victory, of victory in Europe, perhaps, sooner than is generally expected.

This time the sturdy British war leader had something more to promise than blood, sweat and tears. He was promising action, aggressive, effective and quick action to smash the foe everywhere. He could not and did not promise victory in 1943. Yet he left no doubt that in his own mind, and that of President Roosevelt, and in the judgment of the Anglo-American staff which assembled at Casablanca, planned events of the next nine months will see the axis in Europe tottering toward its fall, not in Russia alone but everywhere.

The mood of that Churchill address caught almost as much attention as his specific revelations. He told of a merged Anglo-American land, air and sea command in the western Mediterranean sector. He gave a brighter progress report on the U-boat menace. He afforded the first real glimpse of the overwhelming allied numerical odds piling up in Africa and the near and middle east to sweep the axis out of Tunisia and invade the Hitlerized continent of Europe. He dramatically reaffirmed Britain's pledge not to halt her all-out war effort until Japan, too, succumbed.

Yet most of all it was his buoyant confidence that the end is in sight, even if dimly and distantly as yet, and the solemn commitment he voiced to aid Russia and aid her now, that must have caught the ears of his listeners. His new declaration of faith in allied victory was unusual even for a man whose resolution has never wavered. It has a meaning all its own.

It is easy to see why the Casablanca decision to merge all allied forces in French Africa under the supreme command of General Eisenhower was not disclosed until Churchill could reveal it to parliament. British traditions fall by that elevation of a non-Britisher, even though French Africa from the outset has been set off, for political as well as military reasons, as what Churchill termed the "American sphere."

Seasoned British veterans, men of high rank and proven skill are grouped under Eisenhower. Alexander, who becomes second in command, is such. Yet French sensitivity in Africa obviously necessitated the choice of an American for supreme command of the western Mediterranean sector.

Eisenhower's assignment was announced at the moment when by every sign the axis faces a crisis in Tunisia. Britain's victorious Eighth army, now coming like the British First army under his overall command, is already newly at grips with the foe in southeastern Tunisia. Weary and ill-equipped Fighting French divisions are being replaced for reorganization and rearmament by American troops farther north.

The battle of the Mareth line, if Rommel does make a stand there, is already joined. The unified allied command, with an American at the top but with seasoned British veterans in direct command of the land, air and sea forces, is already functioning.

LATIN AMERICANS AND THEIR HERITAGE—

Prof. Chester W. Clark of the history department will begin an analysis of the forces from the immediate past which are shaping the present policies of the Latin American nations. Legalism and ABC power politics are the forces which will be discussed this afternoon at 3:35.

THE FAITH OF DEMOCRACY—

In keeping with Lincoln's birthday, Jack T. Johnson of the political science department and Prof. Everett Hall of the philosophy department will discuss "Lincoln's View of Democracy" on the regular Faith of Democracy program at 7:15 tonight. Johnson is an authority on the political values which form the basis of our way of life, and is particularly familiar with Lincoln's life and attitudes.

Life in the WAAC

Some questions and answers of interest to every patriotic college woman

The drilling sounds so strenuous—!
Nonsense! The most beautiful women in America today are the girls in khaki! Some calisthenics and drilling are vital to general good health, discipline and tuned-up reflexes. After a few weeks at Fort Des Moines, Daytona Beach or the new Fort Oglethorpe training center you'll feel better than ever in your life.

Maybe I wouldn't like the work?
People are happiest doing what they do well. Every effort is made to place you where your service will count most toward final Victory. You may have some latent talent that will fill a particular need for work interesting and new to women—such as repairing the famous secret bombsight, rigging parachutes, operating the fascinating new electronic devices—or driving an Army jeep over foreign terrain.

Then I have a chance to learn something new?
Yes, indeed. And the list of WAAC duties grows constantly. The training and experience you get in the WAAC may equip you for many stimulating new careers opening up for women.

What are my chances of promotion?
Excellent. The Corps is expanding rapidly and needs new officers, both commissioned and noncommissioned. Those who join now have the best chances. All new officers now come up through the ranks. If qualified, you may obtain a commission in 12 weeks after beginning basic training.

What is the age range and other requirements?
Very simple. You may join if you are a U. S. citizen, aged 21 to 44, inclusive, at least 5 feet tall and not over 6 feet, in good health—regardless of race, color or creed. But the Army needs you now—don't delay. Total War won't wait!

Linguists needed. If you speak and write Spanish, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, Russian, French, German or Italian, see your local Army recruiting office now! You are needed for interpreting, cryptography, communications.

Women's Army Auxiliary Corps
KEEP 'EM FIGHTING!
For further information see your nearest
U. S. ARMY RECRUITING AND INDUCTION STATION

First of all, is the WAAC really needed?
Emphatically yes! Already the President has authorized the Corps to expand from 25,000 to 150,000. The Air Forces and Signal Corps have asked for thousands of WAAC members to help with vital duties. Both Ground Forces and Services of Supply are asking for thousands more. Members of the WAAC may be assigned to duty with the Army anywhere—some are already in Africa and England.

Can the WAAC really help win the war?
The whole idea of the WAAC is to replace trained soldiers needed at the front. If American women pitch in now to help our Army (as women in Britain, Russia and China do), we can hasten Victory—and peace.

What can my college education contribute?
College training is important equipment for many WAAC duties too long to list. Cryptography, drafting, meteorology, laboratory work, Link trainer and glider instructing, for example. If you are a senior you may enroll at once and be placed on inactive duty until the school year ends. See your WAAC faculty adviser for more details.

But can I live comfortably on WAAC pay?
There are few civilian jobs in which you could earn clear income, as WAAC enrolled members do, of $50 to $138 a month—with all equipment from your toothbrush to clothing, food, quarters, medical and dental care provided. WAAC officers earn from $150 to $333.33 a month.

Anderson Made Major in Medical Corps

Goes to Clinton Army Hospital

Board of Athletics To Discuss Coach's Future Status Monday

Dr. Edward N. Anderson, head football coach of Iowa's Hawkeyes, was sworn into the army medical corps yesterday with a rank of major, E. G. Schroeder, director of athletics, announced late yesterday afternoon.

Major Anderson is to be stationed at the army's Schick General hospital at Clinton where he will head the urology department under the direction of Col. Lester Dyke, former Iowa track athlete and director of the hospital. Anderson is now in Clinton.

Schroeder said the Hawkeye athletic board will meet Monday to discuss Anderson's future status with the Iowa athletic department. Anderson still has three years of his coaching contract to fulfill and Schroeder said he is confident the board will give him a leave of absence. Anderson's two assistants, Frank Carideo and Jim Harris, still are members of the Iowa staff.

Major Anderson had often expressed a desire to take a more active part in the nation's war effort and although he could have received a commission as a physical instructor, he felt he would be more valuable in the medical corps.

Anderson was an assistant in the urology department at University hospital in addition to his coaching duties.

Appointed head football coach at Iowa Nov. 28, 1933, Anderson developed four Hawkeye teams which won 19, lost 14 and tied 1. In the conference, his teams won 11, lost 11 and tied 1, and two notable victories were scored over Notre Dame.

The highlight of his four-year stay was in 1939 when he developed the famous Iron Men led by All-American Nile Kinnick, and the team finished second in the Big Ten. For his great job Anderson was named "coach of the year" by a poll of other coaches conducted by the New York Herald Tribune.

During the season of 1942, Iowa won six of ten games, breaking even in six conference contests. High point of the year was the defeat of Wisconsin, which kept the Badgers from the conference title and possibly from a No. 1 national ranking.

"We hope to have Major Anderson as head coach after the war is over," Schroeder said yesterday.

Vito Lopin Will Swim Last Race for Iowa In Michigan Contest

Michigan's record-breaking Wolverine swimmers will invade Iowa City tomorrow when they engage the Hawkeye mermen in a dual meet that promises to be one of the best of the year.

Possessing one of the strongest teams in recent years, the Wolverines will be out after some fieldhouse and intercollegiate records tomorrow night. The Iowa-Michigan dual has long been one of the best dual meets in the country and this one will probably be no exception.

It was learned that Vito Lopin will swim his last race for the Hawkeyes tomorrow as he will leave for the air corps on Feb. 19. Lopin has not been defeated in Big Ten competition this season.

Iowa will show its greatest strength in the sprints, backstroke, relays and diving. Bob Becker, Hawkeye backstroke artist, has not been defeated in his specialty this year.

Capt. Clyde Kemnitz has fully recovered from his gland ailment and appears in top condition for the Michigan meet. Kemnitz will team with Lopin in the 60 and 100-yard events.

Although the Hawkeyes have never defeated the Wolverines in a dual meet, they always come through with exceptional performances.

Eddie Anderson Raises Hawk Football Fortunes From Depths

Dr. Edward N. Anderson, head football coach at the University of Iowa, was selected as Coach of the Year after his first season at Iowa in 1939.

A native Iowan, he was born in Oskaloosa Nov. 13, 1900 and graduated in 1918 from Mason City high school. He played end at Notre Dame in 1918-19-20-21, having four years of competition because freshmen were eligible in 1918, due to the war year. In 1921, he was captain and all-American end for the Irish.

After graduating from Notre Dame in 1922, he was coach at Columbia college (now Loras) of Dubuque from 1922 through 1924 and DePaul university of Chicago from 1925 through 1931. He completed his medical studies at Rush Medical college of Chicago, earning the M. D. degree in 1929.

Out of coaching in 1932, he reappeared to the lure of football in 1933 when he went to Holy Cross college of Worcester, Mass. as head coach. There he developed teams which won 87% of their games in six seasons, outscoring foes 1,306 to 306, while winning 47, losing 7, and tying 4. His 1935 and 1937 teams were unbeaten.

Dr. Anderson was named Iowa's thirteenth head football coach Nov. 28, 1938. He is the first Notre Dame graduate to coach at Iowa.

In 1939, he developed a sensational team of Iron Men, called the "Cinderella team" of the nation, which finished second in the Big Ten with the best record since the title teams of 1921 and 1922, gave Notre Dame its first defeat of the season, and had a record of six wins, one loss, and one tie.

Anderson, for his great coaching job of bringing Iowa up from the lower regions of the conference to a national standpoint, was named Coach of the Year by a poll of other coaches conducted by the New York Herald-Tribune. He also was voted into the head coaching of the 1940 All-Star squad in the Chicago Tribune poll.

In 1940, the Iowa team lacked a passer and developed other weaknesses, but won four and lost four games. High point was the defeat of Notre Dame, 7-0, ending an Irish 6-game winning streak. Iowa also whipped Wisconsin and Illinois.

Close Games in 1941 The 1941 team, which won three and lost five, dropped three games by a total of eight points. It played its best football in November when Indiana and Illinois were beaten and Minnesota given a great battle for three quarters. Purdue and Nebraska won by one point and Michigan by six.

Iowa shared fifth place in the conference standing with an even break in six games. The team won from Indiana, 14-13; Purdue, 13-7; and Wisconsin, 6-0; while losing to Illinois, 12-7; Minnesota 27-7; and Michigan, 28-14.

The Hawkeyes of 1942 beat Nebraska, 27-0, the first win over the Huskers since 1930; Camp Grant, 33-16; and Washington university, 26-7; and lost to Great Lakes, 25-0. Anderson's teams scored more points than any of his other three outfits, and the passing attack, producing 929 yards, was the best made by an Iowa team in many years.

His four Iowa teams have a record of 19 wins, 14 losses, and a tie. In the conference, Iowa has won 11, lost 11, and tied 1. Notre Dame has been beaten twice.

Dr. Anderson is married and the father of three sons.

Chapman's Last Game Saturday

U-High Slated For Important Loop Contest

Playing their last home game of the season and their sixth conference tilt, U-high's Bluehawks tangle with Mt. Vernon tonight in an important Eastern Iowa loop contest.

Capt. Jack Shay has recovered from his attack of measles and ran through yesterday's workout in fine style. The Blues squad is at full strength for the tilt with the return of Shay to his pivot post. Although there is some doubt whether the Bluehawk captain can stand the pace for the entire game, his present condition appears to be all right.

The importance of this contest cannot be over emphasized as a loss would almost put the Blues out of the running in conference competition. Should the U-high squad pull through this game with a victory their hopes for copping the conference crown will be much brighter.

Coach Alley didn't waste any time in getting his squad back on the right track after their heart-breaking loss to a scrappy West Liberty quintet last Friday. The Bluehawk mentor spent much time in drilling his team on their fast break and to finish off yesterday's drill put the first stringers through an intensive workout on the proper way to stall. The Blues five failed to hold the ball in the last five seconds of the Comets' game and thereby lost the important clash.

Along with Shay, Jim Rasley and Don Wagner have looked good in practices and should find the range tonight against the Mt. Vernon five. Rasley and Wagner are long overdue and can be expected to hit at any moment.

The starting lineup will be the same that started all the other Bluehawk contests. Wagner and Rasley will start at forwards, Shay at center, and Bud Halvorsen and Ed Smith at the guard posts.

Hawklets Meet Solon, Sharon

City high tackles a big job here tonight as the Mertenmen take on a double feature with Solon and Sharon. Both non-conference tilts, the Hawklets meet Solon first at 7:30 and finish up with Sharon at 8:30.

St. Mary's of Iowa City has suffered defeats from both quintets this year, but in their first game with Solon, the Rambler's downed them 36 to 23.

Coach Fran Merten has a problem on his hands of how to set up his Red and White machine tonight to get the best results. The ruling is that no player may be used more than five quarters in an evening, so this means several new faces will appear on the Hawklet court.

Hard workouts were cut out for the Little Hawk cagers this week with the whole Red and White crew being used. Man-for-man and zone defenses were stressed and practice on a fast break received most of the offensive attention.

It is hard to tell if Coach Merten will start his first or second teams or break up his regular combinations. The most probable starting combinations are Dave Danner, Dick Lewis, Bob Roth, Bucky Walter and Bill Sangster or Lewis, Bob Hein, George Mellicker, Curly Brack and Ned Smith.

Iowa City has an open date next week for the Mertenmen to catch their breath. Centerville originally was scheduled, but has been taken off the card because of transportation difficulties. City high's last game is a conference tilt with Wilson of Cedar Rapids Friday, Feb. 26.

Ingwerson Joins Navy CHICAGO (AP)—Burt Ingwerson, football line coach at Northwestern university for the past eight years, resigned yesterday to accept a commission as a lieutenant commander in the navy. He leaves today for Chapel Hill, N. C.

St. Patrick's Returns Home for Game With Cedar Rapids Cagers

Coach Cliff Krittia will bring his St. Patrick's cagers back to Iowa City today to meet St. Wenceslaus of Cedar Rapids. Playing on the south side court for the first time since Jan. 22, the Irish must rate as top heavy favorites to repeat an early win over the Cedar Rapids squad.

The in-and-out Irish have taken five straight games on their own court but have won only four out of nine while on the road.

One of these out of town victories was a 22-10 win over St. Wenceslaus in Cedar Rapids early in January. The Parlor city team used their height to good advantage in that one but plainly lacked experience and scoring punch.

The Big Green cagers from Iowa City reached their peak for the season last week when they knocked off the high flying St. Paul's of Burlington quintet in the first round of the Davenport diocesan tournament but then fell completely apart before Iowa City's St. Mary's team in the second round. The Burlington team had previously dropped only two contests in 11 starts.

Phil McLaughlin, regular forward, will lead the Irish quintet into tonight's game. The hard driving sophomore has counted 27 points for the Big Green in their last three games and is now pressing "Doc" Connell, center, for the key offensive position in the Krittamen's attack.

Star guard, Billy Connell, will also be in St. Pat's starting lineup tonight. The speedy senior was named on the second team of the diocesan tournament squad despite the fact he only played in two games.

Turf Fans Pleased Over Plans to Hold 1943 Kentucky Derby

CHICAGO (AP)—Government approval of plans to hold the 1943 Kentucky derby gladdened Col. Matt Winn yesterday—and thousands of turf fans throughout the nation beamed, too.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, announced in Washington that plans by the management of the Churchill Downs track to restrict attendance to the Louisville, Ky., streetcar area, if adhered to strictly, "should meet the requirements of the transportation situation."

Winn, the 81-year-old president of Churchill Downs, Inc., was jubilant, and reported that scores of the derby faithful were so pleased that they had swamped him with telegrams of congratulations.

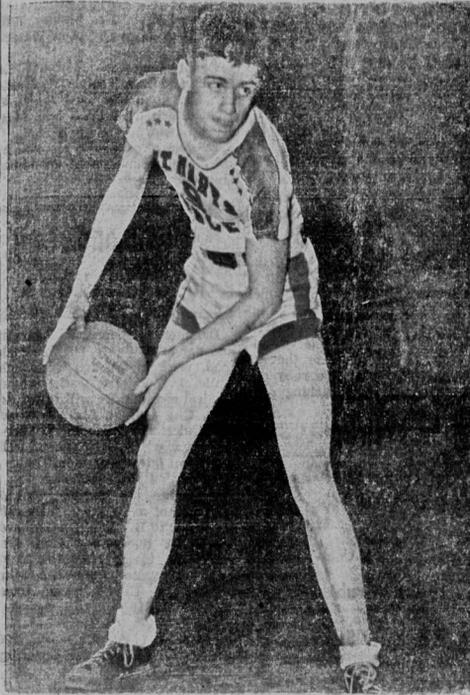

Winn figures that thousands of others, who regard the classic for three-year-olds as the No. 1 racing event of the year, were gratified by the developments, and predicted the derby's "listening-in audience" would be the greatest on record. The race will be run on Saturday, May 1.

It will be strictly a trolley car derby.

"I am very happy to receive such good news," smiled the dean of the American turf. "We will adhere strictly to the requirements put forth by the office of defense transportation."

"You'd be surprised by the number of letters and telegrams I received asking me not to abandon the derby this year. I got letters from Oklahoma, Utah—from all parts of the country. I'm telling you those Kentuckians are spread out everywhere. They don't want to miss that thrill of a massed band of 100 musicians playing 'My Old Kentucky Home' as the thoroughbreds parade to the post for the start of the derby. 'They'll be listening to it, too, on the radio this time and I'll be happy because of that.'"

RAMBLER-HANDY MAN

Pictured above is Bill Sweeney, St. Mary's star cager, who can play either center or forward with equal ability. The veteran sharpshooter was injured in the second round of the recent Davenport diocesan tournament and, although greatly handicapped, sparked the Marions to third place. Developing rapidly since the beginning of the year, Sweeney has just recently begun to score and now teams with George Seemuth to give the Rambler's one of the best one-two punches in this section.

Bruised, Battered St. Mary's Quintet to Face Cedar Rapids

The bruised and battered Rambler's of St. Mary's will be back in action tonight in almost full strength as they meet Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids on the Junior high school floor. Watching the game from the sidelines will be Co-Captain Melvin Smith who is still recuperating from an attack of the flu which kept him out of the Davenport diocesan tournament the first of the week.

The tilt will have special significance because since the Marions lost a close decision to the parlor city five earlier in the season, the Cedar Rapids quintet won the Dubuque diocesan tourney which ended Wednesday night. The Greyhounds trounced Cascade Central, 35 to 22, in the final round.

Coach Francis Suplee indicated last night that the thin men starting lineup will be Co-Captain George Seemuth and Bill Sweeney at the forward positions, Keith Bright at the pivot spot, and Don Brogla and Dave Ivie at the guards.

Sweeney and Bright both received leg injuries during the course of tournament play, but will be ready to take over their regular positions tonight. Tom Stahl and John Lechow, first line reserves, will be ready to take over if either of the two regulars is unable to start.

Because Mel Smith has been sidelined by the flu and thus has seen a week of inaction with the Rambler squad, Coach Suplee is holding him back in preparation for the game next Wednesday with St. Ambrose of Davenport. St. Ambrose is the team that won the Davenport diocesan tournament, thus giving next week's tilt all the earmarks of a thriller.

The game tonight is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, with a curtain raiser at 7 o'clock between the freshman and eighth grade teams.

Dents Trip Delta Chi In Cage Tilt Overtime

With six seconds remaining in the game, Marsh Davenport sank a field goal to knot the score at 9-all in a tilt which Psi Omega went on to win in an overtime from Delta Chi, 13 to 9, last night on the fieldhouse basketball court. The victory put the professional fraternity champions in top spot in the standings of the all-university cage championship race.

Moon Mullin, guard, and Davenport, center, led the dentists' attack with six and five points respectively, while Tom Thomsen paced the Delta Chi's with three digits.

Iowa Cagers Face Wildcats

Tom Over Measles; Thomsen Will Play Final Game Monday

As the Hawkeye cagers prepare to leave this afternoon for Evanston, Ill., where they will play Northwestern tomorrow and Monday nights, Coach "Pops" Harrison received some good news and some bad news.

Co-Captain Tom Chapman has recovered from the measles and will make the trip, although he may not start the game. But two more Hawks will soon be gone as Chapman received orders to report for the army air corps Feb. 19, and Tommy Thomsen is scheduled to report on the 21.

This will mean that Saturday's game will be the last one for Chapman since he wants to spend some time at home before leaving. Coach Harrison said yesterday. Thomsen will play his last game Monday night for the Hawks as it will be late to participate in the Purdue contest Feb. 20.

Don Thompson is the only new addition to the traveling squad, taking the place of Chuck Uknes who has left for the army. Others included — Ben Trickey, Jim O'Brien, Gene Nesmith, Bob Lundstedt, Sam Vacanti, Jim Humphrey, Jack Movoid, Chapman and Thomsen.

Coach Harrison is not sure about the starting lineup, since it will depend on how Chapman is feeling. If the fiery red head starts, Lundstedt will play guard; otherwise the Rock Island, Ill., sophomore will man the forward post. Trickey, O'Brien and Nesmith are sure starters.

fied forces will strike once Tunisia is cleared of the foe may be uncertain but that they will strike is unquestionable.

Two other British armies in the near or middle east, the Ninth and Tenth, and the Egyptian command vacated by Alexander, are not merged under Eisenhower. They stand east and west of Suez to link the allied line from the Atlantic to the Indian ocean. They, too, are now freed from defensive inactivity by the collapse of Hitler's Russian campaign. That they also are being geared to strike can not be doubted.

Dr. Harry Jenkinson Describes Functions of Civil Air Patrol

Dr. Harry R. Jenkinson described the organization and functions of the civil air patrol at the luncheon of the Rotary club yesterday noon at the Jefferson hotel.

"The purpose of the CAP," Dr. Jenkinson explained, "is to get together men and women interested or experienced in aviation so that they may do the most good by relieving pilots for combat service."

These persons, he continued, were welded into a disciplined military organization which extends all over the country, centering in Washington, D. C. In each of the nine army command areas a regional office, staffed mostly by army men, is established for the CAP men and women.

In those command areas, the speaker declared, there are set up wing commands, group commands, squadrons, and flights. Although the CAP is strictly military in organization, and wears a military uniform as the only civilian outfit allowed to do so, it is directly under the OGD, since it is composed of those men and women who could not get into the armed services for some reason or other.

Enlistment in the CAP is closely supervised by the FBI, whose approval must precede acceptance of the applicants, Dr. Jenkinson said. Each person desiring to enter must apply to the central office in Washington, after which he or she is investigated by the FBI.

Outlining the activities of the CAP, he told about its primary functions, which embrace coastal patrol, forest patrol, and a courier system. It is due to the CAP coastal patrol in a large measure, the speaker asserted, that submarine sinkings formerly taking place off coast have been driven out to sea.

He related an instance in which CAP planes had surprised a submarine which could not crash-land rapidly enough in the shallow water, and through signalling to army craft the CAP plane caused the capture of the sub.

No more than two casualties have resulted so far during the wide-flung activities of the CAP, Dr. Jenkinson said, pointing out that this represented an excellent safety record for that organization.

He discussed the course of study through which CAP personnel must pass. Military discipline and courtesy, drill, first aid, guard duty, are among the numerous items in the basic curriculum.

Celestial navigation, meteorology, leadership, map and aerial photography reading, code deciphering, observations and reconnaissance are included in the more advanced courses.

The local branch of the CAP, he went on, had guarded military objectives during blackouts, and guards military planes at the air port. It has also purchased an airplane, to which the Moose and Elk clubs each contributed $800. This aircraft, a 75 h. p. 3-passenger plane, will arrive here shortly.

Dr. Jenkinson mentioned the establishment of a cadet corps which is recruited from worthy high school students, who, he said with a smile, demonstrated an almost incredible and gratifying enthusiasm.

Principal Explains Campaign for Milk

Junior High Students Now Drink Beverage With Hot Luncheons

How milk was transformed from a highly unpopular drink into a much-liked beverage at Junior high school was told yesterday by Principal M. B. Street, who credits the miracle of a five-fold increase of consumption of the hot lunch program instituted at his school a year ago.

Just about two-thirds of the school population eating lunch at school take advantage of the offered meals, which cost 15 cents unless taken on a weekly basis when the price falls below 12 cents. Since the program has been efficiently self-supporting in spite of a strict non-profit basis, Dr. Street feels that it is an unqualified success.

Originally, the idea was to try and make milk more attractive to students. Attempts proved unsatisfactory in their results until a two-course meal was offered with the milk which appears to have made it decidedly more bearable.

Typical lunches offered are rich in vitamins. Some of the most popular meals are: Cherry perfection salad, buttered corn, and half a pint of milk; wieners and bun, potato salad, raw carrot and milk; hamburger meat loaf, potatoes, celery, and milk.

The hot lunch program, Principal Street declared, will be kept up and extended if possible during this semester, especially by way of adding new courses to the considerable variety which is available at present.

Dismiss Case of H. Wilfong From Court

District Judge James P. Gaffney dismissed the case of State of Iowa vs. Harry Wilfong from court yesterday.

The judge acted on recommendation of County Attorney Edward F. Rate. The complaining witness and her parents requested that the case be dismissed.

Wilfong was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of rape Nov. 19, 1942, but his case had been held over for the February term of court. He had been released from the county jail on a $1,500 bail.

The case of Barnes vs. Kinny, et al, will open in court Monday morning at 10 o'clock with Judge Gaffney presiding. Messrs. Hamilton and Cahill will represent the plaintiff and Atty. Edward O'Connor is counsel for the defendant.

Auto Registrations 1,035 Fewer Licensed This Year

Gasoline rationing and the war have taken their toll in the number of Johnson county auto registrations for 1943, it was noted yesterday by County Treasurer Lumir Jansa who stated 1,035 less cars were licensed for this year than last.

Applicants for licenses totaled 6,495 up to Feb. 3 of this year as compared with 7,530 that registered last year by that date.

Only four new car registrations have been applied for this year, Jansa stated.

"Students are giving up their jalopies," was the comment of licensing authorities, and many farmers and dealers junked old cars during the scrap drive.

Other reasons for the decline in registration were offered. Large numbers have left Iowa City for defense centers and many men have entered the armed forces.

Storage of cars for this year is a practice being followed by some owners who jack them up and put them on blocks to take unnecessary pressure and weight off the tires.

Most of the cars that were licensed this year were manufactured after 1934, it was stated, and large numbers of them were made in 1937.

Action on Plan To Create Jap Hostel Blocked

West Branch Citizens Must Decide Sunday On Scattergood Move

A plan to convert Scattergood, a placement and orientation center for European refugees near West Branch, to a refugee hostel for Japanese-American citizens who have been evacuated from west coast areas was impeded last night when a group of about 90 residents of West Branch asked that the action be deferred.

The meeting, held in the local high school under the auspices of the Community club, was called so that members of the American Friends service committee and of the executive staff of Scattergood could explain why the old system of supplying refugee for Europeans was being put aside in favor of aiding the Japanese-Americans.

After Homer L. Morris, secretary of the social-industrial section of the committee, had proposed the plan, heated debate sprang up. Finally William Anderson, mayor of West Branch, made a motion that "the Community club ask the Friends service committee to defer the action bringing Japanese refugees to the community of West Branch." The motion was carried without a dissenting vote.

Morris said that the matter would be referred to the executive committee of the hostel and that a definite decision would be reached Sunday.

Scattergood, which was established in April, 1939, has served 185 individual refugees, of whom 22 were children. Sixteen of the children were of school age and attended schools in West Branch for short periods of time.

Refugees, through the hostel, were given instruction in the English language and American customs. Through Scattergood's placement service, many were able to obtain jobs comparable to those they were forced to leave in their homeland.

Scattergood will be closed March 1, Mrs. Martha Balderston, director, said yesterday.
