

Soviets Disband Group For World Communism

Comintern Broken Up to Help Allied Fight Against Fascism

MOSCOW (AP)—The Comintern, the organization which Lenin and his advanced revolutionary followers created in 1919 to mobilize working class parties throughout the world, announced its own dissolution yesterday in order to advance the cause against Fascism.

The action, the most far-reaching yet taken in the swing toward full war cooperation between Soviet Russia and her major western allies, was adopted by the Comintern's executive committee which explained that, because of inability to convene a congress under present war conditions, it was asking the various national sections to ratify the step.

A resolution adopted by the committee said the Communist international had been out-moded and had proved to be a drag, in some countries, on the "further strengthening of the national working class parties."

The text of the announcement seemed to indicate that dissolution of the Comintern was no temporary war-time expediency but a final act of abolition.

(The German radio, broadcasting prompt German reaction to the sensational development, at once connected the measure with allied preparations for an invasion of the continent.

(The broadcast said it was intended to aid the "kindling of a political revolution in Europe" in support of an American-British invasion, and explained that fear of Russian Communism had interfered with the marshaling of strength for an uprising.

(The German vehemence in denouncing the act as a "gigantic bluff" and the "biggest Bolshevik propaganda scheme ever started by Stalin" only served to reinforce the view of London observers, however, that a major blow for allied unity had been struck.

(One foreign diplomatic source in London described it as "the most intelligent and adroit diplomatic move of the war." A Communist authority in London declared the Comintern never would be resurrected.)

The resolution, signed by two Germans, two Finns, two Italians, two Russians, two Frenchmen, a Czech, a Bulgarian, a Hungarian and a Spanish woman Communist, said that even before the war it became clear that because of increasing complications in internal and international affairs of various countries "any sort of international center would encounter insuperable obstacles in solving the problems" of the Communist movement.

The working class parties have Japan, America Near Agreement on Second Exchange on Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department announced yesterday that the Japanese government had given "reason to hope that a second exchange of approximately 1,500 American civilians for an equal number of Japanese civilians held in the United States may be arranged."

Negotiations for further exchanges of Americans held in Japanese occupied territory and Japanese in the United States had been underway, the announcement said, since the first transfer took place last summer.

Ames-Iowa Farm Leader Pamphlet Row Enters New Phase as Johnson Speaks Up

DES MOINES (AP)—The pamphlet controversy between Iowa farm leaders and Iowa State College entered a new phase today when Francis Johnson, state farm bureau president, made public his objections to a new college treatise on wartime farm and food policies.

New Study The new study, entitled "Food Management and Inflation," was written by Mary Jean Bowman and Albert Gailford Hart, of the college department of economics. It is No. 8 in a series.

Representatives of the dairy industry and the farm bureau previously had protested the findings of pamphlet No. 5 on the comparative merits of butter and oleomargarine. That study is to be subjected to a section-by-section analysis by a joint committee composed of college faculty members and dairymen.

Iowans Bought More Luxuries, Ate Better During the Holidays

State Tax Commission Tells How War-Rich Spent Their Money

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowans turned to better eating and the purchase of more luxuries during the last holiday season when they had extra money to spend and couldn't buy many customary articles because of the war.

That was disclosed today by the state tax commission in a breakdown by business classifications of sales tax revenue during the Christmas quarter.

Iowa's Christmas buying last year was the heaviest since the 2 percent retail sales tax was imposed in 1934.

Sales tax revenue for the last quarter of 1942 was $5,181,365, or $120,153 more than in the corresponding period of 1941, which set the previous record.

Jewelry, Liquor, Food The commission's breakdown showed Iowans used their extra wartime earnings to buy more jewelry, liquor, candy, food, apparel, furniture, general merchandise and farm and garden produce.

They bought fewer automotive accessories, lumber and building materials, public utility services and manufactured products.

They spent more for amusements, used their telephones more, and bought more musical instruments.

They bought fewer household appliances, many of which they couldn't get; fewer radios, because manufacturing of new sets was stopped; and less electrical equipment, largely frozen.

They bought more in the department and drug stores and less in the variety stores.

More Haberdashery Men bought more haberdashery and women bought more millinery. Purchases of shoes and clothing increased moderately.

There were fewer retail outlets reporting sales tax collections in the 1942 Christmas quarter than in the 1941 holiday period.

The 1942 returns came from 62,090 retailers, 9,451 fewer than the 71,541 reporting in the 1941 quarter.

'44 Presidential Race A 'Handicap' Affair

Woman Voter May Be the Deciding Factor in Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The multibillion dollar army-navy supply bills sweeping through congress are a warning to every American actively or passively visioning the White House as a future residence, and to all political elements on the home front, that the next presidential race will be a handicap affair.

Absentee Vote An eligible "absentee vote" representing a fifth or more of the probable 1944 total popular presidential vote is indicated. And there are no precedents to guide conjecture as to the effect that novel circumstance might have on the selection of presidential nominees or upon the election itself. It could make the woman voter the decisive factor in American politics in 1944.

The army-navy budget calls for more than eleven million men under arms as well as substantial assorted feminine auxiliary elements with the colors as 1944 opens. All of them except the under-21 group presumably are eligible to vote by mail or otherwise in both state primaries and the subsequent elections. Federal enactments in 1942, when the service vote at home or abroad aggregated only some 3,000,000 have paved the way for full service participation in 1944 political decisions.

55,000,000 in 1944 The total popular vote in 1940 just shaded 50,000,000. Normally it should approximate 55,000,000 in 1944.

If the war still is in full swing in November, 1944, American armed forces are apt to exceed 11,000,000. They could represent a full 25 percent of the probable popular vote to be cast in November, and hold the national balance of political power decisively.

Japs on Attu Hacked Into Three Pockets

Yank Pilots Perform 'Near Miracles' On Fog-Bound Island

By LYNN HEINZERLING Associated Press War Editor

American doughboys pounded the Japanese invaders on Attu island into three isolated and rocky pockets for the final, annihilating blows yesterday and axis invasion outposts in the Mediterranean smoldered from new aerial blows.

Allied invasion of Europe, or at least some new stroke of devastation, must certainly have seemed imminent as the heavy weight of the RAF's big bombers was largely withheld from occupied Europe while allied warplanes battered furiously at axis targets in the Mediterranean theater.

But American eyes turned toward the fog-bound, rocky crags of Attu island in the Aleutians where American troops were pinning the Japanese down in three pockets in the area of Chichagof harbor on the island's northeastern tip.

Clinging to their barren positions, some of them on favorable high ground, the Japanese forces apparently were determined to make one of the last gap defenses of the island typical of their fighting in New Guinea and on Guadalcanal. A navy communique yesterday, however, said the battle for the island was in its "final phase," and, in this case, there appeared no possibility of escape.

Eugene Burns, Associated Press correspondent who sent out the first eye-witness account of the fighting on Attu yesterday, told of the heart-breaking conditions endured by American fliers and soldiers to blast the Japs from their positions.

During the fighting at Massacre pass, Burns wrote, the Japanese gun positions were placed just above the fog line, where they could pour shells on American troops and leave American artillery and machinegun fire ineffectual. American bomber pilots performed near-miracles of flying to skim through the haze a few feet above land or water and attack enemy positions. Kingfishers, navy observation planes, dive-bombed with 325-pound bombs.

In the Mediterranean, American warplanes blasting at the Italian mainland and islands of Sardinia, Sicily and Pantelleria were credited with destroying 97 enemy planes in the sky and on the ground Friday, bringing to nearly 300 the axis planes destroyed in three days. The allies lost 12 planes in the same period.

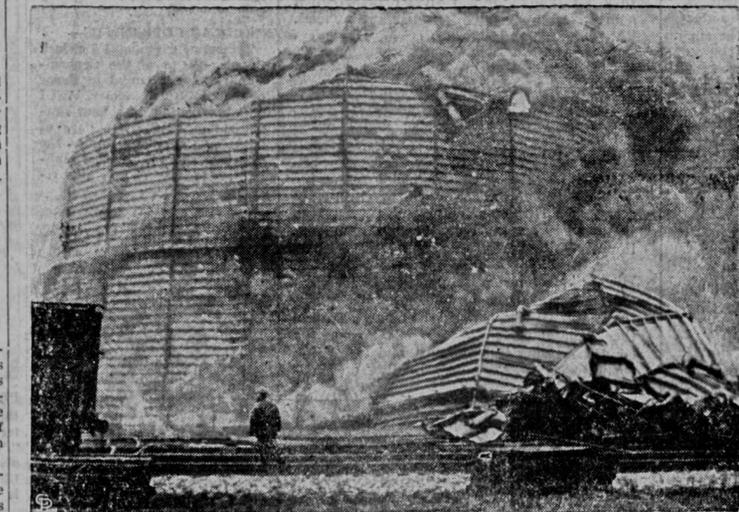

In Burma, U. S. medium bombers matched their fire-power with 25 Japanese fighters after a bombing attack on enemy workshops at Chauk in central Burma Friday and shot down five and maybe eight of the enemy planes. Six more were damaged, a communique said. One American plane was lost. RAF bombers raided the Mandalay freight yards.

Flood Waters Continue On Rampage in Midwest

12 ARMY FLIERS DIE IN CRASH INTO GAS STORAGE TANK

IN FULL FLIGHT, a four-motored army bomber crashed into the world's largest illuminating gas storage tank in Chicago, igniting the 18,000,000 cubic feet of gas and killing all 12 army fliers aboard. The plane, based at Tarrant field, Fort Worth, Tex., was on a routine training flight. The bomber struck the upper part of the 500-foot structure, slid over the rim and inside as the illuminating gas flashed into fire.

35,000 Rubber Workers Stage Akron Strike

Akron, O. (AP)—More than 35,000 CIO United Rubber Workers halted production last night at four major rubber companies and thousands of others may go out today, company spokesmen said. Union officials declared the employees quit work in protest of a war labor board wage decision.

A Goodrich Tire & Rubber Co. spokesman, who declined to be mentioned by name, said third shift employees failed to report at 10 p. m. (Eastern war time), bringing to 14,000 the number who left jobs there. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. said workers on the 10, 10:30 and 11 p. m. shifts stayed away bringing the Firestone total to 17,000. General Tire & Rubber Co. said 3,000 quit earlier in the day.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. said several hundred failed to show up during the day. Schedules normally cease at 10 p. m. on Saturday and resume at 10 p. m. today when thousands may join the stoppage, a company spokesman asserted.

Representatives of Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich union locals announced they would confer in Washington tonight with CIO president Philip Murray on the stoppages.

Some workers failed to report for the 6 a. m. shift at Goodrich and some others who appeared walked off the job. George Bass, local president, said those remaining worked out curers thereby avoiding waste of materials. A Goodrich official said complete shutdown followed on the 2 p. m. shift.

U. S. Experts Salvage All but Three of 19 Ships Sunk, Damaged at Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—The battleship Oklahoma, turned almost upside down during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, has been righted after months of difficult salvage work.

Only 3 Lost Relating the full extent of operations, the navy announced with pride yesterday that, of the 19 craft sunk or damaged on Dec. 7, 1941, only three vessels have been written off as lost. And more than 50 percent salvage has been achieved even from these ships.

Righting of the Oklahoma was a matter of special pride for Rear Admiral W. R. Furlong, commandant of the Pearl Harbor navy yard, and the yard's salvage superintendent, Commander F. H. Whitaker of Beaumont, Tex.

Leading newsmen onto the decks of the Oklahoma, then into the captain's cabin, Admiral Furlong said: "She turned over in seven or eight minutes after being hit, and you'll see some strange sights. The damage here was caused partly by fire and water and by capsizing. Look around you."

Gaping Holes There were huge, gaping holes in the heavy steel plates, but such fragile things as the light bulb in the socket above the captain's desk were unbroken.

The holds of the Oklahoma still were water-filled. A strong stench came from them, and signs warned workmen not to descend without gas masks. Below decks, the admiral said, there are the bodies of 381 officers and men.

The scene was similar on the Arizona, but she lay on the bottom, much lower in the water. Inside the Arizona the navy expects to find 1,071 bodies. Within the inverted Utah are 57 more bodies.

The Oklahoma was almost upside down—151 degrees—when they began working on her in February. Workmen clambered over the 27 year old vessel for days, fastening cables to her hull.

Battlewagon Righted Cables were tied to her framework, and the other ends were fixed to winches set up in a row ashore. The winches supplied the pull. After 69 hours, the steady tug of the cables righted the great battlewagon.

Ships that were salvaged at Pearl Harbor were brought up-to-date before they rejoined the fleet. Their armament was increased and modernized.

"Most of them," Admiral Furlong declared, "are better than when they were new."

Mrs. William H. Taft Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. William Howard Taft, who during her 81 years saw her husband become president and then chief justice of the United States and one of her sons become a senator, died yesterday.

Ill for a year and a half, Mrs. Taft died at her home where she had lived much of the time since she first came to the capital with her husband when he was inaugurated in March, 1909.

Mrs. Taft was credited by friends with being the political mentor for her husband, who urged him on through the various channels that led to his nomination and election as president.

Her residency in the capital was broken only once in more than 30 years, the eight-year interlude between the time she moved from the White House and the day upon which she came back to Washington as the wife of the chief justice.

Great Illinois Railway Yards Under Water

1,000 Now Trapped By Mississippi; Over 100,000 Are Homeless

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The swollen Mississippi river, zorged by flood waters from its rising tributaries, crashed through weakened barriers in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri late yesterday, inundating one of the nation's largest railroad yards and trapping some 1,000 civilians who appealed to the coast guard for rescue boats.

The flood waters, which already have spilled over 1,356,960 acres and made more than 100,000 homeless in six midwestern states, engulfed the Missouri Pacific railroad's Dupo, Ill., railroad yards, washed out the main line of the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio railroad and threatened the town of Dupo, whose 2,082 residents were being evacuated.

Coast guardsmen sent out boats immediately when the Mississippi made an unexpected break through in St. Charles county, Mo., isolating about 1,000 civilians. Water from the break through joined the Missouri far—the second time two miles above the normal confluence and the civilians were caught in the pocket.

The Dupo yards handle 8,000 freight cars and service 50 locomotives daily.

Meanwhile, as the Illinois, Arkansas, Washash and Mississippi rivers continued their ominous rise, the Red Cross in St. Louis issued a flood report on the Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Illinois area showing:

Inundation of 1,356,960 acres; 9,663 houses damaged; 29,837 families made homeless or otherwise directly affected; 19,662 persons in shelters; 18,161 persons being fed and 7,135 needing rehabilitation.

The Red Cross said there was an "increasing serious hazardous situation" in the affected areas and that "conservatively" more than 100,000 persons were homeless in the four states and Kansas and Indiana.

The swollen Illinois forced the evacuation of all women, children and aged persons from Beardstown, Ill., and halted war production at the huge Caterpillar tractor works in Peoria, Ill., where thousands of employees went to work on the dikes.

Water consumption at Fort Smith, Ark., was limited by city authorities to drinking and cooking as the surging Arkansas broke temporary conduits strung across an army pontoon bridge.

The Wahash, overflowing its banks for miles, threatened many communities in southeastern Illinois and southwestern Indiana.

These three rivers, with their network of tributaries, poured their water into the Mississippi, and the "father of waters" rose slowly, threatening inundations farther south.

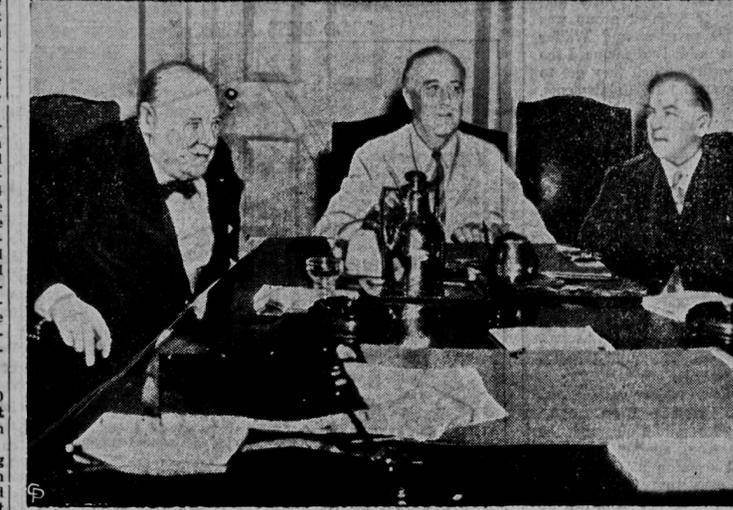

Many communities in the flood area were isolated by water, although most main roads in Illinois and Indiana were being opened up. More than 100,000 persons were homeless and thousands of acres of farm land were under water. Howard Leonard, director of the Illinois department of agriculture, estimated that about 350,000 acres of Illinois grain land would have to be replanted because of the flood.

Soft Cheese Will Be Added to Ration List

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soft cheeses will be added to the list of rationed food rations early in June, the war food administration said yesterday.

Exceptions to this extension are cottage, baker's and pot cheese. Such perishables as cream, neufchatel, camembert, liederkrantz, brie and blue cheese are being added to the list as a further move to conserve indicated short supplies of milk.

News Behind the News
The Facts Behind Mr. John Lewis's Smooth Switch-Back to AFL
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—The devious Mr. John L. Lewis figured out a smooth one when he filed application to return to the American Federation of Labor just at this time. His role was far from that of a penitent returning to the fold.

In his fight against the government, he has suffered from the lack of other labor support. Both AFL and CIO were against him. They exerted public pressure against him, because he broke the non-strike pledge in a challenging manner, flouted the war labor board on which they sit, and indulged in an insurrection against war wage-price formulas and policies. That left no one here working for Lewis, except himself.

Obviously, the timing of his proposal to make up with the AFL and be friends was designed to relax the unanimous labor pressure against him, or at least cut through it temporarily.

But will it work? The restrained public accounts of developments make it appear that the auspices are somewhat favorable, but, on the inside, they are distinctly not.

Mr. Roosevelt was upset by the maneuver. His working man on the AFL executive committee, Daniel J. Tobin, hot-footed it down to the White House, not once but twice, after the proposal came up in a secret executive council meeting last Monday, and before the committee acted "sympathetically" on Wednesday.

Mr. Tobin is supposed to have political control of the executive council. His teamsters are the key union in it, and their affiliates in the building trades, etc., give him, the friend of the president, a probable majority vote in most matters.

Mr. Tobin is distinctly against Lewis, will no doubt be for a fourth term, while Mr. Lewis will no doubt be Republican as last time, and would like to carry the AFL that way.

If the announced "sympathy" of the council last Wednesday had been full-hearted, it would have brought Mr. Lewis in right then. Instead, it directed that a committee be appointed (not immediately) to consider all the details of Mr. Lewis' restoration.

There will be no trouble about money. Mr. Lewis will pay the AFL 1 1/2 cents a head for the first 300,000 of his workers, and one cent for the others—a cost of about $60,000 a year. This is less than he paid the CIO where the levy was 5 cents a head.

These tangible details could conceivably be resolved. The intangible ones are more difficult.

If Mr. Tobin controls the executive council, Lewis also will have to do something about his government policies on WLB and wage-prices. The AFL's stand on these matters was adopted by the council under Tobin's pro-Roosevelt leadership.

Therefore, it seems unlikely that Mr. Lewis' return will become actual before he gets straightened out with Mr. Roosevelt on the coal mine strike issue at least.

The Lewis smoothness, therefore, seems to have been ruffled and partly upset by the president as far as bringing the AFL to the help of Lewis in the current strike or general political situations.

Unquestionably, the AFL wants Lewis in. For the long range pull, his rejoining would give the AFL 7,000,000 members with which to combat CIO, and bring it also to terms. Lewis has a strong following in the CIO, for instance in the United Auto Workers where a comparatively right-wing regime is now in control (at least, it is not communist.) A recent New York meeting of UAW practically endorsed the whole Lewis position.

All the CIO seems to be having troubles with its left-wing extremists, judging from its own statements. Phil Murray recently told the press no commie or socialist group was going to dictate CIO policies, and Walter Reuther of UAW has publicly denounced the communist Earl Browder. When they get to the point of making such public statements, they are recognizing fire behind the smoke. Lewis and the CIO will be back in the AFL some day, but not now.

human. He will hold it only if he calculates that the use of gas will do him no good.

The only hope of the warring world to escape the horrors of poison gas lies in the possibility that Hitler will not dare to lay his country open to certain retaliation. Britain has already warned him that she is prepared to repay in full any German initiation of this type of warfare. The United States and Russia will follow suit.

But Hitler may choose to ignore the warning. He may decide that the advantages he would gain by using gas would outweigh the disadvantages of guarding against it.

If he makes that decision and carries it out, his action will constitute just one more terrible crime in the long list of atrocities which stretches black across the axis record in this war. It will be one more item of guilt in the heavy score the axis must be made to pay.

A Curfew for Iowa City?

With juvenile delinquency becoming more of a problem every day, in Iowa City as well as throughout the rest of the country, many cities are either resurrecting and enforcing old curfew laws or are adopting new ordinances to keep children off the streets at night. It might be well for local officials to investigate the possibilities of using this method to meet the problem.

The American Municipal association reported the other day that the number of curfew ordinances has increased so greatly in the last six months that now from 10 to 90 percent of all cities in each state have adopted this means of controlling juveniles.

However, the association said, delinquency can be corrected only by healthy, happy and secure children, not by ringing curfew alone. Not enough attention has been paid to proper recreational programs and, in an emergency, children who have nothing to occupy their minds start roaming the streets seeking adventure.

For the most part, curfew laws follow a general pattern requiring children under 16, or sometimes 18, to be home by a specified time ranging from 8 until 10 o'clock. Some ordinances require children either to be accompanied by parents or legal guardian or to carry a written permit to be allowed on the streets after hours.

Though legal responsibility varies, with most ordinances putting the entire penalty for violation on the child, more recent laws provide for the punishment of parents. Examples of laws which fine or imprison in the city jail parents who neglect their children are found in Ft. Lauderdale and Key West, Fla., and many cities in Washington. In Key West, the parent is liable to a fine up to $100. Other laws make both child and parent responsible.

Some cities provide that minors failing to comply with the law will be liable to fine, imprisonment or both.

Indianapolis, to help cope with the problem, has invoked provisions of an old state law governing juvenile delinquency; in addition, the city has combined resources of the police department's juvenile aid division, the park department's recreation division and the board of public health in dealing with delinquency cases. Under one phase of the program, young offenders in minor cases are tried at recreation centers by their companions under a newly-fostered program of "boys' courts." Also, police officers who have a facility to deal with youth problems are assigned to this field.

Juvenile problems cannot be solved completely by a curfew law, but it is one way more and more cities are adopting to reduce the opportunities for youngsters getting into trouble.

It is certain that both corrective and preventative measures must be taken if any city wishes to reduce its juvenile problem. We have, during the past week in these columns, offered other suggestions—publication of the names of both the parents and the offender, improved recreation facilities—which could be tied in with the curfew idea. No one of these by itself would correct the problem entirely, but if used together they might work wonders.

Hitler Has the Choice—

Rumors that Germany is about to launch a campaign of poison gas warfare are intensified by reports that for six weeks she has been engaged in an educational program in gas defense practices and that German factories are producing large quantities of gas masks and other protective devices.

Fears that the poison gas threat is imminent are based on two considerations—that whenever any dirty tricks in warfare crop up, the axis can be relied upon to start them, and that if Germany didn't intend to begin the use of poison gas she wouldn't need to prepare herself against it. Nobody but the conscienceless leaders of the axis nations would ever start such a thing. Hitler knows that, and Hitler is not the man to pass up a chance to score even a temporary advantage no matter how nefarious a scheme he might employ to achieve it.

Hitler will not hold his hand simply because the idea of gas warfare is repellent to him or because he considers it in-

Interpreting THE WAR NEWS by Glenn Babb

The Week's Biggest Events Were Political

Definite progress in the re-invasion softening up of Italy and Germany by allied bombers and success in the opening phase of the American campaign to keep the Japanese from the north Pacific marked the course of the war last week.

The biggest headlines, however, recorded political rather than purely military events, among them a memorable speech by Winston Churchill to the United States congress, the Communist international's announcement in Moscow of its own dissolution and the work of the American-British war council in Washington.

Except on the little island of Attu in the Aleutians, where the Americans reached the mopping up stage, the lull between the allies' victorious African campaign and the great battles of the summer persisted. It appeared, however, unlikely to last much longer. The news from Russia indicated that the opening of Adolf Hitler's third attempt to smash the Red army was expected almost any dawn now. Around the shores of the Mediterranean indications increased that the mighty, victorious allied forces poised on the north African coast were not likely to give the enemy much time to recover from his Tunisian disaster.

The battle of the Atlantic, on which the strategy so largely depends, continued to favor the allies in increasing measure. Even Berlin admitted that sinkings by its U-boats had fallen off—it claimed only the comparatively small total of 227,000 tons for the first three weeks in May—but offered the excuse that few allied ships were abroad in the Atlantic.

The evidence, however, was that a heavy flow of the war power of the United States across the Atlantic continued. Churchill told congress that the last three months and particularly the last three weeks had yielded record results in the killings of U-boats. He expressed his "good and sober confidence" that the submarine menace would be overcome.

The pre-invasion pounding of the axis from the air was especially severe in the south, where American and British bombers from north African bases set about tearing the air cover off Italy and the islands that may be the stepping stones for the coming attack.

During the latter part of the week allied planes, with American Fortresses and Liberators, medium bombers and fighters taking the leading part, heavily punished airfields on Sardinia, Sicily, southern Italy and even at Grosseto, 90 miles north of Rome. A three-day toll of at least 285 axis planes knocked out of the air or destroyed on the ground was recorded as the allies moved their air superiority across the Mediterranean to the enemy's own territory.

More and more this looked like the prelude to invasion. At least six allied armies remained poised around the southern and eastern rim of the Mediterranean and Hitler faced the necessity of being ready to meet any or all of them at any time and any place along the European under belly. Germany was getting it, too, although the great fleets of the RAF's heavy bombers remained grounded throughout a week of a "bomber's moon." This gave rise to a suggestion that something on a greater scale than ever before was in preparation for the already heavily mauled Reich. Meanwhile the American army's big four-engine ships continued by day the (See INTERPRETING, page 5)

Hollywood Sights and Sounds
There's a New Kind of Horror Picture Brewing Out on the RKO Lot
By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The one-man story from scratch, without a title horror cycle over at RKO now is out of the fairy-tale stage. It is getting into the deeper waters of horror in a realistic human situation.

The horror man is Val Lewton. Val is the producer assigned by production chief Charlie Koerner to turn out a series of staple film chills as part of the studio's new program. Charlie threw a title at him, no more, and the terror was on.

Val is a genial gent, not particularly interested in the morbid side of life, but he tackled the title with his writers and out of the tussle came "The Cat People," a thriller-diller. Since then there have been "I Walked with a Zombie" and "The Leopard Man," and soon there'll be "The Curse of the Cat People," strictly to capitalize on the first hit.

"All fairy tales," says Lewton. "This one, now, is different. It's just a story of people. There's horror in it, but the horror springs, not from some fantastic premise, but from human evil or the abandonment of good."

This one, now, is "The Seventh Victim." As in its predecessors, there are no mysterious clutched hands, no disappearing panels, no concealed vaults or other trapings of conventional shriek-and-shiver stuff. DeWitt Bodeen and Charles O'Neal whipped up the

Washington in Wartime—

A Gimlet Eye for the OWI

WASHINGTON—Working newspapermen are betting that most future mistakes at the Office of War Information will be killed before they happen. Reason: Ep Hoyt, the new domestic director, is a tough, smart ex-copy reader.

Copy desk men are the unsung editors who make newspapers make sense. They edit the copy turned in by reporters and mercilessly whack out errors and personal opinions. It's been the consensus of capital scribes that OWI's releases were long on enthusiasm and opinion, and short on tight editing by a tough copy reader like Ep Hoyt. West Coast newspapermen who know Hoyt say the pamphlet "Battle Stations for All" for which OWI apologized, would never have passed his gimlet eye.

Hoyt is now publisher of the Portland Morning Oregonian, one of the top dailies of the Pacific slope. He skyrocketed to the top job on that venerable paper twelve years after he was hired as a copy reader in 1926. In the time it took him to reach the publisher's office, Ep was a reporter, drama editor, night city editor, executive news editor and managing editor.

He's still close to the copy desk, though. Ever since he began to make policy as an Oregonian ex-

the Hindenburg airship explosion over all eight columns of the front page. (It's a Rose City legend that in pre-Hoyt days, it took an editorial conference to decide that it would be proper to use a two-column head when President Harding died.)

The blood transfusion that Hoyt gave the Oregonian made a new paper out of it. Circulation perked up. Headlines and type faces were modernized.

Elmer Davis, OWI director, is a newspaperman who turned magazine writer and radio commentator. Hoyt reversed the procedure, and was a successful magazine writer who abandoned free-lancing to concentrate on newspapering.

Harris Ellsworth, Roseburg publisher and freshman Congressman from Oregon, says there isn't a newspaperman in the state who doesn't rate Ep a reporter first and a publisher afterward. Despite his top job as publisher, the 46-year-old westerner is still a working newspaperman, with his roots deep in the copy desk.

University Orchestra Concert Will Feature Local Composition

Wednesday evening's concert by the summer session university symphony orchestra, to be held in the main lounge of Iowa Union at 8 p. m., will feature the first performance of "Symphonic Suite in F Major," written by Thomas Turner, instructor in the university music department.

The suite, which was composed in partial fulfillment of requirements for the Ph.D. degree he received here in February, 1942, is in four movements, overture, dance, air and finale.

Turner's other compositions include a quintet for strings and clarinet, which was recently performed in Iowa City, and his "Ground Bass and Fugue," which was performed by the University of Chicago symphony orchestra in 1936.

Other selections on the program are Mozart's "Concertone in C Major," and Brahms' "Symphony No. 1 in C Minor."

Violin soloists for the Mozart selection will be Prof. Arnold Small of the music department, first violin, and W. G. Walters, director of instrumental music, second violin.

The two obligato parts will be taken by Prof. Hans Koebel, associate professor of music, cello, and Nelson Reed, City high school senior, oboe.

The Brahms' Symphony will be played after the intermission. Free tickets for the concert may be obtained at Iowa Union desk beginning Monday.

NURSE TO TALK

FIRST LIEUTENANT Kathryn Helm, army nurse assigned to work with the Red Cross committees for recruiting of registered nurses, will talk to nurses of University and Mercy hospitals tomorrow evening in the medical amphitheater in University hospital at 7:45. Lieutenant Helm is a graduate of St. Luke's hospital school of nursing.

'STARDUST' MEANS RHYTHM RAMBLES

RALPH SCHWEITZER (left) and Bill Venell of the WSUI staff are caught in a serious mood while selecting records to be played on Iowa's favorite noon program, Rhythm Rambles.

Meet the Men—

SUI'S Favorite Broadcast

—Behind the Mike

"Star Dust" means Rhythm Rambles and Rhythm Rambles means Bill Venell and Ralph Schweitzer.

Bill Venell, A4 of Centerville, is WSUI's new Rhythm Rambles and Ralph Schweitzer, G of Alhambra, Calif., is the man behind the man behind the mike.

Ralph is the man you haven't heard much about in connection with Rhythm Rambles, but he's an important link in the chain just the same. It was Ralph who, in January, 1942, started the Hawkeye Hits, featuring the first nine top tunes in Iowa and heard on the program every other Tuesday.

He also helps Bill Venell plan the daily programs.

Hawkeye Hits
Ralph is majoring in commerce statistics, and that's what started him working on the Hawkeye Hits. Each week he contacts sheet-music and record dealers throughout the state to get actual up-to-the-minute sales. Then he checks all available juke boxes in student hangouts. The results are statistically combined and the nine top tunes of Iowa are accurately calculated on a point basis.

"As a general rule Iowa tastes run slightly ahead of the national trends," Ralph said. "White Christmas," for example, was on the Hawkeye Hits one month before it appeared on the Lucky Strike hit parade."

If you want an up-to-the-minute dictionary on popular music, Ralph is the answer. He can tell you what's on the back of the record of almost any popular piece; he can identify the orchestras, tell you just how many different recordings there are of any popular tune and what the orchestra arrangement is. He can recite the programs of the past week almost verbatim.

War Problem
The major Rhythm Rambles problem now is the ban on recorded music, so the boys put the program together with the available records and scrap up those not-so-old favorites.

University women are taking over the announcing of many of the WSUI programs formerly done only by men, but a feminine voice is the long-standing tradition, WSUI found Bill Venell to take the place of Bob Pfeiffer.

Bob was the Rhythm Rambles announcer for the past two years until a few weeks ago, when he received his call from Uncle Sam.

Seahawks Meet Keokuk in Home Game Today

New Men Will Replace Grads As Navy Plays 1st Home Tilt

Hal Sherman Scheduled to Start on Mound Against Semi-Pro Goats

The Navy Pre-Flight Seahawks, coached by Lieut. (j.g.) L. C. Timm, will open their home schedule this afternoon against the Keokuk Goats. The probable starting pitcher for the pre-flighters will be Hal Sherman, replacing Joe Alix, who left the school this past week upon the completion of his training here. Sherman, righthander, saw some action in the team's initial tilt with the Iowa State Cyclones. The other hurling possibility on the squad is Quenton Evans.

Another replacement in the navy nine is Paul Kramer, who will take over first base position for Bob Yanke, who also graduated to flight training last week.

In the two games played so far this season, the Seahawks have been unscored upon, walloping the Cyclones 12 to 0 and the Muscatine Indians 5 to 0.

This is the second game with the Seahawk varsity for Lieutenant Timm, who succeeds Lieut. Wes Schulmerich.

Another game will be held on the Iowa diamond next Sunday, May 30, with the Collins Radio team from Cedar Rapids. As the schedule now stands, the Seahawks will play Camp Grant at Davenport, June 1; Iowa Manufacturing at Cedar Rapids, June 5; the Muscatine Indians here, June 6; the Keokuk Goats at Keokuk, June 13, and the Ft. Madison nine there July 11.

University students will be admitted free to all of the navy's home games by presenting their identification cards and admission price for townspeople, navy officers and enlisted men is 25 cents.

Tryouts were held yesterday afternoon for the latest battalion to recruit new material to replace the players who will be leaving in the near future.

Dodgers Hit Walters, Score Early to Whip Cincinnati Reds, 5-2

BROOKLYN (AP)—Taking advantage of Bucky Walters' wildness, the Brooklyn Dodgers put over four runs in the first two innings and then staved off Cincinnati's late inning threats as they whipped the Reds 5 to 2 yesterday.

The usually reliable veteran right hander loaded the bases on walks in the first inning, setting the stage for Billy Herman's two-run single. Bucky started the second frame by walking Mickey Owen and, after the Brooklyn catcher had been moved up with a sacrifice, Aogie Galan crashed with a double. Arky Vaughan's single brought Galan home and sent Walters to the showers.

Cleveland Outpoints New York, 9 to 2

Bagby Allows 5 Hits While Indians Rap 3 Yankee Hurlers

CLEVELAND, OHIO (AP)—Behind the five-hit pitching of Bagby, the Cleveland Indians amassed 16 hits, all singles, against three Yankee hurlers, and annexed a 9 to 2 victory over the league-leading New York team here last night.

In collecting their five hits, the Yankees swatted two home runs, one by Joe Gordon in the ninth inning, and the other by Charlie Keller in the fourth frame.

In the hectic opening stanza, the Indians drove Hank Borowoy from the mound before he retired a single batter.

Bagby fanned six hitters, and Zuber struck out one.

Manpower Shortage Presents Problem, But Can Be Solved
WASHINGTON (AP)—The new coach of the world champion Washington Redskins, energetic "Dutch" Bergman, musing yesterday over the prospects of professional football next season, decided the situation looks this way: "By the first of June, we'll be rounding up our players, and otherwise beginning to get ready, and we only hope that the other eight clubs (Cleveland has withdrawn) in the league feel the same way about continuing as we do."

There is nothing sure about anything in athletics these days, but Bergman is confident the government will "give professional football every encouragement."

Won't Hinder War Effort
"In making our plans to go right ahead, we will do nothing that could interfere with the war effort," he said.
"We figure the president, who has announced that he is thinking of selecting a coordinating committee on sports, will urge us to carry on as a morale factor."

Manpower shortage presents a problem to the pros, but it can be solved.

"Out of our squad of 33 men last season, we have 14 who should be available for the approaching season, providing local draft boards do not change their status, or new selective service regulations catch them," Bergman said.

Silging Sam Helps War
"Sammy Baugh's case serves as an illustration of what the professional star will have to do in order to "keep the game alive."

The "sweet slinger" from Sweetwater, Texas, has hundreds of acres of ranch and farm land where he produces some of the food the nation needs.

With most of the farm chores done by football time, Sammy would bring his family to Washington, take a job in defense industry, do his practicing at night and his playing on Sunday.

City Softball Season Will Begin May 31
The Iowa City softball league season will not get under way until Monday, May 31, instead of tomorrow as originally planned, because of the wet field in City park, J. Edgar Frame, director of recreation, said last night.

Opening the city competition will be the Junior Chamber of Commerce team and the Junior Farm Bureau club.

Teams scheduled to play Monday through Thursday of this week will meet on July 4, Frame announced. The holiday program will include these games:

Bremers vs. Complete Auto, Power Boys vs. Junior Farm Bureau, Junior Chamber of Commerce vs. Engineers, and Bulldogs vs. George's Buffet.

Ho, Hum-- Count Does it Again

Finishes Six Lengths Ahead of Slide Rule in 68th Withers Mile

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK (AP)—Ho, hum—Count Fleet did it again yesterday. Making it look easier each time he puts on his running shoes, Mrs. John D. Hertz' high-stepping filer knocked off two other hopeless challengers this time in the Withers-mile at Belmont and added this ancient classic to his earlier romps in the Kentucky derby and Preakness, among others.

He couldn't even get a crowd of 22,356 excited in this 68th running of one of the oldest races in the book for three-year-olds as he jogged to the payoff window six lengths in front of W. E. Boeing's Slide Rule and ten more in front of William Woodward's Tip Toe, who brought up the rear of this smallest field in Withers' history.

More and More "Lettuce"
It was strictly a benefit for the Count, for the victory netted him $12,700 and boosted his bankroll to $214,960 for two years of racing. He's been picking up those packages of "lettuce" so easily the last few weeks that he is probably coming to the point where he blushes when he goes to collect.

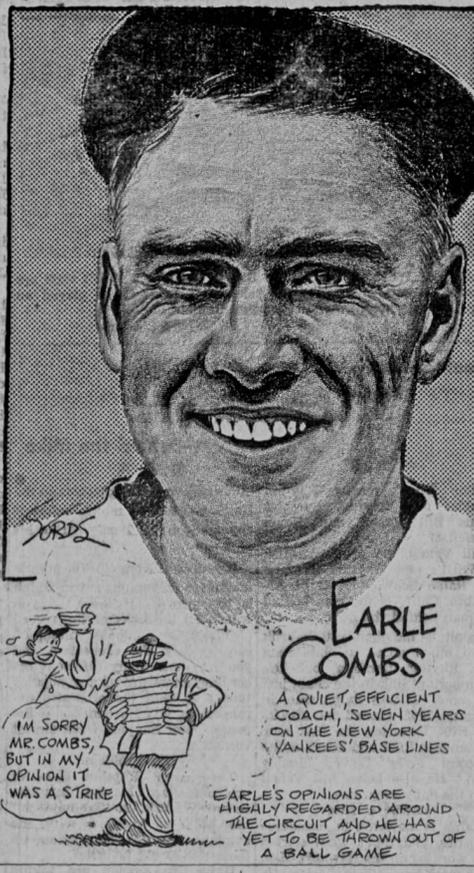

As a matter of fact, the only incident worthy of note in yesterday's outing—outside of the fact that the Hertz hurricane rewarded his admirers at the absolute minimum of a nickel on the dollar (or $2.10 for $2)—was that Jockey Johnny Longden couldn't keep on a straight course down the quarter mile run home.

Swings Wide in Stretch
He went wide at the turn, but Jockey Johnny explained this away by saying he took the tall brown lightning bolt out to look for better footing on this track which was rated no better than "good."

However, that didn't explain why the Count appeared to be bearing out all the way up the straight run to the wire.

If it hadn't been for that, he might have lapped quite a bit off his time of 1:36 for the mile.

Armstrong Believes Bob Great Champ

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Aging Henry Armstrong, still stepping sprightly as a youngster down the comeback trail, took the pipe that he never smokes out of his mouth yesterday and spoke a few kind words about the new king of the lightweight (New York version).

"My friend Bob Montgomery," said Henry, "will be a great champion. When we meet in the ring, I'll whale the daylight out of him."

The former triple champion, who fights his 22d comeback fight in the arena tomorrow night against Maxie Shapiro of New York, said that he and Philadelphia Bob are greater friends and that he and Mrs. Montgomery and the little bobcat (two years old), likewise are chums, but his considered opinion has always been that Montgomery, as a battler, didn't have a great deal on the ball.

Henry, whose loss to the de-throned Beau Jack was hotly disputed in some quarters, has a date to fight an outdoor match for Mike Jacobs in New York June 11, but he doesn't figure that the bobcat will be his opponent "quite so soon."

"I expect to fight him later though," he said, "I'd sort of like to have the lightweight title back again and though I generally weigh around 138 I think I could work off three pounds to make the limit all right."

Cards Sweep Double Header With Giants

Triumph in Opener, 10-7, Take Loosely-Played Nightcap, 6-1

NEW YORK (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals used power at the plate plus a well-pitched game by Harry Gumbert in the nightcap to sweep a doubleheader with the New York Giants yesterday. They won the first, a loosely played affair, 10 to 7 and took the second 6 to 1 with Gumbert hurling shut-out ball the last eight innings.

The world champions jumped on Johnny Wittig for four runs in the first inning of the opening contest, two on a homer by Whitey Kurowski, and tallied the same number in the eighth off Ace Adams. They completed their 13-hit attack with two more tallies at the expense of Harry Feldman in the ninth and needed them as the Giants bounded back with four runs that drove Howard Krist from the mound.

Gumbert had a 3-1 lead over Cliff Melton, Van Mungo and Feldman going into the ninth of the nightcap. Lou Klein and Stan Musial then promptly left no doubt as to the winner, hitting home runs to climax the Cards' 15-hit offensive. Musial's blow came with Harry Walker on base.

HOUSE WHERE BAPTIST CHURCH FOUNDERS MET A CENTURY AGO

More than 100 years ago, the founding fathers of the First Baptist church conducted their worship services in this little house which is still standing west of the English Lutheran church on Market and Dubuque streets. At that time, it was known as "Choate's schoolhouse." The house is now owned by members of the English Lutheran church. This picture was taken last winter.

Daughter of Charter Member Reviews Incidents In History of Local Organization

"It was June 26, 1841, when my father and 10 others met together in Choate's schoolhouse to form the Regular Baptist church," recalled Ella Sanders, daughter of a charter member of the First Baptist church, who lives at 329 Brown street. Since then it has been called, in turn, the Baptist Church of Jesus Christ, the Baptist Church of Christ, and, as Iowa City residents now know it, the First Baptist church.

Eighty years after the church was founded, Miss Sanders compiled its history from the stories told by her father, I. N. Sanders, who, with his wife and Isaiah Choate, were the first Baptists to establish their homes in Iowa City.

When the 100th anniversary of the church was celebrated two years ago, Mrs. Homer S. Johnson and Clara Hinton prepared two booklets, "Life in the Old Church" and "Life in the New Church," with much of the material based on the earlier report of Miss Sanders.

For a short time, services were held in the schoolhouse where the founding fathers met. It still is standing west of the English Lutheran church on Market and Dubuque streets and is one of Iowa City's landmarks. In the years before the church was built, the tiny group met in the Universalist church, in the Mechanics academy, which stood on the site of East hall, and in the Blue church where the present Christian church now stands. While there they established a "flourishing" Sunday School, Miss Sanders said.

In response to a request for assistance, the American Baptist Home Mission society appointed the Rev. Dexter P. Smith of New York as pastor. Until that time, W. B. Morey, the first pastor, had preached "part time."

"Church members voted to pay the Rev. Mr. Smith the munificent sum of $100 a year," Miss Sanders remarked. The first Sunday he preached in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The State Convention met with the little group in June, 1846, for the second time. The Rev. Mr.

Smith tells in a booklet which is in Miss Sanders' possession that "over 30 of the delegates were lodged at the pastor's house. Cots were obtained from the American hotel for the women who occupied the upper room. Buffalo robes, quilts and blankets were spread upon the floor below, where some others slept in the horse barn. The matron who supervised the cooking stated that over 300 meals were provided in that house during the meetings after the convention left."

"The formidable array of Baptists made an impression on the capital city," Miss Sanders stated in her report. "A good Methodist sister, awestruck, exclaimed, 'I didn't suppose there were that many Baptists in the world!'"

When the Baptists were no longer able to rent the chapel and did not have sufficient funds to purchase a lot on which to build, Dr. Smith went east to solicit funds from friends.

The new building was erected in 1846, and dedicated in 1848. Many believe that the designer was Father Samuel C. Mazzuchelli, who designed Old Capitol, for the pillars and cupolas were very similar.

INDIANA FLOOD WATERS STILL RISE

BOY SCOUT, wearing a civilian defense armband, rescues another youth from the rising flood waters in Peru, Ind., as the Wabash river, swelled by days of almost incessant rains, overflowed its banks. With five persons dead and 10,000 homeless, volunteer crews of soldiers and civilians are sandbagging river levees to check rising waters. Other river floods are threatening other mid-west areas.

Civilian Defense Head Predicts Blackout Soon For State-Wide Surprise Practice

The possibility of a state-wide blackout sometime in the near future was announced yesterday by Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, commander of the Citizens' Defense corps here. According to Professor Perkins, it is quite likely that after all the warning districts in Iowa have experienced surprise practice blackouts, the whole state will be blacked out in a surprise practice.

In discussing the work of the organization, Perkins stressed the importance of educating the people in regard to blackout precautions. "The number one problem of commanders all over the country," he said, "is to get people into the habit of turning off lights when leaving offices, stores, and homes, and to get outside switches installed so that lights can be turned off from the outside if necessary." While cooperation with the authorities is, in general, excellent, people are still forgetful of lights left burning in empty houses. In case of an actual air raid, of course, such lights would be extinguished by officials, wardens having the authority to break into houses, if necessary, to turn lights off. Until such an occasion arises, however, it is each household's responsibility to turn lights off when leaving home in case a surprise blackout, practice or otherwise, should be staged in his absence.

While civilian defense activities have developed an efficient machine, it is important that people do not relax their vigilance because of over-confidence. Any laxity would weaken our defense set-up and provide a loop-hole for the enemy, Perkins said, and so we must continue to be alert and ready at all times.

CAP to Send 25 to Meeting In Des Moines

The Iowa City squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will be represented by approximately 25 members at the second annual Mobilization day of the Iowa wing, being held in Des Moines today.

Three planes will transport some of the members, one being the plane recently purchased for the squadron by the local Moose and Elks lodges. John Pipe, pilot, will be accompanied by L. C. Seber and Dr. J. D. Wells. Ernest E. Larew and Dr. L. D. Odell will also fly planes.

Other members will travel by automobile. Glen Swartz is in charge of the transportation.

The "M" day program will be opened by a parade through the business district of Des Moines at 11 a. m., followed by a luncheon and review at the state capitol grounds. Chief features of the day will be addresses by Gov. B. B. Hickenlooper and Lieut. Col. Earle L. Johnson, national commander of the CAP.

Each unit attending the program has been asked to furnish members to serve on a special military police squad. Iowa City members selected for this are L. C. Sebern, Ernest E. Larew, W. R. Stocker, Glen Swartz, Richard Michael and Phillip Kerr, under the leadership of T. A. Kelley.

Minister Will Attend Meeting in Chicago. The Rev. Evans A. Worthley, minister of the Unitarian church, will go to Chicago today to attend meetings of the Western Unitarian conference being held there Monday and Tuesday.

This is the ninety-first annual session of the conference, which includes some 80 churches in mid-western states.
