Irish Nip Seahawks, 14-13, After Trailing for First Half; Hawks Whip Nebraska, 33-13

45,000 See Notre Dame Rally to Win

Creighton Miller Paces Victors, Dick Todd Shines for Navy

By DICK YOAKAM SOUTH BEND, Ind. (Special to The Daily Iowan)—The Seahawks of the Iowa Pre-Flight school went down to defeat at the hands of the Irish of Notre Dame, 14-13, yesterday in one of the most dramatic, thrill-packed games of the past decade.

A crowd of 45,000 alternately gasped and roared as the two teams fought up and down the field, showing titanic line play and flashing backfield work. Cumulative honors should go to Dick Todd, who, although injured late in the fourth quarter, sparked the Seahawks to come within eight yards of upsetting the nation's No. 1 team.

On the Irish side of the picture Creighton Miller, civilian student at Notre Dame, led the running and passing attack that finally clipped the wings of the high-flying Seahawks early in the third quarter. It was Miller who led Notre Dame to their first score on an 18-yard jaunt to the pre-flight 17.

The Seahawks gained an early advantage, taking the ball on the Notre Dame 38 after Lujack had punted out of bounds. Jimmy Smith, former University of Illinois back, set up the score on a 15-yard right end pass to the Irish 23. From there it was Todd and Smith trading off on downs to carry the ball to the 8. After Mertes had cracked the line for one, Art Gueppe, ex-Markette star, plunged around the right side of the line for the needed nine yards and a touchdown. With Smith holding, McGarry, second string guard, made the conversion.

The Seahawks threatened again in the second quarter when Todd, former Chicago Bears great, passed to Timmons for 27 yards and a first down on the Notre Dame 23. In the next succession of plays the Seahawk backfield carried the ball to the nine where the Irish took over on downs and turned the tables to threaten the pre-flighters.

With one minute and 15 seconds to go, Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame freshman who so ably filled the shoes of Angelo Bertelli, passed nine yards to John Yonakor on the Seahawk nine. On another pass, Lujack to Kelly, the ball bounded out of the end zone as the half ended.

The Irish came into their own at the beginning of the second half, when on a 65-yard sustained drive James Mello and Miller teamed up to smash over for the first Notre Dame score.

After Miller had set up the scoring threat on an 18-yard run, Johnny Lujack passed to Kelly for 14 yards to the Iowa pre-flight nine. Mello blasted to the seven on a line buck and on the following play Robert Kelly, navy reservist, hit the center for the tying score. Frederick Earley, conversion specialist, was sent into the game to split the uprights for the extra point.

The Seahawks got back into the game almost immediately as a powerful running attack temporarily buckled the Irish line. Take (See HAWKEYES, page 5.)

October Arms Output Biggest Since April

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arms production in October scored its biggest gain since April, Donald M. Nelson reported yesterday, with aircraft output reaching a record-smashing total of 8,362 planes. Measured by dollar value, October production advanced 5 percent over September.

"Manpower, occasional shortages of material, and design changes gave less trouble than in recent months," the war production board chairman said in his 16th monthly report.

"Better management, better effort by labor, better trained workers—in a word, 'know-how'—can be seen clearly in last month's performance."

Mystery Blast Starts London Discussing Nazi Secret Weapon

LONDON (AP)—A mystery explosion wrecked a five-story building in London's nightclub belt of Soho Friday night and for a while had Londoners discussing the possibility that the Germans had employed one of their oft-threatened 'secret weapons.'

During the day enough evidence was accumulated to dispel the supposition that a noiseless invisible projectile might have caused the blast, or that it was due to any kind of enemy action, but the exact cause nevertheless still was obscure last night, and seemed likely to remain so at least until Monday.

Authorities made an investigation of the blast soon after it occurred, but did not announce their findings and yesterday everybody concerned with the incident apparently had gone week-ending.

The explosion—London's third mysterious blast in a week—knocked out the walls of a building on a narrow street where the sales rooms of most major film companies are situated and shattered windows for a quarter of a mile around.

Partisans Fight To Hold Isles Near Fiume

LONDON (AP)—Yugoslav partisans under Gen. Josip Broz (Tito) grappled desperately with the Germans last night for the islands of Kik and Crew, which command the approaches to Fiume through which Hitler has been pouring reinforcements in the long, costly effort to beat down the ever-increasing menace to his southeastern Europe flank.

Nazi sea-borne troops gained initial lodgements on both islands and heavy but as yet indecisive fighting erupted.

This was the most important of half a dozen Yugoslav fighting fronts. In central Bosnia the partisans were pushed back slightly, but in the Croatian coastal area they threw back all Nazi attacks.

The Germans' fear of an allied Balkan invasion to complement the Russian offensive appeared to be rising hourly and reports from Ankara told of Nazi troop and supply trains moving down the Belgrade-Nis railroad at the rate of 12 a day. A report from Cairo said the Nazis already had begun attempts to invade allied-held Samos, less than a week after reconquest of the companion Aegean island of Leros.

Iowa Finishes 1943 Season With Only Win

Stephens, Gallagher, Terrell Share Honors In Old Gold Scoring

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Mark up one for Iowa's Hawkeyes in big letters—they whipped Nebraska yesterday 33 to 13.

It was a birthday gift for Iowa's coach, "Slip" Madigan; it was the first time in 25 years Iowa had beaten Nebraska in Lincoln; it was the first victory of the year for Iowa.

The Iowans used a ground attack to pile up their margin with roaring Bill Gallagher, fullback, ripping Nebraska's line to shreds much of the time. Nebraska had little beyond a passing game which brought both Husker touchdowns, one in each half.

Iowa got off in front in the initial period with Gallagher spearheading a drive that carried to the Husker one from where quarterback Roger Stephens sneaked over. In the second period Iowa made it 14 to 0 when Henry Terrell swept wide around end and raced 34 yards over the goal line. End Bill Barbour kicked both points.

Nebraska got back into the contest a few minutes later when Ted Kenfield passed 35 yards to Buzz Hollins, who ran to the one to set up Kenfield's sneak for a touchdown. Bill Hill kicked the point. Nebraska's other score came in the third period when Morris Galt hurled a fourth down pass that Bob Schneider took on the two and carried over for a net of 14 yards. The estimated attendance was 9,000.

But after that last Husker score Iowa turned the game into a rout. Howard Larson started Nebraska down hill when he ran the next kickoff back 64 yards to the Husker 23. Terrell picked up nine and Gallagher made it first down on the nine yard line. Gallagher plunged to the five, and after Iowa was set back five for backfield in motion, Terrell raced to the one foot line. Gallagher smashed over and Barbour made it nine straight conversions for the year with his good kick.

From then on Nebraska was almost helpless, Iowa scoring twice in the final period after being held once on the six-inch line after a first and goal on the four.

The attempted punt out was partially blocked by a host of Hawkeyes and recovered on Nebraska's 11. The Huskers piled up a couple of plays but a penalty put the ball on the one and Stephens sneaked over.

Iowa touchdown number five followed Kenfield's attempted pass from the end zone after a fumbled (See HAWKEYES, page 4)

Wallace Has Own Campaign To Insure His Renomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry A. Wallace is carrying on a unique campaign for renomination as vice-president on the personal assumption that President Roosevelt will be a candidate for a fourth term.

Although he reputedly has been "scratched" from the race by administration insiders who feel he would be of little vote-getting value in 1944, Wallace has no intention of accepting their verdict. He is out to prove to President Roosevelt that he represents labor and liberal elements in the Democratic party that must be reckoned with at the next national convention.

Thus far his efforts largely have been confined to speeches in which he has proclaimed the century of the common man, has lambasted "American Fascists," has attacked international cartels and has called for post-war government planning to guide American participation in world rehabilitation.

Long-Time Views These are ideas that Wallace has been expressing for a long time—as far back as his editorship

Germans Counterattack Along Ukraine Front Despite Russian Gains in Dnieper Bend

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Washington early today said an announcement was expected soon in Washington on a meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

There has been no allied confirmation of any meeting at present of the tri-power leaders, but axis sources for several days have hinted a meeting between the three was imminent, suggesting Cairo as the conference spot.

Speculation in London has suggested that one result of such a meeting would be a psychological offensive aimed to attract bomb-shaken Germany's surrender when the allied armies strike in the spring.

Key Allied Moves In Near Future Seen

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

Despite minor allied reverses in the Aegean and difficult Anglo-British advances up the Italian boot, key plays are about to be made on the global war chess board.

Some of the forthcoming moves are self-revealing, others still closely guarded united nations military secrets. Taken together, they give observers the strong impression that within days or a few weeks at most the war scene in the Pacific as well as in Europe will undergo a drastic change.

Despite a minor Soviet setback in the Zhitomir rail center, the main action in the battle to smash the reeling axis continued to be the Russian front. Nazi conquest dreams were dispelled at Stalingrad a year ago and the crumbling of the axis began with Red army break-throughs that now have stabbed hundreds of miles westward to threaten axis Balkan satellites and Germany itself with invasion from the east.

British victories in Egypt and Italian Africa and Anglo-American-French triumphs in north Africa, Sicily and on the Italian mainland help greatly. But it still is in Russia that the seeds of complete military disaster for Nazi Germany are ripening to unpredictable fruition. Nor is it to be doubted that the advance of the Russian steam-roller is about to be intimately coordinated for the first time with allied second-front attacks in progress by air or in preparation by land and sea. Word of new allied-Russian interchanges to that end may be expected at any moment and swift joint action to follow them up.

Over Germany stirred speculation in London that the on-set of the final, deadly winter air attack to shatter Nazi war industry, undermine German war morale and pave the way for an allied invasion from the west, has begun.

There are intimations from Italy, meantime, that German armies on all fronts are going into winter action badly crippled by motor transport shortages and with depleted divisions.

There have been fresh rumors of German peace feelers seeking a definition of what "unconditional surrender" would mean. One such rumor said German resistance on the home front was being bolstered by the uncertainty as to the country's probable fate.

Another rumor said German military leaders had Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemcioglu sound out British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden on the probable peace terms if they agreed to an armistice. Eden replied, according to this rumor, that the only term was "unconditional surrender."

By ALFRED WALL Associated Press War Editor Russian armies gained ground yesterday in their drive on Nikolop on the southern side of the Dnieper river bend, at their middle Dnieper bridgehead near Cherkasi, and in the Reichtsa area of lower White Russia, while beating off heavy G.erman counterattacks near Zhitomir, which the enemy recaptured Friday.

But the Moscow communiqué did not attach great importance to the gains, and the Russian army newspaper Red Star said the enemy was counter-attacking all along the Ukraine front from the Pripiet marshes to the Dnieper bend. These were declared repulsed.

In Italy the allied command reported the heaviest fighting in some days, with both the Eighth and Fifth armies making progress against stiff Nazi resistance.

The best gain scored by the allies was the Eighth army's five mile advance in the eastern sector which gave them Perano. From this position the British posed a threat to a significant sector of the Germans' winter line behind the Sauro river.

The trans-channel air war droned on, light bombers making daylight forays into northern France in the wake of the third successive strike in three nights against the German war machine.

Aussie Tanks Repulse Japs

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Sunday (AP)—Tank-paced Australian soldiers are continuing to move slowly ahead against Japanese entrenched in hilly country around Sattelberg on the Huon peninsula of northeastern New Guinea. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's spokesman said today.

(Tokyo had broadcast claims that the tank attack was repelled.) Previously, the Aussies in their jungle drive northwest of Finschhafen to Sattelberg, which overlooks the allies' positions because the Japanese are on a plateau, had been reported within a mile of their objective. The amounts of the latest gains were not specified.

In addition to the light tanks, the Australians drew support for the second straight day from bombing and strafing planes.

Mitchells and Marauders ranged north of Sattelberg along the coast, concentrating bombs and machine-gun fire on enemy supply dumps. On Friday morning, attack planes swept the same sector as well as Japanese camp areas slightly southwest of Sattelberg village.

MAJOR HUBBARD PRESENTS AWARD TO HERO'S WIFE

MAJ. CLYDE W. HUBBARD, commanding officer of the pre-meteorology school, yesterday presented to Mrs. Virginia Bellstein of Davenport the air medal with three oak leaf clusters earned by her husband, Lieut. John M. Bellstein. Three hundred seventy United States Army Air Corps pre-meteorologists participated in the impressive ceremony in City park. Lieutenant Bellstein is reported as missing in action over continental Europe. The award was presented for his "meritorious achievement of the destruction of one enemy airplane while serving as crewman on a bombardment mission over enemy occupied territory."

Loss of Coal, Oil Control Faces OPA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's price control machinery collided with another challenge yesterday—a threat to remove coal and oil from OPA jurisdiction—as President Roosevelt's stalwarts waged an apparently losing battle to save the consumer subsidy program.

With the subsidy showdown due Monday in the house, a bloc of lawmakers from coal and oil producing states announced that 209 signatures—just nine short of the required 218—had been collected on a petition to force action on their proposal.

"We'll collect the rest of them Monday," they claim. The petition calls for committee discharge of a bill to turn control of oil prices over to Interior Secretary Ickes. Johnson plans to offer an amendment to include coal.

Editorially Speaking... By Jim Zabel

Sideline Comments—

Where's Mazniaki?! . . . Where's Mazniaki?! . . . Dammit, why did Todd have to wreck his leg! . . . Why can't Bill Stern stop saying 'only 30 seconds left to play!?' . . . Why didn't they run or pass instead of trying for a field goal! . . .

There are times in every editorial writer's life when he forgets the world in general and asks himself just such questions . . . Yesterday, during the game, I couldn't stop myself from screaming such things . . . it was almost like '39 again . . . I think the game itself was the most exciting I've ever heard . . .

If the Seahawks aren't world champions, they are so close to it that a microphone could hardly distinguish the difference . . . they certainly played much better than the dopsters figured . . .

There're going to be a lot of flat wallets in N. Y. and Chicago next week . . . very few of the boys outside of Iowa City even considered betting 50-50 . . . even in Iowa City one better told me . . . 'Jeez, was I lucky . . . I took Notre Dame and only had to give six points' . . . that was before the game . . .

Bill Stern heaped more praise on Dick Todd than I've heard him give any football player for a long time . . . 'those two kicks of Todd's in the first quarter are among the best I've ever seen' . . . Todd did almost as much to put Iowa City on the map yesterday as Nile Kinnick did . . . and that goes for the whole Seahawk team . . .

I have a feeling that the people around this town will remember the navy for a long time . . . Funny thing about the Seahawks . . . nobody (even in Iowa City) paid too much attention to them until last week . . . we all knew they were a top-notch team, but not until yesterday did we discover how top-notch they were . . .

Last weekend in Iowa stadium the crowd was small, but the calibre of the navy team was obvious . . . I saw the game against Camp Grant then and argued all week that the odds against the Seahawks were much too high . . . but Notre Dame's glamorous buildup fooled a lot of people . . .

It was a moral victory in every sense of the word for the navy, I think . . . and it came darn near to being a physical one as well . . . Stern's broadcast was shortwaved around the world . . . it's hard telling how many millions of people heard him say repeatedly: 'The boys from Iowa City . . .'

But it sounded good to hear that phrase again after four long years . . . I imagine it made even the academics feel proud . . . The parades and shouting of '39 may have been lacking around town last night, but the feeling was still there . . .

One academic I know was shocked to learn that a bunch of university men like myself spent Sat. afternoon listening to a football game . . . he was more shocked to know how enthusiastic we were . . . 'It wouldn't be so bad if it were a university team, but why get so wound up over an ordinary service team? . . .

He has been turning his nose up at athletic contests for years . . . something disgusting, 'unworldly' about them, he thinks . . . He wasn't east of Davenport before he was 30 . . .

Which reminds me of a colored boy I ran an exhibition race against just after I finished high school and three seasons of track . . . I think he did something pretty 'worldly' for this country when he was in Berlin in '36 . . . His name was Jesse Owens.

Hitler, as everyone knows, was just rising to the height of his power in '36 . . . and his Nazi 'ideals' were becoming familiar to everyone . . . in his 'New Order' arrangement, the Jew was ranked as the lowest of all animals . . . there was only one lower: the Negro . . .

'He had been preaching for years that only pure Aryans could be supermen,' Owens told me in the locker room afterwards . . . 'The Negro was physi-

News Behind the News Facts Behind N. Y. Council Elections

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—A portentous mystery to the nation must have been the election of three Communists to the New York city council and the choice of Thomas Aurelio to the supreme court there, only a few weeks after his own party district attorney had exposed him as being all too clubby with a slot machine racketeer.

Backbiting recriminations exchanged by the New York politicians since then have offered no adequate explanation of this dual phenomenon, which may sound, offhand to an outsider, like New York was going Communist, in enthusiasm over the Moscow pacts, or that the electorate was not only angry but thoroughly mad at the Tammany leaders and let them stew in judicial juice of their own first choice.

There may be an iota or two of truth in such generalized assumptions, but the underlying facts show a different controlling impetus of events behind the results.

The truth is nothing could be, or was found on Aurelio, beyond the telephone conversation recorded by wiretappers of the district attorney working on another case. That dialogue between the judge and the racketeer seemed to betray a condition of familiarity, not entirely dissipated by Aurelio's excuse that he was just being lavishly appreciative to a remote constituent. Outside of that he was assumed to be pure, and disbarment proceedings against him therefore failed.

But Aurelio was elected by the Democrats and Tammany leaders themselves. They voted for him as they will tell you if you ask. They just called him a damned fool for getting involved in such a mess and think now he will be a good judge. At least he will be a Democratic judge, and the others running would not have been. Apparently all he will do on the supreme court affecting racketeers is to issue a writ now and then. He will try no criminal cases.

Some leftists and Democrats are now trying to blame Aurelio's election on Dewey (for having split the anti-Aurelio vote with an independent Republican candidate), but this is a political jibe overreached by the fact that Aurelio was not repugnant to the controlling New York City Democratic machine, and still is not.

The Communists sneaked into the city council by a trick which will certainly be made impossible hereafter by the state legislature at the next session. The communies will not be able to do anything on the council to control the city government, although they will no doubt become sensational political nuisances. The Democrats and Republicans will combine against them. There are only about 100,000 Communist voters in New York City and all are members of the American Labor party, (which can control no more than 320,000 votes in a city of about 2,200,000 registered voters.) Thus the city is in no danger of going Communist—by straight elections at any rate.

The councilmen, however, were elected by an idiotic voting system. A voter casts a first, second and third choice. The man who first gets 75,000 first choice votes, or a majority of first choices, or top preference among the first three. The Communists beat this racket by the simple device of having their people vote only for their own candidates as first choice, and for no other. In some sections of the city where the American Labor party is strongest they conducted hot campaigns, giving the ladies shopping bags with the names of their candidates printed in large letters thereon, distributing literature in hundred thousand lots, working race and religious issues to the utmost, getting support from anti-Communist Irish by coming out for 'Irish Freedom,' from the Jewish voters by charging opponents with anti-Semitism and the Negro through a negro Communist churchman—all at the same time.

The election was well handled only from the Communist side, and the question now is whether Tammany will try to reorganize itself and re-establish itself, or crumble and lose whatever remaining control it has loosely exerted in the nation's largest city.

ally and mentally incapable of doing anything significant. . . Owens told me what a kick he got of seeing American athletes slouch on to the field, and lounge around with a carefree air—completely in contrast with the stiff-legged, aloof German and Italian youths who even relaxed in formation. . .

'Hitler was in a rage that day,' Owens continued. . . 'I don't think the Germans and Italians won a single thing in track . . . and to aggravate him even more, I set four world records myself. . .

After the meet, Hitler was supposed to shake hands with the winners. . . He turned his back on me,' Owens said, 'and refused to shake hands or talk . . . he was fuming . . . I imagine he would have liked to ship me off to a concentration camp for wrecking his Nazi ideals. . .

It seems that this war is turning out to be a repetition of Jesse Owen's experiences on that day back in '36 in sunny Berlin. . .

The captive coal mine strike came to a sudden end as an agreement that it issue be submitted to arbitration with both sides bound to accept the terms was signed by union representatives.

The Cornhuskers continued to be the jinx of the Iowa team, downing them 14-13 as the curtain closer for the 1941 season. Iowa dominated the play for three quarters while Nebraska took the upper hand only in the last frame to bowl to a one point advantage and win.

'The Trial of Lucullus.' A play for the radio by Bertold Brecht. 'Some Poems of Friedrich Holderlin,' translated by Frederic Prokosch. 'The Poets of the Year,' New Directions: Norfolk, Connecticut, 1943. 50c each.

During the last years of the Weimar Republic, Bert Brecht was the most promising of the younger dramatic talents in Germany. He had great success on the stage, notably with his German version of the old English 'Beggars Opera,' set to music by Kurt Weill.

When Brecht found himself cut off from the stage by the events in Germany, he turned to other literary media: the radio play and the novel. 'The Trial of Lucullus,' first performed by a Swiss radio station during the invasion of Poland, is the attempt to adapt his dramatic talent to the technique of the radio play as it had then been developed in Germany. Thus, it cannot be judged by the ordinary standards of dramatic criticism—a fact which has been a pitfall to some American reviewers. This radio-play technique is based on the assumption that a play which has to rely exclusively on sound, cannot effectively follow the old pattern of a drama which is written to be seen as well as heard. Instead of well-rounded characters the radio playwright uses mere voices, set off against one another and blending like the instruments in an orchestra. Instead of a well defined plot, spreading out over three or five acts, the radio dramatist tries to produce a series of acoustic impressions built around a given scene or subject.

In the 'Trial of Lucullus' Bert Brecht tells the story of the last judgment of the Roman emperor Lucullus—a subject in itself utterly unsuitable for the legitimate stage but somewhat akin to the religious play of the Middle Ages. The judgment of Lucullus is the judgment of all and any dictator. Not the rather accidental figure of Lucullus is being tried but the war lord as such, the destroyer of human happiness. Lucullus is condemned for what is actually the object of all his pride: the fortune and glory he has brought to Rome. He has never stopped to think that by bringing glory to the state he had brought misery to thousands and millions in his own country and abroad. He had shown no consideration for the life of the fisher woman, the baker, the courtesan. History to which Lucullus turns for his defense, is without value when it conflicts with the well-being of the people. Brecht's play should not only be read but it should be heard. It would make, I am sure, a vivid impression also on American listeners.

It is an almost impossible task to translate Holderlin's poetry. This poet was steeped so deeply into the mysteries of life that he lost his equilibrium and spent many years in mental darkness. Such extreme poetic intensity, permeating and devastating the entire life of a poet, is, it seems, a very German form of artistic experience. It is a symptom like this one that makes it clear time and again that Germany does not altogether belong to western Europe. Yet nowhere else is the reader closer to the real sources and roots of German thinking and feeling. For this very reason, the attempt to recreate Holderlin and Novalis, to mention only two of the greatest

Jumpin' cranberries, here it is a bright and chilly day with Thanksgiving just around the 25th, and as smooth as a turkey feather. We've just been about and around enough to hear tantalizing turkey talk about homeward hustling indicating that a few people will be home to get the bird. Tickets at Desk Of Iowa Union For Lecture

Carl J. Hambro, Lecturer, Author, To Speak Tuesday

Tickets for the next university lecture which presents Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament and of the League of Nations assembly, may be obtained at the main desk in Iowa Union. Tickets remaining undistributed will be made available to the general public tomorrow and Tuesday.

Dr. Hambro, youngest man ever to be elected president of the Norwegian parliament, has written a book published under the same title as his lecture here, "How to Win the Peace," which points out the fatal failures of the League of Nations and shows how a dependable peace can be won and held for the future.

When the Germans invaded Norway, Dr. Hambro rallied the parliament to meet the conquest, though meetings were held in secret, many miles apart each day as they retreated before the invading armies.

When it was decided that Dr. Hambro could best serve his country elsewhere, he crossed the border into Sweden and from there succeeded in preventing Norway's gold reserve and its merchant marine from falling into German hands.

Every Norwegian ship upon the high seas was contacted and ordered to take refuge in a neutral port, although Germany, through quising representatives, was trying to lure the ships back to Norway.

It has been stated that if Dr. Hambro had served his country in no other way, he would live forever in Norwegian history for these two overwhelming accomplishments. A notable statesman, journalist and leader in world affairs, Dr. Hambro is known as Norway's ablest speaker and her most hard-working as well as her most versatile man in public life. Author of more than 20 books, he was editor-in-chief of Norway's leading conservative paper, president of The Associated Press of Norway and is a member of the Nobel prize committee.

COSTUME JEWELRY ACCENTS CAMPUS WEAR

ALL THE WAY from India came this box of jewelry which brings delighted exclamations from Dorothy Korneisel, 41 of Jefferson. In her hands she holds a carved ivory necklace, the pendant of which is inset with a carved elephant, trunk up for good luck. Over the box lies a necklace of petrified wood forming miniature logs. Bits of yarn and glass in greens and reds add gaiety to this novel piece. Dorothy is wearing a pleated taffeta skirt of white, red and blue, and a white silk blouse. A double strand of long red wooden beads and a bracelet of three strands to match add just the right touch to her costume. For other occasions Dorothy pins a wooden "Carmen Miranda" face with a turban of the same material as her skirt on her blouse.

Question: How is a South Sea island native like an Iowa coed? Answer: They're equally mad about bright costume jewelry. Even though the Iowa coed patriotically parted with some of her favorite trinkets when the salvage drive was on, she's still sporting gay novelties to catch and hold the eye. Bracelets that "Jingle Jangle Jingle" are the hobby of FRANCES SIMONSEN, A4 of Sioux City, whose collection includes four identification bracelets inscribed with her name and the name of the donor. They're in graduated sizes, the largest being a heavy silver band with a soldered link chain—a regular serviceman's bracelet with "Fran" in bold script across the tag. The other three are gold, the daintiest consisting of a narrow gold chain and her name on the tag in old fashioned block lettering. Fran finds all four of them companions that wear well.

Don the Victory Garden MURIEL MANSFIELD, A2 of Moline, Ill., takes her victory garden right along with her by donating a smart leather pin composed of carrots, a cabbage, a turnip and a potato. They're arranged in a bunch that makes the whole pin about 3 1/2 inches in diameter. Muriel wears it on a dark green sweater—looks good enough to eat!

ROBERTA HENDERSON, A2 of Bismarck, N. D., may be lacking a "Paper Doll" but she's found a darling felt one which she wears as a sweater-pin on her white sloppy sue. The dollie's face is a circle of pink felt. It's eyes are round and blue to match the perky blue hat set atop long brown yarn curls. The hat is decorated with a real red feather—the same shade of red as the felt "O" which forms the mouth and gives the face a surprised expression. Bobby wears a plaid pleated skirt of the same colors as are in the pin so become a bright accessory to fashion.

SHIRLEY BRAUCHT A3 of Joy, Ill., becomes a "Little Gypsy Sweetheart" when she puts on her large gold earrings. They're narrow circles about the size of a 50 cent piece and swing back and forth in a captivating manner when she moves. Shirley chooses just the right costume to go with them, a purple torso top with a gathered velvet gypsy skirt. Her shoes have bright platform soles like those worn by Carmen Miranda.

Ubangi's Face of Cork BILLIE PARKINS, C4 of Kansas City, Mo., wears one of the cleverest pieces of hand-made "junk jewelry" we've seen in a coed's age. It's a Ubangi's face made from a large size bottle cork, sliced flat in back so it can be pinned on. The eyes are small tacks and the mouth is another tack painted with bright red nail polish. The nose is formed by a staple on which is hung a small white celluloid curtain ring. The outstanding feature is the wild-looking beard and hair made from bright yarn. Billie wears her cannibal creation on a blue corduroy jumper.

Best friend on the campus is the cute little wooden Eskimo that LOUISE JOHNSTON, A2 of Marshalltown, pins on her sweaters. "Johnnie's" brother sent it to her from Alaska and it's bound to warm our hearts toward our northern neighbors. The face, carved in shiny brown wood, is wrinkled up into a wide grin. Surrounding it is a parka hood of fluffy white fur. Johnnie wears him over her heart on a red sweater with a matching red pleated skirt.

One of the most stunning pieces of sophisticated costume jewelry on campus is worn by BINGE HOAK, A3 of Des Moines. It's an ivory ring carved in the shape of a Chinese face and simply huge—over an inch square. The mounting is heavy silver. Binge discovered it in an antique store in New Orleans and couldn't resist, for it simply "rings" with good taste.

Fresh Flowers Daily Every gal likes to wear flowers, but there's always a disappointment when they begin to wilt. MARJORIE WALDORF, A3 of Peru, Ill., solved that problem when she purchased a sterling silver lapel pin in a form of a vase which actually holds water. Marjorie pins it on a tangerine dressmaker suit, puts in two or three violets or a little white rosebud, and she has a bouquet that stays fresh from day to day.

Pursuing the good neighbor policy is SARAH BAILEY, A4 of Des Moines, who pins a plaster head from Mexico on her lapel. The motif is Egyptian with very expressionless hand-carved features. The theatrical make-up is painted on and a gold leather headress surrounds the face. Sarah's brother bought it for her with his first pay-check, proving that a serviceman can be a right-hand man to feminine fashion too. Just as accessories can make an outfit, so can a clever piece of jewelry be the gem of a coed's wardrobe.

DORIS LEE'S "THANKSGIVING" REPRODUCED FROM THE ORIGINAL LITHOGRAPH BY SPECIAL PERMISSION

Thanksgiving, American Style

Includes Giving as well as thanks

It's apt to be a little different, this Thanksgiving. A service flag in the window will mean more empty chairs around the table. The turkey may shrink to a chicken, and the trimmings be a little on the sparse side.

But it's a surface difference only. Underneath, we've got more reason for thanks and more reason for giving than we've had in many long years.

Thanks—for enduring values suddenly become clear before our eyes, for the translation of "patriotism" from cold type in a dictionary to a hot flame in our hearts, for the knowledge of what we are fighting for, and for the will to work and fight for it.

Giving—and giving qualitatively, not quantitatively. Quantitative giving means measuring, doling out, keeping accounts . . . so many War Bonds, so many blood donations, so many working days without a rest. It's not what you give, it's how you give it. The more unstinted, unmeasured your giving, the sooner it will be returned to you, the sooner we can celebrate a real old-time Thanksgiving in a bright new world.

This Thanksgiving, let's be thankful for what we have . . . plan your dinner as usual . . . your son would want it that way . . . and if glassware, dinnerware or linens are needed, visit Strub's where moderate prices still prevail.

Michigan Ties With Purdue for Big Ten Title

Wolves Trounce Bucks, 45-7; Boilermakers Defeat Indiana

By JERRY LISKA
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's navy-marine studded Wolverines trounced the "Baby Buckeyes" of Ohio State, 45-7, to clinch a share of the western conference football championship with Purdue in a season finale witnessed by 45,000 here, yesterday.

The victory, with its second largest point total in a feud started in 1897, gave Michigan its first title claim since 1933. The Wolverines and the Boilermakers each finished undefeated in six conference starts, while Michigan was beaten only by Notre Dame.

Michigan's seven-touchdown spurge was fashioned mainly in the second half when the Wolverines rolled up 32 points against the scrappy but outmanned Ohio State youngsters.

The Wolverines, held scoreless in the second period, led only 13-0 at half time and then had their lead shaved to 13-7 when Ernie Parks, rangy Negro star, sprinted 36 yards for the only Buckeye touchdown and Sturgis kicked the point.

But then the Wolverines caught fire and savagely ripped the tiring Buckeye line to score almost at will. Fullback Bob Wiese, whose spinning thrusts bewildered the Buckeyes, led the scoring with two touchdowns, both on short bucks.

Four other Wolverines counted a touchdown apiece, Bob Nussbaumer's 31-yard sweep around end, and a 20-yard sprint by fullback Don Lund providing the most spectacular scoring.

Wally Dreyer, 158-pound halfback from Wisconsin, plunged two yards for Michigan's second touchdown, while Earl Maves, another ex-Badger, pounded eight yards for another in Michigan's 19-point final period. Vince Mroz, former Michigan State end, snared a 10-yard pass from quarterback Jack Wink, former Wisconsin player, for the seventh Michigan touchdown.

Guard Rex Wells booted two conversions and injured Elroy Hirsch, ex-Wisconsin star, kicked one point to wind up as Michigan's leading scorer this season with 68 points.

Largest score in the 40-game series is Michigan's 86-0 victory in 1902.

L. S. U. Will Play In Orange Bowl Game

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Louisiana State university's all-civilian football team will play in the 10th annual Orange bowl game here New Year's day.

The announcement of the selection was made by the Orange bowl committee and LSU's athletic Director T. P. Heard said at New Orleans that the Tigers would accept. The news, given to the team in the dressing room immediately after the 27-0 defeat at the hands of Tulane, cheered the players but Coach Bernie Moore said he had rather have had a victory over the Greenies than a bid to any bowl.

Committeemen would not name the teams being considered to oppose L. S. U., but said the choice probably will go to another eleven which does not have the aid of service cadets, so as "not to disturb the training program."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Big Al Postus, closing out a brilliant career at Villanova college, scored two touchdowns and set up all three others in a brilliant display of running and passing before 10,000 in sunlit Temple stadium yesterday, as Villanova swamped a game gang of Temple youngsters, 34-7, in the final game of the season for both teams.

DEFENSIVE ACE - - - By Jack Sords

CENTER
GORDON APPELBY
DEFENSIVE STAR OF THE OHIO STATE ELEVEN

For 52 years Indiana and Purdue have been playing football against each other, but the oldest grey-beard had to scratch his head to find an equal in thrills yesterday as the Boilermakers from Purdue completed their first perfect season since 1929, with a 7-0 victory over their Hoosier rivals.

The triumph not only assured Purdue of a high spot in national ratings, but gave the service-bolstered Boilermakers a tie with Michigan for the Big Ten championship.

The 15,000 fans were in a frenzy throughout the entire last quarter as Indiana drove inside the Purdue five-yard line three times and on the last occasion the stalwart Boilermaker line held for four downs within its two-yard line and took the ball on its one just seven seconds before the final gun.

All but one of the sustained scoring threats were produced by Indiana, but in the end it was that brilliant Boilermaker line, aided and abetted by Boris Dimancheff and Sam Vacanti, who stopped every Hoosier drive just when it looked as if Indiana was going to score.

Purdue made only one long sustained march and it was good for a touchdown. In the first quarter the Boilermakers drove 73 yards to a touchdown on Dimancheff's slashing runs through the line and then a climax pass from Vacanti to Frank Bauman from the Indiana 37. Bauman gathered the ball in on the Hoosier 20 and raced down the sidelines to score with Indiana players clutching at his shirt tails as he went over.

It was a particularly hard pill for Indiana to swallow since the Hoosiers had not been shut out since Fordham turned the trick back in 1939. Since then the Hoosiers have scored in 35 consecutive ball games.

But on the statistical side the edge was all in favor of the Hoosiers. They outgained Purdue by ground and by air and piled up 13 first downs to 9 for the Boilermakers.

In that furious last quarter Indiana had its first down on Purdue's two-yard line with 55 seconds to play. Three times Purdue's line stacked up running plays and on the final effort Bobby Hoernschmeyer's pass fell incomplete.

Purdue had time for one running play and the game was over.

Indiana scoring: Touchdown, Parks. Point after touchdown, Stungis (for Williams) (placekick).

Michigan scoring: Touchdowns, Wiese 2, Dreyer, Nussbaumer, Mroz (for Maves), Lund, Maves, (for Dreyer). Points after touchdown, Wells 2, Hirsch (for Nussbaumer) (placekicks).

Cyclones Win, 48-0, Over Kansas State

By DWIGHT MCCORMACK
AMES (AP)—The forward passing combination of halfbacks Howard Tippee and George Gast, both of whom closed their collegiate gridiron careers, led Iowa State to a 48-0 victory over Kansas State yesterday before 4,000 fans.

Tippee, who hurled strikes all over the lot, tossed to Gast for three of the seven touchdowns the Cyclones rang up in ending their 1943 season with a record of four victories and four defeats.

Paul Keckley, sub halfback, scored twice on short runs; fullback Meredith Warner ran 52 yards for another of the Cyclones' touchdowns and end Leroy Wiltzie took a 40-yard pass from Fritz Clausen for the other touchdown.

Warner accounted for five extra points by placekicks and Keckley ran over for the other.

Kansas State threatened only twice, missing touchdowns by three yards once and five yards the other time.

Tippee passed five times in seven plays before Gast scored the first touchdown. Seven Tippee passes and one running play carried the ball 56 yards for the second Tippee-Gast marker. Four plays ended with the last Tippee-Gast touchdown pass.

Keckley scored his first touchdown as the climax of a 93-yard drive, and went over for his second after a short march. Warner cut through the line and outsped Kansas State for his touchdown.

Iowa State scoring: Touchdowns, Gast 3, Keckley (for Tippee) 2, Warner (for Howard), Wiltzie. Points after touchdown, Warner 5 (placekicks), Keckley (running play).

lateral set Nebraska back on the one. Stephens grabbed the pass and carried it back to the five, Terrell swinging around end on the next play for a touchdown.

Barbour, who missed his try for point after the fourth Iowa touchdown, kicked this one but had to try again from further out because Iowa was holding. He missed that time.

Northwestern ended its league action in third place behind the new Big Ten co-champions, Purdue and Michigan.

This was Otto Graham's last game for Northwestern, at least for the duration of the war, and the versatile youngster obliged with two short touchdown trips and two points after touchdown.

Otto also carried the ball in an amusing bit of extra-inning play, running on to the field in civilian clothes after the final gun, snaring the pigskin from a wrestling jam of players and tearing off the gridiron triumphantly as team mates and Illini pursued him futilely.

Fullback Nick Vodick also was a two-touchdown man for the Wildcats, making one on a 28 yard run, and Joe Scriba, Harry Franck and Henry Altepeter collected the others. Two Northwestern touchdowns were made of 41 yards, with others of 48, 61, 61, 68 and 66 yards, plus the 36-yard scoring pass play.

The Wildcats amassed 416 yards rushing and 123 passing, to Illinois' 123 rushing and 25 passing. They also tallied 18 first downs to Illinois' 6.

Bray Runs 90 Yards For Illini Score

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern, beaten only by Michigan and Notre Dame, ended a successful football campaign yesterday by walloping Illinois' youngsters, 53 to 6, before 25,000 spectators in Dyche stadium.

The Wildcats scored their sixth victory in easy fashion, rambling 41 yards or more for seven of their touchdowns and connecting for the eighth on a slick 38-yard pass play engineered by a couple of their third stringers, Bill Adler and Bernard Schadler.

But the Illini, pounded into their fourth conference defeat in six games, had reason to cheer in the third period when Little Eddie Bray snagged a Northwestern kickoff and ran 90 yards to score in the most spectacular play of the day.

Northwestern ended its league action in third place behind the new Big Ten co-champions, Purdue and Michigan.

This was Otto Graham's last game for Northwestern, at least for the duration of the war, and the versatile youngster obliged with two short touchdown trips and two points after touchdown.

Gophers Wind Up Season by Defeating Wisconsin, 25 to 13

By HOWARD MORGEN
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota defeated Wisconsin yesterday, 25 to 13 to wind up its Big Ten season with a record of two wins and three losses.

Long touchdown runs featured the game, with Chuck Avery of Antigo, Wis., dashing 61 and 67 yards for scores in the first period to set up the Gophers' margin.

Minnesota scored first, on Avery's 61-yard run after taking a lateral, but Wisconsin came back with John Kuenzler dashing 27 yards to score. Kuenzler also kicked the extra point and the Badgers led, 7 to 0.

That margin lasted only 30 seconds, however, as Wayne Williams unleashed a long forward pass which Avery took on the dead run for a 67-yard touchdown gain. There was no further scoring in the first half.

A Wisconsin fumble on the first play of the third period set up another Gopher touchdown. Minnesota recovered on the Badger 40, and three line plays gained 37 yards. The Badgers put up a stone wall, and three shots at the line gained only a yard. Then on a fake fullback plunge, the ball was lateraled to Williams, who circled right end for the score.

The Badgers hung right in the game, however, with a Lawrence Heinz-to-Don Kindt forward putting the ball on the Gopher 20. Six plays later Kindt cracked over, and Wisconsin had only a six point deficit at 19 to 13.

However, the Gophers had plenty of punch after taking the next kickoff, and marched straight down the field, clicking off 60 yards in 10 plays for another counter.

The game was more closely contested than the final score might indicate. Minnesota had only a slight edge on first downs, 15 to 12, and gained a net of 287 yards to 175 for the Badgers.

Penn State Downs Pittsburgh, 14 to 0

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Penn State's Nittany Lions, led by Bill Abramitis, an ex-Pitt star, and two marine trainees who had joined the team only three weeks ago, struck for two first half touchdowns yesterday to down the Pitt Panthers, 14 to 0, before a crowd of 15,000.

The Packers, beaten only by Washington and the Bears this year, figure to deal Brooklyn its seventh defeat and snap the Dodgers' two-game winning streak, while the Giants appear to have a walkaway over the Cardinals, who have lost every one of their eight starts.

Phil-Pitt's title hopes, and even its runnerup aspirations, may be dealt a blow by the remarkable Detroit Lions, although no one can accuse the Eagles of not taking care of themselves this season. But the Lions, ending their schedule today, have yielded only to the league's big three—Washington, the Bears and Green Bay—and have been a scrappy outfit all the way under the first year tutoring of Gus Dorais.

Christmas Seal Sale Opens Here Tomorrow

Residents of Johnson county will begin this year's battle against the rising death rate from tuberculosis when the 37th annual Christmas seal sale opens tomorrow. Seals, which will be sent to purchasers through the mail and will be on sale at local banks, may be placed on the outside of all parcels mailed within the United States between Dec. 1 and Jan. 1.

Sponsored by the Johnson County Tuberculosis association in conjunction with the nationwide campaign, sale of Christmas seals is the only means of support for tuberculosis prevention and control. Money collected goes for tuberculin tests and x-rays, nursing service, motion pictures on tuberculosis, educational talks, the school magazine, "Health Habits," and the early diagnosis educational campaign.

More than 4,000 cases of tuberculosis are known in the state. There are 69 in the county alone. Many are unknown.

Lieutenant Anderson, a graduate of City high school, enlisted in the air corps Jan. 5, 1942. After receiving his training at Sheppard field, Garner field, and Goodfellow field, all in Texas, he was commissioned at Lubbock field, Texas.

Since June 1, Lieutenant Anderson has been overseas serving as a pilot on a Flying Fortress with the eighth airforce in England. He was awarded the air medal with one oak leaf cluster, which his mother will receive.

Elmer Raim Pleads Guilty of Forging; Sentence Suspended

Elmer Raim, 26 of Iowa City, pleaded guilty in district court yesterday to passing a forged check. The case was heard before Judge Harold D. Evans.

Raim was sentenced to 10 years in the men's reformatory in Anamosa, but the sentence was suspended upon the recommendation of Edward F. Rate, Johnson county attorney, and Raim was paroled to Sheriff Preston Koser.

The sentence will be enforced if Raim drinks intoxicating liquor, including beer, or enters a tavern anywhere. He is to get a job, support his family and make payments of $5 or more a week to the clerk of district court, R. Neilson Miller, until he has paid $31, the amount of the check which he passed at Dunkel's Cigar store. Payments are to begin when he gets his first pay check.

He will also report weekly to the sheriff.

ing over the ball on their own 18. Tod, Mertes, and Smith drove for five successive first downs and, as the fourth quarter opened had the ball on the Notre Dame 16-yard line.

For a moment it looked as if this drive was to be halted when the Pre-Flighters missed a first-and-ten on the six by inches. However, on the following play Johnny Lujack fumbled and George Tobin recovered for the Seahawks on the Irish 13. The Iowans immediately took advantage of his miscue as Todd passed to Dick Zurke, reserve end, for the score and the Seahawks led, 13 to 7.

Notre Dame was not to be denied. Again turning on the power, they passed to a first-and-ten on the pre-flight 30-yard line. On fourth down Lujack passed to Yonakor for 11 yards. Todd was injured on the play and as he was carried from the field on a stretcher the entire stands arose in tremendous ovation. On the next four plays Creighton Miller carried the ball three times, finally crashing over from the six. Earley was again sent in to kick for Notre Dame and as the crowd held its breath, he put the ball squarely between the uprights for the extra point.

The Seahawks made one more attempt to score, carrying the ball to the Notre Dame 18, where McGarry tried a field goal from the 25. The kick fell short, however, and was caught by Rykovich on his own 11, returning it to the 28. On the next play Notre Dame fumbled, and the ball was recovered by Perry Schwartz on the 34. In a last desperate attempt, Bud Higgins, University of Minnesota star, tossed four incomplete passes and Notre Dame took over on downs as the final gun sounded.

The Seahawk public relations officer announced after the game that Todd had suffered a broken jaw and had been rushed to a South Bend hospital for further observation.

new military catastrophe," the speaker declared.

Iowa's religious activities were to begin a drive that was to gather for them funds needed to carry on their program for the next fiscal year. Student subscription was to pay for much of the needed $3,300.

Iowa's athletic situation was still up in the air with no more word from the athletic department as to the resignation of Irl Tubbs and the appointment of his successor.

Nov. 21, 1933 . . .
 Asserting that the nation was threatened with "unrestrained inflation and complete collapse of governmental credit," Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, special financial advisor to the treasury department, resigned in protest against the Roosevelt monetary policy.

Sprague commented, "The present policy threatens a complete breakdown of the credit of the government. The recovery program involves expenditures far in the excess of current revenues. Certainly more than two billions of dollars must be borrowed during the remainder of the fiscal year."

Mayor Harry D. Breene named Joe Laws, stellar back of the 1933 championship Hawkeyes, to the position of honorary fire chief of Iowa City.

The Iowa Hawkeyes were to "burn the old shoe" at that day's practice to insure their victory at the final game with Nebraska. Captain Tom Poore was to throw the old shoe over his shoulder, 20 paces from a fire and if it hit the fire Iowa would win the final game.

names, will be made again and again.

Mr. Prokosh's selection and translation are both very interesting and well done. The poems he has included in his volume all belong to Holderlin's early phase. Particularly beautiful is his version of the poem "To Nature." It is the verses in Greek meters sound rather antiquated; it might have been of advantage if he had chosen instead only those which appeal more to modern taste.

Information First Lecture Scheduled Early This Week

"Information First" will be held Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, instead of Thursday afternoon at the same time, as it is regularly held. The early scheduling of this week's lecture is due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Mrs. Edwin F. Lee, the wife of the resident Methodist bishop of Malaya and the Philippines, will be this week's "Information First" lecturer. Her subject will be "Whither the Rising Sun?"

She has been in Japan with her husband many times, enroute to and from the United States, and spent several weeks there in 1915. Many Japanese have penetrated into the part of Southeastern Asia in which her husband's episcopal area is located.

Bishop and Mrs. Lee maintained a home in Singapore and one in Manila. They lived six months in each place to establish residence, then traveled, with these residences as central points, throughout the territory covered by Bishop Lee's church work.

They were in Singapore at the time of its evacuation and were given only four minutes warning that they would have to leave their home there. They were on the last boat to leave Singapore, and of three boats travelling together from there, theirs was the only one which escaped being torpedoed.

From Singapore the Lees took refuge until they were able to return to the United States.

Mrs. Lee has written extensively and while in Singapore, edited a paper, the "Malaya News" which was distributed throughout the Methodist district there.

She has travelled around the world many times and she and her husband have both made several lecture tours of the United States. Bishop Lee, who was a chaplain in the first world war, is now lecturing on the west coast.

She was graduated from Upper Iowa university, Fayette, in 1907, and last June was awarded an honorary Ph.D. degree from the same university, because of her accomplishments since graduation.

Her lecture Tuesday afternoon will include a discussion of Japanese customs and military methods as she has observed them firsthand and through the eyes of their Asian neighbors.

The lecture will be followed by a period of questions and discussion during which members of her audience may ask questions related to her subject, "Whither the Rising Sun?"

SUI Alumnus Awarded Air Medal With Oak Leaf

The irony of fate sneaked up on Lieut. John L. Dillinger, university alumnus. After having escaped without a scratch from 10 successful bombing missions over Germany and being decorated for gallantry in action, the lieutenant suffered a broken leg when he was hit by a truck while bicycling to his airport in England to report for duty.

Lieutenant Dillinger, a co-pilot on a four-motored bomber, has been awarded the air medal with oak leaf cluster. The squadron of the army airforce in England to which he belongs completed 25 bombing missions after his departure.

Most of the squadron has returned to the United States. Lieutenant Dillinger has been recovering from his injury in this country and has been in Iowa City on convalescent leave.

He was graduated from the university in 1939 and received his M.S. degree in 1940. His home is in Avoca.

'Education Is Weapon for Victory' Says Agnes Samuelson in Lecture Yesterday

"The educational program, school personnel and school finance are key areas to be studied in order to prepare our schools for adequate handling of post-war educational problems," Agnes Samuelson, executive secretary of the Iowa State Teachers association said yesterday.

Speaking before approximately 100 members and guests of the American Association of University Women in Iowa Union yesterday afternoon, Miss Samuelson declared that education is being recognized as a weapon for victory by the allies as well as the axis, but we must realize that it is also a weapon for winning the peace.

Colleges and universities must do double-duty in accelerating their programs and yet maintain the basic fundamentals necessary for a good educational program.

Even though our state ranks high in literacy, Iowans are included in the 1,000,000 men who have been rejected from the armed forces because they lack even fourth grade schooling. Miss Samuelson feels that the public should realize the waste of ignoring the education of such people and should formulate a code revision law to remedy the inadequacies of our educational program.

Since Pearl Harbor, 100,000 teachers have left their positions for the armed services or for defense jobs. This is not hard to understand when national statistics show that 10,000 teachers were paid a yearly salary of less than $300; 66,000 less than $600, and that living costs increased 32 percent while teachers' salaries increased only 7 percent.

The schools can not continue to play their vital part in wartime and post-war education if this continues," Miss Samuelson declared. We must raise qualifications as well as salaries and school appropriations to meet the post-war demand, she told the group. Miss Samuelson feels that the financial situation could be improved if school funds were appropriated from the general tax fund rather than from the property tax as it now is in Iowa.

Chairman of the hostess committee for the luncheon meeting was Mrs. Lloyd Knowler. Assisting her were Mrs. P. E. Huston,

Pfc. and Mrs. W. Grala Honored at Party

A party in honor of Pfc. and Mrs. William Grala, who were married recently in Hazlet, Pa., during Private Grala's furlough from the A. S. T. P. here, was held in the home of Prof. and Mrs. Paul Engle, 1218 Friendly street, last night at 6 o'clock.

Guests included Pfc. George Schizely of Bronxville, N. Y.; Corp. Keith Snyder of Watertown, S. D.; Sergt. Bolaf Bolm of Hollywood, Calif.; Pfc. Joseph Murphy of Ontario, Ore.; Pfc. Alexander Erdman and Pfc. Oscar Fischer, both of New York; John Erikson of Minneapolis, Minn.; LaVerne Ludecke and the men's guests.

Corporal Snyder furnished 13 wild ducks and pheasants, the product of a hunting trip made during his furlough. After dinner, dancing entertained the guests. German songs which the men have learned in the foreign language department of the A. S. T. P. here were also sung.

Mrs. White introduced Miss Samuelson, who received her M.A. degree from the University of Iowa, was president of the National Council of Education in 1935 and has been active in various other educational organizations.

Termites Discovered In City Library; Building Now Closed

Bookworms aren't causing any trouble at the City library, but termites are! As a result, the library will be closed until Friday while repairs are made.

Library officials almost fell through the floor (literally) when they discovered the insects, which can make a hollow shell of almost any piece of wood, in the basement floor last week. Since termites begin at the base of a building and work up, other floors of the building are undamaged.

The new basement floor will be of cement.
