Marines Repulse Jap Attack Smash Feeble Counter-Attack Near Pre-War Polish Border; Capture Strongpoint to South

Slay 200 Nips; Army Troops Drive Wedge Into Supply Area

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Wednesday (AP)—United States marines repulsed a sharp enemy counterattack at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, killing at least 200 Japanese and raising to 1,500 dead the price the Nipponese have paid in opposing the leathernecks since the invasion landing there Dec. 26.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said the Japanese attack early Monday morning was made against the marines lines near Silimati point on Borgen bay, east of the cape. It was near this point that the marines made their initial landing in the invasion of this northwestern-most tip of New Britain, and established a strong defense while other marines on the west flank pushed ahead to take the airfield.

Brig. Gen. Clarence Martin's troops of the 32nd army division have driven a wedge approximately three miles wide and three miles deep into the enemy's coastal supply area at Sidor, on the north coast of New Guinea, where the Americans landed Sunday.

Fanning out from the beachhead the Americans took possession of quantities of abandoned Japanese supplies and ammunition, the communique said. So far, the invaders have encountered only light enemy opposition.

Australians pushing northward along the coast of the Huon peninsula, New Guinea, have gained 15 miles in three days and by nightfall Monday had reached a point approximately 80 airline miles southwest of the American position at Sidor.

The Australians have been only lightly opposed of late in this northward movement which is designed to crush the Japanese between the Aussie and American forces.

A headquarters spokesman said there was no change in the situation around Arawe, on the southwest coast of New Britain, where units of the American Sixth army were last reported pushing patrols beyond the perimeter of the area taken following the invasion Dec. 15.

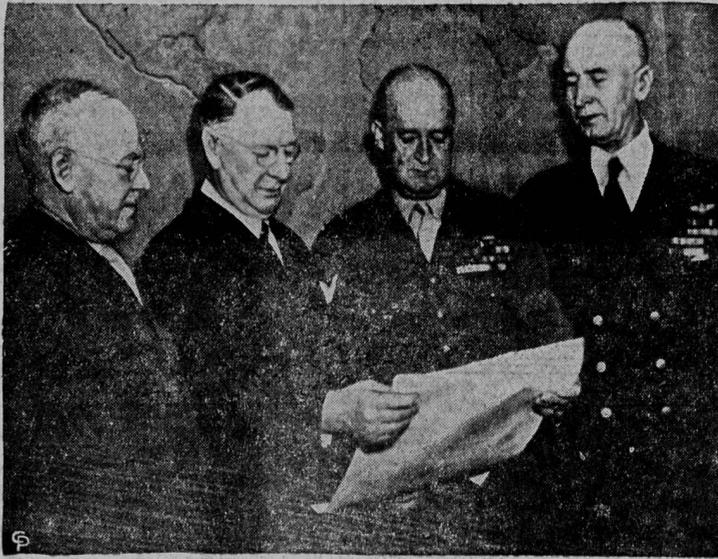

This area roughly follows the base of the Arawe peninsula. Small enemy forces are operating inland north and east of the peninsula, including the old airstrip which never had been developed by the Japanese except as an emergency landing field and had not been used in all for many months.

Rabel, big Japanese air and supply base at the northeastern tip of New Britain, received further attention from American and Australian fliers. Australians flying Beaufort bombers Lakunai airfield there Sunday night, dropping 32 tons of explosives.

Admiral Greenslade Retires Next Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retirement of Vice-Admiral John W. Greenslade as commander of the western sea frontier and command of the 12th naval district, effective Feb. 1, was announced by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox yesterday.

Disrupt German Supply Traffic; Ruin Ball, Roller Bearing Plant

Support Declaration That Labor Strikes Harm United Nations

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers (AP)—German supply traffic through the big railway bottleneck at Turin in northern Italy was disrupted and a ball and roller bearing works at nearby Villar Perosa shattered by a heavy and accurate onslaught of U. S. Flying Fortresses Monday, photographs showed yesterday.

A hundred direct hits were scored in the heart of the Turin yards by the raid, blocking at least temporarily all through lines from France and Milan that converge at Turin to form the principal west coast route down to Genoa and Rome.

Simultaneously, two other waves of Fortresses struck in clear, cold weather at the bearing works at Villar Perosa, nestled in the Chisone river valley 23 miles southwest of Turin, and turned it into a rubble. The huge main building of the plant, which produces eight percent of the Nazis bearings, was blasted by direct hits and near

Congressmen Defend Marshall's Statement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three members of congress last night defended an essentially true statement attributed to Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, that strike threats had given Germany a propaganda weapon with which it may have delayed revolts in Europe.

One also suggested that any union leaders who doubt that labor troubles have had an effect on the war effort should be taken to the battlefronts to hear how the soldiers feel about the subject.

The new outburst of comment about the now-famous New Year's eve statement by an unnamed official kept at a high pitch the tumult that has raged ever since it was made public. The latest comments served in the nature of a reply to AFL President William Green who named Marshall as the source of the statement in a sharply-worded criticism Monday.

Chairman May of the house military committee told reporters yesterday that he didn't know whether Marshall made the statement or not but "regardless of who it was," he agreed that the rail and steel strike threats gave "hope and encouragement to Hitler and his satellite nations."

'Heaviest' Opposition Over Marshall Isles

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—Ten and possibly 17 Japanese fighters were shot down over Wotje and Maloelap atolls Sunday in the heaviest opposition ever encountered by American bombers over the Marshall islands, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced yesterday.

Sixty Japanese fighters rose to meet the Liberators from the U. S. Seventh air force when they attacked airdromes at Wotje and at Taroo on Maloelap. Simultaneously medium army bombers struck at Jaluit, another powerfully fortified atoll in the group.

None of our planes were lost. The Japanese retaliated by sending ten planes over to bomb Apamama Sunday night. They caused only slight damage, killing two men.

At Wotje the bombers shot down eight Zeros for certain and probably five more. Over Taroo airfield, two Zeros were definitely shot down and two more probably. Thirty interceptors were encountered over each field.

(A Tokyo broadcast reported that 14 Liberators raided Taroo Monday—which would be Sunday Honolulu time. It claimed two raiders were shot down while the Japanese "suffered no losses.") The Japanese now have lost 116 planes and probably 50 more in defense of the Marshall islands, since American planes started hammering those coral atolls in mid-November. Only 12 American planes have been lost in that time.

Enemy air opposition was the heaviest, in the new raids, that the Japanese have been able to mount in that area in a single day. In a raid on Maloelap on Dec. 19 the Japanese sent 25 interceptors aloft and the next day 30 Zeros arose to give battle.

Yank Bombers Lash Germany

LONDON (AP)—American heavy bombers in titanic strength lashed northwest Germany yesterday with Kiel as the reported main target, while American and British medium bombers maintained a dawn-to-dusk shuttle service of explosives on the Pas De Calais area and the French invasion coast.

Together with the fighter escorts the two great missions employed probably the greatest number of war planes ever in action in one day—more than 2,750—dropping more than 3,000 tons of bombs on the enemy. A total of 18 bombers and two fighters failed to return. All the bombing was in daylight.

There were about 1,500 planes in the assault on northwest Germany, including Flying Fortresses, Liberators and American and British fighters.

They stretched across more than 100 miles of sky, darkening the heavens, and one flier said their methodical deposits of bombs on the target reminded him of a relay of dump trucks.

WEAPON USED IN SOLON MURDER-SUICIDE

THE 32 CALIBER semi-automatic pistol pictured above was used by Ernest Stahle to shoot and kill his wife, Marie, and himself yesterday afternoon at their tavern, "Marie and Ernie's Place" at Solon. Stahle fired two shots into his wife, two shots into himself and one into the cement floor of their living quarters behind the taproom, where the tragedy occurred. Johnson County Coroner Frank Love stated that Stahle fired a shot at close range into the right leg of Mrs. Stahle and one into her chest, which was fatal. He fired two shots into his own ribs, the fatal one being over the heart.

Solon Tavern-Owner Kills Wife, Self; Motive Unknown

Firing five shots from a .32-caliber semi-automatic pistol, Ernest Stahle, 54, shot and killed his wife, Marie, 46, and himself yesterday afternoon at his tavern, "Marie and Ernie's Place" in Solon. His motive was unknown to police Tuesday.

The shots were heard by Earl Stahle, a neighbor and distant relative of Stahle, who immediately notified the town marshal, Leo F. Kessler, also a relative of Stahle. Kessler and two neighbors, Lloyd Yackish and Jack Rushek, broke the door and found the bodies lying in the large back room of the tavern where the Stahles lived.

Stahle fired at close range into Mrs. Stahle's leg and into her chest. According to Coroner Frank Love, the first shot penetrated her right leg and entered the cement floor half an inch. The chest shot was fatal. Stahle then fired two shots into his chest, one over the heart. A fifth bullet was fired into the floor, ricocheted to the ceiling and back to the floor.

Mrs. Stahle, noble grand of the Solon Rebekah lodge, had returned from lodge meeting at the home of Mrs. Anne Mekota at approximately 3 o'clock, and had gone to the butcher shop and grocery store, arriving home at 3:45 p. m. The shots were heard at 4 o'clock. According to neighbors, Stahle was seen today and seemed "perfectly natural."

Mrs. Anna L. Stahle, a neighbor and cousin of Stahle, stated that his wife was a cheerful woman. She said, "Marie was the sweetest little woman I knew." The Stahles were married in 1916, and owned and operated a tavern outside Solon for more than fifteen years before buying their present establishment five years ago. Mrs. Stahle served as cook, and according to Mrs. Leonard Reyhons, a neighbor, she had reservations for more than forty people for supper next Sunday night. She has cooked for threshers in and around Solon for several years.

Mrs. Sarah Stahle, mother of Stahle, said that he had never mentioned the apparently premeditated killing but that once he said that he wanted to be buried in the Stahle family lot in North Liberty, where his mother resides. The Stahles lived in a large, cement-floored room behind the taproom, with a small bedroom to the side of the combination living room and kitchen. Mrs. Stahle had time only to take off her coat and hat, and place her purchases on the kitchen table, when he apparently came from the bedroom. A loaded rifle was in the corner of the room with an open box of rifle shells close. It was not known if the pistol belonged to Stahle.

Mrs. Stahle is survived by seven brothers and sisters, and Mr. Stahle is survived by his mother, a brother Roy, from Cedar Rapids, and a sister Mrs. Albert Huber of Rock Island. The bodies were taken to the Brosch funeral home in Cedar Rapids.

Soviet Union Chooses New National Anthem

MOSCOW (AP)—The new hymn of the Soviet union has become almost overnight one of the highest priced pieces of music in the world.

The Council of People's commissars have come forward with awards which total approximately $384,000 to those who participated in a competition to get a new song to replace the outmoded "Internationale."

Sergei Mikhalkov and E. L. Registan, who wrote the words, have been given 100,000 rubles each, while the composer of the music, A. V. Alexandrov, received a like amount.

Former Iowan Editor's—

Philosophy on a Flat-Top

Editor's note: The following letter was written by Lieut. (ig) Loren Hickerson, former editor of The Daily Iowan. Lieutenant Hickerson is stationed aboard one of the navy's aircraft carriers, somewhere in the Atlantic. He called his letter an essay on water and added a postscript to the effect that his method simplifies letter-writing. As an example of the clear-cut, terse sort of writing which makes American journalism distinctive—and good—Loren's letter is a stand-out.—S. McK.

December 11, 1943

You can drive a thousand miles. You can fly it. Some could probably even walk it. But you haven't lived until you've sailed it. I'm telling you. You become a great philosopher on the water. You're pretty much alone with God's sun, God's moon and stars, and God's water and wind and rain. In each of these, and all of them together, I've discovered a lot I've never noticed before.

And you even have a different feeling about the people sailing with you, because they feel exactly the same way you do. There's a soul-sameness about them. A ship is a fraternity in a mighty real sense. Here you have all the sympathy in the world, one man for another. (Do you have that back home?) The reason is very simple. The man you relieve from his four-hour watch on the bridge at midnight on a dark, cold night sympathizes keenly with you. He's been up there. Furthermore, he loves you like a brother, because brother, it was you who relieved him! There should be a whole lot more of this sort of thing in the world.

At first, it was hard, exhausting work. There was a lot of mental strain in it, too. Probably more of that than work, really. But old salts that we are after our wealth of experience, we find that most of the strain is gone, and the work seems a great deal lighter because we've developed our routine; and now everybody relieves the watch pretty much on time.

And ten minutes in the ward-room after dinner seems a whole lot longer than it did, because you've learned to appreciate the richness of every minute of it. And you find that you can laugh at the navigator's jokes because they're really funny, and not simply because he's a lieutenant commander and is awarded the laugh by the Naval Regulations. This adds a very great deal to life.

It would doubtless be interesting—but not very important—where I've been and where we're going. But gosh, the things I'm seeing! I wouldn't have missed them, wouldn't trade them, for anything! Our Padre (about whom I've said that God certainly put the ship in awfully good hands) says that if every sailor spent the time he uses for grumbling in looking at the sunsets and the strange birds and exotic flowers they grow around here, he'd not only stop grumbling, but he'd actually experience such personal satisfaction and inner growth that he'd be ten times the sailor he is now. I believe that.

The Padre also says that this ship would be perfect "if she didn't roll so much and if there weren't so damned many airplanes around all the time..."—but this is neither here nor there.

Speaking of rolling, boy, now I know what it is. I have rolled with the best of them. Coming from where we were a few days ago to where we are now, we hit the tail end of quite a vicious little storm. The water didn't look so rough, but we sailed through tremendous ground swells for a day and a half. They do funny things to ships. In a normally heavy sea, you

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

"He gallantly gave his life in the defense of his country," ends his citation for the Silver Star. During fighting on Tulagi, Marine Private George Alfred Johnson, of Coatesville, Pa., with utter disregard for his personal safety, rushed to the mouth of a cave that sheltered Jap snipers and blasted them out with hand grenades until he was killed. He'd want us to buy War Bonds to fulfill that mission!

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—

Movie Actors in the Audience

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—A little wink, as the advisers to the lovelorn might remark, can lead to a pretty lot of familiarity.

That's how it all started, if memory serves. With a little wink. Some forgotten heroine in some forgotten silent movie winked it, over the hero's shoulder, in the fade-out climax. She winked it at the audience, coming right out of the story to take the fans into her confidence.

And from this innocent beginning, the screen's familiarity with the customers out front has grown to its present pretty pass. Your dream girl or boy is just as likely as not to step out of character, in the middle of a scene, and toss a wisecrack at you, or ask your advice about what to do next.

It was funny when one of the Marx brothers did it some time back, asking you how on earth this scene got by the Hays office, but then it was a novelty, and you expected zaniness from the Marxes.

But now it's almost as common as that other innovation, adopted from the horse operas, of casting screen stars as themselves. You always expected Gene Autry to play a cowboy named Gene Autry, and Roy Rogers a cowboy named Roy Rogers. But when Lucille Ball in "Best Foot Forward" plays a Hollywood movie actress named Lucille Ball, somehow it strains (See HOLLYWOOD, page 5)

Washington in Wartime

Bits of News About People In the News

WASHINGTON—Your capital in wartime: Walt Disney in town on a "secret mission." It has to do with the army, but neither Disney nor the war department will say anything about it. When the whole story is written about what part animated cartoons have played in training our armed forces, it'll be one of the best chapters in the Hollywood annals and it may be the beginning of something so all-fired new in education that it will result in revamping the whole system. Pictures have been used in education for years, but not the way Disney has used them. Walt tells me that 80 percent of his "plant" in Hollywood is working full time these days on war work. He has lost more than 170 of his artists to the armed forces, a dozen of them in the WACs and WAVES, because lady animators, once so rare, have become quite commonplace. The library of Congress announces that the world's longest "talking book" for the blind has just been completed. It consists of 119 records. It's a reading by Alexander Scourby, with a foreword by Clifton Fadiman. If Scourby ever gets to town, I want an interview. If ever a man made 119 records before in consecutive sittings, I never heard of it. The book, incidentally, is in the midst of war, is Count Leo Tolstoy's "War and Peace," that Russian epic which became a best-seller as no other classic ever has.

Despite politics, the progress of the war, world-rocking conferences of united nations leaders, and so forth, one of the most frequent topics of discussion in Washington these days is juvenile delinquency. Like the weather, it's one of those things everybody is talking about, but nobody is doing much about. However, there is a group which is planning something, though just what isn't clear at this point. It's Sen. Claude Pepper's (D-Fla.) committee on wartime health and education. The committee got a shock the other day when Katherine Lenroot, head of the children's bureau, appeared to give her testimony on what's happening to the youngsters of our country. Miss Lenroot is ordinarily a mild person and she didn't say much that some juvenile court judges and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover hadn't already said, but she didn't mince words and the committee sat up and took notice. She said very frankly that thousands upon thousands of the nation's children are on the "threshold of jail, and in many cases something worse than jail." She brought out the startling fact that three times as many girls as boys have been caught in the wartime wave of juvenile delinquency and that in most cases, the delinquency takes the form of sexual offenses.

"I'm just on my annual trip to the east; there's nothing particular political about it," said general Aif M. Landon, former Republican presidential nominee and one-time Kansas governor, as he plumped down his bags in the Mayflower hotel. The next day he was a guest of honor at a Capitol luncheon given by Sen. Arthur Capper (R-Kan.) and that night was guest speaker at the 78th Congressional club (freshmen GOPs). The next evening Republican National Chairman Harrison E. Spangler tossed a party for him. Also on the non-political calendar was a dinner by E. F. Colladay, the Republican national committeeman from the voteless District of Columbia. At most of the parties, off the record and on the man who came in second in 1936 blasted away at the proposal that both parties adopt the same foreign policy plank at their 1944 convention, and so far as foreign policy is concerned (and only that far) eliminate politics from the coming campaign. On one occasion, Landon said: "Candidate Roosevelt doesn't stand still long enough to let Republicans know what his foreign policy is."

And Sen. Arthur A. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), chose one of the ex-candidate's dinner parties to announce in an interview that he was calling the Republican Post-war Policy committee together in early spring to draft recommendations for the party's 1944 foreign policy plank and that he hoped to avoid turning "any agreement between the two parties into a specific straitjacket." From here, Landon went on to his closed session with political party leaders in New York. While Aif Landon hasn't been mentioned at all as a possible candidate for the '44 nomination and there shouldn't be read into this column any thought that he might be, he still is an important figure on the political horizon. He represents an uncompromising clique in the party which will have no truck with the New Deal, whether on war, post-war, or domestic policies.

Members of the Netherlands embassy staff will tell you this story to prove that the starving Dutch at home haven't lost their sense of humor under the crush of the Nazi heel. One Dutch housewife, it seems, suggested the following recipe for a "first rate meal": "Take your meat ration card, roll it in your flour coupons and put both inside your fat card. Broil it on your coal card to a gentle brown. Next take your potato card and put it in your butter card, bringing the potatoes to a simmer on your petroleum coupon. Then, take your coffee ersatz card, all milk and sugar coupons, and dip your bread card in it. Then wipe your mouth with your pedigree card, wash your hands with your soap card and dry them on your textile coupon."

Plan Piano, 'Cello Concert For Jan. 12

Philharmonic Soloist, Juilliard Faculty Man Will Present Program

A concert of piano and violin-cello music will be presented by Abram Chasins and Felix Salmond Wednesday, Jan. 12, at 8 p. m. in Iowa Union, the first program of this semester in the university concert series.

Tickets will be available at Iowa Union beginning Monday. University students may obtain tickets by presenting their student identification cards at the ticket desk in Iowa Union, and a limited number of reserved seats will be available to the general public.

Abram Chasins, pianist, composer and musical analyst, and Felix Salmond, cellist, will give a varied program in their joint concert.

Well-known in musical circles, Chasins has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, and the Philadelphia and Boston orchestras. He is the first American composer to have his compositions played by Toscanini.

Salmond, who came to America from England in 1922, has made tours throughout the country and has appeared as soloist with major American orchestras. He has been on the faculty of the Juilliard graduate school in New York since 1924, and head of the cello department of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

Salmond was chosen by Sir Edward Elgar to be soloist at the first performance of the composer's "Cello Concerto" in 1919 and he was first to play Enesco's "Second Sonata" with the composer at the piano. Salmond was chosen again by Enesco for the premier performance of his "Symphonie Concertante" for cello and orchestra, for which Enesco conducted the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Chasins, the better known of the two artists, is outstanding as pianist and composer. He is a member of the Curtis Institute of Music faculty and has been music commentator in radio broadcasts.

WRA Ski Club Will Hold Party

University students interested in skiing this winter may borrow skis from the women's gym. The Ski Club of the Women's Recreation Association is willing to lend a pair to anyone who will clean his own.

Tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock in the gymnasium, the club will hold a party for university students to wax and lacquer the skis.

Supper will be furnished at a small cost.

Concert Scheduled

Evelyn Thomas, G. violinist, and Norma Cross, G. pianist, will present two sonatas for violin and piano at 8 o'clock tonight in studio B of the radio building. This is the third in a series of programs in which the complete cycle of Mozart sonatas is being performed.

CONSUMERS' CORNER

Your holiday cooking is finished for another year and you probably find yourself with more than the usual amount of waste fats in your kitchen. The waste fat is really in demand and these are the reasons:

Seventeen pounds of waste kitchen greases will make more than 1 1/2 pounds of glycerine. This amount of glycerine will provide sufficient power, when used in a propellant gun powder, to fire 85 anti-tank shells at our enemies.

Just over 1 1/2 pounds of glycerine are needed to make four pounds of nitroglycerine, and chemists can salvage this much from 17 pounds of fat, the amount every family in the United States is asked to glean from their roasting pans, broilers and fry pots this year. If we all will cooperate, there's a potential 120 million pounds of nitroglycerine for us—enough to do plenty of damage to Tokyo or Berlin.

10 Pounds of Dynamite

Metals, which are one of our greatest war needs, must be mined and large quantities of dynamite are needed for the blasting. Nearly 10 pounds of dynamite can be made from just 17 pounds of kitchen fats.

Uncle Sam asks us to remember also that glycerine is an important part of many medications used by the medical corps. The importance of glycerine cannot be stressed enough; when a gun is shot or a depth charge dropped at a submarine, glycerine is playing a vital part. It is used in the recoil mechanisms of guns and also in the mechanism that drops the depth charge.

Glycerine is what a ship's compass floats on; what is needed to mine metals and what is used in medications—and it must come from our American kitchens!

SERVING IN THE 'DOUBLE V' PROGRAM

University Hospital Jobs—War Work for Patriotic SUI Women

University women interested in serving as co-aids, volunteer workers at University hospital who take over the less technical nursing duties to relieve a staff depleted by great numbers of women who are now serving with the armed forces, and women wishing to roll bandages under a program established by the Red Cross may register for these activities today and tomorrow.

A chart of the times at which women are still needed to work at the hospital will be at the U. W. A. desk at the foot of the stairs in Old Capitol and any interested student may register from 8 o'clock to 5 o'clock by signing her name to this chart in the space designated for the time at which she wishes to work. She will be contacted by the co-aids committee in the near future and further details of her work will be explained.

Registration for rolling bandages will be much the same. The hours for this work, according to an announcement made by Jean Stamy, A2 of Marion, chairman, are Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, from 7 o'clock to 9:30 in the Red Cross bandage rolling center in City hall, and Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 3 o'clock to 5 in the river room in Iowa Union.

Miss Stamy and Mary Ann Kurtz, A3 of Iowa City, co-aids chairman, report that a great many more girls are needed for both these projects of the "Double V" program.

Approximately 200 university women spend one or two hours each week at the hospital, doing those jobs which require no previous training such as helping to feed patients, going on errands for nurses and patients, making empty beds, arranging flowers, carrying trays, assisting with baths and escorting patients to and from clinics.

As Miss Kurtz pointed out, any number of students could be used at the hospital, thus freeing even more nurses for jobs which demand their skilled attention.

Action Taken In Redskins-Bears Leaders Clash

Layden Fines Pro Owners

Redskins' Marshall, Bears' Brizzolara, Fined $500 Each

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO (AP)—Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National football league yesterday dug into the bank rolls of George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, and Ralph Brizzolara, general manager of the Chicago Bears, to the extent of $1,000.

Layden, in the most drastic disciplinary action since he became commissioner in 1941, fined Marshall and Brizzolara $500 apiece for their altercation before 34,000 fans at the National pro championship play-off game in Wrigley field here Dec. 26.

The incident grew out of Marshall's forcible ejection from the Bears' bench. According to the Bears' version, Marshall, snugly wrapped in a big raccoon coat, was suddenly discovered on the bench in the closing minutes of the first half. Marshall insisted he had come there merely for a friendly half-time intermission parley. But Brizzolara thought otherwise. Jack Goldie, Bear equipment manager, and police, escorted the Redskin owner to a passage beneath the stands.

Told by newsmen of Layden's ruling, Brizzolara termed it "asinine," complained he had not been officially notified of the fine and added "at no time was I nearer than five or six feet of Marshall."

"Some players came to me just before the first half ended," he said, "and told me that Marshall was on our bench and they wouldn't stand for it. I said they didn't have to and immediately told Marshall to move elsewhere. He asserted 'Goldie, of his own volition forcibly tried to eject Marshall.'"

"It's a fine thing," Brizzolara fumed, "when I have to learn of a thing as private as this through the public press."

George Strieler, league public relations director, declared official notice of Layden's action was mailed to Brizzolara and Marshall last Saturday and that Marshall confirmed receipt of the notice yesterday, informing Strieler by telephone he would protest the fine.

The Redskin owner said in Washington that he was not on the Bears' bench but was sitting on the ground 15 yards behind it. Layden termed the action of Marshall and Brizzolara "not reciprocal of the public confidence in the National football league" and asserted they did not "promote the interests of professional football."

Commissioner Layden also set Jan. 12 and 13 as the dates for the league's annual winter meeting to be held at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago. The meeting, originally scheduled for Dec. 20 and 21, usually is called to draft graduating collegians and is usually held at the time of the championship game. A playoff in the eastern division, however, forced a delay in the title contest and also a change in plans for the meeting.

The player draft will not be held at the meeting a week hence, Layden said, but, like last year, will be held later, probably at the annual business meeting in the spring.

Iowa State Drops Compulsory Athletics; Voluntary Setup to Develop 'Combative Spirit'

AMES (AP)—Declaring the military hardening program had served its purpose "and there is not much use keeping it up," Athletic Director George F. Veener of Iowa State college yesterday announced a new voluntary athletic program he said was designed to develop the combative spirit in young men.

Under the new program, effective today, compulsory physical education for all men at the college will be abolished and they will obtain such training through voluntary participation in a program of eight sports, bowling, basketball, boxing, calisthenics, handball, track, volleyball and winter activities.

"I don't feel we will have universal military training after the war," Veener declared, "and I am certain the present hardening program we have in effect will not be continued."

"At the start of the war we had to get men ready in a hurry and as a result we added the hardening program in place of some of the competitive sports because the hardening course builds conditioning faster than the competitive activities."

"Now we have the hardening and there is not much use keeping it up. We must now maintain the physical condition that has been developed through the hardening program and bring out the combative spirit so necessary in battle, and which has been requested by our leaders."

"Our generals and admirals frequently have said 'give us boys who have the fighting spirit in them.' To build that combative spirit you can't beat a good game where you have teammates, loyalty, a goal to fight for and the spirit to win. Such training makes the step into the armed services very easy."

"We are not lightening our physical education program; we are accentuating it and will be able to accomplish our aims of developing combative spirit faster because it is voluntary in its approach. We have found young men will devote five or six hours to physical education in a volun-

Norma Living May Sign Ball Contract

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The All-America Girls' Softball league may yet get to see Richmond's Norma Living in action. It won't be this year, but she says she's interested in signing a contract for next season.

Regarded as possibly Virginia's finest softball player, Miss Living received a telegram from Jimmy Hamilton, the league's scout, but she was in the hospital at the time and was unable to accept his pro offer.

Miss Living is a catcher who has had considerable experience at shortstop and first base. She earned four letters in high school basketball, three in hockey and one in tennis.

Iowa City Quintet Shows Improvement; Stahle High Scorer

By DOROTHY SNOOK

St. Mary's Ramblers defeated St. Matthias of Muscatine for the second time this season last night by a score of 49-22. This gives the Ramblers a total of six wins and three losses for the first half of the season.

The Iowa City five showed a definite improvement in both their offense and defense.

Tom Stahle, the Ramblers' high scoring forward, hit the basket for 6 field goals and 3 free throws for 15 points to give him high scoring honors of the evening. John O'Brien was close behind with 14 points dumping in 6 baskets and 2 charity tosses. Bersch was high for the losers making 6 field goals and 2 free throws for 14 points.

The Ramblers took an early lead with the score at the end of the first quarter reading 12-8. That was as close as the boys from Muscatine could get because from then on the St. Mary's pulled away to keep a safe distance out in front the rest of the game.

The Ramblers, leading 26-14 at the half, played a bang-up defensive game the last half allowing the St. Matthias team to connect for only 3 field goals during the entire second half. During the same period, the home team couldn't stop the Iowa City quintet as they poured in a total of 23 points.

The all-around ball handling of the Ramblers looked much better than it has previously. Using a fast break they consistently broke through the home team's defense to pile up a total of 20 field goals for the evening.

Hawk Regular Team to Open Gopher Game

Coach "Pops" Harrison disclosed today that he would use his regular starting team when the Hawkeyes go up against the Gophers of Minnesota on their court Friday and Saturday night.

The team ran through a rather strenuous workout last night concentrating on offensive plays.

The traveling team had not been picked yet, the coach said, but he indicated that he would have the squad posted well in advance of their Thursday morning trip time.

The probable Iowa starting lineup for Friday night's game will be:

Dick Ives Forward
Dave Danner Forward
Lloyd Herwig Center
Ned Postels Guard
Jack Spencer Guard

Minnesota Opens With Its Last Game Lineup

Dr. Carl Nordly and his Minnesota basketball team will start their quest for Western conference victories Jan. 7-8 when they play host to the University of Iowa in the fieldhouse.

The Gopher cage squad after a preconference season in which a record of four victories and two losses was compiled has been taking advantage of the holiday interim by getting in two practice sessions daily in hope of adding polish to its attack along with conditioning drills to assure top speed performance for the rest of the campaign.

Coach Nordly is content to stick with the lineup that faced Great Lakes in the last game before Christmas recess for the first Iowa encounter. This had Johnson and Lehrman at forwards, Wright at center and Baglien and Geraghty at guards. Geraghty, the Austin freshman, who made his bow in a big time competition against Iowa State and played stellar ball in the Great Lakes game, is improving rapidly with daily practices, and according to the head coach will be an important factor in remaining games.

In order to improve the shooting ability of Duane Baglien the coaches ordered his eyes examined and found that the Fargo boy had slightly defective sight which may have prevented him from counting some of the points he should have in past encounters. Duane now wears glasses on the floor and claims that there is a definite improvement in his sight especially out on the floor.

Golf Takes Sport Spotlight

Last year for the first time golf figured in as one of the highly popular sports of the U. S. army and navy. A National Armed Service Open golf tournament at San Angelo, Tex., sponsored by Goodfellow field put a new major event on the golf calendar.

The first winner of the Armed Service title was Staff Sgt. Jack Isaacs, pro at Langley field (Va.) with a 72-hole score of 282. He won a $500 war bond. Almost every rank and grade in the armed services was represented. Several contestants were flown to the event in training flights.

Demand for golf balls and clubs at army and navy practice ranges has been far greater than the supply which is dependent on the public's contributions, as golf equipment is not among G. I. sports supplies.

Jim Wild, a medical student. Left wing is ably taken care of by Bob Graiziger, captain of last year's puck team.

Dear Joe: I think I can guess where you are now. You're in the Pacific area. Frank Strafaci sent Joe Dey a box of old golf balls used by fellows out there, and you're the only fellow I know who can do that to a golf ball. You always did seem to think that the guy who could slice the biggest divots out of a ball won the game.

Well, I suppose you started the new year with a bang, and the bang ended it for a Jap. I know you never would shoot unless you knew you were going to hit what you aimed at, and I know you're not aiming at tin cans now.

You haven't missed much in the way of sports here lately. They held the Bowl football games last week, and there were two or three surprises. Southern Cal read the script wrong and walloped Washington, and Louisiana State wouldn't believe what happened to it before it really happened and knocked off the Texas Aggies. The Aggies had won during the regular season. Those reverse plays get you dizzy.

The baseball players still are dribbling into the service day after day, and if it keeps up the president had better not show up to throw out the first ball next season or they'll make him pitch the whole game.

Branch Rickey got his name in the papers again by saying pro football was liable to steal a show from baseball if baseball didn't wake up. Of course baseball could snuff out pro football merely by declining to rent out the park but Mr. Rickey says he wouldn't like to take that step. That's real altruistic of him, as when you invite somebody to use your park and he starts to steal your best girl you usually take steps. You know, one, two, three, kick, and if your aim is good that should be enough.

There hasn't been much boxing hereabouts lately. They nearly had a fight the other night, but the navy weighed anchor on Coast Guardsman George Koehan, who was to have met Jake Lamotta, and pulled him out of there.

Well, Joe, there isn't much more news. Gil Dodds got the Sullivan award. The A.A.U. gave him the job of shadowing Gunder Haegg last summer and he did fine at it. Haegg was voted the outstanding performer of the year, so they both came out on top. Me and my shadow, eh Joe?

Let me hear from you soon, will you, Joe? I know it is hard on you to write, but if I know you are getting up at 4 o'clock the morning and getting a quota of Japs before breakfast you never could see any sense sitting in a blind all day. They had the best run of ducks the season they've had in years, and certainly missed you. And the too.

Will write again soon. Your Whitney.

'Paper Doll' Opens Friday Night At Recreation Center

Iowa City youth will be in the height of their glory Friday night when the "Paper Doll," Iowa City's new dry night club, opens in the gymnasium of the recreation center.

Friday's program, which will feature a local orchestra, will start at 7 o'clock and end at 11:30, with junior high school students being admitted until 9:30.

Open hours on Saturdays will be from 8 until 11, and a juke box will furnish the music after the opening night, with the exception of one night a month when an orchestra will be on hand to serenade the dancers.

Refreshments, cokes, milk shakes, sundaes and other soft drinks, will be served from the new dry bar, and ceiling decorations will help to lend an atmosphere of gaiety to the affair.

Any high school student from Iowa City or small towns around may obtain their membership cards at University high, City high or at the recreation center. Membership is free.

Winter Comes To Iowa City With Snow, Sleet

After a weekend of above-30-degree weather, old man winter fairly skidded into Iowa City again last night, via a heavy mist which froze as fast as it fell and then a blanket of coarse snow.

With a forecast of "light drizzle with glaze turning to snow and colder," the city engineer and his crew were on the alert to sand icy streets and hills after a truck was reported to have run off the highway and into a telephone pole in front of 810 E. Burlington street.

Iowa State Guard Plan Chicken Dinner For Regular Meeting

Members of Company C of the Iowa State Guard will have a chicken dinner instead of a regular meeting Thursday night. The 6:30 banquet, in recognition of the second anniversary of the organization of the state guard, will also feature movies of the Alcan highway.

The dinner will be prepared by Company C's mess sergeant and cooks and will be served in the Iowa City armory, 925 S. Dubuque street.

Dick Horrabin of the Horrabin construction company, which had a contract on the Alaska highway, will show the films.

Special guests will include Colonel Coughlin, regimental commander from Council Bluffs, Lieutenant Colonel Falk, executive officer of the first regiment who lives in Davenport, Major Reilly, first battalion commander of Burlington, and company commanders and junior officers from Company A of Burlington, Company B of Davenport, Company D of Fairfield and the headquarters company of Washington.

Interpreting War News

A three-way Soviet squeeze that threatens to entrap vast German forces lends emphasis to Marshal Stalin's declaration "that 1944 will be a year of victory for the united nations."

The iron man of Russia made that statement at Cairo, obviously basing it on the expectation of destroying a substantial portion of the Nazi armies in retreat, and that's just what may be shaping up now in the frozen land of the Dnieper.

Principal attention has been paid to the Russian breakthrough to the Polish border. But, south of that striking development in the upper corner of the Kiev bulge, Russian troops are forging what appears to be a triple entrapment pattern. They are following the oldest military axiom, divide and conquer, in a determined effort to surround or destroy virtually a third of all German forces still in Russia. Success must inevitably shorten the war in Europe.

There have been many indications that with the German lines split in the north, the weight of the Russian attack would turn southward to mop up. That impression was heightened by the capture announcement of the extreme left flank of the Kiev bulge. Its fall represented Nazi flight from their last foothold on the Dnieper river front southeast of Kiev to escape encirclement. It means also gravely increased danger to German forces further south and east in the great bend of the river.

The Russian southward drive from the Kiev bulge to Volodarka or beyond which broke the Nazi hold on Belaya Tserkov seems aimed at primarily rail and road networks. It is already tending to pinch Nazi supply and escape lines serving the depths of the bend and raises the expectation that a matched Russian attack in the south to close the great Dnieper sack on the foe may come at any moment.

The Odessa-Nikolaev-Cherkassk railroad, spanning the base line of the Dnieper bend, is the vital lateral communications for the invaders east of it. It is menaced at both ends. A Russian crossing of the Dnieper at its mouth to take Kherson and push on to the Nikolaev, 40 miles to the north and east on the Bug estuary has been in the making for weeks.

Berlin announced many days ago evacuation of a bridgehead on the lower bank of the Dnieper opposite Kherson. The wide lower reaches of the river were freezing over then, the Nazi announcement said, rendering Kherson vulnerable to attack. Since then the freeze line in southwestern Russia has advanced. Dnieper ice is now or soon will be heavy enough to support the weight of heavy guns and tanks. That is what the Russians have been waiting for apparently, to begin another dangerous entrapment movement.

The fall of Belaya Tserkov marks the beginning of Russian linking the Kiev bulge with

(Continued from page 2) illusion, which is what the movies have for sale. There's been a rash of this let's-be-ourselves business on the screen this past year, due mainly to the cycle of all-star musicals that began with "Star Spangled Rhythm," letting everybody in, in a chummy way, on the alleged off-screen personalities of Paramount's great ones. Bing and Bob, Dottie and Paulette and all the rest were there, playing Bing and Bob and Dottie and Paulette, with only Victor Moore, Eddie Bracken and Betty Hutton playing other people. Bet they felt slighted, having to act. Metro's "Thousands Cheer" teams with experts in illusion, mostly playing themselves at a giant U. S. O. show. This is a logical place, of course, for them to use their own names—and the same is true of "Stage Door Canteen" and the forthcoming "Hollywood Canteen." Warner's "Thank Your Lucky Stars" followed the novel (in the circumstances) procedure of having its celebrities appear doing things they'd never dream of doing in their own pictures (like Bette Davis's jitterbugging) but there the jolt to illusion was even greater. Now Universal has one of the step-right--up--and--call--me--Kid epics on the fire in "Three Cheers for the Boys." Orson Welles, Marlene Dietrich, W. C. Fields, Charles Boyer and a raft of others (but not George Raft) play themselves as U. S. O. tourists. Raft, like Zorina and Grace MacDonald, plays somebody else.

New School Bus Schedule Begins Today

A new school bus schedule, delaying City high school's starting time from 8:40 to 8:50 a. m., will go into effect today with special emphasis placed on a capacity load of not more than 45 or 50. If this load is attained when the bus leaves town it will drive directly to school without further stops.

This trial program will eliminate the hazard presented by crowding the bus with as many as 76 students en route to the school.

Buses of the Iowa City Coach company leaving the downtown area will limit the number of students aboard to 45 on the smaller buses, and 50 on the larger buses.

The ordinary departure time for downtown and arrival at the high school is as follows:

- Leave town
- 7:50 a. m.
- 8:05 a. m.
- 8:05 a. m.
- 8:20 a. m.
- 8:35 a. m.
- Arrive at school
- 7:57 a. m.
- 8:12 a. m.
- 8:12 a. m.
- 8:27 a. m.
- 8:42 a. m.

Students who rely on the last bus to get to school may be unable to get on, according to official indications. Bus drivers will not pick up additional high school students en route after the capacity load is reached.

If a bus leaves the downtown loading area without a capacity load it will stop for additional passengers.

Two members of the Iowa City police force will assist the drivers in limiting the load of students on each bus. Five buses are being used in the program.

Schools will continue to dismiss in the afternoon at 3:40 p. m.

Opinion

On and Off Campus

QUESTION: DO YOU THINK ESQUIRE SHOULD HAVE BEEN BANNED FROM THE MAILES?

Ned Billick, A2 of Iowa City: "No, the magazine as a whole builds up morale. The Varga girl glorifies the American girl."

Edith Helsner, cashier: "No, I don't see anything wrong with it."

Paul B. Prior, A1 of Iowa City: "No, it had no constitutional founding. They had no right to do it."

Dorothy Ebricht, housewife: "Yes, it gives small children wrong ideas."

Dr. W. J. Peterson, history lecturer: "No! There are plenty of magazines on newstands that hit a real 'low' in comparison with 'Esquire.' Furthermore, in a recent poll I discovered that 'Esquire,' 'Fortune,' and the 'New Yorker' were the favorite magazines in our faculty club. Since Iowa has a relatively conservative faculty, I am sure this gives evidence of a well-balanced and judicious attitude toward 'Esquire' by a discriminating cross-section of American citizens."

Ransan L. Smith, A. S. T. P. medical division: "No, it's too darn popular among service men and civilians alike. They're going to have to raise the cost to cover the mailing price."

Mary Kirby, A2 of Sioux Falls, S. D.: "No, it's the funniest thing I ever read. It gives everybody a lift."

J. R. Brunton, salesman: "No, I can't see anything wrong with it that should ban it. I think the magazine's all right. It has good reading matter."

H. C. Thoman, barber: "No, according to the old Police Gazette I don't think they should. We have a lot of fun out of it."
