2nd Coal Strike Looms

About 25,000 Miners Walk Out Of Pits in Wildcat Stoppages

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walkouts by nearly 25,000 coal miners aroused fear in government quarters last night of another general coal strike, and the war labor board called on John L. Lewis to urge "full and continuous production" of the war-vital fuel.

Reminiscent of scenes before the government stepped in and took over the mines earlier this year to assure production, thousands of men had left their jobs in Alabama, saying they had no contract to work now that the mines have been returned to their owners. Others followed in Indiana. In neither instance were the walkouts authorized by the union, the United Mine Workers.

The WLB appeal, addressed to Lewis and other United Mine Workers leaders, dealt with the situation in Alabama, chief center of the current work stoppage. It said:

"We call upon you as a responsible leader of your union to urge the employees to return to their jobs at once so that full and continuous production may be resumed.

"The continuance of the strike by thousands of coal miners in numerous Alabama mines by members of your union is seriously interrupting the production of materials vitally necessary for a country at war.

"This strike is contrary to labor's no-strike pledge and the national policy."

Even before the work stoppages, Secretary of Interior Ickes, wartime solid fuels administrator, and navy and war department officials had been uneasy over the situation.

It was disclosed that Ickes, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Undersecretary of the Navy James Forrestal wrote Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board last Saturday urging speedy disposition of the coal labor dispute.

Ickes' letter said he felt that if Oct. 31 arrives without a contract between the operators and miners "there almost inevitably would follow runaway strikes which might well spread to the entire industry."

After the general coal strike of last spring which was followed by government seizure and operation of the mines, the United Mine Workers went back to work under instructions from Union President John L. Lewis and the union's policy committee to remain on the job until Oct. 31 while efforts were continued to arrive at a contract.

Ickes this week completed return of the mines to their owners. Now pending before the war labor board is the latest of a series of proposals to pay the miners for time they spend in underground travel. Worked out by Lewis and the Illinois Coal Operators association, it may form the basis for a general contract for the industry if the war labor board approves. It had to be submitted to the WLB because that agency passes on all wage increases.

Lewis visited WLB headquarters yesterday, at the request of WLB members, and discussed the Illinois agreement. WLB Chairman Davis said the discussion with Lewis and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the UMW, was "a general one."

Members of the bloc said that in a meeting today they hope to draft amendments which fix definitely the form of international cooperation and the degree of authority to be given to any international organization that might be formed.

Ball, Hatch and Pepper said members of the group are convinced the senate has an obligation "to state now, clearly and without ambiguity, the principles which it believes should prevail in the peace settlement and the extent to which it is willing to go in American commitments to maintain world peace and stop future attempts at aggression."

Reds Take Melitopol, Advance on Crimea; Stiff Battle in Italy

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—Russian soldiers blasted the hard-fighting Germans from the wrecked buildings of Melitopol yesterday in hand-to-hand fighting and charged seven miles down the railway from Zaporozhe in a major battle for a breakthrough at the northern door to the Crimea, Moscow announced early today.

More than 4,500 Germans were killed in the area comprising about a 56-mile front from mouth of Zaporozhe to Melitopol in the southern Ukraine, a bulletin said.

Part of the battlefield was reported flooded by the Germans who announced they had destroyed the re-built Dnieper dam, a few miles from Zaporozhe, in an attempt to stall the attack. The Russians, however, made no mention of the dam.

Fighting for three days in the center of Melitopol, Soviet troops were forced to use their bayonets and hand grenades to pry the Germans from fortified buildings including a factory and a church.

More than 2,000 Germans were declared killed in the town as Soviet gunners first silenced the enemy firing positions and then moved methodically building by building, and street by street, for the tough cleanup.

The Moscow midnight communique supplement, recorded by the Soviet monitor, made no claim that the town had been captured but its fall appeared imminent as another column moved up on the town from the northeast.

Fighting savagely for the town beyond which lie the flat plains that lead to the Crimea—the Germans piled in reinforcements from other sectors and sent wave after wave of counter-attacks against the Russians.

"The Hitlerite counter-attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy," the communique said.

Northward at Zaporozhe the last remnants of German troops were cleaned from the river's east bank and at least 1,500 were reported drowned in the Dnieper as they sought to escape.

Other Russian columns fighting their way southward along the railway that leads through Melitopol to the Crimea, captured six populated places and five railway towns, including Plavni, 17 miles southeast of Zaporozhe.

More than 1,000 Germans fell, 22 tanks were destroyed and 20 guns captured before the end of the day in that sector, the bulletin said.

Soviet airmen bombed German airbases, damaging or destroying 23 Nazi planes on the ground while shooting down 19 in air combats.

Stubborn fighting also raged on the middle Dnieper where German counter-attacks withered before massed Russian guns at the bridgeheads on the west bank of the river north and south of Kiev. The Germans are being dislodged from one line after another, a Tass dispatch said.

Terrific fighting also was reported raging along the coast near the mouth of the Volturno, where British infantry and tanks poured ashore early Wednesday from new, American-type open-mouthed landing vessels and dug in along a canal under the protective fire of three destroyers.

The Germans yielded their positions only after bitter resistance, and time after time launched desperate tank-led counter-attacks in futile efforts to dislodge the Americans and British at key points. Allied tanks and tank destroyers joined the infantry in the furious drive across the still-flooded flatlands north of the Volturno and into the heights beyond, which rise to 4,000 feet.

(A German communique acknowledged the allies had "superior infantry and tank forces on both sides of Capua." A Berlin broadcast placed the attacking force at four infantry and one tank divisions.)

Ration Book 4 Applications Now Available

Application blanks for war ration book 4 may be obtained beginning today at either of the banks in Iowa City, and at the Junior high school beginning Monday.

The blanks, which are necessary for registration for the fourth war ration book, will be available at the Iowa State Bank and Trust company and the First Capital National bank today, Monday and Tuesday, between 9:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m., and at the east entrance of Iowa City Junior high school at the same hours Monday and Tuesday.

R. J. Phelps, head of the ration board, advised that each family group obtain an application blank and fill it in advance of the registration date, in order that the customary long waiting line may be abandoned at the schools.

Registration in Iowa City will be Oct. 20-22 at the five grade schools: Roosevelt, Lincoln, Longfellow, Horace Mann and Henry Sabin.

The time of registration will be apportioned according to the initial (See RATION BOOK, page 5)

Planes, P-T Boats Hit Japs on New Britain

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday (AP)—The Fifth air force and swift P-T boats have struck blows at Japanese air bases and shipping on New Britain on the opposite end of New Britain from Rabaul which only Tuesday was pulverized by a 350-ton bombing attack.

The sector of New Britain nearest to General MacArthur's potential invasion springboard on the Huon gulf of New Guinea felt the weight of air assaults announced in today's communique.

Cape Gloucester, the New Britain air base nearest New Guinea, was given a 42-ton pounding by heavy bombers. Its runways were torn up and fires were started among installations.

On the north side of the coast, about half way up to Rabaul, medium and heavy bombers hit the Cape Hoskins airdrome and destroyed a coastal vessel. Directly south across the island from Cape Hoskins, heavy bombers struck the Gasmata airdrome and nearby anti-aircraft positions.

Mitchell bombers flew low along the coast from Cape Gloucester to Sag Sag, strewn bullets in Japanese-occupied villages and destroying or damaging five barges.

The P-T boats sank an enemy coastal vessel, destroyed or damaged eight barges and strafed shore installations around Rooke Island which is between the western tip of New Britain and New Guinea's Huon peninsula.

On New Guinea, in the Madang-Alexishafen area toward which Australian troops now are driving north and northwest in the Ramu valley, Mitchell medium bombers attacked at low level. Their more than 80 tons of bombs wiped out supply dumps and anti-aircraft positions and spread many fires as well as destroying two enemy fighters on the ground. There was no enemy interception.

In the Ramu valley, the Aussies pushed ahead in an area less than 20 miles from Bogadjim, the Japanese defense post for Madang.

Brig. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the U. S. heavy bombardment division, said yesterday that an estimated 50 percent of Germany's ball bearings were produced in the Schweinfurt plant, and that therefore the American raiders had in effect smashed 50 percent of the enemy's war production.

In Washington President Roosevelt and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States air forces, expressed a similar view. The war department in a detailed statement on the raid described it as a "heart-damaging blow to the entire war production and machinery maintenance program," a blow that "will have a definite effect on the German war economy within a reasonably short period of time."

General Arnold said this effect in some phases would be felt "within a month—and will result in shortening the war." He observed that "ball bearings cannot now pour from this ruin, and no moving machinery will operate without ball bearings."

President Roosevelt told a press conference that while the cost was very heavy he saw little chance that losses over an extended period would exceed additions to the air force. He commented that we can't afford to lose 60 planes every day, and we are not doing so.

With the 60 bombers were lost 593 crew members, General Arnold's report said, but it was added that "at least half" of these "are believed to be alive as prisoners of war on the basis of past experiences."

RUSSIANS CLOSE IN ON KIEV

RUSSIAN FORCES are closing in on Kiev, third largest city in the U. S. S. R., after establishing bridgeheads across the Dnieper river both above and below the city, as indicated on the map. Farther north, Soviet troops also were approaching Vitebsk and had entered the suburbs of Gomel, both rail centers.

Nazi Ball-Bearing Plant Erased By Thursday's Huge U.S. Raid

Officials Declare Loss of 60 Bombers Was Not Excessive

LONDON (AP)—The Nazis' 72-acre ball bearing plant at Schweinfurt was obliterated in Thursday's daylight Fortress raid, the American air command announced yesterday, and the record loss of 60 bombers was declared officially to be not excessive for the results obtained.

Brig. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the U. S. heavy bombardment division, said yesterday that an estimated 50 percent of Germany's ball bearings were produced in the Schweinfurt plant, and that therefore the American raiders had in effect smashed 50 percent of the enemy's war production.

In Washington President Roosevelt and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States air forces, expressed a similar view. The war department in a detailed statement on the raid described it as a "heart-damaging blow to the entire war production and machinery maintenance program," a blow that "will have a definite effect on the German war economy within a reasonably short period of time."

With the 60 bombers were lost 593 crew members, General Arnold's report said, but it was added that "at least half" of these "are believed to be alive as prisoners of war on the basis of past experiences."

The loss of bombers represented 15 percent of the raiding force if it equaled the record number of 400 planes used against German targets twice last week. An average loss of five percent is considered an "economical" rate of operation, which both the RAF and the American Eighth air force have been maintaining or bettering.

"We had expected our losses to be heavy, and they were," said Brig. Gen. Fred L. Anderson, Eighth air force bomber wing commander, "but the damage done to the enemy was much greater. The weather over the target was excellent and the bombs were concentrated upon vital points in the area."

"The results of this attack eventually will be apparent in a shortage of German tanks, planes, guns and armored vehicles on the Russian, Mediterranean and western fronts and in a slowdown in submarine construction."

The raiding crews were told before they took off that a successful completion of their mission might shorten the war by six months.

Nazis Retreat Toward Rome From Voltorno

British Landing Force Menaces West Flank Of Tottaring Defense

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers (AP)—Reeling from sledgehammer frontal assaults by the American Fifth army and their western flank menaced by a powerful British landing force, Nazi defenders of the Voltorno river line fell back toward Rome yesterday in some of the fiercest fighting yet seen in the Mediterranean war.

"The enemy's position hourly is becoming more desperate and he will obviously be forced to pull out from all the low area near the river," a military spokesman declared on the basis of news direct from the three-day battle.

Streams of allied troops, tanks, artillery and anti-tank guns poured across the Voltorno on scores of makeshift bridges as assault teams consolidated their hold on high ground overlooking the vital Capua bridgehead. Gains east of Capua averaged from two to five miles, an allied announcement said.

The Germans yielded their positions only after bitter resistance, and time after time launched desperate tank-led counter-attacks in futile efforts to dislodge the Americans and British at key points. Allied tanks and tank destroyers joined the infantry in the furious drive across the still-flooded flatlands north of the Volturno and into the heights beyond, which rise to 4,000 feet.

Post-War Power Politics Will Impede Cause of World Peace—Wendell Wilkie

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Wendell L. Wilkie said last night that the cause of world peace would not be advanced by "defensive and offensive alliances between any two of the principal allies," and called for peace organization on a world basis.

His address, carried over a nationwide hookup of the National Broadcasting system (8:30 p. m. CWT), was his reply to a series of questions put to him by Missouri political groups.

"I can testify from personal observation," Wilkie said in his speech prepared for delivery, "that all the world turns to America for leadership. Therefore, tentatively, hopefully, I should like to see this country exercise its utmost qualities of leadership and moral force to bring Great Britain, Russia, China and the United States to a point of understanding where they will make a joint declaration of intention as a preliminary to forming a common council of the united nations and other friendly nations, and eventually of all the nations. Out of the practice of cooperation and out of the substance of agreement will come our only chance to realize man's hope for peace."

Wilkie said the goal of world peace would be missed "if America tries to play a hand at the old game of power politics—a game which is played always at the price of permanent peace and a game at which we will find ourselves inept and frustrated."

"When the war is over, he said, America, in its dealings both with friends and vanquished foes, must encourage and seek to work exclusively with the forces that are neither Nazi-lainted nor Fascist-tainted."

Wilkie said he would support for president a Republican candidate whose record "leaves no doubt that he is qualified for leadership, in the cause of advocating 'real international participation.'"

Turning to the domestic front, he assailed "the palace guard," who, he said, "use their multiple power of government to perpetuate the leader from whom their importance stems."

The International Bag—

In his latest article in Collier's mag, Archbishop Spellman says... "If we only have the opportunity to put as much thought and effort into shaping the post-war world as we are devoting to getting the most and best equipment to the fighting fronts, I really think we could succeed."

The important part of this statement is the first six words... it is not a question of whether or not to spread democracy, but... will we be able to?

And the answer to this question lies partly with Russia... partly with ourselves.

Pravda, official Communist organ in Russia, said only a few days ago that the Soviets "do not intend to discuss frontiers or the status of the Baltic states" and other similar post-war questions at the forthcoming three-power conference.

It is understandable why Stalin may not want to make hasty commitments while the Nazis are still causing him plenty of trouble in his own front yard.

So don't jump at any Close-in conclusions. But, on the other hand, don't exclude the possibility of our being left holding a very large and ill-fitting international bag at the end of the conferences.

I hope Iowa City's "Mr. Dies" will read

It Doesn't Add Up—

Commenting on the situation of the oil industry, O. D. Donnell, president of the Ohio oil company, says: "The petroleum situation in the United States has now reached the point where the industry can no longer guarantee sufficient crude oil to meet war and essential civilian requirements unless petroleum products, particularly gasoline, domestic heating oils and fuel oils, are used conservatively."

"More and more of each barrel of crude oil that formerly went into civilian automotive gasoline is now going into 100 octane aviation gasoline, toluene for TNT and munitions, butadiene for synthetic rubber, diesel oil for navy and distillates for reprocessing in catalytic cracking plants for the manufacture of war products."

"The situation is aggravated by tremendous decline in discovery of sufficient new large fields over past two years to maintain an adequate backlog of crude oil reserves."

The petroleum industry war council blames the falling off in discovery of new reserves on arbitrary and inadequate price ceilings on crude oil. The cost of wildcatting, including labor, materials and taxation, prohibits necessary risk taking in this field. Must the nation suffer an oil famine before this simple fact is recognized.

The Russian leaders were reported to have encountered the Soviet capital, as the Reds fought desperately to hold their key city of Moscow.

Twenty university women were chosen as candidates for the 1941 dolphin queen. Four attendants and the queen were to be picked from this group by Ted Ashby, Harlan Miller and Bert McCrane, staff writers for the Des Moines Register and Tribune. The candidates were: Leila Jensen, N3 of Crystal Lake; Virginia Pyle, A1 of Marion; Evelyn Afflerbaugh, A2 of Cedar Rapids; Dorothy Miller, A3 of Cedar Rapids; Beverly Anderson, C4 of Sterling Hill; Betty Cohen, A1 of Council Bluffs; Dorothy Rankin, A2 of Iowa City; Midge Berg, A1 of Chicago; Marjorie Tennes, A1 of Davenport; Marilyn Hammer, A1 of Sioux City; Ann Johnson, A1 of Davenport; Dorothy Binder, A3 of Whiting, Ind.; Patricia McVicker, A3 of Iowa City; Marilyn Anderson, A3 of Manning; Marjory Knox, A3 of Cherokee; Velma Ruch, A3 of Tulsa, Okla.; Betty Lou Little, A1 of Kinsley; Dorothy Norman, C3 of Moosheart, Ill.; Mary Weaver, A4 of Galesburg, Ill.; and June Clark, A2 of Ft. Coach Eddie Anderson chose 35 men to make the trip to Madison, Wis., for the Iowan-Wisconsin game there Saturday. The backfield was undecided although Anderson did say that Tom Farmer would start at left half. The quarterback spot was left open with either Ben Trickey or Al Coupe getting the nod at game time.

Oct. 16, 1933...

The 1933 Homecoming badge sale opened full blast as members of Delta Delta Delta, captain by Peg Hise, J4 of West Liberty; Alpha Delta Pi, captain by Laura Alice Shore, A1 of Cherokee, and Theta Phi Alpha, captain by Helen Wetrich, A3 of Iowa City, vied for top honors in the five day sale.

Freshmen enrolled in the freshman lecture course and women transfer students were to be guests at a style review in the natural science hall. Editorial: "Once again the world's so-called statesmen and diplomats—so fluent and so well versed in the dexterity of weasel-worded speeches—have seen reality staring them in the face and were bewildered."

"Statesmen of the four big powers decided Sunday in a hotel room that the disarmament conference should adjourn for approximately a week. There were assurances, however, that if the conference dies, it will die slowly. 'It's all because Germany, by bringing the central controversy into the open, and demanding that the former allies fulfill their sworn obligation and disarm, or that Germany be let out of the contract.'"

"But these are not the tactics of diplomacy. Instead the men ran to their hotel rooms and competed among themselves in denouncing Germany because she took her toys and went home."

Germany possible and one allied air veteran, Brig. Gen. Curtis L. LeMay, commanding the American heavy bombardment division in Britain, is quoted as saying that would be enough to end Nazi resistance power by next spring.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

There Are Big Things These Days on The "Frenchman's Creek" Set

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There were big doings at Paramount the day the pirate ship sailed up the creek and let loose its guns at the shore-bound defenders of Navron castle. Twenty-four hours before the scene of all this sword-rattling and musket-fire had been just the studio's outdoor tank, covered by an expanse of black cloth to keep out the sun so that electricians could provide their own brand of sunlight. Now it was the stone landing by the edge of the creek—"Frenchman's Creek" of the title—with stone steps leading from the platform by the water up to the castle pathway, and dense green woods all around to the water's edge.

Director Mitchell Leisen had his color camera set up to shoot across the water at the landing, where a couple of costumed corpses lay photogenically sprawled while other 17th century guardsmen popped out of the woods to fire their ancient muzzle-loaders at the pirate ship.

Interpreting the War News---

Nazi Volturno-Biferno Front Across Italy Evidently Crumbling

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Outflanked at both ends and dangerously dented in the center, the Nazi Volturno-Biferno front across Italy evidently is crumbling. The battle above Naples appears to be degenerating into another allied race on both sides of the mountainous spine of the peninsula to keep contact with main Nazi forces falling back northward under cover of stubborn rear-guard protection, road demolition and mine traps.

That conclusion is heightened by the fact that word of the most important new allied gains in the center came from Berlin. A Nazi broadcast reported allied capture of Campobasso and Vinchiaturro junction.

The significance of the Nazi disclosure of new allied successes before an allied announcement must be to prepare German home front opinion for another retreat in Italy. A Berlin announcement of a "successful withdrawal" from the whole Volturno-Biferno front is to be expected. It could not stand long in any case with the Campobasso-Vinchiaturro communications pivot broken.

It seems clear that the Volturro delta has been virtually mopped up by the Fifth army all the way to the hills that rim it to the north. They would form a difficult obstacle to further Fifth army advancement up the west coast flank if it were not for the wedge driven into the center of the enemy line farther east of Vinchiaturro junction. Another ten mile surge up the Foggia-Rome road beyond Vinchiaturro would bring allied forces to the valley cross-roads leading westward where a breakthrough could put them in the rear of the Nazi coastal flank.

The battle of the Volturro apparently was fought by the Germans primarily as a delaying action and the hill positions north of the Volturro delta, which command all roads and railroads leading from Naples to Rome, likely will be similarly defended. A strong rear-guard stand there seems called for to permit the Nazi left wing, facing the Eighth army, make good its retirement from the Biferno.

It seems significant that General Montgomery's veterans on the allied right flank are reported meeting with relatively meagre resistance as they enlarge their grip on the north-eastern slope of the peninsula. They now appear to have cleared the whole length of the Vinchiaturro-Termoli road as well as having forced the Biferno line at various points and turned its sea flank by leap-frog landings north of its mouth between Termoli and Vasto.

There is no intimation from any official allied source that the campaign in Italy is being delayed seriously by Nazi rear-guard action. On the contrary, much suggests that it is well ahead of the expected schedule despite the fight for the Salerno beaches, the time necessary to pry the enemy loose from Naples

Washington in Wartime—

The OCD---In Peace, Too?

WASHINGTON—Your Capital in Wartime: Rumors that the office of civilian defense would be liquidated, following the resignation of Director James M. Landis, have almost wrecked the home office here. More than 400 workers have quit the 1,100-employee agency in recent weeks. Acting Director John Martin has had to make mass and individual appeals to slow down the wave of resignations.

As a matter of fact, if present plans are developed, OCD might be one war agency carried right into peacetime. As the danger of air attacks has lessened, OCD has been concentrating more and more on disaster aid. The effectiveness of the OCDers in aiding police, firemen and medical authorities in the Boston night club fire pointed up the value of such a nationally supervised agency in peacetime.

One of the more tiresome storms in the congressional teacup is the continued complaint that there are a lot of government workers still and the work crossing the Volturro.

The primary military objectives of that campaign obviously are to secure close-up bases in Italy for future air action against Germany or against the Nazi-held Greek peninsula and the Balkans. That has been done and the cost to the Nazis of that allied success will be cumulatively apparent as the bombs begin to fall in Rumania and on Nazi war plants in southeastern Germany.

There may be good and sufficient political reasons to press the march on Rome at the most rapid pace possible with due regard to military prudence and the minimizing of allied battle casualties. It is true also that air bases about Rome would cut the distance to vulnerable Nazi war industries just that much. In a strictly military sense, however, the Italian campaign has already accomplished its prime purpose. It has made two-front air warfare on at their desks who should be in the armed forces.

The long-drawn harping on the subject resulted recently in the Bailey-Clark bill in the senate which would restrict the employment of any able-bodied males in the government here between the ages of 18 and 38. One of the local columnists who devotes himself entirely to federal employe matters has issued a challenge to the senators or any one else to find him one government worker within those ages who isn't 4-F, a father, or deferred as essential.

Oddly enough, it's the army and navy that are most opposed to the Bailey-Clark bill. They are in the throes of trying to get their uniformed personnel here, capable of combat duty, into the field. The number of civilians they will need to replace them in coming months may run into the thousands.

There is no doubt that there were many abuses here early of the deferment for essential duty clause but congressional criticism started cleaning that up long ago. In fact, congressional criticism drove out of the government a good many men who really were essential and in some cases men who were ill-suited for military duty.

One such case was that of Edward Pritchard, the 300-odd pound assistant to Economic Stabilizer Vinson. Being one of the New Deal's "bright young men" and a protégé of Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, Pritchard was fair game for anti-New Deal congressmen. He finally gave up and asked his draft board to induct him. At Ft. Custer he became the biggest private in the army, only to spend most of his first month of basic training in Ft. Custer's post hospital. He now has been discharged because of overweight and bad legs, and probably will be returned to some government civilian job here, an example of what extremes some federal workers have to go to if they would escape the stigma of hiding under the essential deferment clause.

Marching Band Salutes Coach 'Slip' Madigan During Half-Time Ceremonies This Afternoon

Edna Price Will Lead Scottish Highlanders In Traditional Airs

The Iowa Hawkeyes' Coach "Slip" Madigan will receive a salute from the 90-piece University Marching band this afternoon in the Iowa stadium during colorful half-time ceremonies of the Iowa-Indiana football game.

Also included in the program planned will be an exhibition by the band's twirling drum major, Mary DuMont, A1 of Anamosa, complicated marching maneuvers by the Scottish Highlanders, and an impressive pre-game ceremony including both university marching organizations and the navy band of the Iowa Pre-Flight school.

The salute to the Iowa football coach will come when the colorful "redcoats" present a formation spelling the word "SLIP" while playing an old popular number, "Stand Up and Cheer."

The visiting Indiana football team and fans will also receive a salute from the band in a huge "I" formation superimposed with the letter "U", a formation familiar to all Indiana fans through its frequent use by the Indiana band. The traditional block "I" accompanied by "On Iowa" will again be presented for the Iowa Hawkeyes and fans.

Other features of the band's half-time routine will be a rendition of a fanfare based on the "Iowa Corn Song," "Pack Up Your Troubles," and "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition."

Leading the kilned Scottish Highlander unit of the military department in its half-time exhibition will be Edna Price, A2 of Jefferson. Traditional Scottish airs, including "Will Ye No Come Back Agin'," "Auld Lang Syne" and others will be played by the all-women organization of bagpipers and drummers. Director of the group is Pipe Major William L. Adams.

Flag raising ceremonies preceding the game will take on a hue of scarlet and blue as the combined university and navy marching bands join in alternate files to play the "Star Spangled Banner," led by Prof. C. B. Righter, director of university bands. Both bands and the Highlanders will enter the field preceding the ceremony for a review in the stadium.

HALF-TIME HIGHLANDER STRUTTER

WHEN THE SCOTTISH HIGHLANDERS perform during the half of the Iowa-Indiana football game this afternoon, the kilned organization will be led by Edna Price, A2 of Jefferson. One of two alternating drum majors for the group, she will head the all-women bagpipers and drummers in presenting authentic Scottish airs and performing complicated marching maneuvers.

Hawks Drill On Passing

Hoerschemeyer, Pihos, Mangold Are Big Hoosier Threats

Coach Slip Madigan put his Hawkies through last minute passing drills yesterday as he polished off a week's preparations for the Hoosiers from Indiana, who will invade the Iowa field this afternoon.

Among the outstanding individual threats to the Iowa players are Hoosiers Bob (Hunchy) Hoerschemeyer, left halfback; Pete Pihos, right end, and Don Mangold, right halfback.

Of these three, Hoerschemeyer, freshman, has made the biggest name for himself with his passing feats, runs and punts.

During the past week, the Hawks have stressed pass defense and have worked to overcome the fumbling habit which cost them several scoring threats in the games played with Wisconsin and the Seahawks.

Strength in both team's lines will probably effect a close skirmish as Iowa's Stan Moubacher, Bob Liddy and Jim Cozad meet J. C. Coffe, Joe Sovinski and John Tavenor from Indiana.

Although these men are considered good in their positions, the best line man in Iowa's eleven and one of the best in the midwest, is Bill Baughman, center for the Hawkies. Bill has been rated by several coaches as one of the finest pivot men in the country.

Today's game will be the 16th in a series between Indiana and Iowa. The Hoosiers defeated the Hawkies in both of the teams' last two meetings, 13-7 in 1941 and 14-13 in 1942, which gives the Hawks a series lead of seven to five.

Probable lineup:

Minnesota Plays Last Pre-Conference Game Against Camp Grant This Afternoon

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota winds up its pre-conference schedule today against Camp Grant, with hopes of running its non-league record to three straight victories.

Dr. George Hauser, who has had two weeks to get ready for the soldiers, expects to start the same team that lined up at the kickoff against Nebraska.

Hauser rates the Camp Grant team as one of great potentialities, but one which hasn't as yet played the kind of game of which it is capable. So he figures the Gophers will have a real battle on their hands, and will settle for any kind of a victory.

Rains May Hamper Purdue in Today's Clash With Bucks

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio State's chances against Purdue in today's Western conference football clash before about 60,000 in Cleveland's lake front stadium look an upturn last night as rain swept the city and more was forecast for morning.

Coach Paul E. Brown of the underdog Bucks clung to his "I don't see how we can win" statement, but admitted slippery going and more rain might hamper Purdue's multiple ball-handling from the "T" formation more than it would his straight-way ball-toters.

Outweighed and outmanned in all departments, the Bucks yesterday worked out in the rain on the stadium turf. Purdue was denied he same chance, the marine-manned Boilmakers not being due to arrive until after midnight.

The Ohioans were quoted at least 13 points worse than the Purdues, who have defeated four top-flight foes while Ohio has been beaten in two of its three outings.

Great Lakes will depend on its expert backfield unit of Steve Lach, Steve Juzwik, Dewey Proctor and Paul Anderson.

Hawklets Bow to Dubuque, 7-6

Last Minute 14-Yard Pass Wins for Foe

By CHARLOTTE FERRIS
A 14-yard pass over the goal line, unleashed in the last two minutes of play, gave Dubuque a 7-6 victory over City high last night in the Little Hawks' Homecoming game, just a few minutes after Wayne Hopp plunged over the Dubuque goal for the lone Hawklet score. Kadesky, 156 pound left halfback on the Dubuque squad was far by the outstanding player of the game, as he carried the ball on a very great majority of the Dubuque plays, gaining consistently most of the time.

Dubuque's drive for the goal started after City high had kicked off to Dubuque following their score at the other end of the field. After gains by Kadesky and a 15-yard penalty on Iowa City had put the ball on the Dubuque 37 yard line, a long pass was taken by Kadesky which was good for 30 yards. Two incomplete passes were heaved by Kadesky in a desperate attempt by Dubuque to score. A five yard penalty gave Dubuque the ball on the City high 30 yard line, from where Kadesky, instead of passing, took the ball straight through the line for 10 yards.

On the next play, fading back to pass, Kadesky suddenly ran with the ball until he was finally brought down on the Little Hawk 14-yard line. The next play spelled doom for City high's hopes for a 1943 Homecoming triumph, as Kettoff on an end around play threw to Kadesky for the touchdown. Owen kicked the point to give Dubuque a 7-6 victory, the first Homecoming defeat for City high in several years.

City high's touchdown came late in the fourth quarter also, just a few minutes before the fatal Dubuque score. The touchdown came as the result of a penalty on Dubuque for clipping between downs. Brown Todd of City high had just thrown a pass which was intercepted by Kadesky. However, there was a clipping penalty, and the referee penalized the Dubuque team half the distance to the goal line, putting the ball on the Rams' 12-yard line. Hopp, co-captain of last night's game, took the ball on four successive plays to finally plunge over from the three yard line for the touchdown.

His attempted plunge through the center for the extra point fell short. The touchdown was originally set up by a Dubuque fumble, which was recovered by Carl Voelckers of City high on the opponent's 39 yard line. From there Lay carried the ball on three plays, until the penalty put the ball on the 12.

Three thousand shivering fans sat almost two hours watching the two teams see-saw back and forth, until the final six of seven minutes of play saw both teams score.

In the early part of the first quarter Iowa City was given a lucky break when a Dubuque safety man fumbled a City high punt only to have it recovered by Hopp of City high on the Dubuque 30 yard line. The Dubuque line held strongly, however, and the Little Hawks couldn't get past the Rams' 27. On last down, George (Pistol) Ware kicked out on the nine yard line. The rest of the quarter saw both teams being forced to kick repeatedly.

In the second quarter as Dubuque surged down into Little Hawk territory, Lay intercepted a pass thrown by Brooks, and ran the ball up 20 yards to the City high 45 yard line. Successive gains by Lay brought the ball to the Dubuque 45, but a pass interception stopped the drive.

The third quarter saw the Little Hawks put on a valiant goal line stand to take over on downs on their own five yard line. After Ware's pass was intercepted, the Dubuque eleven drove down the field, from their own 42 yard line to the Iowa City five. Sparking the play down the field was Kadesky, while Brooks also carried the ball. The City high line held and Dubuque failed to score.

The fourth quarter was slow until in the last minutes of play all the action came at once. Iowa City went down in defeat before a strong Dubuque eleven in the last two minutes of the game.

Both teams were evenly matched all the way, as shown by the tight score which came after both teams had been held scoreless up until the very end. The City high backs had trouble tearing off their usual substantial gains, as the Dubuque line put up a great resistance.

New Convert Meets Master of 'T' As Illinois Plays Pitt

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois, a recent convert to the T formation, is hopeful he won't be in for a sorry lesson in that intricate gridiron maneuver today but he has cause for concern since the Illini's opponent will be Pittsburgh, coached by that old master of the T, Clark Shaughnessy.

Both teams are all-civilian and each scored its initial success of the 1943 season last week, the Illini surprising Wisconsin, 25 to 7, and Pitt taking West Virginia, 20 to 0.

Six Illinois players will be out of action, three off to report to the armed services and three others injured. But five other players who have been out of action are returning to bolster Eliot's small squad.

The Panthers depend on Joe Moehs and Joe Kielb to operate the T, with Tom Kamanir and Bill Abramitis doing most of the ball-carrying.

'Rooster' Furnishes Indiana Battle Cry

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Indiana's inexperienced 1943 football squad has a new battle cry. It was furnished during the Northwestern game, which the Hoosiers lost, 14-6, by J. C. "Rooster" Coffe, likable Negro guard. In a huddle just before the game, he said: "Not a soul shall penetrate this line—horizontally, vertically or transversally!"

And judging from the Hoosiers' grid exploits so far this season, Bo McMillin's boys have taken "Rooster" seriously.

Hawks put on a valiant goal line stand to take over on downs on their own five yard line. After Ware's pass was intercepted, the Dubuque eleven drove down the field, from their own 42 yard line to the Iowa City five. Sparking the play down the field was Kadesky, while Brooks also carried the ball. The City high line held and Dubuque failed to score.

The fourth quarter was slow until in the last minutes of play all the action came at once. Iowa City went down in defeat before a strong Dubuque eleven in the last two minutes of the game.

TIME OUT by Dolores Rielly

While we cross our fingers and say a silent prayer for the fighting Hawks in their clash with the Hoosiers this afternoon, it might be a good idea for Iowa fans to start thinking of ways to spirit Sam Vacanti from the Purdue dressing room to the Iowa squad next Saturday.

For Sam, who saw action with Eddie Anderson's Hawkies of 1942, is now making big name for self in the Purdue gridiron works. Wilfrid Smith, sports scribe for the Chicago Tribune, had the following to say about the former Hawkeye in his Friday morning story on the Boilmakers:

"Sam Vacanti, who will direct Purdue's offense against Ohio State in Cleveland, as he has in the four preceding victories, is the young man around whom the Boilmakers' play revolves. Vacanti is most versatile for he combines team direction with more ball carrying than most quarterbacks are accustomed to, and on defense he helps back up the Purdue line . . ."

"Ordinarily under the T system the quarterback is only a ball handler and a forward passer. Vacanti is both of these, but he also has carried the ball on straight plunges behind his center and guards 13 times and gained 34 yards . . ."

Two more last-year Iowans now listed on the Purdue roster are John Staak, former Hawkeye tackle, and Don Lehmkuhl, guard on the Boilmaker squad.

Getting back to the business of the day and taking up the subject of Indiana—Iowa's foe this afternoon—we find that fate has pulled rather a nasty one on the Hoosiers, Indiana's 1942 all-American football player, Billy Hillenbrand is still on the campus of his alma mater, but cannot play intercollegiate football. You guessed it, he's stationed there with the A. S. T. P. unit.

It was so cold last night out at the City high-Dubuque game that the visiting team built themselves a bonfire by their bench . . . from this perhaps we could derive a thought for today . . . might suggest Coach Madigan build a bonfire down by the Hawkeye bench and send smoke signals up to Glenn Devine, stationed in the west press box, instead of bothering to phone . . . it would be novel, even though not too practical.

Bulldogs Win, 19-7
DES MOINES (AP)—The Drake Bulldogs scored thrice last night to defeat Missouri Valley college of Marshall, Mo., 19 to 7 and chalk up their third victory of the season.

Joe Hayer, fullback, and Del Cockayne, halfback, spearheaded the Drake attack with Cockayne going over in the first quarter and Hayer in the third and fourth.

Drake had a 7 to 0 halftime lead which the visitors evened up with a 73-yard touchdown drive early in the third but the Bulldogs came back quickly and were not again seriously threatened.

Pre-Flight Unbeaten So Far This Season; Seek Revenge Today

Boasting an unbeaten record in four games so far this season, the Navy Pre-Flight school's Seahawks are after revenge tonight when they meet the Missouri Tigers at 8 o'clock in Ruppert stadium at Kansas City. The Tigers handed the Pre-Flighters a 7 to 0 defeat last year when the Seahawks' present coach, Lieut. Don Faurot was still coaching the Missourians.

Frank Maznicki, stellar back for the Seahawks, who was named the country's leading scorer two weeks ago following the Iowa State triumph, remains in top spot, but shares his position with Bob Steuber of DePauw, who played under Faurot at Missouri.

Today's game marks the last in which the Seahawks will play all cadets, as a matter of agreement and policy. Officer members of the squad resumed workouts with the team Tuesday in anticipation of renewed action when the navy team encounters Doane college at Des Moines next Saturday, Oct. 23.

SPORTS TRAIL...

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—We are glad to see our friend Bucky Harris lined up for next year, even if it is with a minor league club, and it is to his credit that he is not too proud to step down a notch after all his years in the big show.

The Buffalo club certainly goes to extremes when it hires its pilots. Bucky succeeds Greg Mulleavy, who was brought up from the class D Pony league. Bucky's last connection was with the Phils, and any resemblance between the Phils and class D club is purely coincidental. After all, they finished seventh this year, thanks to the perseverance of the Giants.

In fact, as we understand it, the fact that Bucky told the youthful Phil owner, Bill Cox, that the Phils were just a seventh-place ball club was one of the reasons that led to his dismissal. At the time he said it the club was riding pretty high, and such a truthful statement smacked of treason, as any baseball manager who doesn't admit his team is a contender for the pennant is off his beam, even though it is apparent the team couldn't win a pennant in a bingo game.

Charges and counter-charges flew thick and fast after Bucky's dismissal, and for a time it seemed he and Cox each was determined to have the last word, although Cox had that when he said o-u-t.

We wouldn't pretend to know the inside of the Cox-Harris controversy. If Cox didn't want Harris, that was his business. What we didn't like was the way in which the dismissal was handled, with Harris, like a guy with his shirt tail hanging out, being the last to be told of it.

We have an idea the genial Bucky will make a fine pilot for the Bisons. Or for any team, for that matter. When he has the material he can build a representative team. When he hasn't he just can't, nor can anybody else, as a lot of capable football coaches without benefit of V-12 trainees are discovering this fall.

Most of the time he didn't have material with the Washington Senators, whose lone scout, Joe Cambria, would unload a shipment of Cubans and Venezuelans on Bucky's doorstep at night down in Florida, and force Bucky to lose sleep the next night shipping them away.

On the surface things were pretty promising when he went to the Phils. Cox, with novice enthusiasm, was going to turn the National league upside down overnight, which would mean the Phils would be on top.

He made numerous deals, most of them with a Brooklyn accent, and for a while the team did look like it might be going somewhere. But it was playing far over its head, and Bucky, as well as other sound baseball men, knew it. The other sound baseball men

MY, HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED!

SUCH DISRESPECT as shown above for Fascist officers never would have been possible before a few weeks ago. Civilians are shown mobbing the automobile carrying three Fascist Italian generals to city hall after their capture by Allied forces. The generals continued to work with the Germans after Italy's capitulation, commanding Naples defense forces, and the Neapolitans had to be restrained by carabinieri from killing them. Opinion

On and Off Campus

QUESTION: DO YOU FAVOR DRAFTING OF WOMEN FOR INDUSTRY OR MILITARY SERVICE?

George D. Haskell, state war manpower director: "As long as sufficient womanpower can be secured on a volunteer basis, it's preferable to do it that way. But there are limits. If the war lasts long enough, we'll be forced to a national service act.

"I am not in favor of such an act until it is necessary."

Shirley Rich, A4 of Ottumwa: "No. I don't believe there's a necessity now—not enough of one for women to be interrupted in what they're doing. If there ever is a need I think women will realize and will do essential war work."

Henry Negus, lawyer: "I don't believe it's necessary at this time. Nursing is the biggest and most important field for women. I am not enthusiastic about the branches of military service for women."

Mrs. Robert T. Davis, housewife: "No. I believe the majority of women who can have already entered fields of service where needed. They all want to."

Charles Seemuth, A1 of Iowa City: "No. Leave it up to the women to decide what they should do. I don't think there is a need for such a step now. If such a need arises I'm all for it."

Pvt. Leonard Hertzlich, engineering student in the A. S. T. P.: "I think women should be drafted for industry but not for military service. Women have proved they can do jobs better than men in specialized fields."

Harold Whitacre, A4 of Burlington: "If it's necessary, yes. I don't think it is now, however. But if a need ever arises, I see no reason why women should not be drafted as well as men."

Mrs. Glenn K. Bowen, clerk: "If it's essential it should be done. However, at the present time there are probably many men who can be used. If that supply is exhausted, women should be drafted."

RATION BOOK 4

Oct. 20-2 to 6 p. m., letters A, B, C, D and E; 7 to 9 p. m., letters F, G, H and those unable to register during daytime hours.

Oct. 21-4 to 6 p. m., letters J, K, L and M; 7 to 9 p. m., letters N, O, P, Q, R and those unable to register during daytime hours.

Oct. 22-4 to 6 p. m., letters S, T, U, V, W, X, Y and Z.

Unlike the method used for issuing war ration book three, it will be necessary for at least one member of the family to apply at the distribution center in person to obtain book four. A single applicant may obtain the new book for each member of the family residing at the same address.

Speedy Method

The use of war ration book three will provide a speedy and convenient method of establishing eligibility and identity.

The fact that book four has been issued to the individual will be noted on book three, which then will be returned to the applicant.

According to Phelps, distribution of the new book through schools by thousands of volunteer workers, is necessary as there was insufficient time between completion of mailing book three and the date when book four will be used to organize the necessary facilities to handle applications by mail and because of the fact that the schools have done such a complete and thorough job of registration on previous books.

Simple

Registration is extremely simple, Phelps said, if applicants remember the following: (1) All persons should secure an application before registration and have it filled out so that they will not have to complete this operation on their arrival at the school.

(2) Be sure to bring war ration book three, the last ration book received.

(3) Don't wait until the last day to apply for the new book. In Iowa City make every possible effort to register when your letter comes up.

Single Family Application

(4) Families file a single application for all members who are related by blood, marriage, or adoption, and who regularly live in the same household. Include any family members temporarily away from home, such as students, travelers, or hospital patients, who are not away more than 60 days.

(5) Individuals—persons living in the same household who are not related by blood, marriage, or adoption must file separate applications.

Applications may not be made for:

(a) Inmates of institutions of involuntary confinement, such as prisons and mental hospitals.

(b) Members of armed forces of the United States or other nations who receive subsistence in kind, or who are members of officers' messes.

(c) Persons who intend to reside in the U. S. not more than 60 days.

Book three, now being used to purchase rationed meats, fats, oils, and dairy products, was distributed to the public by mail last June and July. Individuals who have not received a copy, and who wish to obtain book four, should apply immediately for book three at their local board.

State to Repair Home of Iowa's 1st Territorial Governor, Robert Lucas, on Switzer Avenue

Only House on Avenue To Be Restored Soon As Memorial to Lucas

By ROSE ERICSON

The only house on Switzer avenue will soon be restored as a memorial to Iowa's first territorial governor, Robert Lucas. The state interim committee passed a bill Thursday proposing expenditure of $3,225 for the repairing of the home built by Lucas in 1843.

Ninety-nine years ago Robert Lucas bought a little farm on the outskirts of Iowa City, built a house and planted a six-acre orchard of plum trees. From that time on, the home was known as "Plum Grove."

It was here that Governor Lucas lived as a prominent citizen of Iowa City and where he reminded his past political life, first as governor of Ohio and then as leader of a newly created territory, Iowa.

Considered Mansion

The two-story brick structure was considered a mansion in 1844. Many prominent political men were entertained here during the nine years Lucas made it his home.

Staircase, mantel, ballustrade and window frames are all of solid American black walnut. Numerous coats of paint which have accumulated over this beautiful wood will be removed.

Oil lamps will be re-installed in place of electricity. Period furniture from the home of Samuel Kirkwood, Iowa's Civil war governor, has been obtained by the state to help recreate the 19th century setting, according to J. A. Swisher of the State Historical society.

An addition built on the residence by later tenants will be torn off and the standing walls will be reinforced in order to lengthen the home's life. Several fireplaces which have been bricked up since Lucas' time are to be uncovered.

It is said Lucas resembled Andrew Jackson whom he backed in many a campaign. His strong face had a somewhat stern and imperious look. He wore his hair in a pompadour above his high forehead and his wide set eyes were under level, strongly marked eyebrows.

Lucas, a Quaker by heritage, was uncompromising and enthusiastic in all he undertook. He loved and hated with intensity. Sound judgment and common sense won him the respect of his fellow citizens.

Enemy of Gamblers

Gamblers and drunks were his worst enemies because he never elected one to office. Once in his three years' reign as governor of the territory of Iowa from 1838 to 1841, Lucas saved the border dispute between Iowa and Missouri from becoming a riot. Through tactics known only to him "the border war turned to be a humbug—troops returned, a drinking frolic followed," according to one historian.

Lucas was removed from office in 1841 when the Whigs took over the presidential administration. He spent his remaining life in Iowa and died in 1853 in his home at the edge of Iowa City.

As an active Iowa City citizen Lucas was chosen president of a state convention of teachers and friends of education in Iowa Dec. 14, 1848. In 1849 he was elected a trustee of the State University of Iowa.

"Loudly and frequently cheered by the delighted audience among which were a number of ladies was a speech given by Lucas as he presided at a political meeting one evening in Iowa City," according to the Palimpsest 1939 edition.

Wrote Poetry

During his later life, Lucas spent many quiet days at Plum Grove where he wrote poetry, looked after his farm and made little notations in the margins of the first Territory of Iowa ledger. The original manuscript is now on file in the State Historical society library. In the back of this Journal of the Territory he recorded poems and hymns in faltering handwriting.

Names of his wife, children and grandchildren scribbled in the ledger reveal a great affection for his family. He was known to be a substantial pillar of the Methodist church.

Lucas told this story to his children concerning his youth: In 1810 as a young man in pioneer Ohio he was turbulent and lawless, which resulted in a suit brought against him. He quickly made it known about town that no suit was being accepted by Bob Lucas. The Scioto county sheriff, coroner and clerk all resigned rather than take him into custody.

Army Show Earns $300 for Relief Fund At Premiere Here

The premier showing of "This Is the Army" in Iowa City Oct. 7 earned $300 for the army emergency relief, Harold Lyon, manager of the Englert theater, announced yesterday.

The movie was adapted from Irving Berlin's stage show of the same name. Proceeds of all opening night performances throughout the United States will go to the army emergency relief fund.

Iowa City Collects $8,100 for War Fund

Since the opening of the community-war chest campaign Oct. 4, $8,100 for that fund has been collected in Iowa City. This is one-fourth of the way toward its $32,000 goal.

Urging that business firms return their war chest pledge cards, Iowa City Chairman George W. Davis said that unless the many outstanding cards are returned, the campaign will drag along indefinitely.

Patients and personnel at Oakdale sanatorium had oversubscribed their $50 quota by $85 yesterday morning. They expect to raise $150 by the close of the drive.

HOME OF IOWA'S FIRST TERRITORIAL GOVERNOR

NOW DILAPIDATED and run-down, "Plum Grove," built in 1844 by Iowa's first territorial governor, Robert Lucas, will soon be restored to its original appearance. The state interim committee voted Thursday to spend $3,225 for the purpose of conserving the 99-year-old house at the end of Carroll street as a memorial to Lucas.

Palimpsest Features Articles By SUI Men

Articles by William J. Petersen, resident associate of the Iowa State Historical society and lecturer in Iowa History, and Reeves Hall, E4 of Mason City, appear in this month's issue of The Palimpsest.

Hall's article, entitled "The Election of 1843," tells of "one of the most turbulent political contests in the early history of Iowa." The story tells of the contest between Whigs and Democrats for winners of the election.

One part of the article tells of the 45 Democratic delegates "parading from the main Iowa City hotel to the capitol."

Ben Hur Wilson, author of the second story in The Palimpsest, tells of Abraham Lincoln's speech at Burlington. Wilson, a scientist, teaches geology in the high school and junior college at Joliet, Ill. The author states that "nowhere in print has any direct quotation from Lincoln's Burlington speech been found. Probably he spoke without notes or manuscript, and no one seems to have preserved any of his words on that occasion." Lincoln spoke during the time of his and Stephen Douglas' debate for election as United States senator from Illinois. Petersen's article explains

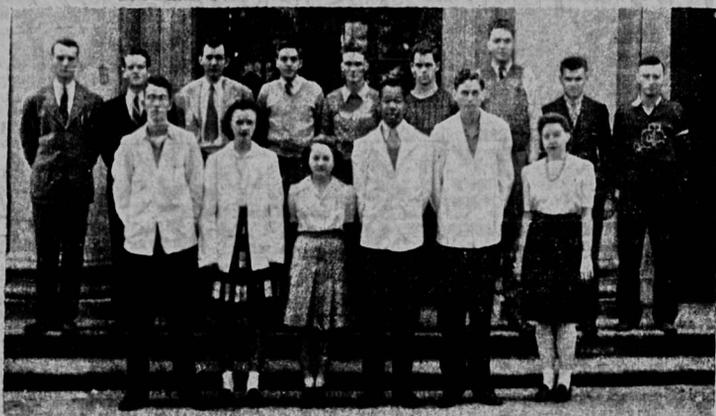

"Towns and Countryside in 1843." He tells of the first wave of immigrants flowing through the Mississippi river ports into Iowa. People were landed from steamboats to the levees. Agriculture was the mainstay of Iowa in 1843, and only one northern town, Dubuque, could boast in having a newspaper in 1843.

Called to Joliet

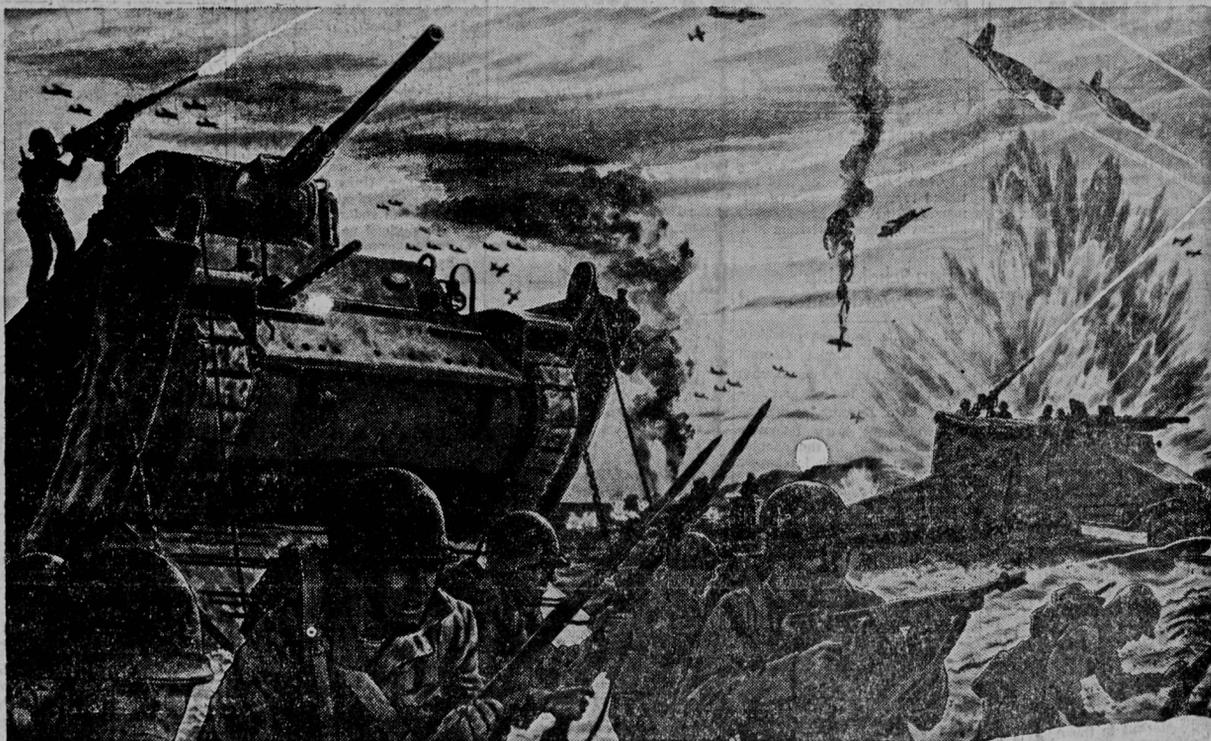

Prof. C. M. Updegraff of the college of law spent yesterday in Joliet, Ill. Professor Updegraff was called to Joliet to handle a case involving labor arbitration.

The Wisconsin State Historical Library at the University of Wisconsin is said to be the largest of its kind in the United States.

This one's going to hurt!

INVASION COMES HIGH—in blood and money.

Part of the cost must be paid with human life. That means deep and lasting hurt for many an American family.

Part of the cost must be paid in cash—this is going to hurt, too!

Sure, it's going to hurt. It's going to take more than spare cash—more than just money that would have gone for fun.

It's going to take money that we've tucked away.

It's going to take part of the money we've been living on. Money that might have meant extra shoes or clothes or food. Money that might have gone for anything else that we can get along without!

Sure, it'll be tough to dig up that extra money. But we've got to do it—AND WE WILL.

We'll do it partly because of the look that would come over the faces of our fighting men if we should fail. We'll do it partly because the cheapest, easiest way out of this whole mess is for everybody to chip in all he can and help end it quick. We'll do it partly because there's no finer, safer investment in the world today than a United States War Bond.

But mostly, we'll do it because America is right smack in the middle of the biggest, deadliest, dirtiest war in history.

And we're Americans.
