ALLIES CONTROL SOUTHERN ITALY

TWO BRITISH ARMIES fighting up the east and west coasts of Italy have made a junction with Gen. Mark Clark's heroic Fifth Army at Salerno to complete a 225-mile front across the Italian boot. Dispatches say that the Nazis there are being pushed back.

Yanks Bomb New Britain, New Guinea

Fortresses, Liberators Score 94-Ton Raid On Enemy Airdrome

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, TUESDAY, (AP)—New Guinea and New Britain bases of the Japanese most immediately menaced by allied capture of airdromes at Lae and Salamaua have begun to rock under an increased weight of bombs.

Today's communique told of a 94-ton raid Sunday by Flying Fortresses and Liberators in considerable force on the enemy airdrome of Cape Gloucester which is on the westernmost tip of New Britain, only about 120 miles northeast of Lae.

Steadily extending the target area of long range fighters, which until recent months never appeared over New Britain, these units of the Fifth airforce moved up the island's north coast to strafe an airdrome, supply dumps, anti-aircraft positions and surface craft in the Kimbe Bay area.

Only 60 miles above newly-won Lae on the Huon Peninsula of New Guinea, Mitchell not only dropped 22 tons of bombs Sunday on airdromes and other targets but also flew as low as possible so their gunners might strafe enemy occupied villages and surface craft near Finschhafen.

Six hundred miles above Australia, Liberators raided Japanese-held Amboina Island, dropping 26 tons on Ambon.

In the Solomons area, where air activity has been intense, action was on a smaller scale.

West of Amboina, Liberators started fires visible for 30 miles among airdrome workshops at Namlea on Boeroe Island, which is in the Netherlands East Indies.

Today's reports emphasized air punches delivered in the southwest Pacific sector in contrast with others recently telling of heavy American raids in the south Pacific (Solomons).

In that area alone, since Sept. 11, United States bombers and fighters have destroyed 100 Japanese planes and reduced in a large measure the value of the Kahili and Ballale airdromes.

Nazi Proposal Rejected STOCKHOLM (AP)—A dispatch from Denmark said yesterday that a committee representing the "big five" Danish political parties had unanimously rejected a German proposal which would reduce the kingdom to the status of a puppet and disband its parliament.

French Commandos Land On Corsica; Fifth Army Advance 15 Miles

As Resistance Totters

By WES GALLAGHER ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Naples was visible and within 12-mile artillery range last night of the U. S. Fifth army, which has captured the Sorrento peninsula, and French commandos swarmed onto strategic Corsica, thus threatening the German flank in northern Italy.

Announcing the all-French commando operation, the high command of Gen. Henri Giraud declared that progress was favorable. The commandos swept onto the island, directly above newly freed Sardinia, to help rebellious Corsicans drive the Nazis from their homeland.

In capturing the Sorrento peninsula, the Fifth army plunged through tottering Nazi resistance for a 15-mile advance through mountains shrouded in heat and dust.

All Sardinia was in the hands of two Italian divisions which acted on orders of Marshal Pietro Badoglio and chased German elements onto the French island of Corsica, 7 miles north, which also appeared untenable.

While the British Eighth army consolidated its junction with Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army on the churned beaches of Salerno, the British fifth corps in the south captured Gioia, 28 miles inland and northwest of Taranto, extending the allied hold on southern Italy.

Allied air power, particularly American Invader dive-bombers, ripped and tore with high explosives at German convoys totaling as high as 1,800 vehicles retreating north of Contrisi from the center of the Salerno front under the pressure of the Fifth and Eighth army continues to advance, jamming the roads in this area, the allies destroyed 109 and damaged 137 others.

Seizure of the Sorrento peninsula flanked the south side of the Bay of Naples. Sea approaches to Italy's second largest port in the shadow of Mt. Vesuvius already were firmly commanded by the allies who seized the guardian islands of Capri, Ischia and Procida on either side of the bay last week.

American 155-mm. "Long Toms" of African and Sicilian fame could now lob shells into bomb-torn Naples at will from the peninsula and the islands. The peninsula lies 12 miles across the bay from Naples and its 866,000 people. General Clark has said Naples is his first objective.

"The Fifth army continues to extend its bridgehead against decreasing enemy resistance," the allied communique said. "Reinforcements continue to arrive. The Eighth armies. Of 1,800 trucks from the north."

House Favors Post-War Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house took time out yesterday from the problems of war to display an overwhelming inclination to record congress in favor of international collaboration to assure a durable peace.

In debate leading up to a vote, the house members gave tersely bi-partisan support to the tersely-worded Fulbright resolution which would tell the world that congress is ready to support creation of "international machinery with power adequate to establish and to maintain a just and lasting peace."

The history-making debate, first wartime congressional expression of foreign policy—found the resolution's supporters rallying behind the cry that the United States must avoid the mistakes they said followed the last war and must assume responsibilities in world affairs.

Against that contention, foes of the resolution assailed it as meaningless, charged that it repudiated long-standing national policy against "entangling alliances," and maintained it would relinquish American sovereign and constitutional rights.

High Command States Action Against Nazi Troops Successful

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—French commandos, taking their first active part in the war since Tunisia, have stormed into Corsica to battle side by side with French patriots in an effort to grab the key Mediterranean island less than 50 miles from the northern shores of the Nazi-held Italian mainland, it was announced last night.

The French high command, in announcing the swift, surprise action against the Germans on the turbulent island, which lies directly above Sardinia, declared the fighting there had taken "a favorable turn."

The news of the French landing, under the very noses of the Germans and within range of the Nazi air force in both France and Italy, came a few hours after it was announced that Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American Fifth army had seized key positions overlooking the Gulf of Naples.

Corsicans have long engaged in guerrilla activities against axis forces on the island. They seized upon the capitulation of Italy to carry their warfare into the open.

With lightning-like suddenness, the commandos swept onto Corsica to help them drive out the Nazis, who still occupy the eastern side of the island in force. (This dispatch did not bring out the point from which the commandos struck. They may have embarked from either north Africa or Sicily.)

Naval vessels participated in the action, which included swift dashes into German-patrolled waters.

(NBC Reporter Don Hollenbeck, in a broadcast from allied headquarters, said that two Italian divisions which drove the Nazis off Sardinia were slated to cross to Corsica to help the French drive.

He said the Germans were "trying to get to the port of Bastia for quick evacuation to the port of Leghorn on the mainland.")

Thus far, the entire Corsican operation has been French.

The control of the island would give the allies one of the greatest air prizes in the Mediterranean theater, for from Corsica, long-range fighter planes could sweep the Po valley, held by Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, weeks and perhaps months before allied ground forces could battle their way up the Italian boot to come close enough for direct action.

It is also within easy bombing range of southern France—and long fighter range.

"Immediately after news of the Italian armistice became known French Corsican patriots took up the fight against the Germans," the French high command said in a communique.

"French commandos were immediately landed to back up the patriots.

"Events have taken a favorable turn."

The communique was signed by Gen. Henri Giraud, commander-in-chief of French forces.

25 Soldiers Killed In Crash of Plane

MAXTON, N. C. (AP)—Twenty-five soldiers died yesterday morning in the crash of an army transport plane on the Laurinburg-Maxton army air base field two miles from here, the public relations officer announced.

The big ship, making a routine flight, burned after it struck the earth.

"Names of those killed will be available for release after next of kin have been notified," the press relations officer said.

No other details of the crash were made available beyond an announcement that a board of inquiry had been appointed.

Officers said it was the first fatality at the field which has been in operation more than a year. The base is an installation of the First Troop Carrier command, under command of Col. V. A. Pitts.

PROCLAMATION

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio called upon the people of Italy to take up arms against their former German allies in active cooperation with the united nations in a proclamation published here yesterday.

The premier's appeal, in effect a declaration of hostilities, was the first official indication from any source that the Italians might be accepted as full-fledged allies of America and Britain in the campaign to drive the Germans from Italy.

Badoglio declared that "all talk about unconditional surrender (to the allies) is out of date and irrelevant to the changed conditions of today," adding that "we have intervened decisively against Germany following on the aggressive attitude of the Germans."

It was announced that the premier, now officially disclosed to be in allied-held Italian territory, made his call to arms from a new Italian government station, Radio Italiana, on the mainland, Sept. 16.

News Behind the News

Some Facts Behind Move To Draft Fathers

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—The answer to this father-draft business may be found in official figures not frequently mentioned or stressed.

The army only wants 446,000 fathers to fill out its program for a 7,700,000 man army January 1. If it did not get the fathers, it would still have a 7,254,000 man army, which is quite a lot of army.

But no less an army authority than War Undersecretary Patterson has announced that war plants must have 2,000,000 more men in the same period, namely before the end of the year. This obviously is a bigger if not more pressing need, on its face apparently more vital than the army need, because men cannot fight without equipment.

The current agitation on the father-draft subject is naturally driving fathers into the war plants where they can obtain deferment. No one can prove that the controversy has been kept at its fever pitch on the front pages solely for the purpose of effecting that result.

In other words, the threat of draft is accomplishing the administration's purpose of getting men voluntarily into war industry, and, as long as they can keep this pressure going, they will serve a purpose which seems more important than the gathering of 446,000 fathers for a slightly larger army, thus the tail actually already is wagging the dog.

There was no doubt that a majority of the reconvening congress was stacked up against the father draft, terrific pressure against it has been discerned by the legislators.

At the same time, the army has never failed to have its way with congress. Furthermore, the anti-draft bill will certainly be vetoed, if passed, because the president always follows war department policy, when he does not make it himself.

Therefore, it seems inevitable that the army can start drafting fathers October 1 if it wants to, and it says so far it is determined to do so.

Unofficial Debate Serves Healthy Purpose—Senator Vandenberg is proud of the job his committee performed for the Republican party with its Mackinac declaration on post-war. Some of the other Republican leaders here have received letters from home folks expressing dissatisfaction with it, however, on the ground it does not say much.

As an objective commentator, I would say the complaints were right in both instances, that both Republican and Democratic statements were too vague and for a mighty good reason.

Any responsible leadership which gets out in front now with anything very definite on post-war will promote a discussion which will shake the country, not only diverting its attention from the war, but promoting public disunity.

If either the administration or the Republicans took a determined stand in any specific direction, the best war interests of the country would not be served. Unofficial debate serves a healthy purpose in sifting ideas for weighed truth, but official discussions would start a fight.

As matters now stand on both sides of the fence, the strong advocates of special methods on both sides can be kept to their unofficial knitting.

If this wholesome but unsatisfactory (to many) condition can prevail in the coming senate discussions over the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill pressure group, an uproar there can also be avoided. Obviously, the senate administration leaders do not want acrimonious debate.

This matter of drawing up indeterminate statements of policy is like writing a platform for a political convention. No one remembers what was in a platform a week after its carefully chosen words are announced, sometimes not even the candidates.

Washington has been slow to grasp that truth.

Interpreting The War News

Allies Within Sight Of Naples; Vesuvius Blocking Their Way

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Anglo-American forces are within sight of Naples from the captured heights of Sorrento peninsula, overlooking the Naples bay, but blocking their way to direct northward advance stands Mount Vesuvius, as formidable as Mount Etna was in Sicily.

Vesuvius, rising nearly 5,000 feet in air behind a narrow coastal shelf midway between the northern and southern shores of the bay, affords a powerful natural anchor for a new Nazi defense line to protect Naples itself.

There is every reason to expect allied encirclement tactics by land and sea or both in the retreating German divisions falling back from the Salerno bridgehead sector attempt a new stand on the slopes of the famous volcano.

There is no doubt about that retreat, only about the amount of ground the Nazis are preparing to surrender in Italy and about allied moves to turn the retreat into a rout.

It may prove, however, that Naples itself is now regarded as untenable by the Nazi high command except for delaying action based on Mount Vesuvius.

Important Italian help in routing the Germans from the whole south-central portion of the Italian boot is forecast by developments on Sardinia and Corsica.

With the islands of Ischia and Procida, off the tip of the Naples promontory, also in allied hands, new allied beach landings above Naples are practicable.

There is an area of flat land there on the Voltorno plains, some 30 miles wide and 15 miles more in depth before the inshore heights are reached, inviting further allied amphibious operations to by-pass Vesuvius and Naples and outflank the Nazis from the north.

gulf than the Salerno and Eboli plains afforded. ing the Germans from the whole south-central portion of the Italian boot is forecast by developments on Sardinia and Corsica.

Blame for 'Optimism'

Several days ago in these columns we lauded Secretary Morgenthau's statement that the invasion of Italy "is only the beginning of the war for the United States," and reiterated his denunciation of "foolish, childish over-optimism" at this time.

The recent decision to give the people some bad news, instead of an almost invariable diet of good, is striking proof of how the government has been creating false impressions.

Pertinent to this is Mr. Morgenthau's revelation about American losses of material during the Sicilian campaign. There was much hard fighting in that campaign.

To preserve a just balance in presentation of war news is a difficult job, as all newspapermen know. There are bound to be confusions.

The government has gone from one extreme to the other, first feeding the public a diet of good news, then putting it on an unrelieved menu of bad.

School Heads Will Discuss Problems Here

Dr. Floyd Reeves, Floyd E. Brooker Scheduled to Speak

Post-war educational problems will be discussed by Iowa school superintendents during the University of Iowa's 29th annual conference on administration and supervision to be held Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and 2.

This special discussion was suggested by a poll of superintendents of school systems. The poll was conducted by Prof. E. T. Peterson, acting dean of the college of education.

Since the university's conference was not held last year, this is the first chance that the school heads have had to discuss among themselves questions which they have been thinking over for a long time, Professor Peterson pointed out.

Primarily a discussion conference, the affair will have two visiting speakers. They are Dr. Floyd W. Reeves of the University of Chicago and Floyd E. Brooker of Washington.

Dr. Reeves has been prominent for the past 10 years on various federal government educational committees. He will also conduct a round table discussion.

Some of his assignments have been chairman of President Roosevelt's advisory committee on education, 1936-39; director of American Youth commission, 1939-41, and chairman of the conference on post-war adjustment of civilian and military personnel, appointed by the national resources planning board by direction of the president.

Brooker, director of the department of visual aid for war training of the Federal Security agency, United States office of education, will talk on "Responsibilities of Executives and Administrators for the Wider Use of Audio-Visual Materials," during the half-day session on visual instruction which has been scheduled as the concluding event of this conference.

Premiere showing of a recently completed motion picture of the education program in Iowa schools will precede Brooker's address. The movie is entitled "Fit to Live and Fit to Fight," and will be shown by John R. Hedges, acting director of the bureau of visual instruction.

World Series to Be Struggle Between Unsure Hurling Staff

Both Teams' Outlook Weak

No Impressive Edge For Cards or Yanks; Anybody's Ballgame

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK (AP)—The day of great names on the mound in the world series is temporarily past and the St. Louis Cardinals' clash with the New York Yankees next month will be a struggle between two uncertain pitching staffs.

If Spud Chandler faces Mort Cooper in the opening game, as expected, both teams will be banking on hurlers who have never won and never finished in two previous starting chances in the annual classic.

A great deal has been said and written about the uncertainties of Cooper in world series competition. He has won 20 and lost 8 this year, pitched 23 complete games and six shutouts, and still there is a question about the propriety of Manager Bill Southworth leading off with him against the Yanks.

This is because he was knocked out twice by New York in last year's series and because he also failed twice against the American league in the mid-summer all-star games.

But many of Cooper's critics have overlooked the fact that Chandler has lost the only two series tussles he has started.

Chandler is a certain starter in the first game, Cooper is the logical choice for the Cardinals. If he loses the Cards are no worse off than they were at the same point last year.

The Cardinals will have only eight pitchers available for the series as compared with an even dozen for the Yanks, and of the St. Louis staff, two have sore arms—White and Harry Gumbert—and three are rookies—Alpha Brazle, Harry Brecheen and George Munger.

At first glance this would appear to impose a tremendous handicap on the Redbirds, but it works out to be a small one if any. The series schedule is such this year that three starting pitchers could work the entire show. Moreover, three of the most effective members of Southworth's set are lefthanders and the Yankees have had many bad days against southpaws this season.

Back of Cooper the Cardinals undoubtedly will choose among their lefties, Max Lanier, Brazle and Brecheen, for the other games. Brazle was brought up from Sacramento in mid-July after pitching 40 consecutive scoreless innings in the Coast league.

Remembering Johnny Beazley's two triumphs last year should make it possible for Southworth to choose a rookie starter without hesitation.

After Chandler, Joe McCarthy's obvious choice is big Ernie Bonham, who won 21 games last season but failed in the series and who has been an in-and-outer this year. The other assignments lie between Hank Borowy, and rookie Charley Weiskopf.

At times the Yankees have seemed to have the best pitching staff in baseball, but their advantage over the Cardinals now does not seem formidable.

Predicting football games in times like these poses problems that you can't even anticipate. Teams are dropping out of competition and changing their schedules so fast that it is hard to tell exactly who is playing and what their schedules include. For example, last week we picked the winners in games between Ft. Riley and Missouri, and between U. S. C. G. Academy and Middlebury. After the smoke of battle had cleared away, it became apparent that the Coast Guard had played and defeated not Middlebury, but Bates, while neither Missouri nor Ft. Riley played at all. In fact, Ft. Riley had been rescheduled to play Lowry (Col.) field this week, but scanning the results it appears that Lowry field finally played and lost to Colorado college. The new schedules have finally arrived, and it appears that at least a few schools have decided upon their schedules and are going to stick to it from now on.

Last Week's Games

Let's take a look at the games that were actually played last Saturday. Georgia took Presbyterian quite handily, and Michigan can't be said to have had much trouble with Camp Grant. Marquette really humbled Wisconsin for a change, and Illinois showed the Seahawks that although they are good, they're not invincible. The Purdue-Great Lakes game that ended in a 23-13 victory for the Boiler-makers, cheered many an Iowa fan, for SUU will field its team against the Great Lakes aggregation this coming Saturday. The game also serves to emphasize that fact pointed out last Friday, that the service teams do not enjoy a monopoly on manpower this year.

Another score that deserves special notice is the 61 to 12 trouncing that Princeton handed the Lakehurst Naval Air station. The navy men were supposed to be rather strong, and Princeton's stock has certainly soared since Saturday.

The Yale-Rochester game came out a little different than we figured. Two missed conversions left Yale on the short end of a 14-12 score. The Rochester eleven is picked by some sports analysts as one of the nation's top teams. They have an unusually tough season before them and we'll get a good chance to see just how good they really are.

Hawks Drill In Preparation For Saturday

The Iowa football squad is now in its final workouts for the season's opener with the big and veteran sailors of the Great Lakes naval training station.

Opening away from home for the first time since 1933, the Iowans will play at the station some 40 miles north of Chicago Saturday before a crowd restricted to navy personnel.

"Great Lakes reminds me of a big bear which moves ponderously part of the time, lashing out with a big paw. Those blows miss some of the time, but when they connect they have knock-out power," said Coach "Slip" Madigan, who scouted the Sailors in their 23-13 loss to Purdue last Saturday.

He praised the speedy Buist Warren, formerly of Tennessee, who completed some fine passes; and said that Steve Juzwick, whom Hawks faced at Notre Dame three years ago, is exceedingly dangerous on punts and kick-off returns.

Coach Madigan said that the Bluejackets were uncertain on forward pass defense assignments, that the guards and left tackle are very strong, but ends only fair and center somewhat mediocre.

He plans other changes on the Iowa No. 1 team, such as sending Paul Glasener to left half. Glasener was the running star of the 6-5 victory of the seconds last Friday. John Stewart will go to right half-back from left, while Dale Thompson moves over to alternate with Glasener.

Newcomer to the Hawkeye squad is Walter Yeager of Sioux City, a tackle, who reported for practice for the first time yesterday afternoon.

University Men Meet Tomorrow to Form Touch Football Group

A meeting of representatives of all organized men's units on the campus will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in Director E. G. Schroeder's office for the purpose of organizing a touch football group or league.

The rules and management of the league will be discussed at the meeting and it will also be necessary at this time to select officers to run off the games after the schedule is arranged.

time calibre. But when Amos Alonzo Stagg, the "grand old man of football," retired from coaching at Chicago because he was "too old," he went west and found a welcome at Pacific. The next year, his team of "little men" overpowered the mighty Golden Bears of California 6 to 0. This year, he looks to have his best team yet, downing the Alameda Coast Guard base this past week. Look for Pacific to be one of the strongest "little" teams in the country this year.

Bluejackets Bolster Center, Blocking Back

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—Lieut. Tony Hinkle yesterday concentrated on his reserves in an effort to bolster center and blocking back positions before Saturday's game with Iowa.

Faulty passing by the centers was blamed for the poor timing of the Bluejackets' offense against Purdue and for two fumbles which paved the way for touchdowns. If Dick Stealy of Ball state, out with injuries last Saturday, is able to play this week, the center situation will be much improved. Mike Saban of Indiana and John Day, former Georgia high school star, will have to carry the load at center if Stealy remains on the sidelines.

Rex Rasmussen, Illinois Wesleyan, and Bob Puglisi, Ashland, Ohio, prep, both were groomed as blocking back replacements for Paul Anderson, who has missed only five minutes of action in Lakes' two games.

Camp Grant Drills Second, Third Teams To Develop Strength

CAMP GRANT, Ill. (AP)—Coach Charlie Bachman gave the Camp Grant first stringers a rest yesterday but ordered a scrimmage for the second and third teams in an attempt to develop reserve strength for the game with Wisconsin.

Milt Trost, ex-Chicago Bear player, looked impressive at right tackle and may win a starting assignment. Joe Tisko, who has been an end, was shifted to the blocking back post. Bachman indicated that he is grooming Tisko for a possible starting job as quarterback.

Waldorf Puts Squad Through Stiff Drills

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Coach Lynn Waldorf, pleased with Saturday's intrasquad game, particularly the showing of new men, put his Northwestern players through a stiff offensive drill yesterday with emphasis on blocking as the Wildcats began preparations for their Western conference game against Indiana Saturday night.

Dutch Lonborg, who scouted the Indiana-Miami game, which ended in a 7-7 tie, brought back the report that in the little Ohio school, the Hoosiers met a team that would compare favorably with Big Ten peacetime competition because of its V-12 material.

★ Yank Soldiers Find
★ Ball Field Anywhere,
★ Everywhere in World

NEW YORK (AP)—The government crossed up the sports fans a little in announcing that the major league all-star team would tour in the Pacific war theater, as for some unknown reason it was taken for granted the teams would be sent in the other direction and would be hitting foul balls off Mussolini's chin.

It even was pointed out what a shame it would be to entertain the boys in the Mediterranean theater and neglect those in the Pacific, and it also mentioned that the teams might have a hard time finding playing fields in north Africa and Sicily.

Well, we've learned that the boys themselves apparently have solved the playing field problem. We don't know whether or not they are using shell holes for bases and Mount Etna as a center field fence, but they nevertheless are playing baseball in Sicily right now.

Albert D. Groves, sports editor of the Findlay, Ohio, Republican-Courier, forwards a copy of a letter received from Sgt. Paul J. Frost, indicating our service men play baseball whenever and wherever they are, and include all the beefs and arguments common to the game in this country.

The letter reads in part: "In a baseball game here in Sicily, a native son of Findlay, Ohio—one George C. Love—argued a play, saying that it was a Findlay rule.

"He was on first base. A fly was knocked to center field. He was standing about 10 feet off first when the ball was caught. He then continued on to second. His argument was that he did not start running from where he stood until the ball was caught. Of course we ruled him out after throwing the ball to first.

"Being a Buckeye myself, I doubt the veracity of his statement that they play by those rules in Findlay.

"He still insists he is right."

Naturally Love was all wet in his assumption, as if a base runner could stand where he was until a fly ball was caught and continue from there he might be able to make two bases on such a play, and it would be nothing to score from second on a sacrifice fly.

But whether the boys are playing by three-old-cat rules or over-the-fence-is-out, the idea is that they are playing baseball, and will continue to do so if they have to mow down mountains to get a place level enough for a diamond. We have an idea that the engineers, who can build roads and bridges while you wait, could iron out a ball field during their lunch hour. Those babies can do anything.

As this is written we have no idea where in the Pacific area the all-star teams will play, but from the pictures we have seen of some of the territory the job of providing a playing field would be much more complex than it would be in the Mediterranean area, particularly north Africa where much of the terrain is as flat as the palm of your hand.

Naturally the Hawaiian islands and Australia, should the all-stars go that far, wouldn't offer much of a problem, but some of those sargol-published islands would be something else with their tangle of jungle growth and coconut-throwing palm trees.

OHIO STATE PREPARES To Meet Seahawks

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Coach Paul Brown set up his defense against the "T" formation last night as the "Buckeyes" of Ohio State prepared for their opener with the Iowa Seahawks next Saturday. Coach Don Faurot of the Seahawks used the "T," or some variation of it, almost entirely in defeating Illinois last weekend.

Russ Thomas, Charleston, W. Va., freshman tackle, was back on the Buck first team after being laid up a week with a sore elbow. Brown indicated Cecil Souder of Bucyrus would do the punting and John Stungis of Powhatan Point would handle the kickoff job.

Coach Faurot May Change Lineup Today

By Associated Press Staff Writer
Lieut. Don Faurot, pleased with the Iowa Pre-Flight school's victory over Illinois Saturday, let the Seahawks off easy yesterday, but scheduled hard work for today when, he said, he will make several lineup changes.

What form the changes will take, the Navy mentor didn't disclose. One task will be the replacing of Cadet Jack Williams, starting quarterback, who suffered a sprained elbow Saturday and will be out of action for about two weeks.

Light defensive drills made up most of yesterday's session. Lieut. Faurot said more defensive work is on tap this week.

Badger Team Plays Soldier 11 for Third Time in Its History

Wisconsin's football team hits the road this week for a gridiron battle with one of Uncle Sam's fighting service teams, the powerful Camp Grant Warrior eleven.

The clash between the two teams is scheduled for 2 p. m. Saturday at the high school stadium at Rockford, Ill. The stadium is located on 15th avenue in the Illinois city, and is expected to be packed to its capacity of 12,000 with soldiers and civilians for the event. Civilians may obtain tickets from Lt. Col. Frank A. Bush at Camp Grant for the game.

The game will mark the third time in history that the Badgers have met a soldier eleven, and it will also constitute the "rubber play-off" between the two teams.

Wisconsin first played a Camp Grant eleven in 1918 during World War I and lost 7-0. Last year the Badgers eked out a win over the Soldiers by an identical score.

With a powerful squad built around a number of former outstanding collegiate and professional league players, the Warriors will be heavy favorites in this playoff contest. The Camp Grant team, now coached by Charley Bachman, formerly of Michigan State, has such stars as Corwin Clatt, the ex-Notre Dame fullback; Jimmy Dewar, formerly of Indiana; Tony Storti, Stout Institute speedster; Reino Nori, former Detroit Lions, Brooklyn Dodgers, and Chicago Bears player; and Sam Goldman, former Washington Redskins griddler.

Against the powerhouse Warrior eleven, Coach Harry Stuhldreher will probably pit the same team that started for Wisconsin against Marquette, barring injuries of course. The Badgers are woefully weak on reserves at most spots, and any injuries might prove disastrous. The Wisconsin squad will travel by bus to Rockford Saturday morning, returning home immediately after the game.

HOOSIERS SMOOTH OUT Saturday's Mistakes

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana university gridder sets their sights yesterday for next Saturday's game in Dyche stadium with Northwestern university and attempted to overcome weaknesses shown up in last Saturday's 7-7 shutout against Miami university of Ohio.

The two "weak departments" assayed by the Hoosier coaches were precision ball handling and pass-catching. Defensive and offensive spacing work also was stressed and the day's drill was polished off by playing against formations the Hoosiers expect the Northwesterners to employ.

1943 Hawks Wear New Numbers; Only 4 Lettermen Return

If you remember Hawkeye football players by their numbers, you will have to do a lot of new memorizing this season when you watch University of Iowa games.

There are only four players who were on the 1942 squad and some of the familiar numbers of last fall will not even be worn by new men this season. Forty-five men, all now reporting, have received game uniforms.

The veterans who retain their numbers are Tom Hand, 21; Harry Frey, 31; Bob Liddy, 51; and Bill Barbour, 61. Not appearing at all this fall are such numbers as Tom Farmer's 12; Bill Burkett's 15; Jim Youel's 59; Duke Curran's 60, and Bob Penaluna's 66.

Numbers assigned to some of the currently-prominent players are 11 Roger Stephens, 17 Dave Danner, 22 John Stewart, 29 Bill Baughman, 34 Don Murray, 37 Joe Howard, 42 Joe Grothus, 46 Jim Hudson, 53 Paul Glasener, 55 Dale Thompson, 63 Stan Mohrbacher, 66 Jim Cozad, and 72 Bill Sangster.

In all games except the Purdue contest, Iowans will wear black jerseys with gold numerals, silver pants, and gold helmets. Since Iowa and Purdue colors are the same, the squad will wear white jerseys with black numerals at Lafayette Oct. 23.

Fieldhouse Pool Now Open to Students

It was announced yesterday that all university men will be given use of the fieldhouse swimming pool from 7 to 9 p. m. on week days. This is to go into effect tonight.

All men who wish to take advantage of the pool must have a locker. Lockers may be checked in from 4 to 6 p. m. daily.

A student must present his identification card before he will be admitted to the pool.

Crisler Rests Team; Michigan State Loses Kieppe to Pre-Flight

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Coach H. O. (Fritz) Crisler ran his University of Michigan first string through several new plays yesterday, then excused them from more strenuous practice to rest from their 26-0 triumph over Camp Grant. Capt. Paul White, who suffered a minor injury Saturday, watched the rehearsal from the sidelines.

From the camp of Western Michigan's Broncos, who furnish the opposition in Michigan's home opener this week, came word of the loss of halfback Dick Kieppe, former Michigan State college star. Kieppe, an aviation cadet, is under orders transferring him to Iowa Pre-Flight.

Base Thief, George Case

Who Wins, George Or Ace Bill Dickey, In Battle of Wits?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Who wins when the swiftest of base thieves matches wit and ability with the ace of catchers?

The crime doctors probably won't like this, but the answer is that the base pilferer—Washington's George Case—comes out on top. He settled the question, at least for the time being, in the opener of the New York-Washington doubleheader Sunday.

The situation was this: In a setting of a standing-room-only throng, the Yankees had Spud Chandler, team ace and foremost American league pitcher on the mound, with the great Bill Dickey, famed for his deadshot pegs to second, behind the bat.

The game was tight, and the crowd was tense as Case reached first base. Everybody expected Case to steal, and the Yankees were determined to head him off.

Over to first, Chandler whipped the ball to hold Case close to the bag. Then Dickey, anticipating that Case would make a break on the first pitch, called for a pitch-out.

Sure enough, down Case went. The great Dickey, eager as a rookie to get the ball, appeared to go out and meet it. Dickey had a clear shot at second but he threw the ball into the dirt in front of second baseman Joe Gordon and Case was safe.

Case's feat gave him a tie with his own personal American league record of 51 steals, and demonstrated that he can reach his destination even when it's three-on-one, Dickey; Chandler, league's foremost pitcher, and Gordon, tops among the second-sackers.

The Senators, with Case keeping Yankee pitchers on edge all afternoon, went on to win the twin bill, 3 to 2, in 10 innings, and 5 to 1.

Maj. Anderson To Visit Here

Former Hawk Coach, Col. Andrew J. Boe To Aid in Bond Rally

Maj. Eddie Anderson, former University of Iowa football coach, and Lieut. Col. Andrew J. Boe, both of the Schick hospital in Clinton, will be in Iowa City Thursday, Sept. 23, with three injured war heroes to participate in the American Heroes' day war bond rally.

Prof. Walter F. Loehwing of the botany department will act as master of ceremonies during the rally, which is to take place at 2 o'clock before the Johnson county honor roll at Clinton and College streets. Music will be presented by the Iowa Navy Pre-flight band under the direction of Chief J. J. Courtney.

The three war veterans who are to speak at the rally will be Corp. Ray Dowd, Pvt. Max Mostowsky and Pvt. Ralph Luce. Iowa City banks will remain open until 4 p.m. Thursday to accommodate war bond purchasers. No other bank business will be transacted after the usual closing hour.

The American Heroes' day observance is sponsored by the retail trade division of the chamber of commerce, with Arthur A. Aune and B. E. Vandecar as co-chairmen.

St. Mary's Timepiece Wound, Chimes Again

The old clock in the tower of St. Mary's church at Jefferson and Linn streets was chiming as usual again this weekend, after a brief pause Friday.

Students hurrying to their classes Friday morning were quite disturbed when they discovered that the old clock had stopped at ten minutes until two early in the morning.

Everything is all right now—the old clock just needed winding.

Few Premiere Tickets Remain

Ticket sales for the bond premiere "Watch on the Rhine" will amount to more than $180,000, Harold D. Lyon, manager of the Englert theater, declared last night.

Lyon said that nearly all tickets already have been sold for the premiere, which will be shown at the Englert Thursday night, and that beyond a doubt the movie will be a complete sell-out.

The theater manager said that the regular feature running Thursday will end at 7 p.m., and "Watch on the Rhine," starring Bette Davis and Paul Lukas, will begin at 8:15.

'Default Day' Drops From Court Calendar Before New Ruling

Today marks the last time "default day" will appear on the calendar of Johnson county district court.

Under the old rules of civil court procedure, default day was the second day of each court term. On or before noon it was mandatory that the defendant file his answer to the plaintiff's charges. If the defendant failed to appear, he was said to be in "default" and was forbidden to offer any further defense.

According to the new court rules, the defendant must appear 20 days after the plaintiff files his petition.

Fourteen defendants will come before Judge James P. Gaffney today.

With war bond sales amounting to $1,112,302, the county yesterday stood at the 60 percent mark on its quota of $1,863,000, a roundup revealed.

This figure, however, does not include $125,765 in bids made during the junior chamber of commerce bond auction Saturday, since the actual purchases were not made until yesterday through various agencies and have not yet been tabulated.

County co-chairmen F. D. Williams and B. S. Summerwill emphasized that the figure announced for sales to date is based on actual cash investments, rather than on maturity values.

I. C. Group Observes Parent-Teacher Week

Parent-Teacher week will be observed in Iowa City this week in connection with a statewide observance proclaimed by the governor of Iowa, Mayor Wilber J. Teeters announced yesterday.

Mayor Teeters said: "The week of September 19th to the 25th inclusive has been designated as Parent-Teacher week by the governor of Iowa.

"The need of the constructive work of this organization, especially during this emergency, can not be overemphasized. The civic organizations, schools, churches, and the public generally should become acquainted with and have a better understanding of the relationship of parent and teacher and the problems connected with their work. It will take intelligent thinking on the part of all of us to successfully meet the present issues and the problems of tomorrow.

"With this idea in mind of stimulating cooperative effort in a forward looking program for the future citizenship of America, I acclaim the governor's proclamation for Iowa."

INTERPRETING—

or less of Rome. It would make shuttle bombing of all Nazi escape routes from the Italian peninsula to the Po line in the north a simple matter either from bases on the shores of Gaeta gulf or from Corsica, and Nazi commanders seem aware of that danger. It may be that the Salerno victory by General Clark's amphibious force has cracked the whole Italian peninsula to fastpaced allied occupation.

As yet, however, the scope and direction of the German retreat from the Salerno front and from the south is not clearly enough indicated to furnish a glimpse of Nazi defense plans. That enemy forces along the southern segment of the Fifth army front are in flight northward to escape entrapment goes without saying in view of the German retreat from the Sorrento peninsula farther north.

The implication is that the British forces on the east coast and from Taranto are converging northeastward for a drive up the Adriatic coast which is easier terrain than the west coast. An allied advance to outflank the Naples-Foggia line from the east should the Nazis attempt to stand on that shore front across the peninsula may be in the making.

'Dynamic Personality'— Sermon Of the Week —Rev. L. L. Dunnington

"A Dynamic Personality," compared with and substituted for a mediocre personality, was the message presented in the Sunday sermon by the Rev. L. L. Dunnington of the Methodist church.

The Rev. Mr. Dunnington used as a living example of a changed personality, Bash Young, a broken and disconsolate industrialist who became a successful insurance agent. This young man, aspiring for success, took an inventory of himself and upon a careful analysis decided that the reason he was unhappy in his work was the fear he felt concerning his occupation, his home life and his future.

Upon listing his own weak characteristics, selfishness, pessimism, indecisions, a regretted past, doubt in business, a dubious future, and irritability at home, constituted the chains of unhappiness that bound him. This list led him to change his ways of living, and with the encouragement of his wife, he left his job and followed along the way Paul speaks of in the scriptures, "Be ye transferred by the renewing of your mind."

Success Through Faith: Young began to give his mind and soul to God and found by practice that success came through optimism, unselfishness, happiness in future hopes, and a continuous faith. All of the opposites to his former bad nature were acquired and he soon was offering his help to all people who needed it. His insurance business was large and prosperous, but it became of secondary importance, for his first was assisting others.

One instance Dr. Dunnington related, concerned a man who came to Young about his sister who was grieving over her father who had suddenly died. Bash Young went to see her and gave her new hope and a clearer outlook on life. When asked what his pay was for such a service, Young replied, "My reward is my own inner satisfaction." This bit of charity did not go unrewarded however, for the man took out a million-dollar insurance policy on his 14-year-old son. Thus Young became wealthy by helping others.

Check Worries: Another occasion arose when a man who had lost his job and felt bitter and defeated, came to Young for advice. This time, the insurance agent turned his philosophizing into a game and had the fellow write down all the fears he felt because of losing his job, put them into a suitcase to check later at Grand Central station, and never call for it again. The Rev. Mr. Dunnington's manner of emphasizing the importance of finding out what your troubles are was the essence of his sermon. "Write down your worries, destroy them while saying a prayer, 'Oh, God, I have left behind all my fears and I shall stop thinking of myself and let quietness and peace be my strength.'"

The matter of changing personalities is important to us all, so a sound method of discovering means of bringing out our very best is necessary. "To change your personality, pray and practice for the attributes you want. Live today, not in the past. Have faith in the future, but don't expect things to happen overnight. Be glad today and be brave today, for he who conquers now, shall rule the coming years."

Red Cross Cannot Accept Private Orders

Organization Prepares Christmas Packages For War Prisoners

Private orders for special Christmas packages for United States servicemen held prisoner by enemy countries cannot be accepted by the American Red Cross, the Johnson county chapter announced today. The Red Cross is preparing 10,000 Christmas boxes, paid for by the army and navy, to be distributed to United States prisoners, however.

Individuals who are next of kin to prisoners held in Europe may send Christmas parcels directly to those prisoners by using government labels. One label is provided each 60 days by the provost marshal general's office after the government has received notification of a prisoner's name and the address of his internment camp.

This does not apply to prisoners of the Japanese. Japan has not yet agreed to transmittal of packages. Packages must be mailed before Oct. 15 to insure their receipt by Christmas. Parcels sent by individuals must weigh no more than 11 pounds and be no more than 18 inches in length and 42 inches in combined length and girth. Perishable articles will not be accepted. Relatives should not send fragile articles.

In addition to special boxes, the American Red Cross is preparing 400,000 standard food packages for distribution to prisoners of war during the Christmas season. These will be decorated with Christmas motifs in red and green. The special Christmas packages contain baked ham, fruit cake, fruit bars, jam, army spread, peanut butter, sugar-coated and sweet chocolate, hard candy, candied nuts, and one game, in addition to cheese, coffee and cigarettes.
