RAF Shatters Stuttgart Food Shortage Faces U.S. Civilians

OWI Gives General Prospect To Americans on Home Front

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of war information last night said American civilians this year face various shortages — either occasionally severe or continuous — in a "serious food situation."

The OWI said this is the general prospect — governed by many factors not completely predictable — for the year on the home front:

More food produced than in record-breaking 1942 but less of it for civilian consumption.

"Conservatively and roughly estimated, and assuming average weather, civilians will have about 3 percent more food than in the pre-war years but about 6 percent less than in 1942.

"There will be little fancy food but there will be enough of it if it is fairly shared and conserved."

The report, months in preparation, asserted its purpose was neither to "alarm nor reassure." It added:

Varies Periodically "The food situation is not entirely predictable. Requirements vary from time to time. Supplies at any given place at any given time depend on varying factors. Production depends on weather and other fluctuating influences. The result is constant change.

American civilians, therefore, must expect inconveniences from time to time and understanding of this fact is most important in comprehending the food situation."

Elmer Davis, OWI director, told a press conference Wednesday the food report had been held up since January. He explained there were differences between two government (agriculture department) agencies over what were the facts."

Recently, he said, he had held it up so additional facts could be inserted.

As originally written in January, the report was part of a sharp controversy within the OWI itself, according to staff members of the agency.

Fifteen of them who recently resigned issued a statement yesterday saying they were leaving "because of our conviction that it is impossible for us to tell the truth."

"There is only one issue — the deep and fundamental one of the honest presentation of war information," they said.

OWI Dominated OWI is now dominated, they declared, by "high-pressure promoters who prefer slick salesmanship to honest information."

Davis, in a statement of reply, asserted, "We deal in one plain commodity—the facts the people of this country need to win the war. . . All facts must be presented accurately and in proper proportion. Emotional appeals of the type usually associated with promotional activities are not applicable to war problems. . . We are content to be judged by our output."

The success of the food management program, the OWI report said, depends on the cooperation of many groups: large production by farmers and victory gardeners, good planning and administration by the government, careful buying and cooking by housewives, enlargement of the farm labor supply from many sources, and many other forms of cooperation.

But the OWI added:

"Assuming complete success of the program, there still will be more or less severe civilian shortages of certain foods from time to time. There will be more or less continuous shortages of some kinds of food — such as canned fruits and vegetables, dehydrated eggs and milk, meat products, etc. — which are particularly adapted to military use and overseas shipment.

"There will be intermittent shortages locally of several different kinds of food resulting from transportation difficulties, unusual emergency demands of the armed forces, the initial dislocations resulting from institution of and changes in rationing and other programs and, (until they are suppressed) from black markets."

AFL Faction of WLB Opposes Anti-Inflation Order by President

Vote Hold-the-Line Move as Violating No-Strike Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL members of the war labor board yesterday asserted that the president's hold-the-line executive order is a "flagrant violation" of the no-strike agreement and they believe it is "neither sound in construction nor workable in practice."

They issued their statements in a special concurring opinion in the case of Universal Atlas Cement company in which the board unanimously trimmed a recommended wage increase, refusing to allow any pay raise for the correction of inequalities on grounds that the executive order prohibited it.

In explanation of their votes, the AFL members said that the executive order gave them no other choice but that it did not mean they agreed with the executive order. "To the contrary," they said, "the labor members believe that a literal interpretation and application of the order will work manifest injustices upon American labor and industry and be detrimental to the war effort."

The president's order, issued a week ago, forbade general wage increases except under the Little Steel formula or in cases where existing rates are substandard. The Little Steel formula allows a 15 percent increase above the level of Jan. 1, 1941, to compensate for increased living costs.

The expression from the AFL board members highlighted mounting labor protests against the executive order. Nearly 150 telegrams of protest came to the board from local unions of the CIO, the great majority of them from the United Auto Workers. In general they insisted that all the cases on file at the time the executive order was issued should be decided under the previous rules.

CIO members of the WLB did not sign the opinion denouncing the executive order, but there were signs that the organization planned public protests of its own and had made others privately.

Cocoanut Grove Boss Begins Prison Term

BOSTON (AP) — Night club owner Barnett Welansky, his face as expressionless as it was during the four weeks of his trial, last night began serving a 12 to 15 years sentence "at hard labor" on manslaughter charges resulting from the Cocoanut Grove holocaust that took 490 lives last November 28.

A few hours earlier, when Welansky appeared in Suffolk superior court for imposition of sentence, a defense council motion for a stay was denied and Atty. Herbert F. Callahan immediately indicated he would appeal.

Judge Hurley explained that an appeal could not be the basis of a stay of execution unless the justice holds the opinion that a reasonable doubt exists.

TICKLISH JOB NO. 1! CLEARING ENEMY MINE FIELDS

DANGEROUS ASSIGNMENTS are, of course, part of Army routine, but few call for more cold blood than that of the sappers who must locate and remove the thousands of mines strewn by the enemy. Using electric mine locators, these American soldiers are clearing the way for their armored forces near Gafsa, when the axis was retreating from central Tunisia.

Allies Capture Two Valuable Positions Along Axis Lines

Hand-to-Hand Battle Nets 600 Prisoners

Rain High Explosives On Tunisian-Sicilian Network of Airfields

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP) — British and French troops in hand-to-hand fighting have seized two valuable stretches of high ground and 600 more prisoners along the axis Tunisian siege line to boost the allied toll of enemy captives to more than 30,000 in less than four weeks, the high command announced yesterday.

Destroy 21 Planes Allied airmen also punched additional holes in the enemy's sky armor Wednesday, destroying 21 planes at a cost of eight allied aircraft, and raining tons of explosives on the still strong Tunisian-Sicilian network of airfields.

This powerful sky offensive has destroyed 459 planes in combat since the Mareth offensive March 20, with 152 allied aircraft missing. Officers also estimate that 150 or more German and Italian planes have been destroyed a ground during a systematic pounding of axis air terminals.

British First army infantry stormed and captured Djebel Ang, a mountain top eight miles above Medjez-El-Bab and 30 miles west of Tunis yesterday, routing strongly-entrenched German and Austrian Alpine troops of whom 200 surrendered.

Fierce Siege These enemy troops were dug in, as are other axis troops holding the mountain approaches to Tunis and Bizerte, for a fierce siege warfare. Their removal from the high ground between Medjez-El-Bab and Mateur would facilitate a direct highway drive on Tunis by Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's First army.

On the southwestern rim of the axis lines French Moroccan gnomers seized Djebel Sefouf, a hill seven miles above the village of Kararhoun. A French communiqué said 400 enemy troops, mostly Italians, were captured while a German infantry company which chose to fight it out was annihilated.

Tired Workers Continue Fight Against Flood

PERU, Neb. (AP) — Missouri river flood waters last night covered a 15-mile wide expanse from bluffs below Peru, Neb., to rising land north of Watson, Mo., and tired workers are confining their efforts to bolstering of several miles of remaining dikes northward toward Barney, Neb.

Several thousand acres of farm land can be saved from inundation if these dikes hold.

Peru's airport lies under four feet of swirling water after a series of small breaks nullified efforts of nearly 500 volunteers, including girl students and teachers from Peru Teachers' college, to shore up the main protecting dike. The futile struggle was abandoned yesterday morning.

About 100 men continue the second line of battle on the dikes and at the sand pits near here, which are continuing operations. Army engineers have withdrawn most of their personnel and equipment, but still are providing sand sacks. Several motor boats stand by to carry food or to evacuate workers or farmers stranded by possible dike breaks.

Peru's water, light and sewage facilities now are reported safe. No houses are flooded, since the city itself is on bluff land.

David C. Carmean, SUI Medical Student, Kills Self in Burlington

BURLINGTON (AP) — David C. Carmean, 20, medical student at the University of Iowa, ended his life by shooting himself in the chest with a shotgun at his parents' home here this afternoon, Coroner Robert O. Giles said.

Carmean had been out of school after suffering a nervous breakdown a month ago. A graduate of Burlington high school, Carmean attended Burlington junior college before coming to the university in 1941. He was a member of Delta Chi social fraternity and of Phi Beta Psi medical fraternity.

U.S. Bombers Hit Jap Base

Damage 3 Convoy Vessels Approaching New Guinea Harbor

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Friday (AP)—A strong Japanese attempt to supply and man their bases at Wewak, on the north coast of New Guinea, now is under attack by General Douglas MacArthur's bombers.

Today's communique disclosed that an enemy convoy of six merchant vessels and three warships was sighted approaching Wewak and were immediately bombed, three of the merchantmen being hit heavily.

An 8,000-ton ship was observed sinking at the stern, another listed rapidly, leaving an oil slick and a 5,000-ton ship was forced ashore and beached.

Northwest of Moresby Wewak is some 450 miles northwest of the allied base of Port Moresby. Indications have accumulated recently that the Japanese, after losing heavily in attempts to supply their Huon gulf bases of Lae and Salamaua directly by ship, have turned to Wewak, unloading the supplies there for overland transportation by way of Madang.

"An enemy convoy of six merchant vessels and three warships was sighted by our reconnaissance approaching Wewak," said today's noon communique.

"Our heavy bombers immediately moved to the attack and at dusk struck in the approaches to the harbor.

"In a series of mast-height attacks, three of the vessels were heavily hit.

Continue Attack "An 8,000-ton cargo ship was observed rapidly listing with a heavy oil slick on the water; another 8,000-ton vessel was seen to be slowly sinking by the stern and the third vessel of 5,000 tons was forced to shore and beached. We are continuing the attack."

Other allied heavy bombers attacked the airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, some 500 miles northeast of Port Moresby.

Rabaul is not only a big airplane base but also a large shipping base of the Japanese. A spokesman for General Douglas MacArthur said yesterday that the enemy has a concentration of 250,000 tons of shipping in the region.

The Japanese air war was at a momentary lull Thursday, however.

The warships escorting the merchantmen near Wewak were a light cruiser, a destroyer and a gunboat.

Furore Over Pacific Continues as Stimson Pledges More Planes

MacArthur Assured Of Enough Aircraft To 'Counter' Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Planes enough to "counter" Japan's stepped-up air attack in the southwest Pacific will be forthcoming, Secretary of War Stimson assured his weekly press conference yesterday.

"We will keep our American and Australian fliers supplied with sufficient planes not only to replace our losses but to build up our aircraft to counter the increasing enemy air strength," he said. "The needs of the southwest Pacific are being kept constantly in mind and there will be a constantly increasing flow of military supplies, particularly aircraft, to that theater."

Direct Answer

The war secretary spoke in direct answer to the rising clamor from Australian public officials and others for more help to beat off the Japanese attacks and retain the hard-won allied air initiative in the Australian-Solomons theater. General MacArthur lent powerful support to the plea in his recent statement warning of the gravity of the situation, and his high ranking officers, Australian and American, have followed up.

President Manuel L. Quezon, refugee chief executive of the Philippines, added his voice to the concert during the day in a formal statement expressing serious concern over reported Japanese air concentrations "near Australia."

Must Halt Enemy

"Japan must not be allowed to make further gains," he said. "She must not be granted time to devote all her energies to consolidating and mastering the immense natural resources now available to her—resources greater even than those available to Hitler."

Stimson made no direct reference to the MacArthur warning. He commented, however, that "vigorous public officials in the war areas would be remiss in their duties" if they failed to press demands for adequate means to meet situations confronting them.

Iowa State College To Train Air Cadets

AMES (AP)—Iowa State college has been designated as a naval aviation cadet training school with 80 cadets in residence, it was announced here yesterday.

Fifty cadets have been on the campus and an additional contingent of approximately 35 have been transferred from Cornell college, Mt. Vernon.

Roaring Fires Envelop Vital Arms Center

British Lose 23 Planes In 400-Mile Journey To Blast Motor Plants

LONDON (AP)—Germany's war industries were dealt another shattering blow Wednesday night when Britain's bombers made a "very heavy" attack on Stuttgart, leaving tremendous fires roaring and dense smoke billowing 14,000 feet above one of the enemy's most vital armament and engineering centers.

Twenty-three of the planes that roared 400 miles across hostile territory to blast Stuttgart's plane, tank and submarine motor plants were lost to anti-aircraft fire and Nazi night fighters. Ten of the missing planes were from Canadian squadrons, which took an important part in the raid. At least three German night fighters were shot down.

An air ministry communique said that the attack was "very heavy" and that the target was "clearly identified," indicating the raid was made in clear weather. It was the first attack on the city of 410,000 since the night of March 11.

Crews told of great explosions and fires caused by two-ton "block-buster" bombs and incendiaries.

The airmen generally agreed that anti-aircraft fire was intense and many reported encounters with night fighters that were up in force to try to prevent Stuttgart's big armament plants.

Fighter planes of the American Eighth air force engaging in dusk sweeps over France yesterday were reported to have destroyed two enemy planes. Two American aircraft were missing. RAF Ventura bombers escorted by fighters attacked shipping and docks at Cherbourg in France, planted strings of bombs on Le Havre airfield and scored direct hits on German defense works under construction west of Fecamp.

The air ministry news service reported that Nazi railway communications in northern France also were attacked during the night by RAF fighters and that whirlwinds on night patrol damaged two enemy vessels in a low-level attack near Le Treport on the French coast.

EVERYTHING ISN'T SERIOUS WITH YANKS FIGHTING IN TUNISIA

THERE IS A LITTLE RELIEF from the deadly seriousness of war sometimes among the American soldiers fighting in Tunisia, as shown by these two photos from that front. Silt trenches have become the most popular things in North Africa for the Americans and Pvt. Ernest G. Thompson, left, of Sharpsburg, Ky., catches up on his reading in his. At a U. S. Army Air Forces base, a "Hun Fund" has been established, with each pilot contributing to it before a flight. The first airman to down an axis plane then collects the fund when they return. Collector at right is Lieut. Jerry D. Collingsworth of Boerger, Tex.

Interpreting the War News Will Allies Be Able to Meet New Jap Tactical Offensive? By GLENN BABB

Secretary Stimson's assurance that a constantly increasing flow of supplies, especially planes, will go to General MacArthur should dispel some of the anxiety aroused by the recent news from the southwest Pacific. There is, however, no reason to believe that his statement discloses any fundamental change in policy, just as there is no reason to interpret the recent Japanese aggressiveness as denoting any basic change in the always perilous situation in the Australian area.

Certainly there is no departure from the united nation's master plan of dealing with Hitler first. It is conceivable that General Kenney's persuasiveness during his recent mission to Washington had something to do with increasing the flow of planes to MacArthur's command but that is a matter of degree, not a shift of emphasis.

Mr. Stimson attempted to lift the discussion above the plane of controversy by his remark that "vigorous public officials in the areas close to the war would be remiss in their duties if they failed to press their demands." He recognized the propriety of the Kenney mission and recent statements by General MacArthur and Prime Minister Curtin and gave the only reply possible, the assurance that their needs were not forgotten and would be met in increasing measure.

The series of 100-plane raids in the New Guinea and Solomons areas in the last few days leaves no room for doubt that the enemy has opened a new tactical phase. It is marked by increased aggressiveness and an obvious readiness to expend planes and pilots in relatively large numbers. It emphasizes the importance of maintaining or strengthening our present line of air bases above Australia from which the bombers must fly to hold that invisible line beyond which the Japanese can not move major forces except at suicidal cost. Only in that way, in the current phase, can the allies offset the greatly superior strength in sea and land forces the Japanese are concentrating along the arc of which Truk, in the Carolines, is the control point.

Yesterday's statement by a spokesman for General MacArthur that a great Japanese combat fleet is constantly based at Truk and that a quarter million tons of shipping is maintained in the Rabaul area reemphasizes the dangers of a continuing situation. It has not changed greatly since the Pacific war began.

The advantages in this position, which enable Japan to replace her losses in perhaps one-fifth the time and with one-fifth the transport needed to repair ours, were among those on which Japan counted when she took the gamble of war against the United States and Britain.

They were handed her in 1919 when the associated powers assigned her the mandate for the former German islands which stretch across the equatorial Pacific from the Philippines to the international dateline. These Japan, in breach of her pledges, converted into a 3,000-mile row of unsinkable aircraft carriers capable of dominating nearly all movement in the western Pacific between the tropics of Cancer and Capricorn. It will take much time and a tremendous effort to break through that line. Perhaps it can be nullified only by turning it as the Germans turned the Maginot line, by a strategy not based on the Australian area.

What has changed in the southwest Pacific is the Japanese tactics. Washington authorities quoted in Associated Press dispatches yesterday called the new phase "aggressive defense," which seems a sound description. The Japanese command apparently feels that a series of strong local attacks, unrelenting pressure, will prove the best means of accomplishing its strategic mission. The main Japanese purpose, the evidence indicates, still is to protect the rich empire conquered last year, holding the distant barriers as long as possible. Hence the recent big raids do not necessarily mean that an attempt to invade Australia is in the making. The Japanese command is in no position to be spendthrift with the shipping, planes and trained fliers who would have to be expended in such an effort.

Meanwhile General Kenney's airmen continue to exact a 40 percent toll on the enemy raiding squadrons. No force can long sustain such a rate of loss.

Increased drinking of strong liquors increases appetites.

Colder weather than usual, which means the body requires more fuel.

Everyone is expending more physical energy, and the more one works the more he eats.

Many persons are working night shifts and do not sleep well in the daytime. Lack of sleep makes them want to eat.

More money to spend for food.

Urge to buy because of fear there will be a food shortage.

Ten million young and healthy Americans in the armed services eat more than they formerly did.

It is possible that Professor Wheeler has hit upon some of the explanations, yet his reasons seem to be lacking in conclusive evidence. The country has had tremendous surpluses in food, especially meat. There is a huge amount of meat in storage, in fact it is alleged that storage capacities for meat are almost completely filled.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS SOUNDS

Movies Get Under The Axis Skin

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — Underground activity in Nazi-occupied territory is proving such a rich source of dramatic material for the screen that you can look for the cycle to continue indefinitely. Practically all the major producing units are working on one or more pictures with this theme, in addition to those already released.

This follows the familiar Hollywood pattern of one successful picture setting a trend, and the trailblazer in this cycle seems to have been RKO's "Joan of Paris," which introduced Michele Morgan, bonafide French refugee, and gave Paul Henreid, a Nazi-hating Austrian, his first real break.

The great danger at present seems to be overdoing the subject, wearing out its freshness. But lately there have been indications that the story departments have anticipated this repetition, and the settings, which at first concerned chiefly France and Norway, are becoming more varied.

Assassination of Reinhardt Heydrich proved such a natural as story material that both United Artists and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer turned out pictures on the subject, U. A. under the title "The Hangman Also Dies," already released, and Metro under the title of "Hitler's Hangman." U. A. made the most of its opportunities, holding the premiere at Prague, Okla., and getting a send-off from Bohus Benes, consul-general for the Czech government-in-exile, and Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk.

Brian Donlevy is considered to have done a particularly fine job in the role of the man who shot Heydrich.

All the action in this story takes place in Prague. The upcoming Metro picture tells the story of the eradication of the Czech town (See HOLLYWOOD, page 5)

Washington in Wartime— F.D.R. Turning Back to the Home Front

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — There is every indication that President Roosevelt is, for the time being, going to turn his back on the war field and give considerable attention to matters on the home front. He is supposed to have told congressional leaders of both parties that he intends to devote major energies to the home front.

Observers here feel that this is proof that war strategy for the next few months at least is already established. The Tunisian battle, to quote the militarists, seems to be "proceeding according to plans." The mop-up of the Mediterranean, and then invasion of the continent, must already be decided. A military upset certainly would draw the president's full attention, but otherwise there is no reason why he shouldn't now try to iron out some of the difficulties here at home.

His strong veto of the Bankhead bill as an inflation threat is one straw in the wind. His appointments of Chester C. Davis as food czar and of Jonathan W. Daniels, one of the south's ace newspaper editors, as his "fact-finding and trouble-shooting" executive assistant, are others.

That Davis was virtually drafted to take over the food production and distribution load is no secret. The Daniels appointment hasn't been publicly clarified, but some observers think he may have a hand in the president's full attention, but otherwise there is no reason why he shouldn't now try to iron out some of the difficulties here at home.

Is the War Film Needed?

Dear Editor
The summer military campaigns are going to mean a heavy casualty list for the American people to face. We have been warned of this that we might be prepared for we all know that the morale of the home front is important, and the movies seem to be capitalizing on the thought by bringing home the war to us in numerous productions.

Many American people disapprove of war films. It is not mere shallowness on their part either. They do not feel that they need to see and hear the same things in the movies as they eat, drink, sleep, and breathe seven days of the week at home. Perhaps they desire a few more outstanding films that are centered on just plain living in a peaceful world, the kind of world that they shall have earned after the war is over.

A few fine war films should be presented to the movie goers of America no doubt and no doubt they enjoy them. Nevertheless, if Hollywood continues to produce as many war films as she has been the American people are going to be sick of war long before actual fighting has ceased.

Of course there are many other factors in the American institutions which tend to capitalize on the war feelings and spirits. However, the movies is one which reaches almost everyone. Let those people know that there was an America without a war and that there will be again and that in itself will bring them to a closer realization of what we are fighting for.

Sincerely yours,
Ruth Lerdal, A4.

Race Barriers Must Be Broken

"I fear that the next war will be a race war," stated a sociologist lately. Undoubtedly he was not the only one who expressed such opinion.

Race problem is a grave problem all over the world. Unquestioned superiority of the white race is the honest conviction of the great mass of those in it. This is not injustice nor immorality, but illusion. The other races have had similar illusions about their superiority.

The awakening of the colored races to a common interest is probably the most significant fact of the present time. We cannot ignore that fact. The present war is not a race war, but it can and might lead to a race war.

Even here in the United States—a democratic nation where all men are created "equal"—we have been guilty of being "undemocratic." We cannot be proud of the discriminations shown against the Negroes in the South, the suspicion cast upon the Jews in the East, or of the injustice applied on the Orientals of the west. In short—we have been very childish in our dealings with the various races in our country. Must this continue still?

The sociologist went on to say: "America has an opportunity for an intensive effort at race adjustment, and if she succeeds, much light will be thrown on the larger world problem of race relations, but there can be no success by the old methods."

The first step towards solving the race problem must be a breaking down of the belief that religion and ethics end science sanction the right of one race to rule another. This may save us from some painful experience.

Explaining the Shortage—

Many Americans have been puzzled by the food shortage, especially the shortage in meat, in view of the fact that last year the United States produced a bumper crop and had a large surplus of livestock over normal demand plus lend-lease requirements. One of the explanations that is heard most often is that people are eating more. Explaining this explanation has also been attempted. Prof. R. H. Wheeler, of the University of Kansas, has come forward with additional explanation of the explanation. The professor lists the following reasons why people eat more:

Gay spirit of play and carousing to compensate for war worries.

THE BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY
"RUNNING TO PARADISE," is the supreme virtue of simplicity — it is a fairly straightforward story most of the way, and even in the climaxes it is not too over-written. Its theme and its plot are close to us, these days, which is a two-edged advantage. It all sounds very familiar, like a piece of music we are stirred by, at the same time we recognize it from past experience.

It is not actually a novel, of course, but fictionalized biography — Mr. Lodwick's biography. It is the battle against France as seen by a young Englishman fighting with the French — the battles lost, the mistakes made, the betrayals of France by the French. It is the scene that Mr. Lodwick himself saw, before and after he was captured by the Germans. After that event he was technically a deserter among other things. He was trying to escape from unoccupied France to England, he was writing a book, and he was hiding the book and himself from the Germans and certain of the French. This is not an easy way to write a novel, but it does not seem to have worried Mr. Lodwick unduly. "Running to Paradise" has a good many virtues. One of them

The novel has at least one important disadvantage, too. This is something that its author could have minimized, but could not have helped. It is, quite simply, that he is forced to describe over and over the situation at the fall of France and the chaos before and after that event. And you can only endure so much of that sort of thing—I can't remember the title of Hans Habe's novel at the moment, but the same disadvantage was in that book. The situation of the chief character in the midst of twisted, involved, chaotic betrayal and counter betrayal became finally a hopeless tangle in my mind and I quite probably would have shot the man to get him out of his misery, if only I could have done it.

Nine Choirs, Chorus to Give Joint Program

Prof. Herald Stark To Direct Oratorio 'Last Words of Christ'

Nine Iowa City church choirs, the University Chorus and the University Symphony orchestra will join forces to present the "Seven Last Words of Christ" by Theodore Dubois, Palm Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Iowa Union. Prof. Herald Stark of the music department will direct this oratorio.

Soloists for the performance are Joan Joehnk, A4 of Iowa City, soprano; Thomas Muir of the music department, tenor, and Jay Hasbrouck, C3 of Guthrie Center, baritone. Church choirs participating include those of the Baptist, Christian, Congregational, Episcopal, English Lutheran, Zion Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian and St. Mary's Catholic churches.

"The Seven Last Words of Christ" is one of the most popular oratorios with choirs, and probably receives more performances a year than any other, with the exception of Handel's "Messiah."

The last performance of this work in Iowa City was about 10 years ago under the direction of O. E. Van Doren, director of the Symphony orchestra at that time. The concert is seldom done with orchestral accompaniment, which is more effective than the usual organ or piano accompaniment.

Miss Joehnk was soprano soloist last summer in the Brahms "Requiem," under the leadership of Prof. Thompson Stone, guest conductor. Muir has sung the tenor role many times in some of the larger churches of New York City, Detroit, and Chicago. Hasbrouck is a member of the University Chorus and baritone soloist of the Presbyterian church choir.

Selections from "The Seven Last Words of Christ" to be sung are: "O, All Ye Who Travel Upon the Highway, Harken to Me and Behold Me," "Father Forgive Them for They Know Not What They Do," "Verily, Thou shalt be in Paradise With Me," "See, O Woman, Here Behold Thy Son Beloved," "God, My Father, Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me?" "I Am a Thirst," "Father, Into Thy Hands I Commend My Soul" and "It Is Finished."

Free tickets are available at the Iowa Union desk.

Attending the bride was Kay Stearn of Iowa City. Walter Herzog, pharmacist third class of the Navy Pre-Flight school, served as best man.

The maid of honor was attired in a two-piece blue dress, styled with a pleated skirt and a round neckline. She wore white accessories and a corsage of pink and white chrysanthemums.

An informal dinner after the ceremony entertained the wedding party and guests in the home of the bride's parents. Present from Cedar Falls, Mrs. Vern Warren of Shenandoah, and Mrs. Gordon Clason of Coia.

Recordings Of Psalms

School of Religion Finishes New Series On Dutch Writings

The Library of Congress, because of its special interest in the preservation of the religious traditions of the Iowa region, has assisted the school of religion in completing a series of recordings of Dutch psalms which are traditional in the religious history of Iowa. One copy of each of the recordings will be filed in the archives of the music division of the Library of Congress.

Conducted under the supervision of Marcus Bach, director of extension work in the school of religion, the project is one of many in the school's efforts to preserve the religious heritage of the Iowa region.

To record the Dutch psalms, Professor Bach and Prof. Addison Alsopch of the music department went to Iowa's Dutch colony at Pella. Cooperating in the project was the congregation of the First Christian Reformed church of that community. A special manner-koor also recorded Dutch psalms, and the church choir presented special hymns in the Dutch language.

Educational Purposes

These records, the first of their type ever to be made, are for educational purposes and for use by community groups studying the religions of Iowa. Previously, Professors Bach and Alsopch made recordings of Mennonite hymns and chants of other faiths.

In Pella an interview with Mrs. Leonora Scholte, daughter-in-law of the founder of Pella, was also recorded. Highlights of the interview are personal observations about the early history and ideals of the Holland pioneers who first came to Iowa in 1847.

Arrangements have been made with many other religious and folk groups throughout Iowa to participate in subsequent recordings of this nature. Professor Bach has for the past few years familiarized himself with the culture and religion of Iowa and has sympathetically interpreted this work through various writings, recordings and dramatizations.

Cooperation of Faculty

The project takes on further significance in that it has the co-operation of departmental heads within the university.

These persons include: Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts and nationally known in the field of church music; Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, director of the music department, who has made available portable recording equipment, and Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college, who is an authority on America's folk song and has made possible the first experimental recordings in the school of religion's project.

The transcriptions will cover early liturgies, hymns and historical aspects of the coming of faith to the midwest.

Religious groups of all faiths are cooperating with the school of religion. Professor Bach personally contacts religious leaders and pioneers who realize the value of preserving in permanent form many of the hymns and traditions which will soon have passed from the Iowa religious scene.

15 Faculty Members Will Give Addresses

Fifteen university faculty members have already been engaged to speak at 28 high school commencements, and appointments are still being made, according to announcement from the extension division. The series of speeches will open May 4.

Those who have two or more appointments to date include Donald Mallett, associate director of student affairs; Maj. Earl Culver of the military department, Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department, Dr. Sudhindra Bose of the political science department, Marcus Bach of the school of religion, Registrar Harry Barnes, Prof. Franklin H. Knower of the speech department and Prof. M. W. Lampe of the school of religion.

Military Department Discloses Date Change For Federal Inspection

The military department announced recently that dates for federal inspection of the R. O. T. C. infantry and engineers has been moved forward one day from April 20 and 21 to 21 and 22.

It was learned that Capt. L. D. Henry, corps of engineers, would be among the inspecting officers assigned to class room instruction and the formal inspection of the university engineer unit, April 22.

Eight cases of knitted garments alone, which included sweaters, socks, scarves and seaboots, were distributed during the month of February from a New York warehouse to seamen on our shores, among whom was a group of over 100 Mohammedans, survivors of recent axis submarine attacks in the south Atlantic.

First organized to provide warm knitted garments for fighting men, Bundles for Britain has so expanded that at this time it can supply even such specific requirements as surgical instruments, ambulances, bandages and medicines. Funds have been solicited for the purchase of badly needed medical supplies, good used clothing has been collected and distributed, donations of used surgical instruments to outfit base hospitals have been obtained from doctors and hospitals and money has been raised by special benefits to send for urgently needed supplies. A relief fund of $890,025.28 was collected in 1942.

Through their work in sending necessary supplies speedily and efficiently and by constant revival of their organization to meet ever-increasing demands, Bundles for Britain has developed into one of the "essential industries" for providing for the well-being of a war-torn people.

Hawkeyes Face Northwestern Nine Today

Stille Strives For 2nd Win

Quinn to Play Third For Iowa; No Other Change in Hawk Line

Probable lineups:
Northwestern: Graham, 3b; Russo, cf; Wendland (c), 1b; Meacham, rf; Lindberg, ss; Bowen, c; Busse, p.
Iowa: Landes, 1f; Farmer, 2b; Briscoe, 1b; Ebner, c; Quinn, 3b; Stille, p.

After splitting a double header with Michigan last Saturday, Iowa's baseball nine will attempt to get back into the winning ways this afternoon and tomorrow when they tangle here with the Northwestern Wildcats.

Iowa, winner in three out of four games so far this season, will be meeting a Wildcat team that has dropped its first two engagements this season. Northwestern lost non-conference games to Lake Forest, 8-7, and Navy Pier, 6-3.

Roy Stille, who set Michigan down, 4-3, has been named by Coach Waddy Davis to hurl today's tilt, with Jack "Red" Kenney slated for action tomorrow. Kenney was the victim of some untimely errors last week, and was beaten by Michigan, 7-3.

Bob Busse, who saw service against the Hawkeyes in a relief role last season, is expected to pitch for Northwestern today, and Bill Zeman is scheduled to hurl Saturday's fraacs.

Coach Davis has made one change in the Iowa lineup from that which started against Michigan. Ben Trickey, who has been the regular third baseman in the previous games, will be replaced today by sophomore Johnny Quinn.

The rest of the infield will remain the same with Clark Briscoe at first, Tom Farmer at second, and Don Thompson at short. The outfield will have Capt. Harold Lind in right field, Harry Rinkema in center, and Max Landes in left. Lyle Ebner, the sophomore catcher, will again be behind the plate.

Leading the Hawkeye attack will be Capt. Lind and Farmer, who are both sporting 500 batting averages. Lind also leads the team in runs batted in with eight. Other leading hitters on the Hawk nine are Ebner with a .416 average and Thompson, who is hitting .315.

The Wildcats have three veterans in the infield, but the rest of the team, except the pitchers, is made up almost entirely of untried material.

Veterans include Capt. Russ Wendland, first sacker; Bob Lindberg, short stop; and Otto Graham, who was voted the best all-around athlete in the Big Ten, third base. Graham played center field last year against Iowa, but this year he has been shifted to third.

Northwestern, coached by Maury Kent, former Iowa player and coach, was the victim of Iowa twice last year, as the Hawk hurlers limited the Wildcats to only seven hits in the two games. However, before the Michigan series last week, Northwestern had been the last team to defeat the Hawkeyes on their home diamond.

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

* Martin Names Reds * To Beat Out Dodgers, * Cards in Loop Race

NEW YORK (AP)—It generally is agreed that anyone is an ump-chay who would try to predict the outcome of the major league pennant races this year, so we'll stay right in character and express a firm opinion in no uncertain words. Or maybe it should be expressed an uncertain opinion in no firm words.

Besides, we have a reputation to uphold and don't want to disappoint our loyalists who wait patiently for our pennant choice so they can scurry right out and put their two-bits on some other team.

This is particularly true in reference to our National league selections, which invariably are so accurate the teams refuse to abide by them just for spite. They'll show that smart-aleck he doesn't know what he's talking about, by gum.

Anyway, here is the way we see the National league:

1—Cincinnati; 2—Brooklyn; 3—St. Louis; 4—New York; 5—Chicago; 6—Pittsburgh; 7—Boston; 8—Philadelphia.

Now the choice of Cincinnati to win is no accident. You might say it was habit, as we've been picking the Reds so long that sooner or later we'll hit them right unless the law of averages has been repealed.

Not that we've plugged the team and found it ripe this year. None of the teams is ripe this year, although one of them, the Dodgers, might be called over-ripe.

It's just that Cincinnati has suffered fewer real losses due to the war than any other club. Mike McCormick, facing possible induction, may be the only regular lost, and the Reds were good enough to finish fourth last year.

Sure, they have less hitting power than a bee-see gun, but some of the other teams aren't going to be hitting much this year, and the Reds have some classy pitchers, and, with the addition of Eddie Miller at short, will have a stout defense. They won a couple of pennants with no more.

We'll place the Dodgers ahead of the Cardinals for second place because the nine-old-men of Brooklyn figure to stay with the team, and even if some of them have slowed to a jog they still can hit that ball. The club won't be the 1942 club, which won 104 games, as it lost two fine players in Pete Reiser and Pee-Wee Reese, but it's still quite a club.

It's hard to forget the fine team the Cards had in the field last year, but their strength seems to have been pretty well sapped by the loss of such gems as Terry Moore, and Enoe Slaughter, and Johnny Beazley, the probable loss of the dynamo, Jimmy Brown, and the temporary loss of Martin Marion. You just can't figure them their 1942 selves.

Those three clubs—the Reds, Cards and Dodgers—should finish in 1-2-3, or 3-2-1, or 2-1-3 order, but from there on down it's just a potato race, with about all you can be sure of being that the teams will finish if the league season finishes.

Hawkeyes End Grid Drills on Conditioning

The University of Iowa's brief spring football practice season ended yesterday as Frank Carideo put the squad through a light drill and limbering up exercises.

Carideo said yesterday that the spring session is ending on schedule, for next week is the university's last week of school which is devoted to final examinations. "We've averaged about 23 men for practice lately and the spring practice sessions have been valuable for the men in that our program was primarily a physical conditioning program. If the men are called into service they'll be in fine physical condition," Carideo said.

The Giants have been as hard hit by losses to the service as about any club, but they finished third last year under the astute leadership of Mel Ott, and despite the absence of such stars as Johnny Mize and Harry Danning, their velocity should keep them in the first division.

The Cubs get fifth place ahead of the Pirates in an onie-memie-memie-moe choice, and the Braves look better than the Phils, which may be the same as saying that one bucket of water is wetter than another bucket of water. They're both pretty much wet, but we still like, or dislike, the Phils to finish last as we don't think new owner Bill Cox can overcome the chronic inertia of the club in a single season. The club is rusted to the bottom now and it's going to take a lot of hacking to get it loose.

Loss of Shortstop V. Stephens Would Hurt Brown's Chances

By DILLON GRAHAM, AP Features Editor

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo.—and Baker apparently is the better hitter. Players late in arriving Some of the Browns were late arriving in camp because of work on defense jobs and farms, and so Sewell will be slow in deciding on his lineup. He figures on George McQuinn at first, Harold Clift at third and Gutteridge at second with Don Hefner as utilityman.

The catching should be satisfactory with Rick Perrell and Frank Hayes, but Chet Laabs is the only hard-hitting outfielder. McQuillen may be available part of the year while the Browns also have Mike Chartak, Tony Criscola, Mike Kreevich and Milton Byrnes.

Denny Galehouse, Al Hollingsworth, Bob Muncie, John Niggeling, Steve Sundra and George Caster are holdover pitchers. Sewell thinks he may have a winner in Bill Seisoth, a big left hander who won 24 while losing 10 for New Orleans, and he is gambling on four former major league bents on comebacks—Paul Dean, who won 19 and lost 8 for Houston; Archie McKain, 17 and 11 for Toledo; Woody Rich, 10 and 10 for Indianapolis; and Nelson Potter, 18 and 8 for Louisville. If Luke can carry this staff through the season, he thinks his pitching will be fairly good.

Big Blows to Team Although the Browns lost others, the big blows to the team's chances came when hard-hitting outfielder Walter Judnich went into the army and Stephens and Glenn McQuillen were listed I.A's. Stephens was one of the league's ace rookies a year ago. He and Don Gutteridge worked well together to tighten the Browns' infield while Stephens also was one of the club's best hitters. The Browns' boss, Luke Sewell, has two suitable replacements for Stephens, so far as fielding goes, in Mark Christman and Floyd Baker, but neither can carry Junior's bat. They were the best fielding shortstops in their leagues last year. Christman at Toledo and Baker at San Antonio.

Christman has been around for quite awhile. He was Detroit property for several years and was traded to the Browns in 1939. Mark played part of a season with St. Louis and has been with Toledo the past two years. His brother, Paul, won acclaim several years ago as a football passer with the University of Missouri. Mark is 28 now and figures the extra experience he has gained with Toledo should make him a more valuable performer than in his first go with St. Louis. While Christman hit only 276, Baker was among the Texas league leaders with 326. Sewell doesn't know which will get the call. He knows Christman's ability but Baker will have to show his stuff. The Browns need punch, though.

Chicago Clubs Open City Series Today

CHICAGO (AP)—All the Chicago White Sox ball players were in Chicago yesterday, awaiting the opening of their four-game city series with the Cubs today while Manager Jimmy Dykes boasted that his Sox could contend to win from the northsters using only rookie mound talent.

Dykes, whose American leaguers beat the Nationals two of three games in the "no-count" series at spring training camp in French Lick, will use only one rookie pitcher in today's opening, however. He is Gordon Maltberger of Shreveport, who will appear for three innings, the remainder of the mound duties going to veterans Bill Dietrich and Edgar Smith.

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs broke up their spring camp yesterday and headed for Chicago, where they open a four-game city spring series today with the White Sox.

The 17-man Cub pitching staff has been trimmed to 15 by the release of rookie George Washburn to the Philadelphia Phils at the $7,500 waiver price and rookie Bob McCall to Nashville on option.

Wilson now is impelled to turn over the bulk of the pitching in the city series to fellows like Claude Passeau, Paul Derringer, Bill Lee and Hi Bithorn. They are the ones he knows he must rely on in seeking a fast start in the National league race.

Detroit's Wakefield Named Best Rookie

Cub's Stanky Gets Chosen in National Loop to Top Honor

NEW YORK (AP)—One result of baseball's shortened spring training season has been that little has been heard of the rookie marvels the major league clubs used to unveil in the south.

Their number is fewer this year, but they are present nonetheless and the competition for honors as "rookie of the year" seems likely to be as spirited this season as ever in the past.

The best known newcomer, perhaps, is Dick Wakefield of the Detroit Tigers because two years ago he achieved considerable fame by auctioning his services around the major leagues till the Tigers finally signed him for approximately $50,000.

From the University of Michigan he went to Detroit's Piedmont league farm at Winston-Salem in 1941 and last year was promoted to Beaumont in the Texas league, where he proceeded to win the batting championship with a .345 average, making 192 hits, scoring 100 runs and batting in 90. It was followed naturally that he also was named the league's most valuable player.

There is no question that he can hit. There is a question, though, about how well Wakefield can field and also how long he may continue among the Bengals. He is single, but thus far has been deferred because of dependencies.

Before the curtain rises the outstanding National league rookie appears to be Infielder Eddie Stanky of the Chicago Cubs, who was the batting champion and most valuable player in the American association last year at Milwaukee.

He also led in runs scored with 124 and in two-base hits with 56, a lot of which were hit and run slaps to right field according to Charley Grimm, his manager last season.

In the American league, besides Wakefield, freshmen worth watching are Pitcher Bill Seisoth of the St. Louis Browns, who won 24 games for New Orleans, and Outfielder Thurman Tucker of the Chicago White Sox, who batted .313 at Fort Worth.

Tom Farmer, Ken Steinbeck Given Awards

Tom Farmer of Cedar Rapids, star in football and baseball, was named the winner of the University of Iowa's 1943 Big Ten medal, while Ken Steinbeck of Rubio, track captain, received the Hawkeye athletic board's scholarship cup.

Announcement of the winners of these annual awards was made yesterday by Director E. G. Schroeder. Both are for excellence in scholarship and athletics, with the athletic record receiving the emphasis in the medal award and scholarship in the cup presentation.

Farmer, who quarterbacked the 1942 football team, had one of the best forward passing records in the league, making 872 yards. He was left halfback in 1940 and 1941. At present he is playing third season at second base on the baseball team. He was picked as runner-up for the title as the league's best all-around athlete.

Steinbeck is Iowa's best pole vaulter in many years. He tied for first place in the Big Ten indoor meet with a vault of 13 feet 3 inches, becoming the first Hawkeye vaulter since 1929 to figure in a conference title.

Lee Savold Favored Over Franklin Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Lee Savold, the Paterson, N. J., heavyweight, was installed an 8-5 favorite yesterday to again beat Lem Franklin, Cleveland Negro, in tonight's 10-round engagement at Chicago stadium.

The two are even on knockouts in previous meetings, Franklin having chilled Savold in two rounds in 1939, but falling victim in the 10th round to the New Jersey battler here two months ago.

Soviet Planes Pound Danzig, Koenigsberg

LONDON (AP)—Russian planes raided Danzig and Koenigsberg Wednesday night in their third aerial attack on Germany since Saturday, Moscow announced last night in a broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Danzig and Koenigsberg are points on the eastern German supply route to the Leningrad front.

Danzig is the former free city at the head of the Polish corridor.

The broadcast said:

"During the night of April 14 Soviet planes raided Danzig and Koenigsberg and bombed military and industrial objectives in those towns.

"As a result of the bombardment many fires broke out in Danzig and fierce explosions were observed. Particularly fierce fires and explosions broke out in the vicinity of an oil reservoir.

"In Koenigsberg big fires were observed in the vicinity of the harbor and freight station.

"All our planes returned to their bases."

U.S. Bombers Plaster Jap Bases at Kiska

Stage Unprecedented One-Day Series of 10 Assaults in Aleutians

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army bombers, escorted by swarms of fighter planes, plastered Japanese positions on Kiska Island Tuesday in an unprecedented one-day series of ten raids.

The attacks, apparently carried out on a dawn-to-dusk schedule since no night actions were specified in a navy communique, exceeded by one the total number of raids against Japan's Aleutians outpost during the whole month of February. In that month of short days and bad weather, American planes struck at Kiska nine times, dropping 1,000 bombs.

Navy Keeps Mum

Neither the number of bombs nor the total tonnage loosed in Tuesday's raids was given out by the navy, but it seemed probable that the actions had broken all records for amounts of explosives dropped there. The communique said "many hits were scored and fires were started in the runway and main camp area."

While the bombers were about their work of destruction, the fighter planes strafed beached enemy float type aircraft.

The largest previous number of attacks in a single day was on April 2 when army bombers made eight raids. The size of that raid caused conjecture here as to whether an amphibious attempt to take Kiska might be in the making. There still is not evidence one way or the other as to what the intentions of the American high command may be with regard to Kiska.

73 Bombings

It might be the plan to bomb it into uselessness. It has been attacked 73 times since March 1. On the other hand, the bombing could serve as a means of softening up whatever resistance the Japs might be able to offer to a landing attempt.

The navy communique also reported briefly on the South Pacific, saying that during Wednesday Avenger bombers and Wildcat fighters attacked Japanese barges and installations in Viru harbor on New Georgia island and started several fires. The island lies northwest of Guadalcanal.

big hand in straightening out the political muddle that might result from the threatened southern revolt against the administration.

There are other legislative reasons, too, why the president should be working on the home front for the next few weeks.

There is the extension of the Guffey Coal act, which is considered vital by the administration in preventing chaos in the coal mining industry.

There is the proposed extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act of 1934. This act of Secretary of State Cordell Hull has become a symbol of the New Deal's international trade policy.

There are proposed manpower laws that will have to be minutely watched if the administration wants to straighten out the manpower muddle without sacrificing all the labor laws it enacted during the pre-war years.

Probably most important of all is upcoming tax legislation. The house ways and means subcommittee, the full committee and even the house itself has passed the buck on pay-as-you-earn and withholding tax legislation. The position of the administration isn't clear. It probably will have to be before any legislation is finally enacted or defeated.

I. Montgomery Seeks Position

City Council Receives Application for I.C. Garbage Collector Job

Ira W. Montgomery last night formally placed his bid for local garbage collection and disposal before the city council at a special meeting held in the office of Mayor Wilber J. Teeters.

In his application Montgomery offered to collect and dispose of the offal for two years at a salary of $13,600.

The contract of present city garbage collector, Ralph Rayner, expires May 1.

Rayner has been receiving an annual wage of $2,800 for the job, plus an added amount for handling garbage outside the city limits.

His salary for the two-year period during which he has served as collector totals less than $7,000. Montgomery's bid is now being entertained by the council.

It was agreed last night to refer the bid to the "garbage committee," of which every alderman is a member.

The group is to meet at 9:30 this morning in the City-Hall to consider the problem.

At last night's session a committee was appointed to investigate a complaint to the effect that materials essential to war industries were being burned at the city dump.

Alderman Max Boone (1st) was named head. H. S. Ivie, alderman-at-large, and Alderman Elmer F. Lenthe (2nd) were also delegated to serve on the committee.

Prof. W. F. Loehwing Speaks to Rotarians On 'Fighting Plants'

Use of Corn, Hemp As War Economies Described by Botanist

Prof. W. F. Loehwing, head of the department of botany at the university, discussed "Fighting Plants" in a speech before the Rotary club meeting at the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon.

He described the war economical aspects as well as exploitation of certain crops and plants, among them corn, soybean, hemp, flax and also dehydrated food.

After reporting on the synthetic rubber aspects and alcohol production through corn, Professor Loehwing turned his attention to soybeans. This plant, he suggested, is bringing about a silent revolution. Soybean flour, milk, even wool are some of the highly marketable products, ersatz or otherwise, of this valuable plant. In addition, the fact that soybeans are soil builders encourages their planting.

Hemp, from which the United States seems completely cut off by the war, is also being produced.

Discussing the use of dehydrated foods, he asserted that a means had been found whereby these foods became entirely and pleasantly palatable. Already 300 million tons of dehydrated foods have been produced this year as against 15 million tons throughout the entire last year.

School Board Grants $100 Yearly Bonus To All Teachers in Independent System

Supt. Iver A. Opstad Re-Elected to Head Schools for 3 Years

A $100 yearly bonus to offset additional cost of living was granted to all full-time school teachers of the Iowa City independent school system at the Wednesday evening session of the school board at the junior high building.

This move boosted the salaries of most teachers by $200 since 1941. A similar bonus was granted last year, offering either $100 per year or 5% of the teacher's salary, at the preference of the individual teacher. The new bonus will be paid during the next school year, in monthly installments.

Superintendent Iver A. Opstad was re-elected as head of the Iowa City school system for one more term of 3 years. He has served in this position since 1920.

A decision to adhere to the provisions of the plan adopted several years ago setting the teachers' retirement age at 65 was made in the course of the meeting's business. This affirmation of former rules will automatically retire W. E. Beck of the City high school, who will reach the age of 65 this summer.

Although the board failed to choose a successor for Beck, it selected Donald Lee Seavy of Decorah to serve as principal of Longfellow high school. Seavy has served as principal at the Decorah junior and grade school. A graduate of Upper Iowa university, he has done graduate work at the University of Iowa where he expects to obtain his master's degree this summer.

Earl Sangster, new school board president, appointed the following committees, the first named being the chairman: Dan C. Dutcher, B. M. Ricketts, finance and printing; Harrison H. Gibbs, John P. Kelly, grounds and buildings; Albert B. Sidwell, Mrs. Howard L. Beye, apparatus and supplies; Mrs. Beye, Gibbs, teachers; Ricketts, Sidwell, insurance, and Kelly and Dutcher, athletics.

An expression of thanks was voted by the board for Attorney Dutcher "for his excellent services in clearing up a state use tax problem for the board."

Axis Fears Invasion

Hitler Confers With Balkan Allies Over Possibility of Attack

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—The seriousness with which the axis views the possibilities of an allied invasion through southeastern Europe was indicated yesterday by revelation that Hitler is still conferring with his generals at Berchtesgaden and awaiting a visit from Hungarian political and military leaders.

Premier Ion Antonescu already has gone home to Rumania, according to foreign sources with axis connections, under instructions to prepare his Russian-battered army for the battle of Europe.

Suspects Thrust Soon Antonescu's conference with Hitler, as well as the Hitler-Mussolini meeting, was taken here as positive proof that the axis strongly suspects an allied thrust through the Balkans soon.

As each visitor—King Boris of Bulgaria, Mussolini and Antonescu has left the conference, the communiques has stressed the study of plans for what Hitler calls his "new order" for Europe. Yet observers here are positive that military urgency actually is behind the parleys.

This is the situation as they see it. The present speed of the African campaign makes it likely that the extension of the second front to Europe may come within three weeks.

German Propaganda German propaganda now is centered on her "Atlantic wall" defenses, especially in France, Holland and Belgium, but little is said about the Balkan back door entrances.

The Balkans probably are the weakest point in what Hitler calls his "European fortress," both from the standpoint of fortifications and uncertainty as to what the popular reaction might be toward the allies.

Bulgaria has kept out of the war so far, although technically aligned with the axis, and Boris has built up his power until he is believed to have full control of the army. Recently reported negotiations undertaken with Russia were believed to have followed popular demonstrations.

City Blackout To Be Staged Next Week

A practice blackout will darken Iowa City sometime next week, it was announced yesterday by Rollin M. Perkins, civilian defense commander.

Neither the day nor the hour for the event has been set, although it is certain that the blackout will take place next week.

Instructional matter concerning air raids and practice blackouts will be distributed by air raid wardens in their areas. This material will tell Iowa City residents all about the new signals and action in a blackout.

Former Students—Serving the Nation

—Former Iowa Citizens

Donald Grant, former student at the University of Iowa, is now a radio student at the technical school of the army air corps at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Grant was a member of a "model" heavy bombardment crew, which went from base to base training other men in the intricacies of their jobs. He is a qualified gunner and bombardier and has had 50 hours of "slick" time to his credit.

Grant majored in philosophy at the university. He also wrestled in the 136 lb. class on Iowa's 1941 championship team.

Corp. Eugene T. Larew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Teleford Larew, 215 Woolf avenue, is home on a furlough from Camp Claiborne, La.

Lieut. (i.g.) Lee Cochran, former head of the university's visual education department, is in Iowa City on a furlough.

Recently stationed in Washington, D. C., he will leave soon for a new post at Seattle, Wash.

Cadet Robert H. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. White, 323 S. Capitol street, has completed a 13-week training course at the Georgia Navy Pre-Flight school at Athens, Ga., and has been transferred to the navy base at Norman, Okla., to take three months of flying.

White was formerly a stereotyper for The Daily Iowan. While at the Georgia base, he won the regimental championship at obstacle running.

Pvt. Charles P. Gilson, a former student at the university, is now taking a two months course at Murfreesboro, Tenn. When he has completed this course he will be appointed an aviation cadet in the army airforce flying school.
