Her Interpretation Was Also Discouraging—

Dorothy Thompson and the History Test

The nation's educators are raising a hullabaloo over the results of that New York Times history test. And rightfully so. "Appalling" and "deplorable" summarize the majority of the comments concerning undergraduate ignorance of the facts of American history as revealed by the examination, which was given 7,000 college students.

After carefully checking the tests, the following discoveries were made:

Two thousand five hundred and seventy of the students failed to name Abraham Lincoln as president of the United States during the Civil War.

Thirty percent did not designate Woodrow Wilson as president during the first world war.

Equally discouraging were the quaint ideas students hold of United States geography. Only 25 percent place St. Louis on the Mississippi, while the remainder located St. Louis on practically every sizable body of water within the United States and on both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The response to publication of the test findings was instantaneous. Dr. Felix Morley, president of Haverford college, called the results "little short of appalling." Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, declared it was "perfectly outrageous that such a situation should exist." Dorothy Thompson wrote a series of columns about it and Senator Guffey proposed a federal investigation.

At first glance the results of these tests would seem to place a monstrous and undeniable charge against the instructors in our schools. Careful study of the whole test, however, casts some doubts on its reliability as an accurate gauge of student information.

First of all, the test was prepared by government education experts in collaboration with leading eastern professors for the express purpose of pointing out that chronological American history should be a required subject in all high schools and colleges. The best results were used to prove this point.

But the examination was so limited in scope that only those with detailed information about history and good memories could score high. The test measured only dates, names, and places. Some of the test items would have been known by everyone. Others were piecemeal and trivial. A person might know a great deal about American history and still not be able to place these items in their proper chronological order: transcendentalism, the first women's college, social settlement houses, the Boy Scout movement.

Even some of the accepted texts on American history fail to mention these names which the students were asked to identify:

William James, Francis Parkman, Carl Schurz, James G. Blaine, Walt Whitman, Henry Thoreau and John Burroughs. Many of the teachers in schools where the tests were given felt seriously that a goodly number of items on the test were unimportant and inconsequential.

As for the students themselves, the majority tried to finish as quickly as possible without much concern as to how well they did. They were told the tests did not matter, that it had nothing to do with their marks.

Actually, when the same test was given to high school seniors under regular classroom conditions, the results were far superior to those made by college students. The high school pupils scored 100 percent on the Lincoln and Wilson items, for example.

Evidently, then, the test which was given in all seriousness to find out how deficient in history our college undergraduates are should be disregarded as being an incorrect means of gauging student intelligence.

Certainly not. But, on the other hand no great amount of faith may be put in the results, either, as Dorothy Thompson did. She declared in her series of columns devoted to the "conclusive" findings of the Times test that "Many of our young people haven't the foggiest notion of what has been going on for 150 years in our country, and are surprised that our schools turn out bumptious young radicals and know-it-alls, who think that history began with their own birth."

Miss Thompson, and others of her opinion, has made a grievous mistake. She has heaped the blame for history-less youth upon youth itself. In reality it is an all inclusive evil. A great majority of the people of Miss Thompson's generation have even less than a foggy notion of what has been going on in our country for 150 years, we'll wager. You can't blame young people for their "historical" deficiencies, when their mothers and fathers are even more deficient. You CAN blame the system if it is faulty; and certainly liberal education today is far from perfect. Strike at the cause, not the effect.

Obviously, there is much room for improvement in both high school and college teaching methods. But the changes—the worthwhile changes—will come gradually, over a period of years. They will not come upon our institutions like whirlwinds. They will not come as the result of haphazard tests, vague generalizations, and congressional investigation.

The improvements will come when the quality of the instructor is raised to a higher level. For the trouble lies in the men and the method. . . not in the student.

BOOK PARADE

By JOHN SELBY
"Kendall of the Pica-yune," by Fayette Copeland (University of Oklahoma: $3).

The indomitable George Wilkins Kendall has at last been reduced to book form, three-quarters of a century after his death in harness. Fayette Copeland, who has done the job, might have searched a long time without finding better material than this co-founder of New Orleans' famous Pica-yune.

Kendall was one of the thousands of Yankees who went south before the War Between the States and became more southern than the native-born. He was a New Englander who fell in love with type and what type could do. As a young man he was a rover as well; he had a remarkable capacity for living off the country, and the basis of a unique sympathy for humanity, and understanding of it, was laid in the years he wandered about the land. He picked up the printer's trade too, and that indirectly led to the founding of the Pica-yune in 1837, with Francis Asbury Lumsden.

Mr. Copeland says the name of the paper came from the Spanish "pica-yon," which was the smallest coin of its time, worth six and a quarter cents. This was New Orleans' cheapest paper, at that time, but more important than the price was the idea behind the paper. The partners, and particularly Kendall, wanted to make a bright and a newsy paper—the sort a reader might read with laughter as well as profit. This they did.

Kendall was a rover. When Texas, then a republic, decided to cut into the Santa Fe trade by the expedition, Kendall went with the expedition. The expedition was shattered, and Kendall was marched south into Mexico, a captive with a shattered ankle. He lived for months in a lepers' hospital, as

Interpreting THE WAR NEWS — by Glenn Babb

Hitler's Costly Time Has Run Out

The task of clearing the Tunisian springboard, preliminary to the invasion of Hitler's Europe, was as good as done last week. With the capture of Tunis and Bizerte the tide of united nation success flooded to a new high mark. There still is a job of mopping up to do but the axis armies of Africa, which seven months ago were threatening Suez, no longer are an important factor in the strategic situation in the Mediterranean.

The allied command is free now to devote all its planning and energies to the next phase of the Casablanca master plan for 1943 and doubtless is doing so. Whether this phase will be unfolded in the Mediterranean or elsewhere along the 11,000-mile perimeter of Hitler's domain remains for the focher to guess. The blow may come at any time now. The time he purchased by the stand in Tunisia has run out.

No matter what the future course of the war it will produce few weeks so full of accomplishment for the united nations as the one just closed. That smashing drive to Tunis and Bizerte was one of the two greatest victories of the war for the allies, matched only by the Red army's epic of Stalingrad. There is this difference: the battle of Stalingrad was itself one of the greatest turning points in history; the capture of the Tunisian cities was the fruition of plans long laid, a climactic station on the road to victory which was charted soon after the United States entered the war.

6 Months to Victory
It took just a day less than six months from the landing of Eisenhower's armies in Africa to produce this victory. In that six months the whole face of the war has changed. Half a year ago Hitler still was hammering at Stalingrad and the outside world knew nothing of the great Russian stroke even then in preparation. The enemy had been turned back from the Nile delta, Montgomery's victory at El Alamein being the first light of success for the allies in the European-African theater after three years of darkness. Now, nearly 2,000 miles to the west, the last tatters of the once proud Afrika Korps are being driven into the Mediterranean.

No better proof of unity among the western allies could have been given than the brilliantly coordinated drive across northern Tunisia to the sea. The whole operation was a tribute to the mutual trust and comradeship with which so many diverse elements had been welded into a fighting machine of terrible efficiency and power, under a command which combined Americans, Britons, Frenchmen.

The enemy, still holding strong points on the southern front, opposite the Eighth army, apparently is trying to remove what is left of his main forces to the Cap Bon peninsula. What they hoped to accomplish there was not clear, perhaps a suicidal Dunkerque attempt in the face of overwhelming allied supremacy in the air and on the sea, perhaps a few more days of resistance before surrender.

The Tunisian cleanup means a tremendous gain for the united nations in easing the burden imposed by the long supply route around Africa. It is estimated that opening the Mediterranean will make it possible for one ship to do the work of three in carrying aid to Russia or supplying the British forces of the middle east. Its effect eventually will be felt all the way to India and China, perhaps even the southwest Pacific. It may change the aspect of things in the eastern Mediterranean. Italy is not the only portion of the underbelly of Europe now laid open to invasion.

Washington in Wartime—

U.S. Air Power Hits a New High

WASHINGTON—The biggest air story of World War II is in the making. Although they won't give any reason at all for publication and very little more than that off-the-record, air corps officers in both the army and navy are treating Washington to the biggest grins of this war so far. That set this correspondent to digging, and out of the files and conversations with unquotable but authentic sources it's apparent that big things are in the making along the ack-ack front.

I'm not going to make any effort to give a complete round-up of what is taking place, but I am going to hit a few important high spots.

Let's start with WPB Chief Donald Nelson's recent statement that April airplane production in the United States alone has hit just under or over 7,000 planes. Let's note that some observers are saying flatly now that no matter how large our army becomes, one-third of it will be air corps (this includes ground crews, the Air Transport Command, etc.). And then let's settle for a few reports from the fronts. In the Pacific, in spite of recent concentrations of Jap air power and the desperate plea for more planes from our own commanders, it has been officially reported

News Behind the News—

Dove of Peace Enters Jeffers-Patterson Row

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The great peace which filled the public statements of warring executive officials caused none of those involved to file off their finger nails. They are all still ready for scratching.

The peace treaty effected between Rubber-Maker Jeffers and War-Maker Patterson is attributed—significantly enough—to Ferdinand Eberstadt, the New Yorker who left the war production board in the Nelson row and then was unable to get his promised position in the army.

Senators have direct information that Eberstadt brought Jeffers and Patterson together at luncheon and, under his benign auspices, both threw their arms around each other and agreed to take a trip around the country to see if their conflicting claims for machinery could not be worked out amicably.

The strange identity of the peacemaker, a man who had been fired by Mr. Nelson, has encouraged a wide variety of speculation. The most natural deduction was that Mr. Nelson's ancient

The original theory of a 19 percent withholding tax (now made 20 percent) was proposed by Democratic Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, and the CIO took it up along with a demand for discrimination in relieving the burden on various incomes. All are not treated alike. The CIO no doubt will hail the result as a victory.

The Republicans put it through when they were unable to get their Ruml plan. In doing so, they merely corrected a strategic error committed two months ago.

They could have done the same thing then, but chose to send the proposal back to the house ways and means committee, hoping the Ruml plan would finally emerge. Their idea now is that the senate will have a chance to iron the matter out and it will.

The Robertson-Forand plan, however, is undisputedly the most complicated tax suggestion ever enacted by a congress. Most taxpayers will require a lawyer to

U. W. A. Summer Session Committees, Chairmen Announced

Organize Six General Units

Registration Periods To Be Held Tomorrow In Schaeffer Hall

Organization plans for the summer functioning of the University Women's association have been completed by Helen Focht, assistant director of student affairs and adviser for the group; Barbara Wheeler, A2 of Villisca, general chairman, and the six general committee heads.

General committees which have been set up and their appointed chairmen are: May Baker, A4 of Park Ridge, Ill., summer orientation; Frances Glockler, A4 of Iowa City, Red Cross activities; Virginia Jackson, A3 of Marion, Phoenix fund plans; Margaret Kirby, A4 of Sioux Falls, S. D., social activities; Mary Ann Kurtz, A3 of Iowa City, office of civilian defense and the hospital, and Marion Patterson, A2 of Greenfield, activities point system.

Orientation
The summer orientation group, which will work with Miss Focht and Prof. H. C. Harshbarger of the speech department, will operate on a system similar to the usual fall program.

The committee has planned four social events for the week after registration, beginning with a play night at the women's gym June 5, the day the freshmen register for the regular summer session.

Faculty teas will be given Sunday, with a faculty couple and a man and woman student acting as hosts at each tea.

A "coke date" will be held sometime during the next week, which will be topped off by an open house to be held in the home of President and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher June 13.

The committee plans to hold a dance or another social event each week for the rest of the summer. Frances Glockler's Red Cross committee and Mary Ann Kurtz committee on civilian defense and hospital will cooperate on activities for the summer.

Their chief project will be to obtain students to help make surgical dressings for the office of civilian defense. Surgical dressings will be made Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Registration
Tomorrow will be a registration day for all university women to indicate how they would like to participate in this project and the times they prefer to work. A table will be set up in the basement of Schaeffer hall from 8 o'clock till noon and from 1 to 4:30, and women students are asked to sign up at that time.

Those interested in civilian defense will be asked to register and will be notified later of what they will be needed to do.

Students are also needed to spend an hour or two a week in the hospitals, carrying trays, running errands, writing letters for patients, and other similar work.

The summer social activities committee will operate chiefly as a hostess group, with the central committee consisting of one representative from each women's housing unit on the campus.

They will head the entire hostess group of about 300 university women who will act as hostesses for all parties held on the campus for service men.

The point system committee, headed by Marion Patterson, is to set up during the summer a point system which may be used next year for the grading of extra-curricular activities engaged in by university women.

Under this system each woman engaging in an extra-curricular activity will receive points for the initiative, responsibility, leadership and cooperation she shows in that activity.

Points will be recorded on an individual card, which will be kept as a record of her ability. The system is designed as a rating of the quality of her extra-curricular work and not of the quantity. It will not limit anyone's participation in activities.

Phoenix Fund
The Phoenix fund plan was designed by Francis D. Weaver of Mason City for the double purpose of buying war bonds now and converting them after the war to the use of boys now in the army who wish to continue their education.

This committee is advised by Flave L. Hamborg, treasurer of the university and headed by Virginia Jackson. It will be inactive until next fall.

The U.W.A. summer committee members are Orientation committee—May Baker and Kenneth Thompson, A4 of Cedar Falls, chairmen; Virginia Jackson; Hale Greenleaf, A4 of Centerville; James Odell, A3 of Ames; Verle Flood, A2 of Winterset; Robert Hobson, A4 of Griswold; James Burnside, A4 of Shenandoah; Clark Houghton, A4 of Red Oak; Wally Stringham, A2 of Spirit Lake; Genevieve Slemmons, A4 of Professor Hass was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1921, after a year at Heidelberg college, Tiffin. The next summer he began graduate work in organic chemistry at Ohio State college, receiving his M. A. degree in 1923 and his Ph. D. in 1925.

After completing his doctorate training, Hass was made director of research at the Baltimore Gas Engineering corporation, Charleston, W. Va. In 1928 he became assistant professor of chemistry at Purdue. He was promoted to head of the department in 1933.

The Nation Pauses Today in A Tribute to Mother

With Annual Ceremonies

Countless words of praise have been written about mother through the years. Every poet at least once in his career eulogizes her, and long before President Wilson proclaimed the first national observance of Mother's day in 1914, Lincoln said, "All that I am I owe to my angel mother."

Homage to motherhood goes back practically to the beginning of man. The ancient Romans had their "Mother's day," celebrated on March 15 in honor of the mother-goddess Hilaria. Temples were built in her honor and on her festival offerings were brought to the temples and the Romans showed their devotion with music, feasting and dancing.

With the advent of Christianity, men no longer thought of a mother-goddess but of the Mother Church and the Madonna. In her they idealized all women, all that was beautiful in motherhood, in women's eternal patience and suffering. They offered her their prayers and if they had the genius for it, perpetuated their devotion in sculpture and painting.

Mother's Day Origin
Our own Mother's day came about through the efforts of a Philadelphia, Anna Jarvis. Shortly after the death of her own mother, Miss Jarvis was asked to arrange a special memorial service in the church her mother had attended. Realizing the universal beauty of the idea, Miss Jarvis brought her experience to the attention of the church people in Philadelphia. And on the second Sunday in May, 1908, Mother's day was first observed in that city.

The observance touched people's hearts and as a result of the wide public acclaim that followed the observance, Congress in 1914 passed a joint resolution declaring

Count Fleet Wins Preakness by Eight Lengths

Takes Easy Race in 1:57

Claims $43,190 Purse; Akron Ambler Takes $10,000 Second Money

By SID FEDER
PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Baltimore (AP) — The Count cake-walked to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland" yesterday even easier and snappier than he did to "My Old Kentucky Home" a week ago.

Following up his three-length romp of last Saturday, Count Fleet just about ran off and hid this time in the 53rd running of the ancient Preakness stakes. As a matter of fact, he did just that to one horse in the slim field of four, for after it was over, Wayne Wright, the jockey aboard last-placed New Moon complained that he "didn't even see the race."

As a matter of fact, it wouldn't have made any difference if he had, because Mrs. John D. Hertz's rangy brown lightning streak command of the old hilltop track from the word go, was five lengths on top after half a mile and just laughed the rest of the way to hit the pay-off window eight lengths in front of Allen Simmons' Akron-owned Blue Swords, who is practically making a career out of chasing the Fleet into port this spring.

And for 29,381 shirt-sleeved and sweltering customers who made up one of the 10 biggest crowds in the history of Pimlico's picturesque yellow-and-white racing plant, the Hertz-hurricane out of Chicago not only made good at a prohibitive betting price of 3 to 20, but also took another step along the road toward ranking as "the greatest since Man O'War."

What's more, although he was just rolling along with the tide for the entire last three quarters of a mile, and was running on a track rated only "good" after an overnight rain, the Fleet zipped over the mile and three-sixteenths in the sizzling time of 1:57 2-5. This was just two-fifths of a second away from the Preakness record Alsab hung up a year ago and just one second off the track standard for the route set only last week by Riverland.

And although Johnny Longden, the little Wakefield (England) veteran who had been the only jockey ever to ride the Count in a race, was trying to ease him up through the entire last eighth of a mile, the Fleet had up such a full head of steam he over-ran the finish by three eighths of a mile before dropping anchor.

All in all, it was about the classiest job of flying on the ground the Count has demonstrated in a series of high-class jobs since he zoomed into the racing spotlight last fall. And in doing it he picked up $43,190 yesterday's triumph so easily it was like finding the bankroll on a street corner.

Despite the fact this was the smallest Preakness pay-check since the Maryland Jockey club boosted this turf special to its $50,000-added status seven years ago, the fancy purse upheld the Fleet's earnings to $202,260 for what actually amounts to less than a year of racing.

As a horse race, however, this was strictly a conga line. From the time the field followed the Count into the stretch, three-sixteenths of a mile from home, until they paraded across the finish line, there was no question about where any out-burner in the field of four would finish.

Naturally, long before that everyone on the track and those looking at the classic from the long distance viewpoint of homes nearby, knew who was going to be first to the pay-off window. Even Longden, a little, quiet 33-year-old fellow, said he was never worried. What's more, he added that he thought the Count "is a helluva hoss" — which practically made it unanimous.

For a few yards rounding the stretch turn, Vincentive, W. L. Brann's local boy who couldn't make good, ranged up alongside of Blue Swords under Georgie Woolf's whipping ride, but as they straightened out, Johnny Adams, the pudgy little Kansan, whacked the Akron ambler once with the bat and he pulled away to take the $10,000 second money by 4 1/2 lengths.

Vincentive weakened through the final furlong, but he probably could have taken a nap and started all over again and still held the $5,000 third money safe.

For New Moon, the so-so stepper from the barn of Henry L. Straus, the Reisterstown (Md.) race-track totalizer manufacturer, had absolutely nothing after trying to run with the Count for the first few yards. He was definitely in the wrong league, and he picked up the $2,000 fourth money simply because all he had to do was roll around the race track for it.

At $2.30 for $2, the Chicago-owned Count was the shortest-

Navy Pre-Flight School's Spring Schedule Gets Under Way

By Dick Yoakam

With the advance of spring weather the training of the average cadet at the Iowa Pre-Flight school will take on a slightly different aspect. This season's athletic set up has been changed over that of last summer's program in such a manner that the new system affords closer contact between men and more attention to each man by the officers.

The whole program is one of group participation in active sports. The groups at the Iowa base are arranged so that there are three platoons to each company, and two companies make up one battalion. The six battalions of the Pre-Flight school will all receive the same kind of sports training.

Companies Grouped Together
Upon the completion of the initial conditioning that the cadet receives when he enters the base, all of the men in one company are put into one of seven sports groups. These include swimming, boxing, football, basketball, wrestling, gymnastics, and track.

This represents a change over last summer's sports program in that these boys who have entered the athletic base at the same time, are kept together. Last summer's cadets were thrown in with men who had been there for some time and were familiar with others in their group. The new cadet of that time had a certain amount of difficulty in adapting himself to the accelerated program. Now all of the new boys enter the same sports group at the same time and therefore come to know each other and begin to develop a competitive spirit among their different groups.

This competitive spirit is one of the chief aims of the sports program as it is set up at the station. Then too through the new arrangement the officers are brought in closer contact with their men in that the same officers who are coaches in the different sports are also the platoon leaders of some of the men whom they coach. The men in these different sports live in relatively the same area so that, all in all, a much closer contact attention that the men receive from the officers makes for a more unified spirit among the cadets.

Daily Schedule Rearranged
The days program has been rearranged to afford more active participation in the summer sports program. The cadet rises at 5:30 a. m. and musters in uniform at 5:40. By 5:45 he is in a mass exercise group which continues until 6:15 when he reports to the mess hall for breakfast. At 6:45 he returns to his room to prepare for inspection and by 7:30 will have completed this and entered in to his first training period. Two battalions will go to military drill during this first period whereas some of the others will go to different branches of the training program. At 9:45 this group that went to their military training period will enter into the second period, which for them would be academics.

At 12:10 the battalion will muster for lunch and at 1:45 after a short rest period will begin the afternoon of sports activity. The first of the afternoon periods is one of instructional sports training in which the cadets are schooled in the correct methods of the different sports taken up.

At 4:00 the cadet will begin the actual sports program which consists of his playing in the sport which has been elected.

Sub-Classes in Sports
Members of the sub-swimming or beginning swimmers' class take time out of their sports participation period to report to the pool in the field house for extra instruction in swimming techniques. Other sub-classes, of which there is one for each of the sports dealt with, meet at night in the field house when cadets who are not proficient in actual participation of a certain sport are given extra training. All cadets must return to their rooms for taps at 9:30.

On Saturday mornings the program is arranged in a slightly different manner. One double period beginning at 7:30 takes the place of the two week day morning periods. At this time some of the phases of the program which cannot be dealt with during the week, such as hiking and rifle range practice, are taken up. Cadets are given liberty at the discretion of their commanding officer by 1:00 Saturday afternoon, but must return to the base in time for tattoo at 9:25.

Famous Obstacle Course
One special and very important aspect of the summer training program is the nationally famous obstacle course of the Iowa Pre-Flight school. During his stay here the average cadet will have run the obstacle course or its equivalent in track running some 15 or 20 times. On days when the weather doesn't permit the covering of the obstacle course the cadet is assigned to a half mile of track which he must do in 2:40. The course itself is 840 yards long with as many tricky hurdles, rope climbs, and mazes as could be crammed into this distance.

When he first covers the course, the cadet is expected to make a time of four minutes flat, but as he becomes accustomed to the lay of the course a final time of 3:40 is attained.

Because the whole program is planned on an out-of-door basis the "engineer squads" of the Pre-Flight school have constructed an outdoor gymnasium, using tree trunks and poles for horses and high and low bars, and making their mats out of pits dug eight inches into the ground and filled with an oil and sawdust mixture.

The boxing program also will be moved outside with plans being tentatively made for a boxing pavilion with a semi-permanent ring.

Varsity Teams
The varsity teams of the Iowa Pre-Flight school are composed of cadets who, for the greater part, have had previous experience in some sport and who are willing to give up their liberties to play in outside games with other bases or teams. The newest addition to the varsity squad roster is the tennis team which started its season May 2 after completing a round robin tournament to determine the best of the squad for outside competition.

The games with other teams have for the most part been arranged for Saturday and Sunday afternoons in order that they will not take too much time from the sports training periods.

Mathes Takes Golf Honors

Gene Mathes shot a sub-par 71 to carry off medalist honors and lead his Iowa City high school teammates to the Mississippi valley conference golf championship yesterday.

Mathes' score was three strokes below the course standard. Bill Sangster, also of City high, was a runner-up with 83. Jack Whitel and Bob Devine shot 94 and 97, respectively, to give the local school a total of 345.

Second place in the tournament went to Davenport with 357. Franklin high school of Cedar Rapids took third with 370.

Michigan Trackmen Win Triangular Test

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's track team, tuning up for its western conference title bid next weekend, overwhelmed Ohio State and Michigan State in a triangular meet yesterday, but Ohio's Dallas Dupre gave ample notice that he personally will have a strong hand in the forthcoming decision.

Michigan, sharing a dozen firsts with Ohio, rolled up 82 points to 41 1/2 for the Buckeyes and 25 1/2 for Michigan State, which won two events. The Wolverines mopped up in second and third places.

Dupre, whose winter campaign was plagued by injuries, amassed 16 points by winning two dashes and the broad jump and finishing fourth in the low hurdles.

Haegg to Run For Charity

STOCKHOLM (AP)—On the eve of his departure for the United States, Sweden's great runner, Gunder Haegg, declared yesterday that he was eager to compete in American meets for war relief purposes and flatly denied published reports to the contrary.

"I am ready to run especially if it helps war invalids or other victims of the war," Haegg declared, in denying that he ever had said he was unwilling, as a citizen of a neutral country, to compete in meets staged for the benefit of war relief agencies.

(The Amateur Athletic union, controlling organization of track and field competition in the United States, has announced that the benefits from all meets in which Haegg competes will go to the U.S. air force aid society.)

Haegg came to Stockholm on Thursday to arrange for a passport and to wait for transportation to the United States. There were indications that he would leave on the first leg of the trip shortly.

Holder of five official world records at distances ranging from 1,500 meters to 5,000 meters, including a 4:04.6 mile, Haegg is looking forward to competition in America with all the eagerness of a sophomore making his first appearance in big-time circles.

Missouri Captures First Place In Annual Big Six Track Meet

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Captain Joe Shy, winning both the 100 and 200 yard dashes, Maurice Alexander, taking both hurdle races, and Elmer Aussieker, with a record breaking toss of 52 feet, 1/4 inch in the shot put, paced Missouri yesterday to an easy triumph in the annual Big Six conference track meet.

The Tigers rolled up 78 points, in unseating Nebraska, the champion for the past four years. In 1938 Missouri broke a two-year-old Nebraska hold on top honors. Today Nebraska took second place with 40 1/2 points, seven of which came in the last event, the discus, and boosted the Huskers over Iowa State and Kansas State, who tied for third at 35 points.

Oklahoma had 27 1/2 and Kansas nine.

Aussieker, getting his record shot put in the prelim, broke a mark that had stood since 1938 when Elmer Hackney of Kansas State sent the ball out 51 feet, 10 inches.

In piling up the huge point total, Missouri's Tigers scored in every event except the javelin. Fifteen and one-half of those points came through the efforts of busy, high-stepping Alexander, who came up with a second place in the broad jump and a tie for third in the high jump.

Durocher Banished Again
BOSTON (AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was banished from the bench for the first time this year yesterday when he argued with Umpire Pinielli over the calling of balls and strikes.

Seahawks Win Opener, 12-0

Southpaw Alix Limits Iowa State to 4 Hits As Navy Collects 14

AMES—Smashing out 14 hits, the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school baseball team opened their season here yesterday by battering the Iowa State college nine into submission by a 12 to 0 score.

Joe Alix, Seahawk southpaw who twirled most of the tilt for the navy boys, limited the Cyclones to four hits and knocked out three of the navy bingles himself.

Eleven Seahawks went to the plate in the first inning as the navy got off to a flying start scoring seven runs on six hits.

The Iowa State squad made only one serious threat when, in the seventh stanza with a man on third, a Cyclone batter hit a long line drive to Bud Flanders, former Iowa university ballhawk, playing centerfield for the Seahawks. Flanders gathered in the ball and tossed a perfect strike to home plate to catch the runner.

Big Bob Kennedy, one-time Chicago White Sox third baseman, muffed three easy chances in the field but cracked out two hits to redeem himself.

Indiana Scores Win in 4-Team Track Meet

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Indiana rolled up 24 points in shot put, discus and broad jump events and amassed 45 points altogether to win a quadrangle meet yesterday, with Purdue and Chicago finishing behind the Hoosiers in that order.

The mediocre results in most of the events belied the keen competition between the four teams, all of which had been riddled recently by calls to the armed forces.

Northwestern pulled up a close second with 39 1/2 points. Purdue placed third with 35 points, a bare half point ahead of Chicago. The Hoosiers won the 220-yard dash, the 800-yard run, the discus and the shot put.

Standout of the day was Charles (Whitey) Hlad, former Michigan Normal star, now representing the Maroons as an army meteorology student.

Hlad Paces Chicago
Hlad took three of Chicago's firsts, loafing to easy victories in both hurdle events and winning the 100-yard dash.
Lou Saban, Indiana weight star, won the shot put and discus events.

Gophers Nip Badger Nine by 3-2 Count

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The Minnesota baseball team evaded the count in its two game series with Wisconsin yesterday, defeating the Badgers, 3 to 2.
Stanley Kaess, of Minnesota, and Bob Eisenach, of Wisconsin, pitched the entire game, each allowing four hits. Each team also committed three errors.

Social Chairman Asks Professors to Direct Students to Sociology

Mrs. Mildred Hunt, chairman of the recruitment committee of the Iowa Welfare association, has issued a statement to sociology professors in the university urging that students be directed toward the study of sociology.

Mrs. Hunt believes that the field of social work is of great importance but that it may be overlooked unless the student's attention is directed toward it.

In a letter to the sociology department, Mrs. Hunt says that the social worker faces the challenge of war as a disrupter of homes and a creator of social weaknesses. A pamphlet issued by the American Association of Schools of Social Work further emphasizes the problem by stating the conditions which exist as a result of the war, such as housing shortages, lack of school facilities and juvenile delinquency.

The pamphlet states, "These are but a few of the war born problems that confront social work today. A whole new pattern of social living is forming war living. And social work must see it through."

The sociology department offered a course in social administration several years ago, but it has since been dropped.

Red Cross Welfare Worker to Interview Seniors Here Tuesday

Mrs. Noreen A. Litscher of the personnel department of the Red Cross military and naval welfare service in Chicago will be in Iowa City all day Tuesday to interview eligible senior students who are interested in becoming case aides for the welfare service.

To be eligible, students must be interested in social problems and social welfare, possess a good educational background, preferably a degree, and show a capacity to work with people.

Appointments to see Mrs. Litscher must be arranged Monday in the student affairs reception office.

The military and naval welfare service is the official agency of social service to service men and their families. Because of the great increase in case situations, not enough trained workers are available, and persons with no previous social work experience are being employed and trained.

The training course consists of an eight-day orientation course which teaches basic concepts of case work, case analysis and treatment, and instruction in specific procedures.

macabre a situation as any novelist could have thought up. He became a national issue before he was released, and the bitterness of his situation led him to return with the army in the Mexican war, to see Santa Ana humbled.

He reported both expeditions, and his stories from the Mexican front were the best source of information the government had, and made him American journalism's first war correspondent.

Concert Band To Accompany University Sing

The all-university sing to be held tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union beginning at 7 o'clock will be accompanied by the University band, led by Prof. C. B. Righter, and group singing will be led by Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of Iowa Union.

Professor Harper is substituting for Prof. Herald Stark of the music department, who has been called out of town.

Mimeographed song sheets will be distributed during the program tonight. The planned part of the program includes three sections: an opening period in which the University band will play service marches; a group of patriotic and folk songs in which the band will accompany the audience, and a group of familiar hymns, which will be led from the piano by Professor Harper.

After the singing hour, there will be informal singing of popular and familiar songs around the piano for all who wish to participate.

The sing is the first of a new series to be sponsored by Union Board for service men, students and people of the community.

U. W. A. to Organize Group of Hostesses

All university women and all women employed in university offices are eligible for membership in the new U. W. A. hostess group which is being organized. Only U. W. A. hostesses will participate in the open houses to be sponsored by Union Board for university students and service men.

Those interested in joining the organization must attend a general meeting of all hostesses Thursday at 5 p. m. in 221A Schaeffer hall. At this time official membership blanks will be filled out by those who have not already done so.

Women who file membership cards pledge themselves to regular weekly attendance and promptness at the open houses. More than one unexcused absence means that a hostess is automatically dropped from the group.

Republican Women Will Meet Tomorrow

Mrs. V. A. Gunnette, 512 N. Gilbert street, will be hostess to the Republican Women's club tomorrow night at 7:30.

All women who are interested and especially precinct committee women are invited to attend. During the business meeting election of officers will be held.

"UNCLE JIM" RETURNS TO IOWA CAMPUS

"Uncle Jim" Nelson, after an interview at WSUI, recalls the recording he made—way back when—Genevieve Slemmons, WSUI interviewer, and Janet Lowell, hostess, look on.

Gunner's Mate Third Class Now—

Jim Nelson Visits WSUI Again

After two years absence from the university, "Uncle Jim" of WSUI fame, now a gunner's mate third class of the United States navy, returned to the campus to spend a few days of his furlough.

Before leaving the university, Jim was circulation manager of The Daily Iowan for three years, along with playing an active part in radio. Nelson was on the campus for five and a half years, and he followed the WSUI radio station from Iowa Union and the old university theater building, where the production work was carried on, to the new radio station in the engineering building.

Presbyterian Circle Will Hear Experiences Of Indian Missionary

Marian Warner, former missionary in India, will speak on "Experiences in India" at a meeting of the Jones circle of the First Presbyterian church Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. W. K. Schmidt, 1111 Sheridan avenue.

Mrs. W. Fred Roberson will be co-hostess. Devotions will be led by Mrs. Robert C. Wilson.

A nursery will be maintained at the Presbyterian church for the convenience of mothers who will attend the meeting.

"Uncle Jim" was well known for writing and performing on his one man radio shows and playing the parts of not one or two of his characters, but as many as 12 on a single program. Among his favorite characters, which many remember, were Windy the Woodsman, Mrs. Fussbottom and Gyp the Drip. Jim even handled his own sound effects.

After leaving the university, Nelson went to Hobbs, N. Mex., where he was employed for six months in a radio station.

Then came Pearl Harbor and Jim immediately enlisted in the United States navy. He spent two months in California in boot training. At the same time he did some work in radio production at the training base in San Diego. Nelson has been to sea, but is now stationed at New Orleans.

While visiting the university, Jim was interviewed on WSUI's Views and Interviews program by Genevieve Slemmons, A4 of Iowa City, of the WSUI staff. As a surprise on the program, even to Nelson, one of his "Old Uncle Jim" records—made way back when—was played.

The remainder of his furlough Jim Nelson plans to spend at home in Anita, Iowa.

HIS BASEBALL FINAL

Chances are he's eating up the diamond dope that was old stuff to you a month ago—even two or three months ago. A soldier on the battlefield is like that. The longer he is away from his homeland the closer he clings to the things of his former life—such as baseball.

From all the world's fighting fronts soldiers send the same request—for MORE news, for the season's ball schedules, clippings of their favorite sports columnist, gags, cartoons—anything for a laugh and a boost in spirit. And when they get it they pass the precious news around from hand to hand till it's worn out.

It's never enough—and it can't be. After all, a soldier doesn't expect to have today's newspaper delivered to his foxhole.

You, on the home front, are luckier, and next time you pick up your newspaper you might give that a thought—in deference to the boy pictured above.

Pvt. J. W. Smith Held a Captive

According to a telegram received by his mother Pvt. Judge W. Smith, missing in action in north Africa since Feb. 14, is a prisoner of war in Germany. He is the son of Mrs. Martha Smith, 418 S. Madison street.

Private Smith is the fourth Iowa City man reported as a prisoner of the Germans after having been announced as missing in north Africa.
The telegram, sent from the provost marshal general read: "Report just received through the International Red Cross states that your son, Pvt. Judge W. Smith, is a prisoner of war of the German government. A letter of information will follow."
The message was signed by the adjutant general in Washington, D. C.

The ring that leaves nothing to be desired in supreme beauty of design and grade of diamonds is to be had from our beautiful collection.
