Allies Pierce Etna Line

Badoglio Dissolves Italian Legislature

Troops Moved To Quell Riots Among Croats

General Eisenhower Offers Italy Peace, Trade of Prisoners

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LONDON—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio dissolved the Fascist-packed Italian legislature yesterday and sought by force of arms to still domestic tumult preparatory to climactic battles or a suit for peace.

Both German and Italian troops were dispatched to Fiume and Trieste to combat separatist demonstrations among the 600,000 Croats and Slovenes of Istria, Swiss dispatches said.

The allies threw out what presumably was their choicest bait to entice Italy out of the war—a pledge by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to trade prisoners on a basis that probably would favor Italy three-to-one with immediate peace under honorable conditions which our governments have already offered you.

Italian language broadcasts to Italy from north Africa carried the message of General Eisenhower, the allied commander who had been entrusted with full authority to deal with any peace offers.

"Provided all British and allied prisoners now in your hands are restored safely to us and not taken away to Germany," he said, "the hundreds of thousands of Italian prisoners captured by us in Tunisia and Sicily will return to the countless Italian homes who long for them."

The allies captured 248,000 or more axis soldiers in Tunisia and have seized 75,000 thus far in the Sicilian campaign, the bulk of them Italians in each case.

The fall of the chamber of Fasci and corporations—the legislative instrument set up by Benito Mussolini after the old chamber of deputies was dissolved Dec. 14, 1938—was announced by the Rome radio, which said King Vittorio Emanuele III approved. "A new chamber of deputies will be elected within four months after the termination of the war and a new legislature will be set up," it said.

Formation of new political parties and the wearing of any political symbol other than the tricolor was forbidden for the duration. The radio said release of political prisoners had started; one Rome dispatch said 4,000 already were released.

Many prefects were dismissed in the general housecleaning.

Mass demonstrations in Milan, Turin, Genoa and other cities apparently approached closer and closer to the proportions of a social revolution. Communist placards demanded ending of the war.

The Swiss newspaper Berner Tagwacht told of the military occupation of the Itrian peninsula, Adriatic region which was ceded to Italy by Austria after the first World war. It said the Croats and Slovenes demanded that Istria be incorporated into a Slavic state.

A Rome dispatch to the Tribune de Geneve said Badoglio's regime was "just as anxious as Mussolini's to maintain satisfactory relations with Germany," but qualified the declaration with a statement that the premier marshal was governed solely by military considerations whereas Mussolini's reasons were ideological and political.

Nebulous rumors of negotiations for an Italian-allied armistice persisted. Italian broadcasts repeatedly told the populace not to believe false rumors "which will continue to be put in circulation." The Rome station continued to issue belligerent statements for home consumption, apparently seeking to deflect some of the unloosed anger from the Fascists to the allies.

Nazi Reinforcements Rush to Bolster Orel

LONDON, Friday (AP)—German units from as far as France and Germany rushed into the threatened Orel sector of the Russian front today as the formidable Red artillery pounded the drenched countryside and Russian cavalry charged through the mud to batter the weary German defenders, who were pushed back six miles and pried from 40 villages.

The Soviet midnight communiqué giving these new details said the Germans were snatching reinforcements from every available front in their determination to prevent a major debacle at Orel, a keystone in the entire German defense.

Th communiqué described them as "march battalions," a German expression meaning troops hurriedly organized and sent to the front before completing their full training.

More than 3,300 Nazis killed in the Orel fighting yesterday as the battle burned brightly despite the rain and muck that sent troops floundering and splashing in attack and counterattack.

One Red army cavalry unit smashed through weary German defenders at three strongly fortified places north of Orel. The Germans ran, leaving behind them 600 of their dead comrades and large quantities of arms, the communiqué, recorded by the Soviet Monitor, said.

In another sector a regiment of German infantry, supported by three tanks, made two attempts to counterattack. They were met by a hail of Soviet fire and gave up their attempt after ten German tanks were disabled or burnt out and a battalion of men lay dead.

Russ Offensive South of Orel the Russians took bodies of 20 killed in transport crash taken from wreck

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—Charred bodies of 20 victims of an American airlines transport plane which plowed into a field near Trammel, Ky., and burned Wednesday night were removed from the wreckage late yesterday and brought here and to Nashville, Tenn., while the two lone survivors remained in a hospital here.

The crash, which took the lives of several military officers, important industrial leaders and a young mother and her baby, was being investigated by civil aeronautics board officials and representatives of the airline.

Formation of new political parties and the wearing of any political symbol other than the tricolor was forbidden for the duration. The radio said release of political prisoners had started; one Rome dispatch said 4,000 already were released.

Many prefects were dismissed in the general housecleaning.

U.S. Fliers Bomb Kiel

Over 30 Nazi Planes Downed by Fortresses Raiding U-Boat Slips

LONDON (AP)—Strong formations of Flying Fortresses hacking their way through Nazi fighter packs deep inside Germany rained explosives on the Kiel U-boat slips and the Heinkel aircraft factory at Warnemuende on the Baltic yesterday and shot down more than 30 enemy planes.

"Good bombing results were observed on both targets," the U. S. army headquarters communiqué said. Ten heavy American bombers were lost.

"Fairly strong fighter opposition was encountered by the unescorted Fortresses at Kiel, but there was little opposition at Warnemuende," the bulletin added. "Preliminary claims totaled more than 30 enemy fighters destroyed by the bombers."

Returning crewmen said the tight-flying bombers encountered most of their opposition on the homeward flight, the Nazis attacking in great packs in the sunlight summer sky.

American Thunderbolts, RAF, Dominion, and allied Spitfires supported the big target-busters part of the way to and from Germany, and Canadian fighters knocked down three German planes.

Republican National Chairman Says F.D.R. Began 4th Term Drive in Speech Wednesday

Yank Soldiers, Marines Make Short Gains On Strategic Japanese Airbase at Munda

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Friday (AP)—American soldiers and marines, fighting bitterly for every inch of ground, have made new short advances upon the strategic Japanese airbase at Munda, New Georgia.

A communiqué from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the Americans were increasing their encircling pressure and had moved forward against determined resistance by the enemy from strongly prepared positions. It was the first progress reported since last Tuesday when the Americans edged forward to within 210 yards of the airdrome.

Spangler made a formal demand on the office of war information and the war and navy departments that statements by Republican congress members and others, commenting on "the political implications" of the speech, be distributed to the armed forces through army newspapers, ships' bulletins and other channels.

On Capitol Hill, several members said Mr. Roosevelt sounded like a fourth term candidate, while backers of the president denied that any political considerations were involved in the speech.

In almost identical language, Senators Smith (D-SC) and Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters that Mr. Roosevelt's outline of a series of government benefits proposed for members of the armed forces after the war appeared to be a bid for soldier votes in the 1944 campaign.

Rep. Ditter of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican national congressional committee, said the speech "degenerated into the official opening of the fourth term campaign."

Wants Army, Navy To Hear GOP Angle

Harrison Spangler Makes Demand Of OWI, Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the Republican national committee, declared yesterday that President Roosevelt's speech Wednesday night was the beginning of "his campaign for a fourth and perhaps continuing term... a bold bid for the vote of our soldiers and sailors who are risking their lives for freedom."

Gas Cut Angers West, Nebraskan Declares

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was good news yesterday that "ordinary motorists" in the east that they may get more gasoline soon, but Secretary Ickes' statement that supplies in the midwest and southwest would be reduced proportionately was described by Senator Wherry (R-Neb) as angering the people there.

Ickes, as petroleum administrator, told his press conference he is confident eastern supplies would be increased within a few weeks. But he made it plain this would be accompanied by an approximate equalization of allowances in sections east of the Rockies.

In view of the widespread opposition, Wherry said, he believes the senate special committee investigating the midwest fuel situation should discuss the question at Kansas City meeting next week.

Yanks Take Nicosia, Canadians Capture Agira in Flanking Move

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—American and Canadian troops have cracked the mountainous core of the Messina bridgehead to raise hopes last night of a quick conquest of northeastern Sicily.

In a swift 12-mile overnight advance the Americans captured the inland road junction of Nicosia at the base of the axis triangle, and the Canadians overran the village of Agira, seven miles to the southeast in a race for the western side of Mt. Etna.

The seizure of the two towns threatened to collapse both axis flanks, the northern one based at Stefano di Camastro on the Tyrrhenian Sea, and the eastern anchor at Catania on the Ionian Sea.

(In Washington Undersecretary of War Patterson said the final conquest of Sicily was "a matter of days.")

The two seizures were described as the most important strategic development of the past week for they cut direct communications between the two axis flanks, and threatened to cause a general German withdrawal from the Catania area where the British Eighth army long has been tied down in trench warfare.

Gen. Patton Receives Offer of Cooperation From Sicilian Cardinal

Prelate Hopes Struggle On Soil of Italy Will Soon Be Ended

PALERMO, Sicily, July 28—(Delayed) (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., commanding U. S. forces in Sicily, received today from Luigi Cardinal Lavitrino an offer of cooperation by the Catholic church and the people in occupied territory.

The prelate told the American commander he hoped the struggle on Italian soil would be ended soon.

Patton visited the cardinal in a nearby city to which he moved some time ago from his town residence because of heavy allied air raids on Palermo. His residence has not been damaged, however, nor has the historic Palermo cathedral.

Archbishop of Palermo

The cardinal, who is also the archbishop of Palermo and prelate of the eparchy of Piani Dei Creci, received the general in a small room of the abbey of the Sisters of Charity. He was dressed in ceremonial robes and was surrounded by high church dignitaries.

Patton was accompanied by his deputy commander, Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, and an American colonel of Italian descent who acted as interpreter. They chatted for three quarters of an hour.

A return visit is to be made by the cardinal tomorrow.

Friendly Cooperation

The meeting between ranking military and religious leaders cemented the friendly cooperation that has existed between the Italian church and the American army since the invasion began. Italian priests have complied with requests by U. S. army civil affairs officers that they explain to their congregations the decrees promulgated by AMGOT—allied military government of occupied territory.

Numbers of Italian prisoners in the captured cities have surrendered their weapons to local priests and bishops who turn them over to allied military authorities.

U.S. Subs Sink Ten More Japanese Ships In Southern Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP)—American submarines have sunk ten more Japanese merchant ships and damaged four in their war of attrition against enemy sea power, the navy reported yesterday.

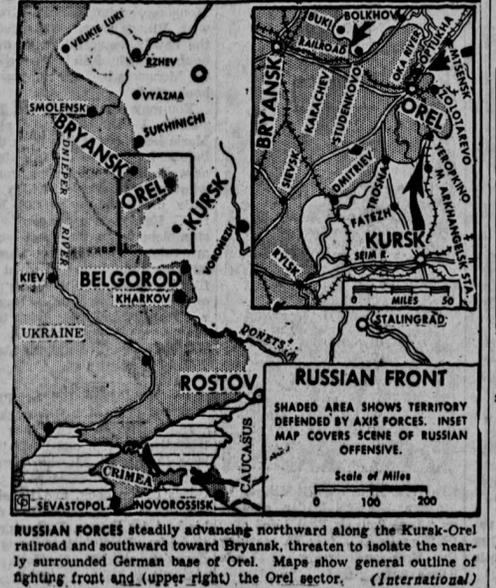

The vessel destroyed included two large transports. The 14 successful attacks raised to 297 the number of Japanese war and merchant ships which have been reported successfully attacked since the war started. Included in the total are 210 ships sunk, 29 probably sunk and 58 damaged.

While the navy communiqué, giving the latest reports on submarine activities in the Pacific and China Sea areas, contained no details of the operations, it was regarded here as further evidence of the success of American strategy in reducing sharply Japan's ability to maintain her far-flung empire which is dependent on shipping for its existence.

How to Reeducate Poland?

And how are we to re-educate Poland? How are we to teach her that—although it was criminal of Germany to violate her borders—it will be all right for the Russians to keep what they snatched in those "pussy-wants-a-corner" days when Russia had not yet decided whether it was pro-axis or pro-ally?

We have been given to understand that, since the death of Sikorski—a sudden death, with no coroner's report available—Polish representatives abroad are in complete harmony as to a conciliatory relation with their ancient enemy—Russia.

We beg leave to enquire whether the conciliatory attitude be a democratic one. In view of the history of Poland, we have a natural curiosity about the Catholic Pope's willingness to subject himself to the dictatorship of avowedly anti-God Stalin.

Anglo-Saxon friends of the Stalin dictatorship have often reminded us that we must not be "sentimental" about such things. Indeed, Americans will probably not be more profoundly moved at the sacrifice of Poland than they have been about the sacrifice of millions of farmers in the Ukraine starved to death for the Communist "cause."

Reflection suggests, however, that one day our own Iowans may be called upon to starve to death in the interests of Comrade Stalin. However, we must not be "sentimental" about such things. Or must we?

Why should an Iowa farmer be concerned about the life of himself, his wife, and his children when he can sacrifice himself on the altar of the splendid cause of democracy as exemplified by the "Poland-for-Russia" deal? Only, apparently, for the reason that he is "sentimental."

It is our opinion, and our hope, that what is described as "sentimentality" by those vowed to overthrow the American government will win in the end. It is our opinion, and our hope, that the expressions "freedom from hunger" and "freedom of religion," recently proclaimed to the whole citizenry by our president, have made oppressors—by whatever name—quake in their boots.

These columns recently suggested that it will be no receiver for bankrupt dictatorships but rather the Anglo-Saxon powers that will remake Europe. The writer of the opinion did not thereby intend to endorse that policy. He would be more ready to do so now, however, in view of President Roosevelt's proclamation that we, the conquerors, will use democratic methods only to insure that European peoples will be deciding their own destiny.

Such considerations naturally remind us of the subject with which we began—the future of oft-harassed Poland.

Historically, Poland has been a country which, as is the case with the United States and Ireland, always manifests itself as profoundly religious and profoundly national. It is outstandingly one of the nations that wants to go its own way. We shall concretely endorse democracy by insisting that it do so.

Naturally, the view that Poland should be democratic is—paradoxically enough, of course—branded as Fascistic. The reason for that is that "Fascism" is a convenient epithet to scream when an adversary has bested us on reasonable grounds.

"Fascist," in other words, is an ugly and impressive word with which to describe all who are "sentimental" about the farmers of the Ukraine who died that dictatorship in Moscow might live. Let, then, the Iowa farmer be wary. Should he insist upon his right to live off the products of his toil—in face of the "cause" of Stalinism—he will be nothing but a "Fascist."

Let Polish citizens, who wish to be Poles rather than robots of such-and-such a year plan, also be wary. Do you refuse to take in at the door those obscenities published by the Russian government in Byezhboznik and Antireligioznik? Do you object to your children's seeing the filthy cartoons so beautifully drawn by Communist artists? Do you believe that it is possible that Poles can live like Americans rather than like Russians? Be wary, poor Pole, for all these heresies you will be branded as a Communist.

Share your grief, however, with the Iowa farmer. Professed friends of his invite him to embrace the program under which Russian farmers gave up their lives to support the "democratic" taking of your homeland. Someday, he, too, may be dispossessed.

It is our opinion, and our hope, however, that he will not be. It is our opinion, and our hope that the ancient nation of Poland will, under the American aegis, be free from conquest forever—no matter under what popular badge that conquest masks itself.

Jennifer Jones Is Herself Again

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jennifer Jones is wearing her wedding ring again. Her peasant dress and her nun's robes are stored back in the wardrobe department. She has finished "The Song of Bernadette" and she looks like Jennifer Jones once more.

That's something nice to look like: a slim, vivacious person with one of those cover girl complexions, sparkling eyes, a wide mouth that breaks into a wider smile, and a cascade of wavy brown hair. Today she's wearing blue slacks, a careless corduroy vest, and brown moccasins. Bernadette, between pictures, is at home.

Home is a big white house up in Bel-Air. Out on the lawn Jennifer has two husky boys, Bobby, aged three, and Michael, two, are tearing around in a ceaseless chase, each with a postcard in his mouth. They're playing mailman. Jennifer's husband, Robert Walker, is at the studio.

This is all very different from the day Jennifer started work on her first big picture. Jennifer was plenty nervous, an unknown entrusted with stardom in 20th's biggest picture.

She laughs about it today. "I'm still green," she says, "but not quite as green as I was then. At least I can understand some of the strange jargon they use on the sets. Mr. (Henry) King, the director, took away most of my nervousness. He planned my first day's acting to be nothing but scenes showing me in bed, asleep."

"By the time I had my first big scene, with Vincent Price, everything didn't seem so strange. Now I can hardly believe the picture is finished. It's been only a few days, but it seems like years."

Jennifer is working next for her other boss, David O. Selznick, in "Since You Went Away." That means the Robert Walkers will both be very busy, and that's how they want it.

"We're very lucky," says Jennifer. "If it were just one of us (See HOLLYWOOD, page 5)

John Selby Reviews New Books

Scanning the World Of Current Reading

By JOHN SELBY "McSorley's Wonderful Saloon," by Joseph Mitchell (Duell, Sloan & Pearce; $2.50)

Joseph Mitchell is another boy from the University of North Carolina who made good. Very likely he was one of Proff Koeh's Playmakers—a lot of boys who investigated the drama under Koch seem to have gone on to important places in life or letters. Certainly he has learned the fundamental Koch precept, even though somebody else taught it to him. This is that a man should write about the things he knows.

Mr. Mitchell is a reporter. He reports for the New Yorker as a rule, with extraordinary success. But he has defeated even the New Yorker, for almost alone among the boys who work for that healthy weekly, Mr. Mitchell has abstained from slavishly following the New Yorker pattern. His pieces are good, straight, and painstakingly reported. He has the typical New Yorker eye for the curious and the amusing. But he can end a story without appending a cannon cracker, or without allowing it to trail off inconclusively.

Now Mr. Mitchell is publishing a collection of his New Yorker pieces as a second book. The title is "McSorley's Wonderful Saloon," and the lead story is about McSorley's ale house at 15 Seventh street. But the rest of the material ranges from a devastating study of Lady Olga, the bearded lady who said that if her husband were in a bottle she wouldn't pull the cork to give him air, to the Mongoose, who haunts Greenwich Village dumps and records the bawdy conversation he overhears. At Mr. Mitchell's writing, the Mongoose had 270 composition books full.

You may take your choice. Personally, I liked the piece about Mazie best. Mazie has been done before, but not to my knowledge as well. She is the Boston woman who rules the Venice, which is a little movie house at 209 Park row. Her friends range from stumblebums to the great—or at any rate, the well known. She can out-roar the El, and at night she fills her pockets with dimes and quarters and ranges the Bowery waking up bums and giving them enough for a bed. Mazie is the original rough diamond, the blonde with a heart of gold.

"The Two Marshals," by Philip Guedalla (Reynal & Hitchcock; $3) Philip Guedalla combines two tragedies to form one book, "The Two Marshals." Marshal Bazaine is the center of more than two-thirds of the book, and Bazaine's tragedy is that after he had done his best for France, France crucified him. Pétain's tragedy is the opposite, as Mr. Guedalla explains it.

Interpreting The War News

Allied Long-Range Planes Blasting Away Steadily

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Foundering, floundering Italy is on notice from General Eisenhower, allied generalissimo in the western and central Mediterranean war theater, to jettison the Nazis along with fascism—or go down in utter ruin.

"You want peace," said the Eisenhower surrender summons dinned endlessly into Italian ears from African and other broadcasting stations. "You can have peace, immediately, and peace under honorable conditions which our governments have already offered you."

It was by acts more than words, however that General Eisenhower drove home his ultimatum. Under intensifying pressure of his mighty army in Sicily, the whole right wing of Nazi-Fascist resistance from the northern sea coast to the central pivot west of the Mt. Etna bastion was crumbling.

Eisenhower deployed his forces to hit his hardest blow in the center while his British right flank tied down major enemy armor and mobile forces on the Catania front and his left put pressure relentlessly on the weaker north coast positions. That plan is yielding dazzlingly swift results. The battle of Mt. Etna is all but over, by every indication, almost before it began and with minimum allied losses.

The pattern followed avoided a costly British frontal assault on the terribly formidable east coast Etna shelf. The whole Etna position is in process of being cracked in the center and turned from the north in a classic example of modern military tactics. It bids fair to leave what is left of the axis garrison in Sicily penned up on the meagre, mountainous tip of the Messina peninsula as axis forces in Tunisia were trapped on Cape Bon.

Their escape under the avalanche of bombs awaiting an effort to cross the narrow Messina strait to the mainland would be a terribly costly business. The Tunisian example suggests their mass surrender instead, once the Etna barrier finally gives way to permit a converging American-Canadian-

British pursuit from three sides simultaneously.

Meanwhile allied longer range planes are blasting steadily at every communication key or air field which could help defend the Italian mainland boot itself from immediate invasion. The bulging "foe" and narrow, high "heel" of the boot that flank the Gulf of Tarento and a wide

Washington In Wartime—Facts Berlin Would Like to Know About

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Berlin, Rome and Tokyo probably would be delighted to learn that 50 percent of the people in the District of Columbia "live under slum conditions."

When Rep. Thomas D'Alesandro Jr., Maryland, head of the house D. C. subcommittee on public health, brought in that report recently, the nation's capital paused, gave a polite gasp and will now go on about its business.

Mr. D'Alesandro and his committee even listed all the things that should be done about it—like getting rid of the rats that infest everything from the sub-basement of the Capitol building to the suburban churches; like making some intelligent effort to cope with venereal disease; and like getting indoor plumbing at least to the slum sections within a few blocks of Capitol Hill.

The chances are 100-to-1 neither the revelations nor the recommendations will mean a thing. They never have. Since no resident of the District is allowed to vote, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands have more representation in congress and more weight than the national capital.

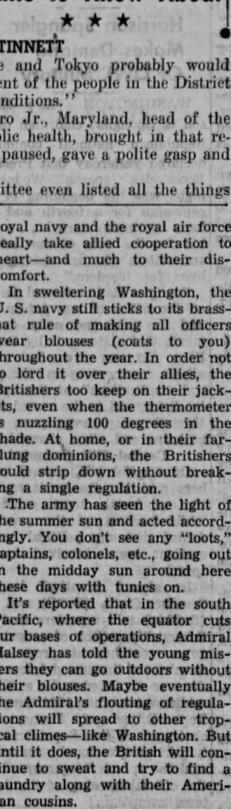

There hasn't been a president who has even seen the slums firsthand since Thomas Jefferson tramped through the mud to the Capitol from his boarding-house. The last member of congress intimately acquainted with them was a representative from a southwestern state who was determined to save every cent of his $10,000 a year salary so he could go home and retire after two years with the reputation for being the richest man in his district.

The British members of the strip of the "ankle" and "instep" are being progressively prepared for prompt Anglo-American occupation from Sicily.

There are vitally important air and sea bases on the Italian boot for allied use in driving across the Adriatic into the Greek peninsula to come to grips with Germany in the Balkans. As the campaign is developing it (See INTERPRETING, page 5)

University to Award Forty More Degrees Than Last Summer

B. Iden Payne Chosen to Give Main Address

University Not Giving Traditional Dinner; Union Used by Army

At tonight's Convocation in Iowa Union, the sixth wartime ceremony for the awarding of degrees and certificates, 462 awards will be presented, an increase of 40 over last year's total.

President Virgil M. Hancher will present degrees to persons representing 82 Iowa counties, 31 states and three foreign countries, a distribution which also bests last year's record.

For the first time in many years, the university cannot honor candidates at a pre-graduation dinner. The reason is that the dining facilities of Iowa Union, where the banquet would have been held, will be in use by the army.

Numerous men will receive degrees in absentia, since they are now serving in the armed forces.

B. Iden Payne, visiting director of the Stratford-on-Avon Shakespeare theater, is to give the Convocation address.

Harry G. Barnes, university registrar, will act as master of ceremonies, and the invocation will be given by Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion.

The candidates will file into the main lounge of Iowa Union shortly before 8 o'clock. WSUI will broadcast the entire ceremony, beginning at 7:45.

The candidates for degrees are as follows:

Local Groups Plan Weekend Parties For Servicemen

Service men will have the opportunity to attend several social functions planned for the coming weekend. Various types of recreation are scheduled.

Open house for service men will be in full sway in the main ballroom of the community building tomorrow afternoon from 2 until 5:30. Reading, ping-pong and cards will be the chief forms of entertainment.

The Scribblers' Service club will act as hostesses at a USO dance for service men on the campus to be held in the community building tomorrow night. The dance is scheduled from 7 to 9 o'clock.

A committee consisting of Goldie Kinney, Eleanor Kennedy and Mildred Arnold is in charge of arrangements. An orchestra has not yet been definitely engaged.

Men in uniform as well as civilian students are invited to Iowa Union tomorrow, between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30, and all afternoon Sunday. The occasion is open house.

University Announces Year's Social Plans

The social and entertainment program during 1943-44 will not be neglected by the university, despite the institution's concentration upon training army cadets and civilians for the war effort, it was announced by President Virgil Hancher in a discussion of plans for the coming academic year, which begins Sept. 2.

"The university will continue with about the same type of social program as in past years, with certain necessary restrictions. It is one of the moves of the university to maintain as many normal outside activities as possible, along with well-rounded and balanced courses," President Hancher declared.

Dances will be scheduled every two weeks at Iowa Union. The usual number of prominent persons will be secured for free lectures of popular interest, and a concert course of four numbers already has been announced. Other concerts will be given by the university's own orchestra, chorus band and small instrumental groups.

In the University theater better than six and eight plays will be produced, some of them dealing with subjects and themes of wartime significance.

Intercollegiate contests will be continued in six sports—football, basketball, track, baseball, swimming and wrestling, with at least half of the affairs to be held at home.

A forensic program will be maintained, fitted into plans for discussion and understanding of immediate wartime problems.

A Frank Statement To Those Who Kodak...

In a few days our August quota of Kodak film will be in and once again we will be able to meet some of the demands. As you know, Kodak is making film for the Army and Navy needs and the civilian supply is not as large as it used to be.

Since there is a curtailment of this supply from the manufacturer to us, we believe it is only fair that we curtail the supply to our customers. To us, the fairest way seems to be a limit of one to a customer, thereby distributing the lesser amount to more people.

We know there are hundreds of mothers, sisters, and wives of men in service who would like to mail a roll of film occasionally to camp. We would like very much to accommodate these requests as we feel they are legitimate needs. To be fair to everyone, however, we must stick to our pledge of one to a customer.

Likewise, when we are doing our best to distribute as widely as possible we do not feel it is "cricket" for anyone to ask a friend to purchase an additional roll for them.

Please don't be harsh with us — the fault is not ours. When the International Gangsters are finished off our present inconveniences will also be eliminated.

Speaking of finishing, we are glad to serve you with better quality developing whether you buy your film here or not.

St. Louis Slaughters Fitzsimmons' Phillies, 13 to 5

Cards Lose Playoff; Win Second Game

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Rising in injured indignation after losing the playoff of a protested game, 2 to 1, the Cardinals overwhelmed Freddy Fitzsimmons' Philadelphia Phillies yesterday, 13 to 5, scoring nine runs in one inning.

Loss of the playoff was hard for the Cardinals to take because it subtracted a 1 to 0 victory previously credited to the world champions and substituted a defeat.

Completion of the game, which was halted by rain after 7 1/2 innings on June 5, was ordered on Philadelphia's contention that the Cardinals had failed to cover the field so that play could be resumed after the storm.

Jimmy Wasdell, first up for the Phillies in the ninth, tied the score with a home run to the right field pavilion roof. Babe Dahlgren walked, Glen Stewart sacrificed and Merrill May looped a single to left, scoring Dahlgren.

(Complete box score of game halted by weather after 7 1/2 innings June 5 and ordered finished yesterday on Philadelphia protest)

★Swell Guy Out And ★Swell Guy In As ★Phillie Manager

NEW YORK (AP)—We are glad that as long as Bucky Harris had to go as manager of the Phils that Fred Fitzsimmons got the job, although judging from the way things turned out for Bucky this may seem like wishing Freddy a lot of bad luck.

Owner Bill Cox is ousting one swell guy to make room for another swell guy. We don't think managerial ability had anything to do with the change, as nobody ever has questioned Harris' ability to run a ball club. Fitz is an unknown quantity as a pilot. On the surface it might seem like swapping a guy who knew how to dig post holes for a guy who maybe could and maybe couldn't.

Anyway, we think Bucky was treated like a country cousin in the way his dismissal was handled, as when a fellow's shirt tail is hanging out we think he is the one who should be told about it. It seems that everybody knew Bucky was fired except Bucky, and although it is possible Mr. Cox misplaced Bucky's address, it hardly seems probable, as the designation of Phils, seventh place, would be sufficient.

There are reports that the cause of the friction between Harris and the fellow who hired him was caused by Cox's habit of dropping into the clubhouse and talking to the players in a manner which Bucky considered undignified, and possibly interfering with Harris' job as manager of the team.

We wouldn't know about that, although we do know that most owners studiously refrain from oversteering such clubhouse visits, and not so long ago Branch Rickey, said to be quite successful as a baseball front-office man, remarked that he hadn't gone into a clubhouse after a losing game in 25 years.

We do suspect that Harris, a steady, soft-spoken, level-headed gentleman, probably never shared the new owner's optimism concerning the immediate future of the Phils, as Bucky has been too close to the game too long to be hypnotized into pennant hysteria by a flash showing.

He knew that a 10-cent kite might take off and soar for awhile, but that it might fall apart with a little buffeting. Not that the Phils are a dime ball club, as Cox reputedly has spent 100,000 smackers trying to build it up, but the fact remains it isn't far from a championship aspirant, and Bucky knew it all along. He was the guy who knew he had the patch in his pants that would show up when he took off his overcoat.

We can understand Bucky's resentment toward interference with his conduct of the team, if that was one of the reasons for the friction, as there is nothing that puts an edge on the nerves more than a boss kibitzing over your shoulder, and Bucky possibly said in effect: "Here, you take my hand if you can play it so much better."

Anyway, we think Cox made a mistake in the manner in which he discharged his manager, as it is liable to create a skitterish situation on the ball club. A player might be afraid he would read in the papers some day or be told by his neighborhood shoeshine boy that he no longer was with the club.

We wish Fitz with the best of luck in a tough spot, and have no fears of his ability to handle players and retain their respect and confidence. Whether he can retain Mr. Cox's confidence is something else again, but we would suggest that if Fitz wants to stay there he should allow the club owner to roam at will in the locker room and say what he please, even if he just wants to recite "The Face on the Bar Room Floor."

Stopped Cold PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Max Lanier of the Cards will tell you one of his happier moments came when he stopped Ted Williams' 25-game hitting streak in 1938 when they played in the American association. Most pitchers would be happy to stop Ted just once or twice during the game.

Hawkeyes, Seahawks To Use Iowa Stadium For 6 Fall Games

A football game will be played in the Iowa stadium on six Saturday afternoons of October and November, as both the Iowa Hawkeyes and the Navy Pre-Flight Seahawks appear there for their home games.

Hawkeyes and Seahawks go against each other for the first time in any sport Oct. 9. Officers will not be used on the navy team, in accordance with an agreement with Iowa authorities.

The university team's other games at home are with Wisconsin, Oct. 2; Indiana, Oct. 16; and Illinois, the homecoming foe, Nov. 6.

On Iowa's open date, Oct. 30, the Seahawks will play Ft. Riley and when the Hawkeyes are at Minnesota Oct. 13, Camp Grant's team will appear against the navy in the stadium.

The non-commissioned service men get another break in the matter of admission to the University of Iowa's four home football games, Charles Galher, business manager, has announced.

These uniformed men will be admitted to special seating sections upon payment of 50 cents. It marks a continuance of the policy of offering sports entertainment to service men at low cost.

It is expected that hundreds of pre-flight cadets and men of the army specialized training program will be present when the Hawkeyes meet Wisconsin, Iowa Seahawks, Indiana and Illinois.

Phils Announce Sale Of Hurler Lloyd Dietz

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Phils' office announced yesterday the sale of right-handed pitcher Lloyd Dietz to the Montreal Royals of the International league for an unspecified amount of cash.

Dietz, who pitched for the Phils at St. Louis yesterday, left last night for Montreal, the Phils' office said. He came here from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a straight swap for pitcher Johnny Podgajny, and has been used mostly in relief.

THE DAILY IOWAN SPORTS

Now They Say 'Fighting Phils'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It's been easy to apply such alliterative adjectives as foolish and funny to the Philadelphia Phillies but, under Freddy Fitzsimmons, the fans were able to use a new descriptive word yesterday—fighting.

Although Fitzsimmons may be fat and easy-going at times, in the opinion of William D. Cox, president of the Phillies, he's "the greatest living disciple of John McGraw" and that's one of the reasons he was hired to replace Bucky Harris.

The 42-year-old pitcher, who served seven years under the tough little Napoleon with the New York Giants, made his debut as the Phillies manager Wednesday night in a typical McGraw manner—pigeon-toeing out to wrangle with the umpires.

Cox almost exploded in happiness. For a new pilot, professed to know little or nothing about his squad, Fitz got off to an auspicious start, shaking up the Phillies batting order to produce a 6 to 4 victory over the world champion Cardinals.

"We're going along for a few days and let Fitzsimmons look over the team," Cox said. "Then I want him to tell me what he needs to make the Phillies a first-division club and if we can buy or trade for any player he wants, we'll do it. So far I've got everything we've tried to go after."

The threatened player rebellion in support of Harris was a closed incident and there apparently was no ill effect on morale, at least judging from the way the team piled into the Cardinals.

Hambletonian Stars Sons of Volomite

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The $40,000 Hambletonian still is nearly two weeks away and the rich trotting race never has been exactly a happy hunting ground for favorites but you can put this down in your future book—it's at least one to a hundred that the winner will be a son of Volomite.

When the dozen or so three-year olds get away Aug. 11 at Empire City, where a 34-day meeting opened yesterday, facing the barrier will be three highly regarded offspring of that famous sire, who heads the famous Walnut Hall farm stud at Donerall, Ky. They are in order of their current odds: Bill Strang's Volo Song, Joseph F. Burke's Phonograph and the only non-musical member of the trio—Mrs. James E. Johnson Jr.'s Worthy Boy.

On the basis of times, Phonograph, who cost his Plainfield, N. J., owner $5,000 as a yearling, figures to be the favorite but Volo Song was the champ two-year old of 1942 and has been the most consistent winner of the three this season.

The trio dominated the three-year old stakes at North Randall, where Volo Song trotted his fastest mile in 2:03 1/2; Phonograph turned the distance in 2:02 3/4 with Strang's ace on the sidelines and Worthy Boy trounced Burke's colt in 2:04 3/4.

But if you don't desire to string

Patricia McVicker, Richard Folsom Wed At Pensacola, Florida, in Military Ceremony

Patricia Virginia McVicker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McVicker, 1117 E. College street, and Lieut. (j.g.) Richard Folsom, son of Mrs. S. D. Folsom of Muscatine and the late Dr. S. D. Folsom, were married at Pensacola, Fla., July 18. The full military ceremony took place in the chapel at the naval station at Pensacola, with the chaplain reading the double ring service. Mrs. McVicker, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Folsom and John Folsom, mother and brother of the bridegroom, were guests at the wedding. Bride Wore White The bride, given in marriage by Lieutenant Commander Nickerson, wore a gown of white embroidered organdy fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and bracelet-length sleeves. A coronet of seed pearls held her fingertip length veil of illusion. She carried a bridal bouquet of white flowers. Mrs. Mary Knapp, the bride's attendant, wore blue organdy and carried pink carnations with varicolored streamers. Lieut. John Durham of Pensacola was best man. Couples Mothers Both the mother of the bride and mother of the bridegroom chose navy blue ensembles for the wedding. Mrs. McVicker's accessories were of navy blue and Mrs. Folsom's of white. Both had shoulder corsages of roses. A wedding reception was held in the couple's future home, 504 Corey road, Warrington, Fla. For the wedding trip, Mrs. Folsom wore a rose colored ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of yellow centered daisies. Mrs. Folsom attended the Iowa City schools and the University of Iowa. Affiliated with Athenaum fraternity, Lieutenant Folsom is a graduate of Muscatine high school and the University of Dubuque.

Replacements Needed For Enlisted Men Leaving Their Stations

To meet anticipated needs for library assistants in federal agencies, the United States civil service commission has opened a new examination. Persons qualifying may be appointed to positions paying $1,970 and $1,752 a year.

Replacements are needed frequently both in federal departmental libraries, particularly in Washington, D. C., and in naval station libraries throughout the country. Library assistants in naval air and training stations will replace enlisted men going to sea. Libraries at these stations are for the use of enlisted men and contain both technical and recreational reading matter. Salaries range from $1,752 for untrained workers to $1,970 for those who meet certain experience or training requirements in addition to passing the test. There are no age limits for library assistant positions. The examination, a written test, will include both general questions and items on elementary library methods. Information in full may be had from A. M. Hotz, local civil service secretary in the postoffice building.

Board Awaits Coffee Notice

The Iowa City ration board is ignoring the cessation of coffee rationing until it has been officially informed that coffee is no longer rationed, according to Waldo F. Geiger of the local board. "We presume," he said, "that some dealers are acting as if rationing is officially off in Iowa City as elsewhere, but we cannot act on that presumption until we receive information from higher up."

Hymn Group Asking Poets, Hymn Writers To Submit Offerings

The Hymn Society of America has just announced a special committee on hymns of American patriotism which is to conduct a nationwide contest to select and invite approximately 200 poets and hymn-writers to participate in a nationwide contest.

This committee will choose about 15 hymns for publication, and these hymns will be distributed among publishers and newspapers.

Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, is to be chairman of the committee, which includes Dean Howard Chandler Robbins of St. John's Episcopal church, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Henry Wilder Foote, Boston; Mrs. Clarence Dickenson of the Union theological seminary, New York City; Dr. T. Tertius Noble, editor of the New Hymnal of the Protestant Episcopal church, and Eliza P. Cobb.

The entire executive committee of the hymn society will cooperate with this special committee to select some great American patriotic hymns. The Federal Council of Churches of Christ of America has named a special committee on Christian pageantry and drama which will study the place and use of dramatic art in Christian worship. This committee is to publish their findings in a book financed by the federal council's commission on worship.

Professor Harper has accepted membership on the general committee and is considering the offer of the chairmanship. Members are Dr. Russell Bowie, well-known religious writer and speaker; Hulda Nievuhr, whose brother is one of the greatest religious moral writers, and Prof. McNeill Poteat, authority on classical languages at Lake Forest college.

Maj. Gen. J. F. Curry Visits Meteorologists

Here yesterday on a routine inspection tour of the pre-meteorology school was Maj. Gen. John F. Curry, head of the fourth district of the technical training command. He was accompanied by his aide de campe, Maj. John H. Tibbitt. A graduate of West Point, General Curry has been in the army air forces since World War I. He started the civil air patrol and was former commanding officer. General Curry and his party left for Lincoln, Neb., to inspect the airplane mechanics school there.

Cool Play Suits

TAKE ADVANTAGE of summer sales for sport clothes to see you through the month of August. Especially popular in the younger set are play suits, similar to the one pictured above, made of lightweight materials. Keep cool and casual during the remainder of your leisure hours this summer.

Prizes totaling $500 will be awarded by Temple Stevens of Moberly, Mo., judge of the show.

TRY APPLESAUCE MUFFINS

SERVE APPLESAUCE muffins, split while they are smoking hot from the oven and spread generously with butter or fortified margarine to bring all the blush-pink fragrance of new apples to the table. Although muffins are best hot, they make ideal snacks for the children who are always coming into the kitchen in the middle of the afternoon for food. Instead of the traditional bread and butter, give them a treat with delicious and nutritious applesauce muffins.

Muffins of any kind are popular with all ages and all types of appetites. A special suggestion for varying your muffin schedule is Applesauce Muffins. Although they're fine for breakfast, lagging summer appetites will welcome them served with crinkly green salads crisp from the refrigerator for lazy-day lunches.

For more formal meals or for just comfortable porch suppers, the kind for which every member of the family dresses despite the humidity, applesauce muffins make a delicious dessert. Fruit muffins make a bee-line to dessert position on the menu, but they go easy on the family's precious sugar ration.

Sugar No Problem Enough sugar to make the applesauce for these muffins is no real problem with corn syrup or clover honey on the homemaker's shelf. For a tempting muffin, the kind with a refreshing, not-too-sweet and not-to-tart flavor, the applesauce should be sweetened with a sparing hand.

Made with enriched flour, applesauce muffins are healthful as well as delicious. This extra value flour with its added B-vitamins and iron is a big but thrifty contributor of needed food essentials to Mrs. Americas table.

Applesauce Muffins (2 1/2 doz. small muffins) 1/2 cup shortening 1/4 cup sugar 3/4 cup corn syrup 2 eggs 3/4 cup applesauce 2 cups sifted flour 3 tsp. baking powder 1/2 tsp. salt 1 cup chopped nuts Cream shortening and sugar together. Add corn syrup and beat well. Add beaten eggs. Add applesauce. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to creamed mixture, stirring only enough to moisten flour. Add nuts. Bake in greased muffin pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.
