Allies Beat Off Violent Nazi Counterattacks Near Salerno; Reds Push On to Dnieper; New Thrust in Balkans Predicted

Soviet Columns Pound Onward From Nezhin Toward Kiev

Russians Register Notable Victory in Capture Of Ukrainian Town, Killing 6,000, Seizing Over 200 Villages

LONDON, Thursday (AP)—Soviet flying columns pounded toward the vital Dnieper river from captured Nezhin, 73 miles east of Kiev and from captured villages only 50 miles east of the river in the south, Moscow dispatches said today.

Killing more than 6,000 Germans and capturing more than 200 towns in the Ukrainian sweep, the Russians registered their most notable victory yesterday at Nezhin, which they captured after two days of fighting.

Reports to London said they were pursuing the enemy beyond toward the vital Dnieper river from captured Nezhin, 73 miles east of Kiev and from captured villages only 50 miles east of the river in the south, Moscow dispatches said today.

The Moscow communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said the capture of Nezhin deprived the Germans of the last main railway line on the left flank of the Dnieper and Premier Joseph Stalin, who announced the capture in an order of the day, called it "the most important center of the Germans' defense on the road to Kiev."

Three thousand Germans fell in the fierce fighting there and large quantities of war material and prisoners were captured, the communique said. It marked an advance of 200 miles in 40 days.

There were at least three other major Soviet drives fanning into the heart of the Ukraine but to the north still another Soviet offensive drew tighter around Bryansk, which the Germans had announced they evacuated. Making no claims to its capture—hinting, perhaps, that the German announcement was a trap—the Russians reported only the capture of Dyatkovo, 20 miles to the north. Large quantities of war material and ammunition were declared captured.

Elsewhere along the 600-mile fighting front the Red army continued its virtually uninterrupted advance, according to a Soviet communique.

More towns were reported captured in a steady Russian close-in on the Bryansk-Smolensk railway, the fruits of a broadening flanking movement south of Smolensk.

Southwest of Kharkov gains of up to five more miles were claimed in a push to envelop Poltava, last major core of Nazi resistance in the eastern Ukraine.

On the Pavograd front in the middle Ukraine the Russians reported advances up to 15 miles down the Samara river, a tributary of the Dnieper northeast of Dnieperopetrovsk.

In the southern Ukraine the Red army was said to have gained 15 more miles in twin thrusts toward Zaporozhe, site of the southernmost bridge over the Dnieper, and toward Melitopol, gateway to the German-held Crimea.

German accounts suggested an intensive renewal of the Russian pincer attack on Smolensk, as well as a determined Red army attack in the Kuban.

Berlin broadcasts acknowledged that fierce Russian attacks temporarily had breached Nazi defenses northeast and southeast of Smolensk, and reported that street fighting was in progress in Novosissik in the Kuban.

New Court Martial To Try 2nd Colonel

SELFTRIDGE FIELD, MICH. (AP)—An entirely new court will hear charges in the general court martial of Lieut.-Col. Charles G. White, second to be tried as a result of the Selfridge field investigation, Col. William L. Boyd, base commander, announced yesterday.

Col. White's court martial, on charges yet to be made public by the government, will open Friday. The only official word given out here was that White, 36, former executive officer at this air base, is charged with "violation of several articles of war."

Col. White, former resident of Joliet, Ill., and graduate of the University of Iowa, was transferred to Selfridge field Dec. 15, 1940, from Little Falls, Minn. As a reserve officer he served with the civilian conservation corps at Fort Snelling, Minn., in 1936-38. He was a captain when he came to Selfridge field. His wife and two daughters live with him at the field.

Tax Bill Hearing Postponed
WASHINGTON (AP)—The House ways and means committee decided last night to postpone indefinitely the opening of hearings on a new general tax law.

Italy Becoming—Major Front

LONDON (AP)—The American Fifth army, although still desperately and bloodily engaged, emerged yesterday from the crisis of Salerno.

Unfolding events made it strongly appear that the Italian peninsula was developing into a major front in the fullest and most fateful sense.

No longer was the question "where next for the allies?" being so widely uttered. Now it had come down to the hard, single reality of Italy at this present hour. It was apparent that we and the Germans were committed there to a battle that might be as meaningful as was that of the Marne in the last war.

It was soberly estimated in London that what the allies are doing in Italy and what they planned to do could well have the effect of taking the weight of 25 Nazi divisions off the Russians.

General Eisenhower's communique telling of continuous arrivals of very heavy allied reinforcements in Italy was in such terms as to suggest he was only beginning an immense marshaling of men. This had its counterpart in accumulating reports of a great flow of Nazi reinforcements southward into the peninsula.

A Nazi command willing to spend what it already has spent at Salerno, it was reasoned here, must be prepared for prodigious defensive efforts farther to the north in Italy, where the real struggle will be joined.

There were several indications that the Russians already were being measurably helped. For example, the report was published here that armored German units now fighting in Italy had come from Russia.

Other Arm of Pincers Within Two Miles Of Town's Center

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Thursday, (AP)—Allied forces have crashed through the main core of resistance west of the Japanese air base at Lae, New Guinea, and the other arm of a steadily advancing pincers has moved from the east to within two miles of the town's center.

Following quickly the overrunning of other prepared positions on both sides of Lae, the new successes were announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Health's plantation, eight miles west of Lae, where a bitter battle with the Japanese had been expected, fell to forces moving down the Markham valley. This force, brought in by big air transports Sept. 5, also overran Vernon's plantation, another center of resistance, and pushed ahead.

Ahead of the Markham valley troops, Mitchell medium bombers raked enemy positions along the valley road with bombs and strafing bullets.

The valley troops now are within five and a half miles of Lae, having also overrun Whittaker's plantation.

BULLETINS

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Nations radio at Algiers said last night that 8,000 Italian infantrymen had been battling German occupation troops at Trento, strategic valley town south of Brenner pass, "besieging the local barracks and inflicting heavy casualties."

LONDON, Thursday (AP)—Suburban areas of London suffered their heaviest air raid in months last night while waves of allied bombers streamed over the coast toward the continent in the wake of powerful attacks on Paris and other sections of France. The bombers over London hit a number of districts and caused casualties.

Duce Tries To Depose Italy's King

LONDON (AP)—Italy's ousted and invisible premier, Benito Mussolini, apparently attempted to depose King Vittorio Emanuele yesterday in a proclamation read in his name by a radio announcer, recasting defunct fascism in Italy as the "Republican Fascist party," with Mussolini as its supreme leader.

The manifesto, read over a German-controlled "Fascist government radio," failed to mention the king by name, but the reconstitution of the party under the "Republican" label obviously meant the king no longer ruled in the eyes of the Nazi-sheltered ex-Duce.

The threat of "exemplary punishment of traitors and cowards" signaled that a reign of terror may be expected in Italy.

In Rome, the Germans were reported to have arrested Foreign Minister Raffaele Guariglia and other members of the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio who remained in the capital.

But the appointment of General Count Carlo Calvi de Bergolo as governor of Rome—with German consent—to carry on the government failed to square with the previous German announcement that the national Fascist government had been placed in charge.

Yugoslav Reports
Reports from Yugoslavia said partisan forces had occupied more than 100 miles of the Dalmatian coastline on the Adriatic sea opposite Italy. They were said to have seized a large area in Slovenia, which previously had been occupied by Italian troops. Other reports said two divisions of partisan troops were moving toward Serbia and there were reports of large scale fighting throughout Bosnia.

The German news agency DNB in a Berlin broadcast, however, claimed the entire Dalmatian and Albanian coastline was in German hands.

A broadcast heard in London by The Associated Press from the Algiers radio declared that "important new military developments are imminent."

British Ninth Army, Trained for 2 Years, May Execute Thrust

Secrecy Maintained Concerning Moves Of Crack Tommies

LONDON (AP)—The mystery of the whereabouts of the British Ninth army, coupled with the reported successes of Yugoslav partisan forces apparently fighting along a prepared plan, hinted last night that a strategic Balkan thrust was in the making.

A Cairo announcement that Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, who has been commander of all U. S. forces in the middle east, had been shifted to an important new assignment suggested he might now be with the Ninth army.

Officials Unaware
Official quarters here expressed ignorance of the movements of the Ninth army, whose size and equipment have been kept a military secret. Ankara and Stockholm reports had the army sailing from Syrian bases after two years training. The Germans repeatedly have suggested the Ninth was being shifted to a Balkan invasion.

The route from the middle east to the Balkans would traverse the German-occupied islands of Rhodes and Crete and these islands, in allied hands, would provide needed and valuable bases for bombers and fighters in any air umbrella, vital to a landing in Greece.

Yugoslav Reports
Reports from Yugoslavia said partisan forces had occupied more than 100 miles of the Dalmatian coastline on the Adriatic sea opposite Italy. They were said to have seized a large area in Slovenia, which previously had been occupied by Italian troops. Other reports said two divisions of partisan troops were moving toward Serbia and there were reports of large scale fighting throughout Bosnia.

The German news agency DNB in a Berlin broadcast, however, claimed the entire Dalmatian and Albanian coastline was in German hands.

War Heads Advise U.S. Labor Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—War department officials, called on to explain the need for drafting fathers, told congress yesterday that the global war situation demands not only this step but also assignment of men and women to war industries.

Gravely, Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, testified before a senate-house committee that a ban on induction of fathers would necessitate recasting all the strategic planning done at the Roosevelt-Churchill Quebec conference.

To this, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson added testimony that deferment of fathers would cripple war production because it would necessitate drafting childless men who are essential workers in key industries.

Admiral's Message
Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, sent the following statement to the senate military affairs committee on the need for maintaining the current induction plans of the armed forces:

"The troop bases for all armed services for the calendar year 1943 as finally recommended by the joint chiefs of staff and approved by the president are essential to the successful prosecution of the war. There can be no lowering of the numbers of men to be furnished the armed services without serious detriment not only to planned operations but to operations that are now under way or in process of mounting.

"The troop bases for 1944 are now under continuing study by the joint chiefs of staff. There will necessarily be some increase in the numbers required for that year over 1943."

"The admiral will not testify in person.

Other Developments
With the issue of drafting fathers holding top place at the capitol, there were three other Washington developments:

Americans, British Again Forced to Yield Small Portions of Slim, 27-Mile Bridgehead

By NOLAND NORGAARD
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Supported by the strongest air attacks ever launched in front of an allied army and by naval bombardment, American and British troops beat off the most violent German counterattacks yet mounted in Italy after again yielding small bits of their 27-mile bridgehead in the week-old, sea-saw battle of Salerno.

On forced march from the south, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army dashed 25 miles up the Calabrian coast to capture the Mediterranean village of Belvedere, narrowing the gap between his forces and Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army to 67 miles and raising the prospect of early relief by land as well as by sea.

The crucial battle of Salerno roared and flamed throughout Tuesday and Tuesday night along the whole slender front from the port of Salerno around its crescent-shaped bay to Agropoli, with both sides throwing fresh troops and armor into action.

Offshore just west of Salerno, the allies occupied Capri, the little island to which the Emperor Tiberius retired in 27 A. D. to build villas to the Roman gods.

"Bitter fighting continues in the Fifth army sector," the allied communique said. "Determined counterattacks have been carried out by both sides. In some places our troops have been forced to yield ground, but new positions are being consolidated and reinforcements continue to arrive rapidly. . . ."

"Troops with their supplies and equipment continue to be disembarked on the beaches and the Salerno area by the royal and U. S. navies working under Vice Admiral Henry K. Hewitt, USN. The bombardment of enemy positions by strong forces of cruisers and destroyers continues. . . ."

"During the night of Sept. 13-14 and throughout Tuesday, the heavy, medium and light bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters of the northwest African air forces in their most intensive and concentrated operations to date attacked roads and railroads, enemy positions, transport and troop concentrations at numerous points around the Salerno area."

The whole battle scene was veiled in smoke and dust. Generally the allies were in the low flats and the Germans were ensconced in better positions in the wooded hills rising sharply from the coastal low lands.

The Germans brought up at least a fourth division, the 29th motorized, through heavy day and night bombings of allied planes which flew more than 2,000 sorties in the 24 hours ended at dawn yesterday. The 15th and 16th German armored and the Herman Goering divisions previously were in the combat, striving powerfully to erase the Fifth army bridgehead and throw the allies into the sea.

The Nazi attacks were supported strongly by tanks, which were driven back by blistering allied fire. One U. S. combat team alone destroyed 13 enemy tanks. Grey warships slipped close to shore, emptying salvo after salvo from their smoking steel rifles into Nazi tanks and machine-gun nests. One U. S. cruiser alone fired 335 rounds Tuesday.

As dusk fell over the blood-stained battlefield, allied troops were compelled to yield some ground to straighten their lines and consolidate their positions against expected night assaults. Despite the withdrawal, a military spokesman asserted at the end of the day:

"The situation is a little more in our favor."

The heaviest and most sustained German drives were made from the villages of Excevilla and Armonina in high ground overlooking the entire southern part of the Fifth army holding in the Sele river valley. The allies withdrew in that sector, leaving the villages in German hands.

Clark's problem was to hold and expand the bridgehead while driving into the high ground and pushing German batteries beyond range of the beaches. One of his officers summarized the situation thus:

"The enemy is attacking incessantly because he realizes this is his best opportunity. Allied forces have proven they can beat the Germans and know that they can do it again."

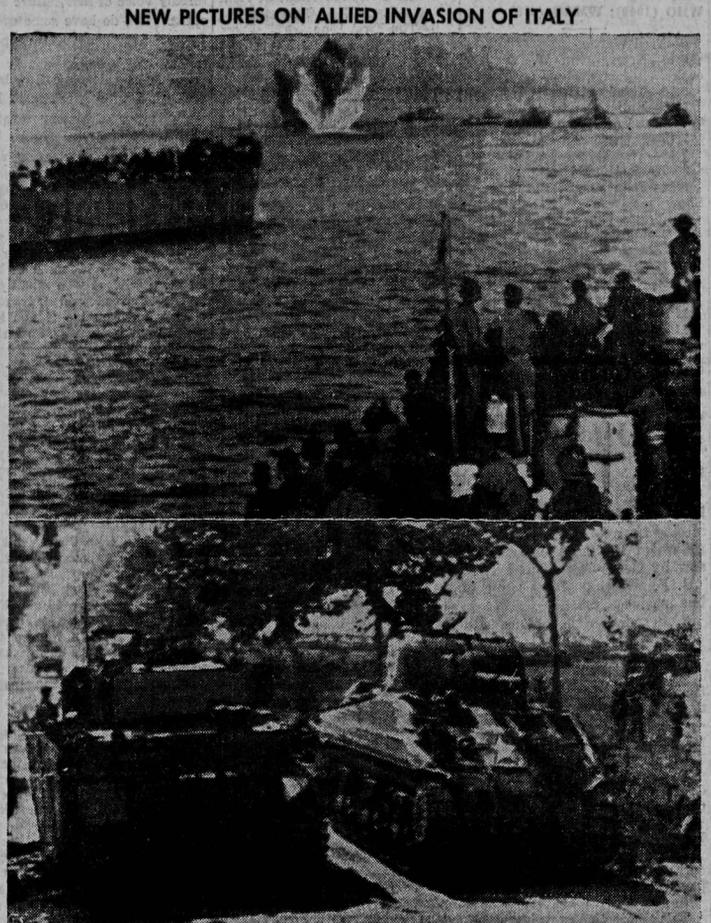

The officer added that frontline reports said the Americans and Britons had great confidence.

There still was no word from the American Seventh army of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., which fought in Sicily. (A London dispatch via Stockholm and Turkey said the British Ninth army, normally based in Syria, had embarked for an "unknown destination." The Algiers radio said "important new military developments are imminent.")

ALLIES BATTLE NAZIS FOR NAPLES
FIERCE BATTLE is raging between allied and German troops for control of the Naples-Salerno area in Italy. British troops have seized the strategic ports of Corone and Brindisi and captured Catanzaro to over-run all of southern Italy.

News Behind the News

Willkie Becoming An Altered Man

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—Wendell Willkie has given us some signs of becoming a slightly altered man since his long sit-and-talk sessions on the Ellwood rail fence with the Hoosier Republicans.

Little wisps of unplayed statements from him lately show him denying the Wallace kind of globaloney represents his "One World" views; also announcing he will campaign for the Republican party candidate for lieutenant governor of New York.

The Hoosier homefolk politicians and the 27 national committeemen who visited him in Indiana, are being given credit within the party for having inspired these developments. The politicians talked gently to Willkie because they were not sure how strong he is, but made little secret of their current opposition to him.

They know he has a powerful organization and many friends and, they, like everyone else, always want to be with the winner. But they told Willkie he must do two things if he is to get more than a minority of his ex-home state delegation to the Republican convention:

First: he must prove by actions that he is actually a Republican, drop his individualistic rule and do something to help the party and other people in it.

Second: he must show also that his policies are not a rubber stamp of the New Deal in international affairs.

Willkie came back at them trying to justify his position. Victory next year he said rested less upon party ties than upon getting the big independent vote. He also said he had nothing in mind like Wallace, and would make the difference clear.

What he has done since is in line with these Hoosier conference developments, but there must be more if he is to start with Indiana.

As the Hoosier politicians tell it, Willkie has reason to be very discouraged at the moment.

Japan Won't Break Inside— Unofficial talk has been heard here that Japan may break internally after Germany falls, and bring a swift conclusion of the World war a long time before the six years forecast by our admirals.

The idea is founded on the supposition that Jap shipping losses have prevented her from consolidating her newly won empire and from getting her vast stores of raw materials into war production. No one here can have any conclusive evidence in that respect.

Before Pearl Harbor, the Jap militarists crushed all political opposition and there has been but one party since. No anti-government movement has developed in Tokyo as far as we know. The hold of the militarists on the people is complete because of the Shinto-Buddhist religious background of the nationalist movement.

Everyone in Japan thinks he is sacrificing to get necessary raw materials for a greater nation. They would not doubt kill the emperor and change around in a minute if they thought national interests required the opposite view, but the chance of such a movement arising within Japan is far less than in Germany.

Japan no doubt can be cleaned up within a year or so after Germany by a direct invasion spear-headed by the overwhelming combined British and American fleets, released from their European responsibilities.

Certainly we will have a new navy department and a lot of new admirals if it takes anywhere near six years.

The MacArthur Wedge— General MacArthur's brilliant tactics were aimed at conquest of the Huon peninsula of New Guinea, above Lae. Once there, his position not only will make Rabaul too hot to hold, but he will then have a wedge in the center of the whole Jap south Pacific line, stretching from Java to the Gilbert Islands.

In a large sense, however, MacArthur is merely holding the Japs by keeping them on the defensive. His limited resources will not permit any great decisive action.

The final crushing blow against Japan no doubt will be aimed directly at the mainland, although we may be shooting Japs out of trees in the south Pacific islands for 20 years after the war is over.

from their losses. For example, there is Bette Davis, the motion picture star and Academy award winner, who says: "If I hadn't been fired from an obscure stock company, I doubt whether I would ever have reached Hollywood."

Somerset Maugham says that his habit of stammering was one of the principal reasons why he started writing.

Robert Dollar bought a tract of timber, then found that he could get no ship to haul the lumber for him. The steamship which he was forced to buy was the beginning of the great industry with which his name was associated.

Luther Burbank, a New England farmer, was jilted by his best girl and moved as far away as possible. Arrived in California, his plant experiments succeeded on a scale that would have been impossible in the East.

Interpreting The War News

Expect Counter Drive In Valley of Sele Soon By American Troops

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Desperate Nazi attacks against the center of the American Fifth army's bridgehead fringing Salerno gulf appeared balked last night and the first allied crisis of the invasion of Italy passing.

Allied air power, thrown into the struggle on a tremendous scale, is credited with staving off a German break-through down the plain of Eboli, south of the 1500 foot mountain of that name, which could have cut the American force in half in the center. With the constant arrival by sea of reinforcements and the approach from the south of British troops to outflank the Nazi positions on the inshore heights, the tide of battle seems destined to turn decisively in allied favor before many hours have gone by.

Mt. Eboli itself is the key to the situation. Official allied accounts furnish little data on the nature of the struggle within its shadow although emphasizing the bitterness of the conflict and the desperation with which Nazi commanders hurled armored forces into the effort to break through to the beach.

Press accounts passed through censorship give a clearer picture. They make it clear that

THE LEANING TOWER

Mt. Eboli, towering just north of the village of that name on its southeastern flank, must have been the stumbling block to swift expansion inshore of the allied beach head. Nazi big guns set high on its slopes commanded not only the beaches in the center, but the Eboli plain and the valley of the Sele river south of it, the natural, low-level route of advance inshore for the allied invaders.

Simplifying the Income Tax

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—The government is planning to ease the befuddled taxpayer's headache by simplifying the business of income tax reporting. Two of the more likely changes among several being studied now by Congressional and Treasury tax experts are:
1. Elimination of the filing of returns by wage earners in the low income brackets.
2. Permission to persons with incomes as high as $5,000, and possibly up to $10,000, to use a simplified tax form for their March 15, year-end returns.
One or both of these simplifiers may be put into effect in time to save millions of taxpayers paper work and brain fatigue next March but no definite decision has been made about that. Treasury General Counsel Randolph Paul, who is not given to making blithe promises of tax relief, says "special attention is being given to the proposal that year-end returns be eliminated entirely for certain classes of taxpayers."
This elimination probably would apply to single persons with wages not in excess of $2,700 and married persons with wages of not exceeding $3,500, provided they didn't receive more than $100 in

SQUARE DANCING
Have you ever square danced?
HOLLYWOOD—Miss Tallulah Bankhead said, in that wonderful throaty voice of hers, "Have some coffee? Oh, do have some coffee. I just clap my hands and it appears — isn't it wonderful!"
I didn't want any coffee, but I couldn't deny a great stage lady the pleasure of a demonstration. She didn't clap her hands. She stepped outside her dressing room and called, "George! Two coffees, please," and pretty soon George and two coffees appeared. Good coffees.
Miss Bankhead was in good spirits, and she didn't frighten me a bit. She was supposed to be a terror, a wildcat who might claw into Hollywood and tear it to pieces—and you too if you happened to be in the way. So I never had a better time in my life. I never met a woman I liked better, a personality any brighter, friendlier, or more interesting and full of warmth. (George, bring me a fresh tray of adjetives.)
As for Hollywood, Tallulah said she liked it, and never had said she didn't. She thought it was wonderful working here—the coffee, and scarcely having to lift a finger for herself. "Sunglady does everything for me—my hair, my clothes, everything,"—and even so, making pictures was twice as hard as stage-acting. "There, it's three hours a night and your work's done," she said, "but here it's all day long. Some people say the waiting between scenes is the hardest, but I'll never think so. I'm a lazy Southern girl, and I just love waiting around."
Tallulah is making her first movie ("Lifeboat") in eleven years. Last time she left, she said things about Hollywood's climate and the uproar was terrific. The chamber of commerce and most other Hollywoodites took it as a personal affront.
"You see," Tallulah explained, "when I went back to New York I knew my pictures had all been bad. I had friends out here. What could I say? I thought that though God might not forgive me, people might understand if I said I didn't like the climate."
So Tallulah was being very discreet about the climate this trip. She wasn't even mentioning that she loved England's fog.
She had wanted to make more offers, but never at the right time with what she considered a suitable vehicle. This time she didn't feel up to going on tour with the hit play, "Skin of Our Teeth," when Alfrid Hitchcock sent her the first part of the "Lifeboat" script she was fascinated.
"he called me long distance and outlined briefly how it finished," she said, "and so I came on. Subconsciously, I think, I've been afraid of pictures because I might have a poor one. I do have a position on the stage and wouldn't want to jeopardize it. But this time I'm reasonably sure our picture will come off."

Let the Facts Speak—

Fighting around Salerno is proving something that many optimistic Americans have been reluctant to admit: That Germany cannot possibly fall before next spring. Immediately following the invasion and subsequent surrender of Italy, we were deluged with hopeful statements and rumors to the effect that Germany could not last more than three months; that she would be forced to surrender before Christmas. Now that the initial enthusiasm has worn off, however, the facts take on a different light.

It is all very true that Germany is weakening; that the surrender of Italy was a disastrous psychological blow to her. But Hitler still has one main fact on his side: a weakening foe is not a beaten foe. Fighting a defensive war, with his supply lines greatly shortened, Hitler might well be able to last until next summer, if not longer. Barring unforeseen events, he most certainly will not fall before next spring.

The German army, while it has suffered great losses, is still one of the best fighting machines in the world. Its generals are past masters of strategy, its equipment is superb, and its numbers have not yet been decreased to the point where breakdown can be expected momentarily.

The Americans are at a disadvantage around Salerno. Hitler has thrown in hundreds of planes and top-notch troops. All of which goes to prove that both are still available to him. Consequently, unless Montgomery can bring his armies up from the south in time we will have a hard time holding the Salerno bridgehead.

Optimism, in the right amount, is one of our most potent morale weapons. But over-optimism—the expectation of a quick and startling victory in Italy—may prove one of our enemy's best weapons if we don't temper our feelings. The cold facts must be allowed to speak for themselves.

Don't Take Pound of Flesh—

Everyone knows that this nation must collect taxes—heavier taxes than any individual ever dreamed of. But an increasing number of public officials are awakening to the fact that the tax load on business can be made so heavy that it will actually kill that source of tax revenue, and in so doing destroy the jobs which provide the wages and salaries that, in turn, pay the billions in personal income taxes.

"The best assurance for employment for returning soldiers will be in private industry and in continuing the private enterprise system. That factor cannot be safely overlooked in the framing of income tax rates for corporations, because the government has no present plan to finance the conversion from war production to peacetime production."

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has indicated that military authorities have interested themselves in the new tax program because they want tax levies kept low enough to preserve production incentives.

That the reasoning of Representative Robertson and the military authorities is sound, can be proved by every individual to his own satisfaction by asking himself the simple question: Would I carry on, or could I carry on under a taxation program that leaves me little or nothing but tax receipts at the end of a year's work? That is, the point that every member of Congress will have to consider in connection with individual and corporate taxation in the future because the two are inseparable, for the earnings of each are the basis of production, expansion and steady employment.

Success on the Rebound—

"The most important thing in life is not to capitalize your gains—any fool can do that," wrote William Bolitho. "The really important thing is to profit from your losses. This requires intelligence and makes the difference between the man of sense and a fool." And it is amazing how many famous folk have gained success because they profited

Board Issues New Retail Food Prices

Only Fresh Fruits, Vegetables Excepted From Rationed List

Prices on all retail foods except fresh fruits and vegetables are fixed and grocery stores must prominently display ceiling prices, according to the new ruling issued through Johnson county rationing board yesterday.

The new order fixes prices on cereals, baby foods, fish, processed and canned fruits, fruit juices, dried and packaged fruits, lard, macaroni and noodle products, condensed and evaporated milk, cooking and salad oils, shortening, sugar, syrups, canned vegetables and vegetable juices.

The official OPA lists of community ceiling prices are to be posted in all county and city stores. Price panel officials from Des Moines suggested yesterday that consumers check up on prices to make sure none are higher than those listed.

Ceiling price lists have been distributed to local stores by the ration board. These lists give an account of the highest prices that may be charged for retail food items within the district area including Tama, Benton, Linn, Iowa and Johnson counties.

Stores, under the order, are divided into two groups, each of which has its price list. Group one includes independent retail stores having an annual gross sales volume of less than $50,000. Group two includes independent stores having an annual gross sales volume of $50,000 to $250,000.

Each store is asked to display a sign to designate the group in which it belongs.

The lone marker in the first contest was scored in the fifth on a single by Merrill May and a triple by Ray Hamrick. (First Game)

TOUGH ASSIGNMENT •• By Jack Sords

Coach Slip Madigan Pleased With Results Of Hawkeye Shifts

Coach "Slip" Madigan took stock of his University of Iowa football lineup changes yesterday morning and found the present situation distinctly to his liking. Thoughtful and logical Slip, who has well-considered reasons for every move he makes, is settling the players into the positions for which they have the most talents. And that takes some juggling, as the strong and weak points of the men are revealed.

"Bill Barbour of Mason City is a natural tackle. He's big and rugged, likes to play a smashing game. As an end, he was a little short on speed and finesse. He tells me that he wants to play where ever he will be most valuable, so he'll take over left tackle," Coach Madigan said. He likes the play of Stan Mohr-bacher of Cedar Rapids, shifted from right tackle to left guard, and counts on the Cedar Rapids man as a line standout, along with the right guard, Bob Liddy of Monticello.

At right tackle, Jim Cozad of Waterloo is coming strong, although several other players, such as Joe Grothous of Davenport, John Ford of Des Moines, Harry Frey of Fairfield, and Dean Yanusch of Iowa City are close competitors. In the matter of Tom Hand of Emmetsburg, the letter man, Coach Madigan explained that Hand expects a marine service call at any time, and it was thought better to concentrate for the first term upon a man who is certain to be here all season. Hand readily agreed to this so will be used as a reserve guard and center.

"Bill Gallagher of Davenport now is ahead in the fullback race because he can punt better than Jim Hudson of Pocahontas. Hudson, however, is faster, and if he improves his punting may force Gallagher down," Coach Madigan explained.

See Michigan Edge Over Camp Grant

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The Michigan football squad attended closely yesterday to its reserve strength in another stiff drill for the battle Saturday with Camp Grant. Local dopsters figure the Wolverines should have an edge in reserves, but Coach Fritz Crisler has indicated anxiety over green men in the line. If Michigan turns out the stronger in bench strength, it will be an old story to Coach Charley Bachman of Camp Grant, who was loaned to the soldiers by Michigan state. State teams frequently battled Michigan on even terms for the first half but failed to hold up.

Purdue Has Secret Practice LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—New offensive formations were introduced to Purdue university football players yesterday in Coach Elmer Burnham's first secret drill of the season. Canvas was draped on the fence of the playing field. Burnham said he probably would take 40 players to Great Lakes for the season opener Saturday. The team will leave here tomorrow after a light workout.

 To Hold World Series
* With Only One Trip
* This Year As in 1918

NEW YORK (AP)—There was a time when the New York Yankees would have been quite bewildered over the argument as to whether it should be a one-trip or two-trip world series, as with some confidence they could tell Commissioner Landis not to worry, as it would be only a one-trip series regardless.

We don't think they would take that attitude this year particularly after what happened last year, when it was a one-trip series, all right. One trip and a hard fall for the Yanks. Besides, the series this year promises to be tighter than your fist, and we'll be surprised if it doesn't go at least six games.

There was only about a 50-50 chance of it being a two trip series even if the one trip series hadn't been decided upon. In the last 20 years, 10 of the series went only five games or less, and on two of the occasions the series called for an extra trip it wasn't necessary as the contending clubs both were from New York.

This isn't the first time a one-trip series has been announced in advance by official action. It was a one-trip series in 1918, when the play went six games and the first three were played at Chicago. The other three were played at Boston, and probably it is more than a coincidence that the proposal this year came from a man who was a leading figure in the 1918 series. He is Ed Barrow of the Yankees, who managed the Boston Red Sox in the '18 series.

That 1918 series was a rather hectic affair and developed a situation which, if it occurred now, would bring down the wrath of the public and jeopardize the continuation of the game in war time. That was a virtual sit-down strike staged by the players because they believed they weren't getting enough meat from the series melon which, at that time, was little bigger than a small cantaloupe at best.

It took a lot of nerve and a brazen disregard of consequences for the players to issue any sort of ultimatum at that time, as baseball was on a wobbly perch and the season had been ordered shortened. In 1918, also, there was a lot more criticism of men not in uniform and athletes in particular were singled out for abuse.

Anyway, for an hour prior to the playing of the fifth game the players and members of the National commission sat and squabbled, with the players eventually abandoning their stand, or in this case, seat.

In 1918 for the first time it had been decided to cut in the second, third and fourth place teams of each league on the series spoils. The players, with attendance and receipts smaller than they anticipated, argued they had not been consulted as to the changes.

That they had reason to be perturbed over their diminished shares is apparent through the fact each winning player eventually got $890 and each losing player $535. The year before the winners had received $3,669.32 each and the losers $2,442.61. Last year each winner got $6,192.53 and each loser $3,351.76. Getting back to this year's series, we have an idea that St. Louis fans will see at least two games, with the possibility they may see four, so the chance of their being short-changed as to the number of games they will see in comparison to the number New York fans will see isn't too great.

The Brooklyn Dodgers just reached their peak too soon. If they had won the National League pennant this year instead of 1941 no traveling would have been involved. Downright unpatriotic of them not to win this year, we call it.

New York Yankees Win Over A's, 7-3

Three Yanks Connect With Round-Trippers; Keller Hits His 27th

NEW YORK (AP)—Charley Keller took 20 minutes of special batting practice before the New York Yankees met the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday and when he came to the plate in the first inning he poled out his 27th home run with two mates aboard. This proved to be the keynote of the ball game, which the Yankees won 7 to 3, because subsequently Bud Metheny hit his 8th round-tripper and second in two days, Joe Gordon collected his 14th of the year, and rookie George Staller punched one for the A's with two on.

Great Lakes Team Prepares for Purdue

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—The Great Lakes Bluejackets went through a pass defense drill yesterday in preparation for Saturday's game with Purdue at the naval training station. Lieut. Paul (Tony) Hinkle warned his squad that Purdue's passers are coached by Cecil Isbel, formerly of the Green Bay Packers, and that plenty of aerials may be expected. Tackles Charley Siferd of Ohio State and Tony Macikas of Cincinnati university moved into the starting line, replacing George Perlich of Georgetown and John Badazewski of Western Reserve.

U High Plays Kalona Here Tomorrow

Headed by Jack Shay, captain and triple-threat fullback of the University high football team, the Bluehaws will meet Kalona tomorrow at 3:15 p. m. on the Hawkeye varsity practice field south of the Iowa stadium. Coach Paul Brecher has chosen his starting team for Friday's game with four lettermen from last year starting in the backfield, but with all new players on the line. Shay has been outstanding in practice so far this season in punting, passing, and ball carrying.

The starting lineup is as follows: Jack Shay, QB; Jim Williams, RB; Don Wagener, LH; Bill Helm, QB; Wally Emmons, LE; Bob Vanderzee, LT; Don Follett, LG; Doug Spear, C; Bernard Mellecker, RT; George White, RG; Steve Nusser or Max Seaton, RE. Yesterday at practice, Coach Brecher put the first team through offensive ball carrying plays, while the second team acted as defense in an attempt to break up the plays. While this was stressed in yesterday's practice, passing, punting, and quick kicks were also emphasized. Captain Shay brushed up on his punting, getting off kicks of good yardage. Practice on the tackle dummy and calisthenics was given to the members of the Bluehawk team yesterday, as they got into condition for tomorrow's game.

Moline to Be Tough Foe for City High Team Tomorrow

Although he is optimistic about the season's outlook, Coach Wally Schwank believes that City High's Little Hawks have a tough fight ahead of them tomorrow night when they battle it out on Shrader field with the Maroons of Moline. It will be the first game City high has had for several years with the Maroons. Coach George Senef, who has been Moline's mentor for 24 years, has a big and powerful team. The Maroon line is good, but the backfield is made up of not too experienced men, the City high coach said.

Some of the Moline players that the Little Hawks are going to have to watch closely include Bosse at quarterback, Havener, guard, and Ford, at tackle and fullback. When asked about the City high eleven, Coach Schwank said, "the team has a fast, shifty backfield and a tough line, a hard combination to beat." City high's schedule for the season: Sept. 17—Moline at Iowa City. Sept. 24—Clinton at Clinton. Oct. 1—McKinley at Cedar Rapids. Oct. 15—Dubuque at Iowa City. Oct. 22—Davenport at Davenport. Oct. 29—Franklin at Iowa City.

Browns Enter Their Longest Win Streak; Defeat Tribe, 4 to 2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Those amazing St. Louis Browns came up with a couple of exceptional records—for the Browns—yesterday. For one thing, in defeating Cleveland, 4 to 2, for their seventh straight triumph, the club entered its longest winning streak of the season. For another, the game marked the seventh successive contest in which a Brownie hurler went the distance. Veteran Al Hollingsworth marked up his sixth win. Al Zarilla put the game on ice with his seventh inning home run with two men on base.

War Chest Drive Starts Oct. 4; County Goal Will Be $47,000

The goal for the 1943 war chest campaign has been set at $47,000 for Johnson county and $32,000 for Iowa City, it was announced today by Chairman George Davis for the city, and E. F. Lenthe for the rest of the county. The campaign opens Oct. 4.

The quota for Iowa City includes the community chest fund. Other residents of the county will contribute only to the war fund. The goal for the rural district is $13,000 and for towns other than Iowa City, $2,000. This campaign is part of a nation-wide drive which will take place throughout the United States during the month of October.

The United Service Organizations will receive 60 percent of the funds raised by the war chest. Other agencies receiving benefits are the United Seamen's service, the British War Relief society, United China relief, Russian relief, Yugoslav relief, Czechoslovakian relief, war prisoners' aid, United States committee for care of European children, French relief, Norwegian relief, Belgian relief and refugee relief.

This will be the only annual campaign during the war with the exception of the American Red Cross and is designed to save time for both workers and donors. Most cities have consolidated their community and war chest campaigns.

Ralph Barnes Suggests Improved Training Of Workers To Help Production Problems

"Better training of employees is the biggest single solution to existing production problems," said Ralph Barnes, professor of engineering, in speaking before the Lions club yesterday noon.

From observations which he had made recently on the production problems of three large eastern factories, Professor Barnes disclosed that one distinguishing feature between the well managed company and the one that was not, lay in the amount of training the supervisors and other key men had received.

Labor Biggest Problem

Of the problems which exist in these plants, Professor Barnes said the labor problem was the biggest. He explained that the plants do not have enough people to do the necessary work and that those who are employed do not work satisfactorily. Rapid expansion was the reason which Professor Barnes gave for this inefficiency.

In presenting a survey taken in one plant manufacturing airplane wings, Professor Barnes said 43 percent of the worker's time was lost or wasted. Rework was responsible for much of this wasted time because the employees were inexperienced, Professor Barnes said.

Old and new plants alike suffer from the labor problem. Professor Barnes disclosed that a shortage of the necessary materials needed to continue production often leaves workers idle yet they are kept on the pay roll because of the difficulty of rehiring them later.

Wage Incentives

Wage incentives are used by some plants, Professor Barnes said, but added, "We will be making a great mistake if we rush into wage incentives."

He believes that an individual incentive is the best, with small group incentives coming next. He did not approve of the large group incentive.

"Unless an incentive is direct, the employee is likely to not be interested," said Professor Barnes. "He likes to see immediately what bonus he has earned."

To make the wage incentive work, Professor Barnes suggested that employers guarantee not to cut the wage set. In this way, he believes, employees will work as hard as possible to make the bonus. However, if they are fearful of a wage cut at any moment, they will not work to their maximum.

continue to mass all available forces in the center and on the southern end of the American Salerno bridgehead against General Clark's forces. The British would take them in flank and rear from the south within the next few days unless a Nazi stand against Eighth army spearheads is quickly deployed.

The implication of the German failure to break through to the beach in the Eboli sector is that an American counter drive up the valley of the Sele is to be expected once sufficient men and heavy equipment have been set ashore. Once they reach the Salerno-Auletta highway southeast of Mt. Eboli, that Nazi bastion would be outflanked and could be taken to free the Salerno bridgehead of danger and permit its expansion both eastward and northward to the Salerno-Naples motorway, the most ambitious bit of modern road in Italy.

Test Readings Held in Theater

Preliminary talent readings by students of the speech department interested in university dramatics were held last night in the University theater.

Results of these tryouts will serve as a basis for the selection of the plays to be produced in the University theater this year. They will indicate the number of men and women available for casting, and the type of play which can best be presented.

Further activities of the speech department, including the nomination of candidates for officers, and the plans for the year's program will be handled by a committee named yesterday by Prof. E. C. Mabie, director of the University theater.

The committee consists of the following persons: George Anderson, Dick Baldrige, Gary Gaiser, Shirley Rich, Margaret Rowland, Betty Buckner, Cecilia Thompson, Don Eckroyd, Islea Hope, Richard King, Elsie Reinschmidt and Wilanne Schneider.

It is up the west fork of this primary highway that the British Eighth army spearhead at Cosenza is pushing, but still distant. The nearest British force is reported on the west coast road at Belvedere, with nearly 70 miles still to go by last account to reach the Italian battle front.

Even so, that British spearhead at Belvedere and its matching Eighth army push up the main inshore highway from Cosenza must figure in Nazi tactical dispositions. They cannot

Rules on University Women's Hours Changed

Old Setup Cancelled

Undergraduates Given 15 Minute Cumulative Lateness a Semester

The rules regarding hours for university women have been altered by a judiciary committee, the first organization of its kind to be established on this campus.

Pamphlets explaining the new regulations have been issued, and every university woman is expected to have a copy. Those students who have not yet received theirs may obtain one at the office of student affairs.

Under the new rules, each undergraduate woman is to be allowed an accumulation of 15 minutes of lateness each semester without penalty. For each five minutes of lateness or fraction thereof, after the cumulative 15 minutes, the offender shall be camped the next Friday and Saturday nights, in her place of residence. She must be in by 8 o'clock, remain for the entire evening and may have no callers. The committee in each house is to make those arrangements necessary for the enforcement of this rule.

Individual committees will meet once a week to impose penalties, discuss problems and consider petitions of appeal which women who have a legitimate excuse for their lateness may submit in writing to the judiciary board.

This board includes Lois Grisell, vice-president of University Women's association, as chairman; Elva Jane Bolle, A4 of Highland Park, Ill., town representative; Virginia Harover, A4 of Cedar Rapids, representing Currier, and Martha Jane McCormick, A4 of Collinsville, Ill., Pan-Hellenic.

Helen Focht, assistant director of student affairs; Helen Reich, assistant director of student affairs, and Mrs. Louise Miller, social director of Currier, are acting as advisers to the judiciary board.

This board, which has final jurisdiction over all women's regulations on campus, has a judiciary committee in each housing unit, and the town students have been divided into 12 blocks, each of which has a committee.

Any girl who appears before the judiciary committee may be placed on social probation by action of the board. This is resorted to only in extreme cases, since social probation is a serious penalty for a serious offense which may lead to recommendation of suspension from the university.

Social probation is a penalty which requires that a student be in her residence every evening at a given hour for a given period. She may have no callers, and she may not leave Iowa City on weekends during this period.

The chairman of the judiciary committee in each residence, working with the social director in the dormitory, the housemother in the chapter house, the adviser in the cooperative dormitory or the householder in the private home, is responsible for the enforcement of the probationary period.

Representatives are to be elected to the judiciary board in a manner to be determined by the group represented. If a replacement is necessary, the group shall elect another representative. The judiciary board will meet once a month alone, having the authority to consider any problem on its own motion, and once a month with committee chairmen.

There is to be a meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Miss Focht's office for all judiciary chairmen of town blocs and cooperative dormitories and a meeting in Miss Reich's office for all judiciary chairmen of sororities.

Judiciary chairmen for the town blocs are Joan Nixon, Virginia Hartman, Gilda Ebert, Doris Hines, Ruth Aucher, Laurena Jones, Mary Alice Miller, Jean Ferguson, Mary Applegate, Betty Scott, Betty Ross and Ellen Marie Knutson.

Dorothy Hanlon is judiciary chairman of Coast house, Marjorie Petheram, Russell house; Marian Patterson, Fairchild house, and Marilee Barn, Clinton place.

Each unit of Currier hall will have its own judiciary committee and chairman, none of whom have been elected as yet. Alpha Delta Pi has not elected representatives yet, but the other sororities with their judiciary chairmen follow:

Larry Barrett Opens Newman Club Drive For New Members

At the Tuesday night meeting of Newman club in Macbride hall, Larry Barrett, president announced a drive to gain membership of all Catholic students at the university.

Forty-four students and A. S. T. P. cadets were present to help make plans for an informal mixer dance to be given in the gymnasium of Saint Mary's school, Saturday, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

The group also scheduled a weiner roast for Sunday, Sept. 26, at 3 p. m. in City park.

The president introduced Ann Popovich, who will be editor of the "Newmanal," bi-weekly publication of the organization.

A committee of four was named to handle the membership drive. They will be assisted by volunteer representatives from the various housing units on the campus.

Committee members are: Charlotte Vannice, Leonore O'Connor, Mary Ellen Monnett and Pfc. Francis Rudzik.

Father Bonaventure Schwinn, new chaplain of the Newman club, will be present at the next regular meeting, which will be held Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in room 107 of Macbride hall.

Iowa City Faces Intense Labor Shortage As High School Workers Return to School

Restaurants, Garages Dairies, Creameries Need 300 Employees

Employers in Iowa City face a labor shortage which has been intensified by the return of high school boys and girls to school and the influx of university students, a survey taken yesterday reveals. University hospital, the university grounds department, university dining service, poultry and egg packing plants, and restaurants are a few of the many places that lack badly-needed workers.

Although college students have filled many positions, they have not filled the gaps left by the high school students.

Few Students

Relying formerly on students for part-time work and board jobs, the hospital this year has been able to obtain very few students due to accelerated study schedules, loss of men students, and other reasons.

One of the poultry and egg packing plants has inquired into the possibility of obtaining Japanese-American women for help. No definite plans have been made yet, however.

Restaurants were probably hit the hardest when public schools opened this fall and busboys and waitresses left their jobs to resume their studies. Seven waitresses resigned for this reason at one restaurant.

Another restaurant reports that it now employs about three university students, who work part-time. Formerly it employed 40. Part-time and full-time workers are reported to be needed by most restaurants. One restaurant now employs six part-time helpers compared to 26 in other years.

300 Needed

The United States employment service now has orders for approximately 300 workers, according to John H. Patton, area war manpower director. Office workers, men and women workers in dairies, creameries, garages, and implement shops are needed. Housewives, retired business men and women, and persons with physical handicaps are all urged by the director to register at the employment office in the Community building.

The student placement office, under the management of R. L. Ballantyne, reports many open positions. Workers are needed in hospital nutrition work. Stenographers, nurses' aides, and boys to remove screens, wash windows, and put on storm windows are also needed. Students interested in part-time or full-time work may apply in the student employment office in Old Capitol.
