Surprise Yank Push in Tunisia Reported as Making Headway

Russian Troops Slay 28,000 Germans Since February In Fighting on Approaches to City of Orel; Long Soviet Front Unchanged

By GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press War Editor

United States troops, which might have included detachments of infantry and armor freshly arrived on the Tunisian front, stabbed unexpectedly at the axis in the north-central sector yesterday as the battle of the Mareth line in the south raged through its seventh day without a decision in sight.

The surprise American thrust toward Fondouk, 15 miles southwest of the big axis air base at Kairouan, was reported making "good headway." The size of the attacking force was not indicated in allied dispatches, but the German radio said "strong" American and British columns, heavily supported by artillery, had been seen moving up in that area in recent days.

Kairouan, probable immediate objective of the new American drive, is only about 32 miles from the important axis supply port of Sousse. A break-through to the sea at that point would split the axis Tunisian armies as effectively as would a similar successful push by Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s forces from the Maknassy-El Guetar sector 100 miles to the south.

Russia May Decline To Make Post-War Plans Before Peace

Major Issue Arises In Senate Discussion Of Collective Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that Russia may decline to join in any attempt at this time to frame post-war policies for the united nations developed yesterday as a major issue in senate consideration of collective security proposals.

With a foreign relations subcommittee scheduled to begin preliminary study Tuesday of a half dozen resolutions, senators who have counseled against undertaking any international commitments now predicted the Soviet government would refuse to participate in such moves until after the war is won.

Say Stalin Objects

Senator Reynolds (D-N.C.), chairman of the military affairs committee and a foreign relations committeeman, said he doubts that Josef Stalin desires at this time to lay out the course Russia would follow after the war.

"I think Mr. Stalin is too busy looking after the interests of Russia and winning the war to hold any conferences now about such matters," Reynolds told reporters. "When he gets all he wants for Russia, all the territory he thinks she is entitled to, I assume that he will be willing to advise with the other united nations about keeping the peace."

Russia Needed

Reynolds said he thought any pledges other allied nations might make would be of little value if Russia did not join in a view that was not disputed in its fundamental sense by senators who have urged that the United States take the lead in organizing the united nations for cooperation in solving immediate problems and for collaboration in establishing and maintaining peace.

Beat at Line

An allied mid-day communiqué said Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's crack British Eighth army continued to slug away at the Mareth line "according to plan," had carried out a successful attack at one point and had captured many prisoners.

There was no indication, though, that the Germans and Italians defending the deep, scientifically designed fortifications were breaking under the hammer blows of their old desert antagonists and it appeared extremely doubtful that Montgomery would be able to throw Marshal Erwin Rommel into retreat this time within nine days — the time required last October at El Alamein in Egypt.

From comparatively sparse accounts of the struggle yielded by allied censors, it was impossible to determine whether Montgomery's men, tanks and serried artillery still were blasting away at the coastal end of the fortifications, determined to force their way across the Wadi Zigzaoui from which they were slashing at one or more new points on the 40-mile defense line.

Meanwhile Russian troops have killed 28,000 Germans since Feb. 1 in fighting on the approaches to Orel, Nazi-held hinge of the central and southern fronts, Moscow announced yesterday.

Slay 2,000 Germans

A Soviet information bureau broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor said 20,000 Germans were killed in February and 8,000 in March, and this was the first information in weeks concerning the Orel sector where the Red army offensive had been checked within 20 miles of the big Nazi base.

The regular midnight communiqué issued shortly before the announcement of the results in the Orel sector said, however, there were no essential changes on the long Russian front.

The Russian statement about the Orel sector said 6,820 Russians were killed since Feb. 1 as compared to 28,000 Nazis.

Spanish-Speaking Henry Wallace Cheered By Chilean Congress, 500 Spectators

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The century-old dream of true Pan-Americanism advanced a step further yesterday with the unprecedented spectacle of the second highest elective official of the United States addressing a Chilean congress in the language of Spain, and doing so with an excellent job of it that it brought a prolonged ovation from his listeners.

Vice-President Henry A. Wallace's speech was short, but he delivered it flawlessly at a joint session of congress called especially to greet him, asserting that today mankind is in full revolution to achieve freedom from poverty, create international brotherhood and abolish the present significance of frontiers.

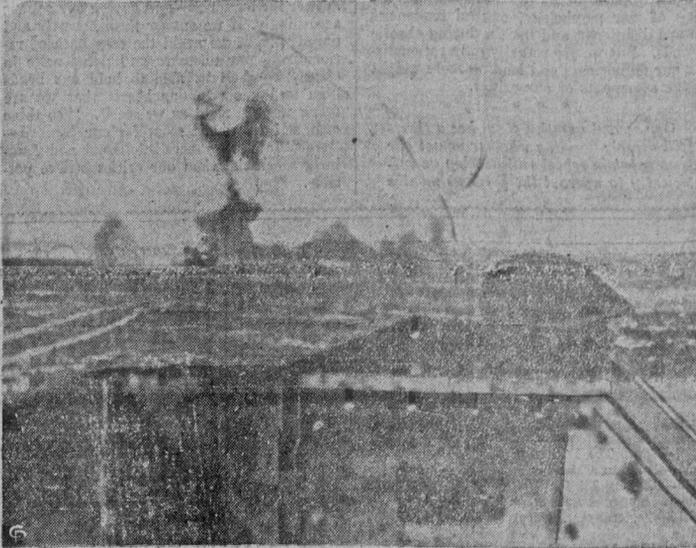

Wallace entered the chamber at 6 p. m. to polite applause from government and church officials and 500 spectators, and left 30 minutes later amid deafening applause testifying to the popularity of the United States and its envoy who came here to know Chile better.

Senate President Florencio Duran Bernales welcomed Wallace describing him as "an illustrious citizen of the illustrious land of Washington and Roosevelt." He said "Your visit has significance exceeding ordinary formalities" because "you have helped forge the doctrine of equality among sister republics, removing old fears and suspicions and bringing forth a new faith in friendship."

He declared that Chile adhered to the four freedoms, and that Wallace on this trip would find the continent full of democratic spirit and eager to translate that spirit into achievements on behalf of democracy. He also termed Wallace the herald of a new social-economic-political era with which the promise of 1789 (date the U. S. constitution took effect) is being fulfilled throughout the continent.

The senate president compared Wallace with Woodrow Wilson and William James as social philosophers contributing to a new American concept of life.

Charge Gay Company, Local Meat Market, With Illegal Slaughter

DES MOINES (AP) — Judge Charles A. Dewey signed permanent injunctions in federal court here yesterday against five more firms charged by the Iowa office of price administration with illegal slaughter of meat.

The defendants were Hyde and Vredenburg, Inc., Lamoni; W. A. Gay & Co. of Iowa City; W. G. Loehr, Ft. Dodge; Joe Macku, of near Manly and the Ford locker plant of Clare.

OPA announced its legal department has now secured injunctions against a total of 40 alleged violators of the slaughtering regulations.

Donald D. Holdoegel, OPA chief counsel, said evidence showed today's five defendants had illegally slaughtered more than 131,000 pounds of meat.

Corp. Albert Schmid, Hero of Guadalcanal, Promoted to Sergeant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The navy announced yesterday that Corp. Albert A. Schmid, 22-year-old marine corps hero of the battle of the Tanaru river on Guadalcanal island, has been promoted to sergeant.

Schmid was credited by his buddies with having killed 200 Japanese in the battle. An enemy hand grenade explosion cost him his eyesight and he has been under treatment in this country in an effort to restore the sight of one eye.

He recently received the navy cross "for extraordinary heroism."

DES MOINES (AP) — Five Des Moines high school youths, ranging in ages from 14 to 17, were arrested by police yesterday in connection with the disappearance of nine cases of gin from the home of Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, 400 Foster drive.

Detective Chief Paul Castelline said the gin was recovered hidden in a shack at Sycamore Park, northwest of the city. The liquor was reported missing by friends of Mrs. Hutchinson who is residing in Council Bluffs.

Also reported missing was Mrs. Hutchinson's 13-year-old son, Charles Robert.

Fruit Juices to Require Fewer Blue Coupons Beginning Tomorrow; Prunes, Raisins None

New Point Values Simply Explained Associated Press Lists Possibilities For Week's Budget

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How much can we buy when more rationing and the new point values of processed foods go into effect tomorrow?

As an example, every week a family of three will have an average of 34 points to use for processed foods and 48 points to use for meat, cheese and allied products. These figures are computed on the basis of 48 points per person each month for canned and dried foods and 16 points a week per person for goods on the meat table.

In some cases, of course, all the listed foods will not be available immediately. But here are some possibilities for next week's budget for a family of three:

Processed foods:

One pint grape juice, 4 points (formerly 8); No. 2 can of beans, 14 (formerly 10); No. 2 can of tomatoes, 16—total 34, the average weekly share of a month's point allotment for three persons.

Or: No. 2 1/2 can of peaches, 24 points (formerly 21); 2 1/2 ounce package of dehydrated soup, 2 (formerly 4); No. 1 can of tomato juice, 7 (formerly 8); and one small can of baby food, 1 point.

Or: Two cans of soup, 12 points; No. 2 can peas, 16; No. 2 can loganberry juice, 6 (formerly 15).

Meat and allied products:

Two pounds of sirloin steak or center pork chops, 16 points; two pounds hamburger, 10; three pound beef rum roast, 15; one half pound butter, 4; small can salmon, 3.

Or: Three pound beef rib roast, 21 points; one pound sliced bacon, 8; one pound margarine, 5; one pound lard, 5; one and one quarter pounds ham (Boston butt), 9.

Or: Two pounds end pork chops, 14 points; tall can of salmon, 7; one pound butter, 8; one half pound American cheese, 4; three pounds spare ribs, 12; one pound brains, 3.

These rationed foods, of course, may be supplemented by many unrationed products, such as rice, eggs, macaroni, dried fruits, game, poultry, fresh fish, olive oil, and soft cheeses such as cottage or cream.

WAVES Will Train Yeomen at Cedar Falls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Iowa naval training station at the State Teachers' college at Cedar Falls is being converted from a recruit training center to a yeoman's school for WAVES, the navy said yesterday, in order to provide for expansion of the women reserves program.

The navy reported an ever growing and varied demand for service women to replace men who are thus freed for combat duty.

Point Value of Dried Soups Cut 50 Percent While Canned Beans, Applesauce Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fruit juices will require fewer of your blue ration coupons starting Monday while prunes and raisins will take none at all, the office of price administration disclosed last night in a rejuggling of the point values of processed foods.

The point value of dried soups is being slashed 50 percent, but more points will be needed for canned beans, catsup and chili sauce, tomato paste and sauce, applesauce, fruit cocktail, peaches and pineapple.

The fruit juice reductions range up to 60 percent. These and the cuts on dried soup were made because the products were not selling up to expectations, officials said. The greatest reductions are on 46-ounce cans of juice. This size can of grapefruit juice, posted for 23 points in March, will take only 9 starting Monday. A 46-ounce can of tomato or pineapple juice will require 22 points instead of 32.

1,000 Cadets In Training At Glenview Base

U.S. Navy Discloses Inside Story of Huge Primary Flight Station

CHICAGO (AP) — The navy told the story of its largest primary aviation station yesterday, disclosing that approximately 1,000 aviation cadets are now being trained there every three months to fight with the fleet.

One year ago the station in Glenview, 21 miles northwest of Chicago, was a miniature naval reserve base for flight elimination training, with a complement of only 20 officers, 120 men and 18 airplanes.

Over 1,200 Acres

Now it's a hornet's nest of buzzing yellow trainers, spread over 1,200 acres of the countryside. Two whole golf courses have been swallowed in the expansion. Three hundred officers have been attached to primary training, 3,500 enlisted men back them up, and in the new hangars are approximately 350 planes.

The skipper of this air school, both in its "before" and "after" stages, is Com. G. A. T. Washburn, USN, an enthusiastic flying officer who saw long ago the possibilities of the little base at Glenview.

When war came his plans were ready, and he submitted them on April 7, 1942, just ten days after he was reassigned to command at Glenview after a brief tour of duty elsewhere.

Quick Work

Washington promptly approved the expenditure of $12,500,000 to make the base a vital part of the navy's air training program. Workmen threw up hangars, shops and barracks almost overnight. In 121 working days 1,300,000 square yards of concrete were poured for landing mats and runways.

Com. Washburn said he believed the plant was giving young fliers the finest primary course in naval aviation ever worked up—"certainly much improved over when I started to fly in 1924."

As a Reminder

Dried fruits were left on the official chart, at zero value, as a reminder that they may be rationed again when the new crop is packed.

OPA said no overall increase in rations is possible at present. The new values go into effect simultaneously with the inauguration Monday morning of the rationing of meat, cheese, canned fish and edible fats and oils. The new chart will be used in making purchases on any unused March or April fruit and vegetable stamps. These are the blue A, B and C (March—expire March 31) or D, E and F (April) stamps in ration book No. 2. The basic ration remains at 48 points per month per person.

The meat stamps that became usable Monday are the red A stamps in the same book. The following week unused red A's plus the red B stamps will be usable, accumulating until the first four weeks' meat stamps expire together on April 30.

Confused at First

Stauffer said processed food rationing had progressed reasonably satisfactorily, although consumers and storekeepers alike were considerably confused at the beginning.

"There has been no starvation because of rationing," he asserted. "But we are seriously aware of the effect of this program on human health and nutrition. We have had to make a few changes for persons who live in isolated places where they can't get fresh fruits and vegetables, but we fixed the original points on the basis of the available supply of processed foods, and except for shifting points from one item to another, we are unable at this time to lower point values in the aggregate."

Are We Justified in Continuing With Our University Work Today?

A Student Speaks on Education

... By Elizabeth Charlton

A young graduate chemist devotes his waking hours to research on synthetic rubber, receives the Navy E for his contributions. But his best girl cannot invite him to the special dance her college is giving. He is not in uniform.

An Iowa medical student walking across the river to class passes by a group of marching cadets and one of the uniformed embryo pilots shouts, "Draft dodger!"

A university coed traveling by train for a job interview finds herself in a car full of WAACs and becomes conscious of unspoken contempt as the young women in olive drab eye her civilian garb.

Everywhere it is the same. The moment we as college students come into contact with the world which lies beyond our campus we find suspicion, hostility, contempt, spoken or unspoken. We collide inevitably with the same old question—"Why aren't you in uniform?"

And we begin to wonder, to question ourselves. A part of each one of us admits that perhaps those who criticize us have more than adequate basis for their condemnation.

This is a serious problem—more serious than most of us care to concede, even to ourselves. Above all, it is an individual problem. We are not living in Germany, but in America—and for that very reason many of us still have decisions to make as to what course of action we should follow.

We have decisions to make. If we are to be true to ourselves we must make them intelligently, rationally. It seems to me that if we are to accomplish this we must ask ourselves three questions and in doing so we must view ourselves objectively and honestly.

First, we must ascertain as carefully and completely as possible our potentialities as individuals—take inventory of our raw materials, if you will. These raw materials are in many cases intangible but nevertheless capable of being measured more or less adequately.

amounts significant enough to merit attention and development. Special tests are available to the student to meet this very problem, easily obtainable in the department of psychology for a nominal charge. There is, however, no satisfactory substitute for ruthlessly honest subjective analysis.

Second, after taking inventory of these special capacities, we must determine whether or not, by remaining in school and selecting our curricula carefully, we can develop, utilize and improve these capacities enough to compensate for the time such an action will consume. As citizens of a nation at war, we have no time to waste or lose. Every iota of intelligence and ability is needed desperately, and will be more and more in demand as time goes on.

Basic to our decision will be a critical evaluation of the curricula we are following or planning to follow. We must plan to eliminate from our registration blanks courses which demand and develop only parrot-like minds, professors who expect no more of us than the memorization of dates and outlines and notating in "canned" lectures.

For example, a student with special capacities for training in chemistry should take chemistry courses fundamental to his understanding of basic laws and terminology. But he should also acquaint himself with the history and meaning of the "democracy" to which he will give his services when his training is completed, the problems of society in which he must live, the necessity of understanding the social and economic trends which will determine his destiny and which can be directed only by an intelligent citizenry.

The story is told of a young soldier at the front during the last war. Hungry, tired, discouraged, he gazed out over the barrenness of No Man's land and cynically wondered what he was fighting for. Suddenly a lark settled on the scarred branches of a lone tree and began to sing. Just as suddenly a German sniper scored a direct hit and the bird-song ended on a shattered high note. In that moment the doughboy knew the answer to his unspoken question. Those few moments of melody had given meaning to the hunger and mud and horror.

Education must be partially dedicated to the performance of the same function as that performed by the lark's song—it must lend meaning and understanding and richness of knowledge to the work at hand. . . . not only for today but for all that must inevitably follow the silencing of the guns.

The student must resolve, therefore, not only to develop his capacities to their fullest but to train himself to understand the framework in which these capacities will be utilized—to answer for himself the question of the soldier in No Man's land: "Why?" The blending and balancing of these two functions must be the responsibility of the student who decides that remaining in school will be his answer to our second question.

After the confusion of indecision has cleared away, after the curriculum has been carefully chosen, there remains only the work to be done—the long grind of eight o'clocks and examinations and evenings in reserve library. Here again we as students often fail. . . . The last batch of delinquents was the largest ever issued. Absences from classes are reaching unprecedented heights. We have tried to excuse ourselves on the basis of war psychology, natural tendencies toward disinterest and inertia during chaotic periods. But we are actually only rationalizing our deficiencies and leading more weight to the arguments of our critics.

Our second question then, has a three-fold aspect: deciding whether or not our time spent in school will develop us sufficiently to warrant the precious months or years it will consume; selecting our curricula carefully to insure not only maximum advancement of our capacities but understanding of the ideologies to which these capacities will be dedicated; and finally, resolving within ourselves to waste none of our infinitely valuable time and talents—to squeeze out of every day the maximum of personal development and improvement.

The last of our thinking processes must be that of determining where we can best utilize our capacities and training. This final question is, in the case of most young men, answered by outside authority. The armed forces maintain, with varying degrees of efficiency, departments of selection and placement for this very purpose. But for the average young woman or for the young man who is excluded from the services because of physical defects, this is a very real problem. "Shall I join the WAVES or SPARS or go into private industry?" "Should I find work in a defense factory or try for a job with a radio station?" These are the common mental queries of youth today. And here again public opinion enters the picture.

It has created the all-too-common impression that a young woman in uniform is serving her country more fully than the stenographer in her conservative business suit. This may be absolutely true that others in uniform are wasting talents which could be put to more productive use elsewhere. In a nation at war any job which contributes to the smooth running of our country's productive efficiency is a war job, whether it is reading stories to the children of war workers or replacing a man on the assembly line. We must as educated individuals find that niche best suited to our training and talents, wherever it may be or whatever the costume we must don.

These are the problem questions we must answer for ourselves—and govern our actions accordingly. If we answer them honestly and unselfishly, if we avoid the easy path of rationalizing our mistakes and deficiencies in effort, we shall be able to hold our heads high and know in our hearts that we are doing what is right as we see it. "To thine own self be true" must be our byword—"true" in a sense more intelligent and genuinely sacrificial than our critics believe possible.

C. WOODY THOMPSON
Probably the greatest obstacle they have faced here is the fact that influential Mr. Doughton has saved the money for his next year's taxes wisely and prudently, and he has not been sympathetic about the viewpoint of others who were not able to do so, or who were not so prudent or wise.
The treasury opposition has been based ostensibly on the idea that the rich would be helped. But that attitude also may possibly have softened somewhat by the fact that the March 15 income tax returns did not anywhere come up to expectations and bonds were cashed in large quantities to make them. The figures suggested that people were unable to meet the current revenues, much less attempt to meet the committee proposal to lure doubtful payment of taxation this year with 6 percent bait.
However, Representative Frank Carlson, Republican, of Kansas, has estimated that the tadpole bit of 6 percent discount small as it is, would cause possibly 5,000,000 people to borrow a billion dollars this year.
This, however, would benefit only those who had sufficient credit to borrow at less than 6 percent from a bank.
It would only solve the problem of the man who has cash at hand, not necessarily the rich man, whose taxes this year are terrific, or in bonds (including government).

Interpreting THE WAR NEWS by GLENN BABB

The united nations' program for carrying the war to Hitler's Europe in 1943, as charted at Casablanca, began in southern Tunisia last week. It emerged from the silent, secret phase of preparation and logistics to the open field of battle, where it could be watched by all the world with varying reactions of hope, pride, confidence, fear.

If it did not produce an immediate triumph to set the bells ringing in allied lands, neither did it disclose anything to disturb the underlying conviction expressed by allied leaders that the united nations are on the highroad to ultimate victory.

The Russians gained at least a standoff in their struggle with what still is the major part of Hitler's war machine, not yet diverted from its eastern objectives by the growing threat of allied invasion of Europe.

The Pacific war continued the pattern of unremitting American and allied air attacks on Japan's outermost fingerholds.

The one ominous note—or rather an ominous silence—came from the battle of the Atlantic, on which the progress of all the other battles depends. The world had little chance to learn what goes on behind the veil that wraps bitter conflict against Hitler's U-boats. There were hints, however, that the expected spring rise in the tempo of submarine attacks was well advanced. Allied spokesmen were grimly noncommittal in the face of extravagant German claims.

Allies Open Attack
All else in the week's news was secondary to the announcement that the British Eighth army, in coordination with the Americans under General Patton, at last had opened its attack against Rommel in the Mareth line.

The Americans, at least three divisions strong, already were driving eastward toward the Gulf of Gabes when the Eighth army struck and the advance was continued satisfactorily. Maknassy was taken by a column that continued to within artillery range of Mezzouana, in the coastal plain. A second American column, farther south, pushed east from El Guefar. Both were consolidating their positions at the week's end, having beaten off heavy counterattacks. They were on the last crests before reaching the coastal plain through which runs the road linking Rommel with von Arnim in the north.

Yesterday an extension northward of the American attacks was reported, an advance toward Kairouan, further impelling Rommel's communications. The Eighth army's first assault, begun a week ago under a full moon, dented the Mareth line to a depth of about a mile, establishing a bridgehead across a difficult defile. But in midweek

Rommel concentrated his best units for a mighty counterblow that compelled the British to abandon this gain.

Setback Temporary
General Montgomery's veterans had to give ground for the first time since they turned on Rommel in those dark days of last summer when Egypt and Suez seemed doomed. But there was confidence that this setback was only temporary. The final communique of the week recorded "satisfactory results" for the Eighth army and declared that operations were going according to plan.

A feature of the Tunisian battle was the heavy allied concentration of air power, greater than any before in Africa. American and British squadrons hammered the enemy from his front, all along his supply lines back to the ports and to the sea lanes beyond. Boxed in a narrow area between Montgomery, Patton and the sea, the axis forces were taking heavy punishment.

Naples and Messina felt the power of far-ranging American heavy bombers, while the RAF carried the war to the suburbs of Rome itself.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS by PAUL MALLON

Formal Opposition To Ruml Position
WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressmen have been getting so many letters from back home that the administration's opposition to the Ruml plan is likely to be formal.
Speaker Rayburn and Floor Leader McCormack are talking anything but tough to the Democratic members, and, while there is no question of their sincere desire to follow the leadership of ways and means committee Chairman Doughton, they realize it cannot be done.
The best they are likely to get are some modifications yet to be worked out.

Probably the greatest obstacle they have faced here is the fact that influential Mr. Doughton has saved the money for his next year's taxes wisely and prudently, and he has not been sympathetic about the viewpoint of others who were not able to do so, or who were not so prudent or wise.

The treasury opposition has been based ostensibly on the idea that the rich would be helped. But that attitude also may possibly have softened somewhat by the fact that the March 15 income tax returns did not anywhere come up to expectations and bonds were cashed in large quantities to make them. The figures suggested that people were unable to meet the current revenues, much less attempt to meet the committee proposal to lure doubtful payment of taxation this year with 6 percent bait.

However, Representative Frank Carlson, Republican, of Kansas, has estimated that the tadpole bit of 6 percent discount small as it is, would cause possibly 5,000,000 people to borrow a billion dollars this year.
This, however, would benefit only those who had sufficient credit to borrow at less than 6 percent from a bank.
It would only solve the problem of the man who has cash at hand, not necessarily the rich man, whose taxes this year are terrific, or in bonds (including government).
These necessary war taxes are equally burdensome on all. It (See WASHINGTON, page 11)

Giving a Lady a Bath in the Movies Takes Less Time Today By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Among you other notes on the progress of civilization, you may record today that giving a lady a bath in the movies takes a heck of a lot less time than it used to.

Back in 1925, when Don Greenwood assisted at his first cinema bath, it was not unusual for the director to keep a lady soaking three, four, five days or longer.
Don, who is a chief property man, remembers that Lillian Rich, the heroine of this first lady-dunking experience of his, simmered in the tub for nearly five days. Miss Rich simmered in warm milk, that being one of Cecil B. (for Bath-tub?) DeMille's lushier ideas for mixing glamour with plumbing. The picture was "The Golden Bed."

The other day Don officiated at a bath scene featuring the curvaceous charms of Miss Betty Grable as "Sweet Rosie O'Grady." Miss O'Grady, by this time in her story's development, was plushly prosperous as a bustled belle of Gay Nineties musical comedy, and she had a bathroom on which DeMille himself might have cast an appreciative eye. Her tub was full-length, like modern versions, and its sides were encased in polished wood.
The get was closed that day—not because Miss Grable is coy about appearing in a bathing suit under a blanket of foamy bubbles, but because the day before somebody had spread the word that Betty would be bathing, and folks just couldn't resist the urge to see how moving pictures were made. Serious students of cinema art sprang out from crevices in the walls, from under rocks.
"Was in the tub only a day and a half," says Don, "and not steadily at that. Seems to me the directors are more careful about their players' catching cold that they used to be. She got out of the water when they weren't shooting and wrapped herself in a lot of towels. They didn't seem to care much, in the old days, whether so much soaking irritated the player's skin, either. I've seen some of them come out of the tub all red and wrinkled from too much soap and water."
Bandmaster Greenwood recalls regretfully that Dolores Del Rio once, for a bathtub scene in "The Red Dancer," stayed dunked a whole day—from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.—after which Miss Del Rio was more than slightly waterlogged.
"We've got more help on bathing nowadays," he says. "We used to have to haul the water, keep it hot, and mix up the foam bath. Got the ingredients from a pharmacy, mixed it ourselves, and filled the tub. Today we get the same stuff already mixed—it keeps its bubbles whereas ordinary soap bubbles burst. Now the unions make these baths easier for prop men—they get a plumber to fix the water, and a heating man to keep it warm."

SUI Women Hold Panhellenic Workshop on Sorority Matters

Delegates of 5 Iowa Colleges, Universities Attend Discussions

Women from five Iowa colleges and universities attended the Panhellenic Workshop yesterday morning in Schaeffer hall. Problems of wartime sorority life were discussed at the conference, which was sponsored by the Women's Panhellenic association.

Sally Brauch, A3 of Marquette, served as chairman of the conference, suggested by National Panhellenic association. Helen Reich, adviser of the Panhellenic association, told the group that while fraternities, of course, are out for next year, sorority houses will be open and can expect about the same enrollment of women.

Rushing Rules

Frances Glozier, A3 of Iowa City, led the section of the conference on wartime rushing. She pointed out the necessity of changing rushing rules. Marian Schung, C3 of Dows, emphasized that summer rushing will have to be left up to the discretion of the individual chapters. Summer trips are out, she said, but sororities may still have rushing parties.

Mary Balster, A3 of Marion, presented plans for fall open houses. Currier hall is to be open the Saturday night before open house, and rushees will register in two groups. The first group will register in the afternoon and go to open house in the evening. The second group will reverse the procedure. Miss Balster also pointed out that no food or beverages may be served at open house.

Parties

No houses will be able to serve meals to rushees, and no parties may be scheduled during meal hours, Frances Simonsen, A3 of Sioux City, pointed out. Parties must utilize all home-talent music, only beverages may be served and no florist flowers may be used for decorations or favors. A split luncheon may be served from 10 to 12 M. during rush week, and at the preference party that evening from 7 to 9:30, only beverages may be served.

Jane Shipton, A3 of Davenport, led the section of the conference on "Labor Shortage and Its Effect on Chapters."

Pointing out that sororities are going to have to find some way to meet the shortage of men for work in chapter houses next year, R. L. Ballantyne, manager of student employment, said that it will be hard to get university girls to work in chapter houses next year. It is just as easy for sorority girls to get work on campus as it is for unaffiliated girls, he stated.

Speaking on campus situations in 1918, Mrs. Adelaide Burge, senior councilor in the office of student affairs, said that sorority life in 1918 was affected much like that of today. Girls not in Currier hall or sorority houses were housed in fraternity houses, war courses were as strongly emphasized as today, the whole campus was military property, and a pass was needed for entrance. Social life was nil, except for noon hour social dancing in the present foreign languages library.

Family Plan

Genevieve Slemmons, A3 of Iowa City, presented the best suggestion for meeting the problem of the manpower shortage—that of having sororities work as a family group. Most of the things boys do now could be taken over by girls, she said.

In the same field, Eleanor Keagy, A2 of Washington, spoke on problems in developing a cooperative system. One is that the house-mother will have to work out a schedule from girls' class hours for serving tables. An easier way of conserving time is to serve meals buffet or family style, she pointed out.

Bouena Jean Bell from Simpson college described the Simpson plan of cooperative housekeeping. Girls work for one-third of their board under this system, she said, and the housemother does the planning and buying. The girls get all the meals, and while they also do the cleaning, they have one houseboy to do the dirty work.

Panel Discussion

Under the leadership of Elizabeth Charlton, A4 of Manchester, an informal discussion by representatives from each chapter brought out what each sorority is doing for the war effort. Those who took part in the forum were Mary Beth Porterfield, A2 of Holstein, Chi Omega; Jean Koenig, C3 of LeMars, Zeta Tau Alpha; Carol McConaha, A4 of Centerville, Ind., Delta Delta Delta; Dorothy Stone, A2 of Hawarden, Alpha Xi Delta.

Jane Randolph, A1 of Marion, Ind., Kappa Kappa Gamma; Virginia Husman, C3 of Waterloo, Gamma Phi Beta; Margaret Wengert, A4 of Independence, Alpha Chi Omega; Marilyn Nesper, A2 of Toledo, Ohio, Alpha Delta Pi; Beverly Zlotky, A1 of Omaha, Neb., Sigma Delta Tau; Mary Bob Knapp, A2 of Appleton, Wis., Kappa Alpha Theta; Patricia Swisher, A2 of Des Moines, Delta Gamma, and Miss Charlton, Pi Beta Phi.

Florence Walker, A3 of Sidney, led the discussion on "Chapter Social Program on a Wartime Basis." Divisions of this topic were handled by Ricka Wolff, A2 of Wilmette, Ill., who spoke on "Alternative Ideas"; Jacqueline Giles, A3 of Wilmette, Ill., who discussed "Limitations," and Elizabeth Cook, A2 of Glenwood, who presented the topic, "Girls Without Men."

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers opened the major league exhibition baseball season yesterday by shutting out the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 0, on the six-hit pitching of two veterans and a recruit.

Virgil (Fire) Trucks and Paul Trout held the Sox in check for six innings, turning the job over to Frank (Stub) Overmire, rookie southpaw from Beaumont of the Texas league, who hurled two-hit ball.

The Tigers gathered eight hits off three Chicago rookies, Donald Hanski, Gordon Maltzberger and Floyd Speer. Rip Radcliff, Don Ross and Rudy York each knocked in a run.

The two clubs play here again today. Chicago..... 000 000 000—0 6 0 Detroit..... 001 010 01x—3 8 0 Hanski, Maltzberger (4), Speer (7) and Turner, Castino (7); Trucks, Trout (4), Overmire (7) and Parsons, Richards (8).

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds' regulars beat the scrubs, called the Commandos, 9 to 2, yesterday in the team's first intra-squad game for the entertainment of Indiana U. students and a bevy of WAVES training here.

The regulars started hitting early, bunting two singles and an error for a pair of runs in the second inning, and five hits, two of them doubles, for four more in the third. The Commandos were blanked until the seventh.

LAKEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—Results of 10 days of outdoor batting practice began to show in the New York Giants camp yesterday when Babe Barna doubled with the bases full and Joe Oregno knocked in two runs with a single in a 4 to 0 victory scored by the Rockefeller regulars over the Gould reserves. Hawk Swimmers Finish Fourth In NCAA Meet With 10 Points

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State university's great swimming team added the National College Athletic association championship to its Western conference crown last night.

The Buckeyes piled up a record total of 81 points in winning its first NCAA team title. Second place Michigan, which set the previous record of 75 points in 1940, scored 47 points. Minnesota was third with 13 points and Iowa fourth with 10.

Keo Nakama, 5 foot 4 inch Hawaiian from Ohio State, won his second N. C. A. A. title of the meet with a 4:43.2 performance in the 440 yard free style. Friday he took the 1500 meter crown.

Michigan's Big Ten champion, John Patten, copped the 100-yard free style crown in virtually a dead heat finish with Bill Smith, Ohio State Hawaiian freshman making his first appearance in competition in the century. Smith holds every world record between 100 yards and a mile. Patten's time was 52 seconds flat.

Emmett Cashin, Pacific coast collegiate breast stroke champ from Stanford, annexed the 200 yard breast stroke title in 2:27.4. He was only inches ahead of Irving Einbinder of Michigan.

Frank Dempsey continued the sweep of high and low board diving championships begun by Ohio State in 1938 by retaining his three-meter crown after winning the one meter title Friday. His high board point total was 156.68 against 153.28 by Charles Batterman of Ohio State, who was second.

Michigan's relay team of John Patten, Harry Holliday, Mert Church and A. Cory won the 400-yard event in 3:31.1, giving the Ann Arbor school a sweep of the meet's two relay events.

William S. Merriam of Philadelphia, chairman of a committee of NCAA judges, presented Patten the NCAA's annual award as the outstanding collegiate swimmer of the year. The award was based on scholarship as well as swimming ability, Merriam said.

The day's qualifying events brought two minor surprises. Charles Batterman, Ohio State university sophomore, outpointed

Crown Champs In Wrestling, Boxing Bouts

The final regimental championship tournaments of the indoor season in boxing, wrestling and water polo were climaxed last week with tourney winners being crowned champions of the entire Navy Pre-Flight school in their sports.

Most interesting matches in both wrestling and boxing were staged in the heavyweight divisions. In boxing, John Padach of Youngstown, Ohio, and Kenneth Smock of Indianapolis pummeled each other for three stirring rounds before a split decision finally was awarded to Padach.

In wrestling, James Reichert, son of the former lightweight boxer Willie Ritchie, proved his versatility by pinning Francis Cronin of Chicago in 50 seconds. Reichert, who participated in basketball, football, wrestling, boxing and track at Pitt and Bucknell, was a golden glove boxing king before coming into naval aviation.

Buck Newsom Agrees To Brooklyn Terms

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y. (AP)—President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday announced that pitcher Louis (Buck) Newsom had agreed to terms and will arrive in New York from Hartsville, S. C., on Tuesday when he will sign his contract.

The capitulation of Newsom leaves Lloyd Waner as the only unsigned Dodger, but Little Poison is expected to remain in his Oklahoma City defense job.

With the appearance of President Bill Cox of the Phils at the Dodgers' Bear Mountain inn headquarters late yesterday afternoon, there was talk of another Philly-Dodger deal.

St. John's Wins, 69-43 NEW YORK (AP)—Rolling to victory behind the sharp shooting of Harry Boykoff and Al Moschetti, St. John's of Brooklyn joined Toledo in the finals of the national invitational basketball tournament last night before 18,419 fans—the largest crowd ever to witness the court game in Madison Square garden.

National Grid League Helps Service Funds

Contribute Largest Amount Ever Raised By Single Concern

CHICAGO (Special)—The National Football league's first opportunity to participate in wartime relief produced a purse of $630,384.07 for service charities in 1942, Elmer Layden, commissioner of professional football, announced yesterday.

This is the largest amount raised by a single athletic organization and one of the largest contributions by any sport. Together with $85,678.35 in federal amusement taxes collected for the Internal Revenue department, it represents 67.1 percent of gross receipts for all charity games in which National league teams participated.

Army Emergency Relief received $463,206.90 and $51,464.50 was paid into the Navy Relief fund. The balance, $165,712.67, was distributed among other war relief agencies, including the Red Cross, U. S. O., United Seamen's Service and canteen funds.

Not yet in existence during World War I, the National league launched its initial relief endeavor with fifteen games which drew a total of 479,674 spectators. Nine of the ten National league clubs participated in one or more contests.

Cleveland sought a place on several schedules, but succeeded only in booking Camp Shelby. Camp Shelby later found it impossible to keep the date.

The largest single contribution came from the Chicago All-Star game in which the Chicago Bears defeated the College All-Americans, 21 to 0, before 101,103, the largest football crowd of the year.

The series against two all-star teams recruited from the army, in which the soldiers succeeded in holding National league representatives to a draw at four victories apiece, raised $324,133.94 for Army Emergency Relief. In addition, nominal shares totaling $15,386 were paid to local war relief agencies in Boston and Syracuse, N. Y., site of two of the army games.

Other National league relief activities on which Commissioner Layden will report to the club owners in the league meeting in Chicago on April 6, 7 and 8 include the selling of approximately $4,000,000 worth of defense bonds at regularly scheduled games and rallies.

The outstanding item in bond sales is credited to Coach Curley Lambeau and his passing combination, Cecil Isbell and Don Hutson, who received a treasury citation for selling $2,100,000 worth in a single night's rally in Milwaukee. A total of $688,275 in bonds was sold at New York Giant home games and Bear home games added another $260,750.

One hundred and eighty-seven footballs were supplied to service camps and training bases. The Giants supplied the uniforms for the entire army squad in the Lily bowl game in Bermuda on New Year's day.

Free tickets were made available for 127,500 service men at regularly scheduled games. Ten thousand were admitted free at the Eagles-All-Star game in Philadelphia and the Bears played before another 12,000 at Camp Grant in an exhibition.

ASBURY PARK, N. J. (AP)—Ed Barrow, president of the New York Yankees, reached his club's spring training camp late yesterday and told reporters that Frank Crosetti, suspended shortstop, was a holdout.

Crosetti was suspended for the first 30 days of the 1943 campaign by Commissioner J. M. Landis for pushing an umpire during the 1942 world series.

Barrow said Crosetti was demanding that his salary start on the first day of the season but that the club felt it should pay only from the day on which the infielder is available for play.

Intramural Wrestlers Prepare For Final Matches Wednesday

Intramural wrestling will come to a climax Wednesday afternoon when champions in eight divisions will be crowned as all-university title holders. Semifinal matches in all classes not already decided will be held Monday afternoon in the fieldhouse wrestling room, followed by a day of inactivity in which the finalists may weigh in for the championship pairings Wednesday.

With increased interest in the all-university mat tournament as the finals approach, Glenn Devine, intramural sports manager, and Mike Howard, wrestling coach and assistant in intramural wrestling, are making arrangements to seat the crowd expected for the mat championships.

Medals will be awarded to first and second place winners as well as a gold medal to the outstanding wrestler in the tournament. Depending on the medals available, champions will receive gold medals and second place winners will be awarded a silver emblem symbolic of their placing.

Dyer, Mathes Slated To Divide Rickey's Former Card Duties

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—Eddie Dyer, manager of Columbus of the American association, became a heir-apparent to Branch Rickey yesterday in a formal reorganization of the front office of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

President Sam Breadon announced Dyer and scout Joe Mathes would divide some of Rickey's former duties as vice-president and general manager of the Cardinals. Breadon has personally handled most of the work since Rickey's departure to become president of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Under the new set-up, Dyer will supervise the Cardinals' class AA and A1 minor teams and Mathes will have charge of the lesser classification farm clubs. Both have functioned for some time as contact men for Breadon.

Connie Middleton Presides at Party

Gay Prints, Frothy Pastels Color SUI Coronation Dance

By PEGGY KING

Gay prints and frothy pastels swirled through the main lounge of Iowa Union last night as the students of the university danced at the Coronation ball.

Most beautiful of all the coeds present, as proclaimed by a board of competent judges, was Connie Middleton of Kappa Kappa Gamma, the 1944 Hawkeye Queen. Accompanied by George Ruggiv, A4 of Estherville, Miss Middleton wore a gown of dusty pink chiffon. A wide girde of satin pointed down toward the full skirt, and right at her waist a gardenia corsage. Long white gloves, wrinkled in just the proper manner, completed the costume of this really regal looking queen.

Gay Toppers
Cocky little birds, perky bows and flowers of all kinds perched in the hair of the fair sex, showing that there is no end to a girl's ingenuity when preparing for a formal party.

Another sign of spring was the gray net formal, banded at the waist in fuschia silk, worn by Ann Bates of Davenport, who attended the party with Herald Smith, A1 of Cedar Rapids. Splashing the front of the gown with color was a spray of shaded orchid and fuschia flowers which fell almost to the floor.

Mrs. Clarence Christianson
Mrs. Clarence Christianson, the former Donna Mae Geertz, appeared with her new husband wearing a gown of white net with a torso length top of white satin. The skirt was trimmed with satined ruffles forming a foamy peplum.

Proving again that black can be spring-like, was the formal worn by Barbara Henry, C3 of Charles City, the date of James Swab, C4 of Mason City. The pink silk of the blouse was repeated in the applied design on the front of the full skirt.

Pretty—and Chic
Quaint was the word for the printed taffeta dress of Doris Rimel, A1 of Bedford, who was with Jim Mahary, A1 of Clearfield. Made with puffed sleeves, a billowy skirt, and a lace-up-the-front waist, it was really a picture frock.

Sophisticated dinner gowns, pastel chiffons that looked good enough to eat, and low cut formals comprised a medley of charm and color at this fashion editor's delight, a formal party.

Mme. Chiang Raises Question of Allies

Fighting After War

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek last night raised the question of whether the allies, after achieving military victory over the axis, will fight among themselves and thus lose the peace.

In an address prepared for delivery at a mass meeting which included thousands of Chinese, the first lady of China cited an example from history—the Husites who united successfully against the German emperor's attempt to subjugate them by armed force, but who allowed their own factional differences to culminate in self-destruction after victory.

Mrs. Mary Moriarity Dies in I.C. Hospital

Mrs. Mary Moriarity, 85, died late yesterday afternoon in a local hospital following an illness of several months.

She was the daughter of Patrick and Bridget Brennan, pioneer residents of Riverside. For the past several years she has lived with her niece, Veronica Hanson, 311 N. Linn street. Prior to this, she made her home in Washington, Iowa.

Mrs. Moriarity, who was a member of St. Mary's church, is survived by one step-daughter, Mrs. LeRoy Wilkinson of Ottumwa, and two step-sons, Marcellus of Chicago and John of Detroit.

Three sisters, two brothers, her husband and one step-son preceded her in death.

The body is at Beckman funeral home. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Cliff-dwellers, formerly believed to be a vanished race on the American continent, are now recognized as early Pueblo Indians.

Strong G.O.P. Forces Threaten Third Term Try by Willenbrock

By LOU PANOS

Optimism soared high among Iowa City Republicans yesterday as candidates for municipal offices wound up campaigns 48 hours before election day.

Dean-Emeritus Wilbur J. Teeters, Republican, strengthened by a host of Democrats who rallied to his support, loomed as a formidable threat to Mayor Henry F. Willenbrock, seeking his third term.

Three Democrats, however, remain certain of election.

Unopposed Candidates

William White and Charles Beckman are unopposed for city assessor and park commissioner, respectively; Leo Kohl is unopposed for third ward alderman.

White has served as assessor for more than 20 years and is the senior of the party's father-son combination. Son Jack is police judge.

G.O.P. Platform

Teeters has announced a platform based on "the elimination of petty politics from municipal government" and has resolved to conduct the government of Iowa City on a business scale.

He chided Willenbrock because the mayor promulgated a statement to the effect that the past administration had diminished the city debt by $207,662. A check-up, Teeters said, revealed that only $145,259 had been deducted from the debt.

The mayor expressed the belief that this check-up must have covered only the last two years of his administration, during which time Teeters has been a member of the city council.

However, the Republican candidate said the entire administration of Willenbrock, from 1939 to date, was taken into consideration. He added that he was unable to determine how the difference between his figures and the mayor's might be accounted for.

The present bonded debt of the city is unofficially quoted at $328,690.

Seven Are Incumbents

Of the 12 Democrat aspirants, seven have served part or entire terms during the closing period of office. Max Boone, Kohl and Beckman were appointed to fill vacancies which occurred in mid-term.

Kohl will vacate his present post to accept candidacy in the third ward Democrat stronghold, where too few Republicans vote to offer serious competition.

Some observers interpret this move as an effort to keep the party machine intact, for Sam Whiting Jr., who will try to replace Kohl as alderman-at-large, is regarded as the stronger candidate. Thus, the Demos appear more potent for alderman-at-large than they would have had Kohl run for that position.

The complete Democratic ticket follows:

The 'Mending Lady' Now Works for AEF

LONDON (AP)—The mother of an American-born favorite of London's stage is known as the "Mending Lady" at the American Red Cross Washington club.

She is Mrs. Lillie M. Browne, who formerly resided in Philadelphia, but has lived in England since 1927. Her daughter, Louise, played in the musical comedy, "Girl Friend." One day a week Mrs. Browne mends United States soldiers' clothing.

MAYOR

H. F. Willenbrock . . .

... is after his term as mayor of Iowa City. Before taking office in 1939, he was a member of the city council for two years.

Prior to moving here, the mayor lived in Marengo, where he was alderman for four years.

He has been engaged in the automobile business for 29 years. The mayor is empowered to appoint the city clerk, chief of police, fire chief, health physician, sexton of cemetery and many other public workers.

In the past term Willenbrock has appointed three alderman, 2 police judges and the city clerk to fill unexpected vacancies.

Park Commissioner

Charles Beckman . . .

... is the only candidate for park commissioner; there is no salary attached to the job. He has served on the board of park commissioners for two years and is endorsed by the Democratic party.

The board is responsible for the condition of municipal parks and determines the tax levy for general park purposes. This is certified to the council, which may legally approve the levy.

Members of the board are elected every six years.

Besides Beckman, George W. Kanek and Dr. William M. Rohrbacher also serve.

Wilbur J. Teeters . . .

... dean-emeritus, wants "to take the business of Iowa City out of petty politics". He is in favor of paying all city employees standard living wages; as for the city's garbage, safety, traffic, and sewer problems, Teeters believes they should be handled in a business-like manner and advocates taking care of them as soon as "war conditions permit".

In the recent and still unsolved garbage headache, he advocated that that the city take over collection and disposal of garbage.

Former dean of the college of pharmacy (1904-1937), he also spent 30 years as head of the hospital dispensary.

Sam Whiting Jr. . . .

... who has served as third alderman for the past two years, is now Democrat candidate for alderman-at-large.

Born here, he attended high school and was graduated from the college of pharmacy of the university; he majored in economics and political science.

He is now a real estate and insurance agent.

Whiting believes the garbage should occupy precedence over other problems in the attention of the council.

He is in favor of furthering the Ralston creek flood control project and completing work begun on the airport by the federal government.

Jack White . . .

... was appointed police judge to fill a vacancy in January of this year. His record is Iowa City across-the-board. He was born here, went to Iowa City high school, and attended the university, where he received his A. B. and J. D. degrees. Judge White is also a practicing attorney here.

From 1936 to 1942 he was attorney for the state board of welfare.

"I have at all times since assuming the position of police judge," says White, "attempted to treat all persons in a like manner, and will, if elected, continue to act in a fair and impartial manner."

Kenneth M. Dunlop . . .

... the Republican candidate for this office. Born in Jefferson, he received his high school diploma from Jefferson high school and later came to the university as a student in the college of liberal arts. He later studied law here and practiced in Iowa City for 17 years.

This factor, he says, would aid him if he were elected.

The police judge has jurisdiction of justice of the peace and mayor's court in all criminal actions. He prosecutes all violations of city ordinances.

Police judge is paid $1,000 for each year he serves in office.

ALDERMAN-AT-LARGE

J. J. Zeithamel . . .

... Democrat seeking one of the two alderman-at-large positions, was born in Iowa City and farmed near here for 20 years.

He is also a retired salesman, having been employed by three local firms.

As a special qualification, he offers, "I feel my experience in the varied business, for myself and while employed by others has given me a better understanding of problems both from a business view and a personal view. Thus I feel I could fairly judge and act upon the difficulties which arise from time to time in governing Iowa City."

He and Sam Whiting defeated a third Democratic candidate in the primaries.

Verne W. Bales . . .

... is a Republican candidate for alderman-at-large.

He was born in Albion, Ind.

Bales attended high school and went to the university.

He is now manager of the Stillwell paint store here, and serves on the board of directors of the chamber of commerce.

The community chest campaign of 1942 was under his direction. He is a candidate because he would like to "try to inject some business into the handling of the city's funds and workings".

Bales feels that "if the present council had exercised its rights" the garbage problem would not have occurred.

George P. Dvorsky . . .

... is the Democratic candidate for treasurer. He has been appointed to replace David Stochl.

Dvorsky was born in Iowa City. His education included high school and business college.

For the past 15 years he has been a bank teller, 10 years with the First Capitol National bank.

As treasurer he has paid out and accounted for municipal funds. Reports are made to the city council on receipts and expenditures and the amount of warrants cancelled.

For performing the above outlined duties, the treasurer receives $200 a year.

E. B. Raymond . . .

... is one of the Republican party's most experienced men for the position he is seeking.

He served as city treasurer from 1929 to 1941, remained politically inactive for the last two years, and is now out to regain his old office.

Although born in Berkeley, Calif., Raymond came here in 1904.

He attended the university for two years, majoring in engineering.

He is now employed as teller at the First Capitol National bank.

Asked why he is running, he replied, "I think it is my duty to take part in civic activities."

William J. White . . .

... is one of the three Democrats who are unopposed. He has been city assessor for 24 years.

From 1907 to 1917 he was a contractor.

In 1934 he was president of the Iowa state assessor's association.

His duties, corresponding to those of the township assessor, consist of assessing property in Iowa City for taxation purposes and filing a poll list with the city clerk once a year, for which he receives $200 a year from the city and additional compensation from the county.

His office is located at the courthouse.

2ND WARD

Dr. A. H. Woods . . .

... carries the Democratic party's colors into the second ward alderman campaign.

Born in Hartwood, Va., he was educated at two eastern universities, receiving his A. B. at Washington and Lee and his M. D. at University of Penn.

Doctor Woods is a retired physician and professor-emeritus of psychiatry of the university.

He offers "some knowledge of human nature" as a qualification for office.

A matter which he believes should confront the city council is the allocation of funds among the various city services.

Elmer F. Lenthe . . .

... has been advanced by the Republican party as its candidate for alderman of the second ward.

He was born in Reinbeck and entered business after graduating from the college of commerce at the University of Iowa.

Lenthe is now manager of the Burkett-Rhinehart Motor company here.

"I . . . do not seek the office for any particular motive," he says.

Lenthe believes the city council should "seek solutions to problems which have to do with health and sanitation."

3rd Ward

Leo Kohl . . .

... will have no fight on his hands for third ward alderman; he is the only Democrat who is unopposed for a position on the city council.

His occupation is secretary and manager of the local Moose lodge.

He was councilman for two previous terms from 1927 to 1931. This he advances as most important of his qualifications for election.

Like most other candidates, Kohl regards the garbage question as one of the city's foremost problems; however, he would call attention to "playgrounds for Iowa City children."

4TH WARD

Frank Unrath . . .

... calls himself "Democrat from the first time I cast a ballot." He is after the fourth ward alderman post.

Unrath was born and raised in Iowa City.

He has two sons who attended the university; both majored in engineering.

One is now a draftsman at the Rock Island arsenal; the other is in the army air corps.

The candidate is now retired; he spent most of his business years as a tires and auto accessories salesman.

Unrath still owns the building on College street from where he used to operate his business.

5TH WARD

Carl S. Kringel . . .

... has the support of the Republican party for fourth ward alderman.

For the past 16 years he has been manager of the Security Abstract company.

Born in Walnut, he came here to attend the university. He was graduated in 1927 receiving his L.L.D. degree.

Commenting on his candidacy, he said, "I have no personal axes to grind nor any political debts to pay, but if elected, will do my best to give Iowa City a business administration, based on sound common sense . . . Questions which come before the council should include . . . taxation, city employees' compensation, garbage disposal."

Herman Kadera . . .

... is endorsed by the Democratic party for fifth ward alderman.

Born in Johnson county, he has lived in Iowa City for 18 years. The last 12 of these he has spent in the fifth ward.

He attended Iowa City high school.

Kadera has been in the restaurant business for 15 years; he has owned and operated his establishment for one and one-half years.

Like most fifth ward residents, his chief concern is the flood control project of Ralston creek. He is also in favor of completion of the airport as soon as possible.

LeRoy W. Spencer . . .

... who is the Republican party's candidate for fifth ward alderman, wants the elimination of the power of two or three men outside the council.

He was born in Johnson county and attended the university where he received his A.B. degree and studied law for three years.

For the past 30 years he has been engaged in retail business and now owns Spencer's Harmony Hall.

He believes the garbage situation should be taken care of and is in favor of completing the Ralston creek project and starting work on the swimming pool as soon as "times and money permit."

Nurse's Aide Week Proclaimed by Mayor For Volunteer Drive

Lois Corder to Direct Campaign to Enlist I.C. Women in Class

A call to service has been issued by Mayor Henry Willenbrock, who designates the seven-day period beginning tomorrow, as "Volunteer Nurse's Aide Week."

During the week, a campaign to enlist Iowa City women in a Red Cross nurse's aide class, soon to be organized, will be conducted under the direction of Lois Corder, chairman, and Mrs. N. G. Alcock, secretary of the Red Cross volunteer nurse's aide committee.

"Patriotic women of Iowa City who qualify for this important war work will volunteer for service without delay," Mayor Willenbrock believes. "Already shortage of nursing help is crucial at University and Mercy hospitals. Trained nurses are needed to serve with the army and navy, but our own sick must have good care. Volunteer help must assist the professional nursing staffs in providing this care."

"We must be realistic in preparing for the disasters and epidemics which go hand in hand with war," Mayor Willenbrock warns. "If we had been able to enlist the additional help of nurse's aides in the flu epidemic of the last war, much suffering could have been alleviated, and many casualties prevented. Even in this peaceful community, disaster and bombings are possible. Let us be prepared for any emergency of war."

The object of the present campaign is to develop a dependable and effective body of volunteers who will have the necessary knowledge and skill to assist nurses in the care of the sick in hospitals, clinics and health organizations. The aides work under the supervision of graduate nurses, serving without pay, and supplementing, never supplanting, the paid workers. The volunteer gives freedom to the professional nurse so she may perform those technical duties for which she is especially trained. Women between the ages of 18 and 50, intelligent and in good physical condition, are eligible for the service. Mrs. Alcock, whose telephone number is 6721, will give information to those who are interested.

Iowa Traffic Deaths Show Marked Drop For Early Months

Iowa traffic fatalities have been reduced from 95 in the first two and a half months of 1942 to 58 for the corresponding period in 1943, the Iowa department of public safety said yesterday.

The percentage of pedestrian and railroad crossing deaths is still alarming, the release declared. Thirty-four of this year's 58 fatalities have been pedestrians or have occurred at crossings.

Carelessness of drivers causes almost every accident at railroad crossings, the department pointed out. Motorists also are warned to be doubly alert for children playing in the streets.

Red Cross Increases Cost of Food Package

Higher Price Includes Transportation Expense To Prisoner of War

The cost of American Red Cross standard food packages for prisoners of war has been increased from $2.75 to $3.50 per package, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Lorna L. Mathes, in charge of home service for Johnson county Red Cross chapter. The higher price will include transportation expenses to the prisoner of war camp which in the past have been borne by the American Red Cross.

Since the army and navy provide all necessary American Red Cross standard food packages for American prisoners of war, the Red Cross no longer is accepting private contributions for packages designated for American prisoners of war, Mrs. Mathes pointed out.

However, the Red Cross, through the Johnson county chapter and other chapters is receiving unrestricted private contributions for general relief to American prisoners. Such funds will be used to purchase medical supplies and comfort articles that are not provided by the army and navy. The Red Cross also continues to accept private contributions for food packages for general distribution

Kiska Story Tale of Fighter Pilot Who Sits Alone

AP Features AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND AIR-BASE—"Fog over target prevented completion of mission."

It's a common phrase in official reports of aerial activity in the Aleutian islands. For most of the pilots it means simply a little more piker in one of the half-buried, metal-covered huts which serve them as quarters.

But not for all of them—There is the story of the two brothers—their names do not matter—who were aircraft mechanics in the army in Hawaii before the war began. On the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, they started running across Hickam field together. Only one reached the other side.

In time, that one applied for flight training, became a pilot. Now he's flying a fighting plane in the Kiska area. He has flown a lot, but he has not yet had a chance at a Japanese pilot.

When the official report says, "Fog over target prevented, etc.," he plays no poker afterwards. Sometimes, his brother pilots say, he just sits for hours afterwards staring at a wall. And sometimes he covers his face with his hands.

Each candidate is seeking reelection.

Lifeboat Holiday! Council Gives Hints To Sailors

AP Features

LONDON—Are you liable to be shipwrecked? Don't worry too much if a shark rubs against your lifeboat.

The British Medical Research council has announced that the man-hunting urge of sharks is commonly overestimated. They may scrape themselves against a boat, but they aren't trying to overturn it. They are trying to rid themselves of sea lice.

Other helpful hints for shipwreckees, recently collected and published by the council, include: When swimming through burning oil, continue as long as possible under water, then thrust yourself above the flames and breathe, taking a breast-stroke to push away the flames. By repeating this procedure, men have been able to go 200 yards through a literal sea of fire.

Keep an optimistic frame of mind when adrift. Statistics show that if you haven't been rescued in 24 hours, your chances are nearly even that you'll be picked up within five days. Rarely is a lifeboat adrift more than three weeks.

Once you are in a lifeboat, the council says, you are 75 percent on the way to safety.

About 18 ounces of water (slightly more than a pint) is necessary as a daily minimum ration

The subject will be introduced by a short talk by Father Charles Mannheim, chaplain at Mercy hospital.

Mary Modesta Monnig, A2 of Iowa City, is the student discussion leader and chairman of the group. Committee members are Bob Chase, M3 of Ft. Dodge, and Dolores Rielly, J3 of Rock Valley. All Catholic students are invited to attend these discussions.
