Axis Flying In Reserves

ANOTHER MARK III ROLLS NO MORE FOR ROMMEL

DEAD GERMAN SOLDIER sprawls beside the turret of this German Mark III tank knocked out of action in a recent allied attack on the Tunisian front. Yesterday nearly a hundred Flying Fortresses laid waste to Italy's Sardinian port of Cagliari in preparation for an assault on the mainland of Italy.

G.O.P. Blatantly Rails Opposition As— Demos Seek Short Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic suggestion that the 1944 presidential campaign be a short one with the nominating conventions held sometime in August, instead of early summer, brought a Republican reply yesterday that the Democrats have already selected their candidate.

Frank C. Walker, chairman of the Democratic national committee, made the short campaign proposal and urged meanwhile that fourth-term and other candidate talk be halted while "we get on with the war."

Chairman Harrison Spangler of the Republican national committee promptly responded:

After Selection

"It is a matter of regret that the new deal leaders have waited to make the proposal of late political conventions until after their candidate has already been selected.

"The conference of the Democratic national committee leaders at the White House a few weeks ago indicates that the new deal party has already had its real convention."

This referred to a meeting between the president and a dozen national committee officers and members on March 4. Walker said at the time that one or two told the president he ought to run again, but it was not said seriously. He repeated this today when asked about the conference.

Up to Committee

Spangler said the date for the G.O.P. convention was up to the national committee.

"I can't fix it," he told reporters. Walker, just back from a three and a half weeks' combination postal-political tour of a dozen western and Pacific coast states, told his first formal press conference since assuming the party chairmanship in January that he believed it a "mistake" to discuss possible candidates now in either party.

"Do you want President Roosevelt to run for a fourth term?" he was asked directly.

"I'll not discuss candidates at this time," he replied. "I think it is a mistake to discuss them now. It is too early from the standpoint of the country and we should devote all our time to prosecution of the war."

Walker, added, however, that he would like to see an agreement between the two major parties to limit the 1944 campaign to perhaps September and October, with the conventions being held later than the usual June and July.

On High Plane

"And I'd like to see the campaign conducted on a very high plane," he said, adding with a smile: "Do you think that would be possible?"

Spangler said Walker's suggestion, coupled with his trip around the west "confering with new deal prospective delegates" was "evidence beyond any doubt that they have started their fourth-term presidential campaign."

Allies Capture 700 Grenadiers During Renewed Push East As Fortresses Batter Supply Base

By DANIEL DE LUCE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP) — The axis is desperately flying fresh troops into Tunisia, it was disclosed yesterday, and the allies have thrown a mighty, overpowering aerial fleet into a campaign to forestall such reinforcement, to wipe the enemy from Africa and to destroy his potential means of escape.

The presence of air-borne reinforcements for Marshal Erwin Rommel's hard-pressed troops was revealed with the capture of more than 700 Italians and German grenadiers during a renewed American push east of El Gueatara toward the coast. Some of the prisoners said they had been in Africa fewer than 10 days.

Nearly 100 Flying Fortresses, the greatest force of the big four-motored bombers ever massed for a war operation, bashed the important axis supply base at Cagliari on Sardinia Wednesday, seriously crippling its usefulness to the enemy, while swarms of other American and British planes turned Rommel's retreat up the eastern Tunisian coast into a nightmare of destruction.

Telling of the great blow at Cagliari, an American pilot said: "If there was anything we did not hit then it must have been buried." "I saw thousands of bombs bursting," said another. "They seemed to be exploding on every bit of the harbor."

Any hopes that the axis might have entertained of using Cagliari as the base for a "Dunkerque" evacuation of divisions now enclosed in a great allied trap apparently were wiped out by the concentrated assault of the Fortresses, which hit five merchant ships and 21 smaller craft, damaged or destroyed 71 enemy planes on ground and in the air, and spread acres of fire across the city's port area. Not a Fortress or an escorting Lightning fighter was lost from the raid—adequate proof of the allies' control of the air over north Africa and the Mediterranean.

Tortured Retreat

The bulk of Rommel's forces trying to beat their way north for a junction with Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim's troops were reported yesterday continuing their tortured retreat under a rain of bombs and bullets while a rear guard dug in about 24 miles north of Gabes on the coastal highway in an effort to fend off the pursuing British Eighth army.

The new German line was said here to be about 12 miles north of newly-captured Oudred and well above the Gabes bottleneck. Eighth army patrols were reported already engaging in preliminary skirmishes with this protective axis force.

Although slowed down by thousands of mines strewn by the retreating enemy, armored American units of Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., were reported pushing steadily eastward from El Gueatara pass for an imminent junction with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army forces.

After having been held up for more than a week by rock-ridden enemy positions on hills commanding the roads to the coast eastward from Maknassy and southeast from El Gueatara pass, Patton directed a series of attacks yesterday.

American spearheads of tanks and infantry plunged fiercely into wavering enemy defenses and rounded up German and Italian prisoners less than 50 miles to the west of the British. The American attack was preceded by an artillery barrage which one observer said was "one of the most terrible and wonderful sights I ever saw."

Fight Desperately

Italian infantry and artillery fought with desperate courage to stem the American advance. One artillery observer said: "They are making a suicide stand out there on those plains, but it's their own suicide and we are doing our best to help them along."

Meanwhile on the northern Tunisian front axis troops attacked British positions a few miles east of Sedjenane early yesterday after being thrown into a precipitate flight Wednesday and losing huge quantities of equipment.

The scale of the fighting was not immediately reported. It appeared to be an attempt by the German and Italian troops to retrieve big stores of material they had abandoned in a little mining town near Sedjenane.

Drafting of Fathers May Begin July 1

'Sentimental' Deferments Must Be Eliminated to Meet Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said yesterday he would like to postpone induction of fathers as long as possible, but acknowledged that calling them in likely to begin about July 1.

Hershey told a press conference his desire to put off drafting fathers was largely "sentimental." He said the ban against their induction would be lifted in advance of the time they actually would have to be called up in order to meet quotas.

Asked about reports that present draft classifications might be overhauled, Hershey said the subject was "currently and perpetually" under consideration but no changes have been ordered thus far, at least.

Reports, emanating from informed sources who declined to be named, had said strong attention was being directed to revising the classifications so that:

All the childless married men would be reclassified out of 3-A and 3-B to 1-A (available for induction when their order numbers are reached) except those "individually essential" in their present jobs or those whose induction would mean undue hardship on dependents.

No More 3-B's

The 3-B classification, which now includes both fathers and childless married men engaged in essential activities regardless of whether they are "essential individuals," would be eliminated.

The 3-A classification, now including fathers and childless married men in activities not listed on either the "essential" or "non-deferrable" list, would be reserved exclusively for fathers, including those formerly in 3-B.

The 2-A and 2-B classifications, which cover men individually essential activities, regardless of whether or not they have dependents would be retained.

Persons who meet that standard but are now in other classification such as 3-B, would be transferred to 2-A or 2-B.

A new classification would be created for men whose induction would impose undue hardship upon their dependents, whether these consisted of wives alone, wives and children, or parents.

These sources said these changes if made, would constitute little more than paper transfers. They pointed out that draft boards have been calling childless married men all this year, taking those in 3-B as well as in 3-A in some places, and that in general the supply of childless men would be virtually exhausted by July.

Denies Accusations

General Hershey acknowledged that some boards were beginning to call 3-B childless married men, but denied that fathers whose children were countable as dependents under selective service regulations were being called.

Hershey said children were not counted under the regulations if they were born after September 14, 1942. Even if born before that date, he continued, they would not be counted if born of a marriage contracted at a time when induction of the father was imminent.

Democratic Leader Demands Quick Action On Ruml Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic leadership in the house split apart last night on the issue of tax abatement, with majority leader McCormack (D-Mass.) calling for quick action to skip part of 1942's income taxes, and Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the ways and means committee sharply brushing aside the suggestion.

Doughton refused to call the committee for immediate consideration of pay-as-you-go legislation, indicating that the subject would not come up again until late spring or summer.

Seeks Quick Compromise

During the day McCormack had issued a statement calling for a quick pay-as-you-go compromise abating part, but not all, of 1942 taxes. He said a pay-as-you-go measure, with a withholding levy on wages and salaries, should become effective July 1.

The democratic leader's action directly conflicted with the stand of a majority of his party's ways and means members who opposed any tax abatement, and he drew a sound rebuff from the 79-year-old committee chairman.

"I did not have any advance information about Mr. McCormack's statement regarding tax matters," Doughton said in a formal statement. "He did not consult me as chairman of the committee on ways and means. Neither, so far as I know, did he consult any majority member of the committee before issuing his statement."

To Consider Coal Act

The chairman announced that the committee, before turning again to tax matters, would consider measures to continue the bi-tuminous coal act and to extend reciprocal trade agreements. Indications were, he said, that pay-as-you-go would not come up again until the committee begins consideration, probably in late spring or summer, of a new general tax measure, pursuant to President Roosevelt's recent recommendation that $16,000,000,000 additional be raised through new levies and compulsory savings.

RAF Celebrates 25th Birthday With Raid on German Industry

LONDON (AP) — The RAF celebrated its 25th anniversary yesterday by attacking two towns in western Germany where startled Germans stood gaping in the streets at swift British Mosquito bombers which dipped as low as 50 feet to plant their delayed-action explosives on industrial objectives.

Squadrons of fighters also attacked railways and other axes held transportation in France and Belgium by daylight, the air ministry reported.

Blast Power Station

The Mosquitos, the RAF's fastest bombers, which twice have attacked Berlin by daylight, blasted a power station and important railway workshops at Trier and Ehrang near the German-Luxembourg frontier.

With bombs fused to explode a few seconds after the Mosquitos were safely away, the airmen attacked at altitudes from 50 to 200 feet.

At Trier the pilots saw their bombs smash into the roof of a railway workshop, and debris from the explosion was thrown high into the air. The Trier power station also was bombed.

Hit Gas Dump

At Ehrang the crews reported their bombs caused a "terrific explosion," and it was believed a gasoline dump was hit.

The pilots told how they saw the surprised Germans looking up in the streets as they streaked across the towns, and Nazi anti-aircraft gunners apparently also were caught flat-footed because none of the planes was lost and only two German fighters were sighted.

Four British planes were missing from the sweeps over France and Belgium, a fifth plane failed to return from a daylight reconnaissance over northwest Germany.

The air ministry news service said Whirlwinds and Typhoons destroyed two locomotives and damaged six others in Belgium, four in the Roulers and Ghent areas, while one Mosquito pilot strafed and set fire to a powerhouse.

Enemy Retaliates

Enemy raiders retaliated by bombing and machine-gunning a south coast town this afternoon, hitting an empty movie house, a postoffice and a police station.

A joint air ministry and ministry of home security communique said that the raid was made by three enemy craft and that "some damage was done and a small number of casualties reported."

Allies Have 'Gravest Doubts' on Post-War Policy of U.S.—Welles

NEW YORK (AP) — Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles yesterday termed the post-war policy of the United States a source of "one of the gravest doubts that exists in the minds of the united nations."

In an address before the chamber of commerce of the state of New York, Welles said this nation's allies recall that after the victory of 1918 the United States "withdrew from almost every form of practical cooperation" in reconstruction tasks.

"Our allies are asking themselves now whether we will again follow that same course," Welles said.

April Fool Page Reports Passage Of School Code

DES MOINES (AP) — A messenger from the house appeared in the Iowa senate just before adjournment this afternoon and announced:

"Mr. President, I am instructed to inform your honorable body that the house has passed the following bill in which the concurrence of the senate is asked—house file 300, a bill to revise the school code of Iowa."

For one long minute the senators sat in surprised silence. The school code bill is over 400 pages long and was just begun.

Lieutenant-Governor Robert D. Blue broke the silence.

"The chair is of the opinion," he said, "that the message should be received and filed under the heading of 'April fool.'"

(The house is still working on the measure.)

'Busman's Holiday' State Commissioner Couldn't Resist

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander may sit at a desk these days but he still hasn't forgotten his early abilities as a policeman.

Driving to Detroit, Olander heard a state police broadcast of a stolen car taken a short time before in Lansing. Minutes later the car passed Olander's automobile. He gave chase and arrested the driver.

Prime Minister Gets Honorary Wings of RAF

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill who has frequently taken over the controls on long flights and first learned to fly in 1913, was given the honorary wings of the RAF yesterday on its 25th anniversary, becoming the first commoner to wear them without passing modern pilot tests.

In a letter to the premier announcing the distinction, Air Marshal Sir Bertine Sutton recalled that since the outset of the war Churchill has undertaken more than 30,000 flying miles on duty.

Churchill replied "I am honored to be accorded a place, albeit out of kindness, in that comradeship of the air which guards the life of our island and carries doom to tyrants."

The prime minister declared the RAF was "second to none," and added "at this moment it is the spearhead of the British offensive."

The British leader already is an honorary commodore of the RAF and frequently wears the uniform, as do members of the royal family, some of whom have qualified to wear a pilot's wings. The first British king to have the latter was George V.

Axis Spies Combing U.S., Admiral Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Rear Admiral Harold C. Train, chief of naval intelligence, said last night the axis is gearing for a "desperate last-ditch fight" and has its spies in this country "combing the bars, restaurants, and shipping centers for every stray bit of information that might fit into the Nazi or Japanese espionage pattern."

In an address prepared for delivery over the Columbia Broadcasting system, Admiral Train said he had definite information that axis spies "are still operating in this country."

It is no secret, he declared, that before Hitler marched into Poland he boasted that he knew more about that country's military strength than most members of the Polish high command.

Attacks State Action To Quit War Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The action of some state legislatures in changing from war time to normal time was deplored yesterday by Representative Wasielewski (D-Wis.).

"It is unfortunate that many state legislators... have confused their citizens by making changes of the time within the borders of their state in this national crisis," Wasielewski said.

THIS ALLIED PILOT'S CLOSE ENOUGH TO SCALP JAPS

EVEN IF THE ORDER had been to fire only when he saw the whites of their eyes, the pilot of the allied plane from which this photo was snapped could have opened up at any time with all his guns. This official U. S. Army Air Forces photo was taken during the Battle of the Bismarck Sea as an allied plane swooped in at mast level to strafe a Jap destroyer. A couple of Jap seamen can be seen running. This ship, nine other warships, 12 cargo vessels and transports were sunk.

After having been held up for more than a week by rock-ridden enemy positions on hills commanding the roads to the coast eastward from Maknassy and southeast from El Gueatara pass, Patton directed a series of attacks yesterday.

What About the Fraternities?

Amid rumors concerning an impending shutdown of fraternities on this campus for the duration, and the resultant denials of such an action, a few facts have emerged which serve to nail the whole picture down somewhat firmly. And these facts are not all on the dark side of the picture.

First of all, it is no rumor that there will be a dearth of civilian undergraduates on the campus this summer and next fall. It is also no rumor that many local chapters already have planned to close, or to disband at the end of this semester for the duration. In some cases, however, it is necessary that they do this in order to provide facilities for incoming army and navy personnel.

The university has as yet issued no clear cut statement on the matter, evidently because the fraternities are following their only possible course of action; one which the university must feel to coincide with its own wartime policy. It is doubtful that the university will issue a blanket order prohibiting fraternities to function during wartime, unless government demands for housing necessitate such a move.

The situation of this campus is by no means exclusive. All over the country Greek-letter society men are leaving universities and colleges in large numbers to join the armed forces. It is estimated that some 2,500 fraternity houses, valued at $30,000,000, will be left vacant on 125 campuses.

But there are also several bright spots in the over-all picture. The National Interfraternity Conference War committee recently pointed out that many Greek societies hope to initiate men who have not yet reached the draft age, as well as those who are barred from military service by physical disability. They expect also to draw members from the ranks of the pre-medicals, the pre-engineers and the pre-dentals.

The committee goes on to say that "the navy has announced and the army has indicated that they will have no objection to enlisted men who are sent to college for specialized training joining fraternities. In these soldier and sailor students the college

Greeks expect to find sufficient membership recruits to carry on at least a chapter cadre. "The fraternity leaders believe that the problem of vast real-estate holdings will be solved in many instances by the leasing of the houses by the armed forces through the colleges and universities."

Just how far these ideas can be applied to the situation on this campus is pure speculation, but they are all worth investigating. There is no doubt that those fraternities which attempt to see the war through will have a terrific struggle on their hands. Many of them will not survive this struggle. But those that go down must remember that after this war, as after World War I, fraternities will once again take their place on the campus.

Though they are considered beneficial by some and detrimental by others, no one can deny that the fraternity has become a part of college life.

Attitudes Toward War—

The popular preacher and writer, Harry Emerson Fosdick, handed in his resignation to the Riverside church in New York recently. In 1939 Dr. Fosdick said, "Never again will I prostitute my Christian ministry to the idealizing of any war." He kept this promise and he has not glorified war. It is perhaps significant that a preacher with Dr. Fosdick's convictions should be considered so necessary that the trustees refused to accept his resignation believing he was needed more than ever in the ministry. Dr. Fosdick broadcasts to one of the nation's largest radio congregations and has a large following among the readers of his stimulating books on religion.

His refusal to glorify war indicates that the attitudes of the people toward World War II may be considerably different than toward wars of the past. Previously war has been glorified as bringing out the best and noblest in men in their willingness to die for ideals of liberty. A student returned from the Civil War in Spain remarked that war could never brutalize men as long as they were fighting for ideals of common good. But there is little defense of war on such grounds now as people commonly regard it a totally horrible experience for men to endure. It is a grim business we want to dispense with as expediently as possible and be ready to call for the new business of making peace.

The degree to which we all regard war as a destructive and unproductive experience instead of a noble motivation to bestir the lethargic state of mankind to new levels of production is likely to be the extent to which making a lasting peace will be successful. Making an enduring peace means building a new world organization which will be conducive to the promotion of peaceful adjustments.

Some will point to this war experience and say that it brought the glorious ideal of equality home to us all in form of rationing. But it took a war for us to implement this ideal. Many other examples we would rather not dwell on might remind us that we have not been willing to create a world in which the principles we verbally support can be implemented peacefully. Perhaps we have learned the lesson that war is not a glorious and noble means of settling human affairs.

But have we the faith which produces the willingness to create the world in which war is neither inevitable nor necessary?

HOLLYWOOD NIGHTS SOUNDS

Hollywood's Tribute To the Russians

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Pictures in tune with our times:
On a rain-drenched stage representing a Russian airport a great American conductor was arriving by plane for a concert tour. Somewhere in the throng a pretty Russian girl was trying to get the conductor's attention, to beg him to appear at her village.
So began "Russia," one of Hollywood's film tributes to the Soviet ally. (Another: Sam Goldwyn's "North Star.")
Gregory Ratoff, our own mad Russian, was directing this picture on the same lot, M-G-M, that made "Ninotchka" and "Comrade X," pre-war film jobs at Communism and the Soviet. Times and attitudes have changed but Ratoff has not. He is still the same voluble, English-twisting, enthusiastic fellow he always was, perhaps more so because he was making a movie about his native soil. He had his little joke, even so: signs threatening dire consequences to anybody on the set who speaks Russian. This was a joke because Ratoff himself would be the first to feel his own ax.
"Russia" is Robert Taylor's final picture before reporting for naval aviation duty. The girl is Susan Peters—the one Ronald Colman almost married in "Random Harvest."

In "Right Guy" new leading man Jess Barker, from the stage, was undergoing a physical from draft board examiners. The story has the board pronounce him 4-F, so chagrining him that he can't go back and face the youngsters who idolized him at home and acclaimed him as their hero. He goes to work at a war plant, meets riveting Claire Trevor, and finds heroism at home.
While the scene was being filmed, a party of visiting soldiers arrived to watch. They had come to see movie glamor, and what they saw was a draft board examination. They all grinned, but agreed it looked like the real thing.
Afterward Jess Barker, who hails from Greenville, S. C., and Broadway, told how his screen test was made by Gregory Ratoff. Jess appeared on the test stage, along with two other leading men (See HOLLYWOOD, page 5)

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—The British Purchasing commission, through Lord Halifax, ambassador to the United States, has just made public some figures that are food for thought.
In view of the threatened revolt against lease-lend, it's a safe guess that they not only were timely—they were timed. There was never any doubt about the continuance of lease-lend (as the 407-to-6 vote in the house indicated), but the fact that someone thought there might be was enough to bring out an indication of just how important the Russians and the British consider this phase of our war program.
Instead of expressing indignation over Admiral Standley's intimation that the Russian people hadn't been fully informed of the extent of our aid, the Soviet government rushed out with an all-out explanation of every ounce of aid the British and we have given them.
But BPC and Lord Halifax were a jump ahead. Already they had written into the record that Great Britain, since 1939, has spent approximately 3 1/2 billion dollars for war supplies in this country and that nearly a quarter of a billion of that was spent solely for new plants and plant expansions—and most or that before Pearl Harbor.
Thus, 16 months before we were actually plunged into war, the British were pouring millions into expansion of "the arsenal of de-

Interpreting the War News— Mounting Fury In Atlantic Battle

By GLENN BABE
The progress of the battle of the Atlantic, the bitter, unceasing fight against Hitler's U-boat packs on which allied fortunes in all the other battles depend, remains pretty much a well kept military secret. Prime Minister Churchill declined yesterday to discuss it in the house of commons and asked "for a measure of confidence" despite his silence. But Mr. Churchill himself and other allied spokesmen have said enough on other occasions to indicate that we have good hopes of success.

This does not mean victory in the sense that the seas will be cleared of the U-boats and our convoys will carry our armies unmolested to the attack on Hitler's Europe. There never will be such a phase of this war. The highest degree of success we can expect is that despite the tragic cost in lives, ships and the products of American war industry we shall maintain cargo fleets sufficient to transport the power we need to destroy the axis.
The Germans published yesterday their monthly boast of submarine and warplane sinkings, claiming 149 allied cargo ships of 926,600 gross tons of which 138 ships and 851,600 tons were credited to the U-boats. The Germans exaggerate heavily in these compilations and the actual figure doubtless is much lower. But Washington admits that March losses were larger than for January or February, although less than for March, 1942, and there is every indication that we must expect the grim totals to rise in the coming months.

However, on the basis of Berlin's own undiscounted figures there is assurance that the allies are keeping well ahead in the race between sinking and new production and it is even possible that despite all Hitler can accomplish with the 500 or 700 U-boats he may put into the Atlantic this summer the margin may rise at an increasing rate.
Form a complicated comparison of recent announcements a rough idea can be obtained of how this margin runs. On Feb. 11 Mr. Churchill said that it had been 1,250,000 tons for the six months previous. This week, nearly two months later, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, said the eighth-month margin was "a good deal more than 2,000,000 tons."
On Wednesday the combined shipping adjustment board in Washington disclosed that United States construction for 1943 would reach the stupendous total of 18,890,000 deadweight tons, more than 13,000,000 of the gross tons in which Churchill, Alexander and the Germans make their calculations.
Thus it is indicated that American production alone outstrips Berlin's brags. To further swell the margin is the very large output of the shipyards of Britain and Canada.

Obviously we are not losing in the absolute sense that Japan is losing her war against our submarines and planes, suffering a rate of shipping loss which far exceeds her capacity for replacement.
But building ships faster than the U-boats can destroy them is not enough. Unless the margin is kept high enough, by building, by killing U-boats, by blasting their lairs and the factories that make them, to enable us to deliver the offensive power necessary to batter down the defenses of Hitler's Europe the victory in the battle of the Atlantic will be his.

There is, no reason to doubt the circumstantial reports from his new dark continent that he has given priority over all other phases of the axis war effort to his U-boat flotillas, even ahead of planes, tanks, guns, transportation.
This priority applies to materials, labor, transport, manpower, all down the line. His surface navy apparently is abandoned so far as new effort is concerned.
Hitler knows that the submarine war is his one hope of preventing the invasions of Europe that would destroy him. It is his hope not of winning the war but perhaps of gaining a negotiated peace which would permit his survival and fall short of the united nations' declared goal of his unconditional surrender.

Victory in Tunisia, even in Russia, may prove meaningless unless the allies can win in the Atlantic.

Russ Carlyle To Play Here

United Students Group Will Sponsor Dance At Community Hall

Russ Carlyle and his orchestra will be presented in a formal dance from 9 to 12 in the Community building April 16 by the United Students organization, a new campus group including both affiliated and independent students.

Formerly a vocalist with Blue Barron's orchestra, Carlyle organized his own orchestra in 1941, patterning it after the style of Lou Breeze and the late Hal Kemp.

Members of United Students organization and their guests will attend the affair. The organization is open to all university students. Those interested in membership and attending the dance should contact one of the following committee members:

Robert Keefe, A2 of Creston, townsmen, chairman; Harry Frey, A2 of Fairfield, Sigma Nu; Joe Kucharsky, A1 of Chicago, Townsmen; Art Flint, A2 of Highland Park, Ill., Delta Tau Delta; Paul Long, E1 of Blockton, engineers; John Scanlon, A1 of Chicago, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Jim Johnson, A2 of Estherville, Phi Delta Theta.

Although the dance will be the only social affair this semester of the group, which was organized March 7, the members hope to continue the organization after the war.

Infantry's Artillery Proves 'Sure Fire'

Major C. H. Obye, R.O.T.C. Students Demonstrate Mortar

Major C. H. Obye of the university military department and twelve advanced R. O. T. C. men demonstrated yesterday the potential destructive power of the 81 millimeter mortar.

"Any living thing within 35 yards of where the mortar's shell lands becomes a casualty unless under good cover," Major Obye explained to the advanced R. O. T. C. men assembled to see the demonstration.

Purpose of Weapon
The purpose of the weapon is to supplement the rifle and machine gun fire of the infantry. When the enemy finds good cover, the flat trajectory of rifle and machine gun fire become ineffective. The mortars are then brought up, and because of the high arc which the projectile follows, the shells can be made to fall among troops who are hidden behind embankments and in trenches.

In the demonstration held yesterday north of the Iowa football stadium, real accuracy was obtained, one shell falling within 12 yards of the target, a direct hit in mortar gunnery. The demonstrating cadet officers used non-explosive three-inch shells of a World War I type, propelled by a charge of smokeless powder.

After Firing
After the mortar fires, the twisting, turning shell can be easily followed with the eye. The leader of the mortar squad observes where the shell falls and makes corrections in the angle of elevation of the barrel and in traverse. The object is to get the third shell directly on the target, the first two usually falling long or short.

Major Obye said the mortar is used against material as well as personnel, and is the "artillery of the infantry." The fact that the mortar can be broken down in to three parts and carried by three men gives it the mobility which is characteristic of all infantry weapons.

Henry Armstrong Attempts Comeback Tonight

One-Time Boss To Fight Jack

Tonight's Bout Most Important in Career Of Former Champ

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK (AP)—The Hammer comes back to Madison Square Garden tonight for the "biggest fight" of his life.

Gone are the three championships he once held and there's no title on the line this time as he tangles in a ten-rounder with strong, tough young Beau Jack, the kid he once taught how to fight. But to The Hammer, it's the most important brawl in all his career, because he wants to show the "wise guys" that he's not a washed up old man.

The Hammer, of course, is Henry Armstrong, 31, perpetual motion of a few years back when he was boss man of the welterweights, the lightweights and the featherweights—the only man in ring history to hold three crowns simultaneously. Two years ago, the experts wrote his fistic "obit." They said he was through for keeps after Fritzie Zivic beat him up twice in a row. Everyone believed it except The Hammer.

He waited, recovered from his ailments, then started up the long road back—just "to show 'em." He's had 18 fights in this comeback, won 16 of them, but except for a revenge over Zivic, today's tussle is the one he's wanted above all others.

He didn't want "just any fighter" in this return. He told Promoter Mike Jacobs he wanted the "toughest kid around." And he got just that.

They think so much of Jack in these parts that the bash boulevard betting emporiums have installed him a 1 to 2 shot to send the little Negro buzzsaw back to California for good.

This corner, having watched Henery hammer husky Al Tribuni—who outweighed him by some 12 pounds—into a one-sided defeat ten days ago, tabs Armstrong to finish on top. The Hammer is still the same rip-tearing, always-advancing warrior he was in his heyday.

One thing is definite—the old Armstrong lure for the customers is as strong as ever. Promoter Jacobs expects some 18,000 of them to sit in on the fun. Promoter Mike's fun will come from counting a $90,000 house.

Devil's Thumb Out of Derby

NEW YORK (AP)—A cracked right front foot—a wound "no bigger than a dime" but threatening serious injury if not treated—yesterday forced the highly-regarded Devil's Thumb out of the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the rest of this spring's rich races for three-year-olds.

Winner of five straight stakes at Saratoga last August, an 8 to 1 shot in the Derby winter books and generally regarded as the most serious barrier to Count Fleet's threatened monopoly of the three-year old "money," the Thumb was declared out of action for 60 days by Trainer Cecil Wilhelm after a telephone conference with owner W. E. Boeing, the Flying Fortress man, in Seattle.

Deep disappointment spread all over the Boeing barn at Belmont—over Jockey Conn McCreary, who says the Thumb is the best horse he's ever ridden, and over the exercise boys and swipes—as Trainer "Cecce" interrupted the husky colt's early morning walk to point out the injury.

"See there," Wilhelm indicated with his finger. "It's only as thick as a dime. I noticed a spot of blood on the foot when the Thumb came in from his workout Tuesday. When I wiped it off, I discovered the crack. I believe it started 'way back last August. He probably picked up a piece of gravel, and over the winter it worked its way up."

"It's not particularly serious, but there's always the danger a quarter crack might develop if pressure is put on that kind of an injury. So I'm going to lay him up 60 days—30 days to fix it up and 30 more to get him back in racing form. Both Mr. Boeing and myself would rather have a sound horse in the fall than a lame horse in the spring."

Thus, Count Fleet becomes an even more prohibitive favorite for the May 1 blue grass classic.

Reds Prepare for Chicago
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The Cincinnati Red regulars beat the scrubs yesterday for the second time, 6 to 3, in preparation for their first games with the Chicago White Sox in Louisville tomorrow and Sunday.

MEETS TOUGHER OPPONENT TONIGHT

SHOWN ABOVE on the right is Beau Jack in his fight with Fritzie Zivic, which Jack won by a close decision. Tonight Jack faces Henry Armstrong in the toughest fight of his career. It will be teacher against pupil as Armstrong taught Jack everything he knows about the fight game, and the pupil will try to stop his teacher from making a comeback at Madison Square garden tonight.

SPORT SIDELIGHTS

By DON SLYE

Finkbine Will Open; Playing Course Now Limited to 14 Holes

The University of Iowa golf course, Finkbine field, will be opened for play tomorrow, Coach Charles Kennett announced yesterday. However the course will be confined to 14 holes, since four holes are on the property of the Navy Pre-Flight school.

To make the total 18-hole course the holes should be played in the following order: No. 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 1, 2, 3, and 9.

All players are requested to tee off on number one tee in order to avoid the inconvenience of cutting in on other players. Groups will be alternated on the first tee as follows—one group starting the round will tee off, then a group which is playing the last four holes to complete the round.

Holes 4, 5, 6, 7, are definitely out of play and must not be used, as this is now navy area. All golfers must report in the clubhouse before starting on number one tee unless permission is given to begin at number 10.

All fees must be paid before play is started.

★ Lake, Boerr Provide
★ Hope for Red Sox
★ Defense This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Two or three years ago, when the war was just a distant growl, there were three teams which we particularly liked to watch in their Florida spring training.

We'd shuffle a dusty path to a spot behind the batting cages of the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox or Detroit Tigers, there to stand with our mouths gaping like a beetle trap as some of the lads took their turns boffing the cripples that were served up to them.

There was round Jimmy Foxx, stubbled jowls so plump you couldn't tell where he was hiding his huge quid of eating tobacco, and who would grin amiably and tell you he "really got ahold of a couple yesterday; about 420 feet."

There was massive and passive Rudy York, sending handle hits off the fences. There was earnest Hank Greenberg, golfing the pitches into the next county. There was long Ted Williams, loose as sand and swinging his bat as if it was part of his arms.

There was Joe DiMaggio, silent and casual. And iron-thewed, scowling Charley Keller. And rhythmic Joe Gordon. And Tommy Henrich, and Joe Cronin, and Dom DiMaggio, and Bill Dickey. All guys who really could plaster that ball.

Some of them are gone now. We've already speculated on what effect losses might have on the Yankees, turning them into a team of free-wheeling base runners.

But in addition to their power, the Yankees have had pitching, and a defense second to none, and a team with pitching and defense can cut its offensive voltage considerably and still win ball games.

But how about the Boston Red Sox? There was a team which could pound a baseball into a ball of putty. The Red Sox were the Max Baer of the game. They could pound you dizzy, but they had no more defense than a scarecrow. Their pitching was all wet, probably because the chuckers were under the showers most of the time.

The infield, with the aging Cronin and Foxx moving with the alacrity of rheumatic turtles, was strictly hit and miss, and mostly miss. On a good day the balls could march through it in formation, and when occasionally it did make a double play it was cause for congratulations all around.

In other words, the Red Sox could hit, and that's about all. Now they can't hit. Not as they used to hit, at any rate.

Foxx was sold down the river to the Cubs last June, eliminating one power man. Cronin gradually eased himself out of the lineup, realizing his limitations. Williams is in the service, as is Dom DiMaggio, who hits a pretty stout ball, although overshadowed by brother Joe.

What to do in a case like that? The Red Sox are doing it. They are, from all reports, taking tucks here and there in their defense and may surprise some of the fans who are accustomed to watching the players play soccer with the ball.

They have the makings of a classy double-play team in Eddie Lake and Bobby Doerr. We recall Lake when he came up with the Cardinals along with Martin Marion two or three years ago, and the stocky little guy with the stout arms looked so good we wondered why Marion, who looked like yesterday's gardenia with that loose, droopy physique, was kept and Lake shipped away. Which may show what kind of a judge of raw talent we are.

Anyway, the Red Sox power is missing, and Tom Yawkey and Joe Cronin eagerly are doing the

Dodger Rookie Olmo Regarded as Slugger

Outfielder May Start With Medwick, Walker In Opening Lineup

By CHIP ROYAL
BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y.—He has an expression something like movie actor Buster Keaton, but when he takes that cocked stance at the plate, and sways around with the willow, you'll swear that it is Tony Lazzeri.

Up here on the banks of the Hudson where the Brooklyn Dodgers are out-hustling each other, they call him "Tony Buster Country Cagas" Luis Rodriguez Olmo, sung to the tune of that song about Marquita Conchita Rosita Lolita Pepita Juanita O'Toole.

Olmo has been called a lot of names in his 24 years but that doesn't bother the lean and limber Latin. He just flashes his white teeth, tugs at his pants, holds his bat high off his shoulder, and smacks them to all fields.

Durocher Likes Him
Don't be surprised if you find Olmo sharing honors with Joe Medwick and Dixie Walker in the Dodgers' outfield this season. Quote Manager Leo Durocher: "Olmo has a lot of power up there at the plate, and he can run too. I like him a lot. We'll make good use of him."

His looks and his batting stance gave "the Buster" and "Tony" nicknames to Olmo. The "Country" is a memento of his early trials and tribulations in the winter league of his native Puerto Rico. He was just a shy Spaniard when first he tried baseball and they called him "Country," just as we say rube. He was really rural, coming from Caguas, way up the island.

That shyness didn't last long, though, when Olmo hit the States in 1939. The Richmond club in the Class B Piedmont League heard about the bashing bashful boy wonder of Puerto Rico and offered him a contract. He was immediately optioned to the Wilson, N. C. club where he hammered out a batting average of .328.

Walloping .350 for the first part of the 1940 season, Olmo was recalled to the Richmond outfield in August and continued to bash the ball for the Colts. He likes to remember 1940 as his best year. After helping Wilson in the Coastal Plain League, and Richmond in the Piedmont, to pennants, Luis went to Caguas, as he does every winter, and helped his home town win the Puerto Rican League crown.

Most Valuable Player
The clouting islander started and finished with Richmond in 1941, winning the Piedmont League's most valuable player award. On the day he received the trophy, he whacked out a homer and three singles in the first game, received his award, and then slammed a homer and two singles in the nightcap. He wound up the season with .311.

Last year, he was just about the Piedmont League's Mr. Big in everything. He led the loop in batting (.337) runs batted in, total bases, triples, homers and runs scored. No wonder they gave him an inscribed watch for the most popular Colt of 1942.

The only major league ball player who covets in the clover the year round can also catch and play the infield, but the olive skinned youth prefers right field. "I might have been a pitcher," Olmo said, "but my right arm is crooked. I was hurling the javelin for my school team when I was 15, and snapped my right elbow. It has never been straight since."

best possible thing to offset the loss. They're mending the defensive leaks so the team fielding average no longer will be confused with the batting average.

Bill Johnson Returns to Yankee Stadium as 1st Team Shortstop

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—Some half-dozen years ago a slightly over-aged, highly nervous youngster was tossed out of Yankee stadium on his ear because of a misunderstanding.

Next month when the Yanks open their quest of another American league pennant, that same youngster, polished by a course in the Yankee farm system, is quite likely to be the shortstop replacement for Phil Rizzuto, now of the U. S. navy.

The youngster is Bill Johnson, who is coming up from the Newark Bears along with George Stinweis, rated the cream of Farmer George Weiss' 1943 crop. Johnson, however, may confound the experts and prove a more important addition to Joe McCarthy's club than his more flashy colleague.

Johnson, unable to complete a high school course because of the necessity of helping his parents in Montclair, N. J., never competed in high school athletics. He first attracted attention as a semi-pro hurler, especially on the basis of a 2-1 triumph over Hank Borowy, present Yankee ace, which he decided with a ninth inning triple.

Oscar Vitt, who sent many standout players up to the Yankees, can be credited with saving Johnson from the Reds and Cards, who also tried to sign Johnson, and steering him toward the Stadium.

Vitt, strictly a personality guy, turned the charm on Johnson and permitted him to work out with the Bears. When the youngster turned up for a drill he was carrying a pair of $2.00 baseball shoes under his arm which he had purchased after a month of saving money.

Turning on that vivid Vitt grin, Ol' O's told the kid: "Toss those shoes into the ashean," and before the stunned youngster could answer, Vitt handed him a pair of featherweights.

That sold Johnson on Vitt and he refused to make a move without Vitt's okay. Oscar finally got Paul Krichell, chief bush-beater of the Yank scouting force, to give the boy a look-see. Krichell liked what he saw and sent the kid to the Stadium for a workout promising he would leave a note which would admit him to the "Yankee Wonderland."

The note slipped Krichell's mind and resulted in the kid being chased when he reported at the players' entrance on schedule. Krichell met Johnson later and straightened things out, and a contract was eventually signed.

Johnson was sent to Butler and hit .356 in his first year of pro

Carideo Awaits Answer Soon On Commission

Fifteen football candidates checked out uniforms yesterday as Coach Jim Harris held the first spring practice of the season. Six men reported to practice as Harris began his duties as head coach. Twenty or 25 graders are expected to report in the next few days.

Three of the 15 men are letter winners from last season. Dick Hoerner, Bob Liddy and Forrest Masterson were the reporting lettermen.

Frank Carideo, University of Iowa backfield coach, said yesterday that he is expecting an answer to an application for a commission in the navy's physical education program within a few days.

Carideo, former all-American quarterback from Notre Dame, said he is seeking a post in the navy pre-flight setup. His application was made about two months ago.

If Carideo goes into the service, he will be the third Iowa football coach to join the armed forces. Dr. Eddie Anderson, head coach, is a major in the army medical corps, and Bill Hofer, freshman coach, is in the marines.

The 15 football candidates who checked out uniforms yesterday are: Robert Liddy, Monticello, Forrest Masterson, Louisville, Ohio, Don Murray, New Hampton, William Rooney, Joliet, Ill., Joseph Poulter, Moline, Ill., Harry Frey, Fairfield, James Sweeney, Cedar Rapids, Ambrose O'Malley, Chicago, Frank Stepanek, Cedar Rapids, Andrew Novasak, Chicago, Dick Hoerner, Dubuque, Don Lehmkuhl, Cedar Rapids, Harold Fiala, Waterloo, Bob Farley, Victor and Bill Cahill, West Branch.

Jim Wilson Banished But Cubs Win, 4-2

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP)—Jimmy Wilson, Chicago Cubs' boss, was chased off the bench first and then off the field by umpire Art Pasarella yesterday as the Bruins came from behind to beat the White Sox 4-2 and square their informal spring training series at one-all.

Wilson's banishment came in the fifth inning after Stan Hack, who had singled, was tossed out trying to steal home.

Girl Drowns Her 3 Babies

DENVER (AP)—An attractive young woman calmly told detectives yesterday that she drowned three babies in bathtubs immediately after their birth and secreted their bodies in a flower-decorated hope chest.

The infants' bodies, wrapped in blankets and packed in shirt boxes, were found in an apartment building in a basement locker assigned to Bernice Williams, 23.

Miss Williams was taken into custody without charge and held without bail.

Detective Capt. James E. Childers said she told him, in a three-page statement, that she was unmarried and that she gave birth to the babies at three separate addresses. She drowned them, the officer said, because she "couldn't afford to support them."

WPB Decrees Higher Standards for Hosiery

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war production board yesterday decreed new standards for women's hosiery which, it said, would improve the wearing qualities of most stockings. Not that the real sheer ones are out—they can be made if comparatively long-wearing yarns are used.

WPB issued, effective May 15, a yarn conservation order covering all types of hosiery and designed to save about 15,000,000 pounds of wool, rayon and cotton yarns annually. In the case of women's hosiery, however, slightly more rayon than previously will be required.

When Sanders came to the set, ready to work, he was not interested in talking about pictures, or Sanders, or—in short, in talking much. The star of "Appointment in Berlin" had an appointment with Uncle Sam. Just under 38, he was—if he passed the physical—in line for a real appointment in Berlin.

Nebraskan Commits Suicide to Escape Seizure by Posse

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—A 15-year-old expectant mother was found shot to death at her grandmother's home northwest of here yesterday morning and yesterday afternoon her uncle, Orrin McLaughlin, 50, sought in the slaying, eluded a posse in the rugged hill country and took his own life, Deputy Sheriff Arnold Baasch said.

Baasch said McLaughlin's body was found under a rocky ledge in pine-covered, rocky hill country, less than a mile from the small farm home 10 miles northwest of here in which the body of Mrs. Chloe Connolly, the young wife, was found yesterday morning.

The deputy sheriff said McLaughlin crawled under the ledge, fastened his toe by a handkerchief to the triggers of the double-barreled shotgun, and took his own life.

The armed posse of between 30 and 40 men which combed the pine-covered, rocky hill country northwest of here was guided to the dead man by an old man, Bert Gibson, who was familiar with the hiding places in the area. Gibson, who lived in a shack 1/2 mile from McLaughlin's home, said the hole under the ledge, like a "panther's hole," had been used for storing whiskey in prohibition days.

President Hancher, Cobb, Ambrose Meet To Hasten Settlement

Fred W. Ambrose, superintendent of grounds and buildings, said last night an intensive study was being made by university officials on the labor situation which arose Wednesday when about 100 employes of the university's physical plant met to express dissatisfaction over the newly adopted method of increasing their wages.

The system to which the workers objected, announced Wednesday morning, calls for raising salaries according to their present levels. Men now earning under $900 a year would receive an increase of 16 percent; those whose earnings now total $1,900 to $2,000 would be raised 3.9 percent.

At Wednesday's meeting spokesmen for the plant's truck drivers, machinists, painters, plumbers, janitors, maintenance mechanics, steam fitters, electricians, timers and carpenters requested increases which in some cases amounted to 15 or 20 percent of their salaries.

Ambrose said 21 workers did not report yesterday. Of the electricians only the foreman appeared at work. Plumbers, steam fitters and mechanics were also among the absent.

Conferences were being held with President Virgil M. Hancher and William H. Cobb, university business manager, in an effort to clear up the matter as soon as possible, Ambrose said.

The plant's entire personnel numbers in the vicinity of 300.

Russians Hold Firm on Donet Defense Line

LONDON, Friday (AP)—Russian troops have captured several localities in the continuing drive to wipe out the Nazi Caucasian bridgehead of Novorossisk, have reduced another stronghold on the Smolensk front, and held firmly on their Donets river defense line, Moscow announced early today.

The midnight communique also reported that German troops had penetrated to the western outskirts of one populated place in the Sevsk area, 170 miles northwest of Nazi-held Kharkov, but said a Russian counterattack threw back the enemy and killed 200 Germans.

The Germans announced the capture of Sevsk, 80 miles below Bryansk, some time ago.

The resumed Russian Caucasian drive presumably was in the area of captured Anastasevskaya, 32 miles north of Novorossisk. The communique recorder by the Soviet monitor said five enemy guns, 19 machineguns, eight mortars, 13 supply-laden trucks and other booty had been captured yesterday.

Anastasevskaya, only 10 miles from a road junction connecting Novorossisk on the Black sea with Nazi forces holding the western tip of the Taman peninsula opposite the Crimea, fell to the Russians Wednesday. The Red army push there threatens to trap the enemy troops holding Novorossisk.

Other Russian units operating in the Abinskaya area are only 20 miles northeast of the former Soviet Black sea fleet base.

Approximately $15 was taken in currency, $50 worth of cigarettes and $35 worth of beer and chewing gum.

Strike at Cotton 'Bolt Weevils'

EXPERIMENT, Ga. (AP)—Southern farmers have been advised not to blame enemy agents if their cotton fields develop an alarming color but the reason will be a blight just the same.

Dr. A. L. Smith, outlining for the Phytopathological journal a series of observations here, reported that lightning can leave strange effects in cotton fields. Sometimes plants are killed outright in a circular area. Frequently, however, the result of lightning is an abnormal color and affected plants develop malformations. These effects, Dr. Smith said, often lead to considerable alarm by those who are unaware that they are caused by lightning.

—Former Iowa Citizens

Phillip Raymond Aikins, a former student at the university, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the marine corps reserve at the naval air training center in Corpus Christi, Tex., last week.

He received specialized instruction in flying fighter planes after he had passed the basic courses.

Lieutenant Aikins, who also attended Coe college in Cedar Rapids where he was a member of the Delta Upsilon and Chi Beta Phi fraternities, volunteered for flight training in February, 1942. He received his preliminary flight instruction at the Minneapolis, Minn., reserve aviation base.

Richard S. Sharp, a member of the varsity basketball and baseball teams while attending the university, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the marine corps reserve at the naval air training center at Pensacola, Fla.

He began his preliminary training early in July at the naval air station in St. Louis.

Before being assigned to a combat zone, Lieutenant Sharp will go on active duty at one of the navy's air operational training centers.

Gerald Edward Ankeny, who attended the university, received the commission of ensign in the naval reserve at the training center in Corpus Christi, Tex., recently.

Ensign Ankeny, who was affiliated with the Sigma Nu fraternity at the university, specialized in flying patrol planes during his training period.

He volunteered for flight training last April and received preliminary flight instruction at the St. Louis reserve aviation base.

First Lieut. Kenneth R. Riekey, who received a B.S. degree from the university in 1938, is one of the eight student officers who are members of the new basic class of the army air force flying school at Goodfellow field near San Angelo, Tex.

Lieutenant Riekey, who was commissioned in the R. O. T. C. at the university, will learn the fundamentals of air battle tactics, precision cross-country instrument and formation flying.

Before applying for flight training as a student officer, he was stationed at Camp Robinson, Ark. He received his primary flight training at Garner field in Uvalde, Tex.

Previous to his enlistment, Riekey was a cost accountant for Stewart corporation in Chicago.

Edward McCloy, son of Prof. and Mrs. C. H. McCloy, 1 Oakridge avenue, has been promoted to the rank of captain. He is stationed at Camp Adair, Ore.

Captain McCloy is a graduate from the university and was affiliated with the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

He and his wife and daughter are living at Albany, Ore.

Walter D. Pickrell, a student at the university for two and a half years, was recently commissioned a second lieutenant in the marine corps and now holds the distinction of being one of the first two enlisted men of the United States marines to successfully complete the officer training program of the Royal marine military school in England.

His graduation ceremony was unique, not only because it was the first time an American marine had completed the British training, but because an American officer took the salute of the British corps and delivered the commencement address. The officer was Col. William T. Clement who is attached to the staff of Admiral H. R. Stark, commander in chief of the United States naval forces in Europe.

Pickrell, who was born in Chariton, attended Chariton junior college before coming to the university. While here he was a member of the football and tennis teams.

He enlisted in the marines at Des Moines on Sept. 4, 1940, and served at San Diego, Calif., before joining the Embassy marine detachment in London in 1941. During his training he has received bayonet and pistol marksmanship medals.

He was made an "honorary sergeant" by the Royal marines early in the training course. He and Paul E. Cramer, who was graduated with Pickrell, were members of the rugby team at the academy. They gained distinction because of their American ideas on low tackles.

Avery John Lauber Jr. of Storm Lake, a former student at the University of Iowa, has been commissioned an ensign in the naval reserve at the naval air training center, Corpus Christi, Tex.

Ensign Lauber volunteered for flight training last March and received preliminary instruction at the Anacostia, Wash., reserve aviation base.

Robert W. Bruce, who attended the university, has arrived at Middle Tennessee state college in Murfreesboro, Tenn., for a course of instruction which will be followed by his appointment as an aviation cadet in the army forces flying training command.

Bruce, who was a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, will be sent, upon completion of his present course, to a special school for training as a navigator, pilot or bombardier.

Pvt. Richard (Chad) Brooks, who attended the university last semester and part of this semester, is now stationed with the 10th college training detachment at Albion College, Albion, Mich.

Private Brooks enlisted in the army air corps in December and was called to active duty with approximately 150 other Iowa students in February.

Second Lieut. William L. Carran, a former student, was one of the 192 men commissioned as second lieutenants last Saturday at the graduation of the 27th class of the armored force officer candidate school in Ft. Knox, Ky.

While attending this school, Lieutenant Carran spent three months studying vehicles, weapons and tactics employed by the armored force.

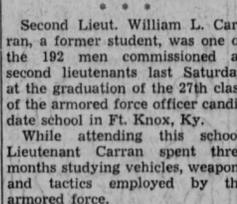

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Hohenschuh mortuary for August Rexilous, 94, of Windham, who died at his home west of Iowa City Wednesday night.

Born in Germany, he came to this country as a boy, and had been a resident of Johnson county for 60 years.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. S. Stimmel, 515 Jefferson street, 12 grandchildren, 13 great grandchildren, and one great-great grandchild.

Burial will be in the Frytown cemetery.

Post-War Race Equality Urged By Sociologist

That the army should require three months of specialized industrial training before discharging the soldier after the war, that we should recognize and respect the colored races and that America should have race equality in housing, education and industrial facilities were the main points emphasized by Charles S. Johnson of Fisk university last night in Old Capitol.

"Race is more important in this war than any war America has ever experienced," said Johnson. "The surprise of Pearl Harbor, Midway and the Solomons drove out of the skepticism and disrespect for the colored races that previously had had been subject to the dominating white race, but who arose from this to shock America into recognizing the power and individualism of the colored race."

Pointing out the effect wartime Negro labor enforcement has in America, Johnson declared that the Negroes were given unskilled jobs, jobs which could be abolished the minute peace is declared. The Negroes who worked in these plants have approached more than ever before the same standard of living enjoyed by the white race, but have been given little chance to attain vocational training to improve themselves, advance in their employment and prepare for the post-war era.

"If it requires three months to get into the army, it should require at least three months to get out," said Johnson. "The soldiers will demand, because of their service in the war, jobs when the war is over. Specialized training and placement should be given before any of the men are discharged from active service."

It will be necessary to place the 900,000 Negro men now in the service in such a way as to distribute them proportionately throughout America. This will take care of the overly populated areas in suburban districts and the southeastern part of the United States.

In closing, Johnson proposed some positive qualities that are associated with the whole aim of the war. "First there is the right of minorities; we should begin now in the simple policy of race equality in housing, educational and industrial facilities; we should suppress segregation and control minority subjugation, if we are to preserve the very principle of free enterprise and freedom for which we are fighting."

Parking meters for motorists were adopted by more than 25 cities in 1942.

Rev. Emil Gruen Describes Ministry's Role In Freeing Jews From 'Great Hardships'

By ALICE VAN GORDEN

Speaking before a meeting at the Baptist church last night, the Rev. Emil D. Gruen, midwest representative of the American Mission to the Jews, described the part of this Christian ministry in the presentation of the message of Christ to the Jewish people "in a time when these people are suffering greater hardships than the race has ever suffered."

The Rev. Mr. Gruen, a graduate of the Eastern Baptist Theological seminary in Philadelphia, is from Des Moines and is active in the work of the Iowa Baptist convention.

He told of the medical clinics, summer camps and churches which have been organized throughout the country by the American mission, illustrating his lecture with slides.

He stated that the mission, which has been in existence for 49 years, has been handicapped in carrying on its work because of the difficulty in visualizing the need for missionary work among the Jews, who are in our midst, despite the fact that they are "without Christ."

Leaders are specially trained and numerous stations have been established in all parts of the United States as well as in Europe, South America and Jerusalem. He said that the war has interfered with most of the European refugee work and many of the stations have been closed. However, he added, $45,000 a year was spent in overseas relief funds before the war closed these relief channels.

Refugees have been aided in finding employment and provided with food and clothing, "but they have found spiritual aid and comfort as well as physical help," the Rev. Mr. Gruen emphasized.

Among the pictures shown were some taken in Warsaw and smuggled from Poland. In this country alone more than 500,000 Jews have been killed in the persecution by Hitler. Sections have been isolated by tearing down bridges joining them with the remainder of the city thereby starving the inhabitants to death.

When the demands for literature of the Jewish refugees who had fled from Germany to Shanghai, China, became increasingly greater, the mission printed thousands of periodicals and distributed them among these people.

One of the society's greatest achievements, according to the Rev. Mr. Gruen, was the printing of the New Testament in the Yiddish language. These have been distributed free of charge to Jewish colleges and churches as well as to all who have requested a copy of the book.

The Rev. Gruen will discuss the work of the American Mission, which is the largest Jewish missionary society in existence, at the Mennonite church Sunday morning and at the Nazarene church on Sunday night.
