Capture of Air Bases Affords Greater Access to Axis Targets

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—The great Italian air base of Foggia and its 13 largely undamaged fields were captured Monday in a swift, 25-mile British armored lunge which increased the peril to German defenses of Naples, through which the American Fifth army advanced two to five miles.

Last night, Hitler's Balkan satellites lay at the mercy of allied air fleets which can strike from Foggia at Munich, the heart of Nazism; at Vienna, a key German aircraft center; and at the capitals of Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria. Conquered Greece, Yugoslavia and Albania also came under the shadow of allied air power, as well as all northern and central Italy and southeast Germany.

Britons of the Fifth army on the extreme left advanced two miles in bitter hand-to-hand fighting in the mountains northwest of Salerno and last night they could look down on the rail and road junction of Nocera, southeast of Vesuvius and 19 air-line miles from Naples.

Wheeler Urges Senate Block Father Draft

Drive Draft Dodgers, Slackers Into Open, Montana Senator Asks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) challenged the senate yesterday to drive "draft dodgers and slackers" from their "hiding places in government and industry" by blocking the induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, scheduled to start Friday.

Unless stopped, he declared, "the bureaucrats" in control of the government, will "drive American children into the streets while single men—mind you—remain at their desks in unessential jobs."

As the senate went through the first day of debate on Wheeler's bill, expected to continue at least through tomorrow, Senator Byrd (D-Va) announced that the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures would launch an investigation "within the next few days" looking to reduction of the government payroll by 300,000 employees.

Byrd Asks Investigation While Byrd said he would oppose any legislation interfering with draft plans of the military leaders, he declared "the time, however, is long overdue for a thorough investigation and overhauling of government personnel."

He said Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war manpower commission, had not responded to his Sept. 18 request for action, when the government "is the chief hoarder of manpower."

Every single agency of the federal government is overmanned," he asserted.

Galleries Crowded Galleries were so crowded that scores stood while Wheeler carried on what appeared to be a futile fight for passage of the bill to postpone father induction until Jan. 1.

Pointing dramatically to the spectators, including 84 children from a District of Columbia school, Wheeler shouted: "There are a lot of babies up in the gallery. Take their fathers away from them—send their mothers off to work—and see what happens to the American home!"

"What are we fighting for?" Administration spokesmen reiterated their confidence they would have sufficient votes to recommit the measure to the military committee. Only the decision as to when to administer the "death blow" remained to be made.

Meanwhile, two proposed amendments to Wheeler's bill were pending in the senate. It is on the basis of these "new developments" the administration probably will make its appeal to recommit the bill.

$10,000,000 in Bonds CHICAGO (AP)—Marshall Field III assumed possession of a fortune evaluated at between $70,000,000 and $75,000,000 yesterday—the 50th anniversary of his birth—and bought $10,000,000 worth of war bonds. The transactions were as simple as the amounts involved were sizeable.

The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, quoted a Rome dispatch as telling of a long address by Mussolini to his fellow-puppets in which he promised an early constitution for a kingless new state and threatened to punish those who had evicted and arrested him.

The Vichy radio listed decisions by Mussolini's new regime, saying that under them the senate, whose members were nominated by King Vittorio Emanuele, was dissolved; that all Italian fighting forces were "concentrated under the Fascist ministry of war"; that "existing syndicates are concentrated into a single one"; and that the investigation into the riches of old Fascist party members would continue, as would the probe into the records of all Italians who held public office in the last 30 years.

YUGOSLAVS CRACK NAZI DEFENSES

YUGOSLAV ARMY activities have turned the northern Italy-Yugoslavian area shown in the above map into a hornet's nest for the harassed Nazi forces garrisoned there. Yugoslav troops are reported to have penetrated Trieste, Italian Adriatic port, and to have begun shelling Fiume. Yugoslavs battling Germans along a 50-mile front, Ljubljana-Bistrica, are believed to have captured Idria. Montenegrin partisans, meanwhile, are reported to have seized Ucinj, Adriatic port far to the south. Many acts of sabotage, including destruction of railway facilities, are taking place in Banja Luka area.

Allies Sink Seven Jap Ships In Surprise Raid on Wewak

Destroy 60 Planes In Heavy Air Attack; Three Raiders Lost

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Wednesday (AP)—A surprise heavy air attack, lasting an hour and a half, on the Japanese shipping roadstead and airdrome at Wewak, New Guinea, Monday sank seven ships of a newly-arrived convoy and destroyed approximately 60 planes, 50 of them on the ground.

Three tankers were enveloped in flames and four merchantmen were blasted from mid-height, at a cost of only three raiders, today's communique said.

The raid by heavy and medium bombers, escorted by fighters, began at 9:30 a. m. and lasted until 11. The destruction in the area was so great, with smoke from the airdrome fires rising 2,000 feet, that headquarters said Wewak once again has been rendered impotent as an enemy operational base.

Eight Fighters Downed In addition to the 50 planes caught on the ground, eight out of 20 enemy fighters which intercepted weakly were shot down and three others probably were destroyed.

The raiders, attacking in a sector approximately 30 miles northwest of the present ground fighting zone on New Guinea, also destroyed 29 barges or luggers.

The total plane bag raised to more than 460 the number of enemy aircraft destroyed in the Wewak sector since mid-August.

In the tense ground battle for Finschhafen on New Guinea's Huon peninsula, Australian veteran troops have inflicted heavy casualties just north of the town between the base and the Bumli river. In that area, where the Aussies are within less than a mile of their objective, progress has been slowed up by prepared enemy positions.

Japs Raid Drysdale Mission Twenty-five Japanese planes raided northwestern Australia, the communique said, striking at Drysdale mission.

In the Solomons, the Japanese air force continued active in the vicinity of American-occupied Vella Lavella. An enemy force of 18 dive bombers and 20 fighters was intercepted and driven off by American fighter patrols which, without loss to themselves, shot down one Japanese fighter.

American torpedo and dive bombers, screened by fighters, attacked gun positions and the airdrome at Vila, on Kolombangara island which lies between Vella Lavella and American-held New Georgia.

RAF Blasts Industrial City Of Hannover

LONDON (AP)—Mixing its punches with the skill and power of a champion boxer, the RAF's great bomber fleet smashed the big German industrial center of Hannover Monday night for the second time within a week, quickly followed up Monday's Flying Fortress raid on the North sea port of Emden, and pounded the metal and machinery center of Brunswick.

The air ministry said that 38 of the big bombers were lost. Returning crewmen reported tremendous flames were eating through Hannover, which bore the brunt of the assault.

The night's operations carried a number of significant indications of the greatly expanded scope of the Britain-based air campaign against the Germans. Again the RAF switched its main objective hundreds of miles, keeping the Nazis scrambling to concentrate their thinly-strewn defensive forces where they are most needed.

Britain Must Maintain Present Full War Effort, Churchill Says LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told Britain yesterday that the nation's present full war effort must be maintained without a letup, through two more years if necessary, and he warned that apathy or a slackening of the pace of the British war machine would bring new dangers, "deadly in their character."

Churchill said that larger armies would be fighting and more powerful air forces would be striking at the heart of the enemy during the forthcoming year, and to this prophecy Labor Minister Ernest Bevin added that "it will be a tough go during this winter and early spring."

British Take Thirteen Airfields At Foggia in 25-Mile Thrust Endangering Nazis at Naples

Position of Marshall Causes Stir in Capital Nazis' Upper Dnieper Defenses Weaken as Reds Drive Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP)—The recent news reports (by International News service) that White House and the war department manifested deep concern yesterday over political implications read into reports that Gen. George C. Marshall is to get a new command.

From neither was there a denial that Marshall, the army chief of staff, is to be made global commander of American and British forces in the field. On that point, President Roosevelt told a news conference that he could say nothing about Marshall's status now or until the time was ripe.

But the displeasure over some of the reports having to do with the asserted motives for a change was made plain.

F. D. R. Reads Editorial I. Mr. Roosevelt read to his conference, and in effect endorsed, an editorial in the New York Herald Tribune which spoke of the "mixture of unauthenticated news, rumor, guesswork and innuendo" revolving around Marshall as a brilliant example of "how to obstruct the conduct of a war."

Members of the house military committee, addressing the house, quoted Marshall as appealing for an end to talk about political interference with the high command which he told them, they added, is not true and is "doing great harm to the war effort."

The house talks followed early morning conversations by members of the military committee with Marshall and with Secretary of War Stimson. Apparently they grew from last week's assertion by Representative Shafer (R-Mich) that the war department was threatened with conversion "into a new deal political WPA."

'Complete Harmony' Committee members told the house General Marshall assured them there is "complete harmony and cooperation" between the war department and the administration, and among the army's own high ranking generals.

"General Marshall called me at my residence this morning to express very deep regret and deep concern at some of the statements that have appeared," said Representative Thomason (D-Tex) ranking Democratic member of the military affairs committee.

"He said it was seriously affecting the war effort and authorized me and other members of the committee to quote him and to express the hope that such statements be not repeated. Because, as I said, they are doing great harm to the war effort."

Shafer later returned to the floor, and said he had "substantially the same information" as

Nazi Seize Italian Ship, Crew Scuttles Another WITH THE BADGLIO GOVERNMENT IN ITALY (Delayed) (AP)—Italian naval officers have announced that the liner Rex has fallen into the hands of the Germans at Trieste and that the Conte Di Savoia was scuttled by her crew at Venice.

These ships were the largest and fastest of the Italian merchant marine and formerly made the Genoa-Naples-New York run.

Newsman Describes—Italian Journey

By EDWARD KENNEDY WITH THE ALLIES AT TARANTO, Italy (Delayed) (AP)—A trip of several hundred miles from Salerno to the Adriatic coastal area shows southern Italy to be disorganized, somewhat battered and facing serious food and transportation problems.

I saw no evidence of starvation, however, nor even any serious cases of malnutrition. The population is friendly—all too friendly in fact and the majority feeling that they are now on the allied side and entitled to draw the full benefits from this happy state of affairs is making the occupation problems more rather than less difficult.

Few Railroads Running Railroads are not running except for a few stretches which the allied armies have re-opened for military purposes. Stores and most other public services are at a standstill.

Many thousands of Italian soldiers have broken ranks and clutter the roads as they walk toward their homes a hundred miles away, hoping to pick up something to eat each day.

The homes of many are in areas still under the German occupation. Two soldiers who made their way from Calabria to the Salerno area and then found the path to Turin blocked by the front, took jobs in a British supply depot.

Our trip was a slow one. Blown up bridges and other demolitions caused us to turn back and detour many times.

In the hamlet of Celso the word had spread that the Eighth army was approaching. The Eighth army's fame had reached even this mountain village and the townsfolk were out in their best clothes to welcome the triumphant force. They had baked a cake as a present.

We—three correspondents, a Welsh Guards officer and an American sergeant in a truck and trailer—were the only ones to show (See EYEWITNESS, page 5)

Enemy, Badly Mauled and Disorganized, Falls Back Into White Russia; Pursuers Take Another 1,000 Villages

By JAMES M. LONG LONDON, Wednesday (AP)—Red armies pursuing a badly mauled and disorganized enemy into White Russia captured more than 1,000 villages yesterday, putting the Gomel-Vitebsk railway within artillery range and threatening the early collapse of Germany's upper Dnieper line, Moscow disclosed early today.

A Soviet bulletin said German troops falling back on Vitebsk were blowing up bridges and dynamiting installations as the Russians closed in on that upper White Russian city, key to Poland and the Baltic states. The Red vanguard was believed to be only 10 miles away.

Two hundred miles to the south the Russians reached a point only 11 miles outside Gomel, junction of five railways, on the heels of a "disorganized enemy," the Soviet communique said.

Between Gomel and Vitebsk other units forced the Germans to abandon "one position after another," the communique said, in the race toward Mogilev and Orsha. In one sector on this front an entire Nazi regiment was flanked and routed.

Further south the Russians said their troops had surrounded Kremenchug, below Kiev, pinning axis remnants to the east bank of the Dnieper and either killing or capturing them.

Russian armies drawn up on the east bank opposite Kiev also consolidated their positions, said the bulletin, recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Berlin broadcasts still said the Russians were filtering across to the west bank near Kiev, and Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, Nazi military commentator, frankly recognized the peril to the German line in the north.

Altogether more than 1,100 villages were captured on all fronts during the day, the Russians said, and more than 3,500 of the fleeing enemy slain.

On the western tip of the Taman peninsula in the Caucasus, the Germans apparently were in headlong retreat across the Kerch strait to the Crimea.

The communique said airmen of the Soviet Black sea fleet had struck blows on concentrations of German troops there and "on enemy means of transport in the strait of Kerch."

The fall soon of the east bank city of Kremenchug also was foreshadowed in the bulletin, recorded by the Soviet monitor. One Soviet column attacking that bridgehead city frontally was ripping Nazi defenses within nine miles of the city; others had swept around it to the Dnieper on both sides.

Nazi Manpower Head In France Assassinated LONDON (AP)—The chief of the German manpower organization in France, Julius Ritter, has been assassinated, according to a Berlin broadcast recorded by Reuters, last night.

Several "terrorists" shot Ritter as he was leaving his home by automobile, the broadcast said, adding that Ritter was 50 years old, and was chief of the labor department at Nuremberg before going to France a year ago.

The general picture tonight in the south of Europe was this: A series of five or more islands in the Aegean confronting Greece were firmly in allied hands; Corsica on the western wing of the allied offensive, slowly rolling up from the south was substantially in allied control; the whole of the Yugoslav coastline was ripening for allied thrusts; and a base for allied airpower capable of reaching into the Balkans on a grand scale was in process of development at Foggia, the greatest prize for the Italian offensive since the Salerno bridgehead was secured.

Railroad Workers Reject Offer Of Tenth Of Their Pay Demands WASHINGTON (AP)—Spokesmen for the employees will not accept the recommendation.

Harry Fraser, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, said at the union's headquarters in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, that the proposal "is not in any sense of the word satisfactory."

He protested the board's action in limiting itself to the 15 percent total increase since January, 1941, allowed by the "little steel" formula, which he said was "completely out of harmony with changes in the cost of living."

He said the award ignored increased hazards, greater productivity, and inequities which he said resulted from "workers in comparable industries having received increases which place their wages out of line with the rail rate."

Nazis Seize Isle of Corfu

Adriatic Harbor City Of Split Also Falls To German Forces LONDON (AP)—The Germans announced yesterday that their southern European forces, already spread thin, had occupied the Greek island of Corfu in the Ionian sea opposite the heel of Italy and the Yugoslav harbor town of Split 300 miles to the north.

Both moves, perhaps bold in view of the weakening axis position in this part of Europe, apparently were made in an effort to strengthen the German Balkan flank against the new and grave menace arising from the allied capture of the big Italian air base of Foggia, only 150 miles from the already hotly-contested Yugoslav coast.

The Berlin radio said that Corfu was occupied after "an ultimatum to the Badoglio troops which held the island was refused." The Germans were said to have occupied the entire island and to have taken several thousand prisoners "after a short fight."

In announcing capture of Split, Berlin tacitly acknowledged the truth of a Yugoslav announcement of last week that Yugoslav forces had taken it.

The general picture tonight in the south of Europe was this: A series of five or more islands in the Aegean confronting Greece were firmly in allied hands; Corsica on the western wing of the allied offensive, slowly rolling up from the south was substantially in allied control; the whole of the Yugoslav coastline was ripening for allied thrusts; and a base for allied airpower capable of reaching into the Balkans on a grand scale was in process of development at Foggia, the greatest prize for the Italian offensive since the Salerno bridgehead was secured.

that will be apparent a decade hence.

Men of science tell of new type homes, automobiles which will only faintly resemble the car of today, ships of the air as safe as land transportation and almost as common as motor cars, homes having as necessities fixtures which today are regarded as luxuries. These changes are in the realm of science.

But there is another change which may be looked forward to with even more certainty than material improvements in homes and methods of transportation. This is in the community viewpoint. People will be informed of places which today are only names on a map. American fighting men are serving in practically all sections of the globe—throughout Africa, Asia, South America, the South Seas, Iceland, Alaska and Europe.

These men will remember their experiences in these formerly remote places. Americans will be much better informed of other lands and other races and undoubtedly many ideas formerly foreign to America will become common following the return of the fighting men.

The German Mind—

Except for his explicit terms of "peace," it turns out that the principal facts about the flight of Rudolf Hess to Scotland in the spring of 1941 were well covered in news dispatches at the time. Whether or not he flew to Britain on Hitler's orders, whether this was an individual undertaking or a concerted plot, the British government does not even now appear to know. Hess asserts it was his own idea, not Hitler's.

For the rest, main interest in this remarkable episode must reside in the proof once more given of the completeness with which the official German mind misjudges the temper of other peoples. Hess's proposition was that Hitler was bound to win, the British might as well give up. All that Britain had to do was to get rid of Prime Minister Churchill, return the colonies Germany lost in the last war, give Hitler a free hand in Europe and against Russia, and then Hitler would grant Britain a "free hand" within the British empire!

This was the man whom Hitler had named his Number Two successor, after Goering. There could be no sharper illustration of the issues this war presents and of the absolute need of pressing allied victories to the point of Germany's unconditional surrender.

It could be wished that Hess's thoughts were peculiar to the Nazi mentality. But his arrogant misjudgment of Britain is all too characteristic of the German habit of mind. The allies' problem of dealing with the Reich will not be solved when the Reich is defeated.

This morning's editorial remarked, "we're off on a huge inflation ride," and followed this up by saying, "It seems that everybody in the country wants ceiling prices except those who are responsible in seeing that such a ceiling is erected if we want it. We are already swinging into what can easily turn out to be the worst boom, followed by the worst depression, this nation has ever seen. How is it that the very people who'll have to suffer are the ones that are willing to lose their shirts while all the bickering goes on. Americans are without question the most adamant race on earth when it comes to being taken for rides, enjoying the rides, and repenting at leisure."

The university's freshman dormitory students were to be feted at the annual "Greenies Gumbo" dance to be held in the Iowa Memorial Union on the coming Saturday night. Members of the dormitory committee were: Ruth Summy, A4 of Des Moines, Currier, chairman; assisted by Clifford Nelson, C4 of Des Moines, Hillcrest, Deming Smith, L2 of Toledo, president of Quadrangle; and William Pinkston, C4 of Council Bluffs, president of Hillcrest.

Will Subsidies Reduce Food Costs?

As Debated by Hon. Emanuel Celler, Member of Congress, 10th District, New York

Dr. Alfred P. Haake, Nationally-known Industrial Economist, Author, Lecturer

CONGRESSMAN CELLER OPENS:

Inflation is the enemy that strikes at the heart of our economy. We can win victory on the battlefield and create disaster at home unless a long-range price control program is made effective. Carping critics of price roll-backs and subsidies fail to realize, subsidies are not new. Our government now pays about $700,000,000 a year to keep down canner prices of vegetables; pay rail charges on gasoline to the east and coal to New England; hold the line on imported goods through high tariffs; keep high-cost mines operating, and subsidies are paid manufacturers and producers of machinery, mahogany, sugar, wheat (for the alcohol program), vegetable oils and cocoa. We are all in this war together. We must give the boot to the grippers and "business-as-usual" bellyachers. Indiscriminate criticism is no help. The necessity for subsidies to maintain and increase essential production springs from logical thinking and indisputable facts. The OPA proposes to subsidize where the cost increases necessarily. That is one payment made, and there can be no increase upon an increase, ending inflationary prices. Every price increase, if not absorbed or subsidized, sets the stage for a dozen more. Runaway inflation and economic disaster are the tragic results.

DR. HAAKE CHALLENGES:

It is as impossible to answer the above statement in 100 words as it is to cure ten conflicting diseases with a single prescription—and for the same reason. If Mr. Celler were willing publicly to recognize the truth about inflation, he would strike at the cause and tax the excess from incomes under $5,000 a year which possess about 87 percent of the present excess purchasing power of the country. He would stop trying to hold down prices while letting costs go up. His subsidies are a pitiful substitute for the real remedy—and they do not hold down costs.

CONGRESSMAN CELLER REPLIES:

Yes, Dr. Haake, we are ill. We must examine the cure with indigent and healthy skepticism. Once, however, we determine the best cure, we must follow it with unwavering determination. The findings of congress have all pointed to no more effective and just method for stabilizing the cost of living than a roll-back of prices and subsidies. We need not hesitate in prescribing this cure—indeed we dare not! Great Britain and Canada, by subsidies, have held the cost of living line. Price control, of course, is a part of this plan. There's nothing pitiful about that—INFLATION would be.

DR. HAAKE OPENS:

Subsidies will not reduce food costs. At best, they constitute a bribe to the producer not to ask enough for his product to cover fully his costs, and in this way may prevent further increases in price to the ultimate consumer. But, even this does not mean an actual reduction in cost. At worst, subsidies lead to completion of growing Fascist government control of our economic life. An Americanized Hitler could slide in on a subsidy-greased bid for votes. The roll-back subsidies already in effect

Hats Off to Student Health—

Even though their education may go haywire, students at the University of Iowa can rest assured of one thing: their health need not go haywire, too.

The university's student health department is second to none. Because of the fact that the state's finest hospital is located in Iowa City, facilities are available to treat everything from sore throats to broken legs, and at a cost of only $1.50 per semester. (Excluding hospitalization charges.)

In its thirteenth annual report, published several days ago, the university department of health states that 31,167 students were examined and treated during the 1942-43 school year. This marks an increase of several hundred over the previous year. It also shows that students are becoming increasingly conscious of the necessity of maintaining a high standard of health during wartime.

A special pat on the back, then, to Dr. C. I. Miller, head of student health, and Dr. M. E. Barnes, director of the university department of health. They are doing an admirable job of keeping Iowa students in good "learning" condition.

War-Born Changes—

There is every indication that changes will continue to occur in this changing world in the period following the war. There has been considerable speculation as to the changes

Speculation Over Gen. Marshall—

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Some Say He Is Too Methodical

WASHINGTON—The Army and Navy Journal, which generally represents army viewpoint, although it is not government-owned, first presented to the public the suggestion that General Marshall, the chief of staff, might be boosted upstairs in charge of all the allied forces. Other newspapers later were inspired by an official source to join in the speculation, some attributing the proposed change to British dissatisfaction with war department cooperation.

Congressmen who know the situation were not much impressed with this explanation of the suggestion, because Marshall always has been popular with the British army leaders.

Othe unidentified government officials later joined in the prophecy that Marshall might be placed at least in charge of the European campaign, implying that he would handle the launching of what the Russians call the second front (although we are now already on fronts in Italy, the south Pacific, and Alaska).

The officially inspired stories seldom mentioned a successor, although unofficially Lieutenant General McNarney, deputy chief of staff, Lieutenant General McNair, in charge of training, and Lieutenant General Somervell, of services of supply, have been suggested.

The officially inspired press stories suggested that an announcement would be made at the president's press conference on Friday, but the conference was called off.

Marshall has many friends in

Washington and powerful support for retaining him in his present position. He gets along exceptionally well with congressmen. Both the house and senate military affairs committees like him, and most of them would not like to see him go.

The only criticism heard of Marshall by anyone here has come from advocates of brilliant and fast military action who consider his war strategy to be methodical. Instead of attempting amazing exploits, the whole American strategy in both the Atlantic and Pacific has been to bide its time until it could accumulate superior numbers and forces and then do the expected more often than the unexpected.

This is especially true of the course of the Mediterranean attack from Tunisia to Sicily to Italy, although the original Tunisian landing in the German rear could hardly be considered in this category.

The kind of military tactics that are good are those that are successful, whether they are methodical or dashing.

Appointment of a top over-all man to coordinate the activities in both the Atlantic and Pacific so that blows may be timed properly would seem to be a good idea. The time has come when some of the fleet can be released from the Mediterranean and the diminution of submarine warfare in the Atlantic should permit the concentration of additional vessels for the Pacific offensive which was promised as the primary announcement of the Quebec conference.

However the job may not be as big as the title, as strategy has been decided.

Generals McNair and McNarney are both what might be called old army men, while General Somervell was out of the army for some time particularly while he was in WPA work in New York, and is a friend of Harry Hopkins, the president's right hand man.

The choice of Somervell would be interpreted as an effort by Mr. Roosevelt to put his own man in charge there, and would not be popular with congress where Hopkins' friends do not have many friends, or at least a majority of them right now.

But, in view of all the factors involved, the course of events has indicated much speculation has gone awry, also that the president has not made up his mind what to do when the unofficial announcements were made in the press, or last Friday when the official announcement was due.

ATTACK! ATTACK! ATTACK!

America's attacking on both the fighting front and the home front today! We're giving the Axis a bitter taste of what it's like to come. We're fighting the inflationary 6th column that blows prices sky high here at home, too. And every one of us who saves at least 10% of his pay in War Bonds is an important soldier in the attack! Join the attack yourself!

Rehabilitating Europe's Scorched Earth

By JACK STINNETT

before the nation can even put in its crops. In the meantime, these people have to be fed if they are to be kept from starving.

Italy's chief native grain supply is in the Po valley, where the Nazis are sure to make a last ditch stand. Its factories are virtually useless without the million tons or so of coal they have been getting from Germany each year. They have no fuel oil.

When these problems are considered—and they will be equally great or greater in France, Greece, the Balkans, the Netherlands, Norway, Denmark and Poland—the magnitude of the job becomes apparent.

In food, it seems now that absolute minimum requirements will be far greater and the length of time before freed nations can help feed themselves far longer than the most pessimistic predictions previously.

All that united nations relief agencies are now shooting at is a minimum per capita subsistence level in freed areas of about 2,000 calories a day, one-third less than average daily consumption here. The problem is how to do it without cutting dangerously into our own requirements.

It is considered likely that the realities discovered in southern Italy will cause an overhaul of our now loosely integrated relief and rehabilitation program. As it is, not only Herbert R. Lehman's OFFRO, but more than half a dozen other agencies have their fingers in the pie, not to mention the combined food board and the British supply council. Any day now a central united nations coordinating agency may be set up.

'Mail Early' to Your Service Men

Yanks Overseas Welcome Anything From Home Especially Home-Town Newspapers

Christmas is really just around the corner when it comes to gifts for our armed forces overseas. Gifts for the army personnel overseas must be mailed during the period of Sept. 15 to Oct. 12. For the naval forces' cards and Christmas parcels you may wait as long as Nov. 1 to mail them.

This year the amount of "Yanks" overseas has increased considerably. So "Mail Early," and the earlier the better! By doing so you will help relieve the over-taxed transportation facilities as well as help the terrifically busy postal authorities and employees take care of the tremendous amount of gifts which are expected to be sent overseas for Christmas '43.

Package "Musts"
Gifts must not exceed 5 pounds in weight and may be shipped without a special request from the service man himself. Each gift should be endorsed, "Christmas Parcel," and must not exceed 15 inches in length nor 36 inches in length and girth combined. All packages must be wrapped securely, clearly and fully addressed.

Christmas Shopping
Certainly your man will love anything you send him, but why not send him what he wants most, especially when it's really easy? So choose a gift that he wants. At the top of the list of things he prefers are the following: Cigarettes, regulation socks and shirts, handkerchiefs, waterproof wristwatch, wallet or pocket letter case, stationery and writing equipment, pen and pencil set, sewing kits, shoeshine kits, moccasins or slippers to wear to and from the shower and for "off-duty" moments; regulation underwear, gloves, sheet music, records, pocket photo albums and other small leather accessories. Games and cards are welcome, too, as are Bibles and religious medals, brass polishing equipment and hangers.

The type of clothing sent abroad, however, should be geared by the locality of the outfit with which your serviceman is stationed. If he is up north, his regulation socks and shirts should be part wool. If he is out in the sun a good deal, a pair of sunglasses will be a gift he will cheer for and both officers and men in many branches of service are "all out" for this single item on the gift list.

Home-Town News
Anything from home is welcome windfall to boys in other lands. But books, magazines and regular copies of home-town newspapers are definitely in the "morale" bracket.

As for food, go easy. Good judgment is important especially in overseas packages. Even in domestic transport, cookies and crackers take a considerable beating, as does almost all candy, except hard candy. Jams and jellies are out!

No—we have not forgotten the girls in uniform! Just like the service man, they want practical gifts too! Here are a few of the gifts the girls should show particular affinities for: good stockings, slippers and moccasins to relax in, stationery, cigarettes, pen and pencil sets, wristwatch (waterproof and shockproof), clothes, brushes, hangers, gloves, beauty kit, toilet case, shirts, underwear, handkerchiefs and bathrobe.

WACs Like Clothes
Shirts, shoes, gloves, ties and underwear will be received with gratitude by the WAC for Government Issue leaves much to be desired. The navy, however, makes it impossible for civilians to purchase uniforms, caps, shirts, ties, handbags or coats for WAVES or SPARS. But you can send anything from slips to stationery to your favorite daughter of the regiment—or of the admiral, with full confidence that she will be pleased to receive them.

Identification bracelets of sterling silver are welcomed by both the men and women in service. There is sentimentality in an identification bracelet and he will wear it always—wherever he is, whatever he's doing. Everyone in uniform must wear, at all times, some sort of metal disk bearing his name, serial number and blood type. And although the regulation

Bridal Showers Fete Katherine C. Ruppert

Two pre-nuptial parties have been given in honor of Katherine C. Ruppert, daughter of Mrs. Katherine M. Ruppert, 1729 N. Dodge street. Miss Ruppert will become the bride of Staff Sgt. Eugene J. Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Hogan, formerly of Iowa City, Oct. 6 in Harlingen, Tex.

Virginia Shank of Oakdale complimented Miss Ruppert at a personal shower from 4 to 7 p. m. Sunday. Guests were Mrs. Donald Neider, Mrs. Ivan Goddard, Mrs. Katherine Ruppert, Rosamond Ruppert, Barbara McCann, Dorothy Shank and Mrs. Marion D. Shank, all of Iowa City. Refreshments and favors featured Miss Ruppert's colors, pink and blue. Guests spent the time in making a scrapbook of Miss Ruppert's life.

Feting Miss Ruppert Monday evening was Mrs. Donald Neider, who was hostess at a personal shower in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Swamer, 804 Ronalds street.

Those attending were Marilyn Swamer, Rosamond Ruppert, Mrs. Katherine Ruppert, Mrs. J. J. Swamer, Mrs. Lottie McPherson, Phyllis Signall, Margaret Proehl, Mrs. William Wright, Barbara McCann and Dorothy Shank. Guests autographed tea towels for the bride-to-be and wrote letters for her to read on the train.

"dog tag" is issued to wear around the neck, most servicemen prefer the bracelets.

But there is no more wonderful gift for servicemen than a faithful correspondent! That is a gift indeed, for it is truly giving—of time and of oneself, to remember to write often.

We are all eager to send gifts to our men in the fighting forces, so begin now and see to it that your serviceman is not forgotten this year.

IF AN APPLIANCE DOES NOT WORK

First ask yourself the questions listed below. You may be able to fix the appliance yourself. If not, call your appliance dealer. While he is in your home, have him check your other appliances, too.

Check These First:

- ★ Is your appliance connected? Does the plug fit outlet firmly? Will appliance work with another cord? The cord is often at fault, not the appliance.
- ★ Will other appliance work on outlet? If not, wiring is out of order.
- ★ Will appliance work on outlet on another circuit? If it does, there may be a blown out fuse.

Cooper Battered From Mound As Braves Take Opener, 6-5

Cards Score 100th Victory of Season; Win Nightcap, 7 to 1

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mort Cooper, the Cardinals' ace pitcher, was far from world series form yesterday and was battered from the mound by the Boston Braves in the first game of a doubleheader which the Braves won 6 to 5 in 13 innings. The Redbirds scored their 100th victory of the season by taking the nightcap 7 to 1.

Cooper lasted only five innings, giving up six hits, five bases on balls and four runs before Harry Brecheen relieved him.

Tommy Holmes singled with the bases full in the 13th to drive home a pair of scores and a Cardinal rally in the bottom of the 13th managed only one run.

Max Lanier was in top form in winning the afterpiece. He allowed only six hits and not a single walk. Marty Marion and Lou Klein each drove in three runs.

The Redbirds' 100th triumph gave them a total of 206 in two years, the highest for any National league team since the 1909-10 Chicago Cubs won 208. With only five games to go the Cardinals will be unable to top their 100 victories of last year or the all-time two-year total of 223 by the 1906-07 Cubs.

Germans Doing Own Thinking Now; Goebbels Has Tough Job

By JOHN COLBURN

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The German people, whose thoughts have been channeled along the lines of the swastika for ten years, are thinking for themselves today to such an extent as to give Nazi propagandists a huge job to overcome skepticism and defeatism.

Despite heavy penalties for listening regularly to hear reports from London, America, the united nations, radio Algiers and the mysterious "Atlantic radio," foreigners travelling through Germany are plying questions about when the war will be over, "What will they do with us?"

Nazi censorship still prohibits free expression of the people's thought, but observers get a picture of what they're thinking from what Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' propagandists tell them what not to think.

What do they think about victory?

"It was not difficult to believe in final victory when our armies overran Poland and France, but now, when victory, which was so near, has again moved away, one needs religious ardor to maintain this faith," said the German newspaper Volksgemeinschaft.

"We have this religious ardor this year but while we are writing these lines we know that Herr X feels miserable because he knows the United States' great material resources personally and no speech by Prof. Albert Speer, minister of munitions, can change his view that all our efforts will be merely child's play as soon as the Americans get down to business.

"Great strategist Herr Y tells us exactly about all our missed chances.

"Herr Z, whose views coincide strangely with certain sources of information, knows of revolution among the supreme Reich leadership.

"We know things better. We know this miserable lot doesn't represent the German nation, whose great majority is working hard. These people with unshakable faith have only a pitting smile for the phantoms of political sucklings who dream of a political naturchutpark for southern Germany's population or an Anglo-American protectorate on the Neckar river in the Rhineland because these smart boys from London and New York once were at Heidelberg."

How is the attitude toward Hitler and the German political situation in general?

The newspaper Der Fuehrer quoted a Nazi district leader as saying:

"The enemy's propaganda must be stopped by the party's work. The harder the war is, the harder we must become against all those betraying the fuehrer. Whoever helps undermine confidence in the fuehrer is a traitor and a rascal and must be exterminated."

And the attitude of the German soldier?

"The German soldier is not burdened by any doubts," said a German officer addressing workers at a large factory in Fuerth, the newspaper Westfaelische Nachrichten reported.

"Terror raids, however, make him pensive. Whoever has even a fair idea of our army's great deeds will know things do hold out until we have won and despise those who pick up and spread lies originating from the enemy."

Refugees declare the German people have lost their faith in Goebbels' controlled press and radio. Their reports were further discredited when the people learned the American Fifth army still was in Italy after Nazi propaganda had driven it into the sea at Salerno.

EYEWITNESS

up so they made a presentation speech and gave the cake to us. It was difficult to take it from people to whom that much flour and sugar meant a sacrifice, but it would have been even more difficult to refuse it. They cried "Evyiva L'Otava armata (Long live the Eighth army)" as we drove off.

In many other villages the populace was on the taking rather than the giving side, clamoring for cigarettes, food and anything else we had.

Jimmy

There was not a village, no matter how small, without at least one resident who'd been to America and spoke broken English. At Acquavella, a white-haired man said, "My name Jimmy Giordano. I work eight years copper mine, Butte, Montana, then I go to biggest copper mine in world, Anaconda. I got brother, Tony Giordano. He works on cattle ranch at Los Angeles. I no like Mussolini. Gee whiz, how I no like Mussolini!"

The wheat crop already had been harvested, hay and feed corn having been stored for the winter, and tomatoes, peppers, apples, melons and figs having been picked. The grapes hang heavily on the vines and the olives are ripening. There was considerable livestock to be seen. Almost every farm, even in bleak mountain areas, has a few chickens and a pig or two, while in the valleys cattle graze.

But in the larger towns the situation is more serious, due mainly to the paralysis in transportation which may take a long time to unravel.

William Loan, 69, Dies Here Of Exposure

William H. Loan, 69, retired farmer, 408 S. Dodge street, died in Mercy hospital yesterday afternoon after having been pinned under the wheel of his car about 9 hours Sunday. His death was attributed to exposure rather than to his injuries.

Mr. Loan, who was found in a field of the Riley Mead farm nine miles west of Iowa City, evidently had gotten out of the auto to open a gate when the auto moved forward, knocking him down. He was found by Mr. Mead about 7 o'clock Sunday night.

A farmer in the Iowa City vicinity all his life, he moved to Iowa City in 1927. Born in Pleasant Valley township February 25, 1874, he was the son of William and Sarah Loan. He attended the Iowa City Business academy and was married to Grace Morford in 1896. He was also a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Surviving Mr. Loan are his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Marie Jacobs, Des Moines, Mrs. Ethel Garrison, Baltimore, Md., and Edna of Cedar Rapids; five sons, William, Blairstown Iowa; Alden, Iowa City; Hazen, Tiffin; Roy, Albert Lea, Minn.; and Ellis second lieutenant in the air corps navigators school in Hondo, Texas, who flew to Iowa City last night, two sisters, Mrs. Sylvester Handley, Osceola, Mrs. Andrew Welsh, Des Moines, two half sisters, Grace and Gertrude, of Greenfield, and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending word from relatives. The body is at the Oathout funeral home.

War-Community Chest Head Suggests You Double '42 Donation

If contributors to the war-community chest cannot determine how much to give this year, Chairman George Davis suggests that they double the contributions made to the community chest last year.

The war-community chest drive, which opens in Iowa City Oct. 4, combines the community chest drive with solicitations for various war charities which were made separately last year. This will be the only annual drive other than that of the American Red Cross.

The goal for this year's drive in Johnson county is $47,000 and for Iowa City, $32,000. Residents of Iowa City will contribute to both the community and war chest; other persons in the county will give to the war chest alone.

THESE FLYING FORTRESSES ARE OVER BRENNER PASS

EN ROUTE to Regensburg, Germany, where they bombed the Messerschmitt Airplant factory there, these three Flying Fortresses are shown in flight far above the Brenner Pass, Alpine link between Germany and Italy. The curved white line seen far below is the Sill river. (International)

Davis Funeral Rites Set for Tomorrow

Farmers Will Need Local Aid to Finish Corn, Soybean Harvest

Local help is going to be desperately needed by many Johnson county farmers in order to complete their soybean harvest and corn husking, according to Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director.

Anyone who wishes to help farmers with late harvesting may contact the local farm bureau office in the postoffice. Women are as desirable as men and even help on Saturdays will be accepted, the office said.

The great shortage is due to the departure of about 4,000,000 farm workers into defense factories, the armed forces, and other urban areas within the past three years.

Iowa's Role in War Bound by Historians

Iowa's part in the present war is being officially recorded by a staff of workers at the State Historical society at the university, who have gathered nearly 200,000 clippings relating to every phase of the war at home and abroad. War posters, government documents and transcriptions of radio broadcasts are also being preserved.

The Historical society also binds and preserves 13 Iowa newspapers each year, to be of value for the historian in studying advertisements and news stories.

County Attorney Files Informations Against D and L Grill Owner

Illegal possession of gambling devices and of alcoholic liquor were the charges in two informations filed by County Attorney Edward F. Rate in district court yesterday against J. F. Fairbank, owner of the D/L grill, 10 S. Dubuque street.

City police entered the D/L grill Sept. 17 on a search warrant. The information states that a "numbering game with an element of chance attending its operation" was found on the premises.

The second information states that whiskey and gin with a greater alcoholic content than four percent by weight were also found, contrary to the provisions of the class B beer permit held at the time by Fairbank.

The beer permit was revoked the day after the raid by the city council.

Kiwianians Hear Prof. C. H. McCloy Talk On Physical Training in Armed Forces

The aim of physical training in the armed forces is to give men agility and endurance rather than speed, Prof. C. H. McCloy of the physical education department told the Kiwanis club, meeting yesterday at Hotel Jefferson.

"Physical training is important," he said, "insofar as it helps in teaching the men to destroy the enemy and return in as good shape as possible."

The abilities and conditions of the men entering the service vary from those of men who have sat at desks for many years to nationally-famed athletes, Professor McCloy said. The army and navy start the program to fit those at the very bottom of the scale.

Three Fields Professor McCloy pointed out that the physical training program of the armed forces is divided into three fields: development, maintenance and recreation. He emphasized the importance of the last in the airforce, especially, where fliers' nervous systems react after raids.

"The program of the ground forces varies from coast to coast," Professor McCloy reported. However, it is fundamentally one that was planned by Professor McCloy after tests on a cross section of men.

Training Problems The navy has a physical training problem because of the great numbers of men and the lack of facilities, especially on board ship, according to the speaker. Professor McCloy helped to work out a special program for men on ships.

"Exercising convalescent men is part of the army program," Professor McCloy said. "The experience of Great Britain has proved that men can be returned to their positions in one-third the usual time if they begin some exercise while still in bed."

Improved mental attitudes of injured men can be won with proper care, he declared. For this two-fold program, one man is being trained for every 100 convalescents.

"We're going to have more men who have had the experience of being in good physical condition than ever before," Professor McCloy concluded. "Communities will have to provide the facilities to preserve what we have worked so hard to attain."

Officer Qualifications Announced by WAC

Women who are college graduates and have a record of responsibility, resourcefulness and leadership in college may now apply for commissions in the women's army corps, the WAC headquarters has announced.

Officer-qualified women will go through basic training as officer candidates and then will be sent to officer candidate school for eight weeks, after which they will be commissioned as second lieutenants.

WAC officers serve as company commanders, teach basic training and courses in WAC specialist schools and administer the affairs of the WAC in training centers. They may work in public relations, personnel and recruiting, or serve as assistants to army officers at home or overseas.

WTS Trains Minds, Bodies

By MILLIE BUOY

Learning a "salty brogue" and building physical endurance is only one of the important tasks of an aviation cadet in the war training service at Iowa City. Besides acquiring military and physical training, the cadets are busy attending ground school courses and learning to fly.

"There is a definite reason for the physical training of an aviator," according to Lieut. (j.g.) George R. Cole, resident naval officer in charge of naval indoctrination. Lieutenant Cole explained that the cadets are taught to build their physical strength, keep relaxed and have strong endurance, which are important factors in becoming good pilots.

Lieutenant Cole, former football coach of the Arkansas Razorbacks, whose work is with the civil aeronautics association and the war training service, is in charge of physical and military training of the men. The cadets are given physical tests upon their arrival at Iowa City. During the final phases of their training, more tests are given to determine the improvement of each man. The program includes swimming, basketball, track, gymnastics, touch football and hikes.

The W.T.S. cadets in Iowa City are between the ages of 19 and 24. They have previously attended a pre-flight school, but this is their first taste of naval flying. The two other naval officers with the W.T.S. here are Lieut. (j.g.) Robert M. Ricketts, who is the resident naval aviator, and Ensign Terrel Vaughan, who serves as executive officer.

Lieutenant Cole was football coach at Arkansas for ten years. He graduated from the university at Fayetteville in 1928, after majoring in chemistry. During his years at college, he played quarterback on the Arkansas eleven.

The resident naval officer received his indoctrination training at Chapel Hill, N. C. He came to the Iowa Pre-Flight school last February, where he was in the mass exercise department. Lieutenant Cole has been with the war training service since June 28.

Lekin Gets 1-Year Term for Assault On Ingalls Swisher

Vincent Lekin, who assaulted Ingalls Swisher, local attorney, in the Linn Street tavern July 31, was sentenced yesterday to a year of hard labor at Ft. Madison penitentiary by District Judge H. D. Evans.

The action in the case came when Lekin changed his plea of not guilty to County Attorney Edward F. Rate's charge of assault with intent to maim, to a plea of guilty of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Lekin's sentence is the maximum penalty for the offense, and does not include the two months he has already spent in the county jail. The crime with which he was originally charged carries a five-year imprisonment as the maximum penalty, but Swisher made no objection in court when Lekin retendered the plea of guilty to the lesser offense.

Judge Evans offered Lekin $2,500 appeal bail bond.

Arthur Lester Connor, 615 S. Governor street, pleaded guilty in district court yesterday to the charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

He was fined $300 and the costs of the action by Judge Harold D. Evans and sentenced to 60 days in the county jail. His drivers license was revoked for 60 days. The entire jail sentence and one-half of the fine were suspended upon payment of $150.

Connor was arrested in Iowa City June 2.

A. L. Connor Fined $300 For Driving While Drunk

"I have seen them come down from the ships... they are puzzled... and homesick... the gap... when they did not come back..."

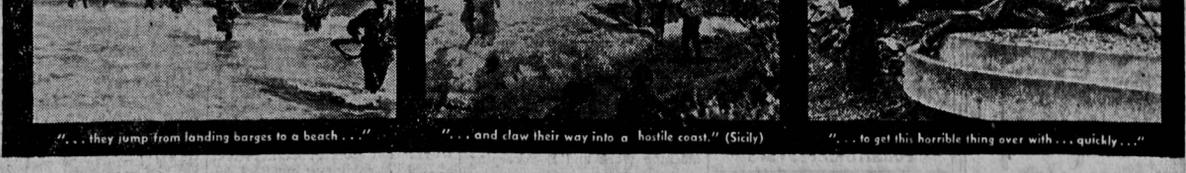

"I have seen the supplies come in by the hundred shiploads, locomotives and tanks and trucks—acres of boxed food and great mounds of hams, shiploads of bombs stacked in from keel to hatch and all materials that we need at home—steel for bridges and buildings, food for our own people, material enough to make all America well fed and well housed and well clothed."

"I have seen the men climb into the Fortress in the early morning and fly away waving with elaborate nonchalance and I have seen the gap in the mess when they did not come back and the empty bunks, the blankets thrown aside as they threw them, and the framed photographs on the steel lockers."

"The men have gone up the gangway again to go into action and they jump from landing barges to a beach, strewn with the bodies of their own people, and they claw their way like animals into a hostile coast."

"I have seen the hospitals with the mauled men, the legless and blind, the fingerless hands and the burned faces—all the destruction that steel and fire can do to a man's body and mind. In God's name, what is it for except to get this horrible thing over with as quickly and as thoroughly as possible? And if this is true, it should not be a matter of 'Who will lend his money?' but 'Who dares not to?'"

"... the destruction steel and fire can do... they jump from landing barges to a beach... and claw their way into a hostile coast... to get this horrible thing over with... quickly..."
