Iran Declares War On Nazi Germany, London Report Says

LONDON (AP)—Reuters reported from Teheran last night that Iran, which for many months has permitted the allies to use its territory in sending supplies to Russia, had declared war on Germany.

The country has approximately 12,000,000 inhabitants and, according to latest available figures, a standing army of 120,000, including 32,000 officers.

Allies Landing At Naples Despite German Resistance

Reporter Predicts—Extensive Jap War

By JOHN A. MOROSO, 3d NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—"Don't start selling your war bonds. The war in the south Pacific to date is only the prelude to the fight that is to come. We will lose thousands of men, scores of ships, hundreds of planes and tons of supplies before we even make a dent in the Baron Tanaka 'empire'."

That advice was given today by J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent, who popped into New York after a 14,000-mile plane ride that began in Vella Lavella, the upper Solomons—a little island captured by American forces on Friday, August 13.

Baron Tanaka was the originator of the Japanese plan of conquest designed to give Japan her "greater Asiatic co-prosperity sphere."

Lodge, tanned and lean from grueling experiences in the fox-holes of Guadalcanal, Rendova, New Georgia and Vella Lavella, had this to say about the war situation in the Pacific:

Excepting a few small islands which are available for advance echelons and badly needed airfields our conquests to date consist of: "Much-needed jungle training for troops who had never before been under combat fire or conditions such as they met in the south seas."

"Double loss of face to the Japanese in the taking of Guadalcanal and New Georgia. "And the unearthing of the world's greatest fighter and bomber pilots, in many cases handling aircraft inferior in maneuverability—because of added instruments and pilot armor—to that of the enemy."

"On the debit side, the few small islands we have taken we now have to supply. That in itself is no small feat, for every convoy that 'runs the slot' is under constant bombing in waters as yet uncharted."

"In behalf of the American boys, many of them civilians a year ago, I want to tell their folks that pound for pound, gun for gun, knife for knife, and viciousness for viciousness, they can spot the Japs 'cards, spades and big casino' and come out best every time."

Lodge, father of two children and a veteran of two wars as a soldier—the Mexican and first World war—has covered this war from Narvik, in Norway, through the London blitz to the furthest reaches of the south Pacific. He has been under naval gunfire and he has gone along in dive bombers and B-17's that pounded the Japanese.

NAPLES LANDINGS STRENGTHEN ALLIED TOE-HOLD

AMERICAN AND BRITISH FORCES under the command of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark have successfully landed at Naples and encountered German forces one-third the way up the Italian boot. The landings were described as "satisfactory" by allied headquarters, where it was also reported the invasion forces had already taken Nazi prisoners near Naples.

Allies Hold Invasion Rehearsal

Bombs Batter French Coast

Biggest Daylight Raid Launched from Britain Shelters Maneuvers

LONDON (AP)—In crashing synchronization with the new allied landings in Italy, record fleets of American and British aircraft battered Nazi ports and airfields in northern France yesterday and in day-long operations also formed an umbrella for naval and landing craft that filled the Straits of Dover in an unprecedented dress rehearsal of a cross-channel invasion.

Under cover of the mightiest daylight air fleet ever lofted from the British Isles, combined operations launched naval vessels, landing barges and all other manner of invasion craft in the biggest and boldest exercises of the kind ever held.

Night Communique A night communique, issued jointly by the air ministry and U. S. army headquarters summarizing the day's operations against the continent, said allied planes flew more than 1,000 sorties to hit multiple targets, including the Paris area where, it was announced Flying Fortresses downed 15 enemy fighters.

The day's losses for the allies were announced as eight ships—two heavy bombers, three medium bombers and three fighters.

The channel invasion show—mock today; perhaps reality very soon—climaxed the eighth consecutive day of terrific aerial offensive which may form the final prelude to assault upon Europe from the west. It was accompanied by far-flung operations whose reverberations rocked buildings six miles inland in England.

Some Believed It Invasion So tremendous was the muscle-flexing demonstration, carried on under the noses of Nazi coastal defenses, that many British coastal dwellers were convinced the invasion of France was actually under way.

But a terse official summary said only: "Full-scale amphibious exercises were... most successful. Valuable lessons were learned."

Nazis Reported Ready to Defend Po Line In North Italy Despite Italy's Surrender

LONDON (AP)—Adolf Hitler, trapped in the center of his own wavering European fortress, was reported to have called a hurried war conference yesterday at which it was decided to reinforce the Po river line in Italy and fight there to the last man.

Apparently determined to make Italy a bloody battlefield despite their capitulation, Germany moved swiftly to seize important communications and strategic points to offset gains already made by allied landing forces and appeals to Italian forces to turn against their former allies.

Berlin announced that Italian troops had occupied the vital Brenner pass and, with announcement that some key communications were held by Italians "loyal to the axis," intimated that the pass itself might be in friendly hands. Civilian railway traffic between the two countries was halted by the Germans.

Germany also swung quickly into action across the Adriatic, occupying the Dalmatian area of Yugoslavia's southwestern coast in an attempt to block any allied invasion of the Balkans through that gateway. The seizure, the broadcast said, was carried out with the aid of Croat puppets.

Other German broadcasts acknowledged that Italian troops already had turned against the Germans in some parts of Italy, but claimed that the Italian internal situation was generally under German control.

Reports from the Balkans said that Italian divisions which have been used as occupation troops

Italy's Biggest Ships Flee to Allied Ports

LONDON, Friday (AP)—The London Daily Mail said today that Italy's most powerful warships—three 35,000-ton battleships, the Littorio, Vittorio Veneto and Impero—had escaped with a fleet of cruisers and destroyers from La Spezia and were now steaming for allied ports.

Other London morning newspapers carried the same report, quoting the Rome radio.

Allied Communique Declares Operations Going Satisfactorily

Gen. Mark Clark's Americans and Canadians Contact Nazi Forces, Take Prisoners, After Dawn Landing Attack

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Allied reinforcements were reported last night still streaming ashore after strong American and British forces under U. S. Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark hammered out a bridgehead near Naples yesterday in a pre-dawn landing that overpowered a number of stoutly resisting German troops embittered by Italy's unconditional surrender.

"Operations are proceeding satisfactorily," said an allied communique of this daring stroke one-third of the way up the Italian peninsula.

The troops led by Clark, hero of the submarine mission to north Africa that paved the way for the successful allied invasion there last November, "are in contact with German forces and prisoners have been taken," the bulletin added. "The disembarkation of troops with their guns and vehicles is proceeding according to plan."

Before the troops struck the shore near Naples three waves of Flying Fortresses had destroyed the German military nerve center at Frascati, 12 miles outside Rome, in a neat culmination of events that has staggered the axis both politically and militarily.

The paralyzing blow at Frascati occurred six hours before Tuesday's announcement of the Italian surrender. Nearly every building in the resort city, famous for its wine, had been occupied by German military authorities. These were leveled by the big avenging American Eagles, official reports said.

American Liberators from the middle east also dumped 150 tons of explosives on the Foggia expanse of airdromes less than 100 miles east of Naples to facilitate the big amphibious operation.

The landing occurred a few moments after 4 a.m. (9 p.m. Wednesday, C. W. T.) under cover of a powerful barrage laid down by the American and British navies. This terrific rain of explosives smashed wooded hills overhanging the invasion coast, and left great columns of smoke as the allied shock troops plunged ashore into the Italian no-man's land.

An idea of the size of the allied force was gained from a Canadian reconnaissance pilot, John Anthony Vasicek of Chatham, Ont., who said the convoy expedition to Naples covered a sea surface of 1,000 square miles "swarming with an invasion fleet."

(Berlin radio said the landing occurred in the Salerno gulf at Amalfi, 20 miles below Naples, and also acknowledged that Italian troops deserting the axis banner by Marshal Badoglio's orders had clashed with German forces in various parts of Italy. One German broadcast recorded by The Associated Press also said that Italians had "occupied Brenner pass"—vital link between northern Italy and Germany—on Tuesday, 24 hours before the announcement of Italy's surrender.

Nazis Strike At Spitsbergen

Raid Comes on 2nd Anniversary of Allied Attack on Arctic Isle

LONDON (AP)—The Berlin radio said last night that German naval units and marines had made a heavy attack Wednesday on the arctic island of Spitsbergen, inflicted casualties on the holding forces and captured prisoners.

Implying that the allies had established a substantial base on Spitsbergen, the broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said that radio and meteorological installations and munitions and fuel supplies were wrecked.

German losses were described as small, despite "violent resistance from the military garrison."

(British naval sources here said they were unable to comment on the German account of the operation.)

The object of their raid, the Germans said, was the destruction of military establishments observed by their aerial reconnaissance which were "of particular importance to enemy air and sea forces in the northern sea."

Also objects of the raiders, the broadcast said, were coal mines and ports.

Spitsbergen is about 600 miles east of Greenland and consists of a group of islands about 660 miles from the north pole.

Allied troops raided the islands exactly two years ago today and removed 1,000 Norwegian miners, destroyed coal and oil reservoirs and rescued Russian and French prisoners of the Germans.

Russian Armies Seize Key Railroad Junction On Kiev Road, Peril Bryansk, Near Dnieper

LONDON, Friday (AP)—Russian armies have stormed into Bakhmach, key railroad junction on the road to Kiev, squeezed a menacing vision on Bryansk and dashed to within 60 miles of the Dnieper river in a swift advance from the liberated Donets basin in the south, Moscow reported today.

More than 300 towns and villages were captured and more than 4,100 Germans were killed in the day's victories that saw the Soviet armies push into the town of Nedrigailov, 20 miles east of Romni, and capture Lyudynovo, 45 miles north of Bryansk.

The Moscow communique, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, told of Soviet aircraft ceaselessly pounding the German retreat road, destroying 18 locomotives which hauled back German troops and material while 80 trucks and several railway bridges were pounded from the air. More than 20 planes were destroyed or burnt in one airdrome.

A German radio report, meanwhile, told of a new Russian threat in the south. It said Soviet troops made landings along the Sea of Azov coast south of Stalino, which would be in the vicinity of Mariupol. The Germans said the beachhead was "sealed off" and the Russians were "facing annihilation."

Even without the landings, the Soviet troops have driven 80 miles in two days as Nazi resistance appeared to be collapsing in this sector.

These advances in south Russia mean increasing peril for the German garrisons in the Crimea.

With the capture of Bakhmach and Nedrygailov, the Soviets were moving toward Priluki, 80 miles east of Kiev, and Nezhin, 75 miles from this major base. A general Soviet advance of six miles took 80 hamlets in this area, the communique said.

The victory at Bakhmach, announced by Marshal Stalin in a triumphant order of the day to Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky, virtually split the German central and southern defenses in Russia.

Italians Have Their Chance

What shall be done with Italy after the Germans are driven out?

That question, a paramount one in our minds now, will grow to tremendous importance as fighting in Italy moves northward. Its answer must be based partly on Italy's past record; partly on the degree of visible enthusiasm the Italians show toward the allied cause during the next few months of fighting. Her peace policy must be a compromise drawn between the two.

Several days ago we ran in these columns a plea from Arturo Toscanini to treat the Italian people justly. In it, he stated:

"The Italian people are not your enemies and never have been your enemies in the past. They were forced into the role of 'enemy' by a vicious and wicked man, Mussolini, who betrayed them for more than 20 years. They never wanted to fight against you, and today they do not want to do it. Only the King of Italy and his boot-licker, Badoglio, both despicable men, are your enemies and want to carry on this war...."

Since that statement was published, Italy has surrendered. The Italian people will now have the chance to prove that they are up to Mr. Toscanini's estimation of them. They can aid our cause in many ways—by actually taking up arms against the Germans, by sabotage behind the lines, by hindering the Nazi war machine in every way. If they are fervent in their effort to help us, our attitude toward them will obviously become much more favorable. If they are not, the peace terms must be harsher.

The question, then, "Have the Italians really changed basically over to our side?" will be at least partially answered by their actions during the next few months. We must balance this "present" record with Italy's record of aggression during the past 20 years, and find the fine line of justice which exists between them.

But the leaders themselves must not escape punishment under any circumstances. The King, Mussolini and Badoglio are all horses of the same color. They are opportunists, eager to be on the winning side, willing to go along with anything that looks good, oblivious of any kind of moral code. They must be wiped out—just as Laval and Franco and Quisling must be wiped out. The House of Savoy certainly must not be allowed to continue under the present ruler.

But in the same measure that the leaders must be punished regardless of what they do now, the Italian people must be given a chance to prove they hate their leaders and what they represent: Fascism, aggression, domination.

The people now have their chance. We must watch to see how well they utilize it.

Why the Oil Shortage?

Oil men and responsible public authorities have pointed out that rationing of fuel oil and gasoline is in no sense attributable to any failure on the part of the oil companies.

The facts are simple. To run a mechanized war requires literally billions of barrels of oil. No other nation was as well equipped to produce oil either by nature or by enterprise of its citizens as this nation was when war came. We had huge oil reserves in the ground and, equally important, we had an efficient private industry operating under competent management which knew how to get that oil out of the ground. And it got it out in astronomical quantities upon very short notice.

Moreover, this is not all the oil industry had to do upon short notice. A thousand bombers during a single four hundred mile raid over Germany burn approximately 1,000,000 gallons of 100-octane gasoline. The oil companies had to develop refineries to produce such highest grade, in itself a staggering job. Before the war, 100-octane gasoline was not produced in quantity. Suddenly the whole war effort depended upon getting it in quantity quickly. It was up to the oil companies to get it. They got it—and in time.

Many months ago oil men began warning that the nation's oil reserves were being used faster than the rate of discovery. The dis-

News Behind the News

The Taxpayers' Awakening Is at Hand

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—After all the happy publicity about the tax "forgiveness," enacted by Congress last spring, the taxpayers' awakening is at hand.

First jolt to shake him into a realization of the hidden back-tax increases which were enacted under the label of "forgiveness," confronts him in the revised return which many must file September 15.

Not much has been written on the subject, because, frankly, no one understands it thoroughly. This transition scheme was put through hurriedly by Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee to beat the simple Ruml plan, and he did not understand its varying effects on varying taxpayers.

The treasury now has come forward with the most complicated legal phrasing in the most perplexing form with which an individual has ever been confronted, even in these days of complicated forms.

Both congress and the treasury, therefore, seem about equally responsible for the mass civilian hair tearing now starting and to continue for a year or so.

The current return is required only from those with incomes of $52 a week (single) and $67 married. The average family has succeeded in gaining an increased income over last year.

Therefore, each of its members will have to pay in the coming September 15 and December 15 tax installments the entire tax increase of this whole year over last year.

Not merely will they increase their payments in accordance with current higher salaries to a pay-as-you-go basis, as most people supposed, but they will have to pay the whole year's tax increase in the last four months of the year.

Not only that, but next March 15, they will have to start paying another increase in the amount of 25 percent of their taxes for the "forgiveness" year, either 1942 or 1943, above and beyond the usual taxes they will have to pay then.

And not only that, but the taxpayer will find in his September 15 form that a five percent victory tax on his whole income minus expenses has been in effect since January 1, and he must pay this increase retroactively if he has not been paying it in withholding.

So the misunderstood "forgiveness" actually hides three increases in taxes due.

The little fellow making less than $52 a week (single) will find all this out next December 15 or March 15 when he will be put through the painful transition mill into "pay-as-you-go." His predicament in the face of these increases is not generally understood either.

A $50-a-week government employe, not unlike other average civilian workers, is now required to pay a 20 percent withholding tax, a 10 percent or 20 percent purchase of government bonds, and a 5 percent retirement—which means he never sees 35 to 45 percent of the money he makes in this time of unprecedented cost of living.

It is doubtful that he or any other taxpayer accurately can figure out the complexities of his individual tax problem which I have outlined only in its utmost simplest effects. I do not believe President Roosevelt could accurately fill out one of these blanks.

Yet the form orders a six percent penalty tax on anyone who makes an error of more than 20 percent—even though he can escape no tax by this error because he must settle up on a final specific return later.

If this fine is applied on September 15 returns, it would prevent a man from doing any extraordinary business from now until the end of the year. He could not sell his house or liquidate investments as a profit throwing his income out more than 20 percent without paying another tax increase of 6 percent.

Experts say the treasury will not be harsh about accuracy in the September 15 returns, but will apply the penalty if the taxpayer does not correct his September errors in his December 15 return. In that case, extraordinary business would be frozen only for the last two weeks in December.

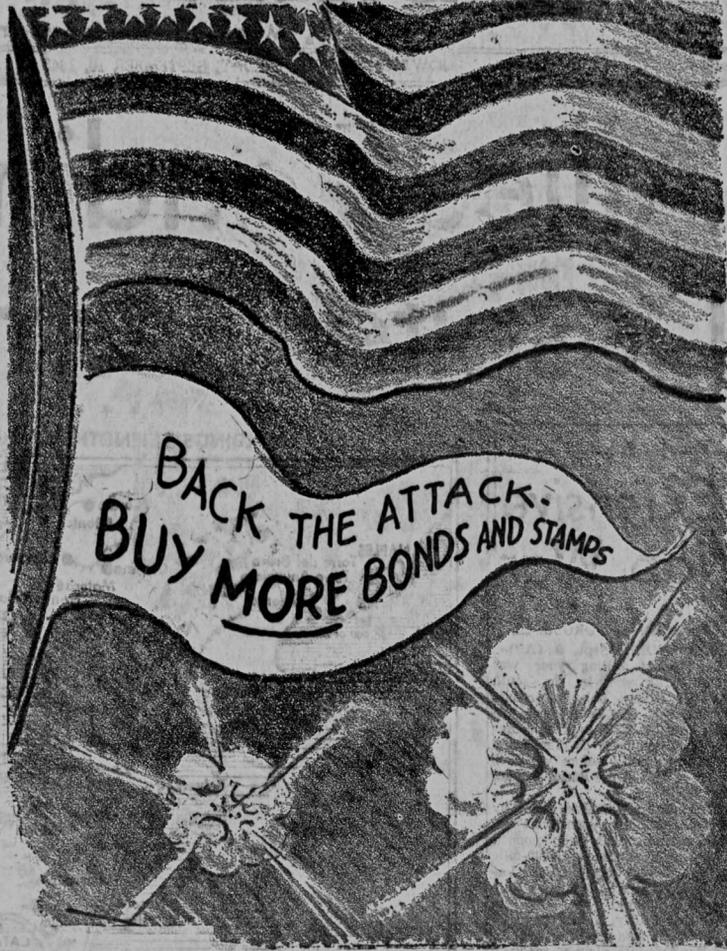

No citizen of this country can face his tax problem for the next year without expert advice. Many employers are furnishing tax lawyers to help employes with their returns, but the average man will have to hire a tax lawyer or consult an internal revenue bureau agent available only in the larger cities (this is free).

Even if the regulations were not written in impenetrable legal verbiage, the confusions between this and last year, withholding, victory tax, payments of back increases and 25 percent of the "forgiveness" year, make the simplest case too complicated for average understanding.

Recovery rate of new oil reserves has not stepped up to meet increased demands for the simple reason that the cost of "wildcatting" is far too high in relation to the price of oil which is set by government decree. Until the price is adjusted, oil will continue to become more scarce.

Continued government-imposed handicaps on oil production will cost our nation dearly.

Allied Vise Squeezing Harder on Hitler As Russian End Pushes on Relentlessly

By JOHN H. WIGGINS
The allied vise is squeezing harder on Hitler's Europe, compressing the Nazi-held fortress into a smaller—and from now on—tougher nut to crack.

As the Russian end of the vise continues to push on relentlessly, the British and American side is digging northward through fallen Italy undoubtedly toward the harder outer core of concentrating German resistance.

Swift allied landings along the western coast of the boot are bringing closer a test of that German mettle near the valley of the River Po to the north.

As President Roosevelt remarked, the war will become "tougher rather than easier during the long months to come." Obviously, allied targets—war industries, oil fields, military installations—are within much closer striking distance of bombers based on Italian airfields. But vast German battle outfits, too, will be grinding tighter and deeper about narrowing defense lines.

Difficult and costly as the allied route to victory may be, the surrender of Italy definitely is a long step toward that goal. At least a portion of the allied sea strength in the Mediterranean may be diverted now to the war in the Pacific.

While allied forces are swarming up the Tyrrhenian sea coast, perhaps joined by the Italians in some instances, Japanese military, naval and air strength is suffering telling losses in the south and southwest Pacific.

The heavy reduction in Nipponese air strength apparently is forcing Japan to draw replacements from other—and thus weakened—fronts in an effort to hold what remains in New Guinea and the Solomons.

Increasing sinkings of Japanese merchantmen are weakening the supply line faster than Japanese industrial capacity can re-strengthen them.

Continuation of the staggering losses of planes and men suffered by Japan in the last month may force her to retreat faster and faster from outlying islands and likely lead to establishment of a much condensed line of defense closer to Tokyo, itself.

The President's program includes: (1) Mustering out pay for persons in the armed services and merchant marine.

(2) Unemployment insurance for those who can't find jobs readily.

(3) Provisions for further education and trade training at government expense.

(4) Credit for both unemployment insurance and old age pensions for the time they were in the service.

(5) Improved hospitalization, rehabilitation and medical care.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

The Tale of a Happy Taxpayer, a Male Cinderella, and a Right Guy Named William Bendix
By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Here's the tale of a happy taxpayer, a male Cinderella, a big, right guy named William Bendix.
Big Bill grins about taxes.

They're too high now ever to permit him to work up one of those old-time Hollywood fortunes, though he's in the money. "I really love to pay taxes," he grins. "Makes me feel important. It took me a long time to get to be a taxpayer."

And it did. Today he's under contract to Paramount and 20th Century-Fox for two pictures a year for the next five years. But 11 years ago, when he was a fat and happy grocery clerk in Elizabeth, N. J., a supermarket moved into his neighborhood and wiped out his job. Remember how things were in 1932? That's how they were for Bill Bendix, only worse. Pretty soon the Bendixes—Bill, his wife Tess, and baby daughter Loraine, who's now 13—were living in a dank tenement basement.

One of the jobs he took in department stores paying him not to perform. As a singer he was no Caruso nor Sinatra, and as an m.c. he was painfully self-conscious. Later he tried selling to serve as master of ceremonies in a tavern. No salary, just tips—and those mostly from drunkards, shortly after repeal, was cheese on commission. No go.

When the Federal Theater project was created he wanted to get in, but balked at going on relief to qualify. It was Tess who got that for him, after things got so tough Bill had had to send her and the baby to her father. Tess wanted to be back with Bill and she signed him up.

He was with the FTP three years and then he got a break outside—a good part in the Theater Guild.

are considered here a foregone conclusion. There is certain to be considerable debate, too, over how much the Treasury can stand, with the economy-minded battling to keep within reasonable bounds those who think Uncle Sam's pocket has no bottom.

Certain to touch off the explosion will be the forthcoming message to congress in which the president has promised to outline specific legislation to cover his points.

It is believed here now that the president's suggestions will run much in line with the post-war planning report of the now defunct National Resources Planning Board. That recommends, among other things, a three months' mustering out furlough at base pay; 25 percent of unemployment insurance for those who can't find jobs; tuition and allowances for those who wish to continue their education or trade training.

Washington in Wartime

F.R.'s Six-Point Service-Aid Plan

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—So far most of the program for putting the veterans of World War II back to work in peacetime America is composed of plans and promises.

When Congress returns this month from its summer session of pulse-feeeling, it will find already in the hopper more than 100 bills dealing with veterans' problems. Scores of them will never see light but others are so close to the President's now much discussed "six-point program" that it's safe to say they are already slated for passage in some form.

The President's program includes: (1) Mustering out pay for persons in the armed services and merchant marine.

(2) Unemployment insurance for those who can't find jobs readily.

Conversation Course Offered in Spanish

Prof. Jeronimo Mallo, Assistant to Direct New 4 Hour Course

Prof. Jeronimo Mallo and his assistant, Lilia Alcantara del Castillo, will direct the new four hour course in Spanish for those students desiring to increase their conversational abilities in that language.

Professor Mallo, who has been at the university since June, is taking the place of Prof. Juan Lopez-Morillas, who is now on the faculty at Brown university.

A native of Mexico, Miss Alcantara del Castillo is an informant and conducts conversational groups of not more than five or six students at a time.

The prerequisites for taking the course are two years of Spanish and a course in elementary composition.

This method of teaching foreign languages is being used at present in many universities in the United States in the training of army and navy men. According to Prof. C. E. Cousins of the Romance languages department, this method will soon be adopted throughout the country as being the best and most rapid way of teaching a practical knowledge of the foreign languages.

The University of Iowa is one of the first of the state universities to utilize this method in regular academic work in Spanish.

Iowa City residents enthusiastically began the third war loan campaign yesterday, with heavy purchases reported in both the residential and business districts.

Bonds of large denominations, as well as hundreds of series "E" bonds, were sold in banks and other downtown business firms. In the residence district, one canvasser sold more than $15,000 in war bonds.

At an employees' rally in the Community building yesterday morning, plans for a bond selling contest and the procedure to be used in raising the $1,863,000 Johnson county quota were discussed by B. E. Vandecar, co-chairman of the retailers division.

It is our task to keep at the enemy until their resistance lies broken in all powers, said the main speaker, Prof. H. J. ### We Underestimate Japanese, Visiting Navy Flying Ace Says

"Most people underestimate the Japs," according to Lieut. (j.g.) Winfield Higdon Junk, United States air corps pilot recently returned from ten months in the southwest Pacific.

Lieutenant Junk spent a portion of his leave at the home of his uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Steindler, in Iowa City. He was formerly stationed at Henderson field on Guadalcanal and on an aircraft carrier. During this time he took part in 36 air raids, had five planes shot from under him, rolled up 250 hours of combat time and sank at least two Jap ships. He won the Silver Star award and the Distinguished Flying Cross for his exploits.

"The American people as a whole are entirely too over-confident," Lieutenant Junk said. "Those Japs are good fighters and excellent gunners. It's true that they would rather die than surrender because they are absolutely disowned if they are captured."

The Distinguished Flying Cross was awarded him for service with torpedo bomber squad 21 in action against a force of four enemy warships and one large seaplane tender in the Bougainville straits July 22. The tender was sunk as a result of a 2,000-pound bomb which Lieutenant Junk landed squarely amidships.

During a period when he was not needed in the air, Lieutenant Junk visited the front lines on Guadalcanal. There he was in the thick of jungle fighting and saw first hand that the Japs are vicious fighters. But he saw as many as 400 dead Nips in one battle.

"I was damned glad to get back in the States," the lieutenant said, "and the most thrilling experience we'd had in months was seeing the old Golden Gate in Frisco. Of course I'll be glad to go back into action when they need me, but home seems mighty swell."

Lieutenant Junk attended Iowa City high school in his junior year and received his wings at Miami, Fla., April 29, 1942.

Dodgers Take 7 to 6 Triumph Over Philadelphia

Bums Stage Rally in 7th

Hoover Sees Game; Mickey Owen Plays Shortstop Position

BROOKLYN (AP)—With Herbert Hoover in a box seat and catcher Mickey Owen at shortstop, just by way of giving the spectators at Ebbets field variety, the Brooklyn Dodgers scrambled to a 7 to 6 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday with a three-run rally in the seventh inning.

Rookie Rex Barney, who started on the mound for the Dodgers, gave up three runs in the first inning and two more in the fourth before giving way to Les Webber, who received credit for the victory.

The Dodgers had no trouble overcoming the original deficit because Augie Galan homered with one on and Billy Herman hit a roundtripper with the bases empty in the first inning and Dixie Walker doubled a run across in the second.

But Richard (Kewpie) Barrett kept them under wraps thereafter until the seventh, when two singles and an error let in a run and Howie (Six-Six) Schultz singled with the bases loaded for two more.

The Phillies added a final run in the ninth.

New York Giants Sign Up Mel Ott For 3-Year Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Mel Ott, about to complete his second season managing the New York Giants with his club in the National League cellar, was given a new contract yesterday for three years.

President Horace Stoneham declined to discuss the terms of the agreement, but it has been estimated that Ott was paid $25,000 annually for his services as player-manager in 1942 and 1943 and probably will continue at the same figure.

However, the veteran right-fielder whom John McGraw brought directly from high school in New Orleans in 1925, has indicated that he would not play regularly next year.

Last year, after succeeding Bill Terry as manager, Ott led the Giants to third place with what was generally considered a fine job of masterminding. But this year the club, manned by failing old-timers like Carl Hubbell, Dick Bartell, Billy Jurges, Ernie Lombardi and Ott himself, has never been a contender for the first division.

Former Iowa Stars Return for Visit

Pvt. Lee Farmer, former Hawkeye track star and football player, of Maywood, Ill., and Chuck Tolleson, former Iowa griddy, of Elk Point, S. Dak., are visiting in Iowa City this week.

Farmer, now stationed at Ft. Riley, Kan., with the cavalry, holds the Big Ten record for the broad jump and was Big Ten indoor 60-yard dash and broad jump champ. He was also the leading scorer for the Iowa grid team of 1942. He went into the cavalry in February of this year.

Tolleson, member of the Hawkeye varsity grid team in 1938, 1939 and 1940, recently received a medical discharge from the marine corps. He joined the marines last June.

Illinois, Northwestern Drill for Openers

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Warning his team against the accuracy of Jimmy Dewar, Camp Grant passer, Coach Ray Eliot spent most of yesterday's final football drill in preparation for an aerial offensive when the University of Illinois meets the soldiers here tomorrow. The practice consisted of dummy drills and light scrimmage.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Coach Lynn Waldorf moved yesterday to strengthen the reserve guard strength on his Northwestern football team. Andy Ivy, a sophomore end, and quarterbacks Fred Lauer and Frank Clauson were shifted to the guard positions to understand the probable Wildcat regulars, Alex Kapter and John Gent.

Central American Journalists Propose Major League Tours

Suggest Exhibition Series As Part Of Good Neighbor Policy

ST. LOUIS (AP)—As part of the "Good Neighbor" policy, a group of Central American newspapermen proposed yesterday that two major league baseball teams tour their countries this winter.

Such an exhibition series, leading to other sports promotions, would be an effective means of developing friendship and mutual understanding, the nine editors in the group agreed. Baseball is the dominant sport in Panama and Nicaragua, they said, and is gaining ground in other Central American republics.

The journalists, visiting war industries under auspices of the coordinator of inter-American affairs, took time to watch the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates play Wednesday.

"George Kurowski, Cardinal third-baseman, probably is more popular in Panama than he is right here in St. Louis," said Carlos Sole Bosch, editor of the Estrella de Panama.

"When he hit that game-winning home run in the world series, Panama went wild with joy. The Cardinals are 'our' team in Panama."

The journalists, visiting war industries under auspices of the coordinator of inter-American affairs, took time to watch the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates play Wednesday.

"My own little boy asked me to bring back a real big league baseball, bat and glove," he laughed.

The editors predicted a visit of major league teams would not only be successful from a morale standpoint but would pay for itself financially.

"We have the baseball fans and we have the necessary funds. Big league teams have never visited us. They would create a sensation," asserted Ramon Blanco, editor of Guatemala's El Imparcial.

Dr. Eduardo Morgan, of Panama's La Renovacion, recommended an interchange of players and coaches of colleges and universities as a valuable step toward promoting good relations.

Ted Nelson, tackle on the 1943 Hawkeye squad, has been called to Des Moines for his physical exam. If he passes, he'll go into the army right away, otherwise he'll be back on the practice field Monday.

Newest addition to the Iowa players is William London, guard and tackle. The 195-pound sophomore is from Chicago and is five feet 11 inches tall. London reported for practice for the first time yesterday afternoon.

According to latest reports on former Iowa athletes in service, four recent Hawk gridders, now with the marines, are stationed in New Zealand. They are Ken Pettit, in the air corps, and Mike Enich, Bruno Andruska, and Mat Milechik, all captains.

Art Manush, also in the marines, is in New Caledonia. He will be remembered by many for his baseball records here.

Another football player and major "T" man is Lieut. (j.g.) Ray Murphy, who is now stationed at the naval base in San Diego, Cal. Murphy's last grid season for Iowa was 1940.

Also in the marines is Lieut. Jimmy George, selected as the most valuable baseball player in the Big Ten in 1941, his senior year at Iowa. Lieutenant George is on convoy duty on the west coast.

Lieut. Red Frye, another teammate of Kinnick, Enich, and the other "Iron Men," is now a member of the marine air corps and is stationed at Hollywood, Fla. Lieutenant Frye, by the way, took his pre-flight training at the Navy Pre-Flight school here last fall.

Also on the list of recent football men is Lieut. Bob Ott, now a bombardier in the army air corps in Texas.

And there's Dick Evans, Hawkeye of 1937, 1938 and 1939, who is now in professional ball with the Green Bay Packers.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden, where automobiles operate on wood-gas, now has a sports-plane powered by charcoal.

Hugo Ericson of Tandbyn reported that a single-seater plane which he designed himself could be operated by a 20 horsepower motor using either gasoline or woodgas. The generator for wood-gas weighs about 35 pounds and holds charcoal for 15 to 20 minutes of flying, Ericson said. The plane, with a wingspread of 20 feet, has a fuselage of welded steel tubes. ### Cedar Falls Church Religious Services Being Recorded Soon

Marcus Bach of the school of religion and Prof. Addison Als-pach of the music department will record the religious services of the Bethlehem Danish Lutheran church in Cedar Falls Sunday night.

The Bethlehem Danish Lutheran congregation, of which the Rev. Ottar S. Jorgensen is pastor, still holds services in the Danish tongue. The worship at 8 o'clock Sunday evening will be conducted by Bach, and recordings will be made by Professor Als-pach of the old Danish hymns which are still sung, and also of interviews with several of the pioneer members of the congregation.

This work is a continuation of the project carried on by the school of religion last year, when recordings were made of the church services of little-known religious groups which still hold services in their mother tongue.

Through cooperation with the library of congress, the school of religion helps preserve religious traditions and forms of worship which have been handed down through generations, but have never been recorded.

The plan was inaugurated under the supervision of Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion. Recordings have been made of the hymns of the Pella Dutch, the Mennonite and Welsh settlements and of the Czech groups in Iowa.

The original recording is sent to the library of congress to be placed in the archives of American folk songs, and copies of it are retained by the school of religion and the religious denomination concerned.

Daylight Air Raid Success

"Apparently the first daylight air raid practice in Iowa City was an outstanding success," Civilian Defense Commander Rollin M. Perkins said yesterday.

"Traffic stopped and all persons got off the streets," he said, adding that complete information on the alert would be available in a few days.

When the caution signal sounded at 12:15 p. m. persons quickened their pace to enter nearby department stores or stand under store awnings. Traffic slowed down, and many drivers parked their cars.

The last few stragglers hurried into stores at 12:30 p. m. when the alarm sounded, and policemen stopped the few automobiles still on the streets.

Four busses were stopped on Dubuque and Washington streets, and two were standing at Capitol and Washington streets.

The alert, which lasted five minutes, was statewide.

He will return home Oct. 1, when he will receive an honorable discharge from the navy.

Prof. Troyer Anderson Explains A. S. T. P. Foreign Area, Language Training to Rotary

SUI Coordinator Says Officers Must Learn To Handle Civilians

Explaining the foreign area and language phase of the army specialized training program, Prof. Troyer Anderson, coordinator of the foreign area and language department of the A. S. T. P. on the university campus, addressed the Rotary club at a meeting yesterday in Hotel Jefferson.

"One of the most important problems of an officer is knowing how to handle a group of civilians," Professor Anderson declared. He said that transportation and supply, which are the big difficulties of an army, must be handled through the same roads and railroads that are used by civilians.

Professor Anderson related that originally the purpose of this language program was to train soldiers for military government alone. At present, large numbers are being trained for use throughout Europe, both now and after the war.

Post-War Problems
After the war, officers in foreign countries must be prepared to meet local civil wars and public health problems, according to Professor Anderson.

"The purpose of the program is to train men to act as agents to carry out the manifold tasks with which an army comes into contact with the civilian population," Professor Anderson said. To do this, the training is divided into two parts: learning the language as it is spoken throughout the country, and learning about the people of the country.

Principle of System
Soldiers in the program here study language 17 hours a week. The principle of the system is learning to speak as a child does, by speaking, rather than through formal instruction.

The trainees who have one language well learned are taught another and trained to serve in two areas. If they have no language training they are taught in one area only, the speaker explained.

The men are given preparation in the life, psychology and history of the people with whom they will work. They learn to know the community as well, if not better, than their own. Professor Anderson said.

"I have a feeling we are building a new type of America, Professor Anderson concluded. "These men will not only carry the American influence to the rest of the world, but will also bring a new understanding of others to America."

State Will Maintain Lake Macbride Road Beginning This Week

Thousands of Dollars To Be Saved Yearly By Johnson County

State maintenance of the county road extending from highway 261 at Solon to the east entrance of Lake Macbride state park is expected to take effect this week, the state highway commission informed State Senator LeRoy Mercer yesterday.

Many thousands of dollars will be saved annually by Johnson county when this 4 mile stretch of rock covered road becomes a part of the state's primary road system.

Fred White, chief engineer for the state highway commission, informed Mercer that the matter was considered by the commission at its Sept. 7 meeting and action was taken adding to the primary road system the county trunk road.

When Mercer called a meeting of city and county officials Aug. 12, the first action to incorporate the county road in the state road system was inaugurated.

Although it was proposed at the Aug. 12 meeting, the state road system does not include the county road linking the lake area to 218 at North Liberty.

Members of the board of supervisors expressed the hope that the highway commission would include taking over the latter county road at a future date because of the popularity of the state park area at Lake Macbride.

THE FOLLOWING APPEAL IS A DIRECT QUOTATION OF HENRY MORGENTHAU, JR. Secretary of the Treasury

"WILL THE FALL OF ITALY MEAN A HOME FRONT DEFEAT?"

The fall of Italy is glorious news—if we take it as the end of round one instead of the finish of the fight.

It COULD mean a home front defeat—if Americans start pulling their punches.

It COULD mean good news to our two major enemies—if anybody takes it as a signal to slow up, let down, or quit backing the war with everything they've got.

As a matter of fact, the long, hard march to Berlin and Tokyo has just begun. If you think it will be easy, you are wrong, dangerously wrong.

Before the last shot is fired, a lot of lives are going to be lost and a lot of billions spent. The more American dollars that go into superior equipment, the less American blood is going to redden foreign soil.

It cost 46 million dollars to lay Hamburg low. It cost another 300 million to train, equip and transport the crews and ready everything for the task. And Hamburg is just one enemy city.

War bonds must provide much of the money for the bitter struggle yet ahead. You—not the fellow next door—have a personal responsibility to dig deeper than is pleasant and convenient to make the third war loan a success.
