Bad Weather Slows Yank Drive on Attu

No Word on Fighting, But Japs Indicate They Expect Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bad weather hampering the American drive to wipe out Japanese positions on Attu island, authorities familiar with conditions in the Aleutians suggested yesterday, but confidence mounted that the foe soon would be crushed.

There was no official word on the progress of the fighting to add to the announcement by Secretary Knox yesterday that it was going satisfactorily. Since the high command has adopted a policy of not revealing details of the action until it clarifies, it was assumed here that the battle which began with landing of army troops on Attu Tuesday must be continuing through its fifth day.

From axis sources, however, came clear intimations that Japanese leaders expected defeat and were attempting to prepare their people accordingly.

A German broadcast quoted General Sadao Araki, former Japanese minister of war, as declaring with reference to Attu that "setbacks there and at home will only increase our strength," and "in no wise could affect the will to victory and certainty of victory of the Japanese people."

Confidence in official Washington quarters found expression among naval men most frequently yesterday in the remark that "you can be sure the United States would not send a boy to do a man's job."

There still was no indication of the size of the forces involved but it was assumed that whatever they were the battle would be costly and the Japanese probably would have to be blown out of every cave and shelter, man by man, before complete consolidation of American positions on Attu.

The lack of the news from the navy covered the south as well as the north Pacific, creating a blanket of silence that could either denote a lull in the almost constant air fighting in the south Pacific or the conduct of operations which the high command considered inadvisable to publicize at this time.

Expect John L. Lewis To Ignore Summons For WLB Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speculation in informed quarters last night was that President John L. Lewis and other United Mine Workers officers will ignore the war labor board's summons to a meeting on Monday.

The WLB order Friday night provided for a meeting of miners and operators with a division of the board to arrange a resumption of collective bargaining in the soft coal wage dispute while production continued. Operators said they would attend the meeting.

Brakeman Hurt, Many Shaken Up in Wreck East of Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP) — Traffic over the main line of the Rock Island was being re-routed last night while crews struggled to clear the wreckage caused by a collision of a passenger and freight train 15 miles east of Des Moines this afternoon.

A brakeman was injured and a number of passengers were shaken up from the collision, which occurred when coaches of the passenger train sideswiped freight cars entering a siding near Mitchellville, according to J. L. Halpin, chief dispatcher.

Cold, Rain, Winds Spoil 'Spring' Weekend; River Rises Foot After 1.37 Inch Showers

Iowa Citians set aside plans for weekend outings yesterday afternoon and reconceived themselves to the cold weather and drenching rains.

Iowa river had risen 12 inches at 10 o'clock last night and 1.37 inches of rain had fallen in Iowa City since 1:30 a.m. yesterday morning, weather officials reported.

Temperature ranged from 52 degrees at 12:30 yesterday afternoon to as high as 60 degrees at 7:30 p.m., and dropped back to 53 degrees at 9:30 last night.

No signs of letting up were evident as the heavy showers continued. Moderate to heavy thunderstorms were predicted for this afternoon, and strong winds for tonight.

THE CONQUEST of the north African coastline, it is believed, will enable the United Nations to reopen the Mediterranean to allied shipping, thus cutting the distance from the American east coast to the Middle East, Russia and India by about 5,000 miles. Though the axis remains in control of the Mediterranean islands of Sardinia and Sicily, observers believe allied air control in that area will do much to discourage attacks on United Nations shipping. Map shows the old and the shorter routes.

House Republicans Confident Of Sending 'Skip' Bill to F. R.

Demo Foes Of Measure Base Hopes on Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jubilant and confident, house Republicans yesterday claimed sufficient strength to lay the senate-approved skip-a-year tax bill on President Roosevelt's desk by Wednesday, while several Democratic foes pinned their hopes on a veto.

Republican Strategy

The Republican shortcut strategy centered around a move to finish congressional action on the modified Rum bill without sending it to a conference committee for reconciling differences between the senate and house tax measures.

This could be done by adoption of a house motion to recede from its position and concur with the senate. On the last test, the house rejected the Rum bill by the slim margin of 206 to 204 before adopting a compromise, cancelling the obligations for the last year of about 90 percent of the taxpayers.

The senate bill, on the other hand, would abate taxes for virtually everyone, cancelling individual levies for either this year or last, whichever are lower.

Three Steps

Some legislators, discounting the Republican shortcut plan, said the procedure to be followed probably would take these steps:

- An agreement to send the bill to conference committee.
- A floor fight over a motion to instruct the house delegates to accept the Rum bill. If adopted, such a motion would be tantamount to passage of the bill.
- Then, if the Rum bill is approved, a meeting of the conference committee to remove technical "bugs" in the bill.

The views of most house members were reflected by the reaction to the senate's swift acceptance of the Rum bill. It passed 49 to 30 Friday night after Republicans and a few Democrats beat down five amendments in sharp setback for administration forces.

Nazis Confiscate 1,000,000 Dutch Radios In Move to Stifle Allied Invasion Signals

LONDON (AP) — Fear of imminent attack on the continent has led the Nazis to order confiscation of an estimated 1,000,000 Dutch radios in an attempt to keep Hollanders from hearing and decoding allied invasion signals.

Admission of Failure

Dutch circles in London said it was an admission of failure of a previous decree, backed by heavy penalties, forbidding listening to non-German stations. Thousands of radios apparently have been in secret operation, they added.

Meanwhile a Berlin radio broadcast, recorded by Reuters, announced the Germans had lifted martial law imposed on Holland a week ago, purporting that the situation was now in hand. Repeating three more executions, the Dutch news agency ANP reported yesterday.

Demonstrations Banned

Reports from Stockholm to Reuters said all demonstrations had been banned on Norway's independence day next Monday by Germans seeking to smother any chance of uprisings. Premier Vidkun Quisling will speak, however, on this 10th anniversary of his national Samling party.

It was disclosed that Rauf Orbay, Turkish ambassador to London, had gone to Ankara for consultations. The news came to worry Germans fearful that Turkey might enter the war on the allied side. Only Friday Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioğlu had said Turkey was willing to fight on behalf of her obligations, and they include an alliance with Britain.

The Turkish ambassador, said an authoritative source, went home for "rest and to renew contacts."

In other signs of invasion fear and stress, a Zurich dispatch to Reuters reported that five persons were killed and 40 wounded in Lyin Thursday night in a battle with German troops and in a French quarter where secret weapons and a printing press were uncovered.

Real Problem in Iowa City— Juvenile Delinquency

Editor, The Daily Iowan

Dear Sir:

This writing is provoked by two stories printed during the past week or so, one telling of the arrest of eight boys, none over 18, for stealing in the University field house locker rooms, and a second reporting the round-up of nine lads believed to be responsible for recent wave of larceny and burglary. No names were given.

Here are a few of the questions which came to my mind:

1. Why is so little space afforded a story which seems to be of such great importance to the community?

2. Why are not the names of the arrested boys published?

3. Is there a juvenile problem here in Iowa City?

4. Is Iowa City at all aware of what is going on in the juvenile community?

5. Does Iowa City care?

6. Is anything being done to get to the bottom of the problem?

o. What can be done to solve the problem?

I wish I knew the answer to all those questions and could apply that knowledge rather than writing to you about the problem. The best I can do is to give you the impressions I've gained in four years of observing the situation.

As to the first that may be just an editorial problem of space shortage, news judgment, lack of policy, or just disinterest. Nevertheless, if you will allow me to assume that a newspaper is impressed with a public trust by its very nature, then it would seem that possibly you could better serve that trust by taking steps to call to the attention of your community that 17 of its young lads were arrested for crimes against this community. That fact alone seems to me to be of substantial importance to the community worthy of a proportionate play in the pages of your paper.

As to the second question—I am aware of your problem in printing the names of juvenile offenders. You have been refused these names by both the local police juvenile officer and the county juvenile officer. Both, I believe, have contended in backing up this refusal that the printing of the names of the offenders would tend to an irreparable libel, that such publication would libel the juvenile both in his own society and in adult society.

If the juvenile authorities were correcting the problem while at the same time supposedly protecting the names of the delinquents, we could agree with them on the libel argument. However, some of the recently arrested group had police records stretching back as far as five years. What have the juvenile authorities accomplished on these cases since the first offense?

It seems that since little has been accomplished via the "closed session" techniques, it would seem at least suggestable that an open treatment of such problems might net as much or more.

Better yet, though the same supposed libel would be automatically accomplished, why not publish the names of the parents of the delinquents or of those responsible for their behavior? In my mind it is the failure of interest of parents in the welfare of their own children, or a blind ignorance concerning their children that is at the bottom of the entire problem.

But back to the point—wouldn't the publication of the names of the offenders' parents have the effect of pointing out the real delinquents? Society has retained enough of the real values to still exert considerable social pressure against those of its members who allow, if not promote, the execution of crimes against society by their own children.

Discussion of the remainder of the questions even to the inadequate extent to which I've written about the first two would fill your entire editorial page. Yet, possibly we can brush over them to at least indicate what we fear the answers to be.

I believe there is a serious juvenile problem in Iowa City. I believe that some citizens of Iowa City are conscious of the conditions, some are making valiant efforts to help solve the problem, others are dabbling in it.

Iowa City like many another college or university town seems to be too wound-up in the activities of the "older juveniles," leaving the younger group to either do its best to copy and "be-like" the older set in order to have any standing in society or to go off on its own diversions—often delinquent diversions. It is this group which produces the 17 delinquents whose arrest you reported. Give them things to do, make them know what they have an important place in the society, be interested in what they are doing, guide, help, counsel, and treat them as real and important people and they'll not turn to the diversions that inevitably lead to trouble.

Please, understand, Sir, that I profess no ability to solve this problem. I doubt that any single person does. But the total effort of a community that CARES about its juveniles can render a situation which now appears to be a distinct deficit into a most valuable community asset.

This costume, with its simple style, will do for all those informal parties and dances this summer. It's made with the favorite long torso waist and a gathered over-skirt that floats over the floor-length, white organdy under-skirt. With the black velvet ribbon at the neckline, no accessories are needed. Large floral patterns are an outstanding feature in fabrics this summer.

"Talewind," a 12-page tabloid, is published weekly by the cadets at the school "at no expense to the government." Editor Ritter accomplishes this feat by soliciting advertising from merchants and restaurant owners patronized by the cadets.

Just Looking, Please

When your uniformed man is in dress parade, admire him quietly and refrain from attracting his attention. He's not allowed to answer or look at you. Orders are eyes straight ahead when the company is on the march.

Perhaps you've often wondered about introductions and what to say in addressing both officers and non-coms. Use the title and the name in introducing all men in the service and always present the man of lower rank to the officer.

'Do Right' When Dating Service Men

Girls Should Know What the Army and Navy Expect of Their Men in Public

It's every young miss' privilege—a man with the rank of commander to admiral, use his title and his last name. But for ensign and lieutenant commander, it's "Mr. Smith" without the military title. Wanted—Feminine Dates

With the military trends in fashion, women are beginning to wear lots of tailored suits, dresses and even slacks. Yet, when your star in uniform dates you, he wants you to appear just as feminine as possible. Slacks are never appropriate. Even if you're going picnicking, you can wear a neat cotton dress or culottes.

All girls admire uniforms but it's hard to embarrass the young man by asking to try on the jacket or the cap. He must wear his full uniform unless in the privacy of a home with not more than two guests present.

Remember these fellows are not in uniform than they were in civilian life and expect to be treated in the same way. When they do have liberty, they want to make the most of it and appreciate the girl making suggestions as to where to go. Their time is limited, and when liberty ends, they must be back on the job where no excuse goes. Help them meet their deadline by saying "goodbye" early enough.

Big Ten Approves 4-Week Summer Grid Practice

See Shortage Of Prospects

Conference Sanctions Employ of Freshmen On Varsity Elevens

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Anticipating a scarcity of the manpower needed to maintain 1943 football schedules which have been expanded to include games with service teams, the Western conference yesterday made certain that its available grid men, no matter how small the turnout may be, will be high-conditioned at the start of the season.

Stressing the importance of well-trained men as a means of making up the difference in depletion of squad strength, Big Ten faculty men approved recommendations of coaches and athletic directors to allow a four-week-practice period during the summer.

Selection of the time to hold the workouts, which would be open only for summer-school football prospects, was left to the coaches' discretion.

Must Delay Scrimmages

The only restriction was that scrimmages would be permitted only during the final week of the period, the first three weeks merely giving coaches an opportunity to get acquainted with their boys.

In addition to the summer workouts, organized fall practices will begin three weeks in advance of each school's first game—or by Sept. 1, whichever is earliest. This would allow Wisconsin, Purdue and Michigan, which open their season Sept. 18, and Illinois, which opens Sept. 11, to start practices in August in preparation for their enlarged schedules.

Freshmen Eligible

The conference also sanctioned the use of new students or freshmen for varsity football before the opening of fall terms, to become eligible. However, they must have presented their credentials, paid or deposited their tuition fees and thoroughly satisfied faculty men they will be bona-fide students.

This ruling was made especially for Minnesota, Illinois and Michigan, whose fall terms begin in October because of speeded up academic schedules. Each school will be using freshmen in about three or more games before those freshmen have attended classes.

Dodgers Pound Cubs In Wild Game, 13-6

Hammer in 10 Runs In 4th Frame Rally, Ward Off Cub Attack

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers pounded 10 runs across the plate in the fourth inning and with Lee Webber pitching shutout relief ball for the last four frames went on to defeat the Chicago Cubs 13 to 6 in a wild scoring game yesterday.

The pace setting Dodgers needed most of their 10 runs for they were outpointed the remainder of the distance as the Cubs fell on Max Macon for all of their tallies in the sixth.

The Cubs, who now have dropped their last three games, had sent in five runs and nobody was out when Webber was called in to halt the uprising. He allowed one run on a long fly but that was the extent of the Cubs' scoring as Brooklyn's star relief hurler bore down. Macon, however, received credit for the victory.

Jim McCarthy of Illinois, the 1942 individual champion, is back to defend his laurels.

Players will go 36 holes on Monday and another 36 on Tuesday to decide the titles on a medal basis.

Tam O'Shanter is a par 72 layout with seven direct water holes and three of the parallel variety.

Michigan and Illinois have won six team titles apiece in the previous history of the meet and are the ranking favorites this year.

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Braves gained a 1 to 0 edge over the Cincinnati Reds yesterday as Nate Andrews and Johnny Vandermeer put on a tight pitchers' battle.

The lone run came in the fifth inning on an error by Gee Walker. John McCarthy was hit by a pitched ball, went to third on Chuck Workman's long single to left center and continued home when Walker let the ball go through his legs.

It was the first hit of the game off Vandermeer, who allowed but one other—McCarthy's double in the seventh.

Andrews allowed but three hits, one a bunt, and the only time he got in trouble was during the first inning when he gave his only two walks of the game.

Crosby Goes to the Ball Game

And Bing Finds That Even as a Spectator Fame Has Its Bad Moments

By GENE CLAUSSEN

NEW YORK—(Special to The Daily Iowan)—The season's biggest baseball crowd in Yankee stadium enjoyed itself thoroughly last Sunday on a fine, warm spring day which found the home town boys and Philadelphia splitting a doubleheader. Everything, that is, except perhaps one individual.

The one exception was Bing Crosby. The famous crooner's cause for not warming up to the occasion was lamentable. It was a true example of what a nationally famous movie star, political bigwig or what-have-you must endure once he steps out of the pleasure of private life into the public scene.

The story is that Crosby didn't have an opportunity to sit quietly in his box, draw deeply on his pipe and shout a mixture of praise and admiration to his favorite team. He tried to make a quiet, unnoticed entrance but failed—and suffered the consequences. A disguise might have helped but the pipe and a typical Crosby hat—brim upturned and adorned with a flowery band—gave him away.

He made his appearance soon after the first game got underway and he sat just a short distance from me. The moment he started down the aisle to his seat the whispers started around and necks began stretching. For the first inning or two there were violent arguments all around me as to whether it really was Bing or only a reasonable facsimile.

The ice was broken shortly, however, when a soldier asked him to autograph a baseball. Bing should have flatly refused, explaining that he merely "looked" like the movie-radio star and that it was mere coincidence that he was sitting in a box seat, smoking a pipe and wearing aforementioned skippee. That's where he slipped. He signed and the rush was on.

Usheers and policemen finally had to be summoned to keep the crowd back while Bing made a frantic attempt to keep his mind on the game. He lasted out the first contest but during the second he took a quick exit and made a run for it in the seventh. I doubt that he made it safely.

Such are the hardships of life.

Beginning Engineers To Register June 5 In Essential Courses

Freshmen enrolling for the summer session in the university college of engineering will register June 5 for courses which have been selected as those most essential for beginning engineers, it has been announced. Classes will begin June 7 and end July 31.

On the official schedule of courses are engineering drawing, college algebra and plane geometry, manufacturing processes and basic military science.

In engineering drawing students will have three lectures and three drafting room periods per week and will learn such skills as use of drafting instruments, sketching and describing machine parts, detailing tracing and blue printing.

Manufacturing processes will include technique of manufacturing articles in metal, welding, machining, and fitting and assembling parts.

Despite the more-or-less lavish entertainment afforded at these canteens, one of the best features in their being a haven for a service man to spend an hour or so of deep relaxation after tramping from place to place in this jammed city, trying to succeed in a self-conducted sightseeing tour on Cedar Rapids.

John Mattill, son of Prof. and Mrs. Henry A. Mattill, 358 Lexington avenue, has been notified that the first semester issues of the Carlton college paper of which he was editor have been cited by the Associated College Press for All-American award with the additional "Pacemaker" notation. The award places the "Carltonian" in a list of the nation's top college newspapers represented in the ACP's national critical service.

Mattill, who will receive his B.A. degree from Carlton this month, is president of the Carlton chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic society. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society.

Any open-eyed American, who has followed politics through county, city and state governments, will know that what goes on in the lower political divisions is bound to go on to some extent in the upper bracket.

But what goes on here is probably infinitesimal compared to the millions of dollars paid out by manufacturers and business men to Washington agents, representatives, salesmen, etc., for "services rendered." In most cases, correspondence or a personal visit from the head of the business would accomplish the same results.

Many of these so-called lobbyists play on the gullibility and timidity of those uninformed in the ways of Washington. They create the impression that they have an "in." How do they do it? They invite a cabinet member to attend a dinner in honor of Senator So-and-so. They invite the senator to attend a dinner in honor of Secetary Whosit. They keep the ball rolling and with the record of their entertainments in hand, hit the firms they represent or seek to represent for all the kitty will stand.

Certainly contracts are let to companies they represent, but in most instances it would have been that way anyway. An active congressman who knows the Washington ropes can steer his constituents in the right direction, and there are few firms that aren't just wasting money if they keep agents or salesmen here.

The landing on Attu was accomplished Wednesday. At the end of the third day Secretary Knox gave assurance that the operation was "going very satisfactorily." Tokyo's propaganda began preparing the Japanese people for the loss of the island, which would mean that the much larger enemy base on Kiska, further east, would be isolated and made ready for eventual reduction.

Attu is the westernmost of the Aleutians, only 763 miles from Paramushiro, at the northern end of Japan's Kurile archipelago, and some 2,000 miles from Tokyo. It is within theoretical range of the big new heavy bombers the United States is producing, but it is more likely to be used as a base for eventual operations against the Kuriles, which run directly to the main islands of Japan and offer the shortest and most vulnerable of the "many roads that lead right to Tokyo" of which President Roosevelt spoke three months ago.

The end in north Africa came swiftly, much sooner than seemed possible a month ago. But after the fall of Tunis and Bizerte the German and Italian armies collapsed quickly and ignominiously. There was no Dunkirk, no Bataan, not even a grim, bitter time-consuming last stand such as the German Sixth army made at Stalingrad for weeks after its doom was sealed. Although they still had supplies for weeks more of fighting, the axis armies quit cold.

Wednesday night General Eisenhower announced the end of organized resistance; the last shots were fired Thursday. The proud Africa corps presented the astounding spectacle of a once great army driving its own vehicles to prison stockades.

Local Officers Plan To Attend Conference

Police Chief, Judge Will Represent Force At F.B.I. Program

Chief of Police Harland F. Sprinkle and Police Judge Jack White will represent the local department at the federal bureau of investigation quarterly conference for law enforcement officers to be held Friday, May 21, in Davenport, it was announced yesterday. White said several other officers may also attend from here.

These conferences, of which eight will be held throughout the state this month, were initiated by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, in order that the work of the F. B. I. and the police could be more closely coordinated, particularly in regard to the handling of national security cases.

The program for the series of conferences includes a discussion of the history and development of Nazism and Nazi propaganda methods. There will also be a discussion and instruction on the mutual problems relating to the enforcement of the selective service act and to the investigations pertaining to national security cases.

One of the features of this series of conferences will be the showing of a film produced by the British information service entitled, "Next of Kin." It deals with the responsibility of both civilians and members of the armed forces in protecting confidential information.

Besides Davenport, other F. B. I. conferences will be held in Sioux City, Council Bluffs, Ottumwa, Waterloo, Des Moines, Mason City and Fort Dodge.

Mayor Sets May 31 For Memorial Day

Memorial day will be officially observed May 31, according to a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Wilber J. Teeters. The date was changed because May 30 falls on a Sunday.

The mayor's proclamation states:

"Every state of the union has set aside a day to commemorate the services of the soldiers and sailors in all wars of the United States."

This year May 30 falls on Sunday, therefore, as mayor, I proclaim Monday, May 31, as Memorial day in Iowa City for the observance, according to custom, of paying our tribute to the valiant and honored soldiers and sailors who have passed on.

This year this observance has more than usual significance due to our local losses in the present world conflict."
