U.S. Editors Protest Reuters 'Scoop'

Broken Nazis Flee in Italy; Red Forces Threaten Zhoblin

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers (AP)—Demoralized German troops streamed back toward Rome in full retreat yesterday from their shattered defenses near the Adriatic and began demolishing the key city of Cassino in the central sector as Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American Fifth army joined their British allies in splintering the enemy's "winter line."

The four-day-old battlefield of Sangro ridge was littered with enemy dead and wounded and wrecked equipment. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's victorious Eighth army hammered and tore at the withdrawing Nazis in comparatively open country, while hundreds of allied warplanes worried the enemy from the sky.

"The Germans are in full retreat," declared a special allied announcement that revealed the extent of the disaster to Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's forces. "Reinforcements are being brought up by the Germans from northern Italy."

1,500 Germans Die As Russians Engulf 80 Villages in Drive

Soviet Army Sweeps Northwest of Gomel, Starts New Offensive

LONDON, Friday (AP)—Powerful Red army forces smashing northwest of Gomel and threatening Zhlobin swept up more than 20 villages and killed 1,500 Nazis Thursday, Moscow declared early today, while to the north the Germans reported a fresh Soviet offensive rolling down the Smolensk road to Orsha, apparently aimed at Minsk from the northeast.

The Russians were silent concerning a northern drive upon Minsk, White Russian capital, but a German radio dispatch said it had pierced the German line at two points, cutting into secondary defenses.

Russian troops carved out new gains on two other sectors, said Moscow communications recorded by the Soviet radio monitor, and wiped out 1,000 Germans thrown "without consideration for large losses" into vain counter-attacks west of Cherkasy in the strategic Dnieper bulge.

To the south, Soviet forces plunged closer to the rail junction of Znamenka, key to lateral communications between the Dnieper bend sack and Kiev bulge. Moscow said they captured Dmitrovka and Fedorki, six and 15 miles north of Znamenka, and other Nazi strongpoints in this general sector, and 27 tanks were wrecked, the early morning communiqué added.

A whole battalion of Nazis was reported wiped out along the lower Priprut river, southwest of Zhlobin, as the Germans were routed from prepared positions.

The communiqué pictured desperate German efforts to roll back the Soviet bridgehead west of the Dnieper near Cherkasy, and said 24 Nazi tanks were wrecked in repeated enemy counterattacks.

Again for the second day, the Russians made no mention of the bloody fighting in the Zhitomir-Korosten area west of Kiev, where some of the greatest tank battles of the war are said to be raging in deep mud.

Jap Shipping Hit New Blows As— Allies Sink Transport, Tanker

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Friday (AP)—A loaded 10,000-ton Japanese transport and a large tanker were destroyed and two destroyers damaged by alert allied reconnaissance planes which spotted a sudden increase in enemy shipping activity off Kavieng, New Ireland, headquarters reported today.

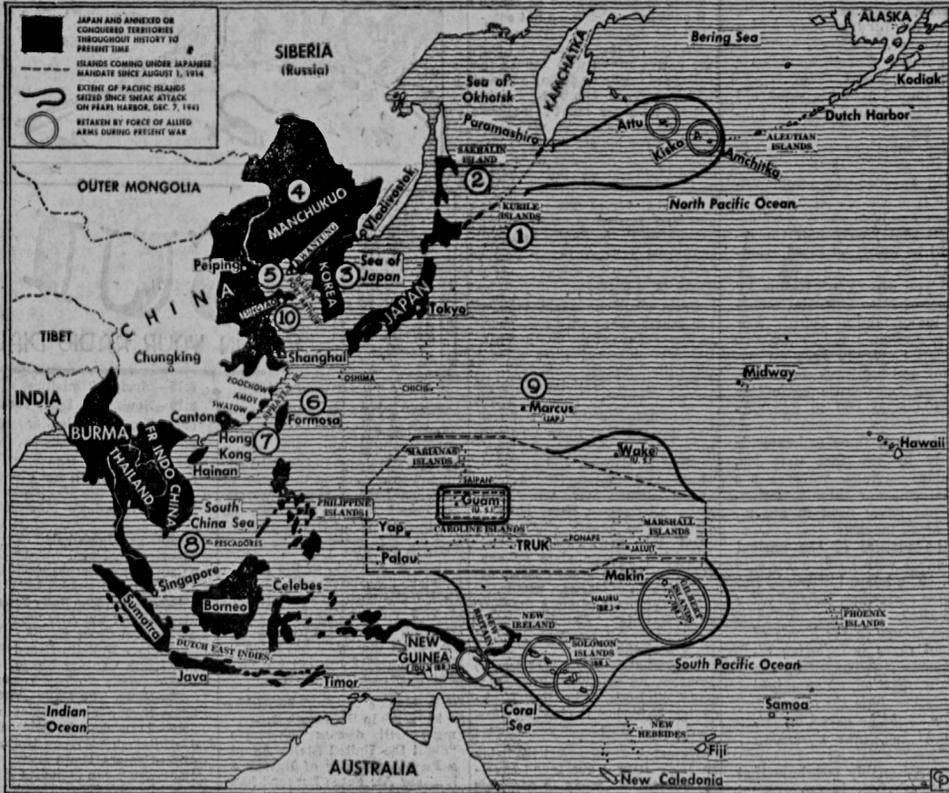

The attacks occurred the night of Nov. 30 and the morning of Dec. 1.

Convoy Fifth airforce Liberators opened the assault on a convoy consisting of two destroyers, the transport, a large whaling ship and two unidentified vessels, moving northwest toward Kavieng. After two direct hits were scored on the transport, heavy explosions occurred and its human cargo abandoned it before it sank.

Several hours later, two United States navy Catalinas on separate patrols scored bombing successes at almost the same moment.

One spotted two destroyers, scoring a direct hit on each with

'...Japan shall be stripped...'

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL, together with their respective military and diplomatic advisors, have completed a conference in North Africa at which the Allied leaders announced the resolve that Japan shall be stripped of all the islands in the Pacific which she has seized or occupied since the beginning of the first World war in 1914, and that all territories Japan has stolen from the Chinese, such as Manchuria, Formosa and the Pescadores, shall be restored to the Republic of China. Japan also will be expelled from all other territories which she has taken by violence and greed. The three powers, mindful of the enslavement of the people of Korea, are determined that in due course Korea may become free and independent. What Japan will lose is shown on this map: (1) Kurile Islands. Those held by Russia obtained by Japan in 1875. (2) Japanese Sakhalin, ceded by Russia in Treaty of Portsmouth, October, 1905. (3) Korea, annexed by Japan, Aug. 22, 1910, after long dispute with Russia, precipitating the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05. (4) Manchukuo. Japan wrested Manchuria (Manchukuo) from China in 1931. (5) Kwantung. It is southern part of Liaoting peninsula, southernmost portion of Manchuria. Japan took it as spoils of war from China but was forced to return it. Russia leased it for 25 years from China, constructing fortified city of Port Arthur and ice-free port of Darien. Japan took Port Arthur by siege in 1905 and took over lease in Treaty of Portsmouth. (6) Formosa. Ceded by China in 1895 after Sino-Japanese war. (7) Spratly Islands. Annexed by Japan, March 31, 1939. (8) Pescadores. Ceded by China in 1895. (9) Marcus Island. Occupied by Japan in 1895. (10) Tsingtao (Kiaochow). Walled city on south coast of Shantung peninsula. Since 1898 it had been center of a German protectorate. In the European war Japan compelled Germany to evacuate the protectorate after resistance by Germans. The Allies, heavily engaged in Europe then, were unable to protest. (International)

What the Conferences Mean To Europe . . . To Asia

LONDON (AP)—A forthright Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

Military decisions of the trio, already made or being shaped, mean intensified war upon Germany now, not at some remote future time. Twin crises are developing now for battered Nazi armies in Russia and in Italy to match that on the roofless and bomb-blasted Nazi home front.

The opportunity for concerted action to turn Nazi twofront retreats into disastrous routs and lop months off the duration of the war in Europe is clearly depicted in current bulletins from the fighting fronts. It cannot be ignored by the super war council. Time is of the essence in the problem confronting the triumvirate of allied war captains, and it waits on no man.

A pronouncement of "freedom from slavery" to the German people from the "big three" designed to lay the Nazi bogey of Europe's Bolshevization, would not surprise the British public. A psychological warfare blow at Hitler in a statement intended to weaken resistance of the bomb-stricken people is looked for in the wake of the Cairo communiqué aimed at Japan.

There were indications, for instance, that Stalin might stand on a mere token occupation of Germany by the Red army.

As unofficially envisaged in London, any "big three" declaration might assure the German people, as Stalin already has done, that the allies are not fighting them but their Nazi masters.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Alerted by the Cairo conference which passed grim death sentence upon imperial Japan, world attention is focused now upon the more immediate results expected to flow from the long awaited personal meeting of Prime Minister

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Cairo conference is believed here to have agreed on a high strategy against Japan which provides for recapturing the Philippines and opening a sea route to China.

Over this route the United States and Britain, principally, must arrange to ship more than 1,000,000 tons of supplies a month if they are to maintain and operate a minimum offensive force of as much as 100,000 men, and that would allow an air force of only 200 bombers and 400 fighters. Every multiple of these forces would require roughly another 1,000,000 tons of shipping a month to cover the thousands of miles to China.

Yet until this route can be established and an aerial assault launched from China, American military and naval men say, there can be no final grand offensive against Japan proper. It is for this reason, they add, that plans for stepped up action in the Pacific and Asia must always be balanced by an understanding of the time and cost involved.

Developing this theme at his press conference yesterday, Secretary of War Stimson, obviously having in mind the Cairo meeting, said he looked for an accelerated offensive against Japan but warned that the reconquest of enemy-held territory would be long and expensive.

One well-informed officer says it would take at least 18 months to smash Japan after Germany is defeated. Others speculate on two years. If the war against Germany should be won this winter—a possibility for exploration by Roosevelt and Churchill in their presumably current meeting with Marshal Stalin—the war with Japan now may be about half over.

Should Russia—the great mystery of the Pacific—someday become actively involved, the strategy for beating Japan probably would change overnight to provide an immediate aerial offensive from Russian bases.

As military men here explain the situation there are three main routes for approaching the enemy's main islands from the American side of the Pacific. One is the westward route upon which Admiral Chester W. Nimitz set his Pacific fleet last month in the invasion of the Gilbert Islands. Another is the northward march of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces, presently also including the forces of Admiral William F. Halsey, south Pacific commander. The third is the southwest route from the tip of the Aleutians into the Kuriles.

United States Casualties to Date Number 126,969; Includes 27,481 Men Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war to date has cost the United States 126,969 military casualties, 27,481 of them killed in action.

Secretary of War Stimson announced yesterday that army casualties from the start of the war to Nov. 15 totaled 94,918, while figures compiled by the navy reported 32,051 casualties for the navy, marine corps and coast guard through last week.

Gilbert Losses Excluded The navy figures did not include losses in the Gilbert Islands where 1,092 men were killed and 2,680 wounded, all but a few being marines shot down on Tarawa. The army total apparently included only part of the casualties suffered by American units of the Fifth army in Italy—Stimson said these units from the beginning of operations on the Italian mainland have lost 1,811 killed, 7,091 wounded and 2,670 missing. Stimson also reported that 1,610 American soldiers taken prisoner have died in enemy prison camps, most of them in Japanese-occupied territory. So far, the war department has published the names of 1,555 who died in Japanese prison camps.

Over All Figures The over all casualty figure of 126,969 was divided as follows: Killed: navy 10,663, marine corps 2,181, coast guard 316, army 14,321, total 27,481. Wounded: navy 3,001, marine corps 2,661, coast guard 78, army 32,690, total 38,430. Missing in action: navy 8,248, marine corps 637, coast guard 41, army 24,490, total 33,416. Prisoners of war: navy 2,276, marine corps 1,948, coast guard 1, army 23,417, total 27,642.

OWI Head Complains to British Over Handling of Cairo News

WASHINGTON (AP)—American editors formally protested to the White House last night and the director of U. S. war information lodged a complaint with the British government over the handling of the news of the Cairo tri-power conference.

Both complaints criticized Reuters, British news agency. Reuters sprang part of the story out of Lisbon, Portugal, and for more than 24 hours thereafter other editors with the full official communique in hand were pledged to secrecy on it.

Roy A. Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, wired the White House and OWI:

"I am entering an earnest protest against the manner in which the release of the Cairo conference was handled and especially against the treatment accorded the accredited American war correspondents assigned to this important story."

"The whole episode hurts the war effort. Our war correspondents have too fine a record of devotion and sacrifice in this war in keeping the public at home informed to be brushed off as they were."

"The breaking of faith, if not the release, by Reuters destroyed much of the effect of what should have been one of the epochal highspots of the war."

Stephen Early, White House press secretary, declined comment on the Roberts telegram, saying he had not yet received it. So also did Elmer Davis, chief of OWI.

Davis filed his protest with Brendan Bracken, British minister of information, who earlier in the day was called on the carpet in the house of commons to explain why Reuters and the British Broadcasting corporation relayed the dispatch throughout Europe, yet censorship kept it from British newspapers at home.

Davis complained bitterly to Bracken about what he called loopholes in British censorship, citing one provision which he said allowed Reuters to wireless dispatches unimpeded. Axis propagandists picked them out and bombarded the air ways with their own versions, taking the edge off the propaganda value of the Churchill-Roosevelt-Chiang parley, Davis declared.

Most important, Davis said, "is a flagrant and possibly dangerous breach of the basic rules of security."

Once the cat was out of the bag, OWI said it interceded with the White House in an effort to have the agreed-upon release time moved up. Davis was unsuccessful in this effort, he said, because the decision had been made by "higher authorities."

Reuters itself denied that it jumped the gun on the story, declaring the dispatch was simply journalistic enterprise by its Lisbon bureau. Its New York office said that the story was distributed over American wires at 10:59 a. m. Tuesday, Nov. 30. Washington correspondents were given the official announcement at an 11 a. m. White House conference which broke up between 11:15 and 11:20. Thus Reuters said its dispatch was on its way some 20 minutes before the White House reporters were free to put theirs out as advance material.

The 'Psychiatrist' Idea—

Part of a letter from one Iowan reader... During the past few months on the campus, I've heard rumors to the effect that the administration is considering installing a full time psychiatrist in either student health or the office of student affairs...

First of all, it is almost certain that the administration is not considering such a move... as for the idea itself, I too believe it is a sound (though not a new) one...

Ever since I first came to the campus there have been undercover suggestions from time to time that a full time psychiatrist (or several) be made available to students...

I myself have been in favor of the idea for a good while... I think that such an addition is particularly needed today—nearly every student, under the strain of war, is today facing problems which to him seem tremendous...

I have never known a time when there has been so much mental frustration on the campus as there is now... in pre-war days, the average university student's course was fairly well outlined...

But today the situation is entirely different... there are so many different factors involved, pushing one way and then the other, that many students—especially those about to leave school—are unable in their own minds to answer the perennial question, "What next?"

They need assistance... they need someone, some older person, they can confide their "psychological" troubles to... many of them are so mixed up in their values and attitudes and plans for life that they need to have a long "heart to heart" talk with an expert on such problems—a psychiatrist...

There is no agency on the campus where they now can get this kind of assistance... student health can cure bodily ills, and student affairs and the registrar's office can clarify academic troubles... some instructors are able to give vocational guidance...

But all of these are pitifully inadequate when it comes to solving the deeper, more individual problems concerned with human relationships and values...

Those arguing against the psychiatrist idea have always said, firstly, that students have no real "psychological" problems; secondly, that the SUI psychopathic hospital has ample facilities already, and thirdly, that psychiatrists can, at best, give only superficial "crackpot" advice...

I don't think any of these arguments are justified or sound... first of all, a person 18 or 19 or 20 years old who is away from his family today has just as many real problems to face as do his elders... young women today are worrying about marriage, what to do if "he" doesn't come back, while young men are worrying about a million different things related to the war and the post-war...

They do not like to think about the future and yet are worried about it... both men and women students are psychologically more unstable than their pre-war predecessors...

But those who do feel the need of expert advice are reluctant to call upon psychopathic hospital to get it for an obvious reason... there is a certain stigma attached to any kind of "mental" hospital... students don't want to go there because, to put it bluntly, "People will think I'm crazy"...

Psychiatry has, during the past few years,

News Behind the News

Same Old Argument For Higher Taxes
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON — Treasury Secretary Morgenthau got excited when a house subcommittee gave out the information that the army was turning back $13,000,000,000 to the treasury a few days before he was to appear before the senate finance committee and persist in his demand for a $10,000,000,000 new tax bill.

His experts in the treasury were set to work hurriedly to give revised budget estimates to offset the argument the day before he went on the stand. Also publicity men had large portfolios of mimeographed statements ready to hand out in flowing series to the press in the senate committee room as Mr. Morgenthau and others testified.

Obviously, the treasury already had lost its tax argument. In fact, senate committee members advised Mr. Morgenthau not to appear, saying it was useless.

The case he presented was his same old shop-worn theory with some alterations, running like this:

Taxes are needed for three reasons—war revenue, to stop inflation, and "the sobering effect it would have on the public understanding of the true cost of the war."

The revenue plea has been fairly well destroyed by the fact that nearly half the revised war costs will be raised by taxes, whatever figures you choose.

The notion that you can stop inflation by taxation is a theory of some financial economists, difficult to understand or accept. For one thing, Mr. Morgenthau's $36,000,000,000 figure of the inflationary gap between national income and expenditures has been placed by the house Democratic committee report at only $10,000,000,000 to $25,000,000,000.

The difference between these estimates is represented mainly by the fact that Mr. Morgenthau includes savings, whereas the committee does not consider these inflationary, as they are not being used to bid up prices and create black markets.

Furthermore, the picture of the national economy being bloated with swollen incomes is also theoretical. The house bill would not allow anyone to keep more than $25,000 after taxes in 1944 and 1945.

There is excess money in the hands of war workers, and there is inflation already. But whether it is caused by the excess money is a question. You might just as reasonably conclude the opposite, and say inflation could be cured by letting prices go higher, thus absorbing the excess.

You might more reasonably conclude that the cause of black markets is government regulations and price ceilings which make it profitable for bootlegging of choice foods outside legitimate channels.

From another standpoint, prices already are too high when measured against the income of the white collar worker which has not been increased.

Whichever viewpoint you take leaves Mr. Morgenthau high and dry and practically alone in his proposal to close the gap by taxation.

But his weakest, and perhaps most revealing point, is his last—his idea that taxes should be levied to create a sobering effect on the people. Everyone I know is fairly sober already, both about the war and taxes, in fact, too sober.

In all the history of tax proposals, no one before ever attempted to justify them on the grounds of sobriety. If Mr. Morgenthau wanted to influence the spirits of the people by taxes, he could darn well have urged that they be reduced.

The true situation is that, with swift end of the war in Europe now universally hoped and expected, with expenditures therefore likely to decline sharply next year, not even the $2,000,000,000 house bill is justified by arguments presented.

Your Problem—

A well-founded fear is growing concerning the future of small business. Total war has tended to centralize industry. Somehow the trend must be corrected. But in correcting it, the belief should not be allowed to develop that there is something wrong in size alone. This is a big country. It will always need the productive effort of big industry just as it will need the productive effort of little industry. Moreover the problems of both big and little industry will to a large extent always be inseparable.

If, when this war is over, the field of public ownership is extended to include basic industries employing large numbers of workers—and voters—the way will have been opened for the destruction of representative government. Any government that controls the jobs and resources of a people will not be content to play long the role of servant.

When it comes to questions of property rights and rewards for achievement, all must receive the same treatment. It can be no other way.

been accepted as sound and honorable profession, so there is little justification to the claim that most of its members are crackpots and radicals... many great men in this country visit psychiatrists regularly, and some even attribute their success to the advice gained thereby...

One only has to read a case book of Freud or any other noted member of the profession to discover the need for sound "psychological" guidance...

I think the university would be taking an important and beneficial step ahead if it were to install a psychiatrist in either student health or the office of student affairs... preferably the latter...

It is both silly and unjust to treat students as mere children who have no real and basic problems...

Apparently gearing their diplomacy as always of late to the rise and fall of Hitler's fortunes, the Japanese implied that—as of this day, hour and moment—the basic American position as set forth by Secretary Hull was so wholly unacceptable as to leave no basis for "negotiations henceforth."

This was done conveniently through the news agency Domei, which is authoritative as far as it goes but which need not commit the Japanese government.

Dr. Lee Wallace Dean of St. Louis, the native Iowan who headed the college of medicine during a period which saw it climb to heights among its sister institutions throughout the world, was to be honored for his far reaching contributions to medicine at a testimonial dinner at the Jefferson hotel.

Parts of Berlin again took on the aspect of the medieval ghetto as non-Aryans of the German capital lost more of their already diminished rights.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels on Nov. 15, five days after the current anti-Semitic drive started, had pledged that there would be no ghetto, but "sharpest division."

Drivers licenses and automobiles and motorcycle permits were immediately withdrawn from all German Jews. The official news agency commented that this measure against Jewish arrogance gives an expression of the healthy sense of justice of the German people.

The final cast of more than 100 characters for "The Blue Bird" was announced by Prof. Edward C. Mabie, director.

Tom Phillips of Albia, Lorraine Pressler, A3 of River Mines, Mo., and Edith Leahy, A4 of Post Washington, N. Y., had the leading roles.

Repeal became effective today in 1933. Repeal eye found President Roosevelt ready to affix his signature to a proclamation that was to strike prohibition from the constitution upon ratification the next day by the thirty-sixth state.

Hurried preparations were made for the event after the chief executive's arrival from Georgia to survey the machinery created to regulate the liquor industry until congress had time to enact legislation looking to permanent control.

A dual attack upon administration policies came from high Republican quarters in statements that urged business be given a chance to work out its own problems and that charged that most of the present criticism was originated in Democratic ranks.

Plans for putting a large number of needy State University of Iowa students to work under the civil works administration were well underway today.

Washington in Wartime— War Prisoners May Ease Pulp Crisis

WASHINGTON—When all is said and done, it may be the prisoners of war and particularly the German prisoners of war who will save this country from a more drastic pulpwood shortage. On the surface, that may seem a far-fetched prediction, but the Forest Service is saying here now that if certain prejudices can be broken down (and it appears that they can) the United States can avoid that margin for error which would deprive us of the minimum of newsprint, magazine, pamphlet and writing paper. The background of the story must be told first. On July 1, the War Production Board turned over to the Forest Service $1,000,000 with the directive: "Produce more timber or else." It was decided that this development program should be confined to lumber producing states east of the Great Plains. That includes 11 southern states; the Lake States, including Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri as well as those bordering on the Lakes farther west; and the eastern states, which include Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Within the Forest Service, the program was divided into three parts: logging, milling and labor. In charge of the last was placed a two-fisted, experienced, comparatively young forester, Donald M. Rochester, the Forest Service's chief training officer. Don looks like he might have once played halfback for his native Michigan football team, but making holes in yesterday's Minnesota line would have been child's play to backing the play they called for him this time. The lumber industry has been out of labor for months and still is losing steadily. Surveying the whole field, Rochester could find only two possible sources of new labor—a negligible amount which could be imported from the Caribbean and Mexico and that in the army prison camps. Since the former was almost completely spoken for, Rochester decided to go to work on the prisoners of war. He first discovered that by the terms of the Geneva conference, we cannot use prisoners of war in hazardous industries. Logging, he found, was out completely, since it is listed as the most hazardous industry on the books. He did find, however, that prisoners of war could be employed in the cutting of pulpwood forests and in certain non-hazardous mill jobs. Then he found that the lumber industry, in spite of its manpower shortages, was not inclined to take on prisoner-of-war labor. And although about one-fourth of our 140,000 prisoners of war already in camps in this country are German and Italian farm boys who know how to swing an ax, practically none was experienced in timber cutting or milling. Rochester was finally told by Col. I. B. Summers, of the provost-marshal's general office to use whatever prisoner-of-war labor he could solicit and train. That was enough. As a result, that portion of our pulpwood and non-hazardous mill industry workers who spell the difference between something and nothing probably soon will be heading away at our pulpwood forests and working around some of the 45,000 sawmills that take care of the defined area.

Mary Spaight To Wed Soon

YOU'VE GOT TO BE GOOD...

You'll be up there in good company when you fly with the A.A.F.!

You'll be on the same team with fighters who knocked out the Luftwaffe over Salerno... with bombing crews that blasted Schweinfurt and blew Ploesti off the map... with hunters who tracked a Jap fleet to the Bismarck Sea, and bagged every ship that flew the red-ball flag.

You'll be up there in the "big leagues"... and to make it, you've got to be good... and that puts it up to you!

If you think you've got what it takes to fly... if you're willing to work long hours, on the ground as well as "upstairs"...

Then maybe you, too, can win your wings as Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot...

And fly and fight with the A.A.F.... the greatest team in the world!

MEN OF 17... Go to the nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board; see if you can qualify to join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. If you qualify, you will receive the Enlisted Reserve insignia... but will not be called for training until you are 18 or over.

Begin now to prepare yourself, mentally and physically, to be a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot in the A.A.F. Bone up on math, physics, history, geography... all important subjects for a member of the Air Forces. Above all, study hard... and keep your mind alert. For the A.A.F. wants your training as an Aviation Cadet to be second to none in the world... so that when you win your wings, you'll be the toughest and smartest flyer who ever burned up the sky!

Toughen your body, too. For, as a member of a bomber crew or a fighter pilot, other men will depend on your "staying power," and you will depend on theirs. Meanwhile, see your local Civil Air Patrol officers about taking C.A.P. Cadet training—also see your High School Principal or Adviser about the recommended courses of the Air Service Division of the U. S. Victory Corps. Both afford valuable pre-aviation training.

TO WIN YOUR SILVER WINGS...

You'll start your A.A.F. training in one of America's leading colleges (after a brief conditioning period). Here, in 5 months, you will be given the equivalent of a year of college training. From the College Training Detachment you will go on to 8 months of full flight training.

When you win your wings as a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot, you will get an extra $250 uniform allowance... and your pay will be $246 to $327 a month.

And after the war you will be qualified for leadership in the world's greatest new industry—Aviation!

See your nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board—or the commanding officer of the College Training Detachment nearest you—for complete details.

Big 10 Plans New Program

Karl Leib Pledges His Cooperation For Football Continuance

CHICAGO (AP)—A bulging program of intercollegiate athletics will be presented throughout 1944 in the Western conference, the nation's largest and top-ranking sports group, with particular emphasis on football.

The athletic directors of the conference yesterday unanimously adopted a resolution and a four-point program providing for post-war activities.

In the resolution, the directors pledged to continue a full program of intercollegiate sports.

"The past football season provided convincing evidence that both the participant and spectator support the long standing conviction . . . that competitive sports, properly supervised, are an integral part of the American way of life," the resolution continued.

The four-point program, proposed by Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, director of athletics at the University of Michigan, provides for immediate presentation of a post-war plan to each of the 10 institutions in the conference, by its own director and compilation of statistics indicating the progress of boys in training in competitive athletics.

Because of their belief that competition in football next fall will be fairly even, the directors urged means of increasing the spectator value of the sport. They also decided to hold open meetings for an exchange of ideas.

Representatives of Great Lakes, Notre Dame, Michigan State, Marquette, and Iowa Naval Pre-Flight attended.

Lieut. Comdr. Frank Wickhorst, director of the navy's athletic programs at all pre-flight schools, reported that 2,000 former coaches conducting the navy's aviation training program are convinced that competitive training should be offered to all college students.

Dr. Karl Leib, conference faculty committee member from the University of Iowa, pledging his cooperation for the continuance of football and its expansion.

"This past season taught us a lot of things," he said. "It taught us that 17-year-old boys fresh out of high school could play against stronger and more experienced teams and still have a lot of fun doing it."

"There were fewer injuries this year, even with 17-year-olds playing, than in any year in the history of the Big Ten."

Schweitzer Says . . .

By Ralph A. Schweitzer

Results in The Daily Iowan Sports Poll show a very close race in the most-valuable player contest, while the battle for first-place team seems to show a pretty clear-cut margin for the Irish of Notre Dame.

Only four teams have figured in the best-team ratings, three of them from the Midwest. The vote for the No. 1 team in America is as follows:

In the best player category, 12 players have received votes. All but three are backfield men, the three being White of Notre Dame, Banonis of Iowa Pre-Flight, and Kerastis of Iowa Pre-Flight. Both the Irish and the Seahawks have three representatives. The top ten, with their respective votes, are as follows:

- Bertielli (Notre Dame) 32
- Todd (Seahawks) 31

The contest for the most outstanding player of 1943, and for the Number One team in America for the year will close on Dec. 4. Simply mark your ballot, clip it from any copy of The Daily Iowan, and return it to The Daily Iowan, Sports Department. Final results of the poll will appear next Tuesday.

Navy Cagers Begin Season With Loss Of Star Centers

Faced with starting the season with the loss of the first and second string centers, Lieut. O. M. Nordly, Seahawk basketball coach, held a lengthy scrimmage yesterday in preparation for the game with Iowa State college at Ames tomorrow night.

Al Shirley is still bothered with a pulled leg muscle, while Carl Biedewell whom Coach Nordly had depended on to handle the center court duty, suffered a broken hand in practice earlier this week.

Expecting plenty of competition for his untested five, Coach Nordly is pitting his cagers against an Iowa State team made up of three regulars from last year's varsity squad in addition to several outstanding players who are registered at the school under the V-5 and V-12 naval training programs.

"This will be a tough ballgame," the Seahawk mentor declared.

However, our squad is strengthened somewhat by the addition of Charlie Chesbro and Dick Burk who reported for practice session following the close of the Seahawk football season.

Coach Nordly intimated that he would start Paul Murphy, Dick Lehr or Bob Chapland at forwards, while either Chesbro or Shirley will be at pivot spot if the latter's injured leg will permit him to make an appearance. Filling the guard posts will be Bob Smith, Francis Mangan or Bob Fletcher.

Seahawks Pile Up Impressive Record On 1943 Gridiron

The Seahawks of the Navy Pre-Flight school gained more than 2.25 miles by rushing and passing in meeting 10 opponents on the gridiron during the season just past.

In amassing a total of 3,927 yards, the Seahawks gained more than a mile over opponents. Defensively they allowed a total of 2,041 yards which resulted from 1,254 yards by rushing and 787 yards through the air.

In the aerial game, the pre-flighters gained 685 yards while 3,244 yards were piled up by ground offensive. Seahawk ball-carriers had possession of the ball 481 times during the 10-game season and showed an average gain of 6.5 yards for each time the ball was passed from center while opposition gained an average of three yards on an attempted 378 plays.

In winning nine of 19 games the pre-flight gridgers scored 41 touchdowns and converted 25 times for a total 271 points while the opposition was garnering 15 touchdowns, six conversions and one safety for a total of 98 points.

The most yardage gained in any one game was on a muddy field of 17 for 67 yards and .412; Glasener, 4 of 12 for 46 yards and .333; scoring—Bill Barbour, five points after touchdown and two field goals for 11 points.

Six Named In Leading Iowa Offense

Leaders of the Iowa grid offense in the five conference games included six players, it is shown by the official individual statistics released by the Big Ten service bureau.

No. 1 rusher was Bill Gallagher, fullback, who travelled 147 yards in 40 trials for a 3.6 average per trial. His game average was 29.4 yards.

Roger Stephens was the best passer, completing 8 of 28 for 250 yards and a percentage of .285, and the scoring leadership was split between Stephens and Paul Glasener, each with 12.

Hawkeyes finishing in second and third places were: rushing—Henry Terrell, 89 yards in 29 trials, average of 3.1 per carry and 22.2 yards per game; Paul Glasener, 89 yards in 28, for 2.5 average per trial, or 21.3 per game; passing—Howard Larson, 7 at Marquette when 528 yards were rolled up, while Minnesota yielded the next greatest amount of yardage—a total of 507 yards.

Hawklets Meet West Branch 8:15 Tonight

City high's Little Hawks, after taking a 27-20 shellacking at the hands of Muscatine Tuesday night, will meet the West Branch Bears tonight in the City high gym at 8:15 p. m.

The Hawklets lineup will be the same as that which started Tuesday except for one of the forward posts. Coach Fran Merten will start Wayne Lacinia at one of the forward slots and either Gene Matthes, Curly Brack or Don Lay at the other.

Brack, in the time that he played in the game with Muscatine this week, showed plenty of pep and spirit, while Matthes tied for top scoring honors with "Moose" Mellicker.

Sure starters for City high will be Lacinia, forward, Mellicker, center, Don Trumm and Bob Hein, guards.

In practice since the Muscatine contest, the Hawklets have gone through extensive drills on defense, as well as working on general ball handling and shooting.

Shooting seems to be one of the big factors in the Hawklet game to be improved. In Tuesday's game the Hawklets had plenty of shots at the basket with entirely too many missing their mark.

Winter Baseball Meetings Dissolve Into Much Talk of Possible Player Deals

Trade Winds Blow Around Tribe's Need For Centerfielder

NEW YORK (AP)—High Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, who has never lost a decision yet, put the final crusher on the late-lamented rebellion against his reign over the national pastime yesterday, as the winter meetings went into the stretch with a lot of talk—and little else—about possible player deals.

Except for a few scattered instances, all the trade winds were blowing around the Cleveland Indians and their desperate need for a centerfielder. Manager Lou Boudreau was in a huddle with practically everyone but the cigar-stand attendant in the lobby, dangling Jim Bagby, his supposedly-dissatisfied right-hand elbow, as trading bait.

But even the Indians just about had their best trading tomahawk taken away yesterday when they were informed their top southpaw twirler of last season, Lefty Al Smith, had just been placed in 1-A by his local draft board.

Smith, at his home in Webster Grove, Mo., said he hadn't heard anything from his board as yet.

If Uncle Sam puts the finger on Lefty Al, the Tribe is going to think twice or five times before giving up Bagby.

The ivory market place also heard talk of a couple of other attempted transactions. One of these was a proposal for a straight first-baseman swap of Dick Siebert for Mickey Rocco, which Boudreau and Connie Mack of the Athletics talked about. Another was the Philadelphia Phillies' suggestion that they take "Homesick Huck" Geary off the hands of the Pittsburgh Pirates, providing the Bucs can guarantee them the disappearing shortstop will show up next spring.

This was one plan the Phils had of settling their shortfield headaches. They also needed aspirin for their catching and one outfield slot. So they talked, too, about attempting a deal with the Chicago Cubs, who have three shortstops, five catchers, a brigade of outfielders and are generally better situated with raw material than any other club.

Landis put out the final bit of life in the minor league rebellion simply by throwing out the protest of the six "rebel" minor leagues made to him about what happened to them in the minor league convention Wednesday when their insurrection against the commissioner's control and the reelection of William G. Bramham as president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues was defeated.

The minors wound up their explosive convention by acting on the 16 amendments to their national association agreement, voting increases in player limits and tossing out the attempt of the double-A clubs to increase the value of their own votes over those for leagues of lower classification. This latter action was followed by a report that there was sentiment in some quarters of the three double-A loops—the International and Pacific Coast league and American Association—to "secede" from the National Association, form a new group and ask Commissioner Landis to take direct jurisdiction over them.

Cockroaches, originally confined to the tropics, spread with increase of commerce.

The yellow rail bird, a good swimmer, generally swims only at night.

Why Not GIVE A LAMP For Christmas

We have the rare opportunity at the present time to display and offer for sale the best lamps available anywhere. With our long established buying connections we were able to purchase a supply so that this Christmas you can still give a good metal base lamp conforming to standards for better lighting. It is our good fortune that we are able to show this lamp in our display rooms right now.

HIGHEST PRE-WAR QUALITY. These lamps are of the highest Pre-War quality which for one thing means heavy, sturdy, metal bases. We have a variety of styles finished in bronze or ivory trimmed in gold. An added feature is the practical washable, hand-sewn silk shades. These Christmas lamps are of sturdy construction with A-1 switches; many of which have the three-way speeds.

SPECIAL. A lamp which has always been in great demand is the double-Swing-Arm which you see pictured. These reach out and clearly light your newspaper using any of the three-way speeds. You will also find these in bronze or ivory with gold finishes.

Now you must realize this supply is limited and can't be replaced. They are going fast because people realize their great value. Buy now because next week may be too late.

Pre-Nuptial Parties Honor June Larson, December Bride-Elect

Three pre-nuptial showers were given recently for June Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Larson, 714 Ronalds street, whose marriage to Harold Brender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Brender of Swisher, will take place Dec. 6 in St. Paul's Lutheran chapel.

Wilma Larsen honored her sister at a personal shower recently in the Larsen home. The evening was spent playing buncos. Guests included Patricia Brender of Swisher, Marian Wendt, Margaret Grael, Geneva Kron, Thelma Hogan, Violet Benson, Phyllis Bowman, Marjorie Novy, Bernice Tesar, Doris Coffee and Marguerite Paulsen, all of Iowa City.

White chrysanthemums in a silver bowl, white candles in silver candle holders and silver napkins on a white tablecloth highlighted the decorations at a kitchen shower given for Miss Larson by Mrs. Ed Shupper and Mrs. Robert Burger in the Burger home, 620 Ronalds street. After an evening of buncos, Carol Ann Burger presented the bride-elect with the gifts.

Guests at the courtesies were Mrs. Gus Brender and daughter, Patricia, of Swisher, Mrs. Carl Larson and daughter, Wilma, Mrs. William Zethamel, Esther Larson and Mrs. Roy Gruvett, all of Iowa City.

Tuesday evening Miss Larson was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by her aunts, Mrs. Roy Gruvett and Esther Larson, in the K. of P. hall. Seventy-six guests were present. Buncos was played during the evening.

No More Mileage From New Coupons

The B and C gasoline mileage ration coupons which will be issued after Dec. 1, although good for five gallons each, will not entitle holders to more gasoline, the local ration board announced yesterday.

One book will do the work of two and part of a third. Fewer books will have to be issued and fewer coupons will have to be handled by retailers and suppliers. The new supplemental coupons will bear the designation B-2 and C-2, replacing the B and C coupons which now provide two gallons of gasoline. The regular B coupons are still good and are valid until they are used.

SUI Women Invited to Attend Lecture by Mary Williamson

Senior women graduating in December who have only a vague idea as to the kind of job they want and who have not the slightest information concerning the preferred techniques in obtaining a job should be especially interested in hearing Mary L. Williamson, saleswoman and copywriter discuss "How to Apply for a Job" tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Miss Williamson, who graduated from Grinnell college and later obtained her master's degree at Northwestern university, is ably prepared to enlighten university women on this subject because of her experiences as coordinator and supervisor of distributive education in Sioux City, Richmond, Va., and Corpus Christi, Tex., where her work included job placement, training and follow-up training with adult groups working in stores.

She has also been an instructor of retailing at summer sessions at the University of Denver commerce school in Denver, Col. Miss Williamson's own experience in the field includes sales work and sales training in various department stores.

Interviews Scheduled On Cadet Nursing

Elizabeth Howland, assistant director of the visiting nurse association of Boston, will hold interviews with women interested in the United States cadet nurse corps, this afternoon from 1 o'clock to 4 o'clock in room 1, Old Capitol.

The United States cadet nurse corps is the new government plan which offers a free professional education to qualified students. Recruits in the corps receive free tuition, free maintenance, attractive uniforms and a monthly stipend during their entire period of training. In return, they promise to remain active in essential military or civilian nursing for the duration of the war.

Miss Howland brings the latest information on the cadet nurse corps, since she has just recently conferred with its director, Lucille Petry. Miss Howland is assisting in a nation-wide drive to recruit 65,000 student nurses this year for wartime replacement, caused by acute needs of army, navy and civilian health agencies. As a post-war profession nursing offers opportunities which have been greatly expanded by the war. Nurses will be called upon to take part in post-war reconstruction abroad and at home.

A graduate of Simmons college in Boston, and of the Yale school of nursing, Miss Howland has been a member of the staff of the Boston Visiting Nurse association for the last 10 years. In 1940 she became its assistant director. She is a member of the American Nurses' association, the National Organization of Public Health Nursing, the Massachusetts Organization of Public Health Nursing and the Massachusetts State Nurses' association.

Rabbi Eugene Mannheimer Urges End of Racial Conflicts

"In order to satisfactorily solve the racial and religious problems of the world, as we must do if this war does not serve merely as a prelude to a greater conflict in which the colored majority of the world will completely wipe out the white race, we must first solve these problems at home," according to Rabbi Eugene Mannheimer who appeared as Information First lecturer yesterday afternoon.

Rabbi Mannheimer, rabbi emeritus of the B'nai B'rith congregation of Des Moines, went on to point out that the white race is actually a minority group on the world scene and that the day of the "white man's burden" and his undisputed superiority over all other nations is destined to end in the not too distant future.

Announcing that "one needn't be a prophet to see these things," Rabbi Mannheimer declared that "in the post war world the blistering campaign which is now attempting to depict the Jew as the cause of America's entrance into this war and as a slacker who refuses to take his part in the war effort now that we are actively engaged in the conflict, will be turned to denounce the Jew as responsible for every problem of the post-war generation."

"If being the scapegoat would solve those problems the Jew would be Christian enough to act as scapegoat," he asserted. "However, that would not solve the problem, but would only tend to complicate it."

"Not for the sake of any minority group but rather for the sake of every American, for the sake of what America hopes for, and what America is fighting for, we must all stand united against the possibility of disunity resulting from appeals to religious, racial and national pride and prejudices," he declared.

Rivera Cafe Owner Sued for Damages

A petition naming Edward Oldis, owner and operator of the Rivera tavern and night spot, and asking $2,680 in damages, was filed in the office of the clerk of the district court Thursday afternoon by H. S. Myrant of Iowa City, plaintiff. The Rivera is located one and one-half miles south of the municipal airport on highway 218.

According to the petition, Myrant charges that defendant Oldis sold "mixed drinks with a high percentage of intoxicating liquor" to a person unknown to the plaintiff. Myrant's petition further claims that the unknown person while under the influence of the drinks, assaulted him, knocking out one tooth, loosening three more teeth and beating and bruising him until he was unconscious.

The petition further states that the injuries were sustained by Myrant on or about Sunday, October 31, while he was on or about the premises of the Rivera tavern. In asking the $2,680 in damages, including $180 for medical and dental treatment, the plaintiff holds that Oldis owed the plaintiff a "positive duty" not to expose him to danger while the plaintiff was a guest at the Rivera tavern.

The defendant, Oldis, has been owner and operator of the Rivera tavern for the past several months having purchased the business from Victor Oliva of Iowa City. The plaintiff is a sergeant in the U. S. army.

Meet Iowa City's Ideal Service Parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Maher—and Family

MR. AND MRS. M. E. MAHER are shown accepting the $25 war bond presented them last night at the Englert theater by Mayor Wilber J. Teeters, when he named them the ideal service family parents. The couple, parents of 11 children, have three sons, three sons-in-law, and one daughter in the service. They were chosen by friends and associates of Iowa City as the local couple contributing most toward winning the war. Mr. and Mrs. Maher are eligible for the state competition at Des Moines.

A $25 war bond was presented last night to Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Maher, 221 S. Summit street, chosen by the people of Iowa City as the ideal parents of a service family. The presentation was made at the Englert theater at the premiere showing of McKinley Kantor's "Happy Land."

Mr. and Mrs. Maher are the parents of 11 children, nine of whom are living. Three sons and a daughter are serving in the armed forces.

Maher and his son, Woody, operate a 240-acre farm four miles east of Iowa City. This year they raised 110 acres of corn, 250 hogs and 60 heifers. In addition to their work on the farm, they contributed to the war effort with their savings in war bonds, donations to the Red Cross and the community chest.

Mrs. Maher is a member of the Women's Relief corps, Daughters of Veterans, and Catholic Daughters. She is also a member of Sustaining Wings, an organization in Iowa City for mothers of men in the air corps. She has worked on the blood plasma drive, sewed on an air raid quilt and has helped frequently with Red Cross work.

Lieut. (j.g.) Larry Maher, their eldest son, is stationed at Washington, D. C. He attended Notre Dame and the University of Iowa. His wife, the former Helen Smith, also attended the University of Iowa and is working now in Washington, D. C. as private secretary to an official tax appeals agent.

Second Lieut. Michael Maher, member of the army air corps in England, attended the R. A. F. base school there. He was graduated from St. Ambrose college and was working toward his master's degree when he enlisted three years ago.

Sergt. John E. (Dusty) Maher is in the army and is now on his way overseas. He attended Penn college and has been in the army three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Maher's daughter in service is Lieut. Zeta Scholz, a marine stationed at New River, N. C. She attended Clark college and was graduated from the University of Iowa. Her husband, Atty. Charles Scholz, is a graduate of the university here and is now employed by the L. Johnson company in Baffin Bay, Canada.

Eloise is secretary to a major at Bowie field in Brownwood, Tex., while her husband, John D. Henderson, is working in a defense plant in Los Angeles.

Laverne, who is now residing in Spokane, Wash., is married to Maj. Fred M. Radloff, a doctor in Hawaii.

The youngest daughter of the Maher family is Ann, a sophomore at City high school. Another daughter, Mrs. Floyd Ernst, attended Clark college and was graduated from the University of Iowa.

The couple is now eligible for the state contest which has as its prize, $500 in war bonds or a trip to any part of the United States where one of the children in service is stationed.

Campus Night to Have Special Floor Show

"Turn up shirt collars before washing them . . ."

This fella has the right idea—it's just his technique that's a little sour. Shirt collars will last much longer if they are turned up before being sent to the laundry, for then the crease around the top doesn't get such heavy rubbing and consequently lasts longer before fraying.

Another fine point to remember—when you need new shirts, whether military or civilian, buy Arrow. They live up to their fine reputation for lasting wear and perfect fit. Don't forget the Sanforized label, which guarantees fabric shrinkage less than 1%.
