British Troops Trap Germans at Ermoli

Nazi Defense Slows Russians at Dnieper

LONDON, Tuesday (AP)—Russian airmen, apparently hammering the last German remnants fleeing from the Caucasus to the Crimea, sank six more barges carrying troops and supplies yesterday, while the Red army forced another river near Gomel and killed nearly 4,000 Germans amid bitter tank battles in White Russia, Moscow announced early today.

Yanks Destroy Boats Carrying Fleeing Japs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Tuesday (AP)—American warships intent on thwarting the enemy's apparent evacuation of Kolombangara island, intercepted 10 junks of gunboat-escorted barges in the Vella gulf the night of Oct. 1-2 and destroyed more than 40 of the craft.

One of the Japanese gunboats also was sent to the bottom under heavy shelling from surface units of Admiral William F. Halsey's south Pacific naval force, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The scene of the action, which was repeated the following night when further losses were inflicted upon the enemy, was in the narrow waters between American-held Vella Lavella island in the Solomons and the weakening Japanese position at Vila on Kolombangara to the south.

Indications were that the barges carried full loads of enemy troops. A spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters, however, said there was no immediate report on the probable number of soldiers annihilated in the two actions.

At the other extreme of the southwest Pacific battlefield, allied ground forces pushing up the Ramu river valley in northeastern New Guinea were reported to have crossed the Gusap river. The Gusap, a tributary, flows into the Ramu 20 miles northeast of the long-held allied airfield at Bena Bena, in interior New Guinea 90 miles northwest of Lae.

Off Buka, at the extreme northern end of the Solomon chain, navy Catalina patrol bombers bombed and damaged an enemy destroyer and a large transport or cargo ship.

150 Barges Sunk The destruction of the 40 barges off Vila brought to nearly 150 the number of such craft sunk or smashed in these waters since the first of September. Previously, however, the sinkings have been the work largely of airplanes and P-T motor torpedo boats.

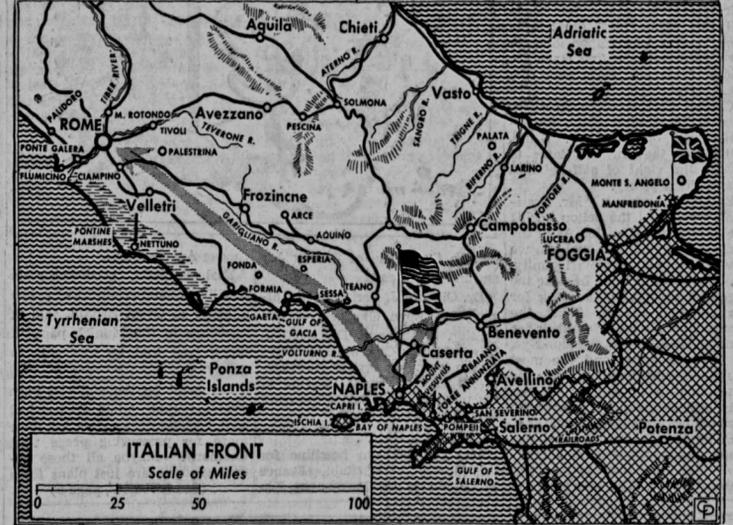

South Pacific headquarters have expressed belief that Japan is using the small boats to evacuate its beleaguered garrison at Vila and to supply the few holding forces still remaining there.

Vila, developed by the Japanese as an air base in the earlier stages of the Solomons campaign, once was manned by an estimated 10,000 enemy troops, but since American capture of surrounding Munda, Arundel and Vella Lavella islands, the Japanese position on Kolombangara has become virtually hopeless.

21 U.S. Soldiers Held In England Following Gun Fracas With M.P.s LONDON (AP)—As a result of a "shooting fracas with United States army military policemen" in Cornwall Sept. 28, 21 American soldiers are being held pending an investigation by the army provost marshal, the European theater of operations headquarters announced yesterday.

"Two wounded military policemen are still under treatment in a U. S. army hospital," the announcement added.

ALLIED ARMIES BEGIN MARCH ON GERMAN-HELD ROME

ALLIED ARMIES are marching on Rome, 135 miles north of Naples, where, President Roosevelt has announced, they will liberate the Pope and the eternal city from the Nazis. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's latest communique said the "successful advance" is continuing.

Allies Destroy 75 Nazi Planes

LONDON (AP)—American bombing and raiding operations yesterday against the important German industrial city of Frankfurt, other targets in western Germany and operations over the North sea resulted in the destruction of 75 Nazi planes, it was announced last night.

A joint communique issued by U. S. army headquarters and the British air ministry said the operations were carried out with the loss of 15 heavy bombers.

The Flying Fortresses that hammered Frankfurt arrived over that city only a few hours after RAF night raiders gutted Kassel with 1,680 tons of explosives hurled down at the rate of 56 tons per minute.

The Fortresses were guarded by long-range Thunderbolt fighter planes, which accounted for 19 of the total of enemy craft destroyed. The rest were blasted out of the sky by the Fortresses and the Liberators who participated in the North sea sweep.

In addition to the German targets, the Fortresses also blasted the enemy held airfield at St. Dizier, France.

U. S. Thunderbolts (P47s) supported the Fortresses in their penetration into enemy territory and withdrawal support was provided by squadrons of Spitfires. The day's operations were described as among the biggest yet carried out by the American Eighth air force.

Congress Gives Cool Reception To Administration's Tax Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration got a cool reception on Capitol hill yesterday as it presented a request for $10,500,000,000 in new taxes, including a 40 percent increase in the government's overall take from personal incomes.

Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, with the approval of President Roosevelt, also asked for sharp increases in levies on corporations and so-called luxuries, such as liquor and tobacco, and for new taxes on soft drinks and chewing gum.

Appearing before the tax-framing house ways and means committee, he proposed that the withholding levy on wages and salaries, now 20 percent of taxable income, be placed on a graduate basis to cover the gross earnings of all income brackets, with rates that might range from one percent for the small wage earner up to 90 percent for a person with a $1,000,000 salary.

Follow Liability Rates The withholding rates under the new plan would follow roughly the effective rates of tax liability and would vary according to size of income and marital status. Effect would be given to the exemptions by variations in the withholding rates.

The present 20 percent withholding levy, collected after family status deductions, is calculated to cover the tax obligation only through the first surtax bracket. Representative Robertson (D-Va) told Morgenthau the suggested tax increases actually would limit individual incomes to less than $25,000 a year, and Representative Knutson (R-Minn) declared the new taxes would come as a "crushing blow" to the taxpayers who have not received substantial wartime increases in earnings.

$50 Billion Income As outlined by the treasury secretary, the administration's program would increase federal annual revenues to almost $50,000,000,000—about one-third of the national income. It provides:

- 1. Individual income tax—raise $6,500,000,000 in addition to the present collection of about $16,000,000,000; reduce the personal exemption of married couples and heads of families from $1,200 to $1,100 and reduce the dependent credit from $350 to $300, the single person's exemption remaining at $500; repeal the 5 percent victory tax; and repeal the earned income credit. Repeal of the victory tax would relieve about 9,000,000 people of any income tax.
- 2. Corporation income taxes—increase surtax rates, the combined normal and surtax reaching a maximum of 50 percent as compared with the present maximum of 40 percent on corporations with income in excess of $50,000. Calculated to yield another $1,140,000,000.
- 3. Excise taxes—increase all along the line, and add soft drinks and chewing gum, bringing in an additional $2,290,000,000. A bottle of pop would be taxed one cent.
- 4. Estate and gift taxes—increase estate tax rates, reduce specific exemption from $60,000 to $40,000, and increase gift tax rates to three-quarters of the new and higher estate tax rates.
- 5. A post-war credit system, to apply primarily at the lower levels of income, by which $2,270,000,000 to $3,510,000,000 of the increased take from individuals would be refunded. Persons who have not had earnings increases of over 15 percent since Pearl Harbor could take the credit currently; others, after the war.

Badoglio Guarantees Democracy For Italy

By DANIEL DE LUCE ITALIAN HIGH COMMAND HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY (Delayed) (AP)—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio declared today that the new Italian government emphatically would be established on a democratic basis and asserted that "all former Fascist leaders will definitely be excluded."

In his first interview with allied newspapermen, the 72-year-old head of the temporary Italian government and commander in chief of Italian forces, revealed details of Benito Mussolini's fall from power. He said that when Fascism collapsed unbound rumors that Hitler had been assassinated swept "all the German soldiers in Rome into ecstasies of joy."

Declaring that the happy Nazi troopers "embraced people in the streets," Badoglio said: "They tore down photographs of the fuhrer in their barracks and scattered the bits in open places." Describing Fascism's final moments, Badoglio said that "Fascism, at the end, broke apart like a rotten apple."

He said also that Mussolini, apparently fearing the fury of the people, wrote a note thanking Badoglio for placing him in protective custody.

In a reference to the new Italian government, Badoglio said, "I will set about its constitution as soon as practically possible." He declared that as proof of Fascism's failure to exert a hold upon the Italian people "not the slightest resistance to the change was met even from any of the 7,000,000 belonging to the Fascist party proper." He added, "the morning after the announcement (of Mussolini's fall) not a single person even any longer wore the fallen regime's insignia."

Postwar Boom In Planes Seen

NEW YORK (AP)—Aircraft production will rank among the first five top American industries after the war, even though it contracts to a $2,000,000,000 a year business from its present war fatness, it was predicted yesterday.

Until the outbreak of World War II, the manufacture of airplanes did not even rank among the first 40 big industries.

Long-term perspectives of air transportation exceed those of the motor car, A. W. Zelom, of the International Statistical Bureau, Inc., said yesterday in summing up the foregoing statements.

"The problems of the aircraft industry when the war ends are so apparent that there is a tendency to be blinded to the great, though more distant, possibilities of the business," Zelom said.

"The first reaction, of course, will be a sharp decline in production. This will be reflected immediately in employment in the industry, since the war-time earnings of the producing companies are not great enough to carry the inflated payrolls for more than a short time."

Allies Make Landings Behind Enemy Lines As 8th Army Gains

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS (AP)—The allied offensive rolled forward along the entire Italian front yesterday, with landings from the Adriatic sea 17 miles behind the enemy's lines enabling the British Eighth army to make a spectacular gain in the face of stiffening German resistance.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's amphibious operation—the same type of "leap-frogging" advance that proved highly successful in earlier campaigns in Africa, Sicily and Calabria—trapped an undisclosed number of Nazi troops and clinched positions at Ermoli, almost midway between the Italian heel and the mouth of the river Po in northern Italy. Desperate German counterattacks failed to drive the British veterans back into the sea.

Fighting through a steady rain, American troops of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army pushed forward from Benevento, 32 miles northeast of Naples, to force an important crossing over the Calore river and last night were in position to outflank any defense line the Nazis might attempt to establish along the Volturno river, of which the Calore is a tributary.

British armored patrols thrusting northward from Naples engaged in brisk clashes with the retreating enemy, but there yet was nothing to indicate that the Germans intend to fight anything more than a rearguard action in that area.

(The Berlin radio reported that a sharp clash occurred at Giuliano, only five miles north of Naples, and declared that an allied vanguard was repulsed after hard fighting. It said German forces were taking up new positions between Naples and Rome, but gave no hint of the location of the new line.)

While the rain as well as enemy delaying action and demolitions slowed the assault above Naples, the weather improved sufficiently for American bombers to resume their blasting of Nazi communication.

The air attack was directed primarily against bridges and highways around Capua, Terni and Mignano, in the area between Naples and Rome where the Nazis have concentrated their transport both to supply their fighting troops and to withdraw heavy equipment from the path of the allied advance.

American Mitchells destroyed a high bridge northeast of Isernia, wrecked an important road intersection and destroyed four enemy craft. Two waves of Mustangs also knocked out the Capua road bridge across the Volturno after long columns of enemy troops and supplies had been observed crossing it.

The Eighth army's landing at Termoli confronted the Germans with a new threat to their left flank. Fifty miles north of the great air base of Foggia, the port is at the sea head of a good lateral highway that runs inland to connect with a main north-south trunk line running up over the Apennine mountains to Rome.

Termoli is about 215 miles up the coast from Otranto on the Italian heel and 190 miles south of Rimini, where the Po plains begin. It is along the historic path of conquerors toward the Emilia way, which leads to the Po valley in northern Italy.

Fall of Bastia Ends Conquest of Corsica

ALGIERS (AP)—Allied forces fashioned another spearhead at Adolf Hitler yesterday with the fall of Bastia in the northeastern corner of Corsica, virtually completing conquest of the island.

Moroccan mountain warriors—the Goumiers—entered the city, the chief commercial city of the Napoleonic isle, at 10 a. m., the French announced, following a devastating artillery bombardment from the hills which sent shells plunging into munitions stores and the boats in which the Germans were trying to escape.

While the shellfire was splintering the boats and setting huge fires, the pig-tailed Moroccans employed their sharpshooting skill to chase the Germans out of Bastia, three miles southwest of the port, and then pursued the enemy to the beaches.

Danish Patriots Sabotage Nazis In Homeland

Barracks, Factories, Power Stations Blasted By Renewed Sabotage

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Danish patriots blasted German troop barracks, two power stations and two war material factories in a renewed sabotage campaign yesterday which provided a militant answer to Germany's attempted purge of the 10,000 Jews in Denmark.

The Free Danish press service here said one of the heaviest bombs ever used by saboteurs wrecked the important power station at Broenderslev in the Jutland area. Another station at Nibe was damaged, and explosions wrecked portions of a troop barracks at Loekken on the Skagerrak coast of Jutland where large contingents of Nazi troops are assigned to guard against a possible allied invasion.

Other damage was caused by saboteurs to a factory at Hilleboed, producing wheels and tires for German armored vehicles, and to a machine factory manufacturing war materials near Copenhagen.

Nazis Blame Jews While the Germans blamed the Jews for the sabotage and gave that as one reason for the purge, Danish refugees said the roundup of the Jews instead of halting efforts to hamper the war effort would add new impetus to the Danish opposition.

Danish soldiers who were released from the internment in which they had been held since their militant uprising against the Nazis Aug. 29, have refused to sign statements pledging themselves not to aid opposition groups. The Germans had sought to arrange the lease as a propaganda move to counteract the Jewish action.

Gestapo Continues Purge The German Gestapo, meanwhile, relentlessly continued a purge of Denmark's Jews, extending a house-to-house search all along the Danish coast from Copenhagen north to Helsingoer.

Reports from Malmoe, on the south coast of Sweden opposite Denmark, said that the Nazis were trying to run down Jews hiding along the coast for an opportunity to escape across the narrow sound to Sweden.

Growing Navy To Need Dads

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration, seeking a crushing defeat for the Wheeler bill to stop drafting pre-war fathers, pictured expanding navy needs yesterday as meaning that next year these men may be called on heavily for service.

Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip, opening the formal senate attack on a bill by Senator Wheeler (D, Mont.) to postpone father inductions until Jan. 1, told questioners: "I don't think there is a reasonable hope that the navy's needs can be met without taking additional fathers during the first six months of 1944."

Japanese Soldier's Diary Tells Stark, Gruesome Story Of Samurai-Style Beheading of Captured U.S. Airman

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Tuesday (AP)—The Japanese beheading of a captured American airman was disclosed in all its stark details today as General MacArthur's headquarters made public a diary captured from a Japanese soldier at Salamaua, New Guinea.

The execution, carried out according to the "samurai" code of the Japanese, occurred last March. Verbatim translations of extracts of the diary, dated March 29, said: "We all assembled at headquarters where one of the crew of a Douglas shot down by anti-aircraft March 18 was brought under guard."

had been decided to execute him and he was to be accorded a samurai's death. "We were assembled to witness the execution. The prisoner was given a drink of water outside the guard house. The chief surgeon, Lieutenant Komai and a platoon commander bearing a sword came from the officers' mess. "The time has come. The prisoner of war totters forward with his arms tied. His hair is cut close. "Feel he suspects what is afoot, but he is more composed than I thought he would be. Without more ado he is put on a truck and taken to the place of execution. "Prisoner Seems Prepared "I glance at the prisoner and he seems prepared. He gazes at the grass, now at the mountains and sea. "At the execution ground Lieut-

Editorially Speaking...

By Jim Zabel

Victory in Three Months?

Former Frivol Editor Jim Roach, now an ensign in the navy, writes:

"I'm betting the Germans are out within three months... They're going to have to retreat up the boot, they're going to need anti-invasion divisions on the NW coast and to do all that they'll have to pull troops off the Russian front which is already moving westward like fire..."

Too many people are thinking the same thing, Jim, and they're going to be badly disillusioned by next spring. Undersecretary of War Bob Patterson said a couple of days ago that "our recent victories have failed to affect in any vital degree the strength of the enemy" and "make it plain that we have a long way to go before this war is won."

Maj. Gen. George Strong, chief of military intelligence, said not long ago that the "Germans now have three times as many combat divisions as they had at the time of the invasion of Poland... and they will wage a desperate, bloody struggle to stave off outright defeat."

There you have it. The Germans are still a tough, tenacious foe, and chances are that we will still be inching our way to European victory next spring and summer.

There is something strangely ironic about the Russian offensive. It is saving our necks, and yet we are worried about the Reds getting to Berlin first.

I don't think there is much danger of our boys having to draw straws with Stalin's to see which army will march down Unter den Linden first. Germany will collapse before the outskirts of Berlin are reached by any allied army.

But there are many, many months between this day and that for Anglo-American leaders to meet with Stalin and decide things peaceably... more things, I hope, than parade formations.

If Joe Stalin dissolved his designs on Europe along with the Comintern, then there should be no difficulty. If he didn't, then God help Henry Luce's dream of American supremacy after the war.

Voice from the Underground: In reporting an allied air raid on Norway sometime back, the German propaganda ministry declared, "Only a pig was hit." To which the Norwegian underground paper answered, "And after four days the pig is still burning."

The most outstanding effect the war has had on feminine students, I think, is that it has made them more marriage conscious than ever before in American history. College has become a secondary thing to many of them... a kind of "waiting station."

If they study at all it is mainly because the university requires a certain grade point for graduation. It is not war psychology that has bogged them down... it is old-maid psychology.

I asked a girl the other day why she was so worried about the whole thing... "Because I read somewhere that there are going to be over 500,000 old maids after the war, and I don't intend to be one of them!" she replied.

In this concise fashion she informed me of what the average American college girl is thinking about these days. Throughout the whole English language there exists to them no more horrible group of words than these: "I am 20, I am not married, I am bound to be an old maid."

Now there is nothing essentially strange or wrong about girls wanting to get married.

News Behind the News How Can the Average Man Live on 60 Percent?

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—How the average man will be able to pay a 30 percent withholding tax, put the customary 10 percent into government bonds, and live on 60 percent of his earnings or less, is the main stumbling block to the tax problem which the treasury is pushing off upon congress.

In some instances, as with government workers, an additional five percent goes to retirement, meaning that a single worker earning $50 a week would have to pay out $18.90 a week in taxes and live on $31.10 (allowing for the $12 a week basic withholding tax exemption.)

Wages have gone up, it is true. The official estimate of average weekly earnings (war labor board) is up 10.7 percent from September 1942 to May 1943. But the cost of living is officially calculated to have increased 6.2 percent in the same period.

National statistics never accurately portrayed anything more than a cold generalization. Most people think the cost of living, for instance, is up much more than the official estimate, which is weighted perhaps with many things they do not buy and cannot get these days.

Also, the wages of many war worker groups are up much more than 10.7 percent while those of professional, clerical and white collar classes are probably not increased that much.

But officialdom says there is approximately $50,000,000,000 of surplus money in circulation in the United States, and it wants to reach that reservoir of funds. The money, of course, is being spent, is in banks, business and pocketbooks. There is no taxation method by which it can be extracted directly, because of the unevenness of its distribution.

In the face of this situation, it is obvious that the treasury tax program will be viewed in congress as a rather theoretical ambition. No one there thinks anything like $10,000,000,000 more in money can be raised. It is likely that the bill if finally enacted, will be less than half of the requested amount.

There is one way in which a large amount of new money could be brought in, from the surplus cash reservoir, but it has not much backing. This method, of course, is the sales tax.

Mr. Roosevelt has always shared the common liberal viewpoint that such a tax lays more heavily on the poor than the rich. The fact is it now would catch those who have the money and are spending it.

In normal times, the liberal argument has a better foundation, but, in these days when the surplus money is largely in the hands of war workers, the liberal position seems to me to be antiquated. However, in view of Mr. Roosevelt's opposition, it cannot be enacted.

Clearly, the present income, corporation and excise taxes are near the workable endurance limit. You read and hear some liberal and union claims continually that corporations are making big war profits, but here again the national average is somewhat misleading. The big war producers like United States Steel, General Motors and others are making less.

Contract renegotiation is cutting still further into war plants income. The national over-all figure is bulged by such sensational increases as those of the railroads, for instance, which are making more money than ever in history. Consequently, it would not be surprising if congress failed in the end to enact any tax bill at all.

Taxes and War Bonds — A reader has written me protesting my column urging that government bonds are the best investment obtainable by the average man in these times. He complains that citizens will have to pay the interest in taxes on the bonds they buy, and, therefore, are merely paying themselves.

Right, he is. But all the more reason for buying the bonds. This complaining reader will pay taxes anyway, but will never get any interest return from the government. The program will thus cost him money for not having participated in it.

But today, for the first time in history, they have a chance to learn, to prepare for war jobs, and good business jobs—fields that were not open to them a few years back—and still do a lot of worthwhile waiting.

George Haskell described the ultimate of this kind of drifting through education in a rather neat phrase several years ago: "Men will be expected to earn more and more so the women can spend more and more to do less and less."

V-12 Program Qualifying Test Will Be Nov. 9

Army, Navy Program Includes Men Between Ages of 17-21 Inclusive

The second qualifying test for the army specialized training program and the navy V-12 program, which will be given throughout the country Nov. 9, will be administered at the University of Iowa, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday.

A general information pamphlet containing an admission-identification form may be obtained at the office of student affairs in Old Capitol. This form, properly filled out, will admit to the test students between the ages of 17 and 21, inclusive, who are recent high school graduates or who will graduate by March 1, 1944. Those wishing to take the test should inform the office of student affairs immediately in order that the necessary test supplies may be ordered.

Aptitude Examination

The same examination will be taken by both the army and navy candidates. The examination is designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge required for the program of college training. Each candidate will be given a choice of service preference at the time of the test, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

The A. S. T. P. and the navy college program enable students to continue academic training at government expense, following induction into the armed services. Successful completion of the prescribed courses may, following further officers training, lead to a commission in the army or the navy.

Men selected for the army will be sent to college, after they have received further screening and basic military training. Students chosen for the navy program will be detailed directly to college, after selection by the office of naval officer procurement. Those who attend college under either of the programs will be under military discipline and on active duty in uniform with pay. All expenses, including tuition, food, housing, books and uniforms will be paid by the army or navy.

Prof. E. F. Lundquist

The first qualifying test was given to over 300,000 high school and college students last April. Many of the students are in college on one of these programs. Prof. E. F. Lundquist of the college of education at the university is regional director for the army and navy college programs.

Major fields of study for the A. S. T. P. trainees include: aeronautics, chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, personal psychology, foreign area and language study; veterinary medicine; surveying; internal combustion engines; communications and optics and military and physical training.

The army qualifying test for civilians, given each spring and fall, makes it possible for men to become earmarked for the A. S. T. P. in advance. Those who receive satisfactory scores are instructed to present their qualifying notice to army authorities after induction. An unsatisfactory score on the sheet does not exclude a candidate from being considered for the A. S. T. P. After induction, the army general classification test serves as a further opportunity for eligibility.

Navy Program

The purpose of the navy program is to provide officers for the navy, marine corps and coast guard. Courses are open for the following types of officer candidates: deck officer, medical corps, general engineering, civil engineering, construction corps, engineer specialist, aerology, supply corps and chaplain corps.

The qualification test takes two hours, and is divided into three parts. The first part tests knowledge of the meaning and use of words; the second asks questions about scientific matters which are of general knowledge; the third section consists of a number of problems in mathematics. The examination is designed to measure the aptitude and general knowledge required for success in college programs.

National Needlework Guild Week Celebrated By Local Group's Eleventh Annual Meeting

In cooperation with National Needlework guild week, to be held Oct. 10 to 16, the local branch of the Needlework Guild of America will hold its 11th annual gathering in the community room of the Iowa City Press-Citizen building from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m.

President of the local group is Mrs. H. J. Thornton. Other officers include Mrs. Henry Fisk, vice-president; Mrs. Graham Bradley, secretary; and Mrs. T. M. Rehder, treasurer.

Membership in the guild is open to anyone who contributes money or two new duplicate garments. One money member to every director is needed, but more than one is desirable.

The plan of organization is simple and non-sectarian. A directorship entails the task of collecting the contributions of 11 other members and turning them in at the time of the in-gathering. The Needlework guild is concentrating on aid to the families of soldiers at present and is responding to emergency calls and cooperating with other war and community services. A need has been expressed for infants wear of all kinds—boys' and girls' underwear, stockings, trousers, shirts, blouses, sweaters, mittens, dresses, coats, overalls, pajamas and snow-suits—for towels, washcloths and sheets and for men's and women's undergarments. Directors are beginning their collections now.

The late Sarah Cochran, mother of Prof. Grace Cochran of Iowa City, organized the Iowa City guild in 1933. She is an honorary president of the organization.

The national Needlework guild was founded 58 years ago by seven young girls in Philadelphia. There are now hundreds of branches all over the country and over a million members enrolled. The idea was conceived by an aunt of one of the founders while in England in 1885. Many little children were orphaned by a mine disaster in Wales and taken to an institution in which Lady Wolverton of Dorsetshire was interested. She asked friends to contribute two garments for each child so that when one was dirty the child would know that there was a clean one waiting for him.

The name was given to the organization by Lady Wolverton and meant that the work was done by hand on the clothes. With the exception of this motive, the idea was adopted by the American guild.

Local 'Bundles for Britain' Chapter Honored

Award Given for 3 Year's Outstanding Work In Providing Necessities for Allies

In acknowledgement of its outstanding work during the last three years, the local chapter of Bundles for Britain was recently awarded a certificate and plaque by national headquarters. The honor was presented "in grateful recognition of unusual achievements in their years of volunteer service devoted to providing war comforts and necessities for our ally, Great Britain."

Organized in September, 1940, the Iowa City branch has since made notable contributions in donations for hospital and medical supplies, hand-sewn articles, knitted items and used clothing collections.

A total of $4,908.55 has been sent to the national headquarters in New York for the purchase of hospital and medical supplies. This amount includes $296.76 raised by the medical groups at the University hospital on Armistice day, 1940, which money purchased operating instruments.

Hand-Sewn Articles

Mrs. Winifred T. Root's report on hand-sewn clothing totals 1,541 hospital garments and 216 children's garments contributed. Dr. E. D. Plass' committee at University hospital made 438 dozen baby diapers, while the group headed by Mrs. Rollin Perkins furnished 51 comforters and 14 blankets in addition to several shawls and afghans.

A sum of $1,025.89 raised for yarn resulted in the completion of 1,516 knitted garments, including sweaters, seaboot stockings, socks, mittens, scarves, helmets, chest protectors and wristlets.

The group headed by Mrs. Charles Kennet and Mrs. J. G. Sentinella made possible the shipping of 9,445 pounds or 4 1/2 tons of used clothing from Iowa City. Men's, women's, boys' and children's garments were included. Also shipped from here were 11 coats.

Silver Tea Proceeds

The Bundles for Britain silver tea held Sept. 26 in the home of Dean and Mrs. F. M. Dawson netted $97.75, which sum will be turned over to George Davis, chairman of the local war chest-community chest committee for the national war fund drive. In charge of arrangements for the tea were Mrs. B. J. Lambert, Mrs. Charles Kennet, Mrs. Vance Morton and Mrs. J. G. Sentinella.

In cooperation with the war fund drive, the local branch will solicit no money during the month of October and November. However, it will continue to collect used clothing. Contributions may be made by contacting the Bundles for Britain office, room 216 Iowa State Bank and Trust building, open daily from 9:30 until 11:30 a. m.

Transcribed Speech Of Floyd E. Brooker Heard at Conference

"Responsibilities of Executives and Administrators for the Wider Use of Audio-Visual Materials" was the subject of a transcribed speech recorded by Floyd E. Brooker of the United States office of education, and presented Saturday morning to the 29th annual conference on administration and supervision.

In the first section of his speech, Brooker discussed the reasons for the wider use of audio-visual aids in present day education. Speaking of the necessity for success and speed in the training of our armed forces, he said the nation has used every tool available, and audio-visual aid has become one of the most important methods of teaching. It cannot replace instructors or textbooks, but it can do much to supplement their work.

"We must stop digging foundations with picks and shovels when steam shovels are available," said Brooker.

The next section of Brooker's speech was devoted to a discussion of why the wider use of audio-visual aids are the responsibility of the school executive.

Brooker also described what methods a school administrator can use to obtain better and wider use of audio-visual aids. First, he can appoint some individual in every school who will be responsible for the audio-visual materials and administration. This person should work in close conjunction with the curriculum department in order to make instruction better and easier.

Second, a definite allocation should be made in the budget of funds for audio-visual aid materials. Films should not be used merely because they are free, and are of no value in education. A fund is an added necessity if producers are to make films in the field of education.

Third, Brooker suggested that it is the responsibility of the school administrator to educate his community in the use of audio-visual aids, and make them conscious of the fact that there are films on educational subjects as well as those which are released by Hollywood.

Brooker concluded with the statement that audio-visual aid can speed up education, but that more experimentation needs to be done for wider and better use of visual aids.

McGregor Points Out 'Leadership Problems' In Industry' in Speech

The similarity of the relationship of a child to his father and an industrial worker to his superior is a principle which should be given more stress in dealing with today's industrial problems, Douglas McGregor of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology observed in a graduate lecture on "Leadership Problems in Industry," Saturday morning in Old Capitol.

McGregor, a director of industrial relations at M. I. T., pointed out that there is a definite psychological problem in dealing with workers in industry.

"A subordinate worker needs to feel free and relaxed while working. He depends upon the attitude of approval of his superior, and wants to advance and gain an amount of independence at his work," McGregor observed. This can be accomplished by having understanding superiors who are consistent in their demands, and by consulting workers and informing them of changes within the plant.

Yankees Again Meet Cards In 1943 Event

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals, still carrying vivid memories of their thrilling struggle last year, will tangle again today in one of the greatest toss-ups in the 40-year history of the world series.

Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, firmly established as the season's outstanding pitcher in the major leagues, was named to take the mound for the New York Yankees against lefty Max Lanier in the opening game.

A crowd of 70,000, jamming Yankee stadium to capacity, was in prospect for the first contest, which will start at 1:30 this afternoon (EWT) and determined fans began lining up around the big concrete bowl last night for the 28,000 unreserved seats which will be placed on sale when the gates open tomorrow morning.

The pitching choices of the rival managers, Billy Southworth of St. Louis and Joe McCarthy of New York, carried no surprises and failed to change the betting odds which make the Yankees favorites both for the opening game and to take the series.

However, the pointed up the principal issue between the two pennant winners—namely, whether the Cardinals can curb the Yankees' potent punch with lefthand pitching.

Lanier won 15 games and lost seven during the regular season and his ability to cope with critical assignments by beating the Brooklyn Dodgers five out of six times as St. Louis swept its second consecutive National league championship.

In the series last year he appeared twice in relief and received credit for the Redbirds' victory in the fourth game after Mort Cooper had been knocked out.

His success in the opening game probably will govern Southworth's pitching plans for the entire series. The fiery little leader of the Cardinals has three other southpaws on his staff—Alpha Brazle, a rookie who came up from the Coast league in mid-July and has since won 8 and lost 2, Ernie White, who shut out the Yanks in 1942 but now is bothered by a sore arm; and Harry Breechen, a well-rated freshman who became ill over the week-end.

Besides this group Southworth has several righthanders of varying ability headed by big Mort Cooper, who has won 21 games and lost eight. Cooper opened the series for the Cardinals last year, but was passed over this time because the Yankees hammered him hard twice in the 1942 series and because he has complained of a sore arm recently. There is no question, though, that he will get another chance at the Bombers, perhaps in the second game.

Chandler has won 20 games and lost four and compiled a spectacularly low earned run average of 1.67 for each nine innings. He, too, has failed twice in previous world series, first against the Dodgers in 1941 and against the Cardinals last year. But both times he has pitched good ball and his loss a year ago was in the face of White's shutout.

For this reason no one has any doubt about Chandler providing a well-pitched game in the opener and he is almost certain to come back once and perhaps twice later in the series.

The Yanks also have an array of talented pitchers ready for the other games—Ernie Bonham, Hank Borow, Charley Wensloff and lefty Marius Russo among them.

Thus New York appears assured of good pitching right down the line and this fact has been sufficient to warrant the Yankees, in the series for the seventh time in eight years, being made the favorites.

On the other hand the Yankees this year are not as good a ball club as the Yankees who won the Cardinals defeated a year ago while St. Louis has shown itself just about as strong. Even with a wave of minor ailments in the last week the Cardinals were able to conclude the season with a six-game winning streak.

Over the season the Cardinals have topped the Yankees in every department of play except home runs and stolen bases. They lead in total games won, in batting percentage, in runs scored, runs batted in, triples, doubles, etc., and have shown themselves vastly superior defensively.

As a result the series shapes up as Yankee pitching and power against the Cardinals' speed and all-around skill. It was the same

Football Fills Vacant Spot Left by Series

Traveling Conditions Cause Short Halt In Diamond Classic

By HAROLD CLAASEN
NEW YORK (AP)—War-time travel conditions made necessary a two-day halt in the world series for the coming weekend and football stepped into the vacancy by offering two of its choice morsels—Notre Dame at Michigan and Duke at Navy.

Outcome of those two battles will have definite bearings on the mythical national leadership, the Irish having moved front and center by mauling Georgia Tech Saturday, 55 to 13. Michigan, meanwhile was measuring Northwestern, 21 to 7; Duke blanked the North Carolina Pre-Flight, 42 to 0; and Navy all but chased Cornell out of the Baltimore stadium, 46 to 7.

Only slightly behind the top four in the nation's football limelight marched Purdue, which stopped Illinois, 40 to 21; Army, which mastered Colgate, 42 to 0; Louisiana State, Southwestern university, Memphis Naval, Southern California and Pennsylvania.

Louisiana State, again sparked by 200-pound Steve Van Buren, upset Rice, 20 to 7, after having downed Georgia the previous Saturday; Pennsylvania found that Yale was no puzzle, 41 to 7; the coast Trojans made an early touchdown stand up for a 7 to 0 verdict over California and Southwestern, manned by a collection of all-stars sent to the little school by the navy, trimmed Texas university, 14 to 7.

Memphis Naval, coached by Lieut. Dennis Myers whose 1942 Boston college club turned in some high early season scores, crushed a fair Tulane outfit, 41 to 7.

With the early season games having established the favorites, Saturday's games went closer to form except in Princeton's relatively easy time with Columbia, 26 to 7, and Minnesota's massacre of Nebraska, 54 to 0.

Tucked in among the scores was Harvard's 7 to 0 verdict over Camp Edwards, the first of the school's informal games; and the College of Pacific's 19 to 7 conquest of UCLA, last year's Pacific coast champion. The winning team is coached by Amos A. Stagg, patriarch of the coaching fraternity.

Except for the two topflight games, the coming weekend's program hardly rises above mediocre except for Southern California's tussle with St. Mary's Pre-Flight, winner by a 48 to 0 tally over Pleasanton Naval personnel distribution center Sunday night.

Other bookings have Dartmouth at Pennsylvania, Temple at Army, Georgia Tech taking on the Georgia Pre-Flighters, Great Lakes en-situation last year and this writer, for one, still picks the Cardinals to repeat.

Coach Drills Hawks In Error Correction Before Next Game

Quarterback Stewart Not Able to Play Because of Injury

John Stewart, regular Hawkeye quarterback, was out with an injury yesterday as Coach Slip Madigan started preparations for the home game with the Navy Pre-Flight Seahawks next Saturday.

Stewart sprained an ankle in the Wisconsin game. Bob Liddy, Iowa co-captain, suffered a bruised left arm last Saturday but was out for practice again yesterday afternoon. Coach Madigan said that Stewart, however, will be unable to play this week.

Replacements to be prepared include Bill Sangster and Tommy Hughes, quarterbacks; and Harry Waugh and Donald Murray, guards. The shortage of guards is especially acute, what with the loss of Gerald Pepper and Tom Hand, and with Bob Arzberger still sidelined after illness.

Undismayed by the 7-5 loss to Wisconsin, Madigan is working on correction of mistakes which cost Iowa the first conference game, mistakes largely of a mechanical nature and caused by the inexperience of the players.

Faulty selection of plays and eight fumbles, four of which were recovered by Wisconsin, were chief Iowa troubles. The Hawkeyes were their own worst enemy, as their miscues stopped several promising drives.

Dale Thompson, halfback, is the leading ground-gainer for two games, with 74 yards in 16 trials for 4.6 average. Paul Glasener is second with 34 in 16.

Hawkeyes trail in most of the composite statistics such as points, 12-28; first downs, 13-24; net yards rushing, 135 to 370; net yards passing, 216 on 11 completions in 32 trials to 252 on 18 completes in 37 attempts.

Punting average is about even, 33.2 to 33.3 yards; and Hawks lost only 47 yards in 7 penalties to foes' 90 in 10. In the fumble department, however, Iowa has lost the ball five times in ten bobbles, to opponents' 3 in 6.

The ascension of Notre Dame into top position marks the first time this season that Michigan is not held that place. Also, it is significant in view of the Notre Dame-Michigan game being scheduled for this coming weekend. The game will be close—very close, unless one team or the other is badly overrated. Each will probably unveil some new tricks which it has not used as yet, and the game may prove to be a high-scoring, wide-open affair.

The Iowa Hawkeyes, although they dropped a close thriller to Wisconsin Saturday, proved that they have an amazingly strong defense, especially when they are fighting with their backs against the wall. The team's blocking was visibly improved, and if this improvement continues, Iowa may be fielding a very strong team toward the end of the season, although it seems too much to hope that the Hawkeyes will be able to down the power of the Seahawks this week.

Midwest Status
How the Midwest stacks up in the national football picture is shown by the following list of the top ten teams of the Midwest, with each team's rating in the nation shown in parenthesis.

Seahawks Go Back to Work In Preparation for Hawkeyes

Cadets Strengthen Offense, Defense for Iowa Game

Wasting little time between a steam-roller victory over the Iowa State Cyclones last Saturday by a score of 33-13, the Seahawks went back to work yesterday to strengthen even more their offense and defense for the all-Iowa City game between Iowa and the pre-flighters.

Although highly pleased with the demonstration of power and speed which the Seahawks produced at Ames this past weekend in smothering the Cyclones, Lieut. Don Faurot, head coach, said there is plenty to worry about in the game this coming Saturday, since, in his opinion, the Hawkeyes showed an amazingly strong defense against Wisconsin, had plenty of fight and will subject the Seahawks to "an acid test."

"As far as experience is concerned," Lieut. Faurot said, "there is little difference between the Seahawks and the Hawkeyes. Iowa can claim some experience in its line, while most of our season's talent is in the backfield."

Functioning of the navy line in holding the Cyclones to two touchdowns and only six first downs was the principal source of satisfaction to the Seahawk mentor. Only a few of the pre-flight linemen played college ball and yet this relatively green line came through with the outstanding team performance of the game. Lieut. Faurot pointed to this fact and to the achievements of the backfield in hitting pay dirt four times and gaining 16 first downs as proof that his all-cadet squad can be developed into a "good football aggregation," if not a great one.

Without their officer teammates the Seahawk cadets gained 384 yards by rushing against 184 for the Cyclones. Principal figure in the amassing of this yardage total was Frank Maznicki, phantom back who raced into the end zone for three of the Seahawks' four touchdowns tallies. Maznicki was aided and abetted in his plunging by the cadet forward wall, superb blocking and screening, and Cadets Dick Kieppe and Jimmy Smith and Bus Mertes.

In addition to the fulfillment of these gridders' promise two backs heretofore overshadowed in the Seahawks' first two games broke into the limelight at Ames and made the late minutes of the con-

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—The old professor, a year older and a year dumber, peered over his glasses, both empty as his Monday morning class of football coaches filed in for the first meeting of the semester.

Old Professor—Welcome back, gentlemen. I trust you had a pleasant summer. Mr. Medley, you seem happy.

R. M. Medley, Southwestern (Texas) university—we have a fine team, thanks to the excellent coaching many of the boys received under Southwest conference coaches. Mr. Bible lost, and yet he won.

D. X. Bible, Texas—You can't score if you don't get in offensive territory. We got there just once, and scored.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan—I'm scared, too.

Old Professor—He said scored, not scared.

Crisler—Just the same, I'm scared. Scared about Notre Dame. Northwestern played fine ball against us and if that freshman Schwall continues to look as good against other opponents as he did against us, he'll be a lot of help.

Old Professor—Mr. Alexander, what are you whispering to Mr. Leahy?

Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech—I was just telling him what a great team he has, Professor. They certainly traveled against us.

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame—I realize we're not that much better than Tech, Professor. It had a long trip and the boys were tired. I'd be happy except for the thought we have to play that great Michigan team Saturday.

Old Professor—You and Mr. Crisler must go around wearing white sheets and saying "boo" to each other, you're both so scared. Mr. Cravath, is that a ticket you have there?

Jeff Cravath, U.S.C.—Yes, sir, and good as new. Our tickets came up several times against California, but we couldn't punch them. The loss of our regular left guard and center weakened us. Our ends, Ralph Heywood and Pete MacPhail, were standouts, and Art Honegger and Bill Joslyn were a little bit of all right for the Bears.

Stub Allison, California—U.S.C. has good balance, and was better offensively than us. Heywood's punting for them was a big factor.

Old Professor—Mr. Moore, what is sweet?

Bernie Moore, L.S.U.—Revenge. I was particularly glad to take our game with Rice after the trimming they gave us last year. It was a fine game and we showed improvement over last week's play.

Jess Neely, Rice—Louisiana State was a bit too fast for us. However, I was pleased at the game our boys put up.

Old Professor—What time is it, anyway? My watch isn't running.

Carl Snavely, Cornell—Don't mention running. After seeing those Navy boys run I'm glad I wasn't in the game myself. We were just outclassed.

John E. (Bill) Welch, Navy—Cornell lacked replacements which made a big difference between two teams whose starting elevens were rather evenly matched. It is just such teams as Cornell this year, that play although lacking the material they usually have, which really keep the game going. It is to their everlasting credit that they come out and play as hard a game as they did.

Old Professor—Well spoken, my friend. And now I see it is time for lunch. Anybody got a quarter that isn't working? I'll see you next week. Good day, gentlemen.

The petition states that the defendant was negligent in furnishing the horse, because the horse was "unfit and unsuitable for hiring as a riding horse."

Chief Clark Lists Precautions I.C. Should Take Against Fire

"The fire department is ready, as always, to come with immediate help should a fire break out any place in Iowa City," Fire Chief J. J. Clark said yesterday afternoon. "But the war has imposed a strain on our department as well as on all other phases of civilian life," he pointed out.

This week, Iowa City is joining the rest of the nation in the observance of Fire Prevention week. Chief Clark remarked that Iowa Citizens could help considerably by eliminating the causes of fires right in their own homes or places of business.

Chief Clark suggests that everyone:

1. Check all electric wiring for poor connections and worn insulation, noting the condition of the fuse box and fuses.
2. Put all matches in metal containers away from stoves and the reach of children.
3. Be particularly careful with cigars and cigarettes when smoking, being sure to extinguish the lighted remains.
4. Clean all buildings from basement to attic, being sure that all rubbish has been destroyed or put in containers and properly labeled. Oily rags should be kept in metal cans, and all refuse should be burned in an incinerator away from buildings.
5. Check all chimneys and flues for cracks and soot. Be especially careful of stoves and hot pipes near woodwork or other inflammable materials, such as drapes, papers, or rugs.
6. Put all volatile liquids, such as gasoline, naphtha, benzene and kerosene in properly labeled cans, and keep them away from open flames or places of excessive heat.

Applicants must be at least 17 years old and will be given a written test.

The commission also announced that the closing date to enter applications as social scientists,

'Hope Thou in God'—Sermon Of the Week

—Rev. James Waery

With hands being joined around the world in love and Holy communion, the Congregational church was one of the many to celebrate world-wide communion Sunday, with the meditation sermon by the Rev. James E. Waery. "Hope Thou in God," was the scripture admonition the Rev. Mr. Waery gave in beginning his sermon on the many rays of hope still alive today.

It is doubtful whether there is a city, town, or hamlet anywhere where some persons did not meet to cross all prejudice barriers and meet in communion service, "the memorial of our Lord," the minister said.

Chaplains in cold shacks of Alaska and Iceland; in the Aleutians on the shadows of bomber wings, such services were conducted. Even prisoners of war had the opportunity to take part. Some met in secret to keep this service. Even in Germany in remnants of the Christian churches men are forgetting race and creed and color to strengthen the faith that is symbolized. "This is a real ray of hope," said the Rev. Mr. Waery.

"Even men who are worldly-wise say we need a unifying measure for distance means so little today. Cuba today is 10 minutes wide," the Congregationalists were told, "and the Atlantic ocean only seven hours." The strength of something as great as God's uniting presence is necessary to build true hope.

The Rev. Mr. Waery described an incident occurring last July when 11 Norwegians were taken from the prison to be executed. One man spoke some words to the German soldiers and a teacher began to sing "Safe and a Strong-

T. C. He has been in the marine corps for eight years.

Johnson County Tops War Drive by 78,000

The third war loan drive totaled $1,941,000 for Johnson county according to the last report received yesterday. This is $78,000 over the $1,863,000 quota. Lone Tree was the highest among the other towns in the county, with $128,042 sold. Swisher was second with $102,250, while Solon reported $74,712. In Hills $65,072 in war bonds and stamps were sold, and Oxford totaled $20,599.

hold is Our God." Some of the Germans wept while others drank wine copiously to give them necessary bitterness.

"Our greatest ray of hope, however, lies in the realization of a great faith in the velocity of life." Some people forget there is a first half to the commandment "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Putting into practice "Thou shalt love thy God with all thy heart and soul and mind" would make the world a more adequate place in which to live. God has a plan revealed through Jesus, who serves as the prototype for successful living.

Finally, the Rev. Mr. Waery reminded his audience that the promise of faith and right living comes through hoping in God, filling the universe with his teachings and working a life pattern from there.

A Historic Landmark—The Kirkwood Home

—Built by Governor

By ROSE ERICSON

Among the historic homes of Iowa City is the plain, nine-room frame house at 1101 Kirkwood avenue owned by Prof. E. W. Chittenden of the mathematics department.

The house was built in the 1860's by Iowa's famous Civil war governor, Samuel J. Kirkwood. It is here that he entertained leaders of business and political thought, and where he received word in 1866 that he had been elected to the senate of the United States.

Within the severely plain exterior of the Kirkwood home dwelt a mental giant with great talent and leadership. The New York Tribune once said of one of his speeches, "By universal consent it is pronounced a gem of legal and political oratory."

Famous Iowan

Kirkwood was perhaps more famous than any other man in Iowa for more than 50 years. In congress he was a great leader for 20 years. He was three times elected governor of Iowa.

At the request of President Garfield, in 1881 he resigned as United States senator to become secretary of the interior. When Garfield died in 1882, Kirkwood retired to his home in Iowa City.

Ten years after his resignation, "Uncle Sam and Aunt Jane," as the Kirkwoods were known to their neighbors, answered a knock at their door one day to find 40 old friends there to pay a surprise call. Among them were some of the most prominent business and political leaders of the state and nation.

Kirkwood Complimented Toastmaster of this unusual reception was Chief Justice C. C. Cole of the state supreme court, who complimented Kirkwood on his long and useful life.

Kirkwood died at his home here in 1894, and "Aunt Jane" lived 27 years longer in the plain comfortable home on the outskirts of town. She died five months before her 100th birthday.

Eighteen years ago, the house was bought by Prof. and Mrs. Chittenden, who have made their home there since that time. The main structure of the dwelling is almost exactly as it was when Kirkwood lived in it, except for the addition of a vestibule and a
