14,000 Pittsburgh Coal Miners On Strike

Protest Against Steel Company Effort to Fine Former Strikers

PITTSBURGH (AP)—In the first coal mine work stoppage since the government took over the mines Saturday, the 1,400 employees of the largest captive mine of the Jones and Laughlin steel corporation went on strike late yesterday.

The walkout occurred not long after President Roosevelt implied at his Washington press conference that miners now are not free to strike, since they are employees of the government.

About the same time, John P. Busarello, president of United Mine Workers district 5, announced there would be no work in the mines of his district after midnight, May 18, unless a contract has been signed.

The Jones and Laughlin miners walked out in protest against efforts of the corporation to levy a $5 fine against participants in last week's walkout.

A spokesman for the company said it invoked the penalty clause in its contract which provides a $1-a-day fine for miners taking part in an unauthorized strike.

He said the company was imposing the fine only for the unauthorized stoppage from April 26 to 30, inclusive, and not for May 1 and 3, when there was no contract. The extended contracts in the Appalachian region expired at midnight, April 30, bringing about the general coal strike.

Busarello, saying the new walkout at the company's Vesta No. 4 mine at California, Pa., was un-sanctioned, announced he sent a number of union officials there with the purpose of "getting the morning shift back into the pits."

The decision not to work after May 18 without a contract was reached at a meeting of the UMW board of district 5, which includes about 38,000 of western Pennsylvania's 117,000 soft coal miners.

Busarello said the district board, after hearing reports from the international board meeting earlier this week in New York, had adopted the following resolution: "The officers and members of district 5 will carry out the traditional policy of 'no contract, no work,' effective as of midnight May 18, 1943."

His assertion was made at a press conference at which he suggested, too, that reporters should discount reports that the war labor board is pressing the White House strongly to relax the "little steel formula."

It is partly because of this formula that John L. Lewis, the United Mine Workers head, has refused to submit the coal wage controversy to the board. Lewis contends it forbids a decision based on justice and equity since it limits general wage increases to 15 percent above the level of Jan. 1, 1941. He also has charged that the board is prejudiced against the UMW.

Mr. Roosevelt replied with a flat affirmative when asked if the coal miners are government employees, now that the government has taken over operation of the mines. His reply was less direct, however, when he was asked if they could strike against the government.

He had been in the government a great many years, he remarked, and could not recall any strike by government employees against the government.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked if the government would continue operation of the mines until a new contract was signed and peace assured to the industry. He replied that he had heard nothing about stopping operations.

There appeared to be some slight alteration during the day in the UMW's attitude toward the WLB's intervention in the case. Although anthracite operators appeared as observers at the WLB hearings, preliminary to presenting their case next week, the UMW continued direct negotiations in New York with anthracite representatives. When soft coal operators went before the WLB, the UMW took the attitude that they had "run out" on the New York parleys.

The reports of WLB pressure for relaxation of the little steel formula developed last night after board members conferred for several hours with Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes. Sources close to the board but unwilling to be identified by name said labor members might resign unless the board were given power to adjust wage "inequalities."

Its declaration, however, that the clarification it seeks would be in "harmony" with moves to roll back the cost of living apparently was intended as assurance that it did not wish a broad relaxation of restrictions on wage increases. The little steel formula limits general wage increases to 15 percent above the level of Jan. 1, 1941.

Brown emphasized that the 10 percent cut in prices cent-per-pound meant present prices, and thus would apply to the meat ceiling which are to become effective May 17.

Brown said that he was recommending to the secretary of commerce (Jesse Jones) that subsidy payments be made to processors of the commodities involved to prevent the reduced prices from having an adverse effect on production.

Price Administrator Prentiss Brown announced the decision which meant abandonment of the government's efforts to control retail prices solely by price ceilings.

Almost simultaneously with his announcement, the war labor board issued a statement saying it had asked the White House for clarification of certain points in the president's hold-the-line order against inflation, but that its request had nothing to do with any change in the little steel wage formula.

What these points are was not disclosed, but the statement said the board "unanimously believes that these points can be clarified within the framework of realistic and effective wage stabilization program which is in full harmony with the administration's determination to roll back the cost of living."

Without such clarification, the board said, the hold-the-line order is unworkable.

The board, said the statement, "has not considered any change in the formula since that time and is not considering it now. The current discussions of executive order No. 9328 have nothing to do with any change in the little steel living readjustments."

"The board is unanimous in its support of the current plans of the administration to roll back food prices and other prices that critically affect the cost of living of the lower income groups," it continued.

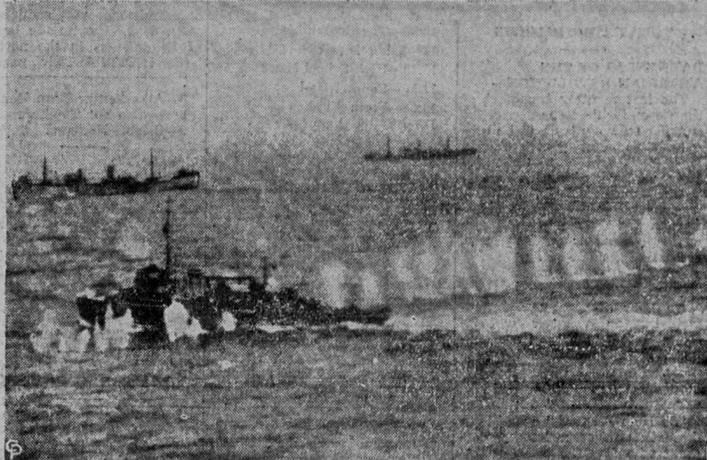

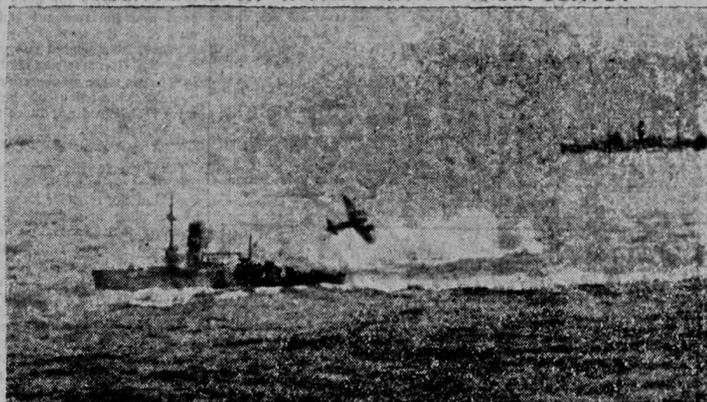

Another Moscow broadcast to the Red fleet said three transports totalling 13,000 tons, one 3,000-ton tanker and two invasion barges had been sunk in the Black sea by the fleet's air arm. This occurred during an attack on an enemy-occupied port, presumably Novorossisk, the announcement said.

The troops that occupied Amchitka, their landings drenched with the icy waters of the North Pacific, took over the five-mile-wide island, only a few minutes flying time from the Japanese base at Kiska, on January 12. The airbase was put into operation February 16 after eight light bombing attacks by enemy planes. The navy announced the landing today, simultaneous with an announcement of 10 fresh attacks by American bombers on Japanese positions at Kiska and Attu.

Besides being only 12 minutes flying time from the Japanese base at Kiska, Amchitka is only 1,927 nautical miles (2,219 statute miles) from Tokyo. Thus it might be feasible for planes taking off there to bomb Japan and land in China. Even closer than Japan itself are the important enemy bases in the Kuriles.

Government Orders 10 Percent Reduction In Prices of Coffee, Butter, Several Meats

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a far-reaching wartime policy move, the government yesterday ordered a 10 percent reduction in prices of meats, coffee and butter, and arranged to subsidize their production, if necessary.

The meat price cuts, effective June 1, apply specifically to beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton. Any subsidies to producers will be paid by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Price Administrator Prentiss Brown announced the decision which meant abandonment of the government's efforts to control retail prices solely by price ceilings.

Defenses of Tunisian Capital City, Naval Base Crumble Before Overwhelming Allied Forces Late in Second Day of Violent Offensive Drive

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 7 (AP)—Tunis and Bizerte were captured in mid-afternoon today by triumphant allied troops striking in overwhelming force by land and by air.

The naval base in the north fell to the American doughboys at 4:15 p. m. (11:15 p. m. CWT) and the capital was conquered five minutes later by British first army troops in the blazing coordinated drives climaxing two days of fierce battle.

Roads from both cities were choked tonight with German and Italian troops and tanks and trucks fleeing to the coastal hills below Bizerte, and to Cape Bon peninsula.

Allied war planes pounded and slashed relentlessly at the retreating columns.

Rear guard troops still were fighting in the capital but fierce struggles on the outskirts of cities failed to halt the allied drive to destroy the axis in Africa.

American doughboys smashed into Bizerte in the afternoon and British forces at the same time entered Tunis after fierce fighting on the outskirts of the capital.

Thus collapsed the axis defenses throughout north Tunisia except for strong elements still entrenched in the hills between the plain of Tunis and Enfidaville in positions already menaced by the British Eighth army.

The two cities were conquered in the mightiest offensive of the African war, in a shattering final drive that raced through crumbling German positions.

At 9 p. m., headquarters announced that fighting still was continuing inside both cities, but the remaining resistance was expected to be wiped out soon.

This last-ditch defense apparently was designed to give the fleeing bulk of the enemy a chance to escape to the hills of the Cape Bon peninsula in the northeast.

Large numbers of prisoners were taken in both cities and in the fighting outside.

Gen. Henri Giraud immediately named Gen. Charles Mast as resident general of France in Tunisia.

American units plunged nine miles to Bizerte and British first army forces advanced 4 miles in the fiercest kind of fighting today to capture the cities.

The Americans of the second corps encountered terrific opposition in their push to Bizerte, but after taking Ferryville at 3 p. m. today, the Yank columns converged upon the naval base in a tremendous drive by armor and infantry.

In the final battle before Tunis, British armor and infantry smashed the positions which the Germans had hastily erected. The Germans fought fiercely there.

Just before the break into Tunis itself the British had taken Le Bardo, home of the Bey of Tunis, but it has not yet been determined whether the Bey was there or was taken to the continent by the Germans, who had elevated him to "King of Tunisia."

Allied air forces were again complete masters of the skies tonight. (See TUNISIA, page 5)

Asked specifically whether the recent Russian-Polish rupture was a break or merely a suspension in relations, he marked obliquely that the Russian word for the situation was one of a fine shade of meaning, and to a question whether there was possibility of resumption of relations he responded:

"There is nothing in the world that cannot be changed."

Then, ending his press conference, he added:

"The Polish government is responsible for the rupture of relations and therefore it is for the Polish government to take concrete steps, and one cannot discuss the question in the abstract. How, when, and in what direction depends on concrete conditions."

Driving slowly through hilly terrain northeast of the Black sea port of Novorossisk, Moscow dispatches said the Red army methodically destroyed German-Rumanian military units and cut many of the invaders' surviving land communications between Novorossisk and the Kuban river valley in the Taman peninsula to the north.

Two days ago the Russians declared officially their troops were nine miles from Novorossisk, and it was believed they now were only five miles away.

The midnight bulletin recorded by the Soviet minister said a coordinated artillery and air bombardment yesterday drove the Germans from another series of strongly-fortified positions, and one Moscow broadcast said nine axis counterattacks were smashed and more important hill tops seized.

Another Moscow broadcast to the Red fleet said three transports totalling 13,000 tons, one 3,000-ton tanker and two invasion barges had been sunk in the Black sea by the fleet's air arm. This occurred during an attack on an enemy-occupied port, presumably Novorossisk, the announcement said.

Soviets Accuse Poles Of Pro-Axis Leanings, Espionage in Russia

Polish Press, Radio Send False Rumors, Vice-Commissar Says

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Russia accused the Polish government-in-exile yesterday of having acted "under the influence of pro-Hitler elements" and declared that some of its representatives now in London had conducted espionage in Russia.

In a 4,000-word statement read to American and British correspondents here, and sent also to the Polish government in London, Andrew J. Vishinski, vice commissar for foreign affairs, declared as well that the Polish press and radio "continue to circulate numerous false statements concerning Soviet-Polish relations."

Asked specifically whether the recent Russian-Polish rupture was a break or merely a suspension in relations, he marked obliquely that the Russian word for the situation was one of a fine shade of meaning, and to a question whether there was possibility of resumption of relations he responded:

Allied Planes Hit New Guinea

21 Tons of Bombs Dropped on Madang; Babo Also Raided

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Saturday (AP)—Allied bombers heavily raided Babo, Dutch New Guinea, and Madang, New Guinea, yesterday, the high command announced.

Babo lies deep within the 100-mile long MacCluer gulf of Dutch New Guinea, approximately 700 miles above Darwin.

Madang, which is on the north New Guinea, approximately 700 northwest of the allied base of Port Moresby, was twice raided, during which 21 tons of bombs were dropped.

If the Babo raid, medium bombers attacked the airfield, setting fires which could be seen for 70 miles. The raiders heavily strafed Japanese bombers and fighter planes caught in the dispersal area.

Fires were started at the radio station and barracks on the airfield at Koepang, Dutch Timor, in another raid northwest of Australia. Koepang is 500 miles northwest of Darwin.

U.S. Sets Up New Aleutian Airbase

WASHINGTON (AP)—American troops have put into operation a new airbase on Amchitka Island only 70 miles southeast of Kiska, and Secretary Knox said yesterday this advance into the Western Aleutians is a new blow in America's program of "aggressive, offensive war."

The navy chief declined to be drawn into speculation as to the uses of the new base—including the possibility that it might be a takeoff place for bombings against Tokyo itself—but he said "the military situation up there in the Aleutians has certainly been improved."

Knox referred also to an American base on Adak Island, 212 nautical miles from Kiska, occupied by the United States last October.

The troops that occupied Amchitka, their landings drenched with the icy waters of the North Pacific, took over the five-mile-wide island, only a few minutes flying time from the Japanese base at Kiska, on January 12. Ruml Tax Plan Wins Smash Senate Victory

Finance Committee Scraps House Bill, Favors 'Pay-as-Go'

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a smashing victory for Ruml plan supporters, the senate finance committee voted 13 to 6 yesterday to adopt the principle of abating a full year's tax in installing pay-as-you-go revenue collection.

The committee voted to lay aside the house-approved current collection bill and use the "skip a year" plan as a basis for legislation expected to parallel closely the Ruml-Carlson bill rejected by four votes in the House.

Chairman George (D-Ga) announced, however, that some of those who favored forgiving a full year's tax stipulated that adequate provision must be made to prevent "windfall" gains to those in the upper income brackets who have benefited by war profits. It was with this understanding that the committee adopted the 100 percent tax forgiveness motion made by Senator Clark (D-Mo.).

George voted against the motion, along with four other Democrats—Barkley of Kentucky, Connally of Texas, Byrd of Virginia, Johnson of Colorado—and LaFollette (PROG-Wis).

Those who supported it were five Democrats—Clark, Gerry, of Rhode Island, Radcliffe of Maryland, Walsh of Massachusetts, Lucas of Illinois—and the committee's eight Republicans—Vandenberg of Michigan, Davis of Pennsylvania, Lodge of Massachusetts, Danaher of Connecticut, Taft of Ohio, Thomas of Idaho, Butler of Nebraska and Millikin of Colorado.

Sensors Bailey (D, N. C.) and Guffy (D, Pa.) were not present and not recorded by proxy.

Of those who favored the Clark motion, Senators Walsh and Lucas were reported to have insisted upon the reservation that satisfactory "windfall" provisions be inserted.

F.D.R. Calls Miners Government Workers, Denies Right to Strike

WLB Rumored Urging Executive Relaxation Of Little Steel Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The coal miners now are government employees, President Roosevelt said yesterday, and he implied that as such they are not free to strike regardless of how their case may be decided.

His assertion was made at a press conference at which he suggested, too, that reporters should discount reports that the war labor board is pressing the White House strongly to relax the "little steel formula."

It is partly because of this formula that John L. Lewis, the United Mine Workers head, has refused to submit the coal wage controversy to the board. Lewis contends it forbids a decision based on justice and equity since it limits general wage increases to 15 percent above the level of Jan. 1, 1941. He also has charged that the board is prejudiced against the UMW.

Mr. Roosevelt replied with a flat affirmative when asked if the coal miners are government employees, now that the government has taken over operation of the mines. His reply was less direct, however, when he was asked if they could strike against the government.

He had been in the government a great many years, he remarked, and could not recall any strike by government employees against the government.

Capt. Clark Gable Makes First Raid

LONDON (AP)—Capt. Clark Gable, the movie star who joined the U. S. army as a private and quickly worked his way to a commission in the air forces, made his first raid May 4 when Flying Fortresses attacked Antwerp, and 8th air force headquarters today quoted him as saying he "enjoyed it and learned a lot."

A Local Battle Half Won—

Iowa City has done a commendable job in nearly every phase of the home front battle. The scrap drive, the bond campaign, the air raid practices—all were carried off with flying colors.

But there is still one battle—the most important of all—which is only half won. The effort of every Iowa City woman is needed to achieve this victory. It can be accomplished overnight if all Iowa City women with a few spare hours each day enroll in voluntary nurses aide classes right now.

Mrs. N. G. Aleock, secretary of the Red Cross voluntary nurses aide project for Johnson county has said that classes have been delayed because only half of the required number has volunteered. The Red Cross needs every available hand today as never before.

In order that business and professional women may participate, classes are scheduled for evening hours. By meeting five nights each week, students may complete the 80-hour course in six or seven weeks.

Classes in theory of nursing occupy the first portion of the course and the remainder in the wards of University hospital for three hours, five nights each week.

It's a simple matter to enroll. All you have to do is dial Mrs. Aleock at 6721. Do it now. Remember, all you give is a few hours a day. A few hours which will enable you to help some boy who is fighting all day to protect your right to do things of your own free will.

Wooden Jap Ships—

American submarines have inflicted serious damage on Japanese shipping in its own home waters. Moreover, the battles around the Solomon islands and New Guinea also have cost them many large and small transports. But according to information available now, the Japanese are using new ships made of wood in coastwise operations, and have at their disposal a sizeable tonnage which could be used as army transports.

The wooden ships can be built almost anywhere in record time and are provided with auxiliary motors. They are reported to be of 2,000 tons or less and are not as satisfactory as regular merchantmen, but they may be put to the work of regular cargo vessels on routes between the Japanese islands and conquered territories.

While the Nipponese coastwise transportation problem is reported to have been partially solved, the heavy losses suffered by the enemy merchant marine are yet to be replaced from the yards in Indo-China, Singapore and the Netherlands Indies. It may be assumed that British and Dutch yards, which were only partially destroyed before their capture, have been refitted. The yards in Indo-China were seized by the Japanese intact.

Facilities of all these yards—some were intended only for major repair work—have been improved to a point that they can produce some ships of most new types except large battleships and carriers. It is in these yards and at Hong Kong that the Japanese repair their damaged warships and build new merchantmen which they may now employ as transports.

Rubber Relief—

The prediction by William M. Jeffers, United States rubber administrator, that there will be 12,000,000 pre-war and victory tires on the market between now and next January and that the synthetic industry will turn out 12,000,000 tires for civilian cars next year strongly indicates that the rubber crisis that was feared will be averted provided drivers give their tires the best care possible.

Synthetic plants are coming into production rapidly. By December they are expected to produce 40,000 tons monthly of Buna S., the principal synthetic. That is above current consumption for all purposes. Consumption this year has averaged 33,000 tons monthly. Expansion of aircraft production will increase consumption, but the rubber program, it appears now, will come into play in time.

It is estimated America will use more than 600,000 tons of rubber this year. The army set aside 312,000 tons for its own use. But many

News Behind the News

Why Willkie's 'One World' Theory Will Not Hold Water
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—A substantial number of constant readers took pens in hands and jabbed same into me for my column, published April 23, criticizing Mr. Wendell Willkie's fast-selling book "One World."

The amount of critical mail was as heavy as I have ever received in protest against a column, some saying it was the only column with which they had disagreed so sharply in many a year.

Generally, they pointed out Mr. Willkie advanced no wild new notions of post-war, but merely set forward a reasonable, restrained accounting of his experiences in flying around the world in 49 days, and he concluded that the plane had brought the nations of the world together—a physical fact which should guide us in arriving at a post-war plan.

"What could I find in Mr. Willkie's book to protest?" my friends asked.

The basic idea; the fundamental principle it set forth; the premise that Mr. Willkie adopted when he wrote the book; the reason for writing it; namely, the conclusion that nearness makes oneness. Mr. Willkie has deluded himself and obviously also deluded a great number of my good readers.

Distances never have had anything to do with unity. You may have lived next door to two neighbors for 20 years, barely spoken to one and have become very close to another—but not nearly so attached as to a friend who lives on the other side of town, or perhaps one in Canada or Labrador.

Oneness is made out of something more spiritually substantial than distance. It comes from similarity of ideals, habits, customs, methods of living.

If a Chinese happened to live next door to you and you did not understand his way of life, the proximity would not in itself lead you to be friends. But if you happened to be a fellow Chinese, or a person who knew the Chinese way of life intimately, you might become close friends and might establish a basis of unity.

Nations are only groups of people in a world neighborhood, and always have been. We have lived many years an equal distance from both Mexico and Canada. With Canada, we share a valid bond of friendship; with Mexico, we never have.

Therefore, Mr. Willkie has erred grievously in his primary idea. He is just plain wrong in his initial assumption that whereas this was many worlds before, the plane has made it one world. It is the same old world, and, as distances have had nothing to do with the establishment of our international friendships of the past, they will have nothing to do with it in the future.

We like people who like us, who share our views, hopes, and expectations, and we will always continue to like such people and dislike others; regardless of how fast a few can fly back and forth.

Mr. Willkie's error is grievous, because if we now base our hopes of peace on a false assumption we will not only be disillusioned sadly, but we are likely to have more international troubles as a direct result, perhaps even war. Only a thoroughly realistic peace can be a lasting peace.

The plane, to be sure, will bring new commercial and military factors into the post-war world. Some say it may be possible for a debutante to order a gown straight from Paris by a mail order catalogue for a weekend party.

Many people certainly will fly to England in eight hours. A great many people will use the plane for passenger service instead of boats, and it is possible commercial travel will eventually develop to an extent not known before.

From a military standpoint, it will also be necessary, for our protection, to acquire bases throughout the world from which we may intercept possible air attacks on us.

But these are not the things Mr. Willkie was talking about. He spoke of political unity as a primary assumption, but the prospective use of the plane commercially and militarily does not itself justify such an assurance.

These factors are just as apt to lead to rivalry as oneness. Certainly if rivalry is to be avoided entirely, the world politicians will have to remake human nature, not only here at home but chiefly abroad.

What I would consider more important than Willkie's views is what Stalin thinks about the future use of the plane and its political effect. And those of Mr. Churchill's one British empire.

A few readers accused me of trying to "smear" Willkie. I have never smeared anyone. Smear tactics have been so notoriously pursued in several instances of late years that they should arouse the outraged indignation of every man—regardless of whether the smeared one is right or wrong.

Democracy is a debate in which false ideas should be smeared—never the personal dignity of the individual.

materials are being made of substitutes, and the army's rubber stockpile is not shrinking at the anticipated rate. Not all of the 150,000 tons earmarked for the allies will be needed it now appears.

England is obtaining more than 100,000 tons from Ceylon and Russia is getting by with little outside help. There is a rumor that Russia imports rubber from Japan.

Interpreting THE WAR NEWS by Glenn Babb

Stalingrad Defeat For Axis in Africa

The united nations have won a great and historic victory in Tunisia. Their troops completed last night the capture of Tunis and Bizerte, the capital and naval stronghold. So swiftly are events moving that it appears it is only a matter of days, perhaps only hours, before the last hold of the axis on the world's second largest continent is ended.

The Americans and British and their French allies have inflicted on Hitler a defeat that ranks with Stalingrad. It may prove even more complete and ignominious for the enemy and of equal strategic significance. At Stalingrad at least von Paulus and his Sixth Army fought on for weeks after all hope was gone and the remnant yielded only after the tactical job was finished. It appeared last night that the Germans and Italians in Tunisia were on the verge of collapse, incapable of buying with their blood any more time for their master.

The turn in the campaign of 1943 has come when the allied command can consider its work in Africa done and devote all its planning and preparation to the European phase. The battle of Tunisia soon will become the battle of the Mediterranean, which probably will merge quickly into the battle of Sicily, Sicily or Italy itself. No doubt General Eisenhower and his lieutenants already are looking beyond the smoke and rubble of Tunis and Bizerte to the next chapter.

It is possible, of course, that axis resistance will continue for some days. Despite the breakup of its defenses in the north its

Biographical Movies Are Painless Educators, But Tough on the Actors
By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—A couple of days ago we were talking about motion pictures based on the lives of famous men, saying that watching a photo-biography is a painless way of getting an education. There's another side to the story, too, and it deals with the actor's acquaintance with the type of person he or she is to portray.

When plans were being made for filming "The Iron Major," which deals with the life of the late Major Frank Cavanaugh, football coach and war hero, Actor Pat O'Brien and Producer Robert Fellows agreed that some first-hand research was in order.

So Fellows and O'Brien went east, their first stop at Worcester, Mass., Cavanaugh's birthplace. O'Brien met the Major's widow, studied background and made notes. He went on to New York for a visit with Jack Coffey, graduate manager of athletics at Fordham University, who was responsible for bringing the Major to coach at Fordham. Also in New York, Pat arranged a gabfest with friends and sports writers who had known Cavanaugh.

Rosalind Russell did pretty much the same thing to prepare for the role of "a famous woman flyer" in "Flight for Freedom," now showing in New York's Radio City Music Hall. Miss Russell read and talked aviation when not before the cameras, and went out of her way to meet civilian and air corps pilots.

"I wanted to reveal," she says, "what made 'Tonic Carter' a famous flyer." Which is pretty much the same thing O'Brien said concerning Cavanaugh, to wit: "It's better to talk to people about the man you plan to recreate for the screen."

The Russell-Fred MacMurray co-starrer is the story of a woman flyer known as Tonic Carter who purposely becomes lost in the Pacific in order that U. S. navy ships and planes may have a pretext to search for her in Japanese waters. You don't have to guess what actual woman flyer the story authors had in mind.

Familiarity with his subject won for Paul Muni a cable of commendation from the Norwegian government-in-exile after King Haakon VII witnessed Muni's performance in "Commandos Strike at Dawn," a story of the Norwegian underground. Muni is famous, of course, for getting everything possible out of a role, and currently he is doing just that in a Broadway stage hit, "Counselor-at-Law."

John Selby Reviews New Books—

Scanning the World Of Current Reading

"Stranger on the Highway," by H. R. Hays (Little, Brown; $2.50)
Somebody once said that a mystery that sells for $2.50 is for that reason a novel. By that token, H. R. Hays' "Stranger on the Highway" would be a novel, even though it contains an assortment of murders, some mystery, and some rather backhanded, but recognizable, detecting.

It is one too. It is published as "a tense novel of mood and pace" according to the blurb artist. As such, it comes nearer to living up to its prescription than most such products, although it has some rather shaky spots and sometimes falls into a nest of the cliches common to this sort of literary product. Perhaps a novel of mood and pace is not supposed to keep the secret of the murderer to the end, but "Stranger on the Highway" would be more amusing if it did. And yet I read it, and enjoyed it, feeling quite smart and smug because almost from the first page I knew who was so free with the rat poison.

It begins with an insurance man, not a very important one, who offers to adjust a claim in Stubblestone as a favor to the man whose job it really was. Unluckily Kennedy's car broke down on the outskirts of the village, and luckily for the story, it could not at once be repaired. By the same token, it was fortunate that Kennedy arranged to stay overnight in a certain farmhouse, and that the farmhouse contained a somewhat curious assortment of people—an odd woman of middle age, a shy and lovely girl, a crazy old man.

And the neighbors were odd, too, especially Molly. Molly was a fat and shapeless creature who raised pigs and had a bawdy streak a yard wide running through her. Lastly, the woman who had died possessed of a paid-up life policy for $10,000 was mean in every sense; and well disposed of. The difficulty was that Kennedy (although it was not his job to do something about it) found that he really must. The shy and lovely girl, you remember.

This sounds very much like one of the stock skeletons for a mystery, and it is. That is its worst fault; Mr. Hays is very successful at creating and sustaining atmosphere, and his people are pretty real. What a place was Stubblestone!

"Order in the Court," by John C. Knox (Scriveners; $2.75); "The Mind and Faith of Justice Holmes," edited by Max Lerner (Little, Brown; $4).

Justice John C. Knox has written a keen and yet a gentle and urbane book which he calls "Order in the Court." Judge Knox has been on the bench 25 years, and his legal experience began, of course, long before he was elevated to that eminence. He has, therefore, a considerable experience of men and the sort of mind one associates with the law. This would be enough to produce a good book, but there is more. Judge Knox has also common sense.

"Order in the Court" runs the expected gamut, too. Some of the witnesses the Judge has dealt with include John L. Lewis and the "Morro Castle," since in Admiralty law a ship is considered a person who can be, and sometimes is, arrested and tried. The woman include a person so shrewd that she argued him out of forcing her to tell her age. The actions he has heard include the first legal procedure (and decision) on "movie rights," and they include also little monkey-business cases involving shyster lawyers and shifty witnesses.

There are enough books like this, but not too many really balanced ones. And it is encouraging to find Judge Knox believing firmly that with all its difficulties, American justice is the equal even of British justice, and in some respects superior. Our future, he feels, is based on the proposition of essential justice—plus our willingness to use our resources and force if necessary to enforce it.

Comdr. J. M. Bloom To Go On Active Duty

Second in Command Of Pre-Flight School Will Leave June 1

Comdr. John M. Bloom, executive officer of the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school and one of the men who was "on deck" to open the station in April, 1942, will be transferred to submarine duty June 1, navy authorities announced yesterday.

The commander was a submarine captain during the last war and served in his present capacity at the Iowa base as second in command.

Commander Bloom has been connected with the aviation branch of the navy since he returned to duty in January, 1942. At that time he went to Washington, D. C., with Capt. A. W. Radford, head of the naval aviation training, and helped to lay the ground work for the navy's five pre-flight schools and to set up the aviation training program as it is today.

He graduated from the navy's academy at Annapolis in 1916 and transferred to submarine service the next year. During World War I he commanded a submarine in the Azores. He resigned his commission in 1920 and went into business in Detroit.

His successor as No. 2 man at the station has not yet been named.

Minister Blames War For New Weaknesses In Churches, Families

Blaming poor conditions on a weakness in church and family groups, the Rev. James Waery discussed the effect of war on the home front at a meeting of the Masonic lodge yesterday noon in the Masonic temple. Members pre-figured problems for discussion.

The Congregational minister quoted statistics released by the federal bureau of investigation. In comparing 1942 with 1941 there was a 55 percent increase in arrests of girls under 21, a 65 percent increase in prostitution and a 70 percent increase in disorderly conduct cases. Since Pearl Harbor the number of neglected children has grown considerably.

According to one member, women are so busy with war activities—Red Cross and civilian defense—that they haven't enough time to care for their children as they should.

Religious education, said the Rev. Mr. Waery, is, after all, religious education of parents. The attitude in the home is important. Families should take advantage of the courses offered in nutrition, child health and home betterment. They should organize family councils, regular devotion periods and adopt a family budget on a stewardship basis.

Field Representative Of Safety Council Heard Over WSUI

Elmer M. Lofstrom, of Chicago, field representative of the farm and home safety division of the national safety council, stressed the importance of accident prevention in victory gardening in an interview over WSUI yesterday at 12:45.

Lofstrom has traveled throughout the midwestern farm states giving lectures, appearing on radio programs and working on the organization and promotion of farm and home safety.

A few of the rules mentioned by Lofstrom to be applied by victory gardeners are: leave tools face down in the ground when they are not in use at the moment; don't leave tools where people are likely to stumble over them; keep sharp instruments put away; don't use split handles; be careful of children playing.

Lifting with heavy loads should be done with the use of the strong leg muscles, not the back.

He pointed out the danger of fish ponds in the yards, and the possibilities of inquisitive youngsters hurting themselves by climbing up on bird baths that are not securely anchored.

"This year there will be more heat victims than in previous years," said Mr. Lofstrom, "for people that have never before worked out-of-doors will be spending many hours in their victory gardens. These people should work with hats and shirts on if the weather is exceptionally warm."

Minister Will Speak At Club Guest Day

Mrs. Alva B. Oathout, 627 Bradley street, will be hostess to the members of the Child Conservation club on their annual guest day Tuesday at 2:15 p. m.

The Rev. L. L. Dunnington will speak on "The War's Challenge to the Family."

The committee includes Mrs. W. Robert White Jr., chairman, Mrs. Nate Moore Jr., Mrs. Vernon H. Price and Mrs. Edward McLachlan.

County Scrap Drive Drops Below Average For 3 Month Period

Citizens of Johnson county have collected approximately 70 tons of scrap iron and steel during the first three months of 1943, Herbert C. Plagman of Des Moines, executive secretary of the salvage division, war production board revealed yesterday. He went on to point out that collections throughout the state are far below average.

The state quota for the first half of the year is 100,000 tons of scrap, and so far only 20,000 tons have been turned in, Plagman said.

Regional figures show Iowa in last place in collections, which were only 15 pounds per capita, or 19 percent of the quota. To reach the state goal of 100,000 tons, 79 pounds per capita must be gathered from farms, homes and business houses, Plagman explained, and then went on to say: "Iowa's 19 percent effort isn't enough. Less than two months remain to finish the job for the first half of the year, and everyone must redouble their efforts if Iowa is to reach its 100,000 ton quota."

In an attempt to speed up scrap collections, the salvage director urged that commercial clubs in every community get behind the drive to assist the volunteer salvage committees in each county. A huge stock pile is needed to guarantee the steady flow of implements of war to all battlefronts, he declared.

Iowa's stock pile is now less than 16,000 tons, as a result of the fact that collections have fallen so far behind outgoing shipments.

Pan-American League Elects New Officers

Mrs. O. S. Morse was recently elected president of the Pan-American league, succeeding Mrs. LeRoy Mercer, who has been in office for the past two years. Other officers elected include Mrs. Willis Mercer, vice-president, and Mrs. Clarence Van Epps, secretary-treasurer.

Serving on the membership committee are Mrs. Robert B. Gibson, chairman, Mrs. George H. Scanlon and Mrs. A. S. Beardsley.

The program committee for 1943-44, consisting of Mrs. Ernest Horn, Mrs. M. Willard Lampe and the chairman, Mrs. Carl E. Seashore, presented an outline of events for the meetings of next year, stressing the idea of making the league significant to Pan-American students who are attending the university as well as to members of the league.

After the past few years of study of various aspects of South America, Mrs. Seashore said the league now plans "to implement the 'good neighbor' program by real acquaintance with our Pan-American students." Accordingly, the first meeting in the fall will be planned to acquaint the Latin-American students with members of the league and will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lampe.

Mrs. Jack J. Hinman, who will leave soon for Washington, D. C., was asked to serve as the official field representative of the Iowa City Pan-American organization and will represent the league in Washington. Members were also urged to attend the Grinnell Institute of International Relations to be held at Grinnell from June 14 to 24.

In the outline of events for the coming meetings it was announced the league will meet in connection with the Pan-American conference which is to be held in Iowa City June 17-19. At the July meeting, Mrs. Eleanor Douglass Robson, a former student of the university and for the past few years a teacher in the high schools of the Canal Zone, will be the guest speaker.

Other programs of special interest will be the December meeting which includes plans for a party for all foreign students in the university; the January meeting, including a discussion of "Some Aspects of Geography Affecting South American Trade Relations"; the February meeting, presenting "Our Tariffs in Relation to South America," and the March meeting on "The Riddle of the Argentine." Speakers will be announced later.

Issue Wedding Permit

R. Nelson Miller, clerk of court, issued a marriage license yesterday to Harold B. Brinkmeyer, 21, and Laura Green, 21, both of Lone Tree.

Soldiers Worship

HISTORIC BASILICA OF St. Crispine in Tebessa, Algeria, now partly in ruins, is a favorite place of worship of U. S. soldiers, shown above, leaving Sunday services there. St. Crispine, daughter of a Roman consul in Tebessa, was beheaded in 304 A. D. for being a Christian.

Dr. Jesse L. Bollman Will Give First Mayo Lecture Here Tuesday

The first annual Joseph Graham Mayo lecture will be given in the medical amphitheater in University hospital at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Dr. Jesse L. Bollman, associate professor of pathology and experimental physiology at the University of Minnesota graduate school.

Introduced by Dr. W. R. Ingram, head of the anatomy department, Dr. Bollman will talk on the "Physiology of the Experimentally Impaired Liver."

The lecturer has been a member of the research staff of the Mayo foundation since his graduation from the University of Illinois in 1923. During that time he has conducted extensive investigations on the physiology of the liver, including work on liver function tests and experimentally induced liver lesions.

He has also been engaged in research on protein, mineral and water metabolism.

The Joseph Graham Mayo lectures are made possible by an endowment given the college of medicine by Mrs. Charles H. Mayo in memory of her son, who was graduated from the university college of medicine in 1927.

He was associated with his father and uncle, Dr. Charles and Dr. Will Mayo in the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., until his death in November, 1936.

Re-elect Mrs. G. Buxton

Mrs. Gerald W. Buxton was re-elected chairman of the music department of the Iowa City Woman's club at a recent meeting in the Community building club rooms. Succeeding Mrs. Pearl Mann as secretary-treasurer is Mrs. M. F. Neuzil.

River Valley Scout Council Plans Meeting

County Representatives Will Discuss Activity Program for Next Year

Representatives from Washington, Iowa and Johnson counties who belong to the Iowa River Valley Boy Scout council will meet Sunday in the river room of Iowa Union from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. to discuss plans for next year's activities. It was announced yesterday by Milton R. Peterson, president of the council.

John Shanks of New York, assistant director of education of the national council of Boy Scouts, will attend the meeting. Sam Waymer of Kansas City, Mo., deputy regional executive, Earl Christman of Clinton and W. S. Souder of Davenport, scout executives, will also be present.

Chairmen for the six planning committees have been named. They include Julien Brody, camping activities; Eno Hesselschwerdt, organizer and extension; Mayor Wilber J. Teeters, advancement; Albert Sidwell, finance; Kurt Lewin, leadership training, and Charles Beckman, health and safety.

Iowa City business and professional men who will assist on the committees are Eugene Fobes, Frank Kinney, Merton Spicer, David Thomas, Irving Weber and Ed Wilkinson, camping activities; George Crum, Roscoe Taylor, William Hart, Dr. Reuben Nomland, Dan Dulcher and William Mengert, organization and extension.

E. P. Lyon, George Coleman, the Rev. Elmer Dierks and C. M. Udegaff, advancement; I. C. Nickols and C. R. Rasley, finance; Charles Winter and Edward Downey, leadership training; Eliza Means, Ralph Tarrant and L. E. Brinkmeyer, health and safety.

How Bus Travelers are HELPING WIN THE WAR

They plan trips in advance

You'll have a better, more comfortable wartime bus trip if you let your agent plan it—in advance.

They buy tickets in advance

Only by advance ticket sales can we judge how many will travel on a trip, and how to make them most comfortable.

They are on time

With speed restricted and tires and gas rationed, time can't be made up. One late passenger delays everyone.

They carry only one bag

Luggage is weight—it uses gas and rubber. Tag your bag and be sure to claim it at destination.

THEY TRAVEL IN MIDWEEK

Leave the week-end travel for the fighting forces. Traveling in midweek makes seats so double duty—and you'll be more comfortable, too.

● We are intent on doing our share of the immense war transportation job—in spite of restrictions and shortages. With your continued cooperation, we can do it. Thank you.

Seahawks to Open Season at Iowa State Today

Alix, Welp May Start

Team Will Play Two More Games Away; Play at Home June 6

The Navy Pre-Flight school's Seahawks start their 1943 diamond season rolling this afternoon when they meet Iowa State at Ames. Yesterday Lieut. Wes Schulmerich, coach, indicated that pitching duties would probably go to Joseph Alix, southpaw from Lockport, N. Y. If Iowa State's lineup is dominated by lefthanders, Harold Sherman, righthander from Bonne Terre, Mo., will be chosen instead. Completing the battery will be Bill Welp of Bancroft, last year's captain on the Iowa nine.

Outstanding member of the squad is Bob Kennedy of Chicago, formerly of the White Sox, who will hold down third. Other members of the infield will be Harold Youngmans of St. Paul, shortstop; Forrest Fellows of Los Angeles, second base, and Robert Yanke of Elyria, Ohio, at first.

Schedule Change
The game scheduled between the Seahawks and Camp Grant at Moline, Ill., May 18, has been changed to June 1.

In the outfield will be Vernon Sanderson of Kansas City, left; Bud Flanders of Des Moines, center, and Paul Kramer of Youngstown, Ohio, or William Trecker of Park Ridge, Ill., right.

"The makings of a pretty fair club" was Lieutenant Schulmerich's appraisal of his squad earlier in the workout period. The coach sifted his original turnout of 70 candidates down to 30 last Monday. Today's game marks the beginning of a busy summer schedule for the Seahawk team, made up entirely of cadets and enlisted men. The slate calls for another tilt this month, with the Muscatine Indians, and two in June, only the last of which will be at home. The opponents next month will be Camp Grant and Muscatine in a return engagement.

According to a release from the Pre-Flight school this week, prospects indicate that the team will play on an average of one a week throughout the summer, after a more definite and complete schedule has been arranged.

Bithorn Takes Place Among Top Pitchers

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO (AP)—Hiram Bithorn, the Puerto Rican native, has taken his place this spring among the national league's top pitchers, but don't let anyone suggest he should be considered one of the Chicago Cubs' "big four" mound staff.

The pleasant Latin-American gentleman has quietly compiled three of the Cubs' first five victories, while the substantial Cub old-guard hurling quartet, Bill Lee, Claude Passeau, Paul Deringer and Lon Warneke—has been in comparative eclipse.

This situation has given rise to the suggestion Bithorn be placed in a class all by himself—the Cubs' "big one"—with the erstwhile "big four" tagging in second position. Then genial, calm Bithorn disposition and flashing big smile convey the impression that "Hi" isn't one to get riled up. But that's a mistake. Senior Bithorn can get mad, and did one day last summer when he pegged a steaming smokeball into the Brooklyn Dodgers' dugout.

Bithorn was still peeved after the game that his brief loss of control prevented him from putting his intended target—Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers.

Bithorn scored his first victory this year April 24 in a relief role. He was rewarded with a starting assignment four days later and shut out the world champion St. Louis Cardinals on seven hits. May 2 he suffered a 3 to 0 setback when his mates failed to get any runs against the Pittsburgh Pirates. Thursday he beat the Cards again, 5 to 1.

Because of an opening day injury to Clyde McCullough, Bithorn's battery-mate has been another up-and-coming Latin-American, Cuban Chico Hernandez.

Both Bithorn and Hernandez take delight from the current baseball exploits of such other genies of Spanish blood as Pitchers Alex Carrasquel of Washington, and Jesse Flores of the Philadelphia A's, and outfielder Bob Estalella

53d Preakness Staged Today

Four Entries Venture To Compete Against Much-Favored Fleet

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four three-year-olds got up enough nerve yesterday to elect to run against Count Fleet in the 53rd Preakness today—and in the case of at least one of them, it took even more imagination than nerve.

This one is a little thing called Radio Morale, and off his form he's strictly the "short wave" gee-gee in this field of five which will take off at 1:30 p. m. (CWT) today in the mile and three sixteenths scramble over old Pimlico's racing strip.

For, while Count Fleet has been rated by some the "greatest since Man O'War" since his Kentucky Derby victory a week ago, Radio Morale couldn't even come close running with a $1,750 price tag in a cheap claiming race a month ago.

However it appeared highly unlikely the colt would start in the Preakness after all. He finished sixth in a field of seven in a $1,200 claiming race at Jamaica yesterday and was claimed by Isadore Bieber who indicated he had no intentions of shipping the horse to Baltimore.

So it doesn't take a pair of 12 power field glasses to see that he belongs in this Preakness league about as much as chocolate sauce goes with steak—if you can get the steak.

Naturally, you can't blame Radio Morale for putting his name in the entry box, along with the others—the Count, Blue Swords, owned by Allen Simmons, Akron (Ohio) radio station owner; W. L. Brann's Vincentine, the Maryland-bred "Home Town Boy" the local folks hope will make good, and New Moon, a so-so stepper from the barn of Henry L. Straus, the totalizer manufacturer.

Regardless, however, of the assorted sizes, shapes and forms of the rest of the field, the Count figures to operate a conga line down the stretch of Old Hilltop here today and pick up a pay check of $43,600.

This would boost his earnings to $202,760—a pretty fair country bankroll for a horse whose owner, Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago, once wanted to get rid of him for $4,500.

In spite of war-time travel restrictions, the tall, rangy brown lightning bolt is expected to lure some 40,000 of the cash customers to Maryland's ancient yellow-and-white racing plant.

And when they start pouring their "duces" and such into Pimlico's "iron men," they'll probably knock him down to the shortest price any Preakness galloper has been since Buddha was 1 to 30 to beat one other horse—and did—way back in '89.

The best estimates are that if he's any better than 1 to 5, it will be like finding money.

Yale Slates Twelve Grid Games Next Fall

By LOU BLACK

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Yale announced plans yesterday to play 12 football games next fall—longest gridiron schedule in its modern athletic history.

The news came right on top of arch-rival Harvard's decision to quit the game for the duration. So while the crowning Ivy league football spectacle will be missing this year for the first time since 1918, Yale's head coach, Howard Odell is busily trying to find four opponents for September and a fifth to fill Harvard's place at the end of the season.

The September games will be the added element. Yale regularly plays eight games during the first week in October.

★ Deaf Mute Boxer
★ Is Big Gate Lure;
★ Other Sports Items

By RUSS NEWLAND (Pinch-hitting for Whitney Martin)

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Saturday's shorts: Box Office: New York boxing mogul Mike Jacobs perks up and his eyes glisten when he hears of a new gate attraction. His west coast agents must be asleep at the switch if they haven't tipped him off to the potentialities of Silent Escobar, white deaf mute of Oakland recently out of the amateur ranks.

This young light heavyweight (he's still growing) is only a preliminary fighter and green as grass but he can punch his way through a brick wall. If he can be taught it is unwise to lead with the chin—Battling Nelson is the only man we recall who got away with this and became a champion—he stands a chance of becoming the best drawing card developed in Oakland since Max Baer began bowling over the boys in 1929.

Two hundred or more of his deaf mute friends always attend his matches. His manager "talks" to him in sign language between rounds.

Escobar was sailing along on a sensational winning streak, undefeated in nine professional fights, when he forgot to catch and he lost. The punch didn't knock him out but a man in the audience 150 feet away felt it. The spectator was the matchmaker, Jimmy Murray, who at the moment was planning bigger and better gate receipts via Escobar. Meanwhile the latter goes back to shorter preliminaries and more schooling.

Horses: The Hawaiian senate is deliberating on a bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting in the islands. Turfmen here wonder where they would get the horses for a meeting of any consequence. There aren't enough good ones to go around in the U. S. Some pretty fair speed horses have been bred in Hawaii, however.

Sports readers: Home on leave after lengthy service in the south and southwest Pacific combat areas, Foster Hailey, correspondent (N. Y. Times) and former A. P. sports writer, reports the sports page is the "most widely read section of any newspaper falling into the hands of our fighting boys."

"They read the print right off the paper," he comments. "Then like as not they will fall to arguing whether Dempsey could have licked Louis, etc. By the time they are through they are ready to tear the enemy limb from limb."

Southpaw shortage: The Sacramento baseball club, which won the Pacific Coast league pennant last year and is practically a cinch bet not to win it this season, hasn't a left handed hitter, outside of pitchers, on the 1943 club. Consequently the Sacramento batters will look at more right handed hurling this season than they ever thought existed.

Brooklyn note: Hap O'Connor, the college umpire, sends word he has a letter from a player seeking a job in professional baseball. "But he does not state what position he plays so I write back and ask him," said O'Connor. "He writes back and says 'I play in a stooping position—bent over, you know.' So I write back and tell him to stay on the farm account of such talent is more useful there and besides the Brooklyn Dodgers have gone formal now."

Hawkeye Nines Bat Out Edge Over Rivals

Carve Victory Margin Over Six Universities; Break Even With 3

Other Big Ten baseball teams have not had much fun playing the University of Iowa in the past six seasons, for beating the Hawkeyes was a problem most of them could not solve.

In winning 48 of 66 league games since 1938, the Iowans carved out a margin of victory over six universities and broke even in short series with the other three.

The 1943 team finished its season last weekend with a 6-4 conference mark, which should be good for high spot in the first division.

Its five predecessors set up these marks: 1938, 7-3 (tied for title); 1939, 8-3 (champion); 1940, 8-3 (third); 1941, 9-3 (second); and 1942, 10-2 (tied for title).

Broken down by teams, these facts are the won and lost records: 12-0 over Chicago; 5-0 over Ohio State; 9-3 over Northwestern, 3-1 over Indiana; 8-4 over Wisconsin; 7-6 over Minnesota; 2-2, Illinois; and 1-1 each Michigan and Purdue.

Iowa scored 423 runs to opponents' 203, averaging 6.4 to 3 per game. Of the 18 defeats, eight were by a single run, while of the 48 wins only eight were achieved by that narrow margin. Hawkeyes shut out the other team in ten games.

Minnesota and Northwestern were the only teams to whip the Hawkeyes in a single season, the Gophers doing this in 1938, 1941 and 1943, while Northwestern was successful in 1940.

Dodgers Win Over Braves

Yankees Blast Out Wide-Margin Win Over Philadelphia

NEW YORK (AP)—Paced by a pair of their farm graduates, Charley Wensloff and Bill Johnson, the New York Yankees blasted out a 6 to 2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday to maintain their position at the head of the American league parade.

Wensloff, who won two games for Kansas City in the American association last year, hurled sixth-inning ball and with Johnson, up from Newark, connecting with his first major league homer and driving in a total of four runs, the 26-year old Californian had no trouble winning his initial big time victory.

Sprint Events Held By Pre-Meteorologists

Students of the Pre-Meteorology school will hold inter-plateau sprinting events this afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock on the athletic field north of the fine arts building.

This afternoon's event is one in a series of inter-plateau competition held weekly by the Pre-Meteorology school and this particular event is part of the army air force's physical fitness test which is given from time to time during the students' training period. The event held today includes the 60-yard dash and the 360-yard dash.

Every student must compete in these weekly contests and the points scored by each plateau are added from week to week, with each group working toward a highest total number of points.

Last week's competition was a close order drill event. The results were: first place—plateau A-2; second and third place—plateaus A-1 and A-5; fourth place—plateau A-8; fifth and sixth place—plateaus A-6 and A-7; seventh and eighth place—plateaus A-3 and A-4.

Cincinnati Reds Win Close Victory Over Chicago in Opener

Vander Meer Hurls Fourth Win; Frey Makes Final Score

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—"Fireman" Joe Beggs came to the rescue of Johnny Vander Meer in the first half of the ninth inning yesterday to allow the Cincinnati Reds to squeeze out a 5 to 4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

With two out and Cub runners on first and second, Manager Bill McKeechne retired his star left handed and inserted Beggs, who caused Ed Stanky to force Stan Hack at second and end a threat after one run had crossed the plate.

The Reds went to work on Dick Barrett in their half of the first inning for two runs and added another in the third when Linus Frey, Cincinnati second baseman, rifled a triple to right center field and scampered home on Eddie Miller's single.

Daily Iowan Foreman To Become Publisher Of Tipton Conservative

George Langdon, night foreman of The Daily Iowan printing shop, will assume the position of editor and publisher of the Tipton Conservative May 17. He will continue at the Iowan printing shop until May 15.

He is replacing W. E. Beck, Jr., who was recently commissioned a lieutenant (j. g.) in the navy. Beck has been with the Conservative for the last three years.

Mrs. Langdon, who with their two children, Nancy and Mary Jo, will accompany Langdon, will assist in the publishing work.

Langdon was graduated from the university in 1935 where he majored in journalism. Mrs. Langdon received a B. S. degree from the university in 1932.

INTERPRETING—

forces still were counterattacking yesterday near Zaghouan, suggesting that that stronghold was to be held at all costs to keep open an avenue by which the large forces still facing the British Eighth army in the south could retire into the peninsula running out to Cape Bon. But the swiftness of the allies' progress since the great push began Wednesday night suggests the imminence of collapse.

It remains to be seen whether a Dunkerque will be attempted. The demoralization may prove too complete for that. With the allies in Tunis and Bizerte there will be few facilities for embarkation. And offshore Admiral Cunningham's British fleet is waiting hungrily, not to mention the completely dominant American and British air forces that sweep the coasts constantly. The command of sea and air which the British achieved at Dunkerque is completely lacking for the axis and Cunningham says that if there is an embarkation not more than one ship in four will survive.

TUNISIA—

day. The axis air force was almost non-existent.

American and British airmen pounded thousands of bombs upon the retreating enemy, smashing explosives along the congested roads of retreat full of men and trucks and tanks, with vehicles often bumper to bumper.

Crack German troops were among the units that fell back before the allied onslaught.

Airmen who struck at shipping in the straits of Sicily saw a number of boats carrying axis troops across to Sicily, indicating that a partial evacuation was being attempted, but it was on a small scale.

A large percentage of the ships were being sunk. It now seems most probable that the axis cannot attempt a large scale evacuation.

To French troops, who fought valiantly in the drive upon Bizerte and in battles to the south, General Giraud addressed an order of the day declaring that "On Joan of Arc day—May 8—Tunis has been liberated, Bizerte has been set free.

Honor to the British army, honor to the American arms. Honor to you soldiers of France who fought without arms, without clothes, without boots, but who believed in victory and the vanquished.

"Thank you for what you have accomplished, for Tunisia, for France, for Liberty.

"Thanks to you the French army has restored its position in the great sun of glory and will never more relinquish it.

"Forward to Victory!" General Mast, whom Giraud named general of Tunisia, is a DeGaulist, and his appointment therefore is considered a move towards conciliation of French political elements. He now is in Beirut, Lebanon, recovering from injuries suffered in an accident, and Gen. Alphonse Juin, commander of French troops in the field, will assume his duties temporarily.

The final lap of this campaign in the north—now well into its third week—became a race between the Americans for Bizerte and the British for Tunis in a highly-coordinated plan in which the two displayed great teamwork. The British Eighth army and the French meanwhile pressed on the enemy in the south.

The savage, sustained and shattering air assault prepared the way all along for the allied advances, taking fearful toll of enemy arms and men.

It was credited with helping to keep casualties among the allied ground troops at a minimum in their steamroller attacks.

"Because of complete air domination, the tactical air force was able to throw practically the whole of its weight against enemy armor and German defenses in front of Tunis, enabling our own troops to advance and capture all their objectives with a minimum of casualties," an air force statement said.

Many of the captured German troops were shaken from unprecedented aerial pounding. Great numbers of fragmentation bombs as well as heavier calibre explosives were particularly demoralizing, they told their captors.

Air Marshal Sir Arthur Coningham, commander of allied air forces in Tunisia, and his aides stood on one of the highest peaks in the battle area yesterday watching the devastating results of their weeks of careful planning and training.

Besides this blanketing support of ground troops, allied armies were busy over the Mediterranean, and were reported to have sunk a dozen vessels, including a destroyer, and to have damaged 5 more. It was not determined whether they were carrying troops in an attempt at a Dunkerque-style evacuation.

The allied ground advances came so swiftly that the axis commanders had little time to regroup their battered forces for the defenses of Tunis and Bizerte.

Police Arrest Driver With Revoked License

J. LeRoy Wenman, 22, of Coralville, was sentenced by Police Judge Jack White to 30 days in the county jail for driving while his license was revoked.

Wenman was arrested yesterday afternoon by State Patrolman Gifford Strand and Preston Koser, county sheriff. His license was suspended by the Department of Motor Vehicles in December, 1942, for driving while intoxicated.

According to law, it is mandatory that any persons who are apprehended for driving without a license be given a sentence of from two to 30 days in jail which cannot be suspended by the judge. Sheriff Koser stated last night that a campaign will be conducted by the police department, the highway patrol and the sheriff's office to arrest any persons found driving with a revoked license.

College Covers A Wide Range

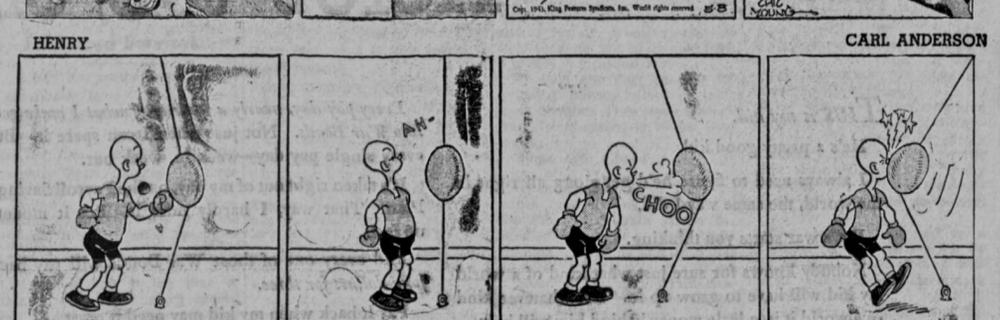

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Foresighted Colorado college officials who started their own ranching operations in 1941 to supply their dining hall, grill room and fraternity houses with food, are beginning to reap the full fruits of their project.

The ranch now is supplying all the needs of the dining tables and is on a self-supporting basis, college officials reported.

Service Group Sextet To Perform at Mixer

The newly-formed Pre-Meteorology sextet will perform at the May Mixer in the Iowa Memorial Union tonight.

The party is the first all University party to be presented this term and will be free to all University students and army service men. Featured at intermission time will be a floor show in which the meteorologists will sing.

Here's the clincher for me

THIS is my kid.

He's a pretty good kid.

I always used to figure he'd get along all right in the world, the same way I did.

But a war starts you thinking:

Nobody knows for sure just what kind of a world my kid will have to grow up in. But whatever kind of a world it is, a little money behind him will help.

That's why I'm salting money away for him now.

I'm not taking any chances with his future. I'm guaranteeing it in the best way I know how.

Every pay day, nearly a quarter of what I make goes into War Bonds. Not just when I can spare it. But every single pay day—week in, week out.

It's taken right out of my pay, on the Payroll Savings Plan. That way, I hardly miss it. But it mounts up fast.

And every one of those War Bonds will pay back four dollars for three.

Pay it back when my kid may need it most.

Sure, I'd be buying bonds anyway. I know the Government needs money to win the war. And, it's the least sacrifice a guy can make for the country that's been good to him.

But the clincher with me is my kid.

CHANCES ARE, you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying war Bonds—doing your bit. But don't stop there. Raise your sights! Do your best!

How millions of Americans have done their bit—and how they can do better:

Of the 34 million Americans on plant pay rolls, nearly 30 million of them have joined the Payroll Savings Plan. (If you aren't in yet—sign up tomorrow!)

Those Americans who have joined the Plan are investing, on the average, 10% of their earnings in War Bonds. (If you haven't reached 10% yet—keep trying!)

But

America's income this year will be the highest in history—about 125 BILLION dollars! In spite of all taxes and price rises, the average worker will have more money than last year—more than ever before!

That is why Uncle Sam has a right to ask us, individually, to invest more money in War Bonds, through the Payroll Savings Plan. He asks us to invest not 10% or 15% or 20%, but all we can!

YOU'VE DONE YOUR BIT --- NOW DO YOUR BEST!

BOOST YOUR BOND BUYING THROUGH THE PAYROLL SAVINGS PLAN
