U.S. Miners Return to Pits Under Two-Week Truce to Resume Full-Scale Coal Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's miners began returning to the pits yesterday under the 15-day truce, and there was speculation that grounds for a permanent settlement might be found in discussions of a universal six-day week for the industry.

With coal fields everywhere flying the American flag, they drew back hundreds of the 480,000 miners idle over the weekend in the 15-state shutdown. Predictions were general that full scale production would resume today—the restarting day set by John L. Lewis in his armistice declaration.

As the day advanced in mines taken over by the government Saturday, it was not clear whether the full vanguard of returning workers was responding specifically to the call of the president or the call of Lewis.

The president, in urging the miners to return lest they obstruct the nation's war effort, had said he was sure that "like all good Americans" they would "march shoulder to shoulder with their armed forces to victory."

Lewis Declares Union To Ask Same Terms

Lewis, who told the miners "Your record of patriotism can never be challenged," had said: "Cooperate with your government and with your policy committee and restore the mines to work on Tuesday morning."

The back-to-work movement was led by 350 miners at Gallitzin, Pa., who voted to go back to work even before the truce was announced. In some mines in Pennsylvania, the number reporting to early shifts was not sufficient to start work, but labor leaders predicted both anthracite and soft coal mines would be going at full clip today.

In Ohio, nearly a full working force reported at eight major mines; in the southern fields of West Virginia, 25 percent of the mining personnel was back on the job; and in Harlan county, Ky., where several hundred of the area's 13,000 coal diggers answered the whistle blasts, a union spokesman said all 41 mines there would be operating today.

Some still-idle miners said they hadn't heard about the "truce" announcement—made by Lewis Sunday night 22 minutes before President Roosevelt's radio address urging the miners to cease "obstructing our war effort."

Other miners apparently took the UMW leader literally when he set Tuesday as the date.

Patterson, Jeffers End Gasoline-Rubber Feud

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The bitter priorities feud between Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers and Undersecretary of War Patterson seemed at an end today as the two men made plans for a joint tour of war plants looking for bottlenecks to break.

Patterson, who previously had protested that Jeffers' rubber factory program was taking vital materials away from the aviation gasoline program, disclosed the forthcoming tour at a session of the Truman committee, senatorial group inquiring into the quarrel.

Patterson still insisted a shortage of high octane gasoline was hampering the war program. He said the need for gasoline is growing, partly because American airmen have been so successful in combat and that their percentage of plane losses "is considerably less than half of what we expected."

Concerning his recent differences with Jeffers, he said there was nothing personal in them, and added: "Jeff and I have exactly the same aim—to win the war."

Iowa Sailor's Tale of 7 Months—

Castaway on Tiny Pacific Island

GLENWOOD (AP)—The story of how a United States sailor left a bit of American culture, customs and enlightenment on a tiny island in the Solomons where he spent seven and a half months as a castaway was told here yesterday by aviation radioman second class Delmar Wiley.

Home for a 30-day leave after his rescue from the southwest Pacific island, Wiley had an intriguing story to tell.

It began after he and two other crewmen crashed into the sea in their Grumman torpedo plane with Wiley as the only survivor. For 14 days he drifted about in a rubber boat until he sighted land and then it took him the 15th day to reach it.

During that time he existed on

Martinique Protests U.S. Break in Note To State Department

Vichy Control Forms Main Stumbling Block For Arbitration Plans

(Copyright, 1943, by The Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Admiral Georges Robert, French high commissioner of Martinique, disclosed last night that he had sent a note to the state department protesting the United States' action in breaking off relations with Martinique, and he urged that the department publish the text of his note.

Admiral Robert cabled this information to The Associated Press in reply to a query asking his views on the state department's action, announced Friday, with Martinique, Washington acted on grounds that this country would not "recognize or negotiate with any French representatives in the Antilles who remain subservient to or maintain contact with the Vichy regime."

Admiral Robert's message to The Associated Press tonight said: "The American government decides, in alleging a certain situation of metropolitan France, to annul an accord concluded at a time when this situation already existed."

"It offers nothing else in exchange and refuses, by recalling its consul general, all possibility of a fresh proposal on my part. "I can only take note of such a decision, meanwhile protesting, which I have done in a note delivered May 1, and therefore I can see only an advantage in the full publication of the text in the American press by the state department."

"Admiral Robert. "May 3, 1943."

The state department has not announced receipt of a reply by Robert to Secretary Hull's note to him, delivered on April 26.

Robert's brief message to The Associated Press did not indicate what course he planned to follow, nor the nature of the information in his note to the government that he wished made public.

Californians to Search For Lieut. L. P. Pelzer, Missing Iowa Citizen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The navy called on residents of northern California and the Pacific northwest yesterday for aid in locating a navy Dauntless dive bomber which has been missing since March 13.

The fast bomber, piloted by Lieut. (jg) L. Parker Pelzer of Iowa City, was last seen 15 miles southwest of Mount Shasta, Calif., by another navy pilot on the same flight. They were flying at 12,000 feet above a heavy overcast, during stormy weather and under icing conditions.

Pelzer, flying alone, left Red Bluff, Calif., March 13 for The Dalles, Ore. When last seen by the other pilot he had gasoline enough for five hours.

Churchill Gets Word That Stalin Welcomes Bombing Essen, Berlin

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill received from Premier Joseph Stalin yesterday a message saying that "I welcome the bombing of Essen, Berlin and other industrial centers of Germany."

"Every blow delivered by your air force to the vital German centers," the Soviet leader said, "evokes a most lively echo in the hearts of many throughout the length and breadth of our country."

3 Allied Fliers Missing After Japanese Raid

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Tuesday (AP)—Three allied pilots are missing as result of the Japanese attack on Darwin Sunday, the allied high command reported today.

Whether any other pilots were lost was not disclosed. The allied losses were due principally to extreme weather conditions rather than to Japanese activity, a spokesman said.

A strong wind caught the Spitfires as they pursued the Japanese raiders northward over the Arafura sea and cut down their speed on the return flight so greatly some were forced down at sea. Others crash-landed on the shore.

In actual combat, although outnumbered, the Spitfires manned by Australian and British pilots, not only successfully diverted the enemy's main bombing attack but inflicted far heavier damage on the fighters than they received themselves.

The noon communique announced the destruction of two Japanese bombers and two fighters on the ground at Koepang, Timor. Koepang is 500 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia.

Youth Admits Slaying Three-Year-Old Girl

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Chief of Detectives Fred Egenreither said last night James Franklin, 21, had confessed the murder of 3-year-old Mary Jane Tankersley a few hours after the girl's slashed and semi-nude body was found in a west side pedestrian underpass.

The youth, who lives in the same block as the Tankersley family, led police to the underground passageway and made an oral confession to stabbing and criminally assaulting the girl, Egenreither said.

Detective Capt. Martin Cliffe, who arrested Franklin, said the youth recently had been involved in a sex offense in the same tunnel.

Omaha World-Herald Receives Pulitzer Prize for 'Meritorious Public Service'

12 Newspaper Men, Authors, Composer Also Receive Prizes

NEW YORK (AP)—Initiative and originality of the Omaha, Neb., World-Herald in planning a successful state-wide campaign for scrap metal which later was used on a national scale won for it yesterday the Pulitzer award for the American newspaper rendering "the most disinterested and meritorious public service" in 1942.

Six men in journalism, four men and a woman in literature and a composer were singled out as recipients for Pulitzer accolades, and two of them were repeaters.

Robert Frost, New England poet, won his fourth Pulitzer prize for "A Witness Tree," and Jas. Norwood (Ding) Darling, cartoonist for the New York Herald Tribune, won his second cartoon award for a drawing depicting governmental "red-tape," and entitled "What a place for a waste paper salvage campaign."

Hanson W. Baldwin of the New York Times received the annual prize for "distinguished correspondence" for his report of his four of the southwest Pacific.

The award for distinguished editorial writing went to Forrest W. Seymour of the Des Moines, Iowa, Register and Tribune.

The gold medal award to the Omaha World-Herald for distinguished and meritorious public service was made, the trustees an-

American Soldiers Smash Back German Troops, Take Mateur In Greatest Allied Land Victory

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—American soldiers smashing back fiercely-resisting crack German troops in a 14-mile plunge, yesterday occupied Mateur, one of the most important axis strongholds in northern Tunisia, and thus scored their greatest land victory in Africa.

French troops and other American forces to the north meanwhile stabbed to within 15 miles of Bizerte.

The capture of Mateur, strategic enemy communications and supply center, brought the U. S. troops to the edge of the fan-like Tunis plain with its slightly-rolling, flower-studded hills in which allied armored formations can operate.

At last reports, the bulk of enemy forces in the north still were retreating, but it was not known how far beyond Mateur they had gone, nor exactly where they might attempt a new stand.

Seizure of the town definitely threatens both Bizerte, 18 miles northeast, and Tunis, 34 miles southeast of Mateur. In the extreme north before Bizerte the axis still holds hills for defense, and the naval base is further protected by the twin lakes of Bizerte and Garaet Achkel.

(The Algiers radio said the U. S. troops were continuing to advance beyond Mateur, with allied fighter and bomber planes pounding at the retreating axis forces.)

The crash through the craggy hills to Mateur in two weeks of the most bitter fighting, marked by heavy losses on both sides, was mainly a feat of infantry supported by long-range American 155-millimeter artillery that had shelled the town for five days.

American infantry units seized Green and Bald hills in the heavily-fortified Jemna positions west of Mateur this morning to clear the way for the striking advance. Mateur had been held briefly by British forces between Nov. 27 and Dec. 4 in early stages of the Tunisian fighting.

The American and French advances give the allies control of all territory west of a line between Mateur and Bizerte. This line bisects the great lake of Garaet Achkel, and the only retreat for any enemy troops remaining in the area is through the narrow strips of land along the lake.

The advance on Bizerte at the coast, made by the French African Corps and Moroccan gums, represented a four-mile gain from previously known French positions through some of the harshest terrain in Tunisia and more than 500 axis prisoners were taken in that sector. American doughboys advanced side by side with this fierce mixed force.

The fall of Mateur thus was succinctly announced by General Eisenhower's headquarters: "After heavy fighting and maintaining pressure during the past few days, American troops have forced the enemy to make a withdrawal in the coastal areas, and occupied Mateur this morning. Several hundred German prisoners have been captured."

Below the Tunis-Bizerte zone, fighting was indecisive about the axis supply base of Pont du Fahs.

Japanese Installations Bombed at Kiska, Attu

WASHINGTON (AP)—A renewed, large-scale aerial drive against the Japanese air and submarine base on Kiska island in the Aleutians was reported yesterday by the navy, which said bombers struck at enemy installations 13 times on Saturday.

Fires were started, holes were torn in the runway which the Japanese have laboriously carved out on the mountainous island and heavy smoke was seen rising from bombed installations on many parts of Kiska.

At the same time, other heavy bombers attacked Attu, secondary Japanese base in the north Pacific chain.

Ford Company Strike Causes Loss of 70,488 Man-Hours in 2 Days

DETROIT (AP)—The Ford Motor company charged that an "organized refusal to work" by a few hundred maintenance men and millwrights had thrown more than 6,000 men out of work at its Rouge plant yesterday and caused over a two-day period a loss of 70,488 man-hours in war production while the UAW-CIO termed the work interruption "a lockout by the company."

Mt. Pleasant Undergoes Surprise Air Raid Alert

MT. PLEASANT (AP)—Mt. Pleasant had a thoroughly unscheduled air raid alarm yesterday.

For two minutes the town's warning whistle sounded out, bringing some air raid wardens and messengers to civilian defense headquarters.

Then City Manager Lee Speaker explained that it was a false alarm resulting from a broken spring in the whistle.

F.R. Could Have Been Tougher

Mr. Roosevelt was just about as tactful as possible in urging the miners back to work. He could have been a lot tougher—using his wartime authority to its limit—and it is a little disappointing to us that he was not.

By soft-pedaling many of the obvious charges against the striking miners, Mr. Roosevelt gave us the impression that he was just as worried over the votes of these several hundred thousand miners as he was with getting them back into the mines. The American people would have backed him all the way if he had taken a firmer stand. They would have backed him even to the extent of classifying every striking miner as a "traitor." Never before has the president had so much of the people's sentiment behind him on a domestic issue. Never before has there been so much at stake.

It is possible that the true which was signed several hours before the president's broadcast prompted him to tone down his speech. He was still emphatic in his warnings to the miners, and the blunt statement that the production of coal "will not be stopped" carried only one meaning to the American people. But he could have made it even more clear that bickering of any type would not be tolerated. That the government would use armed force to get the men back into the pits if necessary.

However, it is erroneous to think that the miners have no reason to strike. Their point—that they want higher wages—is a fair enough demand, if they actually cannot meet the cost of living today. But to stop work for it is a different thing. This could be—and was—tolerated in peace time, when a few thousand tons less coal didn't mean much anyway. Today, as Mr. Roosevelt plainly said, that same coal is the very basis upon which our whole war production program rests. . . and that to choke off production of it is as serious as a major defeat upon the battlefield.

The simple fact of the matter is that whether the miners have been treated fairly or not, whether their demands were justified or unjustified, they must return to work. Expediency is the thing that counts in war. Win first and talk later.

Let's hope we don't have to tell our grandchildren that the war was three years longer than it had to be because some of the boys at home wouldn't give the boys at the front an even break.

Talking a Good War

Anyone who doubts the truth of the saying that a little education is a dangerous thing should consider the following incident reported from Guadalcanal by William M. Volland, a petty officer in the Navy's Seabees.

Americans and Japanese faced each other in trenches across a narrow No Man's Land. The Japs, seeking to enrage the Americans and draw them from their foxholes, indulged in a bit of elementary psychology.

"Roosevelt eats garbage," the Japs shouted, apparently expecting an immediate charge. Nothing happened for a few moments while the Americans considered the situation. Then Volland had an idea. If the Japs figured an insult would cause the Americans to abandon their defenses, then the reverse might work. Volland acted accordingly.

"Tojo eats garbage," he yelled.

The results far exceeded his expectations. To his astonishment twenty-six infuriated Japanese sprang from their trenches and dashed for the American lines with leveled bayonets. Volland knocked them all off with his machine gun.

Judging from Volland's experience, the length of the war in the Pacific depends largely upon the number of Japanese soldiers who understand English—or perhaps upon the ability of American fighting men to master a few simple insults in Japanese.

Measure of Greatness

Philosophers of all ages have asked: What is greatness? And there have been as many answers as there are philosophers. In one sense, a man who died the other day in Saint Louis had achieved greatness, although his name is known to but a few.

Ernest A. Hamwi, who was born in Damascus, visited the World's Fair in Saint Louis in 1904. Interested in people, he watched a crowd buying ice cream at one of the concessions, and another crowd buying waffles at an adjoining concession. Right there a great idea was born. Hamwi combined the two delicacies—and the ice cream cone came into being.

Along with hot dogs and apple pie—it is hard to see how those two could be combined in one concoction—the ice cream cone is a national institution, invented by a Syrian. But wasn't chop suey invented by an American.

News Behind the News

Business Goes Over to Hull's Reciprocal Trade Program

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—Only a paltry paragraph or two heralded the news that business has changed its policy and now favors the Hull reciprocal trade program.

At least, that portion of business as represented by the national association of manufacturers and the United States chamber of commerce, made such an announcement through representatives appearing before the house ways and means committee. The public appearance of the NAM was made after its board privately agreed to reverse its policy of three years ago with very little dissent of members.

The business experts did not say so, but apparently they figured world trade must be different after the war. Our manufacturing production capacity has been greatly expanded by the armaments program.

The machines now used for weapons can be changed back to peace-time products much easier than they were changed to war. Replacement of one or two parts and tools are all that will be necessary in many instances, they say, and a better machine tool industry exists to do the job.

This extra production will have to be sold either in a greatly expanded American market (more people able to have radios, bathtubs, refrigerators, etc.) or in a larger foreign market. The world will have little gold or goods with which to buy our surplus manufacturing production.

It would be very foolish of us to "sell" these extensively on credit through any of the old or newly suggested devices. Actually, all we would be doing under such arrangements is to give our products away at the expense of our people as a whole.

As long as we export more than we import, we will naturally accumulate world debts which cannot be paid, or gold which is of doubtful value. We already have too much of both.

If we establish the Keynes or White system of international payment, we will merely accumulate all the new international currency, "units," or "banco," which, apparently, is to have only the value which our government underwrites for it. In times of international bankruptcy—and post-war conditions will approximate that—the only way for us to get paid for our products is by importation of goods.

This line of reasoning has brought the business people here around to the idea that 50 percent reductions of our tariffs, as provided in the Hull program, may help our selling. The old fear of cheap foreign labor and foreign under-selling appears to have diminished.

And, inasmuch as labor has joined in approval through A F of L's Bill Green, it looks like Mr. Hull has gathered unexpected support.

F. D. R. Is Already Nominated—Nebraska's new Republican Senator Wherry was just about right when he said at Pittsburgh that Mr. Roosevelt is already nominated for the fourth term. He is nominated as far as common interpretation in Washington is concerned.

The generally accepted belief in all political camps here is that the war probably will be on at that time and renomination will be arranged as a matter of course.

Just now, the government officials like OWI's Elmer Davis are saying that the fourth term talk is "hot air" while the party wheel-horses, like Senator Guffey and Governor Neeley are out making speeches presenting the fourth term notion as "natural and inevitable."

The pattern of the fourth term campaign is, therefore, little different than the third, except in one particular. The exigencies of war seem to have led Mr. Roosevelt's personal officials (Ickes, et al) to refrain from participating openly in what the wheel-horses (Walker, et al) are openly promoting.

Mr. Ickes' Monument—Interior Secretary Ickes has decided not to make too much of a monument out of the Jackson Hole country, even with his presidential decree. He has announced grazing can be continued and those who have homes in the region may keep them for life—under the benevolent philanthropy of the new federal landlord.

But this does not settle all the basic principles or difficulties of the federal seizure by presidential order.

The county government will lose close to $20,000 a year in taxes as a result of the president's action. Approximately 200 men have gone from that region to fight the war for their homes, only to find now that these homes are to be available only for life, by executive decree.

It now develops further that two congressional committees refused to let the government seize the area before Mr. Roosevelt chose to do it by fiat. As one citizen of the region has written: "Jackson Hole may be a monument to Mr. Ickes, but it's only a tombstone to me"—and to everyone else who lives there.

Interpreting THE WAR NEWS

by Glenn Babb

Capture of Mateur Named Big Victory

The United States army has just won its greatest victory of this war over the forces of Adolf Hitler. The capture of Mateur is one of the outstanding achievements of the Tunisian campaign, worthy of comparison with the exploits of the storied British Eighth army. In two weeks of battle over some of the worst terrain in Africa, the Second army corps has ground down some of the enemy's best units, thrown him from hill after hill, halted his most violent counterattacks and finally compelled him to abandon a city that ranks only behind Tunis and Bizerte in military importance.

Take Full Revenge
These American divisions, now skilled, veteran troops, moving from objective to objective with a dash and efficiency not surpassed by any other force in the field, have taken full revenge for their February defeats at Faid pass and Sidi Bou Zidi. Compelled to take a secondary role while the Eighth army was reducing the Mareth line and the First army was cracking the axis west wall, they have now claimed the spotlight. Twice General Alexander, commander of allied ground forces, has paid them tributes, first for the efficiency of their movement into the northern sector from the El Guejar region in the south, where the tide of battle had swirled past them—and recently for their superb fighting qualities.

Mateur is a position of such importance that it is inconceivable that the enemy would have yielded it if he had any choice. Through it runs the only railway link between Tunis and Bizerte. It is also an important highway junction although the direct Tunis-Bizerte road is about 18 miles to the east. Its capture brings the Americans to the edge of the Tunis plain, with roads following broad valleys leading 13 miles northeast to Bizerte and 34 miles southeast to Tunis. The heights commanding these roads undoubtedly will be bitterly contested. But the loss of Mateur places the whole axis position in peril, a further American advance like that just accomplished would split von Arnim's forces in two.

Moreover it is likely to have important repercussions on other sectors. It indicates that the axis commander is near the end of his mobile reserves, which may have (See INTERPRETING, page 5)

Jennifer Jones Reversed the Procedure: She Started Out at the Top

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jennifer Jones is a Hollywood paradox, and that's putting it mildly. The charming, clear-eyed young actress reversed the usual procedure of climbing up the ladder of screen success by starting out at the top, and she shows all the determination and ability to stay there.

Unheralded and entirely devoid of the usual Hollywood publicity-bathing suit buildup, Jennifer is traveling rapidly the road to fame and acclaim by playing the coveted title role in "The Song of Bernadette," Franz Werfel's touching story of the little French girl whose vision created the miraculous shrine of Lourdes and who later was canonized by the Catholic Church.

Many of Hollywood's top actresses would have turned in their last year's husbands for a shot at the role of Bernadette.

The quiet, unassuming Jennifer qualified to play Bernadette when her reaction to a simulated vision during her screen test so impressed the producers that she was signed on the dotted line before she could catch her breath. She won out over a myriad of candidates for the role.

Before getting her big chance, Jennifer had a previous attempt

"The Story of Dr. Wassell," by James Hilton (Little, Brown; $1.50).
"The Battle for Buenos Aires," by Sax Bradford (Harcourt, Brace; $2.50).

"The Story of Dr. Wassell" is another of those brief epics that seem to pour out of this war into all the offices of all the publishers. It is the equal of any, in some respects. It lacks, in fact, only one thing.

This is an ear for Arkansas speech on the part of the author, who happens to be James Hilton. Mr. Hilton's hero is Lieut. Comdr. Corydon Wassell of the United States navy, who was in Java just before the Japs landed on the island, and to whom the duty of chaperoning a group of seriously burned patients fell. Unfortunately Wassell was originally from Arkansas, and the author feels obliged to reproduce what he appears to believe of the Arkansas native. Occasionally he achieves a proper flavor. Oftener, he merely makes his hero sound outlandish.

But even this does not obscure the facts of the matter. Commander Wassell was sent to the interior of the island hurriedly, because some admiral or other thought a liaison medical officer was needed in the surprisingly neat Dutch hospital where the sailors were being treated.

The Japs landed, however, Commander Wassell took his charges to the coast, and part of them were put aboard ship and evacuated. But the more dangerously wounded had, perforce, to be returned to the hospital. Then Wassell made arrangements for our own planes to fly his men out, and the Japs broke that plan up. At last an English column went through, and this time Wassell was able to make connections.

The story of the trip down from the hospital to the shore, of the port and the impossible confusion there, of the Dutch captain who would not accept the men, but did, is only the prelude to another adventure. For at sea in the bright, clean little Dutch boat Jap planes went over, came down and strafed the deck. Then Commander Wassell had to begin patching up his fellow passengers—and had to begin patching up.

Mr. Bradford carefully states all this, citing page and volume as he does so. Then he shows with equal care where the danger in the hemisphere lies and why our effort to propagandize Argentina has failed. As one example, he cites the radio. We beam all sorts of programs to South America, and, he adds, we are so shortsighted as to put flattery and tags on the beams. We are not selling ourselves to a people still anxious to know something about us, but instead we are, he believes, merely boring them.

Supreme Court Reverses Stand

Municipal License Tax On Religious Material Violates Constitution

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a far reaching opinion, the supreme court yesterday reversed its previous stand and declared that municipal license taxes on the sale of religious literature violate constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press, speech and religion.

The court's 5 to 4 opinion, written by Justice Stone, upset a decision of last June 8, in which the tribunal had upheld the validity of municipal ordinances which composed the taxes in Opelika, Ala.; Fort Smith, Ark., and Casa Grande, Ariz. The ordinances were challenged by Jehovah's Witnesses, who were supported in briefs filed by the American Newspaper Publishers' association, the American Civil Liberties union and the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists.

Court Reasons

The court set forth its reasons for vacating last year's decision in another opinion by Justice Douglas, ruling invalid a similar ordinance in Jenette, Pa. Justice Douglas declared that if communities or states were given the right to tax the dissemination of views, "because they are unpopular, annoying or distasteful," it would be "a complete repudiation of the philosophy of the bill of rights."

The vote of the court's newest member, Justice Rutledge, swung the court from its previous decision. He replaced former Justice Byrnes who had voted to uphold the constitutionality of the ordinances. Dissenting from today's opinion were Justices Reed, Jackson, Roberts and Frankfurter. Besides Rutledge those who voted to overrule the earlier decision were Chief Justice Stone, and Justice Douglas, Black and Murphy.

Other Opinions

In other outstanding opinions today, the court:

Held, in the first case of its kind to reach the tribunal, that a person claiming exemption from military service as a conscientious objector must report for induction if his plea for exemption has been turned down by the selective service director on behalf of the president.

Held unconstitutional a Struthers, Ohio, ordinance prohibiting distributors of circulars from ringing doorbells or "otherwise" summoning residents of a home. This ordinance also was challenged by Jehovah's Witnesses.

In the tax case, Justice Douglas declared that "the hand distribution of religious tracts is an age-old form of missionary evangelism," and "occupies the same high estate under the first amendment as do worship in the churches and preaching from the pulpits."

Same Claim

"It has the same claim to protection as the more orthodox and conventional exercises of religions," the opinion said. "It also has the same claim as the others to the guarantees of freedom of speech and freedom of the press."

Justice Douglas held that the sale, instead of donation of the literature, "does not transform evangelism into a commercial enterprise."

"If it did," the opinion continued, "then the passing of the collection plate in the church would make the church service a commercial project."

Noting the contention that the Jehovah's Witnesses' literature was "provocative and abusive," Justice Douglas said:

"Those considerations are no justification for the license tax. Plainly, a community may not suppress or the state tax, the dissemination of views because they are unpopular, annoying or distasteful. If that device were ever sanctioned, there would have been forced a ready instrument for the suppression of the faith which any minority cherishes but does not happen to be in favor of."

Pay-as-You-Go Plan Reaches Showdown

Demos, G.O.P. Fight Over Skip-a-Year Taxation Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The finish battle on pay-as-you-go taxation opened yesterday in the house, with Republicans fighting for the modified Ruml plan to skip a complete income tax year and Democratic leaders intent on killing the proposal "so dead that it will never again be resurrected."

House cleared the way for a vote today that may send the senate a bill wiping out at least half, if not all, of the $10,000,000,000 tax assessed against 1942 individual incomes.

The Democrats were aligned behind a pay-as-you-go bill that would abate about 50 percent of 1942 taxes.

'Iniquitous Policy'

Opening the debate yesterday, Rep. Doughton (D., N. C.), 79-year-old chairman of the ways and means committee, shouted that the Ruml plan was an "iniquitous tax policy."

Republicans replied that the Democratic-supported bill was "a seventh heaven for the loan sharks," Rep. Knutson (R., Minn.), charged that the bill amounted to a capital levy, because of its "doubtful" success.

The Democrats succeeded in beating the Ruml plan a month ago, 215 to 198, but by the maneuvering of the Republicans, under their leader, Martin of Massachusetts, the proposition has come back into the house for another trial.

Doughton called upon the house to kill it for keeps this time. He summarized what he termed "the fallacies and the heterodoxy of this iniquitous tax policy," as follows:

1. "The Ruml plan, which the minority has taken to its bosom, would grant complete tax forgiveness to all taxpayers for one year's taxes. In effect it would repeal the income tax law for one year and collect only one year's taxes out of two years' income, at a time when taxpayers are or have been enjoying the largest income in our history and the government is in its direst need of revenue."

2. Its adoption "would be seriously injurious to the morale of our people, especially those in the armed forces, since it would result in economic gain rather than sacrifice on the home front."

3. "It would produce an unjustifiable windfall to persons in the higher brackets." (He called anti-windfall provisions in "the latest version of the Ruml-Carlson plan a delusion and subterfuge.")

4. Its greatest benefits would go to those "least deserving them and its greatest burden would fall upon the backs of those least able to bear them."

The bill supported by the Democrats would cancel out about 50 percent of the tax liabilities against 1942 individual income. About 7,000,000 persons would be relieved of 1942 taxes completely and the obligations of others would be reduced.

'Only Sound Method'

Rep. Carlson (R., Kan.), author of the bill embracing the Republican-supported modified Ruml plan, told the house the skip-a-tax-year proposal was "the only sound and simple method" of placing America's 44,000,000 income taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis. He listed the virtues of his bill, as he saw them, as follows:

1. It accomplishes the objective of placing taxpayers on a current, pay-as-you-earn basis immediately and not at some distant time.
2. It involves no doubling-up in payments.
3. It treats all taxpayers equitably, and is the only plan which abates the 1942 tax assessment on the same progressive principle by which it was imposed.
4. It is the only plan which meets every problem squarely, openly, fairly and honestly.

Defeated Last Month

The Democrats succeeded in beating the Ruml plan a month ago, 215 to 198, but by the maneuvering of the Republicans, under their leader, Martin of Massachusetts, the proposition has come back into the house for another trial.

Doughton called upon the house to kill it for keeps this time. He summarized what he termed "the fallacies and the heterodoxy of this iniquitous tax policy," as follows:

H. Downing Gets Promotion

Chief Yeoman Herbert Downing, U.S.N. (ret.), now stationed at the Pre-Flight school here, was promoted to the rank of chief petty officer last Friday—for the second time in his navy career. Chief Downing, who has been file yeoman in Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman's office here since last fall, has spent a total of 30 years in the service of the United States navy. Downing was a chief petty officer once before, but lost the rating when he retired in the navy and naval enlistments closed, preventing him from re-entering in his former rank.

He was out of the navy from 1932 until he re-entered last fall. He was assigned to the Pre-Flight school in November.

During the time preceding his re-enlistment in 1942, he ran the Downing Insurance agency in Marshalltown.

Inter-American Affairs Speech Contest Will Begin Here Today

Hancher Will Preside At Evening Program Broadcast Over WSUI

The promotion of inter-American friendship and cooperation, and the stimulation of a more accurate knowledge and intelligent understanding by North Americans of South Americans will be stressed in the regional conference on inter-American affairs being held here today.

WSUI has made complete plans for the broadcasting and recording of the entire contest. Eight contestants will partake in the hour and one half discussion Tuesday afternoon on types of cooperation between the American republics which are necessary toward winning the war, as well as the cooperation already being carried on, it was announced by Prof. A. Craig Baird, regional director.

President Virgil M. Hancher will preside over the evening program, which is to consist of speeches by the contestants, regarding specific phases of the problem.

The public is invited to attend these programs, which will be held in the senate chamber of Old Capitol both this afternoon and evening.

Barbara Kinney from Northland college, Ashland, Wis., is the only freshman contestant. Other contestants are upperclassmen majoring in speech, English, history, art, commerce and economics, and the majority of them have had previous experience in forensic activities.

Colleges to be represented are: Coe college, Cedar Rapids; Jamestown college, Jamestown, N. D.; University of Chicago, Chicago; Milwaukee State Teachers college, Milwaukee, Wis.; Shurtleff college, Alton, Ill.; University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., and Clarke college, Dubuque.

Three judges chosen by the executive committee appraised the speech manuscripts. The eight best were chosen in each region and the students who prepared them appear in this contest.

The first-place winner in today's contest will have his expenses paid to and from the national finals, which are to be held in New York City May 25, and which will be broadcast on "America's Town Hall Meeting of the Air."

The winner of each regional contest will be conducted on a tour of Mexico this summer with all expenses paid.

Ruth Moyle of the WSUI staff will interview the contestants over WSUI at 5:30 this afternoon.

The program for today's activities also includes a dramatization directed by Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger of the speech department, to be broadcast at 3 o'clock, and a conversational Spanish program presented at 7:15 by Prof. Juan Lopez-Morillas of the Romance languages department.

Ration Board Plans Volunteer Program For Iowa City Students

A volunteer work program for high school students is being planned in Iowa City to supplement the volunteer corps of the Johnson county war price and rationing board. The board has been having difficulty obtaining adequate help, and the organization of a high school group numbering from 30 to 50 will make it possible for three to five students to be on duty at all times at the ration board office. Each volunteer will serve two days in every four weeks.

Both public high schools and parochial schools will participate in the program, and seniors and juniors will start to work at the board office about May 10.

Harry M. Konshok, representative of the Des Moines district OPA office, was here in charge of the organization of the program. Working with him on the project are R. J. Phelps, ration board chairman, Waldo Geiger, Sister Mary Letice of St. Mary's high school, Msgr. P. J. O'Reilly of St. Patrick's high school, Supt. Iver A. Opstad and W. E. Beck of the Iowa City high school.

Service in the student group is altogether voluntary, and is designed not only to assist the war price and ration board in its necessary work but also to give students participating in it applied business training.

Students volunteering their services will be sworn in just as are members of the board. Each student must first have the written consent of his parents to take part in the program. Daily records of each student's work will be kept, on which grades will be recorded as to performance, ability and general office conduct.

The students will be given volunteer worker pins to wear while at work, and upon graduation from high school each will receive a service card signed by the state director of OPA, Robert B. Adams, and Mr. Phelps.

Iowa Youths Assisted By NYA War Program

C. B. Lund, regional administrator of the NYA, has announced that already this year the NYA has assisted, through its war training and student work programs, a total of 15,126 young people in Iowa.

Young men and women assigned to the war training projects in the state have turned out 2,716,117 items of war production, such as gun parts, drift pins, punch vises and gun cases. The estimated market value of the items produced was $2,277,856.42.

In addition to the war production program, the war manpower commission, through NYA, has established farm shops in Iowa where young people between the ages of 16 and 25 receive training in the repair and maintenance of farm machinery. Youths are in training for 160 hours per month, during which time they earn a wage of $40 a month to cover items of transportation, board and room and necessary training tools.

Persons interested in the war training projects may obtain further information by writing to Kenneth E. Glass, manager, 617 Davenport bank building, Davenport, or by making application at the nearest United States employment office.

WAR ART WORKSHOP COMPLETES SECOND POSTER

THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA War Art Workshop has completed another in a series of posters for the college of liberal arts to emphasize the importance of higher education. A new, and less expensive technique was developed for this set of posters. Instead of pro-film as was previously used for printing, the posters were printed through use of paper stencils and the tusche method of stopping out the screen. Fifty of these new posters were distributed yesterday throughout the campus. In charge of this project by the workshop were Alice Davis and Kenneth Loomis, instructors in the art department. The posters were designed by Jean Kesting, a graduate of the university this spring. The War Art Workshop is now engaged in doing a series of charts for the visual instruction bureau to be used by the United States army.

City Council Reviews Assessment Petitions

H. S. Ivie Elected Permanent Chairman In Meeting Last Night

Members of the city council met as the assessment board of review for the first time in city hall last night. H. S. Ivie, temporary chairman of the board, was named permanent chairman.

The purpose of the board is to hear complaints on assessed property and to consider them for re-evaluation.

Five petitions for re-assessment and re-evaluation of real estate property assessed in 1941 were received and placed on file for further consideration.

Mrs. M. E. McCrabb, owner of a city lot formerly containing a chair factory, submitted a petition asking re-evaluation and re-assessment in view of the fact that the property is useless until improvements are made on it. Atty. Robert L. Larson represented Mrs. McCrabb at the meeting.

Petitions were received asking further consideration of the assessments placed on both the Alpha Xi Delta property at 114 E. Fairchild, and on property housing the Alpha Kappa Kappa fraternity, 933 River. The former is owned by the Alpha Xi Delta Building corporation, and the latter by the Cook Building corporation.

Della A. Grizel and Mrs. S. M. McCrabb each filed a petition asking reductions in the evaluation of city property.

The assessor's report of new real estate improvements for 1943 was received and placed on file for consideration by the board.

Evaluation of real estate property is made every four years, the last having been made in 1941. Only personal property and real estate property on which improvements have been made were re-evaluated this year.

The board adjourned until the regular meeting of the council Monday.

TO AVOID THOSE DUST BOWL DAYS

1. Don't abuse your cleaner by running it against hard objects or by picking up tacks, pins or other sharp objects.
2. Empty the dust bag each time after cleaner is used.
3. If it is a brush-type machine, adjust brushes to correct position and keep free from hair and threads. Check belt regularly and replace when it becomes slack.
4. Check nozzle adjustment before machine is turned on. There should be the thickness of a half-dollar above the floor covering.
5. If cleaner requires oiling, oil it regularly but use as little oil as possible.
6. Disconnect cord from outlet by grasping the plug. When not in use, the cord should be wound loosely around the hooks on the handle.
7. Don't attempt to repair the motor yourself—call your appliance dealer.
