F.D.R. Warns Soft Coal Miners to End Strikes By Saturday Morning or Suffer Consequences

Local Leaders Declare They 'Won't Go Back Without Contract Unless J. L. Lewis Says So'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A historic showdown between President Roosevelt and John L. Lewis was at hand last night. With more than 77,000 soft coal miners idle and a nationwide shutdown threatened, Mr. Roosevelt served notice yesterday morning that he would use all his vast powers as commander-in-chief "to protect the national interest" if work is not resumed by 10 a. m. Saturday.

Lewis, the United Mine Workers leader, preserved deep silence. The 77,000 miners showed no tendency to return to work, and one of their local leaders said "we won't go back without a contract unless Lewis says so."

What the president would do if the strikes continue beyond the Saturday deadline was not stated, but informed officials said many courses are open to him.

Martial law in the coal fields, with suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and jury trial; use of troops to protect miners willing to work; assignment of troops to work in the mines; reclassification of miners under selective service to make them liable for the draft; an order denying them work in any war industry—or some less drastic measure such as a further appeal to public opinion, or to the miners themselves over the head of Lewis.

Army Leases 5 Fraternities

Plans for Contracts With 3 More Houses Have Been Arranged

Contracts have been signed with five fraternities houses to be taken over for the army specialized training program, and plans for leasing three others have been made, it was announced yesterday by William H. Cobb, business manager of the University of Iowa.

The fraternities which have already signed contracts releasing their houses are: Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Upsilon and Beta Theta Pi.

All housing facilities for the evacuated men are being taken care of by the division of student housing in the office of student affairs. The men are being placed in small dormitory units, approved rooms in private homes and cooperative dormitories.

"Adequate housing service has been found for this group, and will be found for any group who needs it in the future," said Mrs. Imelda Murphy, manager of university housing.

The fraternities houses are being vacated for the 500 basic engineering students in the U. S. army specialized training program who will arrive here between May 3 and 10 for instruction.

The new corps will be instructed by the regular faculty of the university, and all meals will be served in Iowa Union.

The public dining service of the Union was closed last night in preparation for the arrival of the men, but the soda fountain and grill will be operated on the sun porch off the main lounge, as in the past, and service to the public will continue.

Japs Annihilated

CHUNGKING (AP)—The Chinese command announced yesterday that more than half the Japanese troops who had been surrounded at points west of the Taihang mountains, which the invaders had been attacking with a force initially numbering 40,000, had been annihilated.

AFL Unit to Abide By No Strike Pledge

William Green Says Group Will Refuse To Support UMW

WASHINGTON (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, late yesterday informed President Roosevelt that the international union of progressive mine workers, an AFL affiliate, would abide by labor's no strike pledge and not join the United Mine Workers union members in their work stoppages.

Green's message was made public at the White House simultaneously with a telegram the president sent to Green and Lloyd D. Thrush, president of the progressive miners of America, at Springfield, Illinois, appealing to them and the progressive miners "not to join in any strike at this time."

The president said the progressive miners organization while not directly involved in the dispute between the UMW and the soft coal operators, has interests and problems somewhat similar to those of the UMW.

"Any strike in any coal mine at this time," the president telegraphed, "would seriously cripple the war effort and would be in violation of labor's 'no strike' pledge. The production of coal must continue."

Green replied that he had appealed to the progressive mine workers to stand by their no strike pledge made to the president by the AFL "as a solemn covenant, a binding agreement which will be carried out at any cost."

Cleveland Street Car Strikers End Walkout

CLEVELAND (AP)—Striking members of the AFL street car and motorcoach operators union voted late yesterday to end a paralyzing 17-hour walkout on Cleveland's municipal transportation system and return immediately to their jobs.

The voice vote came at a noisy two-hour meeting attended by an estimated 1,200 strikers. Observers reported the shouted ballot was nearly unanimous, though some "noes" were heard.

The strike, effective Wednesday midnight, tied up all Cleveland street cars and buses except a few suburban lines not operated by the city transit system, and forced an estimated 400,000 Clevelanders to find other means of reaching work and their homes.

Under the settlement, which came too late to relieve much evening rush-hour traffic, negotiations will be resumed this afternoon.

RUSSIA, GERMANY PREPARE FOR SPRING DRIVES. WHILE FIGHTING SLACKENS in the mud left by melting snows, the German and Russian armies are preparing for the offensive actions that probably will come with dry weather. This map shows how the opposing forces are lined up now and the highmarks of the German advances in 1941 and 1942. Some observers believe that the Nazis again may try to break through in a desperate effort to reach the Caucasian oil fields, where the most severe fighting is going on at the present time.

Nation's Youth May Be Asked For Year's Peacetime Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt returned yesterday from a 7,652-mile, 20-state tour impressed with America's military and industrial proficiency and holding the idea, too, that the wartime establishments ought to be used when peace returns for training young people.

The chief executive held a special press conference two hours after his forenoon arrival back in Washington which he left April 13. This was given over largely to the coal situation but his major impressions from his trip, as outlined briefly at the conference and in more detail in aboard-train talks with newsmen who accompanied him were:

1. The army is now over the growing pains incident to its vast expansion and is grown-up. This is demonstrated not only in the excellence of its training but in its improved housekeeping practices such as its food conservation measures. A reporter noted his remark about the army being grown-up and asked if that meant it is as big as it needs to be. Mr. Roosevelt said, No.

2. He was struck by the achievements of women in industry. In aviation plants, he said, from 30 to 50 percent of all employees are women and in one plant the number of women is well over 50 percent. Among new workers, 60 to 65 percent are women. Mr. Roosevelt commented that this is helping tremendously in meeting the manpower problem.

3. The camps and industrial plants ought to be put to good use in the post-war era, perhaps by requiring that the youth of America give a year's service to their country. He said he had no specific program and that any one developed probably would be only partly military, but he was impressed by the benefits in physical condition and mental alertness that men and women in service and war workers uniforms have realized.

4. He found the country as a whole has a better perspective on the war, a better sense of proportion, is soberer in temper and more intelligent in its attitude than a good part of Washington.

Liberators Hammer Jap Seaplane Base

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Friday (AP)—Liberators executed a strong morning raid Thursday on the Japanese seaplane base on the island of Amboina, Dutch East Indies.

Their bomb loads started fires and explosions among the barracks and hangars at Halong, near the island's chief port of Amboina. Despite strong anti-aircraft fire and attempted interception by 15 Japanese Zeros, all the Liberators returned.

Secretary Morgenthau Endorses Pay-as-Go Plan of House Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau endorsed the pay-as-you-go income tax bill of the house ways and means committee yesterday as a great help for both the taxpayer and his government.

Randolph Paul, general counsel, told a press conference that if congress enacts the bill by May 15, the treasury would do its utmost to put the pay-as-you-go plan into effect by July 1. Previously the treasury had said it would take 60 days to get such a system rolling.

Treasury Head Calls Measure Great Help To Nation's Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau endorsed the pay-as-you-go income tax bill of the house ways and means committee yesterday as a great help for both the taxpayer and his government.

Randolph Paul, general counsel, told a press conference that if congress enacts the bill by May 15, the treasury would do its utmost to put the pay-as-you-go plan into effect by July 1. Previously the treasury had said it would take 60 days to get such a system rolling.

Reduce 1942 Tax

The committee bill would reduce the 1942 tax to 1941 levels of rates and exemptions and give the taxpayer three years to pay it off while disposing of his current tax bills.

These current bills would be taken care of by a withholding tax of 20 percent, after exemptions, applied on wages and salaries. The withholding tax would begin July 1 and the March and June income tax payments made this year would be treated as current payments of 1943 income tax.

The house is to begin debate on the committee bill next week, but Republicans have made plain they intend to offer amendments along the line of the modified Ruml plan to skip a whole tax year in getting on a pay-as-you-go basis.

RAF Sows Mine Trap In Nazi Sub Training Waters of Baltic Sea

Diversionary Bomber Armada Pounds Naval Base at Wilhelmshaven

LONDON (AP)—The RAF sowed a massive pattern of mines across Hitler's U-boat training waters in the Baltic and his supply routes to Russia Wednesday night in a grand scale operation coupled with a diversionary bomber attack on the Wilhelmshaven naval base.

The mine-laying was carried out by the RAF heavyweights "on a very large scale, particularly in the Baltic sea," the air ministry announced and then added almost as an afterthought: "Wilhelmshaven also was bombed."

The air ministry news service said that during the last two nights the RAF laid more mines than were normally sowed in any whole month and that in Wednesday night's operations some planes flew 1,500 miles to the Baltic and back through intermittent cloud and thunderstorms.

Sparks flew off the propeller tips and chunks of ice thumped on the big bombers' fuselages on the hazardous trip.

It was apparent that the mining was the greatest such job the RAF has done for the royal navy since the war began and it appeared also that the squadrons which laid incendiaries and high explosives on Wilhelmshaven served mainly to confuse the Germans in the task of dispatching mine-sweepers to clear the Baltic searoutes and U-boat trial grounds.

The German quandary was so deep and confused that in their early reports of the raid the Nazis said "rural territories" were bombed.

However, the daily Berlin communique based on more complete evidence, told of an attack on a northwestern German coastal district and "an area of the Baltic sea," and it disclosed another attack on east Prussia, which apparently was carried out by the Russians as part of their new campaign against the bases of Nazi attacks on their homeland.

Aerial action during the night encroached on the neutrality of Sweden, and the Germans, through their sly propaganda machinery, were the first to disclaim responsibility for the incident.

The Swedish foreign office announced that an unidentified plane from the east dropped a parachute flare and then three bombs on the island of Verkoen, which lies near the main Swedish naval base of Karlskrona.

Yanks, French Drive Deeper In Mountains

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—American and French troops have sliced deeper into the tough axis mountain defenses in Tunisia, but desperate German counter-attacks 20 miles west of Tunis temporarily staved off a British First army breakthrough into the plain leading to the capital, an allied communique disclosed yesterday.

Dispatches emphasized the growing resistance of the cornered axis troops all along the 140-mile arc of ridges. American troops "gained some important ground" in the north, and a French communique told of the seizure of three more hills north and south of the British First army salient which had pushed up to the last hill barrier barring the way to the Tunis plain.

Savage in Center German resistance was particularly savage in the center where the British First army had attained the crest of Djebel Bou Aoukaz, only to be pushed back slightly by German shock troops supported by tanks.

The Germans launched two heavy counterattacks yesterday after the British had attained the summit of this key hill. The first was repulsed, leaving many enemy dead and some wrecked German tanks.

Then the Germans called up 500 men and 30 of their precious reserve of tanks and succeeded in forcing the British "to make a slight withdrawal" in this battlefront 12 miles northeast of Medjez-El-Bab.

Sharp Counterattacks Temporarily Stave Off Approaching 1st Army

Savage in Center

German resistance was particularly savage in the center where the British First army had attained the crest of Djebel Bou Aoukaz, only to be pushed back slightly by German shock troops supported by tanks.

The Germans launched two heavy counterattacks yesterday after the British had attained the summit of this key hill. The first was repulsed, leaving many enemy dead and some wrecked German tanks.

Then the Germans called up 500 men and 30 of their precious reserve of tanks and succeeded in forcing the British "to make a slight withdrawal" in this battlefront 12 miles northeast of Medjez-El-Bab.

A dispatch from Daniel de Luce, Associated Press correspondent with the British at the front, said it appeared that the first phase of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's offensive had been definitely concluded without the expected climactic breakthrough.

Axis mortar fire also was deadly in this struggle on the heights before Tunis. The arena had produced some of the fiercest fighting of the African campaign. The German troops had been thrown back into the eastern slope of Djebel Bou Aoukaz, where they re-formed and then flooded back onto the western side of the ridge.

At Huge Cost This single sector graphically supported military sources who have warned previously that the axis troops will only be ousted from Africa at considerable cost.

It is apparent, too, that axis supplies still are getting through to the besieged troops despite allied aerial supremacy and staggering axis losses in planes, ships, and materiel. A further toll of axis shipping was taken Wednesday, and American bombers also attacked Naples and Messina across the straits.

The American troops, fighting against bitter opposition and rough terrain, were reported to have gained in the hills bordering the Sidi N'Sir-Mateur road southwest of Bizerte. Bald hill, the army name for the high barren peak of Djebel Ajred, still was the scene of heavy fighting.

Reds Get 116 Planes In Caucasus Drive

LONDON, Friday (AP)—Russian airmen were reported early today to have shot down 116 German planes in two days of fighting in the Caucasus, where German dispatches said the Red army had launched an "expected large-scale attack" in an effort to throw the Nazis into the Black sea.

A Moscow broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor said the Russians lost 45 aircraft during operations Wednesday and yesterday, but the Soviets remained silent about any land offensive in the Caucasus.

For the first time in days Moscow's midnight bulletin did not even mention the Kuban area, although a Russian broadcast later told of the intense air struggle there.

Our Greatest Enemy: Accident

There are some startling facts in that new booklet concerning accidents on the farm and home front. The "Safety Guide" says flatly that the accident is still our greatest enemy. "Accidents in 1941 took the lives of 102,500 Americans, more than twice the number of Americans killed in the first World War, and made 350,000 permanent cripples, with an estimated cost of four billion dollars."

The manpower lost would have built 23,000 Flying Fortresses, made 69 battleships, or produced more than our annual wheat crop.

These statistics are a ghastly reminder that American are still careless; that while we are working night and day to perfect methods of hospitalization, we are doing little as individuals to prevent home-front accidents. The sad thing is that 90 percent of today's accidents—even those of the "And Sudden Death" type—are caused by individual laxity or irresponsibility and not by circumstance. They are not the result of fate, but of downright carelessness.

The following poem, contained in the booklet, should be memorized and remembered by every American. It is entitled "He Forgot."

He brushed his teeth twice a day.
The doctor examined him twice a year.
He wore rubbers when it rained.
He slept with the windows open.
He stuck to a diet with plenty of fresh vegetables.
He relinquished his tonsils and traded in several wornout glands.
He golfed, but never more than 18 holes.
He never smoked, drank, or lost his temper.
He did his daily dozen daily.
He got at least eight hours' sleep every night.

The funeral will be held next Wednesday. He is survived by 18 specialists, 4 health institutes, 6 gymnasiums, and numerous manufacturers of health foods and antiseptics. He had forgotten about trains at grade crossings!

OWI Film Repetition

The OWI and various other governmental agencies have been making many educational movie shorts for theaters all over the country. Most of them are well produced and are of benefit to the general public.

However, not enough care is taken in distributing them to the theaters. Many theaters that show first-run pictures also feature the same government film at the same time. For a local example—a person that attends several different Iowa City theaters each weekend will often see the same OWI film twice.

Surely the government agencies make enough of the films to allow more careful distribution throughout the United States.

John Garfield Wanted to Attract Attention—

Problem Child Hits Spotlight

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"I went into the theater to attract attention." Thus spake John Garfield, whose story has special significance in this era of growing delinquency in children.

Garfield was a "problem child." Perhaps it was his fault. Perhaps not. Let's look at the record: He was born as Jules Garfinkle in the maelstrom of New York's East Side. It was a tough world for a child, full of dirt, poverty and fear, particularly tough for a motherless boy whose father, a cantor, was busy. He had to use physical strength to rise in that world, to become unusual.

The battles were bloody. When he laid out his opponents, he got his reward. "I was known as a tough mug," Garfield says now. "I had the spotlight."

He might have continued to be a tough mug had not two things happened. One was seeing a stumble-bum, when his sole desire was to be a prize-fighter. The picture wasn't pretty.

And then Jules Garfinkle discovered that he loved the theater. When he was 15, he decided it was his career.

His first engagement was with a semi-professional repertory bunch off Broadway. His first play was "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Interpreting the War News

Stilwell's Visit to Washington Means Trouble for the Japs

By GLENN BABB

The presence of Generals Stilwell and Chennault in Washington means nothing good for Japan. It may mean the early implementation of President Roosevelt's promise after his return from Casablanca that "important actions will be taken in the skies over China—and over Japan itself."

Whatever the specific reasons for this journey halfway around the globe of the American commanders at grips with the enemy in the theater nearest his homeland, there is no doubt that it will intensify his fears of new blows against Tokyo and the rest of his home islands. This probably will mean feverish attempts by the Japanese command to anticipate or prevent such assaults. These may take the form of new offensives in east-central China such as that of last summer.

Generalissimo Chiang's announcement that the Japanese "slaughtered every man, woman and child" in areas in which some of the fliers who bombed Tokyo in 1942 landed supplies the missing pieces in the jigsaw puzzle of the 100-day campaign the Japanese waged in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces. This was part of the savage reaction which led to the execution of some of the American fliers who fell into Japanese hands.

The purpose of that campaign was something of a mystery at the time. There was some Japanese talk of cutting a swathe through southeast China which would permit establishment of an all-rail route from Shanghai to Singapore. The enemy captured the first link in this projected route and then, somewhat inexplicably, withdrew virtually to his original positions. For a campaign which cost some 50,000 Japanese casualties he had apparently nothing to show.

Subsequent events, however, have indicated strongly that the entire operation was motivated by a desire to get revenge for the Tokyo raid and prevent a repetition. The latter purpose fits with a fundamental principle of Japanese strategy in this war: to keep the big American bombers as far as possible from the land of the Rising Sun. It was pursued in two ways, by attempting to seize and destroy all bases from which American planes might operate and by using frightfulness against the hapless Chinese population, hoping this would terrorize them out of any further inclination to aid the Americans.

We can only guess at the mission of Generals Stilwell and Chennault, but it is reasonable to assume that they are reporting to the president and the high command on the opportunities and perils of the China situation as they see them. The opportunities, of course, are those which would be opened up by concentration of enough American aircraft to clear the China skies of the enemy and reach out against the concentrated and vulnerable war industry areas of southeastern Japan, if not the capital. General Chennault doubtless will make out a strong case for this.

Chief of the dangers is that of leaving China too long to stand alone against the formidable continental armies of Japan. There is the danger of taking China's continued resistance, now approaching the end of its sixth year, too much for granted, as a constant factor in the war situation. Japan maintains half a million men in China and as many more in Manchuria. There is always the possibility that the Japanese command will decide that its strategic situation calls for an all out attempt to destroy Chiang Kai-Shek's armies before allied aid can arrive. The fact that China has stood for five and three-quarters years is no insurance that such an attempt would not succeed if pushed to the hilt. And the united nations have not made even a beginning at restoration of the route through Burma by which they might come to China's rescue.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

One World—But Take Another Look at It

WASHINGTON—This is one world all right—but take another look at it behind the news of the day.

This war started when Germany attacked Poland, Sept. 1, 1939, and 15 days later, Russian troops crossed Poland's border cancelling Soviet-Polish treaties. Indignation in this country ran high against both Germany and Russia.

Three months later, on Nov. 28, the Soviet government renounced its non-aggression pact (1932) with Finland, and, two days later, invaded that country. Popular American opinion against Russia hit such heights that we collected millions of dollars of our good money to aid the Finns against the Russians. Anyone in our country who did not contribute was an enemy of democracy.

These almost unanimous public beliefs of ours prevailed for nearly two years when Hitler suddenly (June 21, 1941) turned on Russia. All our thinking switched diametrically.

Little Finland began to fight back against Russia, but we no longer considered her as a valiant democratic nation fighting against aggression. Her fight was the same, but this time, we looked on her as a tool of the Nazis.

Indeed, events drew us the whole way around and soon we found ourselves also fighting on the side of Russia, contributing billions to her cause.

Only last week, we withdrew most of our embassy from Finland, presumably because she would not make peace with Russia. We could not afford to be aiding an enemy of our new ally.

All the while, we harbored the exiled Polish government which had been crushed by the Nazis and invaded by the Soviets. But this week when that Polish government demanded a Red Cross investigation of Polish murders, our Soviet ally practically declared itself about these people in our midst by withdrawing diplomatic recognition. The Kremlin acted quickly, without consultation.

This act seemed a shock to us, but in view of the above history, it was logical and natural. The only reason it appeared to us as a shock was because we had nationally deluded ourselves into false assumptions.

Everyone with an eye clearly focused could see from the start that Russia was in this war because the double-dealing Hitler had invaded her homeland, and that this homeland was what she was fighting for—not primarily to defend democracy or a new world democratic federation, or a quart of milk a day, not for the four freedoms, certainly not our conception of them as far as Finland and Poland are concerned.

Our swiftly changing publicity promoters, however, have tried to make some propaganda mesh out of the necessities which brought us and Britain into the war on the same side and to dovetail our ideals and our purposes. They did it so enthusiastically that they got us to believing that everyone on our side looked at this war as the average American man in the street.

DEVELOPING THEIR DUET

John Selby Reviews New Books—

"Lee's Lieutenants: Cedar Mountain to Chancellorsville," by Douglas Southall Freeman (Scribner's; $5).

The grandeur of the concept under which Douglas Southall Freeman is publishing the successive volumes of "Lee's Lieutenants" grows even more apparent in the second installment, published this month. This covers the period from Cedar Mountain to Chancellorsville—that is, the period from August, 1862, through May, 1863.

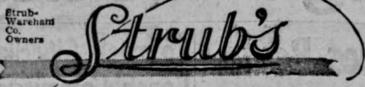

To produce this really great work, Dr. Freeman has had to do two things which approach the impossible. After completing the definitive biography of R. E. Lee, he has had to put aside all the adjustments, which, through 15 or 20 years, ruled him almost exclusively. That is not easy; but what came next must have been more difficult. For then he had to assemble and align a wholly new series of adjustments to the same period and largely the same material. He had to reject a given incident, now, for the very reason he used it in "R. E. Lee."

Dr. Freeman drives himself implacably, as is well known, and he has done the foregoing and many other things superbly in "Lee's Lieutenants." The current volume, for example, takes up the Army of Northern Virginia when the question in all minds was simply, and practically, whether Lee would do a better job with it than had Joseph E. Johnston. What Lee did was told from his side of the fence some time ago; now Dr. Freeman shows us what A. P. Hill did, and "Stonewall" Jackson, and dozens of others. He shows how the major problem of the army was that of finding men of capacity to command it, and how after Chancellorsville and the loss of Jackson this problem became acute in all departments.

Since the period of this second volume is also the period of Jackson's major effort, the book is in a sense a military biography of that puzzling, contradictory, inspiring and at the same time cold man. But Dr. Freeman clusters at his side and behind him all the others who achieved command in the army at this period, and moves the lot of them forward through 10 months that really did shake the world. The material is first rate, and the use made of it uniquely intelligent.

"Chicken Every Sunday," by Rosemary Taylor (Whitlsey; $2.75).
Rosemary Taylor's "Chicken Every Sunday" is about a woman who just loved to keep boarders, and such women do exist because I once knew one in the flesh.

"Chicken Every Sunday" tells of Rosemary Taylor's mother. It seems that when the Taylors were married there was not too much money and one day Papa came home to find his bed rented, and himself forced to curl up on a mattress on the floor. He didn't like it, which was of no importance whatever; his wife did. From that time on, only a few months in the summer (and not always these) found the Taylor house free of strangers. Mother T. charged very high rates, gave good food, absorbed the boarders into her family and pumped her own vitality into their crackling veins. It was a kind of skin game—Mother T. really was taking pay for something she loved.

Hawkeyes Open Final Series at Chicago Today

Iowans Meet Chicago There

Smith Takes Mound Duty Today; Kenney To Pitch Tomorrow

This afternoon Iowa's Hawkeyes meet Chicago's Maroons in the Hawks' second-to-the-last game and Chicago's opening league tilt of the season. The Iowa squad, minus No. 1 pitcher Roy Stille, was warned by Coach Waddy Davis yesterday to be prepared to meet considerable opposition from its final opponents.

Coach Davis said that Max Smith, relief pitcher earlier in the season, will hurl today and Jack Kenney will take the mound tomorrow. A sophomore, Smith has pitched a total of 12 innings in five games, allowing 7 hits and 4 runs, striking out 9 and issuing no walks.

Chicago dropped five of its seven non-conference games and since has lost four regulars to the army, but the Iowans also have lost Stille, pitcher, and Tom Farmer, leading batter and steady second baseman.

Since 1938, the Hawkeyes have won ten straight games from Chicago, most of them one-sided. Last year's co-championship team, however, barely nosed out the Maroons, 1-0. Three veterans are playing for Chicago this weekend, including Reynolds, an experienced hurler.

With their championship hopes gone, the best the Hawks can now obtain is a high spot in the first division, if they can finish with a 6-4 record by defeating Chicago twice. Since Indiana has cancelled its schedule, five other teams will play only eight games, leaving Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin as the 10-game teams.

Hawkeye hitting fell off in the last two series and now stands at .253, as compared to opponents' .229. Iowans have collected 87 hits and 52 runs, while foes have 83 hits and 53 runs, but the Hawks have so far made 33 errors to opponents' 22.

KLEENITE, the modern "plate-bath" makes your false teeth feel and look like new—so completely removes scum-like film and offensive denture odors, that never again will you be satisfied with the old-fashioned brushing method.

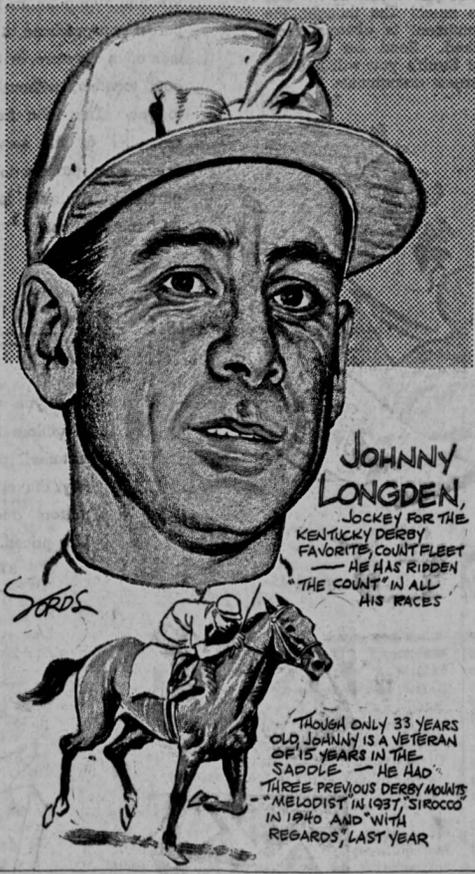

To keep your false teeth clean and sparkling bright, just put them in a glass of water with a little KLEENITE and note the amazing difference.

Don't risk wearing down those delicate ridges that hold your plates in place! Brushing and scrubbing with make-shift cleaners may wear down those ridges and ruin the fit. You can't have peace and comfort with plates that wobble and slip.

Why not see your dentist today and begin to enjoy the comfort and cleanliness of the delightfully different "plate-bath" method? Money back if not delighted.

Cards Defeat Cubs 4 to 3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The 1942 model "live" baseball was used at Sportsman's park yesterday, but it wasn't until the ninth inning the world champion Cardinals really became acquainted with it. They tied their game with the Chicago Cubs at 3-all then and went on to win in the twelfth, 4 to 3.

Ray Sanders' only hit of the game scored Lou Klein from second base for the winning tally after two were out. Joe Demaree started the inning by flying out. Jimmy Brown singled but was forced by Klein. Stan Musial's single advanced him to second, and the stage was set for Sanders' game-winning bingle.

The Cardinals had gone into the ninth very much under the thumb of Rookie Ed Hanyzewski, trailing, 3 to 1. Ken O'Dea was safe on Len Merullo's fumble. Coney Mahager Billy Southworth sent in fleet Johnny Hopp to run for O'Dea and Harry Walker pounded out a double with Hopp stopping at third. George Kurovski grounded out, but again Southworth resorted to strategy.

He sent Coaker Triplett to the plate in place of George Fallon and was rewarded by a hot single to left field on the first pitch, scoring both runners to tie up the ball game.

Tigers Take Second Successive Victory Over Browns, 3 to 2

DETROIT (AP) — Virgil (Fire) Trucks, sophomore right-hander, pitched his second successive four-hitter yesterday to give the Detroit Tigers a 3 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns and a sweep of the curtailed two-game series.

The Tigers made good use of three hits off Lefty Al Hollingsworth, with Rookie Dick Wakefield driving home the winning run with a single in the sixth inning. Detroit clustered the other two hits in the fifth for two runs that erased Hollingsworth's early lead.

Don Gutteridge's fly drove in the first Brownie run in the third, and singles by Mike Chartak, Vern Stephens and Milt Byrnes produced another run in the fourth.

Svensden, Seahawk Star, Leaves Here

Detachment from the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school this week, for sea duty, of Lieut. (jg) George Svensden, marked a further dwindling of the personnel that made up the famous Seahawk football squad last fall. Svensden was center and acting captain of that squad. All cadets on that team have long since advanced to flight training and Svensden is the 16th of the 25 officers who saw play to be transferred.

Derby Trainers Have Fun Fearing 'Fleet'

By SID FEDER
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ten of the 11 trainers of hopefuls in tomorrow's Kentucky derby may be afraid of Count Fleet, but they're having a lot of laughs getting afraid.

This may not be the greatest collection of conditioners getting some ten or 12 horses ready for the 69th edition of the run for the roses, but they're having more fun out of it.

Naturally, big Don Cameron, the ex-University of California athlete, who has the pleasure of handling Count Fleet, is getting the chief share of the gags tossed at him. And just as naturally, he can crush them off because the shortest priced futures favorite in derby history is in a stall, protected by an eight-foot high wire enclosure in his barn.

This enclosure, incidentally, has provided the material for a couple of the better cracks. For instance, Jack Hodgins, the tall, gangling hardboot who trains Amber Light, walked over to Don's barn shortly after the Count arrived.

"Hey," he hollered in welcome, half the length of the stable, "why don't you get some canaries and put 'em in that cage. Then we'd have some music around here."

And Walter Kelly, the red-headed New Yorker, who still has some hope for his Blue Swords, looked over the wire enclosure and promised:

"If my boss wins Saturday, I won't even wait for the presentation ceremonies. I'm going to cut right across the infield, rip that cage off the Count's stall and put it up in front of Blue Swords."

Pre-Flight Gridders Begin Spring Drills

Former College Stars Dot Squad Lineups; Competition Fiercer

Football, in season throughout the year at the Navy Pre-Flight school by virtue of its place on the instructional program for naval aviation cadets here, again is holding forth at the top of the spring competitive sports program.

The first round of play among the pre-flight school's 12 squadron teams, completed this week, saw outstanding school and college coaches of other years working harder in competition even fiercer than that they once knew in crowded stadiums.

Teams coached by Lieut. (jg) Ben Douglas, Ens. Forest Evashevski, Lieut. (jg) Dwight Hoover and Lieut. (jg) Fred Furoot survived the first round undefeated although a team coached by Lieut. Denny Myers stood out in giving Lieut. (jg) Dick Fisher's squad its first defeat with the largest score of the young season, 31-0. Myers' team, however, suffered a "Holy Cross" upset in its first engagement at the hands of Evashevski's squad.

Pirates Bow To Reds, 6-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnny Vandermeer pitched six hit ball for his second victory of the year yesterday as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1 in the closing game of their series.

The Reds' ace southpaw was in rare form and had a shutout until the ninth when Bob Elliott lined out a double and scored on singles by Vince DiMaggio and Pete Coscarat.

Hank Gornicki, the Bucs' starting pitcher, was driven from the box in the fifth inning when the visitors punched over four runs.

football dot the lineups of each squad, but little more than high school or college freshman experience is the typical background of the 350 men engaged in the spring sports program on the gridiron.

Cormack, City High Coach, Commissioned Lieutenant in Navy

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Herb Cormack, football coach at Iowa City high school, was one of a group of men sworn in yesterday as officers in the United States naval reserve. Commissioned as a lieutenant, he will report to the Navy Pre-Flight school at Chapel Hill, N. C., on May 27 for indoctrination.

Girl Scouts Plan Campaign

I.C. Group to Collect Waste Salvage Fats in First Drive Today

Final instructions to the Girl Scout salvage committee were issued yesterday to all participating in the first Girl Scout fats collection which will be held in Iowa City this afternoon from 4 to 6 and tomorrow morning from 8 to 12.

Regular collections will be made the last week of every month by the Scouts and every woman is urged to turn in any amount she has and in any size can.

Collection centers will be at the homes of Mrs. A. H. Scanlon, 220 Lexington avenue; Mrs. Earl English, 309 Sunset road; Mrs. William Holland, 325 Melrose court; Mrs. George Hall, 804 Hudson avenue; Mrs. Edna Lee, 503 S. Capitol street; Mrs. E. C. Roeder, 725 Walnut street; Mrs. Rena Slager, 748 Rundell street; Mrs. V. W. Bales, 430 S. Dodge street; Mrs. Walter Murray, 927 E. College street; Mrs. Evans Worthley, 10 S. Gilbert street; Mrs. Frank Burger, 629 Brown street, and Mrs. W. J. Holub, 312 N. Johnson street.

Instructions

Mrs. Verne Bales, women's salvage chairman, issued the following instructions to the Girl Scouts for collecting the waste fats:

1. Call at every home in your block. If the women are not at home Friday between 4 and 6, go again Saturday before noon. The cans of fats are all to be at the collection centers by noon Saturday.
2. If the woman has no fats collected, ask her if you may call again the last week of May for whatever amount she may collect during the month.
3. If you are asked for money for the fats, explain that the pay goes into a general fund in the Girl Scout office from where each troop will be given the money for the fats that the troop collects. The money will be used for troop equipment and troop activities.
4. Accept any amount of fats and any size can the woman may have, taking can and all. Do not try to scrape fats into a larger can.
5. If you have a wagon or basket for carrying the cans to the center nearest you, it will make your work much easier and prevent getting grease on your clothes.
6. Do not pick up any salvage besides fats. Hose and tin cans are not wanted in this drive. Ask women to take their hose to the stores and save any tin cans they have prepared for the tin can drive that will be held within the next few weeks.
7. Cut out the list of women's names and addresses at the collection centers. Take your fats to whatever home your territory is nearest.

Householders

The following instructions are issued to the householders donating waste fats to the Girl Scout collectors:

1. Have fats rendered, strained and chilled in tin cans ready for the girls to take. Any size can or any amount of fat can be donated.
2. Do not leave fats on the porch where dogs might upset them. If you cannot be home, ask your block leader for the name of the scout covering your block, then make arrangements with the scout to pick it up before Saturday morning.
3. If you do not yet know your block leader's name call the office of civilian defense.
4. If you are now taking your waste fats to your meat dealer yourself, ask the scout to cross your name off her regular route.
5. Do not expect money from the scouts for the fats.
6. Please do not ask the girls to take any other kind of salvage than fats on this drive.
7. Give the fats in cans and do not ask the scouts to empty the cans.
8. Report to your block leader by 11 o'clock Saturday if you have been missed by the collectors.
