treasonous purposes everybody who opposes Mr. Roosevelt's fourth term aspirations.

The editorial said that Ickes, when he made his speech on the 10th anniversary of the United States' recognition of Soviet Russia, "evidently was smarting from the licking he has just taken from John L. Lewis, and from the Republican victories in New York, New Jersey and Kentucky, which seem to dim the chances of a fourth term for Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Ickes."

Identifying the "McCormick-Patterson newspaper axis" to which Mr. Ickes frequently refers, the News said it consisted of the Chicago Tribune, the New York Daily News and the Washington Times-Herald.

Profile

Bill Porter is another member of the fabulati around town... one of the youngest and most interesting... I don't imagine many of the new students know him, since his job has made him pretty much of a recluse...

He's a writer... not of the English major variety, but of a type which engages in very practical activity known as "selling the pulps"...

Now writers in a college town are about as common as snow in winter... the difference is that Porter actually makes a living by writing... In fact, he put himself through school that way...

Bill Porter, now 25, sold his first story when he was 17, to a pulp called "GS and His Battle Aces"... I remember this vividly from my own grade-school days...

It is one of the reasons why I am pitifully deficient in 6b arithmetic, and know nothing at all about the geography of Chile and Peru...

During the past eight years, Bill has helped keep his first love intact (sometimes supplying nearly half the copy for a single issue), has sold numerous other pulps, and has had two stories in the Satevpost... a third coming up soon...

Says Porter of his work: "I don't have any illusions about writing... I'm in this game to make money... and the pulps and 'slicks' today are paying better than ever before..."

Says Porter of college: "The campus is the greatest place in the world to lose yourself if you aren't careful... and professors are not immune to this either... it happens to too many of them..."

Bill Porter should know. He took his undergrad work at Kansas U., his Masters degree at Alabama, and nearly completed his Doctors here... he is not taking any hours now, and has stopped working in the speech dept. so he can spend more time writing...

On a typical "working" day, Bill gets up about 8, has breakfast, and begins to fictionize about 9... "This part of the day's program usually involves a good deal of nervous pacing, nail biting and cigaret smoking," he confides... "but unless a writer sticks to a rigid schedule he can't accomplish anything..."

He works until twelve and then hies himself over to WSUI in time to give "Musical Chats," an hour-long program of classical records with informal commentary...

"This breaks up the day... I'd probably go nuts if I didn't get out of the apartment once in a while..."

Back to the typewriter at 3, Bill works until 5 or 6 and then calls it a day... "Occasionally at night I work on my extra-curricular activities, but usually I go out or just sit around and read..."

"This is no post-man's holiday," he hastily adds... "I hate to read magazine fiction... usually stick to novels or factual reports of the war... it's no fun to see what your competitors are doing..."

Bill's "extra-curricular activities" involve a novel and several plays he is "messing around with"... One of his plays was produced several seasons ago at the SUI theater...

One of the things that has always baffled me about—and left me in awe of—consistently productive writers is where they get their inspirations... how they can bat out story after story for the pulps...

"First of all," Bill explains, "you don't sit around—as the movies depict—and wait for an inspiration to hit you... you already know that the story will have to follow a certain pattern, the tools are in your mind... what I look for is an idea for locale rather than plot..."

"I get 90 percent of my ideas from current news, and from airplane mags... after you get an idea, you simply fill it out with characters, make the whole thing move in some direction and the plot will take care of itself..."

For his last airplane story in the Post, Porter says he got his "inspiration" from a

News Behind the News Republican Chances Are Skyrocketing

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—I asked a Kentucky friend of mine who is the best possible authority on the people if not the politics of the state, for an explanation of the astonishing success of a Republican gubernatorial candidate in that utmost stronghold of the administration since the beginning of the New Deal, the state which has two democratic senators, one the administration leader in the senate. He replied:

"The people are changing over. Jim Farley had it about right in his comment on the defeat of his democratic candidate in New York when he said the people were tired and dissatisfied with what they have been getting."

The country, too, is changing over. The local results everywhere cannot be satisfactorily explained in any other way.

The successful Kentucky Republican, Simon S. Willis, is what is known in politics as "a good man." He is the elderly Kentucky gentleman type, a former judge, honest, friendly.

In the past, the far distant past, when the Republicans wanted to win that border state, they had to put in plenty of money. Willis had no money, at least not of that size. The big money people did not shell out for him, probably were not asked to.

Mr. Willis just ambled around the state, seeing people. As they say in the mountains, he let the people "get the feel of him." They got to know him.

The administration rushed every one of its national powers from Kentucky into the threatened final breach. Senate leader Barkley and the recently cantankerous Happy Chandler, spent the last three weeks before election on the formerly dark and bloody grounds. Some Kentuckians think this was a mistake, too.

Mr. Roosevelt once spoke in Kentucky against Chandler in the early New Dealing days when Happy was trying to crash the gates of big league politics and establish the gubernatorial machine he has enjoyed up until last Tuesday. The Democratic candidate was a Chandler man, J. Lyter Donaldson.

When Chandler and Barkley rushed back to Kentucky to get into bed together with Donaldson and call for upholding the president, apparently they did not appear to a majority of the voters to be very harmonious bed-fellows, but rather just tentatively congenial. Donaldson has been described as an ordinary gubernatorial candidate.

In view of this background, the explanation of Democratic national chairman Frank Walker, that the scattered election results did not involve national issues and had no national significance, was somewhat lacking, if not sad.

The Republicans have won before recently in New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia, but not by majorities of last Tuesday. The results indisputably signify that the Republican trend started in the losing Wilkie race and two years later turned into nearly a Republican capture of the house, has now expanded even wider, continuing in the same direction.

What was discernible elsewhere can now be said to be true—even of Kentucky. The farm vote seems gone, labor split, and radicals (New York City, Detroit) have lost their vote-pulling power. That leaves little to work on.

Republican National Chairman Spangler's comment that this means a Republican president next year may seem to cautious observers to be somewhat premature.

Yet the Republicans now have 26 state governors in office. The electoral vote of these 26 states amounts to 342, which is 76 more than the 266 electoral majority needed to win the next election.

Thus the Republicans do not need to gain in order to win. They can even sacrifice a few Republican gubernatorial states and still win.

diagram of a PBY he saw in a plane mag... "Then I sat down to write a story about PBY's..."

Bill declares that the basis for all pulp stories, or any story for that matter, is human conflict... "All the blood and thunder in the world can't sell a story if this is lacking..."

Another thing a pulp writer or Satevpost ("which is in reality a high class pulp") writer must remember above all is to keep his story moving... "Long descriptive passages and mood sketch stuff just don't go," Porter says...

"I remember one time I described a sunset... very beautifully, I thought... and the editor wrote me a strong letter saying that if I had to include such non-essentials I should put them in as footnotes..."

Bill lives with his wife in an apartment above George's Buffet... "which is as good a place as any—including New York or Chicago—to see the kind of people I want to write about"... and I believe he's right...

Some of the best characters on the campus pass through those portals... About his future, Bill is fairly certain... "I'm going to stick to writing but I may go off on some literary tangents... writing's darn hard work—about a hundred times harder than most people think... the main thing is that I like it..."

2, 5, 10 Years Ago— From The Iowan Files

Nov. 10, 1941... First ward councilman, Walter E. Riley, instructed the city council to start investigation of the possibility of financing, in coordination with the WPA, a $93,000 improvement program near the mouth of Ralston creek.

The proposed project was to call for straightening and widening the creek bed to form an angle channel of rock and cement. This was to increase the creek's capacity, lessen the danger of floods and make more efficient the city's disposal unit, Riley said.

Nov. 10, 1938... The greatest wave of anti-Jewish violence since Adolf Hitler's rise to power in 1933 swept Nazi Germany, and Jews were threatened with new official measures against them.

Millions of dollars worth of Jewish property was destroyed by angry crowds. Jewish stores were looted, synagogues were burned, dynamited or damaged in a dozen cities.

WAKE UP, AMERICA! Is the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Social Security Bill Necessary?

Moderated by FRED G. CLARK, General Chairman American Economic Foundation. As debated by Honorable Robert F. Wagner, U. S. Senator from New York, co-author Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill. John W. Scoville, Nationally-known industrial economist, author and lecturer.

SENATOR WAGNER OPENS: America's primary post-war goal is full employment in private enterprise, of all our workers, farmers, and ex-servicemen. To back up free enterprise in the difficult transition period, as well as in time of future prosperity or depression, we need an expanded national system of social security as provided in our bill, which establishes a nation-wide system of public employment offices to help servicemen and war workers find jobs in private industry, or on farms; provides national unemployment insurance up to 26, possibly 52 weeks. The present old-age insurance system is expanded to increase the benefits and include 15 million more persons. Factory farm, white collar workers, and their families, are protected against loss of wages due to sickness or total disability. It assures adequate medical care to the insured and his family under a nation-wide health and hospital insurance plan. All ex-servicemen are given paid-up benefit rights for their period of service and full coverage for one year after discharge. Increased social insurance contributions by employers-employees would finance the program for 10 to 15 years without government contribution, except for servicemen. Such an increase—amounting to 5 billion dollars in the first year—would help mop up surplus purchasing power in wartime, enable virtually the entire working population to pay-as-you-

Iowa was to take on the Wolverines of the University of Michigan the following day in a contest that was to decide the conference championship. Both teams needed a win to put them in the lead for top honors, as Iowa was listed as the "Dark Horse of the Big Ten Race."

Hawks to Face Old Problem Of Heavy Line

SOUTHERN STANDOUT - By Jack Sords

Minnesota Linemen Outweigh Iowa Squad 17 Pounds Per Man

The old familiar problem of offsetting greatly superior line weight with speed and smart maneuvers is up again for consideration of Iowa football players. Coach "Slip" Madigan said that the Minnesota linemen would outweigh his Hawkeys at Minneapolis Saturday at least 17 pounds to the man, which is the greatest weight disadvantage of the season. That's why he's hoping the Minnesota officials will get the six inches of wet snow off the gridiron and that the sun will dry out the field by Saturday afternoon. For the prospect of sending his lighter linemen against the big boys in muddy footing for the second week in succession is not one to promote optimism. "Minnesota is the sort of a team which can click suddenly on any Saturday. Only four men without previous college experience are on the first team, the backs are fast, and the line is anchored by two huge tackles, one being Paul Mitchell, 217, who played for the College All-Stars last August," Coach Madigan said. The Gopher back who causes most concern among the Iowans is "Red" Williams, a 180-pound former sprint champion who would weigh Iowa with 126 yards in 26 trials in the 1942 game. "Chuck" Avery, a Michigan transfer, is the other good halfback; and Hoyt Monette, formerly of Tulane, is a capable fullback. Iowa's squad of twenty-nine players will leave Friday morning, traveling to Minneapolis via Des Moines, with arrival scheduled for early Friday evening. Because of inability to secure more than 30 reservations between Des Moines and Minneapolis, the remainder of the non-playing group will go Friday night via Cedar Rapids.

Chicago Sets Floor Schedule

CHICAGO (AP)—A tentative college and service team basketball schedule of 10 double headers beginning Dec. 11 and ending March 3 was announced yesterday by the Chicago stadium. Illinois, defending champion of the Western conference, meets Great Lakes in the opener of the first double bill and De Paul plays Nebraska in the nightcap. Plans call for Coach Ray Meyer's Blue Demons to appear on all of the twin bills. Eight of the 10 Western conference teams, along with Great Lakes, Notre Dame, Camp Grant and De Paul, are carded. Northwestern will show four times against conference opponents and twice against Notre Dame. The Irish are scheduled for five appearances. The stadium schedule: Dec. 11—Great Lakes vs. Illinois; Nebraska vs. De Paul. Dec. 18—Northwestern vs. Notre Dame; Indiana vs. De Paul. Jan. 8—Wisconsin vs. Northwestern; Chicago vs. De Paul. Seahawks Look At Camp Grant Plays In Preparatory Drill

A Seahawk squad that availed Marquette in Milwaukee Sunday 46-19 sprang into renewed activity yesterday after a day's rest and pointed for its next immediate objective—to stop a moving mountain, when the Camp Grant Warriors come to Iowa City Saturday. The Mammoths from Rockford, Ill., cast large and portentous shadows upon the Seahawks' unbeaten record, according to Lieut. Don Faurot, the Pre-Flighter's head coach. In yesterday's practice, a short workout, he provided the Seahawks an initial look-see at Camp Grant plays, while he and his scouts eyed the Warrior's key offensive men and the contours of the whole Camp Grant squad with respect and caution. The coaches passed over lightly the Warrior's season record to date of two victories, three defeats and two ties as something less important than the fact that the Camp Grant line outweighs the Seahawks forward wall by approximately 20 pounds, while the Seahawk backs tip the scales 12 pounds lighter than the Warrior backfield. Coach Charlie Bachman will bring to Iowa City Saturday an offense that is built around such former pro and collegiate behemoths as his two leading fullbacks, Corwin Clatt, of Notre Dame, and Tony Storti, reported by scouts and the record to be among the finest line backers of the year; Reino Nori, left half, former Chicago Bear, a fine passer, particularly in combination with ends Bill Huber, 220 pounder from Notre Dame and Sam Goldman, erstwhile Redskins flanker; and Jim Dewar, former Indiana right half. Coach Faurot said he was well pleased with the Seahawks' showing in steam rolling the Hill-toppers on the soggy field of Marquette stadium last Sunday, particularly the offensive power of the starting team. He recalled that all of Marquette's touchdowns were scored on the Seahawk reserves. The Seahawk coach referred particularly to Dick Todd's play throughout the game, although Art Guepp's rambages against his former school in Milwaukee took the spotlight. All the Seahawks came through the Sunday fracas with Marquette in good shape, except tackle Nick Kerassiotis and end Perry Schwartz, who suffered slight injuries which may slow them up during practice this week. Being the busiest ball carrier of the afternoon, Guepp emerged from the moist contest against Marquette as the leading ground gainer of the day. The flashy quarterback took the ball for rushing 14 times to net 145 yards and jacked a completed pass that jacked up his yardage for the day to 151. V. E. Wagner racked up 67 yards, two more than Johnny Rudan, the Hilltopper's ace who accounted for 65 of Marquette's 96 yards total offense, with Mazzei running third for 66. Duke Curran, former Iowa back, averaged nine yards on his eight ball carrying stunts for a total of 71.

SPORTS TRAIL...

By WHITNEY MARTIN NEW YORK (AP)—Last week was a bad, bad week for this department and about all we can do is turn it over to our vice-president in charge of worrying and try to forget it. In the first place, we wrote a piece about Jay Partee of Brown university, pointing out he hadn't missed a placekick for point-after-touchdown in 18 attempts this season. Came Saturday and with our own eyes we saw him miss two out of three. We wrote a yarn quoting Pvt. Jack Murphy of the U. S. Marines as to the prowess of the Southwestern Louisiana Institute eleven, repeating his assertion the team was so good nobody wanted to play it and that it could hold its own with any team. Notre Dame included, S. L. I. promptly got itself tied by the Arkansas Argies, 20-20. We recklessly predicted we thought Army might defeat Notre Dame something like 20 to 13, and carelessly said it would be last Saturday instead of next year. They are still bird-dogging around Yankee stadium to see if there are any cadets who might have escaped the slaughter. We understand there were extenuating circumstances in the failure of Southwestern Louisiana institute to live up to expectations. The game was played in a drenching rain. Even at that the elements failed to dull the performance of Alvin Dark, L. S. I.'s sparring halfback about whom Pvt. Murphy wrote so glowingly, so we figure we came out 50-50 on that one. The team disappointed, but Dark didn't. Oddly enough we don't feel so badly about that Army-Notre Dame prediction as from all we have been able to read and to gather from those who witnessed the contest it could as well as not have been anybody's ball game. Not meaning that the better team didn't win. It would be downright silly to say that a football team that won 26 to 0 was the poorer team and won by sheer luck. Sure, the breaks favored the Irish, but they made their own breaks by rugged tackling, sometimes of the ball, and it is the good teams that take advantage of breaks. A secret of the success of the New York Yankees is their ability to pounce upon the other team's mistakes and turn them into scores. What we mean, though, is that we wonder what effect it would have had on the game if, on the three occasions that the Army offense really seemed to be rolling, there had been no fumbles. It's second guessing, of course, but we think it would have made all the difference in the world and wouldn't have made the prediction look so ridiculous. Fumbles are something you can't predict, although they are as much a part of the game as passes and off-tackle slants. It's a ball carrier's job to hang onto that ball, and if he doesn't he isn't quite as good as the guy who does. It seemed fairly obvious that Doug Kenna, whose presence in the Army lineup we had figured might make quite a difference, was used sparingly on offense because of his weak knee, and was in there primarily for his defensive ability. He's still "Mr. X" as far as the football public is concerned. We did note that after Notre Dame had scored and was on the march again, he went in and the march abruptly turned into a retreat. But he still apparently wasn't able to show what he really can do. All of which is Monday morning quarterbacking, but the game did leave plenty of room for speculation, although you don't demand a recount when the score is 26 to 0 against you. You're hicked, that's all.

Joe Keenan, Center, Named as Captain For Michigan Tilt

MADISON, Wis.—Joe Keenan, battling University of Wisconsin center who has turned in consistently brilliant performances all season for the Badgers despite their numerous defeats, has been named by Coach Harry Stuhldreher to be acting captain of the Badgers for the game with the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor next Saturday. This is the fourth time that "Big Joe" has been named for the honorary position by the Wisconsin coach. Keenan is a navy pre-flight student at the university and played freshman football at Notre Dame and last season was with the Iowa Pre-Flight eleven. The Badgers came through their lopsided defeat at the hands of Northwestern in good physical condition and the entire squad should be ready for the Michigan game, Trainer Walter Bakke stated yesterday. Also such long-time cripples as Clarence Seif, left halfback; Don Kindt, right halfback; John Kulberg, end, and Clarence Esser, tackle, will be available for the "Lend-Lease" Wolverine eleven which has seven Badgers of last fall in their starting lineup. Kindt was able to play in the Wildcat game for several minutes and is rapidly rounding into shape. Ray Dooney, fine kicking Badger fullback, sustained a bruised arm but will be ready to take up his regular duties. The Badger coaches did not reveal any contemplated changes in their lineup this week although it seems likely that John Kuenzler, sub fullback who performed so well against Northwestern, and Hugo Vogt, quarterback, might win their way into the starting lineup. Kuenzler ran well against the Wildcats and was the Badgers' leading ground gainer with a 5-yards-per-try average. Vogt passed well and connected on two tries late in the game. His southpaw slants gained 29 yards, the only advances via the airlines made by the Badgers. Glenn Peek and Larry Heinz will round out the ball carriers likely to carry the brunt of action against the "Wisconsin-Wolverines."

Revise Cricket Fights To Entertain Soldiers

Cricket-fighting, ancient and honorable Chinese sport, has been revived in all its glory as a spare-time amusement by the soldiers at the Ft. Sill (Okla.) reception center, says the Ft. Sill Army News. The crickets fight ferociously and close examination shows a dexterity and ability that combines cock-fighting and the old English pit bulldog tussles. The accepted manner of fighting permits each entrant to be held by the wings and then pushed into close quarters as the bell sound for a fighting, slashing battle with his (or her) opponent. Present rules specify a round ring of six-inch diameter and two inches in depth. Matches are for six two-minute rounds, and the referee must have a practical knowledge of cricket training and fighting. Current sensation and champion of reception center is a powerful 2-inch native cricket, "Sergeant Billy," owned and trained by Pvt. "Cowboy" Pilgrim of Co. C. So ferocious that he must be kept in an empty match box to protect the life and limb of ordinary inch-size crickets, it has been hinted that "Cowboy" Pilgrim gives his batter Vitamin B-1 drinking water and chewing tobacco. This is vigorously denied by Pvt. Pilgrim who claims that his cricket is not "hepped up" but simply so tough that when he knocks his knees together for his customary evening love song, the hot-licks come out in a jangle drum basso. Many challengers are now in secret training and Headquarters Battery, home of permanent personnel, at present is attempting to cross a cricket with giant bumblebee in an effort to obtain a fast, hard hitting competitor for the giant champion. While open to all challenges, the reception center expects that all crickets entered in battle for championships must have a record of at least four successful battles. No doping of crickets will be tolerated and saliva tests will be given in all cases that merit suspicion of the judges. Guilty trainers will be suspended for a period of six months and the cricket banished from the ring for life.

Recall Yank Blitz Of Jap Football Teams In 1935 Goodwill Trip

Lieut. Raymond O. Neveau, assistant post exchange officer at Camp Irwin, Calif., formerly of the University of Oregon, was a member of the U. S. collegian team which toured Japan in 1935 by U. S. and Japanese government arrangement. The Yank team played 15 games in six weeks against the best the Japs could present and won every game. Lieut. Neveau, in telling Sergt. Sidney Goldman of the Camp Haan (Calif.) Tracer about the tour, recalled that the smallest score the Yanks ran up against the Japs was 97 to 7. Playing against an All-Empire team of Japs in the Meiji Shrine stadium at Tokyo, the U. S. team won by a 110-0 margin. Crowds as large as 60,000 attended the games. As a face-saving move the Japs proposed a Rugby match in which the U. S. team would oppose a Jap team that had beaten Australia and New Zealand teams. The Yanks, few of whom had any acquaintance with Rugby lost that game 27-14. The game was played very strenuously and, said Lieut. Neveau, notwithstanding the Yanks' ignorance of the game's technique, the Japs suffered "severe casualties."

Congressman Wants Army-Navy Tilt Played in Big City

WASHINGTON (AP)—An 11-hour plea that the Army-Navy football game be played where 75,000 or so persons can see it, was made yesterday by Representative Weiss (D-Pa) in a letter to Secretary of War Stimson. The war department has announced that the game will be played at West Point, Nov. 27, and only persons living within a 10-mile radius will be allowed to attend because of transportation problems. "I plead with you, Mr. Secretary, to revise your policy and permit this great game to be played in New York, Baltimore or Philadelphia, where it will encounter little or no transportation obstacles, and where we can promote a real job of selling war bonds," Weiss wrote. "Many members of your military staff and thousands of our American soldiers will unquestionably witness the soccer game between England and Scotland in England, Nov. 21, played before 100,000 people for the benefit of Greek and Russian relief. "If the British who are within a half hour of the real danger of the Luftwaffe can enjoy a soccer football game, for goodness sake, what has happened to the good old U. S. A.?"

Director J. E. Wins Oden Bowie Stakes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Director J. E. carrying the colors of Mrs. Ella K. Bryson, romped to an easy victory in the six furlong Oden Bowie stakes before a crowd of 10,129 persons at Pimlico yesterday. The two-year-old son of Sickle, who was named for FBI Director John Edgar Hoover, took the lead in the early stages and, under jockey Eddie Arcaro, pulled away in the stretch to win by a five lengths over Mill River stable's Sweeping Time. Calumet farm's highly-regarded Pensive, making his first start since he finished third in the Belmont futurity, closed fast in the stretch, but could do no better than third, six lengths behind Sweeping Time. Mrs. Albert Sobath's Civil Liberty was fourth and the short-favored favorite, Longchamps farm's Dance Team, was last in a field which had been reduced to five from the 12 named overnight. Director J. E. carried 113 pounds over a slow course in 1:14 and paid $12.90, $6.30 and $3.50 for $2.

Tom Bridges Receives Call From Draft Board

DETROIT (AP)—Tommy Bridges, long a mainstay of the Detroit Tiger pitching staff, received a call from his draft board yesterday. Bridges, who will be 37 next month, is married and the father of an 8-year-old daughter, was re-classified 1-A on Oct. 26. He has been ordered to take his final examination Nov. 20. The mound star is the last veteran of the championship Tigers of 1935 remaining with the Detroit club.

Wisconsin Basketball Schedule Announced

MADISON, Wis.—The University of Wisconsin's 1943-44 basketball schedule, containing 19 games, 10 of them on the home floor in the Wisconsin fieldhouse here, was announced yesterday by Harold E. "Bud" Foster, Badger basketball coach. The schedule includes a dozen games with Western conference opponents as well as contests with Marquette and Notre Dame and with three service teams, Camp Grant, Great Lakes, and the DePauw navy flight school, which opens the season in a game here Nov. 29.

Huskers Drill Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—Coach Ad Lewandowski sent the Nebraska Cornhuskers through an indoor drill this afternoon that emphasized polishing of line play, ragged in spots thus far. He indicated the Husker squad probably would be given a brief vacation over the weekend open date. Nebraska plays Iowa university here next week.

Spud Chandler Chosen Most Valuable Player in League by Writers' Association

Northwestern Back in Stride For Irish Tilt

Yank Pitcher Pulled 246 Votes to Lead Appling by 31 Points By TED MEIER NEW YORK (AP)—Spud Chandler, New York Yankee pitcher whose earned run average of 1.67 was the lowest in the last 25 years, was named yesterday as the league's most valuable player for 1943. The righthander from Georgia hurled the Yankees to the league pennant with a record of 20 victories against four defeats and followed through in the world series by beating the St. Louis Cardinals twice in as many starts as the Bronx Bombers regained the world championship. He received 246 of a possible 336 points in the voting by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association to lead the league's batting champion, Luke Appling, of the Chicago White Sox, by 31 points. Appling, with 215 points, was far ahead of struggling Rudy York, of Detroit, home run king with 34, who placed third with 152 points. Rookie Bill Johnson, Yankee third sacker, whose eighth inning triole with the bases full in the thirteenth game of the world series shattered the Cardinals' hopes, was fourth with 135 points. Bob Johnson, veteran Washington outfielder, completed the first five with 116 points. The 34-year-old Chandler, who received 12 of 24 first place votes, had the greatest season of his career. He indicated what was to come in his first start of the year on April 24 by twirling a one-hitter in blanking Washington, 1-0. The one hit went to Ellis Clary, the first man up, who banged out a double. Altogether Spud appeared in 30 games and went the route in 20 of them, winning five of his games by shutouts. He pitched a total of 253 innings, gave up 196 hits, issued only 54 bases on balls and struck out 134. Appropriately he pitched the game that clinched the pennant for the Yanks, beating Detroit, 2 to 1, in a 14-inning struggle on Sept. 25. His four defeats were widely separated. He lost his first to Cleveland, 5-2, on May 23; his second to Washington, 8-0, on June 23; his third to Cleveland, 6-2, on July 28, and his fourth to Washington, 3-2 in 10 innings, on Sept. 19. Chandler also was dangerous at bat. He wound up the season with a 258 average, whacking out 25 hits in 97 times at bat, including five doubles and two homers. He drove in seven runs. He fielded his position with finesse, being regarded as a fifth infielder. In all 38 players received points in the balloting. Phys. Ed. Plan Set For Iowa Schools

A simplified yet efficient program of physical education which can be put into effect in Iowa high and grade schools even by inexperienced teachers is being formulated by the Iowa Physical Education association. This was announced yesterday by Coach David A. Armbruster of the university here, newly elected 1943-44 president of the organization. Such a program will be instituted through the office of the state superintendent of public instruction. It is especially devised to help the teachers who are not trained in physical education, but who have been pressed into such service by the war emergency. Coach Armbruster said that other new officers are: Roy Moore of Creston, president-elect for 1944-45; Theresa Anderson of Des Moines, first vice-president; Fred Cooper of Ft. Dodge, second vice-president; and Beulah Brown of Des Moines, secretary.

Coach Charlie Bachman yesterday continued polishing the work of Louis Campbell and Will Reed who will step into Camp Grant's starting positions against the Iowa Seahawks at Iowa City Saturday. They were promoted to quarterback and left half, respectively, following the loss of John Andriech and Reino Nori. Campbell, a 170 pounder, started the season at right half. Reed, a 175 pounder from Ripon college, is an excellent passer and runner.

Hageboeck Elected Kiwanis President

W. T. Hageboeck was elected president of the Kiwanis club at a luncheon meeting yesterday. He will assume office Jan. 1, succeeding Prof. Walter F. Loehwing.

Other officers chosen were Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger, who will succeed Hageboeck as vice-president, and Edward S. Rose, who was elected treasurer.

T. Ray Baker, Julian Brody and W. R. Hart were elected directors. Retiring directors are Prof. George Glocker, Dean A. W. Bryan and Professor Harshbarger.

The Rev. Fred W. Putnam, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, was guest speaker at the meeting. In a discussion of why we should observe this Armistice day even more fully than past Armistice days, the Rev. Mr. Putnam told the group that we should plan for a post-war world on the basis of broad general principles.

"If we ignore or pass lightly over this Armistice day we are turning our backs on a mistake. We should plan the peace now with a long range view and from a standpoint of generations," he said. "In this Armistice day during a second world war citizens should speak for the men in service and for themselves to obtain a peace that guarantees freedom from international aggression."

QUESTION: DO YOU THINK THAT PHYSICAL EDUCATION SHOULD BE REQUIRED OF ALL COLLEGE STUDENTS FOR FOUR YEARS?

Dr. Gladys Scott, associate professor of physical education: "All students should participate in some type of physical activity all four years. Physical education offers them the opportunity to participate in an activity in which they are interested and to get instruction at the same time. I would rather not have physical education a required program, but experience that shows that there are too many other things taking up students' time for them to participate voluntarily. For the students' sake I think a four-year requirement would be helpful."

Patricia Trawver, A4 of Des Moines: "Yes, I do. In the present crisis it's increasingly important for girls to be physically fit. The ideal situation would be no requirement and each individual taking care of his own needs for recreation and keeping physically fit. The next best thing is a four-year requirement."

Jane Boltz, A1 of Milwaukee, Wis.: "No. In your last two years you want to spend your time on your major."

Don Low, A3 of Sac City: "I'm against it because it takes too much time away from more educational subjects. Two years should be required, but in that time health habits will be established which will carry over the last two years. A specific form of recreation for use in later life should be learned during the first two years."

Mary Beth Tamm, A4 of Muscatine: "Of course. Most people don't take the time to take care of themselves unless they do it in class."

Mary Jeanne Morris, A3 of Le Mars: "No. When you get to be upperclassmen you're usually pretty busy and you're capable of taking care of yourself physically."

Darrell Ross, G of Watertown, S. D.: "Theoretically, I think it's a wonderful idea. Army physical examinations have demonstrated that we need it. But personally I don't like it and don't think it should be required for four years."

Bwayne Howard, M1 of Dayton: "I think so. It coordinates the mind and the body and gives one a chance for relaxation. Juniors and seniors needs these things as much as freshmen and sophomores."

Dorothy Magill, A2 of Atlantic: "Yes, I do. I think everyone needs some sort of exercise. If it's required they'll get it."

Two SUI Students Explain Life in India Attired in Clothes of Higher Caste; Talk Native Tongue

Students of the class, "Living Religions of Mankind," yesterday heard Kay Hopkirk, A3 of Ft. Madison, and A. Edwin Harper, Jr., explain the aspects of life in India.

Harper's father is a Presbyterian missionary in India, and Edwin spent the early part of his life in that country.

The two students were attired in the clothes of higher caste Indians, and addressed each other in the Indian language.

Miss Hopkirk wore the flowing silk toga of the Indian woman, but would have been considered immodest in the eyes of an Indian, for she allowed her veil to slip from her face during her address, and did not wear a colored spot on her forehead to indicate that she was of high caste and unmarried.

Harper wore a bright blue coat, tight fitting and of knee length, narrow white trousers, and a red turban which measured 15 yards when unwound. He explained that the length of a man's turban is considered a measurement of his wealth in India, and a man who wore 15 yards of silk about his head would correspond to an American millionaire.

The trousers worn by Indians are supposed to be the forerunners of pajamas and jodhpurs. They are tight fitting, and are usually covered by a long coat.

"The Influence of Religion on Art" was demonstrated by Miss Hopkirk by means of charts and books obtained from the art department and from Prof. David C. Shipley of the school of religion.

Customs of the natives of India were described by Harper as being completely involved with the system of caste. Indians are so strict in observance of caste that when the shadow of a person of lower caste falls across the kitchen of a person of higher caste, the latter will scrub the floor and throw out any dishes of food which were cooked at the time the lower caste person walked by.

Women, no matter of what caste, are ranked after the sacred cow in importance. India has 1/2 of the 690,000,000 cows in the world. There are two cows for every four people in India. They are so revered by the people that they are allowed to sleep indoors.

Harper illustrated the importance of religion in India by the fact that there are some holy cities in that country which have 3,000 temples for the 4,000 inhabitants of the city.

my husband," Nancy said when she returned to the stand.

A few hours after Sir Harry's funeral, Nancy said, Barker, Capt. E. W. Melchen of the Miami police and George Wood, aide de camp to the Duke of Windsor, came to the Oakes home at Bar Harbor, and talked to Lady Oakes, who was in bed.

Called in Later

"Melchen advised my mother that I not be present," she continued, "but later I was called in."

"Both Barker and Melchen talked, saying the assailant had gone to the garage and picked up a stick from a pile of balustrades and went up the outside stairway and hit my father, then set the bed afire with insecticide."

"They said my father was revived by the flames and attempted to fight off the assailant. In the middle of this I asked them to see how upset my mother was."

"They said he had been in great agony and was finally overcome and a fire was started for the second time."

Both Barker and Melchen had denied on the witness stand that they made such statements.

Nancy added that the officers declared a bed screen in the room had been upset.

Searched for Fingerprints

"Therefore, they said, they searched the screen for fingerprints and found my husband's," she related.

In Mexico for a honeymoon, Nancy was stricken with typhoid fever. Lady Eunice Oakes, Nancy's mother, in testifying against de Marigny last week, said she and Sir Harry became angry with de Marigny because Nancy became pregnant before she was fully recovered.

But yesterday Nancy said she was advised to "live normally," when she began recovering from the illness.

"Was there any marital advice from the doctor," asked Higgs.

"Only that I should live normally," the witness replied.

Lady Oakes said the pregnancy had to be terminated because of Nancy's health.

most workers would pay about $300 a year above present high taxes. This bill is an insult to self-reliant Americans and assumes that we are incompetent children who cannot be trusted to handle our own money.

SENATOR WAGNER CHALLENGES: Is Mr. Scoville unaware that federal action to improve national health began with President Washington and has developed progressively? The first compulsory health insurance system was established by congress, for merchant seamen, in 1798; federal appropriations in aid of maternity and child care began in 1921; were established under the Social Security Act of 1935. His viewpoint places him in opposition not only to federal health measures, but to every provision for social security, including unemployment and old-age insurance. In this utterly reactionary view, he departs from the overwhelming majority of Americans and their leaders in both parties. A recent poll of our bill shows 59% for—29% against.

MR. SCOVILLE REPLIES: Communism, which taxes wages 100%, destroys the incentive to work, makes citizens dependent on government so they cannot out the dictator in control, regiments and enslaves the people and destroys freedom. Partial Communism under S1161 which levies a 12% tax would effect, in lesser degree, the same evils as complete Communism. Only 44% favor this bill enough to pay the taxes which it imposes. Under S1161 northern workers would never get their money back for some of their contributions would go to jobholders or be spent in the south. S1161 is a poisoned dagger aimed at the heart of free America. Political Pied Pipers are leading gullible voters down the socialistic trail to equality of poverty and the security enjoyed by slaves.

Prof. Troyer Anderson to Speak Tomorrow on Information First

'Moscow and After' Chosen as Topic For Lecture at 4

Prof. Troyer Anderson of the history department will be the speaker at the "Information First" lecture program tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Professor Anderson's topic will be "Moscow and After."

Professor Anderson teaches courses in modern European history, and makes a hobby of giving public lectures on world events. His study of the historical background of such events is an aid in his interpretation.

He is particularly concerned with recent military and political developments and will devote the greater part of his lecture to a discussion of the possible implications of the recent Moscow conference.

A suitable background for his work with history and current political happenings was obtained by Professor Anderson in his study at Dartmouth, Harvard and Oxford, and in his travels through the major part of western Europe.

He began his academic career at Worcester academy, Worcester, Mass. He was awarded a B.A. degree by Dartmouth college, and an M.A. degree by Harvard. He was awarded a Rhodes scholarship, and earned a second B.A. degree and a Ph.D. degree at Oxford in England.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, and Delta Sigma Rho, honorary debating fraternity.

Professor Anderson is chairman of the foreign language and area program of the army specialized training program in Iowa City. Students in this program are studying for the part they may play in the occupation of foreign countries or in assisting those countries to set up their own democratic governments after the war.

Professor Anderson first began teaching at Brown university, Providence, R. I. After two years there, he went to Swarthmore college, Pa., where he taught 14 years before coming to the University of Iowa in 1942.

After his lecture tomorrow, Professor Anderson will answer questions put to him by members of his audience. University women and faculty members are invited to attend the lecture, which is sponsored by the "Double V" program as a part of its educational phase.

STATE GUARDSMEN LEARN TO DISPERSE MOBS

THE STATE GUARD is the only mobile unit Iowa's governor can call upon in case of fire, flood or riot, and these men do know what to do in case of such disasters. A guard formation particularly suited for dispersing mobs in riots is being explained to Company C by First Lieut. Donald D. Brown.

Local Men March in Iowa State Guard

—Meet Once a Week

"Hut—two—three—four!"

Three abreast, Iowa City men are on the march again, and this time it's Company C, first regiment, of the Iowa State Guard.

Strictly a voluntary organization, the state guard is the only mobile unit the governor has in case of fire, flood, riot, or any other disaster.

Meeting at eight o'clock every Thursday night in Iowa City armory, 925 S. Dubuque street, the guard drills two hours a week to acquaint the men with problems they would encounter on the battlefield, as well as those they might face in some local catastrophe.

The uniforms, regulation government issue, is worn at each drill period, and a rigid inspection is conducted by the officers. Each enlistee has two dress uniforms, one of which was presented by business men and clubs when the guard was organized. As in all branches of the armed forces, each man is responsible for the appearance and upkeep of his uniform.

At the annual summer two-week outing at Camp Dodge, state guardsmen are given a rigid two weeks of training by regular army personnel. With the exception of occasional maneuvers along the Iowa river, there is no drill other than the regular two-hour session each Thursday night.

Guard companies of southwest Iowa were called out to assist in relieving the flood situation along the Missouri river early last spring, and the local company has played important roles in parades for Memorial day, Armistice day, bond rallies, and other patriotic celebrations.

Officers in charge of Company C are Captain Gifford, First Lieut. Donald D. Brown and Second Lieut. Robert D. Bothell.

Non-commissioned officers include: First Sergt. Edgar L. Slemmons, Staff Sergt. Harold D. Ahlf; Sergeants Vernon W. Boldt, John F. Ludwig, William J. Matthes, Raymond W. Pablock and Leslie W. Talbot; Corporals Fred W. Dolezal, Frederick C. Funk, Elmer R. Gifford, Herbert W. Taylor, Richard Vanden Berg, Estel R. Williams and Walter D. Winborn.

Corporal Technicians George Kondora, Howard H. Lantz, Thomas J. Parker, Walter M. Rouse, Marvil L. Sass and McKinley H. Fleichter. There are also 22 privates and 13 privates first class in the company.

Student branches of the American Societies of Civil Engineers and Mechanical Engineers, and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will hold a joint meeting at 1:10 p. m. today in room 109, engineering building. Prof. W. L. Daykin of the college of commerce will be the guest speaker.

The student branch of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers will have a debate at their meeting this afternoon. George A. DeWitt, E3 of West Burlington, and Joseph S. Waddell, E3 of Iowa City, will comprise the affirmative side, and Donald M. Kehn, E3 of Maquoketa, and Joe L. Trocino, E3 of Oelwein, will compose the negative side.

The subject of the debate is, "Resolved: that the Kilgore bill for scientific and technological mobilization should be passed by congress."

CAPT. LEO F. PAUL

Capt. Leo F. Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Paul, 410 Iowa avenue, has been awarded the army airforce distinguished flying cross for "outstanding ability and devotion to duty" during 50 operational flight missions with the fifth airforce in the southwest Pacific area.

Captain Paul was awarded the flying cross by Lieut. Gen. George C. Kinney, commander of allied airforces in the southwest Pacific, for extraordinary achievement in the 50 missions over mountainous terrain at low altitudes.

Transporting troops to advance positions and dropping supplies in adverse weather conditions has proved Paul an outstanding pilot, Kinney said when presenting the award.

Captain Paul left for the New Guinea area shortly after he was home early last July. First a pilot on a C-47 troop carrier, he flew to Iowa City three times during his training in the United States.

He has been in the air corps since May, 1942, and received his wings at Ellington field, Tex., last January.

A graduate of the college of liberal arts in 1936, he received advanced R. O. T. C. training while a student at the university, and enlisted in the cavalry force of the army a few months after his graduation.

Captain Paul was stationed in Washington, D. C. before his enlistment in the air corps.

Sergt. Fred Pefferle and Pvt. Jack Pefferle, both of Des Moines, are stationed at Camp Dodge in Des Moines with the infantry. They are former students.

In the ASTP program at San Francisco university, California, is Pvt. William White of Lamoni, a former engineering student in the university.
