U. S. Coal Mining Halted

Expiration of Work Contracts Between UMW, Mine Owners Paralyzes Virtually All Fields

NEW YORK (AP)—Mining of coal in the United States—both in the bituminous and the anthracite fields—virtually stopped at midnight last night, with the expiration of work contracts between operators and the United Mine Workers of America.

It was a stoppage which, if eventually 100 percent effective would strike at the very vitals of the production of essential war materials.

It came after nearly two months' negotiations had failed to produce an agreement in the bituminous field for a $2 daily increase in pay and portal to portal system of payment, and after a month of unsuccessful conferences over a new anthracite agreement bearing much the same demands by the miners.

It was estimated by miners and operators alike here that no more than 20,000 workmen in both coalfields were immediately affected, because of the comparatively few night shifts.

But those who did throw down their tools and walk out joined some 100,000 other bituminous, or soft coal, workers who began leaving their underground jobs several days ago. There had been no reports of anthracite miners quitting before the expiration of the contract.

Expiration of the work agreement left approximately 85 percent of the nation's bituminous coal mines without a union contract, with 15 percent west of the Mississippi river still operative under a separate work paper.

Anthracite Mines Included

All of the anthracite mines, situated in Pennsylvania, were included in the contract with the operators of those fields, which expired at midnight.

There was no official strike call issued by John L. Lewis, international president of the mine workers' union. The stoppages merely carried out his oft-repeated statement that the workers would not "trespass" on coal property without a contract.

Revised figures from Washington fixed the number of bituminous miners at 409,000, and the number of anthracite miners at 74,000.

Lewis had until ten o'clock this morning to get the bituminous coal miners back to work before he had officially violated President Roosevelt's order that the men be on their jobs at that time or the latter would "use all the power vested in me as president and as commander-in-chief of the army and navy to protect the national interest."

The anthracite situation went before the war labor board last night. The board directed that work proceed despite the expiration of the contract and that negotiations continue. The representatives of each side already had agreed to a negotiations meeting today but each said it expected no miner to be at work.

First Report

One of the first reports of failure of bituminous miners to report for work last night came from Johnstown, Pa., where no 9:30 p. m. shift was on hand at the Revloc mine of the Monroe Coal company. The mine employs a total of 950 men.

From Lansford, Pa., came word that the Panther Valley miners committee, representing 5,000 miners in UMW District 7 voted to suspend work until ordered by Lewis to return. Miners said the 6 a. m. shift today would not report at the pits.

Earlier 1,200 workers at the Susquehanna Collieries company No. 6 mine at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., struck to protest a local grievance.

Axis Counter-Offensive Appears Imminent In Bloodiest Fighting Since Allied Drive Began

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Axis defensive smashes reached the proportions of a counter-offensive yesterday as enemy tanks and infantry were flung against recently captured allied positions all along the front.

The fighting rose to the bloodiest pitch since the British, Americans and French began their all-front drive to throw the enemy into the sea.

Before the strongest of all axis counterattacks—against the Djebel Bou Aoukaz overlooking the open plain leading down to Tunis—the British First army was beating back strongly from generally maintained positions.

To the north the Americans made slight gains, although forced to fight off unending enemy counter-thrusts.

Dispatches from the field put one American force, fighting alongside the French, within three miles of Lake Achkel and within 20 airline miles south-west of Bizerte itself. This was in the Sedjenane valley.

Another French force, beating forward upon Bizerte along the Mediterranean coast, advanced 2½ miles to the Djebel touro to a point about 22 miles west of Bizerte. To the south French troops operating below Pont du Fahs captured the 1,712-foot Djebel Derhaffa.

Stalin Foresees 2nd Front on Continent

Red Premier Scoffs At Hints of Peace Talk With Germany

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—Premier Joseph Stalin in a May day order of the day declared that shattering air blows by the Americans and British in the west foreshadowed the opening of a second front in Europe, and he ridiculed any Hitler peace talk.

He ruled out compromise by reiterating the words of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in calling for the "unconditional surrender" of the axis.

"It is now clear that only the utter routing of the Hitlerite armies and the unconditional surrender of Hitlerite Germany can bring peace to Europe," Stalin said.

He praised the allied air blows against Germany and Italy in the west, and the allied ground gains in Africa, and said those factors combined with the Red army's winter successes had placed Germany in a critical position.

"It is clear that it is not because things are going well with us that the Germans are babbling about peace," he said.

"The babble about peace in Fascist camps indicates only that they are going through a great crisis.

"But of what kind of peace can one talk with the imperialist bandits from the German Fascist camp who have drowned Europe in blood and studded it with gallows?"

"It is now clear that only the utter routing of the Hitlerite armies, and the unconditional surrender of Hitlerite Germany can bring peace to Europe."

Hull Denounces Vichy Contacts in Severing Martinique Relations

Navy Watching Island; French Plane Carrier, Cruisers Immobilized

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has broken off relations with Martinique and our navy is watching developments in the island territory—only segment of the once-vast French colonial empire which is not under the axis heel and yet remains aloof from the war.

Secretary of the Navy Knox, speaking late yesterday several hours after Secretary Hull had announced the abrogation of informal agreements with Martinique, declined to indicate what the next American move would be, but observed:

"We have representatives right there in Martinique."

Knox explained there is no special patrol of American warships around the island, but that Martinique lies amid America's Caribbean defenses, where ships and planes constantly operate.

Secretary Hull, in a blistering note to the French high commissioner, Admiral Georges Robert, said the United States will not continue to "recognize or negotiate with any French representative in the Antilles who remains subservient or maintains contact with the Vichy regime" in France, which he denounced as "now an integral part of the Nazi system."

Knox said no reply had been received to Hull's note. He said that the French warships at the island—the aircraft carrier Bearn and the cruiser Emile Bertin and also the training cruiser Jeanne D'Arc at Guadeloupe—had been immobilized and demilitarized in accordance with agreements made by Robert about a year ago.

THE MAP FACE of this clock dial gives a graphic idea of the effectiveness and wide range of the round-the-clock bombings to which the American, British and Russian air forces are subjecting the war industry of Germany and her vassal states. With the allies striking from the skies at different targets daily, the hard-pressed Luftwaffe can put up, at best, only a hasty defense.

WLB Orders Coal Mining to Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war labor board last night ordered that anthracite production continue without interruption while the wage dispute between the United Mine Workers and the operators is resolved by the board.

Soon after Secretary of Labor Perkins had certified the case to the board, saying a strike was threatened, Chairman William H. Davis sent the following telegram to union officers and representatives of the operators:

"The national war labor board by unanimous resolution has directed me to communicate to you the following directive order:

"The national war labor board, by virtue of, and pursuant to the powers vested in it by executive order No. 9017 of Jan. 12, 1942, hereby orders that the parties continue the uninterrupted production of coal under the contract terms and conditions that existed on and prior to April 30, 1943, until the differences that now separate the parties are peacefully and finally resolved. With the understanding that if the new agreement includes any wage adjustments such adjustments shall be computed and applied retroactively from April 30, 1943."

Labor board sources indicated that a reply in the negative or an actual walkout by the miners would be followed by immediate action to send the case to the White House.

Holland Government Pleads for Resistance To Nazi Internment

LONDON (AP)—Four hundred thousand Dutch soldiers, ordered interned by German occupation authorities in Holland, were told by the Netherlands government in London yesterday to resist the Nazi decree by making themselves "unfindable."

Swiss dispatches said that the roundup of the disarmed Dutch forces already had started and that 18,500 had been arrested and sent to 14 concentration camps near the German border.

Over Radio Orange, the official Netherlands station, the government advised the men to hide if possible.

"Don't register," they were told. "Keep quiet. Disregard all orders and decrees. This is the advice the Netherlands government gives you. Disregard summonses. Try to make yourselves unfindable."

Jap Patrol Destroyed In Attempted Escape

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Japanese patrol of one officer and eight men attempting to escape from Guadalcanal island in the south Pacific was intercepted and destroyed by American troops Wednesday, the navy reported yesterday.

A communique, relating this incident, told also of continuing aerial attacks from Guadalcanal against Japanese bases in the Solomon Islands with destruction wrought on anti-aircraft positions, piers, runways and the like.

Interception of the enemy patrol in the vicinity of Beaufort bay, 25 field, resulted in the first reported land skirmish in many weeks on the once embattled island. What the Japanese patrol was doing on Guadalcanal was not disclosed.

Polish Government Drops Protest Against Russia

LONDON (AP)—The Polish government-in-exile said in an official statement yesterday that its request for an investigation by the International Red Cross into German charges that Russia had killed 10,000 Polish officers near Smolensk now was regarded "as having lapsed."

The announcement was welcomed immediately in some diplomatic circles here as an indication that the question of an inquiry was not to be pursued, and would aid efforts to mend broken Soviet-Polish diplomatic relations.

Japs Open Sub Attack

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Saturday (AP)—The Japanese have opened a submarine attack in force to the east of Australia, the high command reported today in its noon communique.

Bomb Mailed Radio Priest

NUTLEY, N. J. (AP)—Postoffice employes found in the mails yesterday what Newark Detective Captain Frank O'Neill called "a scare bomb" addressed to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin at Royal Oak, Mich.

O'Neill, a bomb expert, fired several rounds of machine gun bullets into it, but it failed to explode. Inside were a clock work, ground glass, a powder not yet analyzed and a nine-page letter not made public.

Father Coughlin is the nationally known priest of the Royal Oak parish, "Shrine of the Little Flower." He was last in the news about a year ago when postal authorities suspended mailing privileges of the magazine, "Social Justice," on the grounds it contained subversive statements.

A ticking sound led to discovery of the bomb. The package was described as similar in size and shape to a shoe box.

Two Professors Leave For Service in Navy

Prof. Alden F. Megrew of the art department and Prof. Dewey B. Stuit of the psychology department have been granted leave of absence from the university for service in the United States navy.

Professor Megrew, history of art instructor in the university art department for the past three years, left yesterday for the University of Ohio in Columbus for two months' training at the recognition school there. Commissioned a lieutenant (j.g.) he will be on leave of absence for the duration of the war. Professor Megrew helped organize the War Art Workshop here.

Professor Stuit, a member of the faculty for the past five years, has been granted a year's leave of absence. Commissioned a lieutenant (j.g.), he will report Monday at the navy midshipman school at Columbia university.

After completion of this training, which may vary from 30 to 60 days, Professor Stuit will take part in the planning of the naval college training program, which is to be established July 1 in various colleges throughout the country.

The program which will be set up is to train men as engineers and doctors as well as deck officers. The system of instruction for these men will not be unlike that of the pre-meteorologists in training at the University of Iowa.

Sweden Protests Soviet Bombs Hitting Island

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A Swedish communique said last night that bombs which were dropped early Thursday on the island of Verkoen near the Swedish naval base of Karlskrona apparently were of Russian origin and that a formal protest had been made to the Soviet government.

OPA Makes Major Meat Point Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Round steak got a higher point value than porterhouse and sirloin yesterday in a revision of meat ration values marked also by lower point costs for spareribs, brains, and tongue.

The changes, first major ones the office of price administration has made since meat rationing was instituted, are effective Sunday. In general, they are intended to encourage purchase of items which are most plentiful and discourage buying of those which are short.

Only one change of importance was made in the values of fats which are rationed with meats. This cut the point cost of salad and cooking oils from 6 to 5 points a pint, or pound.

Under the new values, a pound of round steak will require 9 points while sirloin and porterhouse will continue to call for only 8. Loin pork roasts, center pork chops and beef flank steaks also were advanced from 8 to 9 points and round tip beef roasts and veal sirloin from 7 to 8.

To encourage more buying of pork spareribs, they were reduced from 4 to 3 points as were beef and lamb sweetbreads. Brains, both beef and lamb, were cut from 3 to 2 points and so was tripe.

Among canned meats, brains were reduced from 3 to 2 points, and bulk sausage, meat loaf and Vienna sausage from 7 to 6. Caviar and fish roe were dropped from 7 to 3, and canned sea mussels from 7 to 1.

Galvin Leaves; Major Hubbard Will Fill Post

Capt. John P. Galvin, commanding officer of the pre-meteorology school here, is leaving Iowa City for a new assignment, it was announced yesterday. He will be succeeded by Maj. Clyde W. Hubbard, former head football coach and director of athletics at Denver university, who has been transferred here from basic training center No. 5 at Kearns, Utah.

Captain Galvin has served as commanding officer at the school since it was started here in March. His duties have included the general organization of the school, transportation, intelligence, public relations, finance, life insurance and others.

Since his enlistment in the armed service in 1916, he has been active duty both on foreign soil and in this nation. His 27 years of service as a professional soldier have taken him to such countries as France, Germany, Panama, Hawaii and the Philippines.

He entered the air corps in 1928, after which he was promoted to the rank of master sergeant.

From November, 1941, to June, 1942, Captain Galvin served as administrative inspector at Lowry field in Denver, Col. Prior to his coming to Iowa City he was commanding officer of the National School of Aeronautics in Kansas City, Mo.

Prentiss Brown Says Cost of Living, Wage Increases Still Even

WASHINGTON (AP)—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, reiterating the administration's hold-the-line policy, promised last night to lower excessive prices in an extension of price control "across the board," and told the nation's coal miners they "can not better their position in a race between wages and the cost of living."

Brown spoke over the Mutual network as a wave of walkouts hit the vast bituminous fields east of the Mississippi, and he declared: "Your government needs your support in this critical hour."

His speech was evidence anew that the administration was standing by President Roosevelt's ultimatum that he would act unless the coal stoppages ceased by 10 a. m. today.

Reds Throw 150,000 Men in New Drive On Caucasus Front

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—Russian troops once more on the move in the northwestern Caucasus early today to have captured "several key enemy positions" in a plane-supported drive which the Germans said was another big Red army offensive in which 150,000 men were attacking.

Soviet aircraft supported the operation of land units and "inflicted heavy losses on the enemy," added the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor. "Our assault (Stormovik) planes destroyed several dozen guns and over a battalion of German infantry."

Although the Russian bulletin gave few details of the fighting, Moscow dispatches said that the Russian capital was astir with expectation of great military developments.

Two days ago the Germans reported that a large-scale Russian drive was under way in an effort to eject axis troops from their last major foothold in the area around the Black sea port of Novorossisk and the Kuban river valley in the Taman peninsula to the north.

Russian reticence is customary whenever big operations are beginning, but the Moscow radio announced early yesterday morning that Soviet airmen fighting over the Caucasus had shot down 116 German planes in two days, and the latest bulletin also told of the sinking by the Red navy of a German transport in the Black sea.

Russian troops by German admission last were reported entrenched in the hills overlooking Novorossisk. The Russians also had fought their way along the Taman peninsula to the north to a point 25 miles from German-held Temryuk on the Sea of Azov.

The midnight communique reported action also on the north coast of the Sea of Azov west of Rostov where the Russians were stopped close to Taganrog in their winter offensive.

Claim Capture of Key Spots as Planes Destroy Nazi Battalion, Guns

Raid on Japs Hint at Future

By CHARLES F. ARNOT
 WITH A U. S. ARMY AERIAL TASK FORCE IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC, April 24—(Delayed) (AP)—Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, commander of the Seventh Air Force, studied a map of the central Pacific combat zone today and promised that this week's heavy American bomber assaults on Japan's outlying bases of Nauru and Tarawa were merely a "warm-up" for the forthcoming blows against the enemy strongholds guarding the main avenue to the Japanese empire.

"It is no secret that these raids were the prelude of offensive action in the big central Pacific area," he declared as he sat in the headquarters of this advanced operational base.

"Why tell the Japs when they are going to be hit? I can only say at this time that the blows are coming."

General Hale then disclosed that the forthcoming operations, like the recent raids, will be in the nature of guerrilla-style aerial warfare: striking the enemy suddenly where he least expects to be hit and then striking again.

"Right now we are building up to a campaign that will bring either repeated small raids or large concentrated attacks, whichever we consider more effective. Larger bombs, possibly two or four-ton blockbusters such as now are used in Europe, may be pressed into service later against appropriate targets."

Controlling the Straits—

The next steps in the allied campaign to gain complete control of the straits of Sicily need not necessarily await final liquidation of axis forces in Tunisia. The Germans and Italians now occupy a comparatively small corner of north Africa and it is only a matter of time until they surrender.

But relief of the straits would greatly alleviate the allied transport problem. They divide the Mediterranean like an hourglass, and it is obvious that a Mediterranean free to convoyed allied shipping would end the necessity for making the long haul around South Africa. The Near East and Middle East campaigns could proceed much faster. The southern coast of the continent of Europe would be exposed.

Malta has long been the British bastion of the mid-Mediterranean, resisting an unprecedented number of savage axis bombings. Now the allies also control Tripoli and Libya and Algeria, and they do not need to reduce Bizerte and Tunis, the only ports in Africa remaining to the axis, before they invade Sicily and Sardinia. Indeed, air attacks on those Italian islands and also on the great south Italian port of Naples occur with constantly stepped-up repetition. The 100 miles across the Sicilian straits should not be too difficult of passage for a coordinated allied attack, utilizing the increased naval power and the air dominance now available in that area.

The new American Fifth Army and the British First Army have scarcely been mused up in the north African operations to date. But General Patton's Second Army Corps, with the four American divisions already in action against the Nazis, and the great British Eighth Army should be able to shift sufficient experienced officers to direct these fresh troops intelligently and eagerly. General Eisenhower, moreover, has at his disposal General Alexander, who is technically General Montgomery's immediate superior and General Eisenhower's first assistant.

The original occupation of north Africa was a well-planned and well-executed three-dimensional effort. The impending campaign for the straits of Sicily should be just as effective.

Serf Farming—

Communism calls for what is known as collective farming. Under this plan, government buys or seizes farm land. It then sells or leases it to farmers. Usually the tenants, or perhaps buyers, are allowed a small tract of land for garden and pasture purposes, and are required to work the large tract, or collective farm, on a share basis, the collectivist colony taking some of the product and the government taking some for taxes or so-called payments on the land.

This plan was brought to the United States from Russia, where farmers were once slaves of large landowners, then tenants, and, after the Reds killed 3,000,000 landowning farmers and stole their land, slaves of the government. In about a century the Russian farmer has gone through the cycle of serfdom under the delusion that a change of oppressors is progress.

He did make some progress in education, health and, latterly, gained a share in whatever work he might do in excess of the communist average. He is now fighting to prevent himself from becoming the slave of an even more oppressive master, Adolf Hitler.

Collective farming has not worked well in the United States, fortunately. It is now under the care of the Farm Security Administration, which has poured millions into these communist experiments. The one in Arkansas, known as Plum Bayou Homesteads, is now said to be a wreck with only twenty-two of its ninety-six houses occupied.

Somehow the American farmer is never so poor that he must long surrender his independence and self respect to government agents seeking to rope him into what his forefathers fled Europe to escape. He detests slavery, whether the master wields a bull whip or an FSA loan.

G. Washington, Landlord—

Gen. George Washington had his troubles as a landlord, according to a letter which he wrote from White Plains, N. Y., dated August 15, 1778. General Washington said:

"I could wish you to press my tenants to be punctual in the payment of their rents, as the man who finds it difficult to pay one rent will find it infinitely more so to pay two, and his distresses multiply."

Without contending that Washington, were he alive today, would be a supporter of the pay-as-you-go system of taxation, it may be mentioned that it's certainly true of taxpayers as well as renters that "the man who finds it difficult to pay" one week's taxes will find it infinitely more difficult to pay thirteen weeks' levy, and "his distresses multiply."

And if General Washington were alive today and had to pay the current income tax rates, he would sue for slander the man who said that he once threw a silver dollar across the Potomac.

News Behind the News

Battle Over Hull's Trade Powers Will Be Loud and Furious

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—The administration had an inside deal all set with the Republicans to modify the Hull reciprocal trade powers in renewing them.

Within the house ways and means committee, the Democrats and Republicans got together on an amendment whereby congress would be allowed to exercise a veto power over Mr. Hull's tariff rates within 30 or 60 days after the state secretary makes them.

The bill renewing these powers was to go through whooping without anything more than normal Democratic-Republican arguments. But someone reneged. No doubt it was Mr. Hull.

There is reason to believe the Democratic leaders in the senate and house made a canvass indicating that they had a chance to put across their old program without giving congress any more say in the matter of tariffs than it now has.

The Democratic leaders were sure of the senate, less certain of the house, but judged their chances worth a try. Thereafter, Mr. Hull insisted more loudly than before that his powers be unrestrained and unimpaird.

As a result, the Democrats and Republicans in the committee resumed straight-out party warfare. After an executive session, the Republicans came out and announced they would propose several amendments, not only giving congress a 60-day veto power, but other holds on the administration's reciprocal trade policy. The battle from now on will be loud and furious.

Invasion Weather Is Here—

Invasion weather has opened in Europe. From mid-April to mid-October, the season is favorable to military operations along the great front from Norway southward.

This is an ominous (although not widely noted) fact in view of the repeated public statements by Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill that Europe would be invaded, not on one but on several fronts this year.

The particular spots for attack, as well as the time, are naturally secret, but, in general, the prospects are too obvious to be secrets. Invasion of Norway would break the Nazi hold on Scandinavia, free the pressure on Sweden, and limit Nazi supplies of fish and iron ore.

Invasion of Denmark could hardly be attempted until Norway was cleared. But Holland and Belgium offer shortest direct routes to the heart of Germany.

The Nazis have greatly improved the roads and concentrated reserves for shifting greater defensive powers to any point of invasion in those countries, and down the channel coast of France. Yet we can get air supremacy over invasion points there, and direct invasion is possible.

Invasion in the south also has been promised by the authorities. The final acquisition of Tunisia will, of course, give us the nearest air bases for invasion of Sicily and Italy. But it is apparent, earlier or simultaneous invasions could be attempted east of Italy, through Sardinia, against the southern coast of France—or from Tripoli and Bengasi bases into Greece and the Adriatic.

Allied Air Power Is Supreme—

Allied dominance of the air is what has made all observers so confident of swift final success in Tunisia. The Americans and British practically rule the air.

As Hitler has been unable to match them up to now, there is hardly a chance that he can do so hereafter, in view of the limited number, and tightly pressed position of the few airfields he theoretically controls around Tunis and Bizerte.

Americans are fighting in the toughest terrain in the north, unable to use armor because of the mountains. If we get Mateur, however, we might take Bizerte directly. But the two easier key entrances to both Tunis and Bizerte lie at Pont du Fahs and Tebourba.

Once the British and French crack these, the Germans should be sunk. If they can press on through these two points to Tunis, they will ease the task of the right flank of the Eighth British army in the mountains to the east and might even turn northward and take Bizerte in reverse before we can get there the shorter, harder way.

Most Bizerte fortifications face the sea. But the French (before the Nazis came) also erected a fortified sand dune line on hills southeast of the city to hinder such an operation.

Methods of attack used by the allies, however, suggest that the tightening noose is being pressed equally hard from all sides.

War to End After Elections?—

The only current prediction on the end of the war is being circulated by the financial seer, Roger Babson, who thinks it will last until after the elections in 1944.

THE DAGWOOD SPECIAL

That gastronomic epic, the Dagwood Special, coming up! Blondie and Dagwood—Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake—don't seem to agree on what constitutes a midnight snack. The "Blondie" series is a favorite on Columbia network.

Hitler Reviews Last Of Quisling Visitors

The sorry procession of the satellites and Quislings through Hitler's headquarters, symbolizing his mobilization of all the resources within his grasp for the summer's defense of his fortress of Europe, must be near its end. The last few visitors have come from the lower levels, Quisling himself, the Croat puppet and now Pierre Laval, instrument of France's enslavement.

The communique in which Berlin announced last night that Hitler had summoned the Frenchman was particularly revealing as to the purpose of these conferences. "In full objectivity," it read, "it was examined what share France will have to bear in the efforts and sacrifices made by the axis powers for the establishment of the new Europe and in the fight against bolshevism and against the Anglo-Saxon plutocracies allied with bolshevism, and what advantages will result from such participation for France."

In other words Laval was told what the contribution of unhappy France, greatest of the conquered nations, must be in the coming battle of Europe. Probably he was ordered to furnish further levies of labor, increased industrial output, food and what is left of French shipping.

It will be interesting to see whom else the Fuehrer may summon in this muster of his minions for the fight for survival, especially whether there will be an envoy of Spain, which sent a "blue legion" last year to fight Russia. Will Spain make a similar contribution now, when the "new Europe" is to be defended against the Anglo-Saxon plutocracies as well as bolshevism?

The 1943 defense against bolshevism may already be under way. The Germans insist that since Tuesday the Red army has been attacking with ten divisions in the western Caucasus, where the axis holds a narrow bridgehead around Novorossisk as insurance against a Russian offensive against the Crimea or a springboard for an offensive of its own.

Russia, celebrating May day, the festival of labor, faces the issue with confidence but without illusions. She knows she has at least one more terrible summer, third of this war, ahead.

"Not many days separate us from great events," said Izvestia, and the army paper declares that "the enemy will soon learn how our peoples' reserves have grown." The emphasis is on reserves. There is good reason to believe that while Hitler has been scouring Europe Stalin has been concentrating tremendous resources.

The bulk of the Red army has had two or three months to rest, refit and regroup since the titanic exertions of the winter. Although there was fierce fighting in March, with the Germans pressing a counteroffensive in the Ukraine, all indications are (See INTERPRETING, page 3)

THE BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY
"The Fifth Seal" by Mark Aldanov (translation by Nicholas Wredien); (Scribner's, $3).

Mark Aldanov's "The Fifth Seal" is the best novel I have read by a contemporary Russian in 10 years. It is also the best novel chosen by the Book-of-the-Month Club since LeGrand Cannon's "Look to the Mountain," and one of quite a different sort.

Novels of the "Quiet Flows the Don" type can be crashing bore for most of us, chiefly because they depend for credibility upon an understanding of ideology. A novel is people and what they do, primarily—secondarily only it is what people think. The prod stands on the English literature shelf of any library. It also may be seen by opening "The Fifth Seal."

Aldanov is not writing a "Soviet novel." That is, his reader does not look into the Soviet hierarchy to watch it work, but exists for a time inside a group of Russians as they go out into the non-Communist world. This makes all the difference in the world. The distinction is actually what has for years made the English novel the best novel. It happens that Aldanov is not a Communist; since the early 'twenties he has lived in Paris and written there, and now he is working in New York. But he is not out to cut the ground from under Soviet feet, merely to write about modern Russians in the same spirit he writes about modern Frenchmen.

He makes a curious and delightful effect of it all. The ambassador, his secretary, his entourage and his vain actress-wife are first met on a special railway car as it is drawn across Germany toward the kingdom to which the ambassador is accredited. Before the journey ends the party is known by the reader, and perfectly. More than that—it becomes obvious in what spirit each of the men and women is going to approach his new assignments, and a kind of framework is thus set up.

Then the "outsiders" are brought in; men like the chamberlain who soaks up everything he hears for his memoirs, and the French writer who at 69 years has revolutionary yearnings, but also a passion for such comforts as good wine and coffee brewed in those glass gadgets. Then, like a long and leisurely film, the pre-war attitudes of Europe pass by.

Prof. George Glockler Addresses Masons

Speaks on Relation Of Chemistry, War In Modern World

Chemistry in relation to the war was the subject of a talk by Prof. George Glockler, head of the chemistry department, to members of the Masonic organization at their noon meeting yesterday in the Masonic temple.

American chemists are at a distinct advantage because they began developing synthetic products before the war, the professor said. Now their chief problem is expansion. Although on a small scale, we had laboratories experimenting on synthetic rubber and octane gasoline before Pearl Harbor.

Synthetic Rubber Synthetic rubber could not compete with the natural product before the war because of the expense involved in its production. At the present time this artificial rubber is being given every opportunity to expand into a profitable business.

Other countries have developed certain types of synthetic rubber also. Germany has produced seven kinds, and Russia about four, continued Professor Glockler.

American chemists have been active in the production of light metals, also. This year, two billion pounds of aluminum, essential to plane manufacturing, have been produced.

By making special alloys of copper, our chemists have also helped war plants to eliminate danger from sparks. Tools made from these substances, which are extremely hard, do not chip and cause sparks.

O.E.S. Past Matrons Will Be Hostesses At Hospitality Club Hostesses for the Hospitality club this afternoon will be a group representing the Past Matrons club of the Order of Eastern Star.

Count Fleet Favored in Kentucky Derby Today

12 Three-Year-Olds Entered; Ocean Wave Second Choice

By SID FEDER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—This strangest of all Kentucky Derbies came up with a new wacky wrinkle yesterday as Count Fleet and 11 other three year olds were entered to run the mile and a quarter today for a necklace of roses worth $60,725.

Topping off such developments as a shadow of doubt surrounding the highly regarded Ocean Wave's chances of getting to the post and derbytown almost eerily empty of the usual mobs of noisy, jostling out-of-town celebrants, the new touch of confusion popped up yesterday when a "mysterious" entry blank showed up and then had to be "lost" again.

This was a blank made out in the name of Seven Hearts, the horse with the ailing foot from the barn of J. Graham Brown, local hotel man. When the entry box closed, only 12 horses were supposed to be nominated to start in the big waltz at traditional Churchill Downs at 5:30 p. m. (c.w.t.) today. Then, in the draw for post positions, the slip for "Mr. Double-and-Redouble" was discovered and after he drew a lane it was withdrawn again because his trainer didn't know a thing about it.

50,000 Expected

As if that wasn't enough to get the folks—some 50,000 of whom are expected to sit in on this "street car" derby—riding the merry-go-round again, Derbyville itself presented a picture that looked as much like the annual madhouse as Beethoven resembles jive.

Under its pledge to the war effort to have only fans from greater Louisville in for this year's shindig, the "downs" customary jam-session of 85,000 or 90,000 cash customers will be sliced almost in half. Food prices have been "frozen" so that you don't have to pay for a side of beef in order to buy a hamburger this year.

And most notable of all, there's not enough bourbon in town to make mint juleps to go 'round. Which comes under the head of "tragedy" for this tea-party.

Naturally, it is almost unanimously agreed that Count Fleet, a tall, rangy brown lightning streak carrying the canary and black silks of Mrs. John D. Hertz of the Chicago U-drive and yellow taxi-cab Hertzies, is a simple cake-walk for the big pot.

World-record maker at two, the Hertz hurricane was installed as the shortest priced future-book favorite in all derby history, and he has lived up to that ranking his two starts so far this spring, romping to two triumphs at Jamaica—one of them the Wood memorial—as easily as eating his oats. The result has been that his odds have dropped almost weekly, until they've hit rockbottom 1 to 2 right now.

Ocean Wave

Up to two weeks ago, there wasn't even an arm-chair handicapper brave enough to pick against him for today's May day brawl, but in the past 11 days, Ocean Wave has scored two red-hot wins right here on the derby home grounds in the Blue Grass Stakes and the derby trial mile. So, the "knock down the favorite" Marching and Chowder Club has been holding meetings and coming to the conclusion that maybe the Wave can sink the Fleet yet.

This is especially so since the husky chestnut son of Blenheim—who also sired Whirlaway, the Wave's stablemate in the barn of Warren Wright of Chicago—has the backing of the training magic as worked by plain Ben Jones of Parnell, Mo., already winner of two previous derbies with Whirlly in 1941 and Lawrin in '38. In his two latest triumphs, the Wave has appeared as sharp as your butcher's meat cleaver.

However, he came up with a cracked heel in the Blue grass and suffered a recurrence of the ailment—possibly even a little more severe—in the trial mile on Tuesday. As a result, Plain Ben won't decide definitely until he gives the colt a half-mile "blow out" and a careful look-see this morning whether he'll let the Wave roll when "My Old Kentucky Home" drifts out over the picturesque downs and the fanciest of the oat-burners parade out for their run for gold and glory.

After giving his hope a jog around the track yesterday morning, Plain Ben said it's "50-50 whether we go."

Others

Aside from the Wave and the Fleet only four others in the list of a dozen are even given a look-

in. And they are largely expected to fight it out for what's left after the two big boys finish picking up the choicest chunks of "scratch" at the pay-off line.

These four are Blue Swords, a husky son of Blue Larkspur carrying the hopes of Allen T. Simmons, Akron (Ohio) radio station operator; Slide Rule, one of the two "bombers" from the barn of W. E. Boeing, the Seattle Flying Fortress man; Gold Shower, a chunky charger owned by Mrs. Vera S. Bragg of Greenwich, Conn., and Amber Light, from the barn of Charles T. Fisher, the Detroit automobile body builder and conqueror of Ocean Wave in the Louisiana derby last February. The others in the field figure to be out just for the air.

Reading from left to right, or take your pick—they are Twosies, the other half of the Boeing "duet"; Modest Lad, standard bearer for Mrs. Henry L. Finch, wife of a New York stockbroker; No Wrinkle, hope of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago for her second derby winner (her Gallahadion dove Bimelech three years ago); Dove Pie, owned by J. Warfield Rodgers, Memphis (Tenn.) sportsman, and the two who are expected to fight it out for last place—Townsend B. Martin's Bankrupt, a New York candidate, and Burnt Cork, entry of Eddie Anderson, better known as Rochester of the radio.

Fritzie Zivic Whips John Roszina—Twice

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight champion, whipped Johnny Roszina of Milwaukee twice last night and finally settled for a technical knockout victory in the eighth round of a ten round main bout.

The cagey Pittsburgh veteran caught Roszina with a short right to the jaw early in the first round, knocking him to the canvas. Roszina got to both knees at the count of four, remained in that position while Referee Ted Jamesson finished the count of ten, then leaped to his feet protesting that he had not understood the count.

While the crowd yelled, Zivic and Roszina's handlers conferred with Chairman Fred Saddy of the Wisconsin boxing commission. The conference resulted in Zivic's agreement to continue the fight even though his opponent had been counted out officially.

The fight was resumed in the second round. From there on, Zivic gave the willing but outclassed Roszina a thorough going over and by the eighth round had almost closed both of Roszina's eyes.

At the end of the eighth the referee examined Roszina's eyes, decided he could not go on and declared Zivic the winner by a technical knockout.

Zivic weighed 150 3-4. Roszina 149 1-2. Saddy said: "I guess Johnny just forgot to get up, but Zivic was very gracious about it and said that he would be glad to go and give the fans a show."

Doll Rafferty of Milwaukee outpointed Jimmy Joyce of Gary, Ind., in another 10 rounder.

Ray (Sugar) Robinson Knocks Out Fred Cabral In 2 Minutes, 20 Seconds

BOSTON (AP)—Ray (Sugar) Robinson, the stylish Harlem Negro regarded by many as the uncrowned welterweight champion, disposed of Freddie Cabral of Cambridge with four terrific left hooks to the body after two minutes and twenty seconds of one-sided fisticuffing last night in the Boston Boxing association's scheduled 10-round feature bout at the Boston Garden.

Robinson, the winner of 134 of his 135 starts as an amateur and professional, coolly measured Cabral at the outset and, after taking a few very harmless left jabs, settled down to business directly on his opponents midriff.

Michigan Has Title Chances

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Cancellation by Indiana of its Big Ten baseball schedule, including two games with Michigan which were to have been played here yesterday and today, places the Wolverines in a position of having to win all of their remaining conference games to take their third straight championship.

The Hoosier nine was broken up by an early commencement and as a result Michigan and other schools on Indiana's schedule will play eight Big Ten games instead of 10. Michigan now has won three and lost one in the conference and has four left to play, two with Purdue and two with Ohio State.

It appears unlikely that any Big Ten team, other than Michigan, can finish the season with better than the .800 average that would result from an eight and two record. The Wolverines, by winning their last four tilts, could then take the title with an 875 percentage. One more defeat probably would eliminate the Wolverines from title contention, though not if none of the other teams could do no better than seven and three.

Rain on Tuesday of this week forced a two day postponement of the Wolverine engagement here with Western Michigan's unbeaten nine. Last season the Wolverines split two game series with Western, which so far this season has defeated Illinois and Notre Dame in its only two contests. A return game at Kalamazoo is scheduled for May 4. Whether any games can be substituted for the cancelled Indiana series has not been announced.

Coach Ray Fisher added two games to the Wolverine schedule this week by scheduling the Grossie Illie navy base team for May 10 and 18. The first game will be played here, the second at Grossie Illie.

The Wolverines have won five in a row since dropping the series opener to Iowa, 4-3, but had to have considerable help from Illinois in winning both ends of that series. Michigan took the opener, 5-2, largely because of six Illinois errors and eight walks and in the second game they scored six runs on only three hits to win, 6-4. Again walks and Illinois errors helped.

This apparent lack of hitting strength has caused Fisher to put his club through long-hitting drills this week. Defensively the current Michigan club is outstanding and if the hitting slump can be shaken off it will be a tough club to beat in any of its remaining games.

Beetham, Track Star, Commissioned Ensign; Sworn In Yesterday

Charlie Beetham, former national half-mile track champion, who has been stationed at the Pre-Flight school here as a seaman first class was commissioned an ensign in the U.S. naval reserve yesterday and was sworn in by Capt. David C. Hanrahan, commanding officer of the Pre-Flight school.

Beetham, who attended Ohio State university has been stationed here since last May and will now report to Chapel Hill, N.C., for officers' indoctrination.

He was a member of the Seahawks' National Servicemen's Cross-Country champion team and has run many races for the Seahawks, both individually and in team competition.

New Edition Printed By Sporting News For Men Overseas

As a result of the demand of our overseas service men for news about sports, the first issue of the new overseas edition of The Sporting News, national sports weekly, appeared this week. Published in St. Louis, Mo., the weekly publication contains the latest news of major league baseball and box scores of games from April 20 on, news of athletic stars now in the service, columns by leading sports writers, pictures of various sports highlights, news from the boxing and track worlds and short features about important athletes.

Men overseas are invited to write to The Sporting News, telling the editors how they like the overseas edition, what kind of features, news or pictures are preferred, or to express opinions on any other subject related to sports. Arrangements have been made to speed delivery of the new paper, which is printed in tabloid form to conserve shipping space.

Hawk Gridders Eligible

There's a chance that Bill Parker and Bill Burkett, star ends on Iowa's 1942 football team, can play next fall, although they have had three years of competition. Under the present rule they are eligible—Parker is in navy V-7 reserve and Burkett is an engineering student, so neither may be called into service by fall.

Great Lakes Athletes Ordered to Sea Duty

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—Two more athletes from the Great Lakes Naval Training station are on their way toward battle stations against axis ships.

Sam Harshaney, catcher on the Bluejacket 1942 championship baseball team, and Edward Norris, fullback on the title Great Lakes football squad, have received commissions and will be assigned to sea duty immediately upon completion of indoctrination courses at eastern schools.

Harshaney, 32 years old, who attended Shurtleff college, Alton, Ill., was commissioned as an ensign. Harshaney, once the property of the St. Louis Browns, was one of the leading hitters on the Bluejacket team, appearing in 49 of the Salors' 77 games and finishing with a batting average of .361. In addition to the Browns, Harshaney played with Toledo, San Antonio and Toronto during his eight-year professional career.

Norris, 26 years old, also received an ensign's commission. He was prominently known in Chicago as a basketball and football player while attending Fenwick high school and later DePaul university. Norris also appeared in two games with the Chicago Cardinals of the National football league following graduation from DePaul. As a Bluejacket last fall Norris scored two touchdowns, carrying the ball 18 times for gain 124 yards, averaging 6.9 per try.

Norris is the 17th member of the Great Lakes eleven to depart from the station. The squad won eight games, tied Notre Dame and lost three under the direction of Lieut. Paul (Tony) Hinkle. Harshaney follows other outstanding Bluejacket baseball stars who were transferred for advanced training. Norris and Harshaney held third class petty officer ratings and served as company commanders on the station.

9 to Run Today In Dixie Event

BALTIMORE (AP)—A field of nine distance stars was named yesterday to contest the $20,000-added Dixie handicap which will feature the racing program at Pimlico today, with chief early support centering on Riverland and Attention, two of the steadiest performers in the handicap ranks.

These two members of the We-Beat-Whirlaway club will carry top weight of 123 pounds each in the 40th renewal of the mile and three-sixteenths Dixie.

Charles S. Howard's Mioland, also named to run today, is weighted just one pound under Attention and Riverland with 122 pounds. Others named overnight to contest today's Dixie were Aj J. Sackett's Tola Rose, also trained by Hirsch and carrying 111 pounds; Hal Pirce Headley's Anticlimax 113, and Equinox 104; Hazel M. Babylon's Abbe Pierre 107; Green-tree Stable's Corydon 107; and Mrs. Ray Feinberg's Firebrook 113.

* Despite Game, Giants May Yet Reap Profit
* In Lombardi Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Far as we know Ernie Lombardi is the first player ever to be traded for two players and a ball game, and he probably will be the last, as we can't imagine future deals sprouting from such offers as "I'll give you three players and two games for so-and-so."

Not that the New York Giants planned it that way. The ball game apparently was just the fine print at the bottom of the contract that nobody reads, but which keeps you from getting a cent unless your house caught fire from a boy scout rubbing two sticks together.

That is, Horace Stoneham wouldn't have known when he sent Connie Ryan and Hugh Poland to the Boston Braves for Big Lom that Connie would take a victory away from the Giants with a three-run ninth-inning homer.

But that's just what happened, and now that the Braves' hidden profit has been uncovered the Giants can settle down and try to figure just where their profit will come. We have an idea it will be a pretty substantial profit. Probably not enough to bring them a championship as, although Lombardi can more than replace Harry Danning, he can't be expected to replace both Harry Danning and Johnny Mize.

Based purely on last year's performance and ignoring the fact that Lombardi twice led the National league in batting and once was chosen the most valuable player, here's how he and Danning stack up:

Lombardi was in 105 games, got 14 doubles, 11 home runs, batted in 48 runs, hit .330. Danning was in 119 games, got 20 doubles, three triples, one home run, batted in 34 runs and hit .279.

It is readily seen that in losing Danning and gaining Lombardi the Giants make a profit, and the profit looms as even greater when the playing fields are taken into consideration, as the 279-foot left field is just a nudge for old Schwesola. He was aiming for a 350-foot barrier at Braves field.

Bombardi, who can run in one place longer than Tobacco Road, needs just such a setup as the polo grounds offer to make the most of his power-hitting talents, as ordinarily anything inside the park is good for no better than a single to him. Those 14 doubles he got last year would be inside-the-park home runs for most guys. But not so for a gent who has some difficulty beating out a hit over the center fielder's head.

Most of the comment concerning Lombardi deals with his slugging, overlooking the fact that as a catcher he is much better than a net. It's a safe bet that Bill McKechnie wouldn't have had him in there for several years handling such top-hole chuckers as Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer and Johnny Vander Meer if Lombardi didn't know the score.

He just squats back there like a huge, lazy toad, even throwing from that position. But he has such power in his wing that there is

Senators Beat Yankees, 2 to 1

Dutch Leonard Hurls 4-Hit Game to Cause Yankees Second Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Emil (Dutch) Leonard, veteran knuckle ball pitcher who was not much help to Washington last year because of a broken leg, matched his 1942 won mark yesterday when he hurled the Senators to a 2 to 1 10-inning victory over the New York Yankees.

In chalking up his second victory of the season, Leonard outpointed Hank Borowy in a mound duel that was decided when Ellis Clary, Senators' third baseman, led off the tenth with a double. After Gene Moore had flied out, Stan Spence was intentionally passed and then Bob Johnson crashed through with the game winning single.

Leonard checked the American league champions with four hits, one of which was Charlie Keller's fourth-inning triple that led to the Yanks' lone run.

The defeat was the Yanks' second of the season and dropped them into a tie for first place in the American league with the Cleveland Indians. The game was the only one played in the major leagues and was witnessed by a ladies' day crowd of 8,000.

Bucky Walters, enthusing over the catching virtues of Old Eaglebeak, told us once:

"The man's a marvel. He'll reach out with his bare hand and catch my fast one. All you have to do is get it within his reach and he'll get it."

We don't think he'll mean the pennant to the hard-hit Giants, as previously remarked. But you can't laugh off a team that has the Big Guy and Mel Ott in the lineup.

Greater Care Urged In Animal Disposals

Iowa farmers cooperating in the government's fat-salvaging campaign were cautioned yesterday by the American Foundation of Animal Health to be extremely careful in handling carcasses of animals which have died of infectious diseases.

"Farm animals which have died of hog cholera, swine erysipelas, swine dysentery, anthrax, black-leg and other maladies are potential hazards to all other livestock in the community," says the foundation report. "These diseases are so highly infectious that they can be spread by birds, rodents, dogs, seepage and even through contaminated dust carried on the shoes. Some germs, such as gas gangrene, anthrax and swine erysipelas, are also infective to man through scratches or abrasions of the skin."

The foundation warns that all carcasses should be covered until the rendering truck arrives, and that if they have to be moved they should be carried on a scraper which will not allow seepage to contaminate the farm lots. Anyone handling the animals should wear old gloves which can be burned when the job is finished.

Further information on special regulations governing carcass disposal may be obtained from any local veterinarian.

High School Juniors To Entertain Seniors

City high school seniors will be honored tonight at the annual junior-senior banquet in the American Legion hall of the Community building at 8:15. After the banquet a dance will be held at the high school, according to an announcement yesterday by Principal W. E. Beck.

Anne Wachs, junior class adviser, is in charge of the arrangements for the function. Committee heads include Mary Danner, chairman, Edna Flesner, adviser, program and invitation; Anna Gay, chairman, Byrdine Reese, adviser, banquet; Ethel Ann Holloway, chairman; Lucia Otto, adviser, table decorations; Dean Crawford, chairman, Lola Hughes, adviser, toast program; James Bauer, chairman, Aleta Malmberg, adviser, entertainment; Betty Rohrbacher, chairman, Elizabeth Winkler, adviser, chaperon; Don Winslow, chairman; Fred L. Jones, adviser, decorations.

Families Will Speak On Morning Chapel

The school of religion's national family week observances will feature various family groups on the Morning Chapel program next week.

Families representing different faiths will appear on the regular chapel broadcast hour, Prof. M. Willard Lampe announced.

The program is as follows: Monday, P. O. Norman; Tuesday, the Rev. Elmer Dierks; Wednesday, Robert Valentine; Thursday, Kelly McKee, and Friday, W. E. Murray.

that the Russian command has handed its main forces for the spring and summer. The line of the Donets was held fairly easily and even Kharkov might have been retained had Stalin seen fit to make it a symbol.

The new war plants of the Urals and eastern Siberia, replacing those of the lost Ukraine, are just coming into full production. The flow of aid from the United States and Britain, American correspondents have found, has reached such proportions as to tax Russian facilities for receiving it. That flow is sure to continue despite the political differences, such as the current Polish crisis, which fret relations between Russia and her western allies because the major united nations know that they invite destruction unless they maintain the fullest possible military cooperation until Hitler is destroyed.

Do You Send a Personal— Invitation to Burglars

—By Everyday Carelessness

By MAGARET KIRBY

Are you inviting burglars in this spring? Leaving a door carelessly ajar or a window half open may encourage prowlers as well as cool breezes. There's no magic about thieves—they look like other men and women and they can't walk through walls. Keeping them out of your life is a simple formula of knowing how they work and how bolts and locks work.

Burglars work alone, in pairs or in threes. The boldest will park in the center of your driveway, often with a woman lookout and driver. The men jimmy a window or force open a door, pull down shades, turn on lights or cut phone wires.

Some will casually help themselves to your icebox, smoke your cigarettes and perhaps trade in a soiled shirt for your husband's spring cotton stripe. Others will leave sarcastic notes or disgusting souvenirs. And any one of them would carry away your best silver to have it melted down and sold for one-tenth of its value. Yes, every day throughout the country, 800 burglars steal an average of $59.19 worth of loot.

Cruelty to Burglars
Be unkind to your burglar by observing a few simple do's and don't's. When you go out in the back yard for a mid-eve snooze or finish up the dishes in the kitchen don't leave the front door unlocked. And keep the screen door hooked even though you may be at home.

Keeping a list of monograms, numbers and jeweler's scratch marks in silver, jewelry, guns, bicycles, typewriters and vacuum cleaners and electric fans (thieves will take almost anything not anchored down) will help when it comes to a treasure hunt for stolen articles.

Unless you are sure that canvassers or inspectors are on legitimate business, draw in the welcome mat. And don't try to play heroine by scaring away a burglar with lights and noises. The subtle and safe way is to phone the police quietly.

Open House
When leaving your home for a few hours shopping, don't make it open house for thieves—they'll take you up on it. Secure doors and windows, and if windows must be left open, supply catches which prevent their being opened further.

One lone key hidden under the dog house or flower pot is an engraved invitation to robbery. It doesn't take a seventh sense to know where to look for it. Economizing on keys can be an expensive proposition, so have one for each member of the family.

Don't leave your going an open book for the passing public to read. Leaving a note saying when you are returning or forgetting to close the garage doors is a "go" signal to even an amateur thief. In the evening leave a light on and pull down the shades of that room besides turning off all porch lights.

Safety First
You're in the hustle-bustle of vacation packing. You've stuffed fishing rods and frying pans in the back of the car, but have you remembered to store your jewelry, silver and stock certificates in a safe-deposit vault? Cover up your tracks by having all mail forwarded, stopping milk and newspaper deliveries and drafting a neighbor to remove all circulars from your doorstep.

"This far shall thou go and no farther" is the answer of a firmly locked door to the prying of a burglar. If any doors have bit-key locks, leave keys in the locks and tie them fast to doorknobs so that they can't be turned and pushed out with tools. Double-lock the front door.

Your home is your own until the black-mustached villain with the mortgage steps in. Shake off the careless mood and put up your

Mrs. Jessie Keiser Wed to Russell Gee

The Rev. James Waery, 725 N. Linn street, announces the marriage of his sister, Mrs. Jessie Waery Keiser of Elmira, N. Y., to Russell Gee of Albany, N. Y. The wedding took place in the Congregational church at 7 o'clock Easter Sunday evening with the Rev. Mr. Waery officiating.

Mrs. Gee wore a soldier blue suit with navy accessories and a corsage of orchids and primrose.

Attending as the matron of honor was Mrs. James Waery, who wore a navy blue ensemble and a corsage of gardenias. Prof. Edward Mabie served as best man.

Following the ceremony the Rev. and Mrs. Waery entertained the couple in the church parlors. Gee has just been appointed as the automobile commissioner of the state of New York by Gov.

Thomas Dewey. Mr. and Mrs. Gee will make their home in Albany.

Regular I.C. Garbage Pickup Begins Today

Regular collection of city garbage will begin today, according to Ira Montgomery, new garbage collector, in accordance with his recently signed contract with the city. Montgomery said he has four trucks available for the work. As soon as the collection of surplus garbage is completed, he will establish a regular route.

According to city ordinances, garbage cans are to be placed in the alley or, if there is no alley, behind the house. No empty cans, bottles, broken glass, old iron or other materials of this kind may be deposited in any garbage cans.

Normally the United States requires 58 million pounds of olives.

Summer Swimming Schedule Announced

Recreational swimming periods are planned by the women's gym from 4:50 to 5:30 daily, from 7:30 to 9 Tuesday and Thursday, and from 10 o'clock to noon Saturday, Prof. Marjorie Camp of the women's physical education department has announced.

The swimming pool is open to all students, faculty wives, wives of graduate students and members of the administrative staff. Husband are admitted Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

Students must present their identification cards, and all others must pay a fee at the business office.

Ground swells usually occur along shallow coasts and often in fair weather.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

This Announcement will make some people blush!

Could this be you? ... "What a breakfast! Eggs without bacon. Coffee—just one cup of it—without heavy cream. Just a skimpy little pat of butter for my toast. Don't talk to me about sacrifice. I'm making plenty. And what about the 10% of my pay that goes into War Bonds every week?"

When THIS is your fellow American!
"We've been under fire night and day for 12 days. Advancing through heavy mud. Wet and tired. The nights are freezing cold. No hot food. Only our iron rations to keep us going. Casualties have been heavy. Yesterday, my buddy, 'Spike' Anderson, got his. But today it's worthwhile. Today we stormed and took the Nazi position."

FROM every front comes a story of the heroism of our troops—of the unbelievable hardships and privations they are suffering. And now from our far flung battle lines comes an urgent cry for help: "Send us more planes, more guns, more ammunition." For today the fighting fronts blaze into new fury. In a last desperate effort to annihilate us, the Axis powers are throwing everything into the struggle. The next few weeks or months may decide the outcome of the war. And that's why your Government is calling on you to lend it more money. Thirteen billion dollars are needed—needed urgently and right now. This is a showdown fight and we've got to top the Nazis and the Japs with our efforts if we are going to win.

The Big Offensive Is On

We're not playing at war. This is the real thing. Our boys are dying in defense of our country—casualty lists are mounting. The least we can do is to back up our men with every single dollar we can scrape together. Remember they do not stop to ask the cost—they pay with their lives. In the face of their sacrifice can any of us back here at home say that we are doing enough?

Millions of patriotic Americans are already putting 10% of their earnings into War Bonds every payday. We can be proud of this record—but 10% is not enough. Today we are confronted by a great and critical emergency. Thirteen billion extra dollars are needed and needed at once. That is a big sum of money, but not too big for America.

What does this mean to you? It means that it is your patriotic duty to put more money into Government securities regardless of what self-sacrifice it may entail. Give up some of your comforts, do without things you need—this is a vital matter.

And remember when you dig up this money that you are not giving a cent. You are merely investing it in the safest securities in the world. You will get it back with interest when the war is over. It will supply you with cash for the things you want when we are free to return to the ways of peace. It will mean security for you and yours.

What To Do

Thousands of men and women, volunteer workers, are calling on everybody possible, explaining the 2nd War Loan Drive and the different types of Government securities offered to meet every individual's needs. Welcome one of these representatives if he calls on you, for he is giving his time and effort freely to this patriotic cause. But don't wait for his call. Go to your bank, Post Office or War Bond booth. Lay down your money—more than you think you can spare—for extra bonds. Know in your heart that when your country called, you answered "YES!"

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government securities—choose the ones best suited for you:

United States War Savings Bonds—Series E: The perfect investment for individual and family savings. Gives you back $4 for every $3 when the Bond matures. Designed especially for the smaller investor. Dated 1st day of month in which payment is received. Interest: 2.9% a year if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1000. Redemption: any time 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969: Readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral, these Bonds are ideal investments for trust funds, estates and individuals. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated April 15, 1943; due June 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1000, $5000, $10,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. Redemption: Not callable till June 15, 1964; thereafter at par and accrued interest on any interest date at 4 months' notice. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other Securities: Series "C" Tax Notes; ½% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1950-1952; United States Savings Bonds Series "F"; United States Savings Bonds Series "G."
