British, American Troops Join Forces Behind Fleeing Nazi Afrika Korps

ALLIES, AXIS EACH PRESENT PHOTOS AS EVIDENCE OF THEIR ABILITIES ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT

THIS AXIS PROPAGANDA picture, according to the caption attached, shows an American bomber plane downed in the fighting over Tunisia. But the photo shows what appear to be twin fuselages which would indicate the plane is not a bomber but a P-38 (Lockheed Lightning) fighter.

CONSIDERABLE SCRAP METAL is contributed by the Germans to the allies as three Mark III tanks lie battered and flaming, above, on a Tunisian battlefield. They and two others, not shown in this photo, were smashed by a British Eighth army anti-tank regiment near the Mareth line.

Over 6,000 Prisoners Captured As Armies Smash Rommel's Defenses 20 Miles From Gabes

By DANIEL DE LUCE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP) — The British Eighth army has smashed completely Marshal Rommel's Wadi Akarit defenses 20 miles north of Gabes, and yesterday joined forces with American troops under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. in relentless pursuit of the fleeing Afrika Korps, whose ranks were ripped by low-flying allied airmen.

Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons in London that more than 6,000 prisoners already had been taken in this new victory, which led to a quick union between the British and American armies on the Gafsa-Gabes road.

The long anticipated junction of the British and Americans also merged the air forces which were declared in a special communique to be "now enjoying common targets."

Advanced troops of the Second American corps fought through the flank of the withdrawing enemy forces and united with the British on the ridge of Chems, 15 miles east of El Guetar on the road to the coast.

As the Americans and the British met triumphantly on the hill where Elite German troops had fought bitterly only a few hours earlier, heavy forces of American Billy Mitchell bombers with a Spitfire escort were bombing the enemy transports fleeing northward from the area.

It now can be disclosed officially that an American infantry division which for more than two weeks has been trying to batter through to the coast has performed the vital role of containing most of Rommel's armor in this sector, thereby weakening his defenses, first at the Mareth line and then on the new line along the Wadi El Akarit which the Eighth army cracked in two hours Tuesday.

When the British infantrymen scaled two hills commanding the Wadi Akarit line early Tuesday, smashed a counterattack and began mopping up, Rommel's gamble to hold his triangular flank against the Americans was lost.

In this triangle between the sea, El Guetar and Maknassy, the Americans had waged day after day the bitterest kind of struggle to gain a few hundred yards across a rugged terrain pocketed with machineguns and artillery and swathed with minefields.

By Tuesday afternoon many of Rommel's crack tank troops which had long been concentrated in the El Guetar area threatening to smash any over-extended American effort began lumbering northward under a smokescreen.

Harassed by flare-dropping RAF bombers Tuesday night, the enemy's vehicles continued to edge toward the rear, and at dawn helmeted American riflemen plunged forward against dwindling resistance.

There is no official information as to whether any considerable enemy force was trapped on the south side of the Gafsa-Gabes road when the Americans and British splined their common front, but the Eighth army still was collecting prisoners along the coast.

Farmers Guaranteed Higher Prices

Boost on 5 War Crops to Replace $100,000,000 Incentive Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The food administrator, Chester C. Davis, announced last night that the government would guarantee farmers higher prices for five vital war crops—dry beans and peas, and peanuts, soybeans and flaxseeds—to encourage greatest possible production.

The higher prices will replace a $100,000,000 incentive payment program previously announced by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard. Funds for such payments have not been provided by congress because of farm bloc opposition.

The government has asked for greatly increased acreages of beans and peas, commodities now rationed, and peanuts, soy beans and flaxseed for vegetable food oils and for livestock protein feed.

Davis announced, however, that incentive payments would be made on potatoes and truck crops—carrots, snap beans, lima beans, beets, tomatoes, cabbage, onions and green peas—at rates previously announced by Wickard. Funds for such payments were available at the time Wickard announced the incentive payment program.

The food administrator said the government would support grover prices of the five crops at higher levels than previously announced by Wickard through purchase and loan operations of the commodity credit corporation.

Higher Than Ceilings
In the case of dry beans and peas and soy beans, the new support prices are higher than present ceiling prices. Officials of the CCC explained that if ceilings were not increased, the government might have to sell the products to consumer outlets at prices which enable the latter to comply with ceilings. Such sales would involve losses to the government.

The support prices apply to 1943 crops of affected commodities. The support level for dry edible beans was set at $6.50 per 100 pounds, cleaned and bagged in cars, FOB carrier, at country shipping points, for the following classes: pea, great northern, small white, flat small white, pinty, pink, small red and cranberry. The support price had previously been announced at $5.60. The ceiling price is now $5.80.

$7.50 Per 100 Pounds
The support price was set at $7.50 per 100 pounds, for the following classes: lima, baby lima, light red kidney, dark red kidney and western red kidney. The ceiling price on these classes is now $8.30.

The support price of yellow soy beans with 14 percent moisture content was raised from $1.70 to $1.80 per bushel. The present ceiling price is $1.85. Premiums and discounts will be made as previously announced so as to give an advance of 10 cents a bushel for other classes and qualities of soy beans.

Naval Appropriation Of 24 Billion Sought

Roosevelt Requests Largest Amount Ever Allotted to Sea Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $24,551,070,000 appropriation for the navy for the fiscal year of 1943—the largest amount ever sought for the nation's sea-fighting forces in one year—has been requested of congress by President Roosevelt, it was learned last night.

Included are $3,476,800,000 for the bureau of ordnance, $4,286,211,000 for the bureau of supplies and docks, $1,887,000,000 to finance the ship-building program, $1,640,000,000 for the bureau of aeronautics, and $9,024,000,000 for increase and replacement of naval vessels.

The total compares with $23,630,000,000 appropriated last year for the navy, but that figure covered supplemental, deficiency and emergency appropriations as well as the regular 1943 allotment of approximately $14,000,000,000.

Chairman Cannon (D, Mo.) of the house appropriations committee, terming the new estimates the largest in history, said a subcommittee will begin consideration of the various allotments Saturday.

Don't Leave Ration Stamps on Doorstep

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can't put ration stamps on the doorstep for the milkman who leaves butter.

OPA explained yesterday that ration stamps must be handed over in person. Likewise, the milkman or the butcher can't trust you for coupons and must collect them on delivery of rationed merchandise, regardless of whether credit is given on the money end of the deal.

Japanese Infiltration Causes British Retreat Along Mayu Peninsula

Wavell Adjusts Line As Enemy Advances Above Port of Akyab

CALCUTTA (AP) — Japanese infiltrations and the approach of the monsoon forced the British Indian army to start pulling out of the Mayu peninsula above the Burma port of Akyab to more tenable positions in the Kyau Apandu, three miles northwest, Marshal Archibald P. Wavell's command said yesterday.

The move—beginning with the national defense council urging President Penaranda to sign such a decree—coincided with the visit of U. S. Vice-president Henry A. Wallace, who conferred with Penaranda and cabinet members yesterday.

Only one South American country, Brazil, is at war with the axis, but it is not at war with Japan. All except Argentina have broken diplomatic relations.

The civil air patrol will meet at the dental building, room 109, at 7:30. It will be a Red Cross first aid class meeting.

The enemy has committed considerable air and land forces to regain, before the onset of the rains, ground lost since mid-December last, but has so far succeeded only in recouping areas which were untenable in any event during the monsoon" the supplemental British statement said.

"In fact the same applies to certain positions still in occupation by our forces but the Japanese may be expected to continue pressure with a view of gaining some local success before rains restrict operations."

American Liberator bombers from India again attacked the Pazundaung bridge near Rangoon, destroying the southern approaches, a U. S. communique said. Medium bombers attacked the enemy in north Burma and all planes returned.

Bolivia Joins Allies in War Against Axis

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivian government last night published a decree declaring Bolivia at war with the axis powers and ordering general mobilization.

The decree was formulated by the cabinet at a meeting Tuesday night, and must be referred to the Bolivian congress for confirmation. No date has been announced for congress' meeting.

REGISTRATION MATERIALS
Students in the colleges of liberal arts, commerce, education and the graduate college may obtain registration materials at the office of the registrar beginning tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, upon presentation of student identification cards.

REGISTRATION DATES
Freshmen and sophomores register in room 2, office of student affairs, Old Capitol, April 12 through April 16, 1-10 p. m. to 5 p. m. Those with last names beginning with A through E, register April 12; F through K, April 13; L through P, April 14; Q through S, April 15, and T through Z, April 16.

PROFESSIONAL COLLEGES
Students in the colleges of dentistry, engineering, law and pharmacy secure registration materials and register in the office of the deans of the respective colleges on dates announced by the deans.

Informed Circles Say Hitler, Mussolini Now Meeting in Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Reports from informed circles in Rome last night said Hitler and Mussolini were conferring, probably in the Brenner pass, on what steps to take for the defense of Europe against invasion.

Although Mussolini was primarily concerned with Italian defenses imminently menaced by the allied successes in Tunisia, they were reported discussing the entire problem of strategic defenses for the continent.

They were believed to have their principal advisers with them.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Dorothy Lamour, who often portrays a sarong-clad outdoor girl on the screen, was married yesterday indoors.

The actress had planned that her marriage to Capt. William Ross Howard III of Baltimore be performed in the garden of her parents' home, but the weather wasn't of the garden variety.

Capt. E. I. Carriker, chaplain at the San Bernardino air depot, where Capt. Howard is stationed, read the service.

The double ring ceremony was used. Only a few close friends were present.

Vote to Place Bankhead Bill in Storage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The farm bloc rescued the vetoed Bankhead bill from almost certain defeat in the senate yesterday with a 62 to 23 vote to place the controversial measure in storage with the friendly agriculture committee.

The senate's action technically kept alive the measure, which would force price control officials to disregard government benefit payments in establishing farm price ceilings, as the committee could report it to the senate again at any time.

Return of the measure to the committee indefinitely postponed a showdown on an administration move, apparently backed by more than the necessary one-third of the members present, to kill the bill by sustaining President Roosevelt's veto.

The farm group thus beat down an administration effort to kill the bill outright, and, in keeping it technically alive, raised a threat it will be brought up again if any blanket wage increases are granted that pierce present economic controls.

The measure, which would force price control officials to disregard government benefit payments in fixing farm prices, was vetoed by President Roosevelt because he said it might stir up an inflationary tornado.

It can be enacted only by a two-thirds vote of both houses, but the agriculture committee can pick any time during the remainder of this congress for such a test.

There was no doubt that the administration had the votes yesterday to prevent approval of the measure by the two-thirds vote necessary to override a veto, and Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) fought with every available weapon to get a straight-out test, and so defeat the bill for this session.

But sponsors advanced the argument that the bill ought to be kept around handy in case somebody — John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers were mentioned in the debate — succeeded in winning wage increases. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said plainly he wanted it stored with the committee until it became certain that President Roosevelt was going to hold the lines against inflation on other fronts.

Twenty-seven Republicans and a Progressive joined with 34 Democrats in support of the motion by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.), author of the bill, to send it back to the committee. Fifteen Democrats and eight Republicans voted against the motion and, by inference, to kill the measure now.

Barkley said the 23 votes were at least 17 fewer than the administration could have mustered to sustain the veto, and that while he was not surprised at the size of the vote to send it to the committee, he regretted it.

"It means that a threat will hang over efforts to fight inflation," he said.

Bankhead said, on the other hand, that it would "do no harm" to return the bill to committee where he promised that information would be developed to counteract what he said was a misunderstanding about the effects of the measure. He contends it would affect only a few farm price ceilings.

During the debate, Barkley told his colleagues that if the farm bloc had in mind its use as a club against the demands of Lewis for increased mine wages, it had better watch out lest Lewis seize the club.

"Whatever you may think of Lewis he's a very able and skillful strategist," Barkley declared. "I am not sure that if this bill is to be used as a club, that the club will not be used the other way. Mr. Lewis, instead of congress, may come out with the club."

Bankhead said, on the other hand, that it would "do no harm" to return the bill to committee where he promised that informa-

Highest Farm Income—

Federal bureau of agricultural economics—yes, there is one—statistics on farm income share to some extent the common suspicion that all the affairs of the Department of Agriculture are slanted to arm the administration with vote-appeal arguments. But they are official and they do reflect trends.

Recently published figures on 1942 farm income bear out opinions formed from the market price quotations on farm products. The 1942 cash farm income was $16,138,000,000, according to the bureau. The old record for all time was prior to the depression—$12,608,000,000. The 1942 cash income exceeded by 50 percent the 1937-41 five-year average, and was about three and one half times the 1932 depression low of $4,682,000,000. So cash farm income is higher than ever, and looks even better when $1,562,000,000 (the official figures) is added for food, fuel and rent on the farm.

But tucked away in these record-breaking 1942 figures is a strange item. It is put down as $696,748,000—a figure nearly equivalent to the entire cost of running the federal government when Wilson took office—and it is listed as farm benefits. It is counted as farm cash income, yet it was gouged out of the taxpayers of this and future generations to keep AAA politicians on the payroll and to pay farmers for what good farmers do anyhow.

The country was at war during all of the year 1942. Lend-lease was in its second year. Everyone knew that this country could make use of all that it could grow. The people were constantly exhorted to buy all the war bonds that they could manage, and they could foresee the highest tax levies in the country's history. But in spite of all this sacrifice, the planning for greater sacrifice, the New Deal handed farmers $696,748,000 in "benefits." Why?

Because there was an election in November 1942.

Johnson County's Obligation—

Monday will be launched one of the greatest borrowing campaigns in the history of the world with American citizens being asked to invest $13,000,000,000 in war bonds and other types of government securities. Of this amount $100,000,000 must come from Iowa; $1,060,000 from Johnson county.

The long line of figures is cold and harsh, difficult to comprehend. But behind these digits lies something more than can be counted in money, something more than mere hard-earned cash. It is for the intangible values that can be obtained through these means that we must strive—for the protection of America and the priceless peace AFTER the war.

Each day the war is costing the nation $200,000,000, $200,000,000 that must come from the pocketbook of the country—from the breadbasket of the midwest, the steel mills of Pennsylvania, the oil wells of Oklahoma, the defense plants of the coast. From every household, from every businessman, from every American today comes some form of payment, either in money or in deeds. But even this is not enough to carry the weight of total war. We must do more.

Here is our opportunity to stand behind our country—land that we love. Here is our chance to give and give even more.

Hog Wild for Clothes—

Mr. and Mrs. America seem to be going hog wild. Ever since the surprise rationing of shoes went into effect, reports from all over the country indicate that the public is preparing in the most unwise way for clothes rationing.

An Ohio woman ordered 75 pairs of stockings; a New York girl purchased 27 pairs of white gloves; a west coast mother bought four coats in varying sizes for her growing daughter.

This type of buying is condemned by everyone as wasteful and silly. But it is just as bad to buy two dresses or two suits today when you could get along on one. If this type of actions continue, the government may be

Interpreting the War News

Doubtful That Axis Can Execute A Successful 'Dunkerque'

By GLENN BABB

Montgomery's new victory over Rommel, setting him in flight once more with the Americans hammering at his flanks, brings close the question of how the German chieftain will make his exit from the African drama.

There has been much discussion of an axis Dunkerque from some blasted strip of Tunisian coast, some of it suggesting that this would cap the allied triumph. But Dunkerque was perhaps history's most successful evacuation by sea from a lost battlefield, as well as an heroic adventure. A major objective of the allied command surely is to prevent Rommel or von Arnim from achieving anything approaching the measure of the British success.

Doubtless it hopes to present to the world the spectacle of a great axis army brought to the same desperate straits as confronted the British expeditionary force when it reached the English channel at the climax of the great allied disaster in western Europe, and then make sure there shall be no comparable "miracle of deliverance."

There is good basis for this hope. Dunkerque is 50 miles from the nearest English coast. The possible Tunisian escape beaches are about twice as far from the nearest friendly shores. If the axis forces should fight their way to Cape Bon, the last extremity of Tunisia, they still would be 90 miles across the strait from Sicily. Either of their main ports, Tunis and Bizerte, are 150 miles from the Sicilian coast. Should they attempt to reach Sardinia from Bizerte they would have 120 miles of water to cross.

Dunkerque was made possible by the British command of the seas and local superiority in the air. There is no reason to expect that the axis can scrape together anything like the evacuation flotilla, small ships gathered from all the nearby British coast, that carried the BEF home. Evidently an effort to match this is in train, for there are reports of shipping concentrations in Sicilian, Sardinian and other ports. There is the possibility that the Italian navy may be called on for a finish fight, but that probably is exactly what Admiral Cunningham and his men hope for.

Thus far the German and Italian air forces in the Mediterranean have given no proof of their ability to provide an umbrella such as the RAF raised over Dunkerque, although it is likely they are conserving much of their strength for just this climactic test. Every field within fighter range of the evacuation beaches, on Sicily, Sardinia or the Italian mainland, probably will send its squadrons and the resulting battle should set new records in numbers and ferocity for the Mediterranean theater. But the superiority of the Americans and British over Tunisia apparently is increasing and there is reason to expect that it will be still more formidable when Rommel's last day in Africa comes.

Tunis and Bizerte already are under almost constant attack; their port facilities must be badly shattered. And the allies have planes that can carry destruction to the enemy's home ports, as they already have to Cagliari, Naples and Messina, in a measure that was impossible for the Luftwaffe in 1940. Even if the axis armies are able to embark their havens, many perilous hours away, will offer little safety.

From Dunkerque, to quote Winston Churchill, the British navy, "using nearly 1,000 ships of all kinds, carried over 350,000 men, French and British, out of the jaws of death back to their native land and to the tasks which lie immediately before them." Rommel and von Arnim together probably had 200,000 men when the allied offensive began. That number is dwindling steadily and perhaps will melt even more rapidly as Rommel continues his perilous retreat. It may be halved by the time the northern beaches are reached. If the axis command gets 100,000 men safely back to Italy it can boast of an achievement comparable to Dunkerque.

forced to ration clothing to protect sensible, patriotic citizens from spending the duration in only a loin cloth.

At present there is plenty of material to go around and with sane buying the public need not go unclothed. Uncle Sam is planning to use less wool next year, also—which means that there will be just that much more to keep the folks at home warm.

If we buy wisely, we may prevent rationing. If we continue buying everything we can afford "just in case," we will be shopping for clothes with coupons next year.

Remember when you go down to shop next time that that money could better be put into war bonds and stamps to see that Johnny Doughboy comes marching home.

Three safe rules to follow are:

- (1) Keep your wardrobe down to a minimum. Buy only those things which you need at the moment.
- (2) Remember when tempted to hoard that styles change rapidly and you may find yourself overstocked with clothes which can never be worn—which you never have worn.
- (3) Choose your clothing with more care than ever. Pick your colors and materials carefully. One basic color with all other clothes harmonizing will not only help to solve your shoe problem, but will allow for mixing of outfits.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS SOUNDS

$828 Every Time John Wayne 'Dudes'

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—There was John Wayne, looking big and handsome in his cowboy duds, and some of us allowed as to how it must be pretty easy on the wardrobe budget, being a cowboy and not having to fork over big pay-dirt for clothes.

Big John Wayne grinned wryly. "That's what you think," he said. "Let's figure it out." He did. And I'll pass it on so next time you see Wayne in ordinary clothes you won't think he's stepping out of character. You'll even suspect he's wearing his "good" clothes to save his cowboy regalia.

Wayne isn't a full-fledged cowboy any more. He plays other kinds of parts, even wears party clothes sometimes, in other types of pictures. Right now he's playing a cowboy again, that's just because "Lady Takes a Chance" has a western setting. It's not a shoot-'em-up. It's a comedy. Jean Arthur's the girl, so you know what kind of comedy.

"This shirt, now," said Big John. "It's not fancy, just blue wool worsted, made to order. They're 25 bucks apiece. I use about 24 a year—that's $600. "And this hat—it's my favorite, and about 15 years old—was 40 bucks. I don't know how many hats I've lost—people borrow 'em for costume parties, or keep 'em for souvenirs. But it's hard to get a good hat now. Takes a long time to break in a hat, get it into shape. I'm wearing a black one later in the picture—one the studio got—that doesn't fit. Best they could do. Studios will get your clothes for you, but it's usually pretty cheap stuff, doesn't feel right.

"You take boots. You get a bad fit and they ruin your feet. These cost 43 bucks—and the only fancy work is a little stitching over the top. It's the stitching that jumps the price.

"I always figured the important things are a hat, good boots and a good-looking belt. I took a tip on that from Harry Carey. Harry looks like a real cowboy—no fancy shirts, or fancy pants, but good-looking substantial stuff."

Other items in the Wayne wardrobe budget: dress-up pants, $25 (See HOLLYWOOD, page 5)

THE BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY
"Golden Wedding," by Jo Pagano (Random; $2.50).
I wish most of the people writing dirt-dull books on what to do after the war would flip their beads over their shoulders and read Jo Pagano's "Golden Wedding."

I also wish the person who wrote the jacket blurb had been a little less googling and a little more accurate. He, or she or it has done Mr. Pagano a grave injustice. "The backbone of America is made of stock like this," reads the jacket in one place. Mr. Pagano's characters are expatriate Italians, and the backbone of America is no more made of immigrant Italians than the backbone of Italy is made of expatriate Americans. Later the jacket compares "Golden Wedding" with Pietro di Donato's "Christ in Concrete." The book is nothing whatever like "Christ in Concrete," which was a first rate short story, originally published as a short story, and later furnished with a kind of literary tail which padded the whole out to novel length. Mr. Pagano's book is an integrated piece of work.

It is also autobiographical as the author admits, albeit the material has undergone some change in the writing. It is the frequently told story of an Italian couple who find and are grateful for freedom and comparative prosperity in America. Luigi Simone got his start in the Colorado coal camps and there bought his very young wife. She cost $500 and was worth it.

Luigi went to a neighboring town and bought into a saloon which did well. But Marietta was off on the seas of maternity, and wanted Denver's advantages for her children. The Black Hand drove the Simones out of Denver and into Salt Lake City. Luigi was again a saloonkeeper, and this time it was prohibition that got him. He opened a market stall in Los Angeles, and there he celebrated his golden wedding.

So far, nothing remarkable. But all along Mr. Pagano has developed a sense of America penetrating the Simones, and the Simones penetrating America. The roots of the tree cling, and the branches venture out into free air. People are people, and as such you know them. And like them.

The Ickes' Battle Cry:

Start Growing Fish

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Grow yourself some fish. That's the war cry which Harold L. Ickes' Fish and Wild Life service, with the aid of soil conservation and several other agencies in agriculture, are shouting at the farmers.

If you have a farm that boasts a stream, a fair-sized spring or even a generous puddle fed by surface drainage, it may be no trick at all to grow a goodly crop of crappie, perch, bream, catfish or bass.

One North Carolina farmer who has had such a "fish farm" for years, comes through with this story: He built it under directions of the department of agriculture. It was stocked and is replenished by Mr. Ickes' fishermen. In spite of all the fishing this farmer, his hands and his neighbors can do, the large-mouth black bass grow so big that in order to keep them from eating all the other fish, he has to drain the little lake every few years and take out the cannibalistic granddaddies. When he drained the pond last, one bass whooper that had eluded the hook since infancy tilted the scales at 12 pounds.

If your farm lends itself to such a fishery—and there are few that don't—the chances are that all you need is a little grading, a dike, levee or small dam. Many farmers now will need bulldozers or other grading and excavation machinery to get that job done. That's the catch and about the only one. In several states, however, highway departments, with idle machinery because of the decline in road construction, are offering their services.

Once the pond is built, it's no trouble, I'm assured, to get Mr. Ickes' fishermen to call on you with the needed barrels of fingerlings. Depending upon the locale, water conditions, type of fertilizer used (that provides the fishfood for the little fellows), the service will give you everything from bream or sunfish to the kings of freshwater gamesters and the queens of freshwater panfish. Agriculture's interest in the project isn't entirely one of varying the farm diet with much-needed fish or even supplementing the supply of meats. Such farm ponds can contribute much to soil conservation. This is so widely recognized that in Ohio, for example, farmers who have such ponds get a reduction in their taxes.

In spite of the campaigning that has been done, agriculture reports that many farmers think it takes longer to sprout an edible crop of fish than it does to get a rubber plantation on a paying basis. As a matter of fact, a crop of fingerlings is ready for the initial harvest about as soon as any other crop. Bass fingerlings "planted" in the spring reach more than 10 inches by September, when they can provide plenty of fun on a fly rod and plenty of food in the pan.

Special Agent To Talk Here

Beryl M. Goodenow To Discuss Positions In FBI Organization

Special Agent Beryl M. Goodenow of the federal bureau of investigation, Washington, D. C., will address university women who are interested in positions with the FBI, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Nancy Ilgenfritz, A4 of Winterset, is student chairman. This is the last in the series of vocational programs sponsored by the University Women's association for the current year.

Special Agent James G. White, will interview students individually in the post office building from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturday.

Women between the ages of 16 and 40 who are high school graduates, citizens of the United States and in sound physical condition may apply for jobs. The FBI is anxious to receive applications from those who can meet these requirements. Clerks will receive an entrance salary of $1,752; typists, $1,970, and stenographers, $2,190.

Considerations will also be given to women who can qualify as cryptographers. To qualify for this position the applicant must have a college degree with a major in modern languages, or a major in one of the sciences or a special ability in the field of modern languages.

Former Students—Serving the Nation

—Former Iowa Citizens

William Field Gilbert and William Garland Mahood, former university students, are now enrolled in the army airforce pre-flight school at Maxwell field near Montgomery, Ala. Gilbert attended the university in 1941 and 1942. Mahood was a student here in 1940 and 1941.

Leo E. Fitzgibbons, who was graduated from the university's college of law in 1939, was recently commissioned a second lieutenant at the graduation exercises of the medical administrative corps officer candidate school at Camp Barkeley, Tex.

Prior to his entrance into the army last August, Fitzgibbons was an attorney at Estherville.

John E. Graham and George D. Frae, who are former university students, have been transferred to the naval air training center at Corpus Christi, Tex., after completing the primary flight training course at Glenview, Ill.

The training at Corpus Christi will lead to a commission as ensign in the naval reserve or as second lieutenant in the marine corps reserve.

Both cadets attended the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school.

Undergraduates are requested by the office of emergency management, which is under the war manpower commission, to fill out a student questionnaire in order that their names may appear on the roster of scientific and specialized personnel.

This roster will provide a comprehensive list of professionally qualified Americans so that information concerning them may be readily available should their service be needed in the war program.

As needs arise for the employment or commissioning of such persons, their papers are furnished by the roster to the various agencies.

These questionnaires are now available at the office of student affairs.

Marcus Bach Will Lecture

Marcus Bach of the school of religion will be the guest speaker of the Iowa Mountaineers this evening at 7:30 in room 223, engineering building.

Completing a study of religious and folk minority groups in America, Bach visited the Boise Sawtooth country last summer. He will show a colored movie and present a short talk on his visit to this little-known group.

A colored movie, "Cavalcade of Color," produced by the Eastman Kodak company, and an expedition movie, "South Seas," will be shown.

Canadian Fighters Land on British Isle Arrive on Battleship Richelieu; All Hopeful Of Opening 2nd Front

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT (AP)—Thousands of fighting men of the British empire, ready for action on land, air or sea and hopeful of opening a new front, and a group of DeGaulist French seamen off the battleship Richelieu and other French vessels berthed in the United States sailed from here recently en route to Britain. Their arrival overseas was announced last night.

Mostly Canadians Among the thousands sent across from this foggy port were principally Canadian army men, but the movement included also hundreds of RCAF air and ground personnel, Anzac and British airmen from the combined training program in Canada and 70 men of the Royal and Canadian navies.

Several nursing sisters of the Canadian army and an officer of Britain's auxiliary territorial service, returning home from a secret mission on this side, made the crossing.

The French sailors are en route to service with the Fighting French of Gen. Charles DeGaulle.

'Deserted' Vessels They had "deserted" the French war vessels shortly after they arrived at New York, Boston and Philadelphia from Dakar in French west Africa.

The fact that their taking of "French leave" caused international complications among the representatives of the French factions and the United States government did not worry them at all.

They stuck to their original assertion that some of the officers aboard their ships were definitely pro-Vichy, although that has been denied since by the commanding officer of the Richelieu and other French navy men.

Food Studies Directed By Prof. Kurt Lewin

Series Will Determine Means to Overcome Fears of Substitutes

With the present shortage of many common foods which have been depended upon as staples, the problem of introducing satisfactory substitutes and enlisting the cooperation of the American people in using them is of extreme importance.

Under the sponsorship of the committee on food habits of the National research council, Prof. Kurt Lewin of the University of Iowa child welfare research station has been directing a series of studies with the two-fold purpose of determining the bases of social and family prejudices against certain of these substitute foods, and of discovering the best means of overcoming these prejudices.

The work has been done with the cooperation of a committee under the chairmanship of Prof. Sybil Woodruff of the home economics department of the university, and a special staff of psychologists.

Two preliminary reports have been published by the investigators: one on the relative effectiveness of a lecture method and a method of group decision for changing food habits, and the other on a group test for determining the anchorage point of food habits.

The first report showed the group decision method to be more efficient than lectures for changing food habits of a group of housewives. The second report deals with the results of tests given to 2,000 school children in Cedar Rapids, which indicated that most children choose foods because they feel they are good for them. Great homogeneity of food culture patterns was apparent in the results.

Under an additional grant, Professor Lewin is now directing further research on certain aspects of these problems. Dr. Leon Pestinger of the child welfare research station staff is assisting.

Governor Asks OPA Liberalization on Egg Case Supply in Iowa

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. B. B. Hickenlooper yesterday sent a telegram to WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson and OPA Administrator Prentiss Brown asking liberalization of federal restrictions on supplies of egg cases.

"A most acute situation demanding immediate solution faces egg producers, packers and shippers in Iowa," the telegram said. "A canvas of representative packers among our nearly 200 plants discloses that most of them have only sufficient shipping cases for a few days supply. This includes fillers and flats and other shipping and packing material.

"These packers report that they see no hope of any immediate consistent supply in the future unless federal restrictions are immediately liberalized. Unless something is done at once to provide these supplies not only will shipments be seriously cut down but eggs will begin to back up on the farm because of the lack of shipping and packing facilities. This condition will obtain within a very few days unless relief is had immediately.

Bill to Give Cities 25 Percent of State Liquor Store Profits

DES MOINES (AP)—After hearing charges that the liquor situation in Iowa is "damned rotten" the house today passed and sent to the senate a bill to allocate 25 percent of the state liquor store profits to cities and towns.

Final vote on the measure, which sponsors said would mean about 50 cents a year per capita to the municipalities, was 85 to 11.

Although the bill contemplates use of the money for police purposes, councils could spend the allocations any way they saw fit.

The state liquor system net profit approximately $3,500,000 net profit a year, all of which goes into the state general fund.

Under this bill, the cut for cities and towns would be about $875,000.

Harris Resigns Grid Coaching Duties

Wants Active Service Role

Schroeder Says Iowa Will Still Have Grid Team Next Season

Faced with the problem of selecting a new football coach, for next fall after the two remaining coaches on the staff gave notice that they are going into the armed services, Director E. G. (Dad) Schroeder said yesterday, "We will have football at Iowa next season no matter how many coaches we lose."

Frank Carideo, backfield mentor, received his commission in the navy Tuesday and will be sworn in next Monday, and Head Coach Jim Harris told Schroeder that he will be in some service and that he is resigning his grid position.

Harris reports today for his army physical at Des Moines since being reclassified 1A. However, if he fails to pass the physical he said that he has some service job ready for him.

Thus the trio of coaches that brought gridiron fame to the University of Iowa, headed by Dr. Eddie Anderson—now a major in the army, has been lost by the Hawkeyes at least for the duration.

The new coach will be named as soon as things are straightened out about Carideo and Harris. Schroeder said that Anderson is coming to Iowa City this weekend and he will talk the situation over with him. "After all, Anderson should have the chance to say who will temporarily take his place," stated Schroeder.

The athletic director explained that he originally had planned a meeting with the board in control of athletics for Monday, but because of the recent developments it will be postponed. Schroeder said he did not know whether they will name assistant coaches for the grid sport.

Meantime spring football practice will continue under the supervision of Carideo with the assistance of "Pops" Harrison. "Spring drills will end April 16 and Frank will still be around by then," stated Schroeder.

At spring practice yesterday afternoon-Carideo stated that the main part of the drill will still stress conditioning. "We may have a game of touch football sometime next week but there will be no rough work," the former all-American stated.

The squad totaled 17 men yesterday, headed by lettermen John Staak, Bob Liddy and Bill Barbour.

Sailors Face Major Teams

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—Navy recruits at Great Lakes will see the best in major league baseball again this summer. Lieut. Comdr. J. Russell Cook, athletic officer at the U. S. Naval Training station, announced yesterday.

Ten major league clubs, including Brooklyn and the New York Yankees for the first time, already have been added to the Great Lakes schedule. Arrangements with several others are nearing completion.

"The primary purpose of our baseball team is recruit entertainment and the majority of the games will be played at home," Lieut. Comdr. Cook said. "We have thousands of men who must find all their recreation within the gates of the training station and baseball is a very important part of a program which gives them the best in music, movies, radio shows and variety hours."

Because of many personnel changes since last season our team under Lieut. Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane will be considerably less experienced than last year. The men sent away will be sorely missed but Great Lakes baseball is strictly incidental to the war program.

Third baseman Ernie Andres of the 1942 squad is aboard a submarine chaser. Centerfielder Frank Baumholtz has made several crossings as captain of a gun crew aboard a merchant ship. Benny McCoy, Chester Hajduk, Don Padgett, Frank Pytlak, Jim Basso and Don Godfredsen all have been transferred. John Rigney, leading pitcher of 1942, is awaiting orders for transfer.

Among the candidates now working out under Lieutenant Cochrane are pitchers Vern Olsen and Johnny Schmitz, Chicago Cubs; Tom Ferrick, Cleveland Indians; Bob Harris, Athletics, and Frank Biscan, St. Louis Browns; catchers George Diekey, Chicago White Sox, and Marv Felderman, Chicago Cubs and three members of last year's team, Johnny Lucadello, second base, Earl Bolyard, center field and Joe Grace, right field.

Sports Trail

* Former Big League * 'Bad Boys' Willing * To Change Ways

NEW YORK—This promises to be the year of reform of some of our high octane baseball players, those volatile gents who could be relied upon to provide some kind of an explosion every now and then, either on or off the field.

The war may have had the sobering effect, and don't get that wrong as this has nothing to do with the imbibing of drinking liquor, as some of the athletes probably studiously refrain from the cup that bleats.

It just means that they seem to be determined to settle down to the business of playing baseball, and if not actually spreading sweetness and light at least they don't figure on getting their names in the papers for anything except their hitting or pitching or fielding.

Van Lingle Mungo might be considered a prime example of this changed attitude. The chastened chucker, now laboring for the New York Giants, from all reports is a model young man, and is digging in industriously to earn himself a regular spot. He looks fine, they do say, but the looks part of it can be overlooked as Mungo always looks fine in the spring, but as the season fades so does Mungo. This time we're told he isn't fooling.

Joe Medwick is another whose history, dating back to his Cardinal days, is speckled with troubles of one kind or another, and as late as last year he was supposed to have been in the dog-house with his Brooklyn Dodger teammates because of an indifferent attitude and an over-zealous desire to protect a .300 batting average. Now, Mr. Sid Feder reports, Joe is one of the palsy-walsy boys of the squad, and is working like a trooper.

Roy Weatherly was something of a stocky little spitfire with the Cleveland Indians, although most of his vitriol seemed to be aimed at umpires. He just seemed to have an inborn dislike for the diamond cops, and a favorite habit was to trot briskly toward his center field position and, as he passed an ump, casually remark for no particular reason: "All umpires are blankety blanks," and continue on his way.

The umpires got used to these loving insults and chose to ignore them when they could, and in the last year or so we understand he has moderated somewhat. The umpires are just one blank now. Now he's with the New York Yankees, and Joe McCarthy insists his players concentrate on baseball. The chubby Roy, with the big job of filling Joe DiMaggio's boots, is a model of decorum.

Bo-bo Newsom never was a trouble maker. He's just a big, good-natured lug with the habit of talking big and often. The odd part of it was that when Bo-bo would say "old Bo-bo will do this" or "old Bo-bo will do that" old Bo-bo often as not would do it.

This year he has been strangely silent. In fact, there has been a marked absence of popping-off from the usually roistering Dodgers. It may have started when Branch Rickey took the steering wheel and let Leo Durocher know who was driving. He was said to have told Leo what to do and what not to do, with no ifs or ands or buts about it.

But getting back to the taming of the crews, it looks like serious baseball this year. Which seems to be fitting. This is a serious year.

SLUGGERS WAIT FOR MICHIGAN GAMES

Pictured above are four of the Hawkeye sluggers who will be counted on to rain base hits against the Michigan pitchers in the two-game series this weekend. From left to right they are: Tom Farmer, second baseman; Capt. Harold Lind, rightfielder; Harry Rinkema, centerfielder; and Clark Briscoe, first baseman. Iowa and Michigan tied for the conference title last year and the Hawks will try to start their league competition in a winning way against the Wolverines. Lind and Rinkema have been up to par in hitting, with the rightfielder hitting two home runs. Farmer and Briscoe have not played all the time but should bear down for the Michigan series.

Chicago Cubs in Pennant Fight If Rookies Hit N.L. Pitching

By DILLON GRAHAM

AP Features Sports Editor

FRENCH LICK, Ind.—The most damaging one-two punch of double-A baseball may bring the Cubs the power they need to climb out of the second division.

If the bats of Heinz (Dutch) Becker and Eddie Stanky can play any sort of a lively tune on National league pitching, Manager Jimmy Wilson figures his Chicago Cubs can drive upwards—maybe all the way to the top.

These Milwaukee larrippers set the pace last season for the AA American association hitters, Shortstop Stanky winning the batting crown with a .342 average, two points better than first baseman Becker's figures. Stanky was first in runs scored and was the circuit's most valuable player.

Wilson doesn't expect them to produce that kind of batting in the majors. He'll be well satisfied if both can chin over the .300 level.

Becker must contend with veteran Phil Cavarretta for first base and capable Stan Hack is a fixture at third. The keystone situation is uncertain and Stanky may wind up on either side of second base, as may Stu Martin, the former big leaguer brought back from Minneapolis. Wilson is going to shuffle the boys around until he finds the best combination. It may be Stanky at second and Martin or Len Merullo at short. Or Martin may get the call at second with Stanky trying to out Merullo in the shortfield.

Never Hit Under .300 Becker, born in Germany, has never hit under .300 during his five years in pro baseball. And he's boosted that average every

Tigers' D. Wakefield Regarded as Slugger But Weak Defensively

By DILLON GRAHAM

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Baseball's super-salesman, young Dick Wakefield, is having trouble these days peddling his wares as a major league outfielder, but he has thoroughly sold the Detroit Tigers on his power hitting.

Wakefield is a smooth article when it comes to selling himself and he'll probably do something about those fielding lapses, but privately he is causing some concern in the inner councils of the Detroit organization. At current standards, he may boot in as many runs as he bats in.

The 21-year-old University of Michigan collegian who in 1941 received a record $52,000 bonus from the Tigers after making a sales tour of half a dozen major league parks is batting a cool .412 in exhibition encounters. He has hammered in nine runs and kicked in half a dozen with unsteady fielding.

Wakefield inherited Detroit's left field job vacated by Slick fielding Barney McCosky, now in the navy. At Briggs stadium that's the easiest garden to play, but at the training base here it's the sun field where gremlins lurk.

It bothers Wakefield no small degree. "Why not," asked Wilson. "You don't think we came down here to train for fifth place, do you? I think we've strengthened our club while the teams in front of us have been hurt by player losses. Sure we've got a chance, and a pretty good chance."

The Cubs might win the pennant. "Why not," asked Wilson. "You don't think we came down here to train for fifth place, do you? I think we've strengthened our club while the teams in front of us have been hurt by player losses. Sure we've got a chance, and a pretty good chance."

Tank Coach Has Another Great Team

By DILLON GRAHAM

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Charles L. (Bud) Sawin, the young Indianapolis Carbon company executive who produces championship swimming teams as a sideline, is sitting at the door watching for the postman or a telegraph messenger.

He is waiting for word as to whether two of his stars, Betty Bemis and Ann Hardin, will be able to leave eastern schools and appear with his Indianapolis Riviera club team in its attempt to win another national swimming title in the national indoor meet at Chicago this weekend.

But whether they come or not Sawin will take a team of six 'teen-age girls to Chicago and is confident of making a good showing. Betty is in a WAVES' school at Hunter college in New York while Ann is in school at Penn Hall in Chambersburg, Pa.

For the last three years Sawin has produced the women's national outdoor championship team—once at the Lakeside club in Louisville, Ky., and twice at the Riviera club.

Miss Bemis, high individual scorer in last summer's outdoor nationals, and Miss Hardin can reinjoin their teammates, Sawin figures he can have another winner. "If one of the two girls can compete," Sawin says, "we still can win. If neither of them can show up, the burden will rest on the shoulders of 14-year-old Joan Fogle, the outdoor national individual medley champion."

Sixteen-year-old Patty Aspinall, national outdoor breast stroke champion, will be Sawin's hope in the breast stroke races. Joan Fogle's older sister, June, 17, will swim in the individual medley, the two breast stroke races and both relays and then there is Joan who Sawin says "has been entered in everything except the diving."

To pick up stray points and also to build for the future, Sawin is taking three newcomers to the meet. They are Mary Margaret Carroll, 15, who won the national junior 440-yard free style last week; Patsy Brogan, 15, who Sawin says is "pretty good" in the breast stroke, and Ann Shaffner, 15, who swims in the relays and the sprints.

Braves Make Final Offer to Lombardi; Javery in Fine Form

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—The hitters in the St. Louis Browns line-up pounded their pitcher mates again yesterday in a final 11-6 intra-squad game before opening a spring training series with the Cardinals at St. Louis Saturday.

There were three home-runs—by catcher Rick Ferrell, pinch-hitter Paul Dean and Mike Char-tak

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP)—Al Javery had his fast ball hopping yesterday and about all the Boston Braves could do against him was practice swinging as they went through a long batting drill at Choate school.

Casey Stengel indicated that the Braves have made their final offer to Ernie Lombardi, their first-string catcher and National league batting champion, but do not expect any favorable reaction. It is understood here that Lombardi will remain out of baseball unless he is traded.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Coach Steve O'Neill divided the Detroit Tigers into two squads of 12 players each yesterday to meet the exigencies of an exhibition schedule that calls for the club to be in two places next Sunday.

Homer Gives Cleveland Win Over Pirates

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Harry Edwards' homer over the right field wall in the last half of the ninth gave the Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game here yesterday. It was their first victory in three games with the Buccaneers.

Hank Gornicki blanked the Indians for five frames, but Harry Shuman lasted only one round when three American league blows tied up the score. Jack Hallett finished and yielded two hits, including the round-tripper which beat him.

Lou Boudreau who got two singles, was the only player to get more than one safety.

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP)—Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs said before yesterday's exhibition that the game was being played for the Red Cross but as things turned out it looked like the Chicago White Sox were playing for the White Sox as they smacked three Bruin pitchers for 16 hits and a 13-2 decision.

Rookie Frank Kalin, late of Hollywood, connected for the circuit with two on board in the fifth in a seven-run uprising that routed the Cubs' young Eddie Hanyzewski. Orval Grove held the Cubs to one hit through the first three innings.

Huge Bomber Strafes 3-Ship Enemy Convoy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Thursday (AP)—A Flying Fortress has strafed a three-ship Japanese convoy at Kavieng, New Ireland, the high command announced today.

The Fortress returned to an area where on April 2, 3 and 4, allied planes sank or probably sank seven Japanese warships and five merchantmen.

Kavieng, where concentrations of enemy shipping have been reported recently by fliers on reconnaissance, is approximately 550 miles northeast of the allied base of Port Moresby, New Guinea.

"One of our heavy reconnaissance units strafed a small enemy convoy, consisting of a destroyer and two cargo vessels northwest of Kavieng," reported the noon communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

"An escorting float plane attempting interception was driven off and damaged."

In the northern Solomons, a Japanese destroyer was sighted off the coast of Bougainville by a medium allied bomber which scored near misses—blows which frequently seriously damage the target.

Babo, on MacCluer gulf in Dutch New Guinea, was raided by allied four-motored bombers which started explosions and fires on the airfield and in the town. In the same area, a heavy bomber attacked the town of Fak Fak.

Women Voters' Group To Hear Discussion By Mrs. J. C. Pryor

Mrs. J. C. Pryor of Burlington will be guest speaker at the monthly luncheon of the League of Women Voters tomorrow noon at 12 o'clock in the foyer of Iowa Union.

She will emphasize in her discussion the need for an international viewpoint. Mrs. Pryor is a member of a committee of six midwestern league members recently appointed to support the national board and staff in helping local leagues build public opinion on war aims and post-war policies. This committee met in Minneapolis, Minn., last month with the national president to organize their plans and program.

Election of officers will be held during the business session. The executive board will meet at 11:15 tomorrow morning, preceding the luncheon.

"How high does the rhubarb get on your farm, Yarbaird?" the drill sergeant asked.

"Can't tell till it stops growing," Linhart replied. "Take my kid brother, Russell. He's a Tech sergeant at Camp Polk, and he's a half-inch higher than me. Then there's my older brother, Bill. He's an instructor at the Army air school in Chicago. He's only a quarter-inch taller than me."

"But we all kinda look to Paul to top the crop. He's only 16, and he's 6-feet, 3-inches already. Soon as he grows up, he's gonna join the navy."

Drive Planned To Meet Quota Of War Bonds

Special Effort Starts April 12 for Raising Johnson County's Goal

"The big effort this month must go behind the raising of $13,000,000 for the nation's second war loan drive which gets under way on April 12. Johnson county's quota for this special effort is $1,060,000," Frank D. Williams, general chairman of war bond activities, said yesterday.

"This huge war bond effort will require the greatest effort put forth by all of us in the purchase of war bonds. However, on the basis of our county's fine support of the war efforts to date, we feel confident that Johnson county will again do its part," he said.

Seven different types of securities are now available which are designed for every type and class of investor. These securities include:

United States War Savings Bonds—Series "E", which may be purchased in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 or $1,000, which yield an average of 2.9 percent a year if held to maturity of 10 years, which may be purchased for 75 percent of their maturity value, and which may be redeemed any time 60 days after their issue date.

Two and one-half percent treasury bonds of 1964-1969, which are ideal investments for trust funds, estates and individuals. They are available in coupon or registered form in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $100,000 or $1,000,000.

Series "C" Tax notes; Seven-eighths percent Certificates of Indebtedness, which are dated April 15, 1943, and are due April 1, 1944;

Two percent treasury bonds, which are dated April 15, 1943, and which are due Sept. 15, 1952;

United States Savings Bonds—Series "F";

United States Savings Bonds—Series "G".

Additional information concerning these securities may be obtained at the local banks.

Need for Economic Freedom Predicted Unnecessary Trade Barriers Must Be Eliminated—Willkie

NEW YORK (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie believes there must be economic and governmental freedom in the post-war world; with the small countries of Europe recreated as political—but not as economic and military—units.

In his book, "One World," published yesterday by Simon and Schuster, these convictions are repeatedly and persuasively set down as he records his reactions and experiences during his globe-girdling trip last fall.

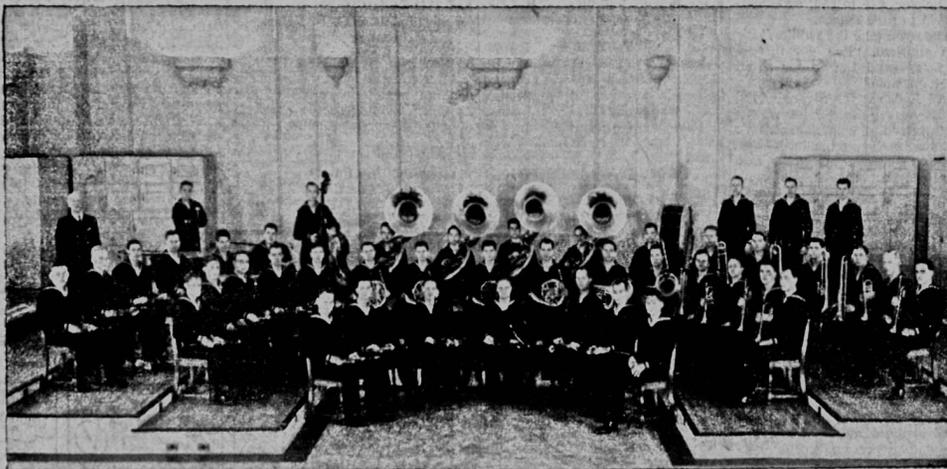

"Economic freedom is as important as political freedom," Willkie writes. "Not only must people have access to what other peoples produce but their own products must in turn have some chance of reaching men all over the world."

"There will be no peace, there will be no economic stability, unless we find the method by which we can begin to break down the unnecessary trade barriers hampering the flow of goods."

Willkie found what he termed a common fallacy in the statements of Stalin and in the Atlantic Charter in that they forecast the recreation of western Europe in its old divisions of small nations, each with its political, economic and military sovereignty.

45 Men in Iowa Navy Pre-Flight Band—

To Present First Public Concert of Year

THE FIRST PUBLIC concert of the year by the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school band will be presented Sunday afternoon in Macbride auditorium. Bandmaster J. J. Courtney will lead his 45 piece navy concert band in an hour and a half program which will begin at 4 o'clock. Soloist in the performance will be clarinetist Donald McGinnis, formerly assistant conductor of the Ohio State university band and a graduate of Oberlin conservatory. McGinnis is recognized as one of the finest clarinetists in the middle west and will play his own arrangement for clarinet and band of "Solo de Concours" (A. Messager). Featured number of the program will be one of the most difficult symphonic numbers ever arranged for a concert band—Beethoven's Symphony No. 5. Chief Courtney will conduct the band in all four movements of the famous Victory symphony. Eighteen middle western colleges and universities and three conservatories are represented by the 45 men who make up the Iowa navy band. Six Big Ten universities have contributed students, Iowa being represented by sixteen men. Illinois, Northwestern, Ohio State, Michigan and Minnesota also have former students in the group. Men in the band have played with various major symphonies including the Chicago, Boston, Detroit and New York symphonies. Bandmaster Courtney is a veteran of 32 years service in the United States navy. He joined in 1911, was given a bandmaster's position during World War I, and later served as assistant bandmaster of the Washington, D. C., navy band for ten years. Chief Courtney retired from the service for five years but was recalled in 1941. He was stationed at Norfolk, Va., until being assigned to recruit a band for the Iowa base when, out of 450 musicians from middle western colleges, he picked the present 45 man group. The concert will be broadcast in its entirety by WSUI, and will be open to the public without charge.

Helps and Hints For—Your Victory Gardens

—By Stan Myers

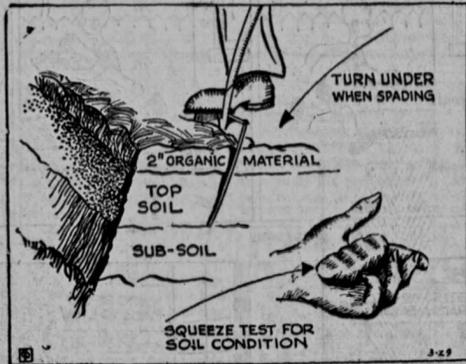

Organic material will improve the physical condition of all soils with the exception of muck soils, and usually supplies reinforcements which are vital to the success of a Victory garden.

Applying organic matter makes a sandy soil heavier and a clay soil lighter, and largely determines the ability of any soil to hold moisture.

The main source of organic matter used in gardening was formerly barnyard manure, since it provides a medium for the growth of bacteria beneficial to plant growth. However, in many areas it is impossible to obtain such manure today.

The growing and plowing under of cover crops is an inexpensive way to reinforce the soil by adding "green manure" to the garden.

To add organic matter to Victory garden soil, apply one or two inches of manure, peatmoss, humus, decayed leaves, compost pile material or a mixture of these over the area to be planted, as illustrated in the accompanying graph. This layer of organic material

Russians Take Two More Points Along Smolensk Battlefront

LONDON, Thursday (AP)—Russian troops captured two more localities on the Smolensk front, and destroyed nine German guns and three blockhouses and dispersed an infantry concentration on the Donets defense line in the Ukraine, Moscow announced early today in its midnight communique.

Dispatches from Moscow also reported sharp local fighting in the Kuban delta near Novorossisk, but there was no essential change in battle positions on the long Russian front.

The communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said the Germans had suffered heavily in the last few days trying to crack Russian lines near Izyum, 70 miles southeast of Kharkov. No enemy activity was displayed however in that sector yesterday.

Near Belgorod, 50 miles above Kharkov, a German artillery battery of nine guns was reported destroyed and 20 gunners wiped out.

The capture of the two populated localities south of Bely on the Smolensk front resulted in the killing of 200 Germans, the commandant said, and several dozen enemy troops also were killed when a German reconnaissance party tried to scan Russian defense positions.

The German communique said that the Nazi offensive on the central Donets reached "planned goals" and that only lively local fighting was reported from a few sectors.

A compost heap is a great help to Victory gardeners. A good way to start one of these heaps is to collect all sods, cornstalks, leaves, vegetable refuse, grass clippings and other material found when cleaning up garden areas. A compost heap will provide great benefit to the soil in the future.

ish Eighth army's successful storming of the Akarit line which led to the union of the British and Americans in southern Tunisia. But the British are the first to point out that the manner in which these American infantrymen, with their excellent artillery, staved off repeated German tank thrusts during the Mareth offensive and continued to hammer Rommel's flank while Montgomery got ready for the Akarit attack, counted much on the scales for the allied breakthrough.

Rommel's position grew more critical hourly. Front reports said that Gen. Patton's American troops in the Maknassy sector 45 miles to the northwest had cleaned out axis flank positions to gain elbow room for another lunge toward the sea in an effort to cut off Rommel.

The Americans were only 28 miles from the axis coastal road in this sector, and another U. S. column southeast of El Guetar was beating down axis resistance in order to join the Eighth army.

In Churchill's own words the British power drive on the coast monique said, and several dozen enemy troops also were killed when a German reconnaissance party tried to scan Russian defense positions.

The German communique said that the Nazi offensive on the central Donets reached "planned goals" and that only lively local fighting was reported from a few sectors.

At least 500 planes bombed and strafed Rommel's rear air fields yesterday in coordination with the Eighth army land blow, while others striking at Sicily and the Mediterranean narrows off Tunisia sank or damaged at least 17 more axis ships.

This allied aerial performance was reported to have eclipsed Monday's 1,000 sorties, and reconnaissance has established that the Monday raids alone resulted in the destruction or damage of 150 parked enemy planes in Sicily and Tunisia.

Youth, 17, Strangles, Rapes Small Neighbor

Girl Laughed When He Fell Downstairs So He Murdered Her

PITTSBURGH (AP)—With no outward sign of emotion, a 17-year-old youth told detectives yesterday he had raped, strangled and buried in the cellar of his home a four-year-old neighbor girl whom he had rocked to sleep when she was a baby, District Attorney Russell H. Adams said last night.

Lieutenant Michael Daugherty said Earl Perry, a candy factory worker, described the slaying of blonde, curly-haired Theresa Williams Tuesday afternoon as follows:

"I gave a candy bar and three pennies to 'Cici' (Theresa's nickname). She came into my house and when I fell down the cellar steps 'Cici' laughed. That made me mad, and I hit her twice in the face. Then I choked her."

"After I attacked her, I dug a hole in the cellar. I covered her with dirt and threw water on the dirt to make it tight. Then I tramped the ground with my feet."

Leaving his home, Perry visited his girl friend, taking her a bouquet of flowers. Later he joined a crowd of neighbors who searched the locality 10 hours for the missing girl.

Daugherty said he charged the youth with murder and took other members of the Perry family into custody as material witnesses "chiefly for their own protection because of the anger of the neighborhood." The family included the parents, two sisters and an aunt of the youth.

Theresa's body was dug up by the fathers of her and Perry after a sister of the youth told them she had seen him digging in the cellar, Daugherty said.

At the sight of the scratched, partly nude body, Williams, enraged, seized an ax and started up the stairs, but police restrained him.

Mrs. Adolph Williams, the mother, told detectives between sobs:

"I can't understand it. When she was a baby, he (Earl) pushed her baby carriage and carried her in his arms. He even put her to sleep for me many times."

"I was good to him. I allowed him to walk in and out of my house like a son."

Chief Probation Officer Walter J. Pome said that Perry, son of an Italian-born tailor, was on probation from juvenile court for a minor offense.

paved the way for a junction between the British and Americans. Rommel's fleeing men were being raked by allied airmen participating in the greatest aerial armada ever hurled into action in Africa.

At least 500 planes bombed and strafed Rommel's rear air fields yesterday in coordination with the Eighth army land blow, while others striking at Sicily and the Mediterranean narrows off Tunisia sank or damaged at least 17 more axis ships.

This allied aerial performance was reported to have eclipsed Monday's 1,000 sorties, and reconnaissance has established that the Monday raids alone resulted in the destruction or damage of 150 parked enemy planes in Sicily and Tunisia.

Judge Fines Walter Helm $300 in Court

District Judge James P. Gaffney fined Walter C. Helm $300 yesterday and committed him to the county jail upon failure to pay the fine and costs. Helm pleaded guilty to driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

One-half the fine was suspended on good behavior and Helm surrendered his operator's license to the court.

In the case of Dolores Mac Burnett et al vs. Donald Walton, Judge Gaffney found the defendant guilty on three charges of contempt of court and failure to pay support money to the plaintiff's child.

The defendant will be sentenced to the county jail for 90 days unless the back support money is paid into the office of the clerk of court by 10 a. m. Saturday. The court also modified the original order of support money of $3 per week to $4 per week.

E. P. Korab is attorney for the plaintiff, and Ingall Swisher is attorney for the defendant.

Giraud, Free French Accord Endangered By Misunderstanding

ALGIERS (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday expressed "surprise" over a French national committee statement that he had asked Gen. Charles DeGaulle to postpone his visit to north Africa, thus indicating that a new misunderstanding had arisen to plague the delicate negotiations for union of Giraudists and DeGaulleists.

The headquarters statement did not flatly deny that Eisenhower had asked DeGaulle to delay his trip, but said cryptically that since the communique was issued in London, Eisenhower "has no doubt that a full statement of the circumstances will be made in London."

The national committee statement in London Monday said in part that "General Eisenhower has asked General DeGaulle to delay his journey to French north Africa. General DeGaulle and the national committee regret this delay which could not be prolonged without serious disadvantages."

Power Politics AMERICAN STYLE

The frenzied paperhanger from Austria must now be suffering from acute insomnia. His vision of world empire is fading. His armies, once believed invincible by many, are beginning to know defeat. Many of his "supermen" are now tired and disillusioned.

And while Herr Hitler tosses sleeplessly, we wonder whether he realizes the enormity of his mistake in neglecting his railroads. For even in a land of "supermen," rolling stock must be kept in condition; engines should be periodically overhauled; roadbeds must be maintained; bombed railway centers must be given instant attention. The Nazi overlord has neglected these things. In doing so, he has violated a war principle as old as war itself—to maintain lines of supply and transportation so that armies may have quick mobility.

How thankful America should be that management foresaw the necessity of modernizing the nation's railroads. They are now in "fighting trim," and we are determined to keep them that way. ROCK ISLAND, for example, has for years pursued a comprehensive Program of Planned Progress. We have invested vast sums every year to make it one of the nation's modern rail systems, and we shall continue to keep it so.

Ours is the herculean task of moving fighting men and the materials vital to victory. War found us ready, and we shall carry on until victory is ours.
