Australians Advance on Japs, Reach Finschhafen Airbase

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Friday (AP) — Australians who landed from the sea six miles north of Finschhafen, New Guinea, Wednesday, have pushed resisting Japanese southward, reached the airfield only two miles north of the base and have placed the coastal town under artillery fire.

Headquarters announced these developments today in a communiqué which also disclosed that a heavy air engagement ensued the day of the landing in which 40 Japanese planes were downed and five others probably were destroyed.

Three allied planes were lost. "Enemy resistance is being rapidly reduced and we are pressing toward Finschhafen which is now under artillery fire," the communiqué said.

"We have reached the north end of the airfield."

Shelling warships and bombing planes provided cover for Wednesday's landings.

Capture of Finschhafen would put MacArthur in a strong position, if he so chose, to strike at crescent-shaped New Britain which, in turn, outflanks Bougainville, principal Japanese holding in the Solomons.

The Japanese air force began attempts to intercept the ships off Finschhafen in mid-morning Wednesday. The landings began at dawn. Two of the first attacking planes were shot down from high altitude.

The big fight occurred at noon. Japanese planes attacked landing craft.

Anti-aircraft guns on American warships put up a heavy fire. Allied fighters engaged in a 25-minute battle.

ATTENTION STUDENT SUBSCRIBERS

Wartime conditions have placed drastic restrictions on all forms of delivery. To meet these circumstances and to render better service to its student subscribers, The Daily Iowan has established daily distributing centers at the entrance to the Business Office in University Hall, at the north (Journalism) entrance to East Hall and at Iowa Union.

Residential unit delivery by carrier will be continued as in the past to dormitories and to other student housing groups representing organizations with 25 or more students in residence.

At the three designated distribution centers, each morning of publication, The Daily Iowan will be available to all other students (those not included in groups defined in the preceding paragraph) upon the presentation of their University identification cards. This service will be continued until further notice.

The plan herein described does not apply to subscribers other than students.

Effective Friday, September 24, 1943.
Hours: 8 to 10 A.M.
Sunday distribution at Iowa Union only: 8 A.M. to 1 P.M.

Legion Recommends U.S. Cooperate With Other Free Nations

Administration War Manpower Policies Also Get Approval

OMAHA (AP)—The American Legion endorsed yesterday participation by the United States in an association "of free and sovereign nations" in the post-war world, and at the same time threw its support behind administration war manpower policies, which include drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

The endorsements were contained in committee reports accepted at the closing session of the 25th annual convention, at which Warren Atherton, 51, Stockton, Calif., attorney was elected national commander. He succeeds Roane Waring of Memphis, Tenn.

Participation with other nations in a post-war association was recommended in a report by the Legion's foreign relations committee, and adopted by the convention in a voice vote.

The report emphasized that such a move is the method by which "our nation can best serve and protect its natural interests," and added that such cooperation should be "implemented by whatever force may be necessary" to maintain peace.

The question of the extent of MacArthur's command, and of the extent to which his advice has been heeded or ignored by the high command, drew attention because of the statement issued by MacArthur two days ago, implying that he has been relegated to a subordinate position and that his plans for smashing at the vitals of the enemy have been by-passed for a more cautious approach.

MacArthur's Idea Strategy in Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur suggested the strategy now used against the Japanese in the Pacific, it was said in high quarters yesterday, and the major blows at present are being delivered under his immediate command.

At the same time Secretary of War Stimson asserted that the commands of MacArthur in the southwest Pacific and of Lord Mountbatten in southeast Asia do not overlap.

The question of the extent of MacArthur's command, and of the extent to which his advice has been heeded or ignored by the high command, drew attention because of the statement issued by MacArthur two days ago, implying that he has been relegated to a subordinate position and that his plans for smashing at the vitals of the enemy have been by-passed for a more cautious approach.

"As this figure has been based upon a definite strategic plan and worked out by experts, any authority who undertakes to change this figure, recommended as a minimum for the plan envisaged, must assume the responsibility for the effect upon the plan which may result from such change," the report said.

Former Governor John Stelle of Illinois demanded from the convention floor whether that portion of the report should be interpreted as giving 100 percent cooperation to General Marshall in present manpower draft plans.

Elinor Glyn, Who Originated 'It,' Dies in London

LONDON (AP)—Elinor Glyn, who put sex appeal into parlor conversation under the name of "it," died yesterday, but the legend of her life, which was as exciting as the plots of her novels, is still alive after half a century. She would have been 79 Oct. 17.

Elinor Glyn emerged from the overstuffed Victorian era into the gay setting of Edwardian England, freshly red-haired and green eyed, smartly gowned, clever and witty. She knew everyone.

In 1892 she married wealthy Clayton Glyn, and on their honeymoon in Brighton he rented the public baths at the Metropole for two days in order, he said, that he might appreciate the beauty of the maid he married.

In 1907 she published "Three Weeks," which was publicly denounced as immoral but which heralded the advent of jazz 10 years before its time.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Looking tired after her 23,000-mile trip to the south Pacific and Australia, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told a press conference yesterday she was glad to be home, adding, "I don't think I ever worked as hard in my life."

She arrived from Honolulu by plane early this afternoon just five weeks and two days after leaving the country on the longest and hardest of her many journeys. She rested briefly at her hotel, tried in vain to find and telephone the father of a marine corps lieutenant who dropped 3,000 feet into the sea—and will recover—and then answered questions at a press conference.

Mrs. Roosevelt was asked whether the men and officers feel the Pacific front is regarded as less important than the one in Europe.

"They know it is important; they know how big it is," she answered. "I think they do feel we at home don't know how big it is. In order to make gains possible, of course, there is a great deal of work done just to hold places that are not in combat and I think the men in some of those posts do have a forgotten feeling."

"As for equipment, they know their equipment is enormously increased, and very excellent. The change is so marked they all can see it."

Reds Within Artillery Range Of Smolensk; Nazis Prepare For Quick Naples Evacuation

Battle for Corsica Enters Final Stage

Units of Yugoslavian Army Battle Nazis In Port of Trieste

Other Formations Exerting Pressure On Italian Outposts

LONDON (AP)—Slovene troops of the Yugoslav army were reported last night to have penetrated the Italian Adriatic port of Trieste, fighting the German garrison there with the aid of inhabitants.

Yugoslavs having communication with partisan armies fighting bloody battles in northwestern Yugoslavia said other Slovene formations occupied Idria, 30 miles northeast of Trieste and 50 miles north of Flume, exerting pressure on both Italian ports.

Shell Flume

(The Algiers radio said the Yugoslavs were shelling Flume from Susak, just across the frontier, and reported street fighting in Trieste. The broadcast was repeated by BBC, which was recorded by CBS.)

The Budapest radio, quoting a Zagreb dispatch, declared the Germans had captured Susak. This broadcast was recorded by The Associated Press.

An area 55 miles north of Durrazzo was reported under siege by Montenegrins after they captured the coast town of Uieni and the summer resort of Petrovac. The Italian "Tauroiente" division, with its commanding general was said to have gone over to Yugoslavia partisan units now fighting the Germans.

Equipment Captured

There were some estimates that the war equipment of about four out of 20 Italian divisions in the northern part of the country had now fallen into the hands of the Yugoslavs.

Madrid quoted reports from both Italian and Balkan sources which said that not only Flume but the whole German grip on the Istrian peninsula was threatened by the swift-moving, well-armed guerrilla bands in communication with partisan forces holding Susak and part of the Adriatic coast.

Persons close to the war labor board believe the agreement has a good chance of approval. The office of price administration and the director of economic stabilization also would have to approve if the agreement is to become effective since it requires an increase in the price of coal.

It is the consensus of informed persons in the industry and government that if these hurdles are overcome the contract will be applied generally throughout the industry and the wage problem which led to six months of strife and dispute will have been solved.

Illinois operators estimated they would need an increase of 20 to 23 cents a ton in the coal ceiling price. This probably would be higher for eastern mines.

The present basic wage in soft coal mines is $7 for a seven-hour day, but the day is figured on the basis of time spent at the coal seam with no account taken of time spent in underground travel. Time and one-half rates begin after the 35th hour.

Seat of Mussolini Puppet Government Will Be in Germany

NEW YORK (AP)—The seat of the "new Republican Fascist government" set up under the premiership of Benito Mussolini is to be established temporarily in southern Germany because of war hazards in Italian territory, the Berlin radio said last night.

Soviet Army Further Flanks Kiev, Captures Ukraine Citadel Poltava, Advances to Dnieper

LONDON (AP)—The Red army smashed to within artillery range of Smolensk yesterday, further flanked Kiev, and toppled the Ukraine citadel of Poltava to engulf German defenses along a 300-mile stretch just short of the middle Dnieper river.

A Soviet communiqué announced the capture of Buzanova, nine miles northeast of the German central stronghold of Smolensk, and Pochinok, 19 miles to the southeast, as Soviet armies ploughing westward overran 863 more towns and villages along the huge front.

Surging toward White Russia the Red army also captured Unecha, rail junction mid-way between Bryansk and Gomel, and the Moscow radio said Soviet troops already had crossed into that territory adjoining Poland.

A Berlin broadcast acknowledged the peril to Smolensk, Kiev, Cherkasi, and other eastern front bastions; admitted the loss of Poltava, said Soviet troops had broken into Roslav below Smolensk, and also stated "a few small" Russian detachments had reached the Dnieper river.

The German military commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, said the Red army's offensive was the most gigantic of the entire eastern campaign, and that the wide Soviet pincers move on the Ukraine capital of Kiev was being pressed with "extraordinary violence."

Sertorius said German troops were "systematically disengaging themselves," but gave no hint as to where the German high command would decide to make a definite stand.

The Russians now have plunged so far westward that eastern Prussia, the Baltic states, Rumania and axis targets in Poland and Hungary are within easy Soviet bomber range for the coming three-sided allied effort to smash the entire German "roof" this winter. The Ploesti oil fields in Rumania are only 435 air miles from the advancing Russians.

The Germans now at one time held approximately 500,000 square miles of Russia proper. Now it is estimated they hold only 200,000.

Moscow dispatches said the battle for Dnepropetrovsk had begun with the Red army attacking less than 13 miles from the city, which was the site of Russia's big hydroelectric works. Zaporoze, to the south, also was imperiled by Soviet units attacking eight miles away.

One German broadcast recorded by The Associated Press also indicated that the Russians had pushed along the Sea of Azov coast 85 miles west of Nogaisk, taken Saturday, to reach Genichesk, only nine miles from the Melitopol-Crimean railway. It said German naval units had "bombed Russian positions" at Genichesk.

Under cross-examination by Senator Wheeler, Baruch told the committee newspaper reports indicate Gen. George C. Marshall is "going to lead some new offensive" and he's entitled to our trust. The spectators applauded the remark.

When Wheeler asked whether he would feel the same way should Marshall request 15 million men Baruch replied:

"That's absurd. If he was that kind of man I wouldn't follow him."

Demands for a manpower investigation in congress developed behind a statement by Ralph Burton, counsel for a house military subcommittee, that an estimated 300,000 draft-age non-fathers are on federal payrolls now, although less than half of them have been deferred.

The time has come for us to take a look at this federal payroll and see if we can't find a substantial part of our manpower from that source," declared Representative Dirksen (R-Ill.). "The chances are there are literally hundreds of thousands available."

Hats Off to Pre-Flight Band!

The Pre-Flight band did something yesterday that should be done more often in Iowa City. In case you weren't downtown to hear, the entire aggregation played marches and war songs for over an hour at the corner of Clinton and College streets.

It is known from experience in World War I, with its Liberty bond rallies and all, that nothing whips up public morale more than parades and march music. Yet, in Iowa City we have little chance to witness such performances as we saw yesterday except football games and occasional civic functions. The army boys have added a great deal of zest to community life with their songs, but nothing can take the place of a good band.

Such songs as "Over There," "Anchors Aweigh," and the "Marine Hymn" had everyone on their toes yesterday, and by their enthusiasm those who are watching indicated that they would like to see and hear much more of the same.

So, hats off to the navy musicians! Let's hope we can hear them more often in Iowa City.

Older Army Officers

Reserving a policy adopted when there was a serious shortage of experienced administrative officers, the war department has gone back to its peacetime custom of retiring all officers below the rank of brigadier general who have reached the age of sixty.

It has been estimated that the order will affect approximately 900 officers. The war department declined to make a detailed statement, presumably for reasons of military security, but the order set a great deal of discussion in motion and may be taken up by congress.

The war department confirms reports that some few exceptions in general office rank have been made, but it did not state why officers of high professional rating and good physical condition were retired from assignments which must be given to younger men, presumably with advance in rank.

The army's duties to retire or reclassify officers for any reason which it deems necessary to the efficiency of the military establishment is not questioned. And it is conceded that under pressure of the war emergency some decisions, such as this horizontal order on an age basis, may inevitably impose injustices.

But there will be no implications of less than the highest motives if some members of congress who served as army officers in the first world war decide to ask the war department for more information.

Newspaper Week

Newspaper Week will be celebrated in the United States Oct. 1 to Oct. 8. The purpose is to have newspapers tell about themselves and impress upon their readers the advantages of a free press. Probably all the talk in the world along these lines doesn't mean much unless it is representative of what a newspaper is doing the remaining fifty-one weeks of the year. And if it is doing its job from day to day as it should, its readers doubtless know it without being told.

To the best of its ability, this newspaper prints the truth and all of it. In these days it is not always possible to find the truth or to recognize it when it is discovered. Limitations of time and space make it necessary for a newspaper to exclude much that comes to its mill. This newspaper strives to exclude only that which is untrue, unimportant or uninteresting.

This newspaper has learned that if a publication is not serving its community the way it should, it will hear about it quickly enough. It seeks to keep avenues for complaints wide open. It strives to make sure that anyone who has a kick gets a hearing. This newspaper is convinced that continued support of its readers through the years is the only real proof whether it has achieved its aim.

It is said constantly that a free press is the bulwark of democracy. So it is well to have a free press. It is also well to have people free to choose the media through which they wish to gain their information. While this condition exists, a good newspaper cannot fail.

News Behind the News

Some Thought About Our Post-War Position

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—Mr. Robert L. M. Parks, editor, Augusta Chronicle, Dear Mr. Parks: I liked your open letter criticizing my post-war views, and appreciate the statement that you consider my column "refreshingly frank and singularly free of nonsense."

At any rate I can agree with you thoroughly in the final thought expressed in your letter:

"This is the time for straight speaking and straight thinking. No one need pull his punches or hide his opinions in enforced silence."

In that spirit I would like to sift the position which you have taken. You hold that if we keep our armaments, we express distrust of the rest of the world and that we should go into the peace conference in an open hearted manner, and if we fail to, we will promote another war.

I do not distrust the other people of the world. I know them as I see them expressing themselves in their actions, and I do not consider them much different from the Americans I see around me, as far as their human instincts are concerned. Everyone and abroad wants to get ahead himself, advance his position, or at least make it secure to the utmost of his ability, so do all nations.

You say:

"We should not like to go to the world bargain counter to engage in trade with a pistol protruding from our hip pocket," adding, "we would promote another war by our very arrogance and pistol-toting proclivities."

No one in this country wants to go swaggering in quite that way, although if anyone else is going to have pistols there, or near, we would, of course, want the biggest, nearest.

But the presence of a pistol does not mean war. The Augusta citizen who has one in his home does not keep it there to start a war.

Laying pistols aside, where did you get the idea that the world peace table is going to be a bargain counter? Bargain for whom? I have not heard of anyone offering to give anything away. I have not heard of even any cut rates being offered.

That peace table will not be as you describe it. Statesmen don't carry either pistols or bargains to international conferences.

That peace table actually will be more like a business conference table in this country. Around it will be gathered highly competitive statesmen in charge of the governments of the world, dealing in the biggest business in the world, each trying to get ahead of the other.

No business man goes into such competitive business conference in Augusta or Washington in an open-hearted, big-handed way, if he does, he knows he will soon lose his shirt and cease to be a business man. If he tried it, you would wonder how he ever got to the position he occupies.

The thing that gets me is that you never hear the Russians or British urging such an attitude on their statesmen. Generally, right now, you hear their people or statesmen complaining because they are not getting enough from us.

But let us blind ourselves to that and assume, as you erroneously might, that everyone came to the next conference as you want us to be, at least as far as armaments are concerned. Have you forgotten so soon what happened at Pearl Harbor? And to France?

The Japs came to our disarmament conferences all the while hiding pistols under the bed at home. Hitler had so many pistols buried so deep that neither France, Britain, nor America had the slightest idea of his massive superiority (and incidentally, he himself did not begin to know the size of the hidden Russian armaments, as his generals, and, in fact, our own, thought Russia could be conquered in 60 to 90 days.)

Trust? This war started with secret armaments in a world which we thought was policed securely by the Democratic fleets. We nearly lost because we were caught flat-footed on that erroneous ground.

You say my ideas would "withdraw into a sort of armed isolation, arming ourselves strongly, taking possession of a chain of outlying bases, and settling back behind our fortress to enjoy a long and definite era of peace and concord."

I do not want to withdraw anywhere. I merely want to profit by our mistakes which should be fresh in our minds.

The bases are absolutely essential for our protection. Everyone knows that. Therefore, we must have them.

We already have leases on a few of them. We cannot afford to lease our security from others any more than we can depend on a navy of battleships leased from others.

A nation can survive in this world only if it is strong morally, economically, and militarily. The stronger we are in these ways, the better.

USO Dance To Be Held This Evening

USO headquarters in the Community building will again be open this weekend for use by all men in service in Iowa City.

The highlight of the weekend will be the junior hostess dance from 7 until 10 o'clock tomorrow night. Music will be furnished by the Seahawks, Navy Pre-Flight school dance band.

Nadine Wharton will head the hostesses committee. Assisting her will be Lorene Berkey, Lillian Bower, Marie Gaddis, Rita James, Elizabeth Brinker, Marion MacEwen, Barbara Strub, Mary Weir and Ann Waterman.

Free dancing lessons, with Mrs. Harriet Walsh instructing, will be given from 4:30 until 5:30 tomorrow afternoon in the gymnasium. The music hour will be held from 6:15 until 7:15 in the evening. At 10 o'clock there will be a social hour in the lounge.

On Sunday the Community building is open from 9:30 a.m. until 7 p.m.

From 2:00 until 4:30 dancing in the recreation room will be to the music of the Pre-Flight school Pep Band. At the same time a university student will sketch portraits in the lounge. At 4:30 a social hour will take place in the lounge.

All girls who are USO junior hostesses must bring a picture and duplicate if they have not already done so in order to attend the dances from now on. Snapshots may be used.

Junior hostesses are also reminded that they must be at the dance by 7:30 unless they have special permission to be late.

Iowa's Hawks Open at Great Lakes Tomorrow

Forty Players To Make Trip

Sailors Top Hawks
14 lbs. Per Man,
Plus Experience

Ready for the first opener away from home since 1938, the Iowa football squad of 40 players this evening is scheduled to arrive in Chicago and tomorrow morning to move up to Great Lakes naval training station.

On Ross field at 2 p.m. tomorrow Hawkeyes and Sailors will kick-off. It will be the season's third game for Great Lakes' power-laden combination of three-year ex-college stars and former professionals.

Conceding about 14 pounds per man in weight and five and one-half years in age to the Sailors, the Iowans hope to make a game of it by a rugged defense and a fast and tricky attack, featuring forward passing. The Hawkeye youngsters, however, will have the handicap of inexperience, for only Liddy, Barbour, Frey, and Baughman ever played in a major game.

The Traveling Squad

Ends: Dave Danner, Co-Capt. Bill Barbour, Bob Ireland, Dan Sheehan, Joe Howard, Charles Burkett, Allen McCord.

Tackles: Harry Frey, Jim Cozad, Joe Grothus, Dean Yanausch, John Ford, John Leeper, Walter Yeager.

Guards: Stanley Mohrbacher, Co-Capt. Bob Liddy, Harry Waugh, Dick Martin, Don Murray, Keith Wallace.

Centers: Bill Baughman, Howard Fischer, Jim Ricker.

Quarterbacks: Bill Sangster, Daryl Annis, Tom Hughes, John Sangster, Bill Anderson.

Definite Difference Seen in '43 Series Between Top Teams

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The history books will say the same two teams, the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals, met two years in a row in the world series of 1942 and 1943. But actually the clubs in this year's classic are considerably different from last year.

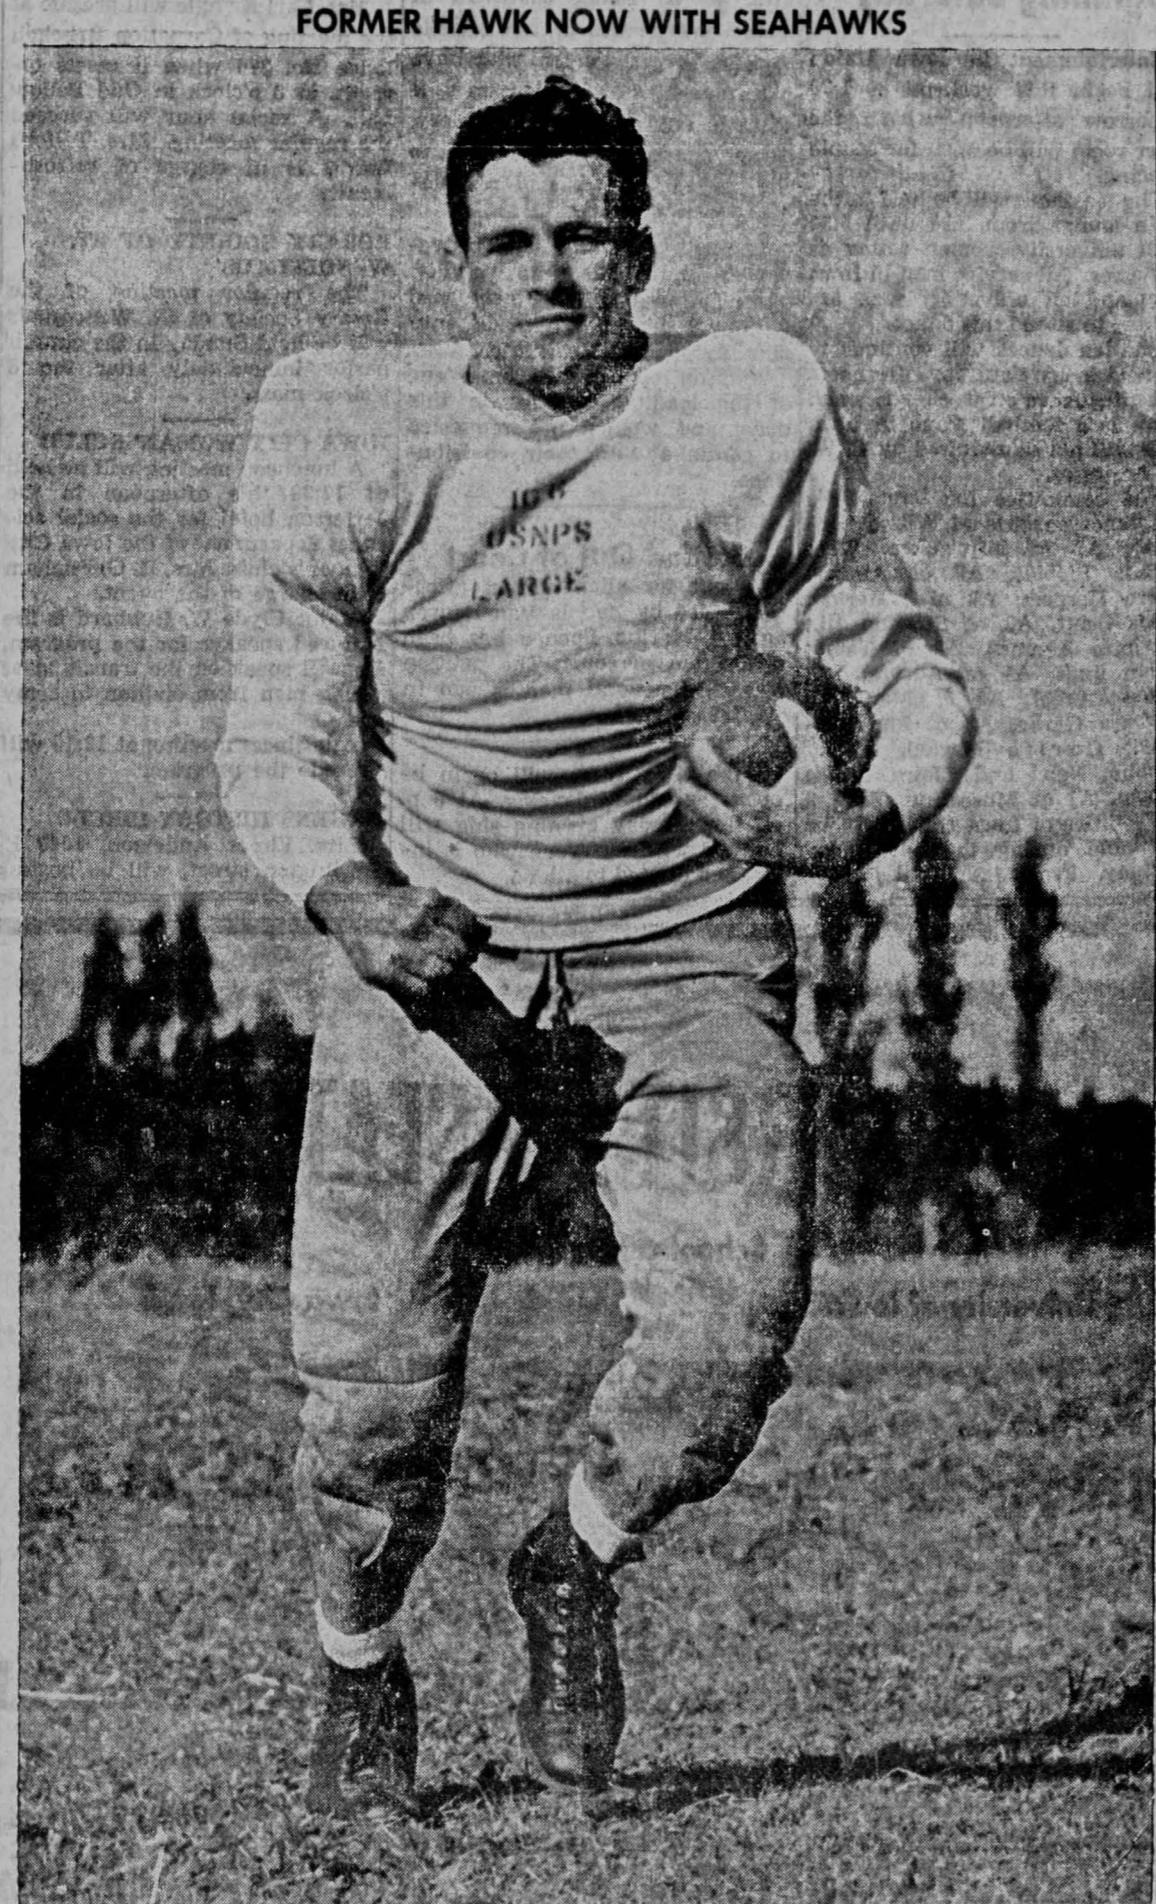

Excluding the batteries, the Yanks will have only one infielder and one outfielder from the array that represented New York in 1942 while the Cardinals will use but two infielders and one outfielder.

The Redbirds have lost, among others, pitcher Johnny Beazley, second baseman Jimmy Brown and outfielders Terry Moore and Enos (Country) Slaughter. But they have filled these vacancies so well that at times this year's team has appeared better than last year's. It may finish the season with the biggest pennant margin in modern National League history.

On the other hand, the Yankees, rated by past standards are not a good ball club and there is even some question whether they are the best of a bad lot in the American league right now. There is some sentiment that Washington, since adding Buck Newsom, John Niggeling and Harlon Clift, is a stronger outfit than the Yankees. In any case it is a fact that New York has not yet clinched the pennant although the end of the season is just a week and a half off.

The Yankees have lost pitcher Red Ruffing, infielders Buddy Hassett, Phil Rizzuto and Red Rolfe and outfielder Joe DiMaggio and have done well at taking up the slack left by all but DiMaggio and Rizzuto.

DiMaggio is one of the great outfielders of all time, yet to fill his shoes the Yanks do not even

FORMER HAWK NOW WITH SEAHAWKS

BUS MERTES, who formerly played at right halfback for the Iowa Hawkeyes, has earned himself a berth on the varsity Seahawk squad in the fullback position. It is believed that he will probably start against Ohio State's Buckeyes in one of the nation's outstanding games tomorrow afternoon. Mertes is an enlisted man at the Navy Pre-Flight school.

Pre-Flight Beahawks Meet Ottumwa Navy Air Station Team Here Sunday Afternoon

Lieuts. Lloyd Peterson and Tom Heardon, who help coach the Sea-hawks, will meet the Ottumwa Naval Air station in the Iowa stadium at 3 p.m. Sunday. This will be the first game to be played in the stadium this season.

The west side will be used for the spectators and admittance will be by the gate gates only. All cars must be parked outside of the pre-flight school area. Admission is free to everyone.

This game will be the second one of the week-end for the teams of the pre-flight school, as the Seahawks meet Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio, tomorrow afternoon.

Coaches for the Beahawks in their season's opener will be have a good journeyman ball player worthy of starting every day.

The deficit at shortstop is just as glaring. Frank Crosetti was a star himself in other years, but he had tired and grown dim. His hitting and his fielding have sagged together and he is no way resembles Rizzuto, who batted .381 in last year's series.

The Yankees have two qualities that make them formidable in the series—expert pitching and spasmodic power. They have hurlers capable of smothering the opposition and they have hitters like Charley Keller and Nick Ettori capable of blowing up a ball game at any point.

FRENCH, ITALIANS SEIZE CORSICAN CAPITAL, TRY TO OUST NAZIS

The extent to which this is going on indicates the enemy is determined to make the big port—one of the largest and best of peacetime harbors—completely useless to allied troops when they occupy it," the allied air force stated.

The port of Naples is the principal prize. Possession will greatly facilitate allied logistics. A great harbor close to the forward battlelines would simplify the problem of supply and reinforcement, allowing the largest transports and cargo carriers to unload at docks rather than have to ferry their loads to beaches in lighters and landing craft. Experience in north Africa showed that the most thorough demolitions failed to permanently knock out harbors. The thoroughness of the wrecking at Naples, however, quite likely will delay bringing the harbor into effective use.

Worse Than Tripoli

Aerial photographs showed the destruction of the Naples waterfront to be worse than were the German demolitions at Tripoli in north Africa.

"At least 30 Italian ships have been scuttled and sunk and practically every usable berth along the docks have been blocked" by Nazi demolitions, an official announcement said.

"Fires have been burning along the docks for several days, apparently the result of demolitions. Charges have been seen to explode among the docks."

The somber pictures also showed that the industrial area north of the docks had been wrecked. Railroad yards were demolished.

HOLDEN TITUS, LOCAL TIGHT WAD AND PENNY-PINCHER, PASSED OUT AT THE BANK AGAIN TODAY

Defendants in V.F.W. Conflict Request Hearing by State Board

Internal Dissension Over Beer Permit Continues to Rage

The conflict between two factions of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars was still raging last night when the 12 members who petitioned the city council Sept. 13, asking that renewal of a beer permit not be granted to the organization, requested that a "court martial" case against them be heard by a state V.F.W. board.

Rather than face a summary hearing and the decision of one judge in the local post, the defendants requested that their case be referred to the state board of 12 judges.

Defendants

The 12 men who signed the petition are John Fielding, Kite Knowing, John A. Lemons, Everett Williams, H. E. Benson, Clair Hamilton, Earl B. Weekes, Louis B. Crow, Louis Burke, W. O. Potter, Francis J. Boyle and James T. Gwynne.

The case cannot be heard immediately by the state board, because state officers of the V.F.W. are attending an encampment in New York.

The signatures of 53 men were attached to a petition submitted to the mayor and city council yesterday morning, urging that a beer permit, applied for Sept. 13, be granted to the local post. Their present license expired Wednesday.

Petition Submitted

The petition signed and presented yesterday morning stated in part:

"...that this request and application is made in confirmation of our previous formal action as an incorporated post and for the purpose of dispelling any doubts as to what the overwhelming majority of said post feel about the issuance of such a beer permit; we are abidingly satisfied that we have complied with all statutory requirements with reference to the issuance of such permit; and we further desire to inform you that this petition has been approved by an overwhelming majority of the bona fide members of said post at our regular meeting Sept. 16, 1943, and that it is fully authorized by said post."

Accompanying the request to the city council for approval of the beer license was a letter from E. R. Burham, Washington, Iowa, V.F.W. department judge advocate, acclaiming the past record of the local post and praising the work of Comdr. Charlie F. Smith. The letter had been written Sept. 4, before the application for a beer permit was made.

Boy Scouts to Deliver War Chest Materials To Leaders of Drive

The Boy Scouts of Iowa City will distribute materials for the war-community chest drive to business manager, University hospital department heads tomorrow and Monday of next week, George Davis, chairman of the committee, announced yesterday. These executives will serve as chairman, canvassing their own businesses or departments.

The materials include the card for the head of the firm or the university department, the pledge cards for the business itself and cards for all employees. The plan will follow that used last year.

University Museum Given Duiker Skin

The skin of a South African duiker has been received by Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of university museum. This contribution was made by Alfred M. Bailey, director of the Colorado museum in Denver, Colo.

The duiker, a tiny antelope, reaches adulthood when it becomes about the size of a jack rabbit. Its feet are so small that the tracks are not much larger than a dime.

This specimen will be mounted and placed with other African mammals in the museum.

NOTICE
The second try-out for freshman cheer-leaders will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock outside the theatre building. All those who were not there last Tuesday, please be present.

Fruit Preservation Home Canners Favor Kieffer Pears

Now that home canning is the homemaker's byword, ways of keeping and preserving fresh fruits are of utmost importance. One of the fruits now of interest to fruit specialists and home canners is the Kieffer pear, for which new methods of preserving have been found. You cannot store pears the way you do apples, but you can save your pear crop in several ways if you first understand the peculiarity of this variety of pear. Kieffer pears are hard when ready to be picked, and ripen gradually if stored at the right temperature.

"Pick the whole crop when pears begin to drop," is a sure rule to follow. A temperature between 60 and 65 degrees is best for ripening and at this temperature for two or three weeks they will be delicious to eat fresh, and just right for canning and preserves.

However, there is one way of preserving pears for two or three months. Put them into cold storage at 32 degrees, 60 to 90 days. Take them out and ripen at 65 degrees and they'll be as good as if they were ripened immediately. The pears will soften in about three-fourths the time it takes them to ripen after picking. In preparing the fruit for canning, core them, drop the pieces into slightly salted water to keep them from turning dark, (2 lbs. salt to a gallon of water), and be sure to remove all of the core. Any core cells remaining will give the fruit a gritty taste. The best part of the fruit is next to the skin.

Other ways of preserving pears are drying and pickling. For drying, sulphur the pears as you would apples. Since pears have a mild flavor, they can be worked in with other flavors for salad, fruit cups or sauce. Two ways of adding variety to pear canning are Cinnamon Pears, made with two or three tablespoons of "red hot" to each quart of syrup, or stick cinnamon and a few drops of red coloring, and Pineapple Pears, using pineapple juice instead of water for the syrup.

Mary Melton Asks Divorce from Husband

Mary Melton petitioned district court yesterday for a divorce from her husband, William R. Melton, on the charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married May 14, 1934.

Mrs. Melton asks the custody of their one child, support for the child, costs of the action, the attorney's fee, household goods, the automobile, and that she may resume her former name, Mary Clark.

Hillel Open House For Service Men To Be Held Sunday

The open house program for service men to be sponsored by the Hillel foundation will be held again Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Hillel lounge.

The program will include a lecture and demonstration on "The Role of Hypnosis in Personality Adjustment" to be given by Cadet Arthur Licht. Cadet Licht, who is stationed here in the army specialized training program, was formerly an instructor of psychology at Long Island university in New York City.

Music for dancing and refreshments for service men will be furnished.

SUI Graduate Given 2 Awards by WPB

Francis Pratt, University of Iowa graduate, has been given two awards by the war production board for the invention of a differential pressure gauge for testing secret electronic equipment which reduces the testing time per unit from four hours to 7½ minutes.

Pratt received the degree of bachelor of science in electrical engineering at the university in June, 1942. He was one of eight "idea men" in the nation to receive the WPB's certificate of production ideas, having previously won the award of individual production merit. Pratt is employed in the instrument laboratory of Stromberg-Carlson company, Rochester, N. Y.

Not only does the gauge save an amazing amount of time per unit, but it gives a more definite and conclusive test, eliminating duplicate handling of material.

The United States signal corps considers Pratt's development a most important contribution to the production of this secret equipment used on aircraft, especially as it is inexpensive in comparison to other methods." Prof. E. B. Kurtz, head of the electrical engineering department, said.

Dad's Day Program Activities Curtailed

The usual program of events that is held in connection with Dad's Day at the University of Iowa will not be scheduled this year, announced President Virgil M. Hancher in a letter sent to the fathers of 3,500 Iowa students.

Wartime difficulties are responsible for the curtailed Dad's Day program. The eight major events that have been a part of the program in past years will be omitted in the 1943 Dad's day. A. F. I., senior men's honorary society, has formerly taken charge of the program. Now, however, A. F. I. members are in service, and Iowa Union is not available for dinner or dance, it is explained.

The usual main event, the football game, will be held, however, and President Hancher, in his letter, stresses the fact that all fathers of students who are able to arrange transportation to Iowa City will be welcome. The Dad's day football game will begin at 2 p.m. Oct. 2, with Iowa playing Wisconsin.

W. J. Jackson is her lawyer.

'Stay-On' Spray Developed By Botanists

Botanists are contributing a vital part to the war effort in their development of a spray which enables shrubbery to retain foliage for a longer period of time, and thus eliminating the need for artificial camouflage.

Prof. Walter Loehwing, head of the botany department of the University of Iowa, explained that the new "stay-on" sprays prevent leaf fall.

"Artificial camouflage is easily discernible from the air by means of color filters and processed camera film. But the special spray retains the foliage and also the color of natural vegetation long after it has dried out as a cover over military installations," said Professor Loehwing.

The interview will give a complete story of the soldier from the time he comes in the army until he leaves.

Iowa Pupils Return For Army Program

Thirteen former civilian students of Iowa enrolled yesterday in the school of engineering under army regulation in the army specialized training program. The men will obtain further academic training pending their attendance in officers candidate school. Former members of the advanced R. O. T. C. unit, the men left school last year for basic training in the army.

Under the A. S. T. P. curriculum, they will take courses in civil, mechanical, chemical and electrical engineering.

Those who enrolled yesterday were Charles Wright, Uniontown, Penn.; John Engel, Bennett; Guy E. Clark, Cedar Rapids; George Keyes, International Falls, Minn.; Robert E. Van Dyke, Ft. Madison; Gerald B. Cox, Davenport; Robert Vannice, West Liberty; Richard Buckwalter, Iowa City; Charles McDonald, Chicago; David Freedman, Chelsea, Mass.; John Goetz, Riverside; John Latimer, Red Oak, and Jack Movold, International Falls, Minn.

The Rev. Bonaventure Schwinn and the Rev. Mark Merwick will direct the religious activities at the center. The new Catholic center will be ready for use in two or three months. After remodeling, the building will have a club room and a chapel on the first floor.

Third Student Forum Scheduled at WSU

"What of the Progress of the War in the Far East?" is the topic for discussion on the third University Student Forum presented over WSU at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

'Military Psychology'

By SUI Professor To Be Published Soon

Prof. Norman Meier of the psychology department received a telegram yesterday from Dorothy Thompson, editor of Harper and company publishing firm, informing him that his book "Military Psychology" has been passed by the United States office of censorship and will be published in a few weeks.

Professor Meier's book is concerned with the progress of the past twenty years of psychology. In a brief talk to the Rotary club yesterday noon, he gave a sketch of the types of subject matter in the new field of military psychology.

"As a democracy not interested in war," he commented, "we would have been at great disadvantage in mobilizing and training a huge army had it not been for the fact that psychologists have accumulated experiences and testing devices for the classification of men in industry, education, and other important fields."

Under the A. S. T. P. curriculum, they will take courses in civil, mechanical, chemical and electrical engineering.

Those who enrolled yesterday were Charles Wright, Uniontown, Penn.; John Engel, Bennett; Guy E. Clark, Cedar Rapids; George Keyes, International Falls, Minn.; Robert E. Van Dyke, Ft. Madison; Gerald B. Cox, Davenport; Robert Vannice, West Liberty; Richard Buckwalter, Iowa City; Charles McDonald, Chicago; David Freedman, Chelsea, Mass.; John Goetz, Riverside; John Latimer, Red Oak, and Jack Movold, International Falls, Minn.

The Rev. Bonaventure Schwinn and the Rev. Mark Merwick will direct the religious activities at the center. The new Catholic center will be ready for use in two or three months. After remodeling, the building will have a club room and a chapel on the first floor.

'War Has Touched Us Little,' Chaplain Says at Bond Rally

"The war has touched us very little as yet," said Andrew J. Boe, chaplain at the Schick hospital in Clinton at the American Heroes' day war bond rally in Iowa City yesterday afternoon.

Presented by the master of ceremonies, Prof. Walter F. Loehwing of the botany department, Colonel Boe carried on a discussion before the Johnson county honor roll with three heroes from the Schick hospital. Each told of his experiences in the southwest Pacific area.

Music before the rally, which began at 2 o'clock, was presented by the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight band, under the direction of Chief J. J. Courtney.

Teachers' Institute To Convene Monday

An all-day teachers' institute will be held at 8 a.m. Monday in the courthouse for all Johnson county teachers of one- and two-room schools, according to F. J. Snider, county superintendent of schools.

Olive Pearl Ritter of Iowa City and C. A. Fullerton of Iowa State Teachers college in Cedar Falls will be the instructors.

Teachers are asked to bring their song books.
