Professors Describe Iowa Life in 1850's
in Historical Magazine

Homemade Coffins
Sold for $11; Land, $1.25 an Acre

Iowa Life sold for $11 on Monday at the National Institute of Iowa, according to an announcement made by Prof. John M. L. Walter, president of the university. Before the lecture, a review of the history of Iowa was given, with particular emphasis on the early days of the state.

The great force of migration is now in evidence, and the state is rapidly becoming a populous one. The rapid increase of population is due to the fact that the state is well watered and well supplied with good land. The climate is pleasant, and the soil is fertile.

The civil and military history of Iowa is briefly reviewed, with particular emphasis on the role of the state in the Civil War.

The lecture is given by Prof. John M. L. Walter, president of the University of Iowa, and is based on a series of lectures given on the history of Iowa during the last academic year. The lectures are published in a series of articles in the magazine. The articles are written by Prof. Walter, who is a well-known authority on the history of Iowa.

The magazine, published bi-weekly, contains articles on a wide range of topics, including the history of Iowa, the history of the United States, and the history of the world.

Among the articles in the magazine are:

- The history of the United States
- The history of the world
- The history of Iowa

The articles are written by a variety of authors, including Prof. Walter, who is a well-known authority on the history of Iowa.

A limited number of reserved seat tickets will be available for the lecture. Tickets can be purchased at the box office of the University of Iowa, or by calling the box office at 515-294-4141.

Each holder of a ticket will be entitled to a special message of encouragement from the university.

The Hawkeyes are currently ranked fourth in the Big Ten and are expected to continue their strong performance in the league.

National Football League Plans Tie-Up With West Coast Cities

Loydor Favors Move To Coast As Los Angeles, San Francisco Bids

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

The National Football League is in talks with Los Angeles and San Francisco to move the San Francisco 49ers to the West Coast, according to reports.

The move would be a significant one, as the 49ers have been a dominant team in the league and have played in the Bay Area for several years.

If the move is approved, it would be a major change for the league, as it would mean that the West Coast would have a team to compete with the established teams in the East.

The move would also have implications for the rest of the league, as it would affect the scheduling and travel of teams.

The league is expected to make a decision on the move in the coming months.
